RICH GEORGIA ENGINEERS GIRL LOST 3 QUARREL; WEEKS KILLED

Lynette Awtry, Acworth Heiress, Strangely Missing, Wires Plea for Help From Utah.

A dramatic story behind the mysterious disappearance of Miss Lynette Awtry, 18-year-old daughter of wealthy Orlando Awtry, one of the leading citizens of Acworth, Ga., and a member of one of Cobb County's most prominent families, who, after a tour of Europe, boarded a train in New York for Atlanta and then vanished as utterly as though she had left the earth, is expected to be bared this week when the girl arrives home from Ogden, Utah, where she has been located.

Miss Awtry has been missing for nearly two weeks. Becoming homesick during her European trip, she returned to New York and wired her father to send her money to come home. Mr. Awtry wired her $20 and the same day received a telegram asking him to meet her in Atlanta. Miss Awtry came on the train on which she was supposed to come, but there was no trace of the girl.

Since then her family has exhausted every means to locate the missing girl. The aid of the William J. Burns Detective Agency was enlisted and the operatives of the famous sleuth scoured the cities of the United States; the aid of police departments all over the country was invoked; but with no result. For all the detectives were able to ascertain to the contrary the girl had disappeared into thin air. After she boarded the train in New York absolutely no trace could be found of her.

Sends Mysterious Telegram. With constant reports of failure being filed by America's most noted sleuths, Mr. Awtry redoubled his efforts to find his missing daughter. Here appeals were made to police departments, private detective agencies were enlisted in the search, and photographs of the young girl were sent out secretly by the Burns men in the hope that someone could be found who had seen her.

Sunday morning Miss Awtry broke her silence of two weeks with a telegram from Ogden that interested the mystery. It contained no explanation of her disappearance. The telegram was a direct appeal for aid--a cry that she was alone and penniless in a strange land.

"Please help me," the telegram said. "I have no money. I am sorry I left home, but can not explain now. I will tell you about it when I get home." The message was signed "Lynette" with no address in Ogden save the Western Union. Mr. Awtry immediately wired his daughter money and a ticket to Acworth by way of the Union Pacific. It is probable that either he or one of the girl's brothers will meet her at Nashville or Chattanooga.

The disappearance of Miss Awtry is almost identical with the case of Dorothy Arnold, the missing New York heiress, who still is being sought by detectives after a disappearance of more than a year, and has stirred and perplexed Cobb County more than any mystery of recent years.

Came From Leading Family. The fact that the girl comes from one of the leading families of North Georgia makes the interest in the mystery all the greater. Her father is president of the Acworth Cotton Mills Manufacturing Company of Acworth, and is interested largely in the commercial life of the town. She is a niece of Mrs. D. P. McClatchy, wife of the reading clerk of the Georgia House of Representatives, and a niece of John Awtry, a prominent attorney of Marietta, and of Bernard Awtry, editor of The Marietta News. She is also related to Mrs. R. M. Moon and a number of other prominent Marietta and Cobb County people.

Miss Awtry is prominent in Acworth and Cobb County people.

FRANK SKETCHED IN COURT

NEGRO WATCHMAN SWEARS FRANK ACTED ODDLY DAY OF CRIME

Here are the important developments in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Jury chosen at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Coleman, girl's mother, takes stand after recess, at 3:15, and tells of Mary leaving for the factory 11:45 a. m. on April 25.

George W. Epps, boy companion of Mary Phagan, repeats his story that he had an engagement to meet her on the afternoon of the fatal day.

New Leo, night watchman at the factory, tells his story of the finding of the body and attendant developments. He says Frank asked queerly the day of the crime, and is cross-examined by Luther Rosser.

Court adjourned at 5:15 after an interesting session.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of murdered Mary Phagan, was the first witness for the prosecution at the trial of Leo Frank Monday afternoon. After answering several questions she broke down completely when the solicitor exhibited the little lavender shirt worn by her daughter when she last saw her alive. She covered her face with a fan and for several minutes could not answer a question.

"The first question asked her was: 'What is your name?' 'Mrs. J. W. Coleman.' 'When did you last see Mary Phagan alive?' 'April 25 at 11:45.' 'What was she going to do when she left home?' 'She was going to the pencil factory to draw her pay.' 'Not yet 14 years old.' 'Q. What did she eat before leaving?' 'A cabbage and bread.' 'Q. What was the age?' 'A. Nearly 14 years.' 'Q. Was she pretty or an ugly girl?' 'She was very pretty.' 'At this point Mrs. Coleman's voice began faltering. 'Q. Did she have dimples in her cheeks?' 'A. Two pretty ones.' 'Q. What did she wear when you saw her the last time?' 'A. Lavender dress trimmed in lace. Shows Victim's Dress.

Here Solicitor Dorsey took a large suitcase from the floor and opened it and laid before the witness the clothes taken from Mary Phagan's body. It was then that Mrs. Coleman broke down and no more questions were asked for several minutes.

Between noon and Mrs. Coleman identified the clothes of Mary Phagan, which were laid at her feet. Deputy Sheriff Dorsey closed his questioning and Mr. Rosser took up the cross-examination.

"Q. What trimming was on Mary's hat?" "A. Pale blue ribbon and some small pink flowers." "Q. How far do you live from the car line?" "A. Two blocks." "Q. Is there a store there?" "A. Yes." "Q. Who kept the store?" "A. Mrs. Smith."

"Q. Do you know that Mary caught a car immediately leaving home at 11:45 o'clock?" "A. Yes, she caught a car in five or seven minutes." "Q. Do you know the boy who was with her?" "A. Yes, Epps." "Solicitor Dorsey objected, desiring to know who the boy was and what about him."

"It is necessary for me to know the relation between little Mary Phagan and this boy," answered Mr. Rosser.

"I don't know what's on his mind," declared Dorsey. "We ought to know if he intended to endeavor to touch this witness."

"We are simply trying to find how Mary Phagan regarded this boy," the cross-examination was resumed.

State Objects Again. "Q. Isn't it true that Mary told you she was detested Epps--that she didn't like him?" "Dorsey objected again and Attorney Rosser withdrew his question."

Didn't you tell L. E. Whitfield that Mary told you she detested Epps?" "Q. How did you see her?" "A. Four times. How long have you known Mary Phagan?" "One year." "Q. When did you see her last?" "A. Saturday morning, April 25." "Q. Where were you?" "A. I was home with her." "Q. Where did you catch her?" "A. At home."

