

MARY PHAGAN MURDERED WITHIN HOUR AFTER DINNER

SHEPPARD SUBSTITUTE FOR LIPSCOMB BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Votes of State Board Tax Reformers Were Needed to Carry the Measure Through.

ROLL CALL SHOWS FRIENDS AND ENEMIES OF REAL TAX REVISION

Many Went on Record for Measure They Did Not Indorse in Hope of Senate Amendment.

At the close of a morning session, which was prolonged until after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the house on yesterday passed the Sheppard substitute for the Lipscomb bill by a vote of 107 to 59.

This was only fourteen votes over the required constitutional majority, and without the help of tax reformers, who believe in a state board and equalization among counties, it would have been impossible for the bill to have passed at all.

Quite a number of members who had lined up with Mr. Sheppard and Dr. Stovall in the mutilation of the ways and means committee bill did not vote for the Sheppard substitute and went on record as opposed to any form of tax revision whatever.

Analysis of Vote. There were others who voted for the adoption of the Sheppard substitute, who, when the roll was called for the final passage of the measure, cast their votes against it, enough of these, in fact, to have defeated the measure had it not been for the state board revisionists who came to its assistance.

Dr. Stovall, of Elbert, who, more than any other, was responsible for the mutilation of the ways and means bill, was one of those who voted for the adoption of the Sheppard substitute and then voted against it on its final passage.

Tax Reformers Saved Substitute. This seems clearly to have demonstrated what the advocates of the ways and means bill have claimed from the first, that the Sheppard substitute was put forward in the hope of defeating all tax reform. That it did not succeed in doing this was due largely to the efforts of those open and in earnest advocates of tax reform, who came to its aid at the last moment and would not allow it to be butchered at the hands of its supposed friends.

That Mr. Sheppard himself worked very earnestly for the salvation of the measure, when its passage seemed to be threatened cannot be doubted. This is shown by the fact that he even called upon the state board revisionists to save it from defeat.

Of the men to whom he yielded his time, after the previous question had been called, one was an outspoken and thoroughgoing advocate of the state board principle, who had determined to vote for the substitute as a last resort to save the cause of tax reform, and another was a member who had always been counted on that side.

An Extraordinary Situation. A still more extraordinary situation was presented, however, when one of the men called upon by Mr. Sheppard to defend his measure, and voted for its adoption, but cast his vote against it when it was up for final passage.

It was at first thought that the bill by substitute would pass with little difficulty after the substitute had been adopted. Members were generally averse to another roll call, as the hour of 2 o'clock had been

CASTRO'S RETURN TO LEAD REVOLT CAUSES SENSATION

State Department Hoped to Prevent His Going Back to Venezuela, and Supposed Him Still in Exile.

GUNBOAT AT BRUNSWICK ORDERED TO THE SCENE

Former President Reported at Coro at Head of an Armed Force—Gomez Is Made Dictator.

Washington, August 1.—News of the appearance in Venezuela of ex-President Cipriano Castro, after his five years' exile, caused something of a sensation at the state department today. For the past five years the department has been keeping Castro under surveillance to prevent his returning to Venezuela, which country has been enjoying a period of unwarlike prosperity and quiet since his retirement.

Department officials supposed the exile was living quietly in the Canary Islands until a cablegram came today announcing his re-entrance into the country of his birth at the head of an armed force, while various uprisings in his behalf were reported from different points in Venezuela. He was said to be at Coro.

From the legation at Caracas the state department was informed of uprisings in the state of Tachira, at Coro and Masuro. Telegraphic communications between the capital and the disturbed points was interrupted but the Venezuelan foreign office claimed the revolutionists had been defeated by state troops at all points. The president had been granted dictatorial powers, it was said, and men were being impressed for military service.

Represented by Clerk. The United States government is represented in Venezuela at present only by a legation clerk, Richard J. Biggs. Minister Northcott resigned and left his post and Secretary Caffery moved to Washington attached to the state department. It was announced that a secretary would be rushed to Caracas to be followed by a regularly accredited minister as soon as one could be appointed and confirmed.

The state department today called upon the navy to look after American interests in Venezuelan waters and the gunboat Des Moines, now at Brunswick, Ga., was ordered to make the cruise. It is calculated that the gunboat can make the run to Lagunaira, the nearest point to Caracas, in about six days.

Hernandez at Capital. General Jose Manuel Hernandez, Venezuelan nationalist-liberal leader, now a political exile, arrived in Washington today and called upon Secretary of State Bryan, of the navy. His call was unofficial and after a brief visit with Mr. Roosevelt, he went to the state department to pay his respects to Secretary Bryan.

The Venezuelan exile, popularly known as "El Mocho," is opposed both to Castro and to President Gomez, against whose government he has long agitated. He declared his present attitude was one of observation, and that he believed both Gomez and Castro were destined to political retirement.

Castro, whose whereabouts hitherto have been indefinite, has landed at Coro, in the Gulf of Venezuela. This information was cabled to the state department today by American Consul Thomas A. Vetter, at La Guaira, the port of Caracas.

The cruiser Des Moines is being held at Brunswick, Ga., in readiness to sail today for Venezuela. She probably will put in at La Guaira, to look after American and their interests.

Gomez Made Dictator. Caracas, Venezuela, August 1.—In consequence of the outbreak of the revolution in Venezuela and the invasion of the country for forces under the leadership of former President Castro, the federal council today constitutionally authorized President Juan Vicente Gomez to assume dictatorial powers until the movement is crushed.

President Gomez on Wednesday night sent the following telegram to the governors of all the Venezuelan states: "General Cipriano Castro, impelled by an ambition to assume the power, has provoked a revolution in this republic by ordering his partisans to arm themselves against the constitutional government.

"Already rebel forces in several localities have disturbed the public order. It is necessary for you to be alert and to act rapidly and energetically in assisting the government to crush the rebels.

Witnesses Called to Stand to Testify Against Frank

AMBASSADOR WILSON'S REPORT CONTRADICTED

State Department Has Information at Variance With His Description of Conditions.

Washington, August 1.—Developments in the Mexican situation today were confined to efforts on the part of the administration to prevent unnecessary agitation over the revolution.

So far as the United States is informed, both federal and constitutionalists are complying with the desire of the American government for the protection of foreigners and their property and there is a hopeful feeling manifest in official circles that efforts of influential Mexicans to bring about peace may be successful.

In the meantime President Wilson and his advisers are opposed to any attempt to force the American government into any hasty declaration of policy. Secretary Bryan promptly denied today a story that European governments are pressing the United States.

Recital of Conditions. On authority of the president himself it is known that the only documents from foreign powers to the United States on the subject in recent months were those transmitted when the diplomatic representatives in Mexico City recently gave a description of conditions in the republic to their home governments with the request that the information be conveyed to the United States. The president has told inquirers within the last 24 hours that in no case was there any suggestion or intimation of action desired, but merely a recital of conditions.

To prevent any aggravation of the situation, which, in the view of officials here, is slowly adjusting itself, the administration does not look favorably on the proposal to have Ambassador Wilson appear before the house committee on foreign affairs. Administration officials did not think it compatible with the public interest to have Ambassador Wilson appear before the senate committee on foreign relations, not because they hesitated to submit reports he had made, but because the feeling is growing among them that he is a factor in promoting objectionable discussion in Mexico.

Wilson Report Contradicted. The ambassador is known to hold views at variance with those of the president and Secretary Bryan and it is said on good authority that information in possession of the state department contradicting in many essentials the reports of Ambassador Wilson. For this reason it is believed that when Chairman Flood, of the house committee on foreign affairs, consults the president or Secretary Bryan about summoning the ambassador before the committee he will be informed that while no objection exists to the idea of allowing the house committee the same information which the ambassador gave the senate committee, the administration is strongly desirous not to agitate the situation further, especially since Mr. Wilson is not likely to go back to Mexico as the American ambassador.

