

HEALTH BOARD HEARS APPEAL FOR SEWERAGE

Board Finds Deplorable State of Affairs Because of Lack of Sewers.

SEWERS GREATLY NEEDED IN VERY HEART OF CITY

Citizens Make Appeal for Protection From Houses Which Have No Sewer Connections—Board a Unit on Need of More Money for Laying Main.

A petition, signed by a large number of citizens, was presented to the board of health yesterday afternoon asking that something be done to have earth closets in the very heart of the city connected with sewers.

It was stated by the chief of the sanitary department that on such central streets as Crew, Rawson, Summit avenue and other streets in the sixth ward there were only small private sewers not more than four feet under the ground.

The citizens living in the territory bounded by Jackson street, Forrest avenue, Pine street and Courtland street, who had sewerage, stated in their petition that there were many houses on alleys and streets without sewerage near to houses which were connected with sewers.

Chief Denton stated that the same state of affairs existed on Crew street near Rawson.

Money Without Sewerage. From his discussion with the members of the board of health it seemed that there were many negro houses in the city built on alleys that were without sewerage connections, and many of such houses were close to residences that did have sewerage.

Dr. Wolff stated that the board had the authority to force property holders to connect with sewers where mains were reasonably accessible. He said that there was now an ordinance before the city council which would force persons building negro houses on alleys to pay their own sewers and water mains.

In the general discussion it was shown that Atlanta wanted sewerage in many sections and that the city could never expect to have the health to which it was entitled unless more sewer mains were laid.

It was shown that the sanitary department had to remove night soil from ten thousand of the twenty-eight thousand houses in the city.

A Most Urgent Need. That there was no more urgent need in the city than sewers was the opinion of every member of the board.

Councilman Harman said that the only thing that could be done now was to give relief to those who were asking for it by offering a resolution that the petition from the citizens on Forrest avenue, Pine street, Courtland street and Jackson street be referred to the committee on sewers and drains.

With Mr. Gilbert added with instructions to ascertain what houses were without sewerage in the territory named, and force as many as possible to connect at once.

It was decided to ask council to lay a sewer on an alley which is the extension of Currier street between Jackson street and Summit avenue.

This city just must have more sewers," was the final remark of Dr. Wolff, and his remarks were endorsed by all present.

BURNS CAUSE THE DEATH OF MISS SALLIE ROOKS

Mrs. Charles Watson Is Painfully Injured Trying to Extinguish the Flames—House Saved from Fire by Mr. King.

Miss Sallie Rooks, a young white woman residing at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Watson, 691 Capitol avenue, was burned to death yesterday morning while attempting to fire in the back yard of her residence.

It seems that a fire had been built under a large clothes pot in the back yard, and that in going too close to it Miss Rooks' clothing caught fire.

It was probable that the whole piece would have been ignited had it not been for the timely arrival of a man named King, who vaulted the back fence and dashed across the yard and into the house.

WINS FIRST BLOOD.

HON. J. F. LIVINGSTON, Who Carried Newton and Campbell Counties Yesterday.

TWO COUNTIES ARE CARRIED BY LIVINGSTON

Congressman from Fifth Wins Out in Campbell and Newton.

Congressman Livingston yesterday carried Campbell and Newton counties, thus securing four of the twenty-four votes to be cast in the fifth district convention.

In Campbell the contest was very close, Colonel Livingston winning by only ten votes. He carried Newton, his home county, by 377 votes.

In Newton county Colonel I. L. Middlebrooks was elected to the house, while in Campbell Hon. C. S. Reid was chosen.

Newton and Campbell were the first two counties in the fifth district to act on the contest between Colonel Livingston and City Attorney James L. Mayson, of Atlanta, who is opposing him, and the contests were watched with great interest all over the district.

Close Vote in Campbell. Fairburn, Ga., April 4, 1:30 a. m.—(Special.)—After a close and exciting contest Campbell county has declared for Congressman J. F. Livingston over Hon. James L. Mayson, by a majority of ten votes.

Dr. Johnston by a majority of 86. Mr. Reid announced as a conservative and made the race along this line, while Dr. Johnston has been known as an ardent advocate of the various reform policies.

County officers were chosen as follows: Ordinary, W. N. McLarin, clerk, J. Hull McClure, sheriff, B. E. Wilkerson, tax collector, Warren Watkins, tax collector, J. A. Vickers, treasurer, W. Jeff Langley, surveyor, W. S. Johnson, coroner, W. G. Roberts.

Newton True to Livingston. Covington, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—Newton county goes for Livingston by 377 majority over Mayson. Though this is Mr. Livingston's home county, Mr. Mayson polled a good vote, having attended Emory college and having a number of friends in the county, especially in Oxford district.

For representative, Hon. I. L. Middlebrooks, one of the county's best-known men, former representative and senator, was elected over Representative F. D. Ballard, W. S. Marbut and J. C. Morgan.

Colonel Middlebrooks entered the race on the behalf of the confederate veterans of the state, his platform calling for a return to the annual payment of pensions. At the August reunion he introduced the resolution urging that this be done, and it was on this line that he made his fight here and won.

The vote was for congressman, Livingston, 379; Mayson, 658; For representative, Middlebrooks, 638; Marbut, 379; Ballard, 275; Morgan, 117.

TILL DOG DAYS HE WILL FIGHT, SAYS WILLIAMS

Democratic Leader Hurts Defeat at Republican Majority in the House.

NOT TO BE INTIMIDATED BY THEIR WORST THREATS

Calls Speaker Cannon "Old Man, Afraid of His Horse"—When the House Adjourned the Breach Between the Two Parties Had Widened.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, April 3.—(Special.)—John Sharp Williams, the house democratic leader, has served notice on the republicans that unless they drop the "do nothing policy" and proceed to enact some of the legislation favored by the president, in his message of January 31, the democrats propose to keep up the fight until dog days.

For the past two days the lower house has resembled the Georgia legislature when Joe Hill Hall was opposing the union depot bill, or when the state prohibition bill was upon its passage. The liveliest kind of a filibuster has been in progress with the largest attendance of the session.

He forced the republicans in an on record as opposed to the president's policies. The anger and resentment of the republicans in being put in the attitude of opposing the president's ideas will find expression in their refusal to consider all war claim bills in which democrats are mainly interested.

Pay Retreated Democrats. This day, the first which has occurred in a long time, was started yesterday when Senator Payne, by a resolution, called up the president's message of January 31 and proposed to distribute it to the proper committees.

He characterized as puppets Mr. Williams' threat to block legislation and irritated the democrats by declaring with some heat that the republicans were in charge of the business of the house.

They were strong enough to pull through such legislation as they saw fit. Then Mr. Williams set the ball going, and for five hours the house was edified by a succession of yea and nay votes on purely routine motions.

Reference was made to the "antique" of the democrats, and Mr. Williams was dubbed a filibusterer. In a brilliant and witty speech in reply he declared that they had some rights, but that the charge of filibustering, for he said the definition of filibuster was one who attempted to block legislation, whereas the democrats were attempting to force the passage of legislation.

He said that since the first time he was frightened by a Chinese dinner gong, he had never been afraid of resounding brass. He said the most pathetic thing in the world was a self-righteous man attempting to be funny; and that Mr. Payne in attributing to him "antics," which were "puerile," had not meant to be vicious, but only humorous.

He insisted the democrats would stand up to the gag rule, and that their demands were met. The right to call for an eye and any vote, he insisted, was one guaranteed under the constitution, and they proposed to exercise the right.

Breach Was Widened. When the house adjourned last today, the breach between the majority and minority parties was wider than ever. The leaders on both sides arrived on the scene early, apparently none the worse for the parliamentary struggle of the night before.

The democrats resumed filibuster tactics, and kept it up throughout the day, notwithstanding the committee on rules brought in a rule applying the gag law to general debate on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, which was in order for consideration.

Mr. Dulwell, of Pennsylvania, repeated the threat of Leader Payne, that henceforth the remainder of the session the democrats would find themselves out in the cold.

Minority Leader Williams, full of defiance, announced that he was not to be intimidated. He told the republicans again what they could expect from his side of the house and exhorted his democratic colleagues to stand together and apply all the power of which they

WATSON NAMED FOR PRESIDENT BY POPULISTS

Nebraska and Minnesota Bolted the Convention When Plea for Delay Was Denied.

WILLIAMS, OF INDIANA, FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Last Day of Populist Convention at St. Louis Was Marked by Number of Hot Passages of Words Between Delegates.

St. Louis, Mo., April 3.—For president of the United States, Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia.

For vice president of the United States, Samuel Williams, of Indiana.

The foregoing ticket was nominated today by the peoples' party convention, during two stormy sessions, during which the Nebraska and the Minnesota delegations bolted because they could not procure a postponement of the convention until after the democratic convention, so that the peoples' party might nominate W. J. Bryan for president, if he were defeated at the democratic convention.

The Nebraska men fought desperately to the last, and when Jay W. Forrest, of Albany, N. Y., mounted the platform to place Watson in nomination they withdrew from the convention, followed by the Minnesota delegation, which consisted of one man, T. J. Weighan.