At 1:30 p. m. the jury was called to testify. Following Mrs. Coleman, George Epps was called to the witness stand. Solicitor Dorsey opened the questioning.

"Q. Where do you live?" "A. 311 Park street." "Q. How old are you?" "A. Fourteen." "Q. How long have you known Mary Phagan?" "One year." "Q. When did you see her last?" "A. Saturday morning, April 25." "Q. Where were you?" "A. I was home with her." "Q. Where did you catch her?" "A. At home."

At 1:30 p. m. the jury was called to testify. Following Mrs. Coleman, George Epps was called to the witness stand. Solicitor Dorsey opened the questioning.

PRESIDENT IS SET AGAINST MEDIATION

Carranza, Therefore, Looks Up as the Hope for Peace in Mexico.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVER.
WASHINGTON, July 25.—From information which seems to me in the last degree reliable, I have it that the Administration—White House and President—has today set against intervention in Mexico.

All forms of diplomacy they are willing to apply and exhaust. All efforts of mediation they are willing to try. Perhaps in co-operation with other nations they might be willing to intervene, but as an abstract American proposition, neither the President nor Mr. Bryan will ever consent to intervention by the United States in Mexico unless the compulsion should be so strong that policy and force by evident unavoidable necessity.

So, therefore, Carranza looks up on the Mexican horizon as the man of the future, the next revolutionary dictator or President of the so-called Mexican Republic.

If the present attitude of neutrality regarding the advances of Huerta in Mexico is a mere expedient to Carranza, with Huerta, then the experts of our own arm and sea departments with the opinion of the constitutionalists and revolutionists that while Huerta will be the dictator, Carranza will be the man of the future.

There speaks for Carranza in Washington Escudero, his Minister of Finance, his expert in political economy, soldier, economist, statesman and diplomat—a career as romantic and a temper as dashy as that of Madero whom he loved and served. He was Madero's bosom friend and followed the monarchist fortunes of the late President with courage and devotion. He was a member of the Mexican Congress when Huerta fell. He was Mexico's spokesman and leader upon the floor of the House of Representatives at the vital hour of Mexico that midnight when Huerta lavished all his blandishments and promises upon Escudero to ally himself to himself. He offered office and power. Escudero refused. Huerta threatened, but still Escudero refused. Huerta set a limit on Escudero's acceptance of his blandishments.

Finally one day the Mexican Congress with Huerta's soldiers clanking in the galleries and Huerta's soldiers full armed in the basement of the Capitol, Escudero mounted the rostrum and in a speech ringing with fire of old Spain and the fervor of the Aztec denounced the usurpation of Huerta, his tyranny and his part in Madero's death. In the storm that followed he vaulted through a window of the Congressional chamber, clung to a dispute and escaped by a walking trail to Vera Cruz.

His escape. Huerta's officers were on the trail. But two loyal students plotted Escudero to a shack in the harbor, where he met and for Quintana Roo and joined himself to Carranza, whom he now holds as fervently as he did Madero as the leader of the constitutionalists and the hope of the Mexican people.

This is the soldier-statesman who will full authority speaks for Carranza here in the capital at Washington.

Escudero holds that the Mexican struggle must last forever, or until the people are redeemed from the bondage of the army, the church and the army. The enormous sums piled up during the diplomatic phase of the Huerta-Tias has been used for the purchase of money power in Mexico far beyond the conditions

"This Muhlhall" inquired Underwood, pointing his finger at the lobbyist, "who was sitting in the witness chair in an apparently disinterested attitude?"

"He was sitting in the witness chair in an apparently disinterested attitude," Underwood said, "but I think you will find that he was sitting in the witness chair with the same disinterested attitude as he showed in the lobby door with friends."

"I regard this man as a blackmailer. He has even threatened the man who employed him."

NEGRO WATCHMAN IS GRILLED ABOUT NOTES FOUND BESIDE BODY

A startling turn to the trial of Leo M. Frank was given today by the determined efforts of Frank's attorney to show that Lee, negro watchman at the National Penitentiary, with the murder of little Mary Phagan.

Luther Z. Heiser, chief of counsel for Frank, revealed the hand of the defense for the first time when he began a marvellous examination of the negro which was intended utterly to discredit Lee's testimony and show that he knew much more about the crime than his eyes could hold in his long appearance before the coroner's jury and in his testimony at the police station.

Robert's inquisitorial tactics brought remonstrance after remonstrance from Solicitor Doysey, but was allowed to continue on a ruling from Judge Bean.

Roemer read extracts from Lee's testimony at the coroner's inquest and pointed out discrepancies and contradictions. "You had these notes," he said, "in the negro's possession, and he had them in his pocket at the time of the murder."

FRANK LAWYERS FAIL TO DRAW CRIMINATING REPLIES FROM NEGRO

Here is Tuesday's important development in the trial of Leo M. Frank on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan in the National Pencil Factory, Saturday, April 24.

News Lee, negro night watchman at the pencil factory, leaves the stand after four hours and forty minutes of examination and cross-examination with the essential points of the story unbroken.

Efforts to discredit the negro's story result only in showing several discrepancies in the story he told before the grand jury and his testimony on the stand at the trial.

All attempts to confute Lee by telling him that the photographer's report of the inquest has him making highly different statements that invariably with his declaration that "they didn't get it right down there."

New Lee, night watchman at the National Pencil Factory was harassed and assailed by counsel for Leo M. Frank in a vain effort to win from him admissions, claiming that he was otherwise involved in the crime than at the time he was on the body. Lee was on the stand from 8 o'clock to 12 o'clock.

However, through Lee and S. W. Dobb, Leo's attorney, the attorneys for Frank told the grand jury that the murder of Mary Phagan was the work of Jim Conley, who the night watchman at that time assisted in writing the notes that were found by the body.

From Sergeant Dobb, Luther C. Rowen, chief of counsel for Frank, obtained these admissions:

DEFENSE FAILS TO OBTAIN CRIMINATIONS FROM LEE

Arnold outlined the purpose of the defense.

"We expect to show that two notes were found by the body of Mary Phagan," said Arnold. "Solicitor Dorsey had just given Mr. Arnold the two notes found in the basement and Judge Hoan ordered the jury to retire. Mr. Arnold said: 'The defense expects to show that the two notes found in the basement of the National Pencil Factory were very obscure notes and the police were trying to read them in the presence of Lee.'"