News was scant in Mexican circles about the progress of the peace suggestion that are passing to and fro between some of the leaders of the two factions in Mexico. The most significant development was the frequent use of the name of Miguel Covarrubias, at present Mexican minister to Russia, for provisional president. Covarrubias is an appointee of the Huerta administration, but is not affiliated with any faction in Mexico. He would satisfy the constitutionalists, who say their only desire is to have a provisional president chosen to succeed Huerta, who would conduct a free and honest election.

SALOON MEN LOSE IN MACON COURT

Prohibitionists Claim That the Decision Means the Death Knell of Near Beer Saloons in Georgia.

Macon, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—According to Macon prohibitionists, Judge H. A. Mathews, of the Bibb superior court, this afternoon sounded the death knell of the near beer saloons and blind tigers in Georgia when he granted a permanent injunction against the saloon of Ed Cassidy on Cotton avenue. After a hearing, which lasted all day, on a petition brought by the Law Enforcement League of Macon, and signed by fifty persons, Judge Mathews held that the saloon of Cassidy was a public nuisance and ordered the place closed.

The judge refused to grant a supercedas until the case can be passed on by the supreme court.

The decision is claimed to be of far-reaching importance as regards the prohibition law in Georgia, for if the supreme court sustains Judge Mathews, the Macon Law Enforcement League will bring similar proceedings against every saloon in the city, and it is said to be the intention to wage the same kind of a campaign throughout the entire state.

Saloon Men Downcast. There is no denying the fact that the saloon men of Macon are considerably downcast over the decision of Judge Mathews. But they are prepared to fight to the last and for that purpose have formed an association with which to provide funds to carry on the fight.

Similar cases to that of Cassidy are now pending against Charles Bekakes, of 212 West on Columbus street, and Tony Cutro, a locker club proprietor. These cases, however, along with charges of contempt of court for alleged violation of the temporary restraining order granted some time ago by Judge Mathews have gone over to September 5.

The Law Enforcement league was represented in the hearing today by Attorney R. D. Feagin, while Attorneys John R. Cooper, Joe Hill Hall and Sam B. Hunter represented Cassidy.

Attorney Feagin did not have much trouble in proving that while he had been sold at the place of Cassidy and introduced several witnesses to prove it. The chief witness was Bud Allen, of Forsyth who had been employed by the league to secure the necessary evidence. R. F. Wigham and H. W. Eilkins both testified that they had seen sales of whisky made at the Cassidy place.

No Witnesses for Defense. The defense introduced no testimony, but in the arguments by Attorneys Cooper and Hill it was contended that the proceedings were irregular in that they were not brought through the solicitor general's office.

Attorney Cooper declared that if all the saloons in Georgia are closed up it will mean a loss in revenue to the state of $300,000 annually and it will be necessary to call a special session of the legislature to devise means of raising money to defray the expense of the state. He said it means the throwing of 11,000 people out of employment and in Macon alone it will shut down close to 100 places of business. He pleaded against the mixing of the affairs of church and state and declared the solicitor general to be an able man and able to enforce the law without the aid of Dr. W. N. Alsworth and Dr. John L. White, local clergymen.

Bees Cause Runaway. Upper Sandusky, Ohio, August 1.—James McClain, a farmer, was badly injured when his team of horses ran away when moving. Stings from angry bees caused the horses to run away.

FATE OF MRS. HAWKINS IS NOW WITH THE JURY

Love Letters From Jim Cantrell to Wife of Murdered Man Are Read in Court.

Constitution, Ga., August 1.—(Special.)—The trial of Silvia Hawkins, the widowed mother of three little children of Arthur Hawkins, who was murdered by Bartow Cantrell at the instigation of his brother, Jim Cantrell, continued through today. At a late hour tonight the jury is still out.

She made a statement of over an hour's duration, in which she denied any knowledge of the crime and of any part which she is said to have played in it.

The state introduced a batch of letters from Silvia Hawkins to Jim Cantrell showing by insinuation the close relations between the two. These letters, besides being very mushy, were funny in their coolness. Several rhymes were included, one of which is "As shore as the vine grows round the pine, I'll be your'n if you'll be mine."

Colonel William Johnson opened the arguments for the defense. Colonel McKilian spoke for two hours and fifteen minutes for the state. Colonel Ben Gaillard, in one of the most impassioned speeches ever heard in the courthouse, addressed the jury in defense of the woman. Colonel Johnson criticized the state's arguments in obtaining confessions and evidence, and Colonel McKilian answered his remarks in a complete exoneration of the state's officials.

REGIMENT TRAMPLES UPON AMERICAN FLAG

Saskatoon, Sask., August 1.—A member of the Saskatoon militia was today tried by court-martial and discharged from his regiment for trampling an American flag under his feet during a parade last night. Members of the regiment threatened to resign if the dismissal of their comrade was allowed to stand, and the offender at once was reinstated.

When the One Hundredth and Fifth Fusiliers were marching down the city's Bowyer street a girl in an automobile waived an American flag in front of one of the members of the bugle band. A man broke ranks, caught the flag and trampled it under his feet, most of the regiment passing over it also.

FALLS AGAINST SAW AND IS CUT IN TWO

DeFuniak, Fla., August 1.—Walter Bowers, superintendent of a sawmill of Quite Terwin, and one of the best known citizens in Walton county, met a terrible death here today by falling against a rapidly revolving saw. He fell with his back against the saw and his body was ripped to the breast bone.

Besides being superintendent of the mill, Bowers was extensively engaged in cattle and sheep raising in Walton county.

BANKERS TO FORM ADVISORY BOARD

Amendment Made to Currency Bill as Result of Protest Against Government Control of Reserve Board.

Washington, August 1.—Consideration of the American currency bill was practically concluded tonight by the democrats of the house banking and currency committee after more than five weeks of constant and stormy discussion. The bill was ordered closed and reported, and Monday the democratic committee members will take a formal vote on recommending the measure to the democratic caucus. It will go to the caucus with the disappearance of at least three members of the committee, it was virtually certain tonight.

As closed tonight the bill differs little in its essentials from the administration measure framed by Representative Glass, Chairman Owen, of the senate committee, and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and approved by President Wilson. Complete government control of the federal reserve fund, which will direct the new banking and currency system, deemed by the president the all-important factor of the bill, was retained. At the eleventh hour democratic members of the committee incorporated an amendment providing for an advisory board of bankers to "advise" the federal reserve board. This amendment was in the nature of a compromise with the banking interests which protested vigorously against the exclusively governmental feature of the control of the board.

Redeem Section Altered. Another important amendment incorporated in the bill altered the redeem section conferring the power to require federal reserve banks mutually to redeem paper. A change was made in the division of the earnings of the federal reserve banks created by the law. Originally the banks were allowed a yearly cumulative dividend of 5 per cent and a surplus equal to 20 per cent of the paid-in capital stock. All earnings above these amounts reverted to the government.

As amended, the balance of earnings after the 5 per cent dividend and the 20 per cent surplus will be paid, 60 per cent to the government to be used as a sinking fund among the number of banks in proportion to their balances in the federal reserve bank concerned. In the reserve section the committee reduced the period during which a bank must hold a 25 per cent reserve against deposits, from 25 to 60 days. It finally passed, the reserve section requires that after a period of gradual changes the country banks must keep their 15 per cent reserves either in their own vaults or in the federal reserve bank of the district in which they are located.

Provision Struck Out. By a vote of 7 to 5 the conference today struck from the bill in provision previously ordered inserted, forbidding interlocking directorates between banks. It was stricken out on representations that the president believed it should be considered apart from general currency legislation.

The so-called insurgent amendments to the bill, providing for currency on warehouse receipts for cotton, corn and wheat, were voted down today by a viva voce vote with little discussion. Representative Bagudale, and Representative Henry, of Texas, will carry the fight for these amendments to the floor of the democratic caucus.

D. A. SHEEHAN SUCCUMBS TO HEAT IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., August 1.—This city had its first heat victim in many years today when Daniel A. Sheehan, age 36, died at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon of sunstroke. The temperature at the time was 95 degrees.