How Nebraska Lost Out. The downfall of Nebraska came swiftly in the afternoon and into a pit they themselves had dugged the delegation from Nebraska tumbled.

CONSTITUTION WILL PRINT ALL SUBSTANTIATED POLLS

Friends of Either Candidate for Governor Have Opportunity to Have Results of "Straw Ballots" Presented to the Public.

As a result of the great interest being taken all over the state in the contest for the democratic nomination for the governorship, in which Governor Smith and Hon. Joseph M. Brown are the principals, the Constitution has received a large number of polls with the request that they be printed.

While the Constitution cannot publish the results of polls without giving the names and addresses of the authors, it will be glad to give publicity to all "straw ballots" where the names and the addresses of the senders are given and intended to appear in the paper.

Whenever it is possible, it is preferred that such communications be signed by a supporter of each of the candidates for governor, in order that there may be no question as to their fairness. Correspondents of the Constitution will not send in results of polls, and they will only be printed when forwarded directly by those present when they are made.

It makes no difference which candidate is favored in the poll, and it makes no difference in what section of the state the poll is made. The people of the state wish to see the news of the campaign, and the Constitution will present these polls for what they are worth as a feature of the contest.

No polls will be received over the telephone, but all must be in writing, bearing the names and addresses of those sending them in.

SCHOOL CHILD MUST EXHIBIT A BIRTH CARD

Law Wanted Hereafter to Force All Births to Be Reported.

HEALTH BOARD ASKS FOR SUCH ORDINANCE

Law Will Require Children Seeking Admission in the Public Schools to Show a Birth Certificate if They Were Born in Atlanta.

Any child born in Atlanta whose parents cannot show a birth certificate will not be allowed to hereafter enter the public schools of the city, if an ordinance agreed upon by the board of health yesterday afternoon is adopted, and it is believed the new law will be passed without opposition.

At the meeting of the board of health President Bernard Wolff stated that it was a shame the way some physicians neglected to make reports of births.

"There is a great deal of such negligence," stated Dr. Wolff, "and our vital statistics are therefore sadly deficient. The Atlanta constitution has been having much to say on this subject, and the position it has taken has been a most justifiable and praiseworthy one. I believe that the entrance of a person into this world should be surrounded with as much legal formality as his exit out of it. Yet here in Atlanta the deaths reported are far in excess of the births, simply because all the births are not reported."

What About the Stokades? "Why don't you send some of those negligent doctors to the stokades?" asked Councilman Harman.

"We have as yet made no cases," replied Dr. Wolff, "and even if we did I fear that the doctors would soon lapse again into forgetfulness. What we want is a law which will guarantee reports of births. I have, therefore, decided that this board ought to get council to pass an ordinance which will prohibit any child born in Atlanta from attending the public schools unless a birth certificate can be produced. The only objection that might be raised to such a law would be the claim that perhaps the doctor or accoucheur might die or leave the city, and, therefore, the certificate could not be procured if a report had not been made to the board of health. To this the answer is it could be stated in the ordinance that any parent or nurse of his could make a report. Our birth reports would be correct even if we did not get some of them until the child was five or six years of age. Then, again, such a law would cause the parents to see to it that their children were reported in compliance at the time. Such a law is in force in New York and other large cities, and is said to work well."

All Favored the Ordinance. All of the members of the board thought the suggestion a good one. Dr. Brickler said: "I think the idea a most excellent one. In France the parents are made to report all the births, and they can be punished for not doing so."

On motion of Dr. Brickler, the matter was referred to the committee on ordinances, with instructions to prepare such a law and have it transmitted to council at once.

LILLEY CHARGES MORE CRAFTING

Says Enlisted Men Were Paid by Companies.

BID MADE FOR INFLUENCE

Presents an Affidavit in Which Ferry is Charged With Making Statement at Variance With His Testimony Before the Committee.

Washington, D. C., April 3.—Representative George Lilley, of Connecticut, author of the resolution under which the special committee of the house is investigating the charges against the Electric Boat Company, placed in evidence an affidavit dated March 12, and signed by Carl Foster residing in Bridgeport, Conn., who swore that during the fall and winter of 1902 he served in the United States navy in the capacity of chief electrician, and that during that time he served upon several submarines torpedo boats owned by either the Holland Torpedo Boat Company or its successor, the Electric Boat Company, and none of which were owned by the United States government, and that many of the crews of these submarine torpedo boats were sailors in the United States navy, receiving pay from the United States government, and, in addition thereto, received wages from the Holland Torpedo Boat Company.

This statement was offered in substantiation of Mr. Lilley's charges that the Electric Boat Company had paid money to enlisted men. Mr. Lilley also presented an affidavit from John C. Laws, vice president of the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, dated at Bridgeport, Conn., March 14, to the effect that about two years ago he had an interview with Charles Ferry, a representative of the Bridgeport Brass Company, in which Ferry told him that President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding and Engine Company, had asked him (Ferry) to use all influence possible upon a Connecticut congressman to induce him not to use his influence in favor of the Lake company, and to use it in favor of the Electric Boat Company if he was successful in this the Fore River Company would make contracts with the Bridgeport Brass Company for goods to the value of about $100,000. Mr. Ferry, in his testimony before the committee Wednesday, denied that President Bowles had made him any such proposition or that he had ever promised him an order for seeing any one.

President Bowles died in Santiago, Chile, April 3.—Luis Alderuth, a prominent Chilean politician and financier, died in this city today.

"FARMER" CARTER. ONE OF LAST NIGHT'S STARS

P. CARPENTER - END MAN. HE HAS DON'T SCARED TO DEATH

The Boys' High school vaudeville and minstrel show at Browning hall last evening was a grand success, both as to audience and performance, for the hall was filled to its utmost capacity, fully 600 people being present, and the program was tip-top from the "Cross Pipe" overture to the "Cowboy" finale. The audience was kept in an uproar at the burnt cork jokes, and the applause that greeted every fresh rip-tickler was spontaneous and prolonged. Everything was encoored, reencored and reencored again by the delighted and appreciative spectators.

There wasn't a dull moment from the first draw of the curtain until the last close, and the still smiling audience went home sorry that the program was finished. The music by the orchestra was just as fine as was ever heard at any professional playhouse in the country. The minstrel act, which was a "Cross Fire" between an interlocutor and four end men, was just immense. The jokes were so thrillingly funny that the audience "outbursted" at the very first line. L. Wyatt with his oon song of "When Noah Gave Out Checks for the Rain" was applauded to the echo and scored until his voice grew husky. The mandolin duet by Miss M. Menko and Miss H. Auerbach, with Miss Kathrynne Crabbe as accompanist, was a most excellent musical feature. Tim Carter in his "Barn Yard Imitations," made everybody wonder where the fowls, cattle and hogs were hiding on the stage. Messrs. Stumate, McDonald, Nash and Martin, who composed Mrs. Quilliam's quartet, gave a number of fine selections which called forth unstinted applause. Miss Fannille Davies rendered a vocal selection and her singing won a well merited encore. Carpenter and Cuesta, of the "Arkansas Traveler," made a great hit with the "Arkansas Traveler."

G. Wilkins, of the "Oo" class, outdid many professionals in his old negro monologue about "Adam and Eve." And last, but very far from least, came the one act farce entitled "Mooby, the Cowboy," in which Paul Carpenter as "Jobson," Alfred Revsen as "Julep" and Angell Cuesta as "Spleen" rendered a rip-roaring comedy that closed with a very realistic and startling decapitation scene which would have done credit to a magician from India. The whole show was what the boys would call a "howling success." One of the largest and most select audiences that ever gathered in Atlanta enjoyed a most delightful evening and the baseball team of the Boys' high school realized a very handsome sum of money in the way of proceeds.

DON'T REDUCE RATES SAY KENTUCKY ROADS

Give Up Court Fight and Ask Commission to Consider Their Condition.

Louisville, Ky., April 3.—At the meeting of the Kentucky railroad commission this afternoon, attorneys for the railroads operating in the state made a motion that the commission rescind its order of two years ago for a general reduction in freight rates. In support of this they asserted that business has decreased so that the reduction at this time would not be just to the roads, and that some of them would be operated at a loss.

When the order was issued the railroads contended the action of the commission in the courts. The commission defended its action in the Kentucky court, where it is now pending. This latest move on the part of the railroads came as a surprise to the members of the commission for, instead of attacking the legality of the order, the railroad representatives are asking that it be rescinded on the grounds that the railroads are hardly paying expenses. The recent financial panic and hard times are said to be responsible for the situation.

MANY TALKS ARE MADE ON CHILD LABOR LAWS

Needs of All Sections of the United States Are Stressed.

R. ADLER AND PROF. HENDERSON SPEAK AT NIGHT

Lewis Parker, Mill Operator, Made Hit in His Talk—He Said Stricter Marriage Law Was South Carolina's Most Urgent Need at Present.

Over 100 delegates and visitors attended the morning session of the convention and listened with close attention to the reports and addresses made before this body.

Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, vice chairman of the committee, presided and in a brief address outlined the work of the committee and its object, aim and intention.

When he had completed the committee turned to the symposium on "What is a Good Child Labor Law?" and a half dozen or more talks of five minutes each were made on this topic, showing the most widespread interest and a great variety of suggestions.

Secretary Hall, of the Pennsylvania child labor committee, made a most interesting talk and declared the Pennsylvania law requiring all employers to furnish the school authorities a list of school children, was a most admirable one. Mrs. Florence Kelly, of New York, told the New York laws showing the statistics were gathered and followed by E. W. Frost, of Milwaukee, Wis., on the Wisconsin law.

Child Labor in New England. Everett W. Lord, secretary of the New England states national child labor committee, made the first address of the convention on "Child Labor in New England. He clearly brought out the motto of the committee, "Childhood is a time for education and play, not labor."

In the absence of Garnett Andrews, of Chattanooga, Dr. A. J. McKelway, of Raleigh, N. C., secretary of the committee, and a leader in the fight for child labor legislation, made the second address on "Report of Southern Textile Conference."

He was followed by Clarence E. Pope, editor of The Progress Farmer of Raleigh, who made a most interesting report from the Old North State. "A Study of Premature Employment in Street Trades" was dealt with as the concluding address of the morning by E. N. Clapper, secretary for the Ohio state national child labor committee. His talk was principally directed at the newspapers of that section in regard to hiring newsboys.

Afternoon Session. Dr. McKelway presided at the afternoon session, which was even more largely attended than the session of the morning. The subjects handled were wide and varied, making up a most interesting program.

"Compulsory Education in the South" was the theme handled by George F. Milton, of Knoxville, Tenn. He clearly pointed out that child labor was not acceptable in the best unless accompanied by a compulsory law which compelled those children, too young to labor, to attend school.

PA. Alfred E. Seidman of Atlanta followed on "The Education of Mill Children in the South." He narrated a number of personal experiences and showed the injury to health and mind that was being done throughout the state where the child labor law was not in force.

The Function of Education in Abolishing Child Labor" was handled in an admirable manner by Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the committee. His departure was then introduced when Lewis Parker, mill operator was introduced to speak on "Compulsory Education the Solution of the Child Labor Problem." His speech was clearly the hit of the day's session and he was warmly applauded.

Mr. Parker declared that what South Carolina, where one-fifth of the population worked in the mills, needed more than anything else was laws to compel the registration of births and strict marriage laws. He stated that the only requirements necessary for marriage in that state were an agreement to live together as man and wife. He said this made it impossible to keep innocent girls from being deserted when their operators moved from one settlement to another. Without the record of a marriage to be had it was found impossible to trace these cases.

"Scholarships for Working Children" was set for the afternoon session, but postponed until Saturday morning when it will be handled by Fred S. Hall in the absence of Homer Folke, of New York city.

The Evening Session.

Quite a large audience attended the night session of the convention to listen to addresses from some of the foremost leaders of the child labor movement in the country. Dr. Felix Adler presided. The first address was by Dr. Adler on the Basis of the Anti-Child Labor Movement in the Idea of American Civilization. Dr. Adler is a very thorough thinker, especially along the particular line upon which he spoke. His main theme was that gold was the real cause of the waning away of our young humanity.

Professor Charles R. Henderson, of Chicago, was next, and in a very interesting manner put facts and figures up before his hearers on his subject, "Social Cost of Accident, Ignorance and Education." He stated that we are killing the very fruit of our future by allowing the child to become a slave in a mill. Its life becomes gradually extinct, leaving us nothing at all. He said we did not value the life of our America as we should, and if we only knew of the conditions existing we would rise and have laws passed against it, but that we are somewhat on the order of what the English woman said that we are kind, philanthropic, love to help the poor, but we are in top much of a hurry and never see the things which we should.

The closing speech was by Dr. A. J. McKelway, of Atlanta, on "The Leadership of the Child." This was one of the most forceful addresses of the evening. It was clear, comprehensive, pointing out the necessity of attending to a child's future before it is too late, before death arrives at the door because of sheer exhaustion of a worn out body to reap gold for the capitalist.

$225,000 FIRE AT LYNCHBURG

Three Tobacco Factories and Overall Plant Were Consumed by Fire.

Lynchburg Va., April 3.—One of the most destructive fires in this city in twenty years occurred early today, when four factories three of them tobacco plants and four negro dwellings were consumed, with a total loss of $225,000 and insurance of $175,000.

The fire raged during a twenty-mile wind, and the firemen were powerless to cope with the blaze. The factory of the Norfolk and Western Overall Company and three tobacco factories, occupied by W. G. Dunnington, of Farmville, in which more than a million pounds of tobacco for the Austrian and Italian trade were stored, were the business buildings destroyed, the loss on tobacco factories being $115,000, fully insured. A number of small fires were started on "Diamond Hill" by flying embers, and a large number of citizens spent an hour and a half protecting their homes with buckets and garden hose. It is believed that the fire was of incendiary origin. Dunnington is a heavy buyer in Kentucky, which gave rise to a report that "night riders" might have been concerned.

MITCHELL REFUSES PLACE.

Offered Panama Job by Roosevelt, but Declined.

Washington April 3.—John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, refused an offer of Roosevelt to study and report upon labor conditions on the Panama canal zone. Mr. Mitchell said he was not able to accept the offer, as it was necessary for him to recover his health before he could take up work of any kind. He said that he had no settled plans, everything being dependent upon his health.

(Continued from Page One.) Hisop B. J. Kelly, of Savannah opened the occasion with prayer. Judge Emory Speer of the United States district court, spoke on 'The President of the United States, and was followed by Mr. Straus on 'Our Commercial Age.'

JOBSUITS

Today in the suits will be brisk, we'll venture to say. First place the suits themselves are very attractive--styles, materials and general effects. Then the values are impressively good--because we are offering suits that we regularly sell at $25, $30, $35 and $37.50 for today at

They cover the color-range completely. Same may be said of materials. There are solids, stripes, fancy worsteds--all the nifty woollens for spring wear. And all the styles--plain, near-plain, and dressy. There are not many of a kind--not more than four in any one style. All are new. All are good--not an undesirable in the entire collection.

The people of the great Oglethorpe brought with them, and the same period has grown from $11,000,000 to $121,000,000, and the value of exports passing out of this port of Savannah has grown from $30,000,000 in 1870 to more than $200,000,000 by the fiscal year 1907.

Postal Subsidy—Its Meaning. There is another important matter in this connection that is deserving of your immediate attention. You may have the products of the farm and the factory in abundance, you may spend millions upon your waterways and upon your harbors, and millions again upon what will prove to be the greatest and most far-reaching commercial enterprise that any nation has ever undertaken—the construction of the Panama canal.

National Council of Commerce. In the old south the industries were chiefly agricultural, and therefore sectionalized. But the new south is fast developing its manufacturing possibilities and nationalizing its interests upon its industries and upon its commerce.

The "servant problem" has no terrors for the home that knows Shredded Wheat. Being ready-cooked and ready-to-serve it is a boon to the housekeeper who is called upon to quickly prepare an appetizing, nourishing meal. Something to "lean upon" when cooks fail and servants fail.

The "Servant Problem" is Easy. The commercial development of the south, as distinguished from the production of agricultural staples, is of comparatively recent date. It is the product of the last century and the first decade of this century.

STRAUS INVITED TO VISIT ATLANTA. Continued from Page One. Hisop B. J. Kelly, of Savannah opened the occasion with prayer.

"It Cured Me!" "Wine of Cardui" writes Mrs. Susan A. Hall, of Sneedville, Tenn., has been a heaven-sent blessing to me. Since taking Cardui, I have been in better health than in the past five years. ### DR. TRIM, OF CONJURE FAME, PLAYS A VERY RISKY GAME

This "Conjure" Doctor Was an Expert in Money-Getting.

A Darktown conjure doctor. They called him "Dr. Trim." Collected lots of money. And did it with a vim. The people who were ailing. Were conjured, so he swore. The hoodoo would cost money—He called for more and more. At last the suffering victims. With grip and gout and itch. Felt "sore" and knew quite surely. There'd been some kind of hitch. And so the conjure doctor. "Judge Briles" was made to see. When sent him up and told him. "Now hoodoo yourself free."

day morning. He was charged with collecting money to hoodoo the conjure and with falling to make good. "Three women testified that Dr. Trim had collected various amounts of money from them to cure the "kunger." They stated that they had paid him anywhere from $1 to $10, and that instead of curing the conjure, he kept calling for more money. Miss Bennett, of 165 Butler street, stated that she had paid Dr. Trim $2.50. She had a pain in her ankle, and Dr. Trim informed her that she had been conjured, and that she must pay him money with which to get the necessary roots, herbs and conjure bags. She kept paying him money from time to time, but he never did her any good. Daisy Williams said she had had a "sore" feeling" all over her, and Dr. Trim made a diagnosis and pronounced her malady a clear case of conjure. She kept paying him money for conjure medicine until the amount reached $10, but he never stopped the "sore feeling."