"They read this one: 'He said he would love me, laid down, played like the night-witch did it, but that long black negro did it by hisself.'"

Chief Lee's explanation. "That night which means me," said Arnold. "I should be familiarly with the notes. This negro who is so dull that he has to repeat his questions and hasn't interpreted the mysterious note in a second and a half."

State Attorney Arnold has the right to ask for a continuance.

"There is no reason to ask that's me, boss. That means night watchman."

"That's strange that a negro so ignorant and dull that Mr. Rosser had to ask him a question ten times over could be a watch interpreter this intelligible scrawl!"

Rosser supplemented Arnold's argument by remarking that he regarded Lee's alleged remarks as highly suspicious, and that he considered he had the right to question a witness with a view of showing that a person or persons other than the defendant had a part in the crime.

Judge Hoan ruled with the defense and the jury was returned. The judge declared: "The attorneys for Frank are privileged to bring out evidence showing anxiety or fear on the part of the negro."

Lee Makes Denial.

Lee denied when questioned that he had said: "That's me, boss, that means night watchman." He testified that he told the officers that someone was trying to put the crime on him.

Reference to the notes. "I have not seen the notes," said Lee. "I have only seen the notes of the officers who visited the factory after Lee called the police station, testified before the coroner's jury in regard to Lee's ready explanation of the notes."

Rosser ended his cross-examination of Lee at 11:40 a. m. Tuesday afternoon when he had been on the grill two hours Monday afternoon and nearly six long Tuesday.

The efforts to discredit Lee's story began the moment Rosser got him on the stand. He sought first to show that it was a very peculiar circumstance that Lee went down to the rear of the factory basement, where he found the girl's body, when all through the earlier part of the night he had gone only a short distance from the foot of the ladder in the front of the basement.

Called Lee's Excuse Flimsy.

"Every time you went down into the basement you went only about 25 feet from the ladder to see if there was fire in the dust pan," said Rosser, repeating Lee's testimony, "and yet at this time, when you say you found the girl's body, you assert that it was necessary to go clear to the rear to ascertain the same fact?"

Lee replied that he had gone to the rear of the basement for another purpose and Rosser attempted to show that this was only a flimsy excuse.

By his line of questioning Rosser endeavored to ridicule the idea that Lee could have identified Mary Phagan as a white girl by the dim light of his dirty lantern when, as he testified, he got no nearer than five or six feet to the body, and when the officers with electric searchlights were not able to determine whether the girl was white or a negro because of the grime and clatters on her body, until they had pulled down her stockings.

Session Full of Clashes.

The session was full of spirited clashes between Rosser and Dorsey. It was a favorable forenoon for the defense. Rosser's attempt to discredit Lee's testimony, which he was pursuing with vigor, was interrupted by Rosser, while he succeeded in showing up discrepancies in Lee's story, Lee's own story, before the jury. Lee testified that he went to the rear of the basement to see if there was fire in the dust pan. He said he went to the rear of the basement to see if there was fire in the dust pan. He said he went to the rear of the basement to see if there was fire in the dust pan.

"This testimony was to the effect that Frank looked as though he was frightened," said Lee, "but I don't know whether that, Frank jumped back when he met Gant." Q. Now, I ask you if you didn't see right out of there and you, and call the police when you saw that boy? A. Just as soon as I saw what it was. Q. Didn't you say this before the coroner's jury? I thought some day these boys had put something there to fool me. I got close enough to see it was a body and I heard right away. A. No, sir; I'll tell you what I said. Mr. Rosser interrupted Lee. Q. "No, I didn't say we were not going to present the contents of the notes. I am going to introduce what I please," answered Rosser. Judge Roan again sustained the defense and ordered the jury brought back. Attorney Rosser then resumed his cross-examination. Q. When you were in the basement, did one of the policemen read a note which said something about a long tall, black negro? A. Yes, sir. Q. Did you know Jim Conley? A. I never saw him until that time last week. Q. Have you talked to anybody about this? A. Yes. Q. Did you ever talk to the man (indicating Arnold)? A. Yes, he was over to the jail after you were. FRANK LISTENS INTENTLY TO GRILLING OF LEE

Frank and Lee and no one had referred to it since.

"We want to know if repetition is going to be allowed," Roeser asked Judge Robb. "It is already to repeat. If we start a repeating contest we will have to have a referee."

Judge Robb overruled the objection. Lee replied: "Directly in front of me."

"Who talked to you longer?" the detectives or Mr. Arnold, when he came to see you the other day?" Mr. Arnold.

"Neither was there called off the chain, after having been questioned for an hour and a half," Roeser asked. "Do you mean yourself?" answered Mr. Roeser.

"Was the toilet west or east from the boiler in the basement?" What was the body west of east?—A. The body was under the stairs.

Q. Could you see Frank from that point of view?—A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Roeser asked you how far it was from the stairs leading up to the second floor to Mr. Frank's office? How far was it?—A. About as far as from here to that wall across the room.

Called Only Police.

Q. Did you call anybody on the phone that night but the police?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you call Mr. Haran?—A. No, sir.

Q. Were the shutters on the north side of the second floor closed when you closed on Saturday, April 26?

Q. Yes, sir; they were closed.

Q. Were these apartments back of the third floor?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were they for?—A. Mr. Frank took me down there and told me to use it.

Q. What did he call it?—A. He called it a toilet.

Q. At night it is darker in the rear of the basement than it is outside?—A. You can see inside there at all back where the body was found.

Yes to Discount Diagram.

This being the indirect examination, Mr. Roeser began the re-examination. He took up the question in an effort to prove that Lee did not understand the diagram of the penitentiary.

"What is that?" he asked, pointing to some blue coloring representing the blank wall.

"I don't know, sir," the negro replied. "It looks like a mill pond, doesn't it?"

"I don't know just what it is," answered Lee.

The policemen and detectives listened to all the time, didn't they? They fired a pistol beside you, didn't they?—A. No, sir; they didn't fire a pistol.

My friend, John Black, and those fellows talked to you day and night, didn't they?—A. Well, just like I tell you, I could sleep even for two nights after I was put in jail.

They just questioned me all the time, policeman and everybody.

Q. Is there any other way to get out of the basement except by the ladder?—A. Only the back door.

Q. The back door was open again between the boiler and the back area up to the first floor?—A. If there are any other I don't know it.

Black Told to Him More.

Solicitor Dorsey at this point took up the examination.