DR. H. F. HARRIS GIVES STARTLING EVIDENCE ABOUT TIME OF MURDER

Wound on Eye of Girl Victim of Pencil Factory Crime—Looked as if It Came From Blow of Fist, Secretary of State Board of Health Tells the Jurymen.

WHILE ON THE STAND DR. HARRIS COLLAPSES FROM RECENT ILLNESS

Frequent Clashes Take Place During Testimony of N. V. Darley, Assistant Superintendent of National Pencil Factory, Over the Alleged Nervousness of Frank.

Within three-quarters of an hour after she had eaten her frugal breakfast of cabbage and bread, Mary Phagan was dead.

This startling fact was brought out at Friday's session of the Leo M. Frank trial, when Dr. Roy Harris, secretary of the state board of health, took the stand to tell of the post-mortem examination he performed on the body of the child.

The time of the murder has always been a mooted question. When Dr. Harris made his declaration and exhibited a small bottle containing particles of cabbage, which had been taken from the stomach and which had not had time to digest, a thrill went through the court room.

As soon as Dr. Harris entered the court room during the afternoon session, the crowd seemed to sense the dramatic situation which was to follow.

It was pretty generally known that Dr. Harris had made an examination, but the result of this examination was not known.

When he came into the room, carrying a small physician's satchel and looking slightly pale from a three days' illness, all eyes were turned toward him.

What would he testify to? This was the question each asked his neighbor.

Dr. Harris briefly told of his medical experience and then proceeded to explain the details of his examination of the dead girl's body.

Cabbage Found In Stomach. He stated that he had found in the stomach of the girl particles of undigested cabbage and he exhibited a bottle containing them. He said in reply to a direct question that the condition of the cabbage showed she had met her death within a half to three-quarters of an hour after she had eaten this food. He also displayed a bottle of fluid taken an hour afterward from the stomach of a man who had eaten cabbage and bread. None of the cabbage was visible.

Dr. Harris was emphatic in his statement that Mary Phagan must have met her death from one-half to an hour after she had eaten.

He also described the wound on the dead girl's head, and said she must have been struck an upward blow. The blow on the eye, he said, looked as if it had been inflicted by a person's fist.

Commenting on the general condition of her body he said he could not tell whether she had been outraged, but there were evidences of violence indicating it.

Dr. Harris had been on the stand but a few moments when he was taken with a fainting spell and was compelled to leave the stand. The defense did not have an opportunity to cross-question him.

The state expressed satisfaction at the testimony of Dr. Harris, and Mr. Dorsey was particularly pleased. Speaking of the turn of affairs he said:

"It is perfectly plain sailing from now on. We have a mass of evidence and it is only a question of knitting it together."

Mrs. Coleman's Testimony. As soon as Dr. Harris had made his startling statement in regard to the time of Mary Phagan's death, the minds of those in the court room reverted to the testimony of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Coleman, who, earlier in the week, had told of the little girl having eaten cabbage for breakfast the morning before she was killed.

Frequent Clashes Occur. Frequent clashes took place between opposing counsel during the testimony of N. V. Darley, assistant superintendent of the National Pencil factory.

The point at issue was the nervousness of Frank on the morning following the murder. Darley testified that Frank was very nervous. On cross-examination he said he had seen him equally as nervous on two other occasions.

During the introduction of the time slips as evidence, Frank appeared to lose the calm which has been his marked characteristic during the trial. In fact, the long hours in court seem to be telling on him.

Arthur McKnight, husband of Minalta McKnight, and who made a sensational affidavit and afterward retracted it, and who cooks for the Franks, testified that on the day of the murder he was in the Frank kitchen; that he saw Frank come in from the dining room, but did not see him eat anything. He stated Frank spent several minutes in the room at the sideboard and then left the house, taking a car at Pulliam street and Georgia avenue.

Luther Rosser riddled McKnight's testimony and endeavored to show it was impossible for him to have seen from the kitchen into the dining room.

"What is your position with the company?" "I am general superintendent and director of the company."

"How long have you held that position?" "In Atlanta I have held that position since August 10, 1904. My place of business is at 27 to 41 South Forsyth street."

"About how many employees have you there?" "About 107 in that plant."

"Male or female?" "Male or female." "I guess there are a few more girls than boys."

"On Saturday, April 26, I will get you to state if that was a holiday with your company?" "Yes, sir, it was a holiday. The factory was shut down."

"Several People in Building." "Who was in that building during the day?" "Well, there were several people who come in during the morning."

"Was anyone in the office with you up to noon?" "Yes, sir, the office boy and a stenographer."

"What time did they leave?" "About 12 or a little after."

"Have you a day watchman there?" "Yes, sir."

"Was he on duty at 12 o'clock?" "No, sir, he left shortly before."

"Who came in after the stenographer and the office boy left?" "This is the girl, Mary Phagan, but at the time I didn't know that was her name. She came in between 12:05 and 12:10, maybe 12:07, to get her pay envelope, her salary."

Frank Pays Mary Phagan. "You said he?" "Yes, sir, and she went out of the office."

"What office was you in at that time?" "In the inner office at my desk, the furthest office to the left from the main office."

"Could you see the direction she went in when she left?" "No, sir, it was impossible."

"What was your impression?" "My impression was she just walked away. I didn't pay any particular attention."

"Do you keep the door locked downstairs?" "I didn't that morning, because the man who was coming in I locked it at 1:10 when I went to dinner."

"Was anyone else in that building?" "Yes, sir, Arthur White and Harry Denham. They were working on the machinery, doing repair work, work on the top floor of the building, which is the fourth floor, toward the rear, or about the middle of the building, but a little more to the rear."

"What kind of work were they doing?" "They were tightening up the belts; they are not machinists, one is a foreman in one department and the other is an assistant in another, and Denham was just assisting White, and Mrs. White, the wife of Arthur White, was also in the building. She left about 1 o'clock. I went up there and told them I was going to dinner, and they had to take out, and they said they had to take out, and they said until some time in the afternoon; and then I said, 'Mrs. White, you will have to go, for I am going to lock these boys in here.'"

Door Was Locked. "Can anyone from the inside open that door?" "Yes, sir, they can open the outside door, but not the inside door, which I locked."

"In going in the outside door, is there any way by which anyone could go in the basement from the trap-door?" "They would not necessarily have to go up the steps."

"No, sir; they couldn't get up there if I was out."

"You locked the outer door?" "Yes, sir, and I locked the inner door."

"What time did you get back?" "At 3 o'clock, maybe two or three minutes before, and I went to the office and took off my coat and then went upstairs to tell those boys I was back; and I couldn't find them at first, they were back in the dipping room, in the rear, and I said, 'Are you ready?' and they said, 'We are just ready,' and I said, 'All right, ring out when you go down, to let me know when you go out, and they rang out, and Arthur White came in the office and said, 'Mr. Frank, loan me $2, and I said, 'What's the matter? We just paid off,' and he said, 'My wife robbed me,' and I gave him $2 and he walked away, and the two of them walked out."

Newt Lee Arrives. "And you locked the doors behind them?" "I locked the outer door, when I am in there, there is no need of locking the inner door. There was only one person I was looking for to come in, and that was the night watchman."

"What time did he get there?" "I saw him twenty minutes to 4."

"Did you previously arranged for him to get there?" "Yes, sir. On Friday night I told him, after he got his money. I gave him the keys and I said, 'You had better come around early tomorrow, because I may go to the ball game,' and he came early because of that fact. I told him to be there by 4 o'clock, and he came twenty minutes to 4. I figured I would leave about 1, and would not come back, but it was so cold I came back to the factory as I usually do. He came in, and I said, 'Newt, you are early,' and he said, 'Yes, sir,' and he had a bag of bananas with him, and he offered me a banana. I didn't see them, but he offered me one, and I guess he had them. We have told him, once he gets in that building never to go out. I told him he could go out, but he got there so early, and I was going to be there. He came back about four minutes to 6; the reason I know that, I was putting the clock slips in, and the clock was right in front of me. I said, 'I will be ready in a minute,' and he went downstairs, and I came to the office and put on my coat and hat and followed him and went out."