Lula Cole stated that she had paid Dr. Trim $1 to cure a case of conjure, as she had a queer swimming in the head. The doctor did her no good, as her head still "swims."
There were others who had strange tremors in their limbs, pains in their head, cramps in their toes and "cold, creepy, crawly" around the sparticles. Dr. Trim had solemnly assured them all that they were badly conjured, and offered to drive away the hoodoo for certain sums of money.
When asked what he had to say, Dr. Trim folded his hands like a parson, rolled his eyes up behind his goggles and said:
"I'm de unlrest professional kunger doctor in disher town, Judge Briles. De med'ain what I hab ter gib dese malfornita what hab been kungered costs er heap ob money. I axed dem unity an all gittin' rid ob de hoodoo, but dey doan seem ter know hit."
"Judge Briles" said to the conjure doctor of Darktown:
"You are nothing but an old fraud and humbug, and it is astonishing how easily you manage to find victims. I will sentence you to the city chain-gang for thirty days in four cases each, and bind you over in a $500 bond to the state courts for cheating and swindling. That will give you four months, Dr. Trim, to work on the streets. Now I want to see you hoodoo yourself out of the chain-gang. I conjure you to do it."

Productive of Much Good.
Covington, Ga., April 3.—(Special)—Rev. R. L. Motley left here tonight after a two weeks' engagement, and will fill his own pulpit in Atlanta Sunday. The meeting has resulted so far in a half dozen accessions to the Baptist church, and will continue under the leadership of W. D. Upshaw, who comes Saturday. His sermon on "Hell" has provoked widest comment as one of the ablest delivered here on the subject.

Head Election Called.
Cordelia, Ga., April 3.—(Special)—Public notice was given today by the mayor and city council calling an election for May 5 to vote on an issue of $15,000 bonds. If the bonds are voted favorably, the proceeds will be used to complete the present extension now being made on Cordelia's water and sewer system.

MRS. ROOSEVELT IN CITY TODAY

Wife of President Here for Ten Minutes.

RETURNING TO WASHINGTON

Miss Ethel Roosevelt and Kermit, Quentin and Archie are With Their Mother—No Formal Reception Has Been Planned for Party.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the president, and party, including Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the only daughter of Mrs. Roosevelt, Kermit, Quentin and Archie, her three younger sons; Miss Hagner, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, and Miss Landon, will be in Atlanta for a few minutes today, en route to Washington from New Orleans.

The party will arrive in the city at noon over the West Point route, and will leave at 12:15 o'clock for Washington over the Southern.

This will be the second time the first lady of the land will have been through this city, the other being upon the occasion of her visit with the president to Atlanta and Rome last year.

The fact that the party is passing through, and will not stop over, prevents any formal attention.

Mrs. Roosevelt and party have been taking a tour through the south, and are now hurrying homeward.

Several days ago the party left Washington for Vicksburg, where they went aboard the president's yacht, the Mayflower, for a cruise down the Mississippi.

The boys, desiring to emulate their father, asked for coon hunt and a stay long enough to allow this sport in Louisiana, was made at New Orleans.

All along Mrs. Roosevelt has declined any formal entertainments, and her brief stay in Atlanta will prove no exception to the rule.

PUBLIC CABS AND HORSES UNDER POLICE PROTECTION

Two Cabs Ordered Out of Service and Four Cases Made Against Drivers.

An inspection of public cabs, the horses and the harness, was made yesterday at police headquarters by Assistant Chief of Police Jett. Mounted Officer Hollingsworth and Dr. William Carnes, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the work consuming the greater part of the day.

In all, ninety-two inspections were made. Two of the cabs presented for patronage of the public were set aside as not being up to the required standard, while four horses were declared wholly unfit for the streets of the city and were turned down. Nine horses were declared to be defective, and their owners were notified that better animals—horses fully acceptable to the officers of the society—would be required within thirty days in order for license holder to retain his permit. If the instructions given by the inspectors are not followed by the cabbies, the cab license will be revoked.

Four cases were made against drivers for cruelty to animals. It has been discovered recently that drivers have been using the lash on horses under the belly, immediately in front of the hind legs. The gashes and welts caused by the excessive use of the whip cannot be observed unless a close examination is made.

EGYPTIAN COTTON GROWN IN THE FAR SOUTHWEST

Government Experts Have Succeeded After Ten Years' Work on This Variety.

Washington, April 3.—After years of unsuccessful effort to introduce Egyptian cotton into the United States, the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture reports that promising results have been secured in New Mexico and Arizona.

Several million dollars' worth of Egyptian cotton is annually imported into the United States and it has been the desire of the department to develop its cultivation in this country.

Dr. Webber, now of Cornell, experimented with the Egyptian plant in South Carolina and northern Georgia, but the climate in those sections proved too severe. Hybrids cultivated by Dr. Webber also were unsuccessful. It is still believed, however, that the plant can be successfully cultivated in northern Florida and southern Georgia.

The experiments of Dr. Carson, of the department of agriculture, in the Colorado river basin within the past few years have proved successful, as much as 800 pounds of lint having been secured from one acre last year.

The Egyptian cotton, while not as valuable as the best grade of sea island cotton, is considerably more valuable than the inland specimens of sea island and the upland varieties. It is the strongest variety of cotton, of good length, and is used largely for linen laces and the best grades of undergarments.

It takes the mercerization process better than other cottons, and makes a very strong thread.

Seeds from the successful growths in Arizona are being distributed by Dr. Carson, and it is believed that Egyptian cotton will play an important part in the development of the Colorado river basin.

Detroit 3, Memphis 0.
Memphis, Tenn., April 3.—(Special)—Cobb's single in the tenth inning was the first hit to the outfield secured by Detroit's American League champions in the game today, and it produced the only Grand Slam in baseball history followed with singles that ended a three-fought struggle. The Tigers used three pitchers.

Brown Club at Cordelia.
Cordelia, Ga., April 3.—(Special)—A Joe Brown club was organized here today with more than two hundred and fifty names to the list. It is said that five hundred members will soon be had, and that Capt. Brown will go for Hon. Joe M. Brown for governor at the June primary.

Admiral Evans Better.
Paso Robles Hot Springs, Cal., April 3.—The physicians of Admiral Evans today issued the following bulletin: "Admiral Evans is greatly improved this morning. He slept during the night and all pain has disappeared." Today he greatly enjoyed the hot sulphur bath, to which he was taken at 10 o'clock.

LANGSTON WINS IN PRIZE DRILL

Eight Companies Were Represented in the Contest.

The Fifth regiment, national guard of Georgia, had a prize drill last night at the armory of Companies K and M, 10 1-2 West Mitchell street. Eight companies had four men each in the drill, making a total of thirty-two contestants. The first prize of $5 was won by Sergeant R. M. Langston, of Company D, while the second prize of $2 went to Corporal Arnold of Company M. The drill was on the manual of arms and the school of the soldier.

Major Nash, of the Georgia Military academy, and Lieutenant Holliday and Danforth, of the Seventeenth infantry, acted as judges.

HOW THEY DO IT IN DENVER.

In making payment of the final installment of the $100,000 fund offered to carry the national democratic convention to that city, announcement of which has just been made, Denver has read to the cities of the nation a lesson from which they may well take profit.

Not only has the Convention League of Denver paid the last dollar to the national democratic committee, but the people of that city have, in addition, erected a $600,000 auditorium to be completed in time for this great gathering.

Financial stringency was not the only obstacle which confronted Denver at the outset of this now splendid civic achievement.

More threatening than that was the internal political dissension with which that city has had for years to contend.

Divided into warring political factions, Denver is irreconcilably split from center to circumference. These factions have run the gamut of bitterness even to the superlative absolute.

The newspapers sheathed their knives, perhaps fresh from contemporary's gore, and the promptness with which the others got back of that first to make the suggestion reminded one of the support the campaigning preacher gets from the Amen corner.

Not one of them struck that sometimes familiar attitude: "Oh, it's the other fellow's scheme; we'll give it a cold douche!"

Denver wanted the convention; that was enough! They went after it, one and all, with determination; with promises which brought it, and they have made those promises good.

And now they are going to work to make the convention a success, and to see that its membership finds warm reception and cordial welcome.

When it is all over the avvil will, no doubt, be brought forth again from his hiding place and hammer and tongs will have another busy season.

And so it may go until the time rolls around once more to strike another lick for Denver's prosperity and growth; then, all at it in their shirt-sleeves.

The convention and the world will know little of their internal bickerings; they will commend Denver's enterprise and progressiveness.

What things Atlanta, too, might do if political disagreement were not sometimes permitted to chill municipal spirit!

"Just From Georgia"

An Old Citizen. Here, by the river, Flowin' cool an' deep, Wamin' of the south wind, To sing my soul to sleep.

Worl' was made for workin', But folks that sow must reap; Sweeter is the music, That sings yer soul to sleep.

Hills to climb, 'way yonder, But there's the thunder deep; What's the joy in livin' When the lightning's leap?

I'm whar the winds are plin' The blossoms in a heap; Can't hear the worl' a-rollin' Through the shadders sweet of sleep.

