Sideboard in Leo Frank's Home Moved, Asserts Husband of Cook

Sideboard in Leo Frank's Home Moved, Asserts Husband of Cook

Albert McKnight, hushand of Minola Meknight, the nesro cook for the fam$11 y$ of Emll sellg. with whom leo Frank and his wifo made thelr home. was introlaced to the stand following 1:. If. Plekett.

Mr. Hooper Hrew from the negro the matesnent that since the day he stood in llo kitchen foor and saw lean Frandis teflectlon in the dining room shichrard glass that the sldeboard had bern moved.

The negro was made to so over n ble print llagram of the sellg homo nus show what he clalmed was tha lexation of tha sidehoard on the day of the murder and at the the he Hnims he saw that Frank ate no dinc nor and remathed only $n$ fow minutes at the dinner table.

Thrre was a bllter wransle over the nepro's statements, the defense clalm. lige that it hal all been gone over when he was first on the stand, and the state contending that the blua prlat had beon Introduced after ho had been on the stand, and that they had a ripht to exmmitie him uson it.

Judre lionil held that the statac might question the witness on the bue print. but that they could not go over his orlginal statements.
"I want to show by this witness that since that day that the sldeboaril In the sells home has been moved." sald Mr. Hooper.

The Meknlsht negro then swore that the sldehoard had been moved, and the state ended lis questions.
"flid you see anybody move lt?" asked Mr. Nosser.
"No, but it nin't now where it was then," replled the nogro.
"Oh, you are just golng by the plat?" math Mr. Hosser.
"I'se golng by where you say it fa," he replied.

The willess whs then excused.