Saw Newt and Gantt Talking. "Did you see anybody with him as you went out?" "Yes, sir; talking to him was J. M. Gantt, a man I had fired about two weeks previous."

"Did you have any talk with Gantt?" "Newt told me he wanted to go up to get a pair of shoes he left while he was working there, and Gantt said to me, 'Newt don't want me to go up, and I said, 'You can go with me, Mr. Frank,' and I said that's all right, go with him, Newt, and I went on home, and I got home about 8:25."

"Is there anything else that happened that afternoon?" "Yes, sir, that's all I know."

"You don't know what time Gantt come down after he went up?" "Oh, no; I saw him go in and I locked the door after him, but I didn't try them."

"Did you ask Newt?" "Yes, sir. I telephoned him. I tried to telephone him when I got home. He punches the clock at half hour intervals, and the clock and the phone is in the office, and I didn't get an answer, and at 7 o'clock I called him and asked him if Gantt got his shoes, and he said yes he got them, and I said is everything all right, and he said yes, and the next thing I knew they called me at 7:30 the next morning."

Did Lee Let People In? "Do you know whether your watchman, at any time, has been in the habit of letting people in there, any time?" "No, sir."

"Have you ever heard of it?" "No, sir."

"Did you ever have any trouble with any watchman about such as that?" "No, sir."

"Do you know whether any of your employees go there at night?" "Yes, sir. Gantt did when he was working there; he had a key and sometimes he would have some work done until I go out; I go out and come back, but he has come back before I left, but that is part of his duty."

"Did you take a bath yesterday or Saturday night?" "I did not Saturday night at home."

"Did you change your clothes?" "Yes, sir."

"The clothes that you changed are at home?" "Yes, sir; and this is the suit of clothes I was wearing Saturday. After I left the shop I went to Jacobs' pharmacy and bought a box of candy for my wife, and got home about 8:25."

Into a dark room, where they turned the light on and showed him the dead girl, and that he was nervous and wanted some coffee."

"What did he say breakfast would do for him?" "He said breakfast would keep him from being nervous."

"Did he get any breakfast?" "I don't know; I left him at 10 o'clock."

"Did you see Newt Lee at the time you saw Frank in the factory?" "Yes."

"Was Lee nervous or composed?" "The solicitor fired the above question at the witness as though seeking to show the jury that the man he charged with being guilty was nervous when I, the solicitor, and the innocent man was not."

"Lee seemed thoroughly composed," answered the witness.

"What was said in the basement?" "Something was said about the staple and Frank said that it would have been easy for anyone to have pulled out the staple. The staple looked to me like it had been pulled out before," the witness said.

"Did Frank suggest that the murderer had occurred in the basement?" "Yes."

"Repeat his words."

"I can't repeat the exact words, but I know he suggested that."

"Did he say anything later about being nervous or not?" "Monday afternoon he said that if he had had some breakfast that morning he would not have been so nervous."

"What brought up the talk?" "I don't remember what or who brought it up."

"How often did Frank try to explain his nervousness?" "Twice."

"On what subject did Frank seem to dwell the most, the murder or his nervousness?" "Yes."

Rosser Offers Objection. Rosser entered a strong objection to this question, claiming that the witness was not qualified to testify in view of Judge Roan's ruling that it could not be asked in that form.

"Well how often did he talk about the murder?" "On numerous occasions."

"On how many of Frank's body was shaking?" "His hands."

The solicitor then produced a former affidavit made by Darley, in which the man had said Frank was shaking all over.

After he had looked at it, Darley reiterated his statement that only Frank's hands were trembling.

"It's too much to say that a man's whole body is trembling; you can't walk," he pointed out.

"When were his hands trembling?" "As we started to go down the elevator to the basement he reached for the rope and both hands trembled," and here the witness held up both his own hands and shook them violently.

"Could Frank have nailed up the back door?" "I think so."

"What did you swear about this in your affidavit?" asked the solicitor.

"When you first saw the blood spots, who pointed them out to you?" "Quinn, Barrett and others."

"Were they hidden by white spots?" "Partially; not completely."

"In other words, the man who attempted to hide the spots left the spots and the attempt to hide them revealed," said Mr. Rosser.

"Did Barrett tell you he was working on the rewards?" "Mr. Dorsey objected to this question, and was sustained by Judge Roan."

"Did you ever see any blood around Mary Phagan's machine?" "No."

"Did you see Barrett find the pay envelope?" "No. I was at the other plant."

"What did most of the employees do with their pay envelopes?" "They came and take out the money."

"By looking at this envelope can you tell whether it ever had any money in it?" "No, there are no indications by which one can tell."

"Don't you find such envelopes all over the factory?" "Yes, even in the metal room."

"Liable to find them anywhere, aren't you?" "Yes."

"Nothing more common than pay envelopes?" "Yes."

"Were you present when Frank ran his finger down the time slip?" "Yes."

Falls to Identify Time Slip. Mr. Arnold then showed the witness the time slip which the defense claims is the one taken out of the clock that Sunday morning by Frank.

"Is this the one?" the attorney asked.

"I can't say that it is; they are all alike."

"Did you notice the absence of punches on it?" "No."

At this juncture M. Johnson, one of the jurors, stated that he desired some information about these time slips, and he and the witness examined it together, the factory man explaining to the juror the manner in which a record is kept on it of the time the punches are made and how the clock worked.

"I believe you saw the financial sheet Sunday morning?" "Yes."

"It is all in Franks handwriting?" "Yes."

Mr. Arnold then asked the witness to tell what the financial sheet showed and the state objected to this until the actual sheet should be brought into court.

"We are going to produce it," said Mr. Rosser. "Oh, yes; you needn't fear but what we'll bring that in all right," added Mr. Arnold.

"Why did you always want to look at that sheet on Saturday?" said Arnold.

"Because it always told what had been done during the past week, ending Thursday," said Darley.

"Was it always made up on Saturday afternoon?" "Yes."

"Takes an expert to get it up, too, doesn't it?" "Yes, it has not been got up since Mr. Frank left the factory."

A Laborious Task. Mr. Arnold produced the sheet and went into great detail as to each item on the sheet, proving by the writing that the task of making out this sheet was a laborious one, and one that required expert work and that it usually took from 3 to 5 or 6 o'clock for Frank to make it out.

"Could the sheet have been made out on that Saturday before 2 or 3 o'clock?" "I left there at 9:40 and he had not started on it then."

"How does Frank's handwriting on this sheet compare with his handwriting on similar sheets?" asked Mr. Arnold.

Mr. Dorsey objected to this, saying that Darley was no handwriting expert and that the best evidence would be to produce other sheets and let the jurors judge for themselves about the comparison.

Both Attorneys Arnold and Frank Hooper, for the state, and the Frank Hooper, for the state, joined in the protest on the question, to which his colleague, the solicitor, had objected.

Judge Roan held up the ruling, declaring that there was one point he wanted to decide upon and that if necessary Darley might be brought back to the stand.

Mr. Arnold then went back to the question of the financial sheet which Frank claims to have made up that Saturday afternoon before the murdered girl was found and had Darley show further what a task it was to prepare the statement.

"How many persons were in the factory that Sunday morning?" the cross-examiner then asked.

"About six or eight."

"Was any blood found there that morning?" "No; not that I know of."

"Was there any excitement?" "Yes."

"Were't you and the others excited?" "Yes."

Lawyers in Long Wrangle. Mr. Dorsey then objected to the testimony about others being excited and declared the only thing that this trial had to do about excitement was the question of whether or not the defendant was excited. Before he and the opposing attorneys got through the wrangle developed into something that was similar to a lawyer's argument to the jury in which he might justify his client's excitement on that occasion, while the state's attorneys were contending that it was only about Frank's excitement that there was any material evidence. Judge Roan held that the witness might be used to show that the occasion was an exciting one, but that he could not be used to show that others were excited.

Messrs. Arnold and Rosser repeatedly stated that they wished their protest against this to go on record.

"Were there any spots on the metal room floor?" asked Mr. Arnold, again taking up his questioning.

"Yes; varnish spots," replied the witness.