Q. Did Frank talk to you in jail?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You talked longer to you, Frank or John Black, the detective?—A. Frank objected, saying the solicitor had asked over the interview between until the witness said he is a fair representation of the object. Judge Robb—"I sustain the objection."

Dorsey—"It is a fair representation of the object."

H. H. "That's All."

Roeser After Details.

Roeser took up the cross-examination.

Q. The negro told you she was a white woman?—A. Yes.

Q. You told me to look very closely at her?—A. Yes.

Q. You might do it again?—A. Yes.

Q. We'll come back to it and have her say it.

Q. You found the note under the stairs?—A. Yes.

Q. You were not able to see them?—A. Yes.

Q. You talked in the southeast?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was the note attached to the wall?—A. No, sir.

Q. How far from the chair's head was the first note?—A. Not over eight or ten inches.

Q. What note did you find first?—A. The white one.

Q. Did you find which trash in the building?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you find other notes?—A. No.

Q. Did you search?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you looking for the shoe you know?—A. Yes.

Q. Where was the shoe found?—A. Some place in the room.

Q. What was the condition of the shoe?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. No; was there any indication that she was dragged?—A. I thought there was.

Q. Lee did become excited because he left the factory?—A. Yes.

Lee Could Have Been Boy.

Q. From the place where Lee stood could he have seen the body?—A. Yes, part of it.

Q. Did you make any experiment in the day time to see whether Lee could see the body?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you see it, sir?—A. Yes, sir; the feet.

Q. Did you say you made any experiment in the day time to see whether Lee could see the body?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the hat trimmer?—A. I was going to see the hat trimmer.

Q. Did you make any experiments at night in the factory in an effort to ascertain just how and who committed the crime?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you become convinced that from where he said he was standing he could see the body?—A. Yes.

Q. Would it have been possible for the hat trimmer to see the body?—A. Yes.

Q. Would it have been possible for the hat trimmer to see the body?—A. Yes.

House Leader Calls Lobbyist Blackmailer to His Face Before Inquiry Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 28--Representative Underwood, Democratic leader of the House, appeared before the House Lobby Investigation Committee to-day and charged that Colonel M. M. Mulhall, the lobbyist, was a blackmailer.

The appearance of Underwood was an event not on the program. He came unexpectedly, and his usual bland smile was not on his face. He stated his eyes flashed fire and he was clearly angry through and through.

Underwood was not sworn, having become involved in an argument with Speaker Reed before Chairman Underwood of the committee had opportunity to place the House leader under oath.

"This Mulhall," inquired Underwood, pointing his finger at the lobbyist who was sitting in the witness chair, "is an apparently distinguished attorney."

"He is the public enemy," declared Underwood. "I think men who take bribes to legislate are the public enemy. I think men who take bribes to legislate are the public enemy. I think men who take bribes to legislate are the public enemy."

Underwood was angered because Mulhall had written in his latest report to his employer, Underwood, and obtained information from him about the make-up of the committee yesterday.

Underwood declared that Mulhall was giving false information to the committee. "This testimony that Underwood objected to was developed at the session of the committee yesterday."

Established that it was the intention to prove that Newt Lee was concerned in the writing of the two mysterious notes found in the mutilated body of Mary Phagan.

Judge Ross From Room.

The solicitor objected strongly to signing before the jury the admissibility of the testimony of Lee. And the jurors were excused while Arnold outlined the purpose of the evidence.

"We expect to show that two notes were found by the body of Mary Phagan," said Arnold.

Solicitor Dorsey had just asked Mr. Arnold the two notes found in the basement and Judge Ross ordered the jury to retire. Mr. Arnold said:

"The defense expects to show that the two notes found in the basement of the National Pencil Factory were very obscure notes and the police were unable to read them in the presence of Lee.

"They read this one: 'The said he would have me laid down, played like the night-witch did it, but that long, tall, black negro did it by himself.'"

"The other note was: 'The said he would have me laid down, played like the night-witch did it, but that long, tall, black negro did it by himself.'"

"The defense expects to show that the two notes were written by Lee."

meaning. In one of them we will show that the wording was something like this, so far as I can decipher it: 'He said he would love me, laid down, played like the night-witch did it but that long, tall, black negro did it by himself.'"

"We want to show," continued Arnold, "that Lee spoke up and said, 'That's me, boss. That means night watchman.'"

"Isn't it strange that a negro so ignorant and dull that Mr. Ross had to ask him a question ten times over could in a flash interpret this illegible scrawl?"

Rosser supplemented Arnold's argument by remarking that he regarded Lee's alleged remarks as highly suspicious, and that he considered he had the right to question a witness with a view of showing that a person was nervous, elated, than the defendant and a part in the crime.

Judge Ross ruled with the defense, and the jury was returned. The judge declared:

"The attorneys for Frank are privileged to bring out evidence showing anxiety on the part of the negro."

Lee Malice Denied.

Lee denied when questioned that he had said, "That's me, boss. That means night watchman." He testified that he told the officers that someone was trying to put the crime on him.

Sergeant I. S. Dobbs, one of the officers who visited the factory after Lee called the police station, testified before the coroner's jury in regard to Lee's nearly explanation of the notes. Rosser asked his cross-examination of Lee at 10:10 a. m. Tuesday, after it was a favorable forenoon for the defense. Rosser almost invariably being permitted to continue the line of questioning which he was pursuing.

Rosser, while he succeeded in showing up discrepancies in Lee's present story with that before the coroner's jury, was unable to force the negro to any admissions implicating in the murder.

Dorsey questioned Lee in redress examination and Rosser in recross examination. Lee left the stand at 11:40 o'clock after a total of four hours and forty minutes' grilling.

Sergeant I. S. Dobbs followed Lee on the stand. He told the story of finding the body and identified the Phagan girl's clothes and the cord that was used to strangle her.

Frank's face a mask, was brought into the courtroom just before the court was called to order by Deputy Sheriff Pierre Miller.

After taking a cool survey of the courtroom, the factory superintendent covered a moment with his cap and then centered his attention on the night watchman. Frank took no notes of the negro's testimony, but he evidently was making a mental record of every word of it.

"What is that part of the negro's statements could not be guessed from his features. Whether the negro was giving testimony which might be considered as favorable or as most damaging, there was not the shade of a change in the expression of the young factory superintendent.