The Old Philosopher. "The restless feelin' comes to many of us in the spring season," said the old philosopher.

"I mean, the feelin' to git out an' go some'ra—'way off in the woods, for instance; an' 't'her day, when the ol' 'oman wanted me to take down the stovepipe, an' rip up the ol' parlor carpet, an' whitewash the garden pails; an' string new clothes-lines, an' swing the door to the kitchen, an' patch the holes in the fence—'s the jayin' hens can't git out, an' 't'her mornin' glory vines the wind had blow-down an' a few other little things, I jest lit out—'back to the woods," said the politician, an' 't'her day, on a holiday from home, I walked through the woods to the river—'thinkin' to be all to myself ther, but in that I was mistook—fer who should I find ther but five o' my neighbors, makin' out like they was fishin'. That was nuthin' to do but to jine 'em, so I sot down on the river bank with 'em, an' 't'her day I disklivered what they was really ther fer. Each man o' the five had a jug hid out in a holler stump, an' they was a-sampin' of 'em right frequent. I kkes a dram, occasion, myself, so jest fer sociability's sake I lirk 'em pour me out one; then, havin' drank with one o' 'em, I didn't want to hurt the feelin' of the others, so I went the rounds. Well, to make a long story short, I forgot what I come fer, an' which road I come, an' whether it was spring, or the weather was jest foolin' us. I didn't quite come to myself till I fellied in the river, an' swattered enough water to make what the city fellers call a "highball" of myself, when I sawed out, like a half-drowned rat, I fixed up a tale to tell the ol' 'oman, an' went off home. It was dark when I got ther, but she didn't give me a chance to tell my story. How, however, a storm come up, an' I was glad that the thunder drowned her voice, so's the neighbors couldn't hear. I'll tell you this much: Springtime or winter, ther's no accountin' fer poor human natur'!"

The Old, Wild Wab. All bareheaded in the rain, 'Cross the meadows skidmin', Wish I was a boy again, Goin' swimmin'!

But they know not when with joy All their cups air brimmin'; O, once more to be a boy Goin' swimmin'!

The Court Took a Recess. The Leo County Journal tells this one: "The case proceeded at wearisome length. His honor, Chief Justice J. M. Hines, of the 15th district, looked over his specks and asked, 'Ain't you here, Mr. Hank?' 'Not quite, your honor.' 'Well, I'll keep on aputtin' long as you durn please, but I bet you ten dollars you lose your case, an' when you git through you can find my judgement under this seat. My cabbage plants has got to be set out goodby.'"

Heard by the River. This one strikes the man and the season all right: "The fish held a convention. And that's whar came the rub!—Elected all the fishermen 'To the Ananias Club!'"

The Moonshine Still of Georgia. "The moonshine stills of Georgia" is a poem which is going the rounds. If the boys keep up that liquid chorus the revenue men may ask them to locate a few of them for Uncle Sam.

The Harmless Candidate. A Georgia farmer posted this sign on his front gate: "Candidates will pass on. No time to talk to 'em."

One morning his little boy shouted from the garden-walk: "There's one o' 'em them candidates here, an' he says he'll come in any-how!"

The old man looked toward the gate, and said: "Let him in. There's no harm in him. I know him. He's been runnin' ever since the war—'jest a runnin'. It runs in his blood, an' he can't help it!"

The Hurricane Brother. Hurricane a-blowin'—Howlin' ever'whar; Pay de devil what you own! 'Fo' he git you over dar!

Trouble risin' higher Ever' night an' day; Charlot' air fire. An' you'll bu'n up on de way!

Wen up dar you fyin'! Spose de angel state: "De lath is on de gate!"

Billsville in Pennsylvania. There are home-hearty Billsville-towns in Pennsylvania, as in Georgia. The editor of The Bloomfield, Pa. Times says:

"What has become of the Marsh Run and Esheloo correspondents? We would like to hear from them, as the news from those places are very interesting to us, and also the news from Roeburg, Wake, don't forget to write!"

Rather Rough. They are pretty hard on the candidates in southwest Georgia. A poet sings of them:

"Now doth the candidate explain The wherefore and the reasons That lie in his ears and seasons." Throughout all times and seasons."

There is no joke in saying that the Easter "lid" is on—the millinery bill.

IN THE COURTS

Alleging that while at work on the Southern railway he was scalded and burned, Ham Oler yesterday entered suit against that company for $2,000.

Harry Kennabrew, 8 years old, and his father, Sanford Kennabrew, entered suit against the Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday to recover $38,000. Claim is made that the young boy was injured by telephone wires against W. H. Hammond represents the petitioners.

Suit for half interest in the property of the late Sam Turner was filed yesterday by Annie Emma Belle and Mattie May Turner against Annie Smith, Minnie McWeaver and Mrs. R. S. Nicolson. The petitioners state they were left half of the property in a will. Attorney W. R. Hammond has charge of the suit.

Application was made before Judge Wilkinson to probate in solemn form the will of the late Mrs. Mary J. Rucker. The will has been filed in common form. Attorney L. Y. Sage represents the heirs.

Application has been made by T. H. Reid, H. H. Williams, J. H. Drake, J. H. Harney, C. J. Busch, L. J. Harper, R. B. Harper and James H. Minton to incorporate the Mutual Discount Company. The capital stock is $5,000. The company will engage in a general discount business.

President Preston Arkwright Says Company is Not Able to Make the Improvement.

In a letter which he sent to Attorney H. A. Etheridge, President P. H. Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Electric Company, stated that the company is unable at this time to make the West Peachtree extension of the tracks to connect with the DuPont tracks.

This letter is a final decision of the executive officers of the company and puts an end to speculation as to the date of the proposed extension. It is not likely that the extension will be made for more than a year at the earliest.

The gist of Mr. Arkwright's letter is that the company has not the money at the present time with which to make the extension. Regarding the West Peachtree line he says the residents gave up part of the frontage to widen the street on condition that the railway company put its tracks there. This was done some time ago, so the company is obliged to make this extension. As times have changed since last year, when it was at first thought the West Peachtree extension would be made, it is out of the question right now.

WILEY WILLIAMS HERE AND IS WELL PLEASED Says He is Simply Making Casual Calls on His Friends Over the State.

Captain Wiley Williams, a prominent candidate for prison commissioner, was in the city yesterday.

While here he met many of his Atlanta friends. He was particularly well pleased with the report of an interview with Mr. Dan Joseph, just received by him, as published by The Columbus Ledger, in which that well-known business man of Columbus is quoted as saying after a trip through south Georgia:

"I had no idea that Wiley Williams was so strong in south Georgia," said Mr. Joseph to a reporter. "Everybody seems to be for him, and I believe that I'll literally sweep that section of the state. If the other candidates have any friends in support as he will get in south Georgia he will be nominated by one of the largest majorities cast at any candidate for a state office ever received."

HOTEL AND POSTOFFICE BURN AT LITHIA SPRINGS The Fire Burned in Within 150 Yards of the Sweetwater Park Hotel.

Lithia Springs, Ga., April 3.—(Special.) A fire which broke out in Watson's hotel at 5 o'clock this morning destroyed the hotel and a store building, both owned by R. F. Watson, and the postoffice, which adjoined them. A stack of wood containing fifty cords caught fire and was consumed by the fire. The fire burned to within 150 yards of Sweetwater Park hotel, and for a time it looked as if it would catch the fire also.

The loss is estimated at from $10,000 to $12,000, with $3,500 insurance. Mr. Watson formerly owned the Sweetwater Park hotel. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TRAIN WAS WRECKED. Accident Happened on a Trestle, Which Was Destroyed.

Camilla, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The Atlantic Coast Line railroad will be closed at this place and Pelham for about forty-eight hours, due to the wreck of a northbound freight train this morning four miles from this place.

A couple of coal cars jumped the track a hundred yards from a trestle and were drawn over the trestle before this was discovered. The trestle was completely wrecked, leaving only the pole supports intact.

The track on the opposite side of the trestle, while another car of coal, a box car and the cab were torn to splinters. No one was hurt.

Entries Closed in Floyd. Rome, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—Wednesday was the last day for announcing candidates for county officers and members of the state legislature. There were no new announcements for the legislature, but Messrs. Barry Wright, Claude A. Dean, G. B. Holder and Lindsay Porter, two new sheriffs' tickets, were entered in the county clerk's office, with John Spruell and Jim Penn and Sam Johnson as deputies, and one headed by James Stewart, which is headed by John W. Rainmon, also announced himself a candidate for tax collector. O. W. Smith also announced himself a candidate for county clerk of the office. Ike J. Berry, has already announced for reelection. None of the county officers are opposed for reelection.

Appearance indicate a hot race, especially between the two tickets for county commissioner, one headed by W. M. Gammon and the other by J. R. Cantrell, who is chairman of the present board.