"Any red spots?"

"Yes; red and dark ones."

"How long have you worked in a factory?"

"Twenty-four years."

Blood Spot Frequent.

"Have you ever seen blood spots around where the employee work?"

"Yes, they are quite frequent."

"Why was the back door nailed up that Sunday morning?"

"Well, the factory could not be left unprotected."

"What colored suit did Frank have on that Saturday?"

"A brown one."

"Did he wear the same one Monday?"

"Yes; it looked like it."

"Well, the suit he wore Sunday was just his regular Sunday suit, wasn't it?"

"I don't know; it was a different suit."

"Did you see any scratches or bruises on Frank Sunday?"

"Never noticed any."

"Does the elevator make a noise when it runs?"

"Yes."

"Makes a bumping noise when it stops, too, doesn't it?"

"Yes, some."

"Is not the factory saw attached to the same motor as is the elevator?"

"Yes, it was when we went there. It was dirty, and it has always been so. In some places the dirt and grease is an inch thick and boxes are cluttered around on the floor."

Dark Around Elevator Shaft.

"Was it dark around the elevator shaft?"

"Yes, especially on cloudy days."

"Was April 26 cloudy? Didn't it rain on that day?"

"Yes, part of the time."

"Was it very dark on the second floor around the elevator shaft and near the clock?"

"Yes."

"Can the metal room door be locked?"

"No, there is no lock on it."

"Are there the large vats in the metal room?"

"Yes."

"Big enough to get a horse in?"

"Well, no, I won't say you could."

"Get a pony in there, then, couldn't you?"

"Well, I don't know. They were rather shallow."

"Well, how deep are they, about 3 feet, or a foot and a half?"

"About a foot and a half, I think."

"Is anybody supposed to be in the factory on Sunday?"

"No."

"Isn't there slack in the elevator rope?"

"Yes, some little slack."

"When Frank was gazed in his work at the factory wasn't he very intent on it?"

"Yes."

Frank Easily Excited.

"Have you ever seen him get excited when things went wrong?"

"Yes, never a day went by without his getting excited. I've seen him get excited frequently and I've seen him rub his hands together a thousand times, and one day when Sig Montag raised cane he became terribly excited."

"Were you as nervous as Frank?"

"No."

"When he got excited and worried he would call on you, wouldn't he?"

"Yes, frequently."

"Did Frank know many of the help?"

"Yes, he knew many of them."

Mr. Dorsey objected to the witness stating what was really something that was a state of Frank's own mind, and Judge Roan finally ruled that the witness might give his opinion.

"I don't know whether or not he knew Mary Phagan," the witness then declared.

"Did you know her?"

"I did not know the name, but if I had seen the girl on the street I would have known that she was one of the factory girls."

Darley then stated that pieces of paper similar to the part of a scratch pad found near the girl's body were commonly scattered around the building.

"Was the clock door unlocked that day?"

"Yes, the door was usually kept locked, but about that time the key was lost and the door was kept unlocked."

"Both you and Frank were mistaken that Sunday morning in thinking that the punches on the time slip were all right, were you not?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

Judge Roan then adjourned court for lunch.

Roan Reverses Decision.

At the beginning of the afternoon session Judge Roan reversed his decision in which he had sustained the state in their objection to testimony relative to the nervousness of others beside Frank being admitted.

He said:

"The defense can show the mental demeanor of any other person in the building. Relative to Darley's testimony of the handwriting, inasmuch as he is no expert, his statement will not be admitted without the comparison of the defendant."

The witness was then questioned by Attorney Arnold. After pointing out a number of stated discrepancies in the diagram presented by the state, he asked:

"Anybody on the third floor can see anyone coming from the metal room, can they not?"

"Yes."

"Have you seen Mr. Frank in a nervous condition on any previous occasion?"

"Once, when he saw a child run over by a trolley car on which he was riding. He was nervous throughout the day and couldn't work. On an occasion prior to that he and Sig Montag had had an argument on the office floor of the pencil factory, and following Mr. Frank was nervous the rest of the day."

"Did he use any remedy on day of the car accident?"

"Yes, spirits of ammonia."

Everybody Was Excited.

"Everybody at the pencil factory was excited on the morning the body was discovered, were they not?"

"Yes."

"Some manifested nervousness in some ways while others manifested in different ways?"

"Yes."

"Who were there?"

"Detectives Black and Starnes and Boots Rogers and others."

"Is there anything right about this diagram of the state's except a general view of things at the factory?"

"Yes."

"Isn't Frank's office a lot smaller than shown in the picture?"

"Yes."

"Does the picture show a bookcase in Frank's office?"

"No."

"Isn't there a case that hides part of the view from the office?"

"Yes."

"Isn't the picture misrepresent the office view?"

"Yes."

"Isn't it drawn adroitly with that view?"

"It seems so."

Objection Is Sustained.

Attorney Hooper's objection to rule out the word 'adroitly,' on the grounds that it was purely a conclusion, was sustained.

"The safe looks small in the diagram, when, in fact, it is larger than the door?"

"Yes."

"The diagram doesn't show a roll-top desk, two cabinets nor a wardrobe, does it?"

"No."

"That's not a very accurate picture, is it?"

"No."

Solicitor Dorsey took the witness.

"Did you observe the persons who were there at the factory the same time you observed Frank's department?"

"Not at those very special moments."

"Did you tremble when you called the door in the basement?"

"No."

"Is there generally any difference in a person's attitude?"

"No."

"Who were nervous?"

"Signes looked and spoke as though he was worried and excited."

"How do you know?"

"By his manner and words."

"Well, let's take up the next man."

"They all were officers."

Describe All Actions. Well, whether they were officers or not, you said they all were nervous. Now describe the actions of them all."

"I have explained all I know."

"Why did you notice Frank so much and fall on the others?"

"Because Frank was so much more nervous than all the others."

"Who else was nervous?"

"Mr. Holloway was shaky on Monday."

At this juncture the witness showed signs of anger. The solicitor asked him:

"Are you mad—do you mind my questions?"

"No."

Another question was asked:

"Who else was nervous?"

"Mr. Schiff was shaky and apparently nervous."

"Was anybody nervous on Tuesday?"

"Yes, Mr. Frank was when the extras came out that he was to be arrested."

"Who gets up the data for the financial sheet?"

"Mr. Schiff and others."

"Then all Frank has to do is to compile this data?"

"No, not know."

"Was New Lee nervous?"

"I never noticed."

"What did Frank state to you in reference to the clock slips?"

"Correct Up to 2:30 A. M."

"He said the slip of New Lee's was correct up until 2:30 o'clock a. m."

"What was the date of this slip?"

"I didn't notice."

"Where are the time slips kept?"

"In a desk, and later in a safe."

"Could there have been two slips punched by New Lee—were his slips ever in duplicate form?"

"Is there a keyhole?"

"Where is the nearest place to Frank's office that these yellow pads are kept?"

"In asking the question the solicitor held to view a yellow scratch pad containing slips of paper similar to the one of the mysterious murder missives found beside the girl's body."

"On second floor near the office, we gave you twenty or more of them—almost all we had."

"Is there a place to keep them in the basement?"

"No. They go down sometimes in the garbage."

"Is there any use for them on the first floor?"

"No, except on the office floor. They are often scattered around, now-ever."

"Where is the trash put when carried downstairs?"

"Near the boiler in the basement."

Looked Like She Was Crying.

"What was Miss Smith doing that Saturday morning when you walked downstairs with her?"

"She looked as though she was crying."

"How long have you and Frank worked together?"

"For two years."

"On the Tuesday following the Phagan tragedy did any woman become subject to an illness?"

"Yes, a Miss Ella Mac Flowers had a crying spell Tuesday."

"The whole factory was wrought up, wasn't it?"

"Yes, I had to let them go on Monday, and I often wished I had not let them go back to working during the whole week."

Starling Statements Made During Testimony of Dr. Harris

Making the startling declaration that Mary Phagan had been killed within thirty or forty-five minutes after she had eaten dinner, Dr. Roy F. Harris, state chemist, took the stand during the afternoon session yesterday.