"He only took his eyes from the witness to speak a word to his wife or to answer an occasional question whispered to him by one of his coun-

LEE'S QUANT ANSWERS
ROB LEE FRANK'S TRIAL OF ALL SIGNS OF DAMOR

By L. F. WOODRUFF.

A page was ripped from a story of Harry Dickson. "Old Reliable" was handed in the life as a comber at setting as was ever conceived, and the temper of the audience that is following the fortunes of Lee Frank through his struggle for life and liberty was soval.

Some splinter there have been made of the spirit of Atlanta in reference to the trial of the pencil factory apprentice as the ally of Mary Phagan. It was whispered once that the law would not be allowed to take its course, but that those who believe Frank guilty would take vengeance as their own.

And, on the other hand, it has been said in some voices that the jury would be factional feeling by Mrs. Case was crushed.

The first important witness looked and spoke like "Old Reliable." And his brethren laughed.

People laughed Mr. a husband as readily that they were willing to die the law to obtain their vengeance do not laugh when Mrs. Case is being fought.

People who say a willing to spend their last dollar to see a man freed do not start when a witness relates circumstances which the opposition maintain as a strand to the coil of a trap which it is striving to weave about his neck.

W. A. Mincey, the school teacher, who says that Jim Conley, the negro sweeper at the National Pencil Company confessed to him that he had killed the girl, declared Tuesday that he had conferred with attorneys for Leo Frank, and that he was ready to make his statement from the witness stand.

Mincey said his statement would be identical with the one recently published in The Georgian. He claims to have met Conley on the Saturday afternoon on which Mary Phagan was killed. He said that Conley was drunk and that Conley threatened to kill him, saying that he had already killed the girl that afternoon.

Mincey came to Atlanta from Ringgold Monday afternoon. He is accompanied by E. N. Neal, an attorney of Ringgold.

Tragedy, Ages Old, Lurks in
Commonplace Court Setting

Outwardly Quiet and Singularly Lacking in Excitement, Frank Trial Is Enactment of Grim Drama.

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

One of the most commonplace things in the world—crime—is riveting the attention of Atlanta and Georgia today.

Crime is almost as commonplace as death—and yet, in a thousand ways, never is commonplace at all.

If you were a stranger in Atlanta and should walk into the courtroom where Leo Frank is being tried for the murder of Mary Phagan, you would be utterly astonished to discover what is taking place.

This pale-faced, slight, boyish-looking party over there in the seat beside the massive frame of Luther E. Rosser and the well-groomed partner of Reuben Arnold—J should be shocked.

It is much the same way with crime. It is almost as commonplace as death—and yet, in a thousand ways, never is commonplace at all.

Gradually I realize a tenderness in the atmosphere, perhaps—and there are great eyes on me as I grow restless for something to happen upon a feeling that, after all, tragedy is in the air; and that its sinister shadow has fallen athwart this courtroom.

I still recall that outside the courtroom is very bright, and is beaming upon the just and the unjust, impartially and alike.

One of the world's truly great physicians says "death is never uninteresting; and that he really enjoys practicing his profession." I am sure, to have that stands charged with one of the blackest, most inhuman and most unpardonable crimes in all God's creation.

It is much the same way with crime. It is almost as commonplace as death—and yet, in a thousand ways, never is commonplace at all.

It is almost as commonplace as death—and yet, in a thousand ways, never is commonplace at all.

WATCHMAN STICKS TO HIS TALE OF FINDING OF BODY

Continued From Page Three. He asked: "A section of the Code says that you can't question a man like that unless you first present some certain evidence of the statement having been made or written." At this, Attorney Rosser sat down and Dorsey began questioning Lee on the redraft examination. Q. You said something about somebody trying to put it off on you?—A. Yes, sir. Q. Did you know Jim Conley?—A. I never saw him until that time last week. Q. Have you talked to anybody about this?—A. Yes. Q. Did you ever talk to this man (indicating Arnold)?—A. Yes, he was over to the jail after you were. Lee Quizzed on Diagram. Q. The first time Frank put that tape on the clock, did he say anything?—A. No. Q. Did he say anything the second time?—A. He made a remark about it being longer. Q. What was the reason he changed the tape?—A. It had been used. Q. Was it as dark in the basement at night as it was in the daytime?—A. Mostly near. Solicitor Dorsey started over the diagram drawn by Bert Green, chief staff artist of the National Pencil Factory, and proceeded to ask Lee a question and pointed at the diagram. Called Only Police. Q. Object to that picture," said Attorney Arnold. "It is nothing but the theory of the case. Here's not all kinds of marks here."

Q. Were the shutters on the north side of the second floor of that building closed on Saturday, April 18?—A. Yes, sir; they were closed. Q. Were there apartments back there on the third floor?—A. Yes, sir. Q. Who were they for?—A. White people. Q. Did white people use the closet in the basement?—A. No, sir. Q. Who told you to use it?—A. Mr. Frank took me down there and told me to use it. Q. What did he call it?—A. He called it a toilet. Q. At night it is darker in the rear of that basement than it is outside?—A. You can't see inside there at all back where the body was found. Tried to Discredit Diagram. Q. This ended the redraft examination, and Mr. Rosser began the recross-examination. He took up the questioning in an effort to prove that Lee did not understand the diagram of the pencil factory. Q. What is this? he asked, pointing to some blue coloring representing the black wall?—A. I don't know, sir. Q. It looks like a mill pond, doesn't it?—A. I don't know just what it is meant for. Q. Only the back door?—A. Only the back door. Q. Are there not some steps between the boiler and the back door to the first floor?—A. About as far as there I don't know. Black Talked to Him More. Q. Did you call anybody on the phone that night but the police?—A. No, sir. Q. Did you call Mr. Haney?—A. No, sir.