Conducted by SAMUEL W. DIBBLE

The Man of a Stormy Dream. CHARLES THE BOLD, Last Duke of Burgundy, by Ruth Putnam. Driven by one of those dreams which, like the one that possessed Napoleon, send nations to their doom at each of their throats and plunge fair lands in waste and blood, Charles the Bold trod his way through the middle history of the fifteenth century, one of the most ambitious, singular and daring characters that stand out in the annals of men of action.

Inheriting the duchy of Burgundy, the rich and fertile little buffer state, his vision saw a "middle kingdom" stretching from the North sea to Switzerland, possibly farther, holding the great center of power as between France and Germany.

The gradual encroachments of France, and spasmodic treaties with England and other powers had curtailed the domain of the once free kingdom of Burgundy, rendering it expensive for many reasons, that it pay vassalage to France. At the time Charles came on the scene, events conspired to make auspicious an attempt to realize the pretentious dream of a "middle kingdom" increased healthy, and France being depleted by numerous foreign wars.

Charles' head was upheld to his ambition at various times, by the fact that other powerful nobles of France were in rebellion against the feudal power of the centralizing kingdom, and believed their individualism would be strengthened by an alliance with the duke of Burgundy. On the other hand, and a factor that would probably have caused his scheme to disintegrate had it been materialized, was the totally ungenial character of many of the principal nobles involved in the contemplated sweep of empire. The merchants, farmers and business men, outside of Burgundy, were little concerned with the political aspect of things.

It is the fact that the relentless Charles might at any time swoop down on them for revenues to defray the costs of his dream, or that the even terror of his traffic might be interrupted by devastating and pillaging armies.

Before he had attained the dukedom, he begun aggressions against France. His battling career continued until his death, in 1477. During this period he developed tremendous powers and force of personality. He won against France, or separate members of the feudal family. In war after war, many of them being settled by single gigantic battles in which the order of battle was wounded reached into formidable proportions. The man seemed to possess the true demonic genius of war. He never knew when he was beaten. Often when his enemies accounted themselves victorious, he would reappear within a marvellously short period, and reappear to harry them, often to reverse the previous decree of arms.

His last stubborn battle was contested January 5, 1477. Beaten back on every side, his men fell in every direction. It was a second Waterloo—a second "day of the battle of Marston." In the rout, the figure of Charles disappeared, a great and authentic traces of this man of blood and of compelling mental attributes, come in fugitive tales of a body found by the side of a marsh, face gnawed by wolves, clothing stolen by bandits—tragic climax to one of history's most spectacular careers.

A Tinsel Girl. THE CHORUS LADY. By James Gordon. Now that the play by John W. Harding. People who have witnessed the play of this name need no introduction to the story. The effort, and it is creditably done, is to string together the rather rambling events of the play into a coherent whole, pointing a moral and adorning a more or less convincing tale.

The atmosphere of the stage, the mimic-vitality of the greenroom is present with a vividness that will interest the novice in these things—the man or woman whose conception of the life in stagehands or formed in glimpses over the footlights or at the side-door. Distinctly realistic in its nature, as of course, there must be, if the subject is to be treated with any degree of accuracy. The things of mimoiand are never as lovely, as fresh or as romantic as they appear. The glamor of the limelight and—be it said in whispers, artificial use of cosmetics or as Mr. Oppen said—conspire to give the stage a seeming artificiality when, as a matter of chilly fact, it has a reality all its own.

"Little bits of wadding, little dabs of paint. Make the chorus lady look like what she ain't."

This tinsel, this gaudy, this fascinating tinsel throughout the book, in all its charm of humor and pathos. The heroine loses, perhaps, some of the freshness of her personality, the sprightliness of her humor in the transition to the book. An unseemly melancholy is here and there present. On the whole, however, it is a tale in which the author (Publication by G. W. Dillingham Company, New York.)

Wagner for Children. STORIES OF WAGNER OPERAS TOLD FOR CHILDREN. By Elizabeth H. Witherell. The myth, the legend, and the wonderful tenderness of Wagner translated into language and sentiment fit for childhood, combine to offer a most readable collection for the home library.

The themes of the great German are continually sunlit, though they touch at times the ward and the ultra-elemental traits which need to be softened before they reach the indiscriminating mind of the child or the adolescent.

The author has extracted the beauty and the sublimity of the leading stories with appreciation and precision and the rare knack of adaptability. They lose none of their force and significance, but are set to a lower key. Titles told are "The Master Singers of Nuremberg," "The Flying Dutchman," "Lohengrin," "The Rhinegold," "The Walkyries," "Siegfried," "The Dusk of the Gods." (Publication by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.)

A Sagacious "Waukie." SEEING ENGLAND WITH UNCLE JOHN. By Anne Warner. American readers, always patient, have often been invited to view foreign lands through the eyes of gentlemen from the once rural districts or other peripatetic celebrities, whose chief claim to role of guide and mentor seem to rest in the "way back east" angle from which they viewed things made holy in history, or their more or less convincing jokes before the shrines handed down in legend and tradition.

We must concede "Uncle John," however, as a refreshing exception to the general intolerable brood. If he is somewhat of an egotist, he is a healthy one, and he does not appear to consider it his professional business to be funny at the wrong moments. In fact, the mere fact that the lady who created him also created "Susan Clegg," is sufficient guarantee of his right to our attention.

His criticisms into all manner of droll adventures in England, running counter to established customs, giving a promising love affair the "double cross," exhibiting a delicious naivete and a strong, native sagacity which elicits the unqualified sympathy and approval of the reader. A good many would-walkers tourists of the conventional Cook type will probably echo approval of his declaration that "every time you've done a place in Europe you can't help a feeling of real relief." Otherwise, Uncle John—will do. (Publication by The Century Company, New York.)

Sure We Will. GO TO IT! By the author of "John Henry." Know John Henry? Ever been "down the line" with him, "back to the woods" with him, or half a dozen other things, all done according to the latest, screaming American slang?

If you're a young American, bred in the lingo of the street and of politics, the snappy, vigorous parlance of the day that sometimes compresses an epigram into two words, and sometimes throws whole sentences into an epigram, it's more than probably that you're acquainted with the work of Mr. Hoobar.

He's the "big IT" when it comes to gathering up the vernacular in business and handing it out in such crazy and impossible juxtaposition as to make the English language unable to identify itself.

"Go to IT!" is worthy brother to its predecessor. It is an uproarious exploitation of the noble art of knock-out, teeming with the latest vernacular of the gentlemen who get new and strange and droll meanings out of our otherwise sedate language.

It will make you slide from under an attack of the blues, and forget that your mother-in-law is due to arrive tomorrow. (Publication by G. W. Dillingham Company, New York.)

Once More the Caperting Rich. KATHARINE TREVELYAN. By Louise Munnell Field. It is weary we get, somewhat of the tone, and highly colored, almost hyperbolic tales of the very rich folk in New York society, the follies, their inanities and extravagances, their sins and their final futility.

What's the use? We know, those of us who think beneath the surface, but who do not get billions about it, that the things happen in all very wealthy countries. We know, too, that the malady is aggravated in America, the land of quick wealth, where the butler of today is often the millionaire tomorrow. We know it had manners, if breeding, shallowness, and the snobbery grafted on the superstructure, here and there. It's so in all raw societies—with all young nations, and it must not be forgotten that we yet have the sap of youth in our veins.

It is the idea is to amuse those of us afflicted with an unconscious taint of snobbery—the taint that depends with greediness to recitals of money and its panoply; or if the intention is to breed socialism, we doubt the wisdom.

A large and undoubted field awaits the true artist, who can place on vivid canvas the America of today; the most unscientifically accurate estimation of the age. But the theme is almost face in the hands of the novelist.

The present novel is interesting enough. It is excellently written. There is verisimilitude in coloring, character drawing, plot and incident. The heroine is well done and appealing. But we have heard it all before, and from much more competent sources.

To people who like this sort of thing—the midnight supper, debauched reception, house party and dietetic side of New York society, with an admittedly unusual heroine thrown in, the book will appeal sufficiently. (Publication by the McClure Company, New York.)

When East Meets West. UNDER THE FLAG OF THE CROSS. By J. Hamilton Sedberry. People who believe that the white and the dark races will eventually meet in a death struggle, organized Christianity with anti-Christ, mystic, symbolic and allegorical a century hence, arraying Japan their favorite theme thrown into excellent romance in this book.

Whether or not we take stock in the "yellow peril," the hidden possibilities in the teeming hordes of the east, should the war ever become generalized with the just of conflict and the venom of racial antipathy, must have suggested themselves to the imaginative mind.

Mr. Sedberry throws the epochal struggle a century hence, arraying Japan, China, Korea and India on the one side and the Christian nations on the other—their religious war for the mastery of the world.

The subject is a Homeric one, and if we are not mistaken, has been handled with greater accuracy and conviction by other writers.

Mr. Sedberry, however, creates a very readable tale. Up-to-the-minute devices are used, though they touch at times the ward and the ultra-elemental traits which need to be softened before they reach the indiscriminating mind of the child or the adolescent.