It was Dr. Harris who made the autopsy upon the body when it was brought in Marietta on May 5. He brought with him into court specimens of predigested cabbage which had been removed from the slain girl's stomach.

Harris looked and spoke as though he was worried and excited.

"How do you know?"

"By his manner and words."

"Well, let's take up the next man."

"They all were officers."

HE IS PRESIDING IN FRANK TRIAL

Judge L. S. Roan.

Mrs. Maggie White, wife of John Arthur White, who was at work on the fourth floor of the National Pencil factory part of the day upon which Mary Phagan was killed, was the first witness the state called to the stand Thursday morning in the Frank trial.

The witness told of going to the factory twice on that day to see her husband, and of seeing Frank on both occasions, and also of seeing a negro lurking behind some boxes on the first floor.

"How long has your husband been working for the National Pencil factory?" Solicitor Hugh Dorsey asked after the usual questions as to her identity.

"About two years," she replied.

"Does he still work there?"

"Yes."

"Was he at the factory on April 26, and at what time?"

"Yes, he was there; I left home to go there about 7:30 in the morning. I saw him there when I first went there about 11:30, and when I came back at 12:30 he was still there."

"Who else did you see there?"

"Miss Corintha Hall, Mr. Frank, Miss Emma Freeman and two men whose names I do not know; all were in Mr. Frank's office when I first saw them."

"How long did you stay the first time?"

"About twenty minutes."

"Did you talk to Frank?"

"Yes; I asked to see my husband."

"What did he say?"

"He asked me if I were Mr. White's wife."

"What else did he say, if anything?"

"He said he thought as much as I looked like the Cambells. My father, E. S. Campbell, and my brother, Wade Campbell, both worked there," she explained.

"How long had they worked there?"

"About two years."

"What did Frank say after that?"

Saw Her Husband.

"He told Miss Freeman to go after Mr. White, and my husband came down to see me."

"Where did you see your husband?"

"On the second floor, near the foot of the stairs."

"How long did you talk to him?"

"About 13:30."

"What did you do then?"

"I went out."

"What time did you come back?"

"About 13:30."

"Why do you use the word 'about'?"

"Well, I looked at the clock and read the time as 12:30, but there might have been a minute's difference."

"Did you see Frank when you came back the second time?"

"Yes."

"What then?"

"He jumped when I went into his office and spoke to him."

"What did you do then?"

"I went upstairs to see my husband."

"Who was with him?"

"Harry Denham."

"Where were they?"

"On the fourth floor of the building, about middle way down."

"What were they doing?"

"Hammering on one of the machines."

"How many were using hammer?"

"One of them."

"Did you hear the hammering?"

"Yes."

"When?"

"As I got to the fourth floor."

"How loud was the noise?"

"Just like the sound of a hammer hitting a piece of iron."

"What did you ask Frank after he jumped?"

"I just asked if my husband and Mr. Denham had gone back to work, and he said they had."

Had to Repeat Question.

"How often did you ask him?"

"I asked him twice."

Negro Lurking in Factory Seen by Wife of Employee

"Why did you repeat the question?"

"Because he asked me to."

"Did you see Frank again that day?"

"Yes, he came up to the fourth floor."

"What did he come up there for?"

"He came up about 1 o'clock and told my husband that if I wanted to leave the building before 3 o'clock that I had better go then, as he was going out to lunch."

"What time did you leave?"

"It was about 1 o'clock."

"Do you think it was just before or just after one?"

"Just before one."

"How do you know?"

"I stayed there about a half hour, and then I was somewhere else at 1 o'clock."

"Where did you go?"

"I went to McDonald's furniture store on West Mitchell street, four or five blocks away."

"I got there a few minutes after 1."

"How much before 1 was it when you left the factory?"

"It was about 10 minutes to 1."

"Why did you leave?"

"Well, Mr. Frank said 'I'd better leave if I wanted to get out of the building before 3 o'clock.'"

"Did you see him again?"

Saw Frank in Office.

"Yes, when I came down I saw him sitting at the table in his office."

"Which office was he in?"

"His outer office."

"Didn't he said he was going as soon as he got his hat and coat?"

"Yes."

"Did you see anyone else?"

"Yes, I saw a negro behind some boxes as I came down the steps."

"Where and at what time was that?"

"It was on the first floor, close to the stairway that goes up to the second floor, and at about 10 minutes to 1."

Mrs. White then outlined, at the solicitor's request, upon the cross-section drawing, her movements on that day in the factory, and in doing so declared that her husband and Denham were nearer the front of the building than she had first thought.

Rosser Cross-Examines.

Mr. Rosser then took up the cross-examination for the defense. By a series of questions he made the witness declare that she was rather indefinite about the time on the various occasions of which she testified.

"Did anyone come upstairs where you were talking to your husband besides Mr. Frank?"

"Yes, Mrs. May Barrett and her daughter and Miss Hall and Miss Freeman."

"Who left first?"

"Mrs. Barrett and her daughter left and then the other two ladies."

"You went to the factory about 12:30 the second time?"

"Yes."

"Was Frank standing in front of the safe?"

"Yes."

"Was the safe door open?"

N. V. DARLEY, Assistant Superintendent of National Pencil Factory.

"Yes."

"How close were you when you spoke to him?"

"I came right into the office and spoke to him."

"Didn't you surprise him by speaking suddenly?"

"I don't think so."

"What happened then?"

"He told me to go up and see my husband."

"Did Frank say when he came up there that if you wanted to get out before 3 that you had better go pretty soon, as he was going in a few minutes?"

"Yes, that's about it."

The attorney for the defense was evidently trying to convince the jury that Frank had not been especially anxious to get the woman out of the building right away.

"As you got down the steps you saw a darkey there?"

"Yes."

"Between the foot of the stairway and the door?"

"Yes."

On his own blue print of the factory the defending attorney then had the witness point out her various movements that day in the factory building, and she was allowed to come off the stand after having been testifying for about half an hour.

SEC. M'ADOO PREPARING TO DISTRIBUTE HUGE SUM

$50,000,000 of Government Funds To Be Parceled Out According to Needs of Sections

Washington, August 1.—Secretary McAdoo today prepared to distribute twenty-five to fifty millions of dollars of government funds in the agricultural regions of the south and west. The secretary is collecting information as to the relative needs of each section where harvesting is now under way or soon to begin, and expects to have the money in the banks in ample time for the movement of crops. Treasury officials today were confident that the secretary's plan would be a powerful factor in averting or relieving the prospective tightness of money characteristics of the crop moving season.

Much interest was manifested in the secretary's declaration of willingness to receive prime commercial paper as security for the deposits. This innovation marks the government's first participation in the commercial market.

Policeman W. F. Anderson Tells Of New Lee's Telephone Call

W. F. Anderson, the policeman who answered the telephone when New Lee called police headquarters on the morning of the discovery and who went with the police squad to the scene, was next called to the stand.

"About 3 o'clock on the morning of April 26 where were you?" he was asked by the solicitor.

"At police headquarters."

"Did you have a telephone call about that time?"

"A man called from the National Pencil factory and said a woman had been killed. I asked was it a white woman or negro, and he answered that she was white."

"Upon arriving at the factory who did you try to telephone?"

"Called for Frank."

"Did you get him?"

"No."

"Did you get central?"

"Yes."

"How long did you continue to call?"

"Five minutes or more."

"Who else did you call?"

"Mr. Sellig and Mr. Montag."

"Did you get them?"

"Yes."

"Within what time?"

"Within a very short time."

"Did you make any other effort to get in communication with Frank?"

"Yes, about 4 o'clock, with still no success."

"Who was the first to get into the basement when your party first arrived?"

"We were all together—I think I was last."

"Describe the body's underclothing."

"It was dirty and soiled."

Attorney Rosser took the witness.

"Did you explain to Montag that a girl had been killed when you called him over the telephone?"

"Yes, and they said we would have to get Mr. Frank or Mr. Darley."

"What kind of lantern did New Lee have?"

"It was sooty and soiled."

Conduct Experiments.