Q. And this part?—A. Yes. Q. How were they found?—A. Near the head. Q. Were they close together?—A. Yes. Q. What did you do with Lee?—A. Took him to the station. Q. What was his bearing?—A. Cool. Q. Mr. Dobbs, look at this (pointing to diagram of factory); point where the body was found?—A. Right here. (Indicating spot.) Q. Who talked to you longer, the detectives or Mr. Arnold, when he came to see you the other day?—A. Mr. Arnold. Q. Now, Lee was then called off the stand after having been questioned for an hour and 15 minutes. Q. Where were you at about 3 o'clock April 17?—A. At the station house. Q. Did anything unusual happen?—A. At about 11:25 a call came to go to the pencil factory. When we got there the door was locked. Later a negro came and let us in. He said there was a woman murdered in the basement. The negro led the way for her face down. We couldn't tell whether she was white or black except that her hair was light. Q. Did you see her?—A. Yes. Q. What kind of light did you have?—A. We lit some gas jets and set lanterns. Q. You found the notes under the body?—A. Yes. Q. You were not able to see them until you raised in the sawdust?—A. No, sir. Q. How far from the child's head was the first note?—A. Not over eight or ten inches. Q. What note did you find first?—A. The white one. Q. Did you find much trash in the building?—A. Yes. Q. What was the shoe found?—A. Some one else found them. Q. What was the condition of the child's face?—A. You mean about that she was dragged?—A. I thought there was. Q. Lee did become excited because he left the factory?—A. Yes. Q. From the place where Lee stood could he have seen the body?—A. Yes.

scared up?—A. Yes. Q. Can't you see you are mistaken about the wound being on the right side of the head, aren't you?—A. I would be positive. It was near the rear of the head. Q. Was the blood wet or dry?—A. Dry. Q. This little trail which you saw?—A. Yes. Continued on Page 5, Column 4.

PATTERSON WAS DRUNK HE ADMITS

Former Tennessee Governor Assumes Blame for Arrest in Raid—Wife is Loyal.

NASHVILLE, July 28.—Gov. Nathan M. R. Patterson, who was caught in a raid on a house in the restricted district last Thursday night, crushed and deeply mortified over the affair, has been joined by a faithful wife in a statement to the public, and in speaking the silence which he has steadfastly maintained admits that he was in a slupor from drink at the time of his arrest. He offers no apology for his transgression, but makes a public pledge that such an occurrence shall not be repeated. The statements follow:

"I am leaving for home to-night with Mrs. Patterson, who has been with me for two days, and before going I wish to express to the despatch appreciation of you both to the friends and those who were not my friends in the past for their kind and generous sympathy.

"For my own part in this unfortunate affair I have no excuse to offer and have borne the condemnation of my own constituents. My only defense is that I was not political, as has been arrogantly assumed, but purely legal, and while waiting the return of Mr. Mall of Nashville from Real Estate Springs, who had in his possession certain papers which I was to examine, I began to drink and continued until all sense of responsibility was gone.

"However gross my delinquency, I want the world to know that it is my last offense, and the mistake will never be repeated which brought upon me and mine this deep humiliation and gave to my enemies an opportunity for revenge.

"MALCOLM R. PATTERSON.

UNDERWOOD RAN BLOCKS DENOUNCES THIRD GAME MULHALL AT MOBILE

House Leader Calls Lobbyist Billy Smith's Man and Gulls Will Clash in Double-Header To-Morrow.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Representative Underwood, Democratic leader of the House, appeared before the House Lobby Investigation Committee today and charged that Colonel M. B. Mulhall, the lobbyist, was a blackmailer. The appearance of Underwood was an event not on the program. He came unexpectedly, and his usual bland smile was not on his face. Instead his eyes glared fire and he was clearly angry through and through. Underwood was not sworn, having become involved in an argument with some of the House before the Chairman of the committee had an opportunity to place the House leader under oath.

"Is this Mulhall?" inquired Underwood, pointing his finger at the lobbyist, who was sitting in the witness chair in an apparently disinterested attitude.

"That is his blackmailer," declared Underwood. "I think men who take bribes with the cause of public mass should be condemned, and made so."

Colonel Mulhall, the man who employed Underwood, was accused because Mulhall had written in his letters that he had paid Underwood and obtained information from him about the makeup of the committee of the House.

Underwood declared that Mulhall was giving false information to his employers. This testimony that Underwood objected to was developed during the session of the committee yesterday.

While Underwood was making his statement to the lobby committee, Colonel Mulhall denounced him, making accusations against him, and insisted that he would call on the country to decide which is the cleaner of us.

Called by Mulhall's lips, Mulhall wrote in a letter to J. P. Smith, previously read, that he had a long interview with Underwood respecting the chairmanship of the House Labor Committee. This position was given to William B. Wilson, now Secretary of Labor.

Mulhall said in this letter that he had learned from Underwood that Wilson had been considered for chairmanship of the Census Committee.

"The whole statement is a lie out of whole cloth," said Underwood. "I was chairman of the committee which named Mr. Wilson as chairman of the House Labor Committee. There never was any question about Wilson being named chairman of the committee on Labor."

"If never talked to this man in my life. The only time he ever saw me apparently, was when I was walking through a corridor of the House," Mulhall said. "I had no conversation with him. He wanted to say anything."

"To the statement of the gentleman that I had a long interview with him in the back hall near the stairway of the Capitol," replied Mulhall, "I asked him questions and he answered them. I do not wish to contradict him, and I do not want to cast any reflection upon him, but before the examination is over Mr. Underwood will get back part of what he said."

STATE TRIES TO SHOW GIRL WAS STRANDED ON THE SECOND FLOOR

Here are Tuesday's important developments in the trial of Lee M. Frank at the factory of the National Fireproof Factory, Saturday, August 3.

New Law, Harry Clark, spokesman of the grand jury, leaves the stand at 10:30 hours and forty minutes of examination and cross-examination with the essential points of the story unshaken.

Frank's attorney, Harry Clark, says that the girl was not on the second floor at the time of the fire.

Lee, who was the intention of the State, was the only one who was not a witness in the trial. Lee was the only one who was not a witness in the trial.

The defense failed to obtain a ruling from the court that Lee was not a witness in the trial. The defense failed to obtain a ruling from the court that Lee was not a witness in the trial.

In one of them we will show that the working was something like this, as far as I can describe it. He said he would love me, laid down, played like the night-witch did it, but that long, tall, black negro did it by himself.

"We want to show," continued Arnold, "that Lee spoke up and said 'That's me, boss.' That means night-witchman."

"Isn't it strange that a negro be ignorant and dull that Mr. Rosser had to ask him a question ten times over could be a dash interrupt this flighty screw?"

Rosser supplemented Arnold's argument by remarking that he regarded Lee's alleged remarks as highly suspicious, and that he considered he had the right to question a witness with a view of showing that a person or persons other than the defendant had a part in the crime.

Judge Rosen ruled with the defense and the jury was returned. The judge declared:

"The attorneys for Frank are privileged to bring out evidence showing anxiety or fear on the part of the negro."

Lee Makes Denial.

Lee denied when questioned that he had said "That's me, boss," that means night-witchman. He testified that he told the officers that someone was trying to put the crime on him.