The author has extracted the beauty and the sublimity of the leading stories with appreciation and precision and the rare knack of adaptability. A BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR CONSTRUCTIVE GEORGIANS

The directors of the Atlanta Fair Association have ratified the arrangement whereby the Farmers' Union of Georgia is to have absolute charge of the agricultural department of the display to be held in this city during the forthcoming autumn.

In the completion and inauguration of this plan The Constitution sees a splendid opportunity for progress, education and public service for the farmers and the state—for what helps one helps the other.

At no time in the history of the United States has active and receptive interest in the welfare, the methods and the development of the agricultural interests of civilization been more keenly notable. Georgia, in common with other states, is fast learning the inseparable interdependence between the business man and the farmer; the people are appreciating each day more profoundly that the degree in which the farmer prospers or does not prosper determines the measure of progress and prosperity for each other one of the dependent industries of Georgia and the south.

We are discovering, too, that scientific agriculture—business agriculture, in the analysis of results—means closer conformity with the immutable laws of supply and demand, and the permanent banishing of the era of low-priced cotton; the diversification of crops, and the raising of home supplies, with the retention in Georgia and each southern state of millions of dollars we now pay in needless tribute to other sections; the furthering of intensive industrial and commercial development, in the sanest and most profitable conceptions of the term.

The Farmers' Union, the most practical and best organized body of agricultural workers in history, is, therefore, faced in a critical moment by an opportunity of unprecedented dimensions. If the exhibit is given the comprehensive character we have a reason to expect from the caliber of its sponsors, it will be epoch-making in the annals of southern agriculture.

Council Committee Acts Favorably on Several Papers.

The street committee of the general council met yesterday afternoon and reported favorably upon several papers calling for street improvements. Sidewalks and curbing were ordered laid on the following streets: On the west side of Jackson Garden from Georgia avenue to Glenn, Lawton from Sells avenue to Greenwell avenue, Lake avenue from Elizabeth street to Euclid avenue, with concrete curbing and tile sidewalk, Oglethorpe from Ashby to Asalia; Juniper from Seventh to Eleventh, with concrete curbing and tile sidewalk; Jackson north of Ponce de Leon avenue to Piedmont park, where sidewalks are not already laid. A resolution was adopted to pave with chert and macadam Stewart avenue from Whitehall street to Wells street. A resolution was passed to open up and grade Redwood street from Humphreys street to Stewart avenue, at a cost of $400. The commissioner of public works was authorized to pave Murphy avenue from Benjamin street to the yards of the Woodward Lumber Company, and to repair the Boulevard from Edgewood avenue to Houston street. A petition was read in which property owners donated a strip of land 18 feet wide on the west side of Jackson street, between Ponce de Leon avenue and North street, so as to make the street a driveway 68 feet wide. The same petition asked that two new streets, known as Vedado Way and Greenwood avenue, be accepted by the city, the same having already been laid with sidewalks and curbing, and with sewers, provided the city pave the streets with chert under the assessment plan. The petition was granted, and a resolution to that effect will be sent to council.

FIRE ESCAPES AT HIGH SCHOOL

Fire Gongs and Extinguishers Secured for Schools by Steve Johnston.

Councilman Steve Johnston won a great victory in the interests of the public schools yesterday when he secured an appropriation of $1,000 from the finance committee for alarm gongs and fire extinguishers for the school houses. Councilman Johnston wants to place a fire extinguisher on every floor of the school buildings, and have placed in each school house a gong 12 inches in diameter. He made an earnest plea for the measure, and said that the city government owed it to the 18,000 children in the schools to see that they were protected from fire. Mayor Joyce and Alderman Pittman wanted the fire escapes at the Girls' High school changed. It was estimated that the new kind of fire escapes, of a cylinder form with a sliding spiral, would cost $500 each. Two were needed at the Girls' High school. The committee, on motion of Alderman Quillian, appropriated $1,200 for the fire escapes and $1,000 for the gongs and fire extinguishers.

Rome, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The splendid condition of the Home public schools is shown by the report of the school trustees for the past year. Just closed there were 1,600 children attending the city schools, 1,200 white and 400 colored. BID ACCEPTED FOR SCHOOL

New Fifth Ward School Is to Cost $42,348.

If the recommendation of the finance committee is adopted by the general council the new fifth ward school will cost $42,348, and the plans will be altered somewhat from the original design. The two bids accepted by the committee were that of the Griffin Construction Company for the building at a cost of $39,190, and that of Belcher & Gillist for the plumbing, at a cost of $3,158. The lowest bid on the original plans was $48,049, not including the plumbing. On the amended bid there was a change made in the kind of brick, a change from terra cotta to copper cornice and a change from granite to limestone for trimmings. It was believed that these changes would not materially alter the structure. Members of the board of education, who were present, and Alderman Beutler did not wish any changes and desired the original bid accepted, but the finance committee decided to cut down all extra expense. Alderman Pittman gave notice that he would make a minority report on his ordinance requiring that all school buildings be fireproof. The ordinance committee had reported favorably on the ordinance, except the fifth ward school. Mr. Pittman believed the fifth ward school should be fireproof, and thought the extra money could be found later in the year. The board of education is instructed to start the work with the understanding that only the $28,000 already appropriated was in sight.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON BOND ISSUE

Chamber of Commerce Ready to Report.

LATER MEETING TO BE HELD

Finance Committee of the General Council Decides to Consider the Question at Such Time as Chamber of Commerce May Designate.

The finance committee of the general council did not take any action yesterday in regard to the proposed bond issue for public improvements, because other matters delayed the session. It was agreed to take up the resolution of Councilman Longino at such time as might be agreeable to the committee from the chamber of commerce. The resolution of Councilman Longino calls for a charter amendment for a million-dollar issue of bonds for schools, waterworks, sewers, a city hall and other public improvements. The ordinance had been referred to the finance committee of council. Since the introduction of the resolution the chamber of commerce has taken up the bond issue question and has decided to recommend to council an issue of $1,500,000 for schools, sewers and waterworks, each department to receive $500,000 of the money. The chamber of commerce committee appeared before the finance committee of council during the morning. The committee had to first take up the North Boulevard park matter, and the question of appropriating the money for the fifth ward school, and the hour grew so late that on the request of the chamber of commerce committee the bond issue question was deferred until a subsequent date.

Resolution May Be Amended.

The chamber of commerce will ask the finance committee of council to amend Councilman Longino's resolution so as to make it conform to the report of the chamber, that is, call for an amendment to the city's charter so as to permit of an election for bonds to the amount of $1,500,000 for schools, sewers and water. Just how the finance committee stands on this question is not now known, as the members have not expressed themselves. It was stated at the city hall that if a bond election is agreed upon an effort will be made in council to hold the election next December on the day of the regular city election is held. Others think the election should not come off until next spring. As the general council meets next Monday there will be no report on the bond issue at that session.

$500 Wanted for Fourth Ward Citizens for Park Property on North Boulevard.

A committee of citizens from the fourth ward, headed by Colonel W. S. Thomson and George Spense, appeared before the finance committee of council yesterday morning and asked for an appropriation of $500 to be used to improve the park property on North Boulevard from Houston street to Ponce de Leon avenue. The property holders along the street mentioned donated some years ago strips of land 10 feet wide on each side of the Boulevard for park purposes, and council accepted it and agreed to improve it, but has never done so. The citizens had agreed to pay at the rate of 5 cents for each front foot, making about $480 for park improvements. The finance committee took the matter under advisement.

SKYSCRAPER FOR MACON.

Central City Is Also to Have Large Modern Hotel.

Macon, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—It seems that Macon is to have a large modern hotel and a skyscraper. It is said that the two buildings will be erected separately, and will be erected by Dr. S. T. Frazer, of this place. Harry Leslie Walker, who has associated with him this city, has a working plan for this building. A. Teyneck Brown, has already submitted plans for these buildings. It may be that Dr. Frazer, for the present, will erect only one of the buildings. As yet he has not decided, but whichever one constructed will be on a modern and magnificent scale.

WINTER GARDEN FOR NEW THEATER

$5,000 Will Be Spent on the New Wells Theater.

Five thousand dollars in a glass-enclosed "winter garden" will be spent by Jake Wells, the theatrical magnate, in utilizing the space between the front of the new Wells theater at the corner of Carnegie way and Cone street, and the entrance. This was decided by Mr. Wells, who spent yesterday in the city, overlooking the work which is progressing so rapidly on the lot. He was accompanied by Architect Edward Okel, who planned the new theater and who was commissioned to draft the plans for this handsome "roof-garden effect" on the ground floor, at once. "It will be like a roof garden, but on the ground floor," explained Mr. Wells, in speaking of the new project. "There is a space of 68 by 100 feet lying in front of the entrance to this theater, which is flush with James street. "We will convert this space into a beautifully enclosed conservatory. It will be made so as to be thrown open like a garden in the summer and closed and cozy in the winter. Soda fountains, smoking parlors, smoking parlors and the like will make it attractive. An orchestra will play in the garden between the acts instead of in the theater, and give the patrons a chance and excuse to promenade. "It is undecided, as yet, what we will offer there. It may be that vaudeville will be played, exclusively there, and melodramas, comedies and musical comedies continued at the Bijou, or the system may be reversed. "We are going to remodel the Bijou during the summer season, and practically open two new houses this fall." Mr. Wells stated that he has been the Griffin Stock Company, which is to open in Atlanta, April 13, in "Leah Kleehans," and that it is the best stock production he has ever witnessed.