"You stood in place from which Lee said he first saw the body, did you not?"

"Yes, we put a box with a sack over it and experimented. You could see the bulk of something in the spot in which the body lay."

"When the coroner's jury went down, didn't you take the lantern and say you didn't think you could see the body—didn't you say it?"

"I said I didn't think you could distinguish it as a body."

"Did you find any tracks in the basement?"

"Yes."

"Did you say that there were tracks all over the cellar?"

"Yes."

"Isn't that all you said?"

"I said, also, that there were tracks on the left hand side of the shaving room."

"Do you remember Frank's telephone number?"

"No."

THE SENATE'S OPPORTUNITY.

The house yesterday committed itself to a bare excuse for a tax equalization bill, and, strange to say, the substitute as passed secured an affirmative vote only by the aid of those who had been standing for genuine tax reform as represented in the bill of the ways and means committee.

It is true that county boards of equalization are created by the substitute. But even those boards are given very flimsy authority. The absence of a central authority, or balance wheel, means that eventually the counties now giving in returns at a rate that most nearly approaches the real value of property will cease to do so.

The one redeeming feature of the house's action is that the poor and evasive measure it did pass keeps the issue alive and carries it to the senate, which appears to have the courage and the patriotism to enact a real tax equalization measure.

The finance committee of the senate has already given evidence of its nerve in grappling with the crisis, in its action in knocking $250,000 from the house appropriations bill. That is precisely the excess of house appropriations over current revenue. The senate recognizes the principle that it is as dishonest for a state to spend more than it takes in as it is for an individual to do so.

state to the construction of a home for, upward girls are hoping, with the cooperation of Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the house appropriations committee, to enact it in such shape as will at least enable the institution to get a start this year.

Chairman Wheatley knew that if the bill came to a vote under these conditions, and carrying a large appropriation, it would be defeated. Being heartily in sympathy with its principle, he saved the bill by having it tabled. It is now proposed to take the bill from the table next Tuesday and pass it with this amendment—that the state appropriate this year a nominal sum only, anywhere from $500 to $1,000, so that the institution may at once be gotten under way with the official indorsement of the state.

The compromise thus suggested has the approval of Chairman Wheatley and other members of the committee and subcommittee. It should appeal successfully to the legislature. As to the merits of the movement, The Constitution need add little to the arguments it has already advanced in favor of the home. It is estimated that each year from ten to twelve girls in each county in Georgia are lost through the lack of such an institution. That one fact ought to render superfluous any elaborate plea in behalf of the home.

DISHONOR'S REWARD.

England and Germany have decided not to participate in the exposition to be held at San Francisco to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal. While no official explanation has been proffered, it is generally understood that both these powers are actuated by the position of the United States with regard to Panama canal tolls.

And England and Germany are thoroughly justified. They would cut pretty figures participating in an exposition to mark the opening of the canal when the United States has made the canal available to their ships only under conditions of outright national dishonor.

A few zealous persons in this country will, of course, proceed now to declare that Europe is taking this attitude to browbeat us into repealing that clause in the Panama canal act which exempts our own coastwise vessels from tolls.

It should be inhumane to the man who is sincere with himself whether the action of England and Germany is a bluff or put forward seriously. The main thing is that the repudiation of a solemn compact by a great nation has brought its inevitable consequences in retaliation. And the comparatively trifling loss of these foreign exhibitors, and the larger loss which may result from a trade war, are the smaller considerations. It is the stultification and shame of repudiation that should make every American with the slightest sense of honor wince for the wound to his country's reputation.

We committed ourselves to this blunder in haste and impulse. Regardless of the motive of England and Germany in the present instance, we should lose no time in receding.

But let 'em keep the offices, an' leave me out of the thing; You'll never catch a Billville gent a-bowin' to a king; I'll keep a-writin' 'til my chure an' snap my thumbs at Care; 'Till with all the offices, I don't want one nowhere!

O'Cowley, Duke of Wellington. (Mora M. Campbell, in The New York Sun.) English works on the battle of Waterloo savs our correspondent, H. J. Jackson, are worthless owing to the inability of the English to admit certain facts. I wonder how many of them contain the admission that the proper name of the Duke of Wellington was not Wellesley, but O'Cowley. The family of O'Cowley, to which he belonged, was a branch of the family of the O'Hara, Lord of Tuircree and northern Clanaboy. It was his grandfather, Richard O'Cowley, first Lord Mornington (died 1758), who changed his name to Wesley or Wellesley on succeeding to the estates of Garrett Wesley, the son of his father's sister.

The second Duke of Wellington, the son of the first, wrote to Dr. O'Hart, author of the celebrated work on "Irish Pedigrees," that if his father had been called by his ancient Irish name he would in all probability never have become the Duke of Wellington. To this anti-Irish feeling the duke referred or deferred, but does not constitute a "to be born in" as the weakly insinuating theory that although he was born in Ireland of an Irishman. The name of the family he might not be an Irishman.

MAKING A CHANGE.

"I've cut out all kinds of meat from my bill of fare this summer," remarked the reformed merchant, "and I feel a whole lot better." "Of course, you do," replied the hotel-keeper. "And you'd feel a whole lot better if you cut out vegetables and ate nothing but meat. Any change will make you go ten years younger, if you have a whole lot around telling people about it. Old Quack-bush was in here this morning saying that he hasn't swallowed anything but butter-milk in three weeks, and he felt so good he wanted me to go into the alley, so he could show me what he'd do to the white horses if he ever got them in the ring, buttermilk gone old chump had to swallow, but milk and keep the fact to yourself, but he sick in the hospital for twenty-four hours, but he has no law against talking people's arms off, so he feels ever so much better."

"It isn't what you eat or don't eat that makes you feel better; it's this thing, of going around telling windy stories that does it. That's at the bottom of it, not because they live on rain-water, but because it gives them something to talk about until their hair falls out. In the last two or three days I've heard you tell a dozen men that you had not eaten an ounce of meat now for a year, and I noticed that every one of your victims yawned at the top of his voice and took the first opportunity to make a snook. You talk in such a superior way, as though there's something particularly virtuous in doing without meat, that you make everybody snicker and tired, and one of these days congress will pick up a chair and put you on the head with it."

"The desire for notoriety is the mainspring of most human actions, doggone it. One man heads himself up in a barrel and goes over Niagara Falls, and he bobs his whole countenance with a new freak comes along and he sees him an' also ran. I have some respect for that sort of man, for he takes his chances. But I haven't much respect for the citizen who tries to attract attention by living on sawdust, or for the man who writes a patent medicine advertisement in order to get his picture in a holiday assortment of magazines for a good many years, and always discovering some new and remarkable remedy. For a while he was boosting Dr. Billedad's syrup of wild onions as the greatest thing that ever happened. He carried a bottle around in his pistol pocket and urged his friends to take a snifter. He insisted that Dr. Billedad should be president of the United States and that congress ought to pass a law requiring every citizen to consume at least a gallon of the syrup every day. After a while the exasperated people began to tell him that if he didn't quit yawning about Dr. Billedad and his dog's syrup, they'd forget he was an invalid and deface the landscape with him."

"So he had to hunt up a new topic, and he began explaining that he was mistaken about the syrup after all. It was greatly overestimated. At last he found Dr. Playfair's real thing, however. It was made of dandelions and bull-compound, and he was happy unless he was told how much the compound (unction) had done for him, and on several occasions he had to push him out of this hotel to keep the guests from rioting. It was along that line that he got into a little meddlesome for months. He'd talk up one medicine until he was sick of his discourse any longer, wouldn't stand for his discourse any longer, and then he'd take up another, and every one was better than the last, and none of them was any good."

"Why should a man who is supposed to be sane conduct himself in this way? He has plenty of brains, and he has a vellely actress who carefully arranges to have her plate glass jewelry stolen. He can't talk along on a subject where he couldn't talk people to death, he'd never think of taking patent medicines or going without meat."

The Lyttelton Ghost.