Harwood L. H. Dobbs, one of the officers who visited the factory after Lee called the police station, testified before the coroner's jury in regard to Rosser's explanation of the notes.

It was a favorable lookout for the defense, Rosser almost invariably being permitted to continue the line of questioning which he was pursuing.

Rosser, while he succeeded in showing up discrepancies in Lee's present story with that before the coroner's jury, was unable to force the negro to any admissions implicating himself.

Dorsey questioned Lee in indirect examination and Rosser in re-examination. Lee left the stand at 11:40 o'clock, after a total of four hours and forty minutes of grilling.

"Every time you went down into the basement you went only about 35 feet from the ladder to see if there was fire in the dust pan," said Rosser, repeating Lee's testimony, "and yet all this time, when you say you found the girl's body, you assert that it was necessary to go clear to the rear to locate the same body in the dim light of the dirty lantern when, as he testified, he got no nearer than five or six feet to the body, and when the officers were with electric searchlights were not able to determine whether the girl was white or a negro because of the glare and glare on her body, until they had pulled down her neck."

Seaman Full of Clashes.

The position of Lee and his had to walk quite a distance to see whether there was any fire in the dust pan, didn't you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How far did you walk?—A. A little piece below the light.

Q. Tell me exactly how far it was?—A. About as far as a tight man (about 35 feet).

Q. You only went to the dustpan once that night?—A. Mr. Frank told me not to go near it with the lantern.

Q. Shows How He Held Light.

Q. How close did you go to the body?—A. That wall there.

Q. How far is that?—A. About six feet.

Q. How did you hold the lantern to see it?—A. Like this. (Holding hand over eye.)

Q. What did you see first?—A. The feet.

Q. How far was the body from the closet?—A. I don't know.

Q. Was it two feet, six feet or ten feet?—A. I don't know.

Q. Was it fifty feet, forty feet or thirty feet?—A. Somewhere about thirty feet, maybe not the farthest.

Q. How long did you look at the body?—A. I looked to see whether it was a natural body.

Q. You didn't finger?

Q. At this question Lee arose and pointed his finger at Rosser, "I did as soon as I saw what it was. I want to tell you I did a nag."

Q. Now I was a white woman?

Q. There were one or two white spots on the face and her hair was striped.

Q. How long did it take the police to find the body?

LEE'S QUANT RASERS
ROB LEO FRANK'S TRIAL OF ALL SIGNS OF RANCOR

A page was ripped from a story of Harry Dickson, "Old Reliable" was headed in the life in a number of settings as ever collected, and the tempo of the audience that is following the fortunes of Leo Frank through his struggle for life and liberty was revealed.

Some sinister things have been said of the spirit of Atlanta in reference to the trial of the pencil factory superintendent by the slayer of Mary Phagan. It was whispered once that the law would not be allowed to take its course, but that those who believe Frank guilty would take vengeance as their own.

Laugh Over Leo's Rummy. But fight at the stand the witness was given. It was his hand to most whiffers. A jury was selected and sworn in record time and the story of the witness by factional, feigning the look was crushed.

The first important witness called and spoke like "Old Reliable." And his hearers laughed. He was called as a witness as to the fact that they are willing to defy the law to obtain their vengeance do not laugh when the issue is being fought.

People who are willing to spend their last dollar to see a man freed do not stare when a witness relates circumstances which the opposition maintains, adds a strand to the curtain which it is artful to weave about his neck.

Frank Giving Full Trial. New Leo, black, ignorant, careless, uneducated, and without the homeliness of his words proved beyond peradventure that Leo Frank is getting a fair and impartial trial as far as the law and the facts are willing to admit. They decided which the twelve men return when the historic case shall have passed its final stage.

Next Enjoys His Fame. There is a look at New Leo. There is a lot to be learned from his homey ways. When his name was called he entered the courtroom with a joyful realization of his own importance. He has been before again enjoying the thrilling pleasure of "coming thru" or going on a new stage.

It is typical of the type that Dickson so vividly depicts. His big frame is slightly bent, not from age, but from the natural lameness of his leg.

Sympathy that has been kindled in his month has been kindled in his month. It is not the time of his life that is being fought, but the time of his life that is being fought.

Tragedy, Ages Old, Lurks in
Commonplace Court Setting

Outwardly Quiet and Singularly Lacking in Excitement, Frank Trial Is Enactment of Grim Drama.

By JAMES R. NEVIN.

One of the most commonplace things in the world—crime—is riveted the attention of Atlanta and Georgia today.

Crime is almost as commonplace as death—and yet death in a thousand ways, have its commonplace at all. If it were a stranger in Atlanta and should walk into the courtroom where Leo Frank is being tried for the murder of Mary Phagan, he would be utterly astounded to discover what I had walked into.

That pale-faced, slight, boyish-looking party over there—like one sitting beside the massive frame of Luther Z. Rogers and the well-groomed friend of Heusen Arnold—should be shocked, I am sure, to learn that he stands charged with one of the heaviest, most inhuman and most unspeakable crimes in all Georgia's somewhat long history.

It is much the same way with crime. It is much the same way with crime. It is much the same way with crime.

It is much the same way with crime. It is much the same way with crime. It is much the same way with crime.

he asked, "A section of the Code says that unless you first present some certain evidence of the statement having been made or written."

At this, Attorney Rosser sat down and Dorsey began questioning Lee on the indirect examination.

Q. You said something about somebody trying to put it off on you—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know Jim Conley?—A. I never saw him until that time last week.

Q. Have you talked to anybody about this?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever talk to this man (indicating Arnold)?—A. Yes, he was over to the jail after you were.

Q. Lee Quilley on Diagram was the first time Frank put that on the clock, did he say anything?—A. No.

Q. Did he say anything the second time?—A. He made a remark about the clock longer.

Q. What was the reason he changed the tape?—A. It had been used.

Q. Was it as dark in the basement at night as it was in the daytime?—A. Mightly near.

Q. Solicitor Dorsey started over the diagram drawn by Bert Green, Georgian staff artist of the National Fruit Factory and proceeded to ask Lee a question and pointed at the diagram.

"I object to that picture," said Attorney Arnold. "It is nothing but Mr. Dorsey's theory of the case. It is not all kinds of marks here."

"It's not asking about anything but the physical appearance of the building," replied Judge Roan.

Solicitor Dorsey then had Newt Lee point out the various parts of the building shown on the diagram; Dorsey used a pointer Mary Phipps's person.