COUNTRY COUNTIES TO ENTER PROTEST

Movement to Organize "County Constitutional Rights League."

PETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED

And It Is Said That the Papers Sent Out Are Being Generally Signed Throughout the State.

Dawsonville, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The country people of this section of the state are pretty generally signing papers of membership in what is called the "County Constitutional Rights League," the purpose of which is to effect organization to prevent what is claimed to be the overthrow of the constitutional county representation basis as applied to state elections. It is stated that if the spirit of the state constitution is to be repealed and the proportionate representation of the country counties is to be reduced, that the change should come in the regular way by constitutional amendment, and that the state democratic executive committee has no right to repeal a constitutional provision by applying a new plan to the state primary, which plan greatly reduces the voice of the country counties. The paper calls upon the country counties to protect themselves in the preservation of what is termed to be their constitutional rights, which, it is charged, are in danger of being revoked by the order of the state democratic committee, and which if once taken away will forever put the country counties at the mercy of the few city counties. It is reported here that similar papers are being signed over the state.

FINE GIVEN PAWNBROKER PLEASES ARMY OFFICERS

General satisfaction is expressed at the department in which the verdict in the case of the United States against an Atlanta pawnbroker fined $1,000 for receiving United States army clothing in pawn. At the department it was pointed out that Senator Dick, of Ohio, is the father of the Dick law, in which it is provided that every person unlawfully wearing army, navy, marine or national guard clothing shall be fined not less than $50 or imprisoned more than three months. "This will even better protect the boys who wear the blue," said an army officer. "The wearing of military clothing by tramps, negroes and indiscriminate personages often brings the clothing into disrepute, and we wish to prevent this. "The verdict of $1,000 was a good, stiff one, and we are all glad of it."

PENCIL FACTORY FOR GATE CITY

Petition for a Charter Filed in the Superior Court.

It has long been thought that Atlanta had every kind of manufacturing enterprise that is extant in the world, but not until yesterday was it discovered that we have not a pencil factory, but will at an early date. M. Frank, Sigmund Montag, Isaac H. Haas, John O. Parmele, Jacob R. Haas and George Lennig, of New York city, yesterday afternoon, through their attorney, Herbert J. Haas, filed a petition in the superior court to incorporate the National Pencil Company. The capital stock is $25,000 and privilege is asked to increase this at any time to $250,000. The company proposes to engage in the manufacture of that needful article, the pencil, on a large scale, buying timber lands, erecting a large plant and establishing branch offices for the sale of the finished product. Among the stockholders is Sigmund Montag, connected with Montag Brothers, the wholesale stationers. He has had years of experience in the particular branch of business for which the charter is asked, and has long been established in the paper business not only in the south, but all over the country. The other members of the company are well-known Atlanta business men, who generally make a success of whatever they go into.

CONTEST FOR IRRIGATION STOCK.

Imperial, Cal., April 3.—The governor of lower California has issued an order directing that the books of the Modoc Irrigation Corporation, covering that portion of the Imperial irrigation system in Mexico, be turned over to the stockholders of the California Development Company by the Southern Pacific Company and the stockholders now in possession. The Mexican company owns the intake and the largest portion of the main canal leading to distributing systems of the mutual water company. The stock of the company is owned by the California Development Company, which owns that portion of the system in Mexico. This is the latest move in the contest between the stockholders and the Southern Pacific Company for the control of the irrigation system.

ATLANTA BAR MEETS TODAY

Association Plans to Have a Calendar Clerk Appointed.

HUSBAND'S LIFE SAVED BY WIFE

Association Plans to Have a She Closed Knife on Finger of Man Stabbing Her Husband.

At 9 o'clock this morning the Atlanta Bar Association will meet the superior court room to discuss and take action upon a very important matter. At the last meeting it was decided to appoint a committee to look into the advisability of having a calendar clerk appointed to save labor, time and trouble to the lawyers in this district. The idea is to have a man appointed to take charge of all of the cases, having them booked, and dates fixed, notifying attorneys when their cases will come up in a certain court. The custom now is for a lawyer to attend court on call days, then he is notified by the judge when his case will come up. The members of the bar contend that it consumes a great deal of time, and in order to facilitate matters for all concerned they have taken up the matter of having a calendar clerk appointed. Governor Guild's Condition. Boston, April 3.—The physicians who are attending Governor Guild said today that the governor had passed a fairly comfortable night with no radical change in his condition.

CANDIDATES ARE ASSESSED.

Will Cost $150 in Race for Sheriff, Tax Collector and Clerk of Superior Court.

It will cost $150 each to run for sheriff in Fulton county at the primary to be held on June 4, but the race for governor will cost the entrant only $20.

This was decided at a meeting of the subcommittee of the Fulton county executive committee, held in the Klier building, which also fixed the assessment for all other candidates to offer, and at the same time declared that all entries must be in the hands of the secretary and treasurer by noon on May 4. The committee took into consideration the value and honor attached to the various offices to be filled, and made the sliding scale accordingly. Chairman Shelby Smith presided at the meeting, and announced the resignation of Secretary and Treasurer C. C. Allen, who had served this committee so long and faithfully, and called for a successor. W. T. Withers was named and elected, and issued the statement giving out the following scale:

Table with 2 columns: Amount assessed, Amount assessed. # SOME GOOD FEES IN TAX CASES

Boykin Wright Fares Better Than Others on State's Side.

GOVERNOR ONCE IN CASE

Was Engaged by Mr. Wright, and Will Get Fee From Him—Terrell Also Interested in Outcome. Attorney General Likewise to Get a Fee.

Several interesting fees are to be paid as the result of the settlement of the other day of litigation involving taxes for ten years upon the 15,000 shares of Western of Alabama stock owned by the Central of Georgia railroad.

Hon. Hoykin Wright, of Augusta, as stated in The Constitution, will receive under his agreement with the city of Augusta and Richmond county, 20 per cent of the amounts collected for them which aggregate $254,000. His aggregate fee from the city and county will, therefore, be more than $50,000.

But out of this Mr. Wright is to pay the fee of Governor Smith, who was engaged by him in the litigation, prior to the announcement of Mr. Smith's candidacy for governor. Before announcing and entering upon his campaign, Governor Smith was engaged in the case, and made an argument in Fulton superior court.

After entering upon his campaign the governor disappeared from the litigation, though an argument was made in the state supreme court by Hon. F. L. Barber, who was a member of his firm.

There are various reports as to the amount which Mr. Wright is to pay Mr. Smith for his part in the litigation. A report that seems conservative puts it at $8,000, though others put it higher.

Terrell Still Interested.

An attorney general, Hon. Joseph M. Terrell began this litigation, making the first argument before Judge Newman in the United States court. Hon. Boykin Wright succeeded Governor Terrell as attorney general and took up the litigation before the latter left off. The state lost the case before Judge Newman and it was carried to the court of appeals at New Orleans. Governor Terrell was in the midst of his campaign for governor at the time the case came up in New Orleans, but at the request of Attorney General Wright and Governor Candler, went to New Orleans to argue the case. It was agreed that his fee for this service should be $1,000, of which he was to pay $500 cash and $500 when the suit was finally won, after going through the supreme court of the United States. So Governor Terrell still has an interest in the matter, as there is now $500 due him.

At the same time it was agreed by Governor Candler that Attorney General Wright should be paid a fee of $1,000 for going out of the state in connection with the litigation. He, too, was to be paid $500 cash and $500 when the suit was finally won, after going through the supreme court of the United States. So Governor Terrell still has an interest in the matter, as there is now $500 due him.

REV. ROBERTSON TALKS AT LENTEN SERVICES

Rev. Dr. Robertson, rector of Christ church, Chattahoochee brought his series of three addresses at the noon Lenten services to an end yesterday with an inspiring though short talk on the "Conversion of the Religious Man." The Young Men's Christian Association room, where these daily services are held, was well filled. Perhaps there is hardly a speaker who has gotten more closely in touch with his hearers than Rev. Dr. Robertson. A speaker of great earnestness, his every address has apparently carried some personal message to those who have dropped into these twenty-five-minute services of meditation.

Choosing as his text the 14th verse of the 13th chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Romans, "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh to fulfill the flesh thereof," he drew many practical and pertinent helpful lessons for the comfort and guidance of his hearers. Referring to Christ's words and works concerning Mary Magdalene, he stated that while there was hope for those leading immoral lives who realized their condition, those hardest to reach and convert were living according to the letter of the law and religion, satisfied with their own efforts at righteousness rather than looking for the grace of God. He meant the "putting on of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Carterville, Ga., April 3—(Special)—A 40-gallon still was captured by Deputy Collector Booth of Hiram, and Jasper Jones of this city, Wednesday morning within 8 miles of Carterville. The still and the beer were destroyed by the officers but no arrests were made.
