LEO FRANK'S COOK PUT UNDER ARREST The Atlanta Constitution (1881-2001); Jun 3, 1913; ProQuest Historical Newspapers Atlanta Constitution (1868 -

LEO FRANK'S COOK PUT UNDER ARREST

Reported That She Is Being Held as Witness-Defense of Prisoner in the Tower Outlined.

arrest Was made In the Phagan mystery. Minola Mc-Knight, cook and servant in the Leo Frank household, was sent to police neadquarters by Detectives Starnes Iquarters by De Campbell when she hysterically and streets, sobbing and mounting that "they were going to hang her for something she knew nothing about."

She is being held under a charge of suspicion. Critef Lanford said last

She is being heid under a suspicion. Chief Lanford said last night, however, that she will likely be used as a witness against her suspected employer. She has not been questioned yet by the police or detectives, but will be put through a cross-examination some time soon.

Although officials at headquarters talk regarding the arrest of

Although officials at headquarters will not talk regarding the arrest of the McKnight woman, the general impression prevails that she is being held as a material pression prevails that she is being held as a material witness and that she was taken into custody because of discrepancies rumored to have been found in her statement to Solicitor Dor-

It is reported that she has told a number of conflicting stories, and for this reason the solicitor ordered her confinement until time of trial. The solicitor will have nothing to say on the subject.

the subject.

Leo Frank's Defense,
sources Monday that Frank's defense
It was learned from responsible will be in the production of an allbi, Five witnesses, it is said, are prepared to testify that the suspect was at home by 1:30 o'clock on the day of the tragedy. They are Mrs. Frank, Miss Corinthia Hall, his mother-in-law, Mrs.
Emil Selig, his father-in-law, Emil Selik and the negress who was arrestllg and the the negress who WAS ed Monday.

Testimony before the coroner's inquest indicated strongly that Frank reached his home by 1:20 o'clock, and that he did not leave until 1:50. It was during this time that Conley, the sweeper, accuses him of having written the murder notes found beside Mary Phagan's body. Another contention, it is erported, to be made by the defense is that the murder was committed on the first floor instead of the second, and that Conley is the guilty man.

the second, and guilty man.

Luther Z. Rosser, Frank's counsel, maintains his usual silence. He will give reporters no inkling of his line of defense, but neither denies nor affirms the rumor of an alibi. The defirms the reported, will claim that of defense, but neither denies nor affirms the rumor of an alibi. The defense, it is reported, will claim that Conley, made passionately insane by liquor, was in hiding on the first floor when Mary Phagan entered at noon, and that she was attacked by him as she left Frank in the office and came downstairs on her way to the street.

Many hits of evidence, it is said, will

the street.

Many bits of evidence, it is said, will be produced to corroborate this contention. One of which is the fact, or alleged fact, that the clevator was not run on the tragic day—another, that there were no blood spots in the metal room alleyway in which Conley vows he discovered the body. Also, it will be contended that there were no gunny sacks on the second floor during Saturday with which Conley could have attempted to pack the body as he has lescribed in his confession.

Use Confession Against Him.

Conley's previous confessions will also be used against him. It will be shown

Use Confession of the blood spots with also be used against him. It will be shown now he repeatedly fled, finally to make the startling confession of Thursday hight. Explanation of the blood spots

Continued on Page Eight.

PUT UNDER ARREST Continued From Page One. on the second floor will be made, it is rumored, by testimony showing that frequently employees cut their hands and fingers, allowing the blood to drip to the floor, at the identical spots where the stains were discovered.

Conley remains at police headquarters. He has expressed a strong desire to face Frank with the confession. Chief Beavers Monday afternoon tried to communicate with Attorney flosser with a yiew of getting the counsel's permission to confront his client with the negro and his story Rosser was at the court house at the time and could not be reached.)

The McKnight woman, who is now

LEO FRANK'S COOK

held at headquarters, is reported to have given important information to Sollettor Dorsey Monday morning. She was arrested just as she left the solicitor's oline, where she has been subjected to a cross-examination, Dorsey will not divulge the nature of her testimony, but intimates that it is valuable.

While she was being questioned, the negress fell into hysterics, requiring several minutes to recover composure. She remained in the solicitor's presence for an hour or more, but will be questioned again today, this time by the police authorities and detectives. She is a young woman, apparently 20, and lives on Pulliam street.

uable.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.