Q. Now, say whether the body of Mary Phipps was lying the same way when you saw it with the others?—A. What lawyers are you referring to?" asked Mr. Rosser. "Do you mean yourself?"

"Of course, myself," answered Mr. Dorsey.

Mr. Rosser took a stand directly behind Mr. Dorsey and objected to Dorsey leading the witness.

"Well, this negro is not as well educated as some of these lawyers," said Mr. Dorsey. "It takes a little patience to get him to understand."

"What lawyers are you referring to?" asked Mr. Rosser. "Do you mean yourself?"

"Of course, myself," answered Mr. Dorsey.

Q. Was the toilet west or east from the boiler in the basement?—A. West.

Q. Was the body west or east?—A. The body was kinder west.

Q. Could you see Frank from that clock up stairs?—A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Rosser asked you how far it was from the steps leading up to the second floor to Mr. Frank's office?—A. About as far as from here to that wall across the room.

Called Only Police.

Q. Did you call anybody on the phone that night but the police?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you call Mr. Heast?—A. No.

or John Black, the detective? Rosser objected, saying: The Solicitor had gone over the interview between Frank and Lee and no one had referred to it since.

"We want to know if repetition is going to be allowed," Rosser asked Judge Roan. "It is simply to repeat if we have a repeating contest we will be here forever."

Judge Roan overruled the objection. Lee replied: Detective Black talked to me the most.

Q. Who talked to you longer, the detective or Mr. Arnold, who became as near you the other day?—A. Mr. Arnold.

Nawl Lee then called out the stand after having been questioned for 4 hours and 15 minutes.

Bergant Dobbs Testifies.

Dorsey said, "Bring in L. S. Dobbs, sergeant of police."

Q. Where were you at about 5 o'clock April 17?—A. At the station house.

Q. Did anything unusual happen?—A. At about 11:25 a call came to go to the pencil factory. When we got there the door was locked. Later a negro came and let us in. He said there was a woman murdered in the basement. The negro led the way down and about fifteen feet back he found the body. He was lying with her face down. We couldn't tell whether she was white or black except that her hair was light. I don't know when she was killed. A cord was around her neck and sunk in her flesh. There was also a piece of cloth. I began to look around and found a couple of notes. One of them read—

Mr. Dorsey interrupted: "Never mind about the notes," he said.

Identifies Cord and Cloth.

Q. I will first get you to identify this cord (taking the cloth loop from a suitcase)—A. That looks like it.

Q. Was there much blood?—A. Yes.

Q. Was the hair bloody?—A. Very little. I had to almost reach the skin to feel blood.

Q. Was it moist?—A. Dry.

Q. Are these the notes you found near the body? (Exhibiting notes).

A. Yes.

Q. And this part?—A. Yes.

Q. How were they lying?—A. Near the head.

Q. Were they close together?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you do with Lee?—A. Took him to the station.

Q. What was the hearing?—A. Cook (indicating diagram of factory) point where the body was found?—A. Right here.

Indicating spot.

Rosser: "I object to that picture until the witness says it is a fair representation of the building."

Judge Roan: "I sustain the objection."

Dorsey: "That's all."

Rosser After Details.

Rosser took up the cross-examination.

Q. The negro told you she was a white woman?—A. Yes.

Q. You had to look very closely to find out?—A. Yes.

Q. What kind of light did you have?—A. We lit some gas jets and had lanterns.

Q. You found the notes under the sawdust?—A. Yes.

Q. You were not able to see them until you raked in the sawdust?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was the note attached to the pad?—A. No.

Q. How far from the child's head was the first note?—A. Not over eight or ten inches.

Q. What note did you find first?—A. The white one.

Q. Did you find much trash in the building?—A. Yes.

Q. Where was the shoe found?—A. Some one else found them.

Q. What was the condition of the child's face?—A. You mean 'about dust'?

Q. No? Was there any indication that she was dragged?—A. I thought there was.

Q. Lee did become excited because he left the factory?—A. Yes.

Q. From the place where Lee stood could he have seen the body?—A. Yes; part of it.

Q. Didn't you make any experiment in the day time to see whether Lee could see the body?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you?—A. Yes; sir; the feet and part of the legs.

Q. I asked you if you said the evidence of dragging did not begin immediately in front of the elevator?—A. No, it appeared to me to begin immediately in front of the elevator.

Q. As a matter of fact, you didn't find the hat and the shoe close together?—A. The hat and the shoe were on the garbage pile.

Q. The floor was rough and one being dragged over it would be scored up?—A. Yes.

Q. Captain, you are mistaken about the wound being on the right side of the head, aren't you?—A. I won't be positive. It was near the rear of the head.

Q. Was the blood wet or dry?—A. Dry.

Q. This little trail which you—

As the Southern's Great Offer Draws to a Close the Demand for Scholarships Becomes More Lively—Last Week in Which to Obtain Ten $55.00 Courses for the Price of One.

Saved $51!

Are you one of the fortunate ones?

The annual midsummer offer of the Southern Shorthand and Business University, 10 West Mitchell street, this city, will close on Saturday, August 10.

Until then the $55 Shorthand Course and the $55 Bookkeeping Course, both combined are offered for the price of one course—$51.

While this extraordinary offer is in effect either of the two courses may be obtained at $10!

Since this special offer was announced just a few days ago, the demand for scholarships has been unprecedented.

"I had enclosed check for $55, for which please send me one of the combined scholarships. Although I had not entered school until October," writes a young man at Tallahassee.

Others are securing scholarships at low or even a lower rate. At some other colleges, but the point of great interest is that you can now secure such a remarkably low rate in the long-established and reliable, superbly equipped, and well-known Southern Shorthand and Business University, "the school of the great results." And, naturally the school you prefer to attend.

Remember, the two $55 Courses for the price of one, this week only. Don't delay, enter now or else buy separately now for $110.00 each. Entrance, and save this big discount.

From this list we hope to secure many pupils at the regular rate, which will be in effect by August 10, and this list will be returned to us as now sustaining by this advertising offer."

One Crowd as Bad As the Other, Says Lee of His Quizzers

New Lee, after being grilled by attorneys for more than four hours, said he was not tired, and all he wanted was a show of tobacco. He was asked who he would rather have questioned him—the lawyers or the detectives. "Mr. Rosser certainly is terrible," he declared, "but I would just as soon have one crowd as the other."