The story of the Lyttelton ghost is one of the best of English family legends. Thomas Lord Lyttelton dreamed one night that a bird flew into his room, which changed into a woman in white, "and he prepared to die. "It hops out soon," she said, "no in three months." "Yes, in three days," replied the spectre. He told of the dream at breakfast next morning (Thursday, November 25, 1779). On Saturday he was in excellent health, and thought he would "blink the ghost." A few minutes before midnight on that day, just as he was undressing, he fell back dead.

They Sell 'Em Everywhere.

The Atholton Globe tells of a pathetic sight on Main street the other morning. An old and very poorly dressed colored woman was in a frenzy of grief, she was wringing and down the street moaning for something to her hands and searching for what her trouble was. When asked what her trouble was, she wailed that she had lost her "ticket to heaven." She explained that in her church each member who paid a certain sum of money was given such a ticket. This colored woman believed implicitly in the power of her ticket; in fact it represented a berth in heaven. She had paid for it with hours of back-breaking labor.

You're a Crook.

(From Leslie's Weekly.) When your business is successful and the men are all well paid, And they're all working overtime to keep up with the trade, And the workmen are happy and their families as well, And everything is prosperous, as any one can tell, You're a Crook! By Jove! You're a Crook! If your dividends are goodly, in proportion to the wage, And things are going as they should, In this money-raised age, And effort's best rewarded, and you're doing right well, And nothing seems to be in sight to break upon the spell, You're a Crook! By Jove! You're a Crook!

THE AMERICAN INDIAN—OF WHAT RACE?

Ever since Columbus discovered America in 1492 an unsolved question of international interest has been the origin of the Indians? To which of the races do they belong, or are they a race of their own? From whence came the inhabitants of the new-found world? These inquiries have furnished the subject of many a ponderous volume with answers as varied as the questions.

Most authorities believe the misnamed red men of our western continent constitute just as distinct a sub-species to the human race as do the Africans or the Caucasians. But the problem of their origin remains unsolved, "it is almost certain," says one authority, "that no common origin for all of them can be assured." Another noted authority takes an entirely different view when he affirms that, "Indeed, it may be correctly said that no other race shows equally permanent and individual traits; because there is none that shows so little variation over such a wide area, exposed as it is to the extremes of tropical and Arctic environment."

The first writer referred to further states: "Falling accurate knowledge of the geological conditions existing in earlier epochs, the most probable sources of immigration were Asia by way of the northwest coast of North America, Europe by way of Greenland, and the general region of Polynesia by way of South America. There are correspondences in physical types and cultures which tend to support particularly the idea of Asiatic and Polynesian relations."

The second writer referred to takes an entirely different view, and says: "In cranial capacity, in color, hair, eyes, stature, muscular development and stability, there is very little difference to be noted among all the various races of Indians on the American continent, from the Eskimo to the extreme south."

Looking at the question from all points, it would appear the proper theory is that the American as an independent center of origin has much in its favor, and must be taken into account. Taking the Bible into the controversy, the story of the flood, etc., it is very difficult to offer any explanation of the existence of this phenomenal variety of red men as the inhabitants of the American continent.

A theory has been advanced also that the five different races of the world represent five simultaneous creations. We read:

Genesis, chapter 1, verse 27. "So God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them." The plural form is used in the first chapter and the singular form in the second chapter of Genesis. From the twentieth chapter of Genesis on the Old Testament is the continued history of one pair; the Adam and Eve; the man and the woman from whom our direct descent the Christ came. Sacred history notices other peoples and races of men, but the Adamic creation of man from Genesis to Revelation, is sufficient as a type for the purpose of God in the creation of man.

The theory of the simultaneous creation of the five races in no way conflicts with the sacred Scriptures. These five races, so the advocates of this theory affirm, have peopled the whole earth, each pair having been adapted to the "Garden" in which they were placed, and still further, they argue that no new race has been found to exist.

Men of all climes and countries are either of the Caucasian or white race, of the Malay or brown race, of the Ethiopian or black race; of the Mongolian or yellow race, and of the American or red race. The scientists who exploit this theory, therefore, dismiss as trifling all attempts to connect the horridness of the American whom we miscall Indians with any other race genetically.

The great search of these geneticists is now only to obtain a clue as to the antiquity of the red race. Philology is the strongest test of use in the classification of the race. It is upon philology that American ethnology is based. Eight distinct languages are traceable in North America and one hundred in South America.

Dr. Daniel G. Brinton, in his "Essay on Native Dialects," says: "The exceeding diversity of languages in America, and the many dialects into which they have split, are cogent proofs of the vast antiquity of the red race stretching back tens of thousands of years. Nothing else can explain its multitudinous forms of speech. But underlying all these various forms of speech, there are some roots common to all, and never quite absent from any of them."

This, then, would appear to be strong proof that the red men are indigenous to America, and that all effort to find a foreign origin for them has thus far failed. But apparently the way of the scientific theorist is still more familiarly established theory of the unity of the human race, and some of the deepest thinkers of today are going back to the opinion of St. Paul and the first chapter of Genesis.

Lime Salts and Health.

(From The Indianapolis News.) The Berlin Klinische Wochenschrift, in an article on the influence of lime salts on the constitution and health, speaks of some physicians who are coming more and more to believe that the use of calcium (lime) in various forms is the keystone of individual hygiene. Remhardt, a German physician, quoted, says: "Neurasthenic, overworked and physically depressed persons are especially benefited by the use of lime salts. Show sufficient gratitude. They feel as if newly-born, full of the zest of life, stronger and more enduring than ever and twenty years younger." It is not improbable that there is here an overmeasure of enthusiasm. Many of the older physicians will remember Dr. Brown-Séquard and the wonderful things that were done by his discovery in making old folks young again. The melancholy Jacques observed that "from hour to hour we ripe and ripe and then from hour to hour we rot and rot"—the decay of the natural forces by age. This is as true today as it was in "As You Like It," in the forest of Arden.

Cape Henry Then and Now.

(From The New Press.) If John Smith and the other Jamestown colonists who went ashore at Cape Henry in 1607—their first landing on American soil—had been able to look ahead to the twentieth century the vision of a great fort there, occupying 300 acres, intended for the defense of a nation of 100,000,000 people which they were founding, would have entranced them.

But, if reports made to the fortification commission by the House of Representatives in making it out as those first Americans were not more disconcerting than the efforts of real estate operators to "hold up" the government in its efforts to acquire the site for the fort.

We suspect that Captain Smith, if he had been called upon to deal with this modern hold-up, would submit to it than his men were to be made targets by Powhatan's cousins on that memorable day more than 300 years ago.

G. B. Shaw on Order.

(From London Life.) "I love order in all things," said George Bernard Shaw, at a public meeting some time ago. "For this reason I am not content with ordering my life; I also order my personality. I have cocoa colored hair, so I wear cocoa colored clothes and drink cocoa. Today has reached the position of becoming a public insect. For more than twenty years he has succeeded in fulfilling his boast that every day some leading paper would have something to say about him! George Bernard Shaw is the jester at the court of King Demos. When years ago he was appointed dramatic critic to a well-known journal he refused to do so, but he did not refuse to take up the duties of the stalls mustation in evening dress. The first night he was stopped at the door of a theater by an attendant. "What do you object to?" inquired Shaw. "My cocoa colored jacket," said the attendant. "Remove it," then, and the next critic. Shaw was striding up the aisle in his shirt sleeves. "That won't do, sir," shouted the attendant, running after him. "Won't do?" exclaimed Shaw, with a fine assumption of indignation. "Do you think I'm going to take off any more of my clothes? I am attendant handed, in my jacket and Shaw took his seat in the stalls triumphantly."

For Mademoiselle Sorel.

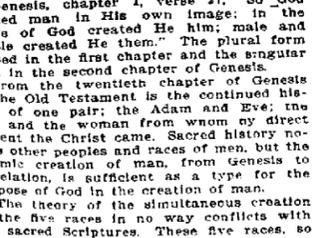

(From The Le Cri de Paris.) For whom is all this applause? For Mademoiselle Sorel, as she radiantly beautiful, who after the banquet of the people of letters, has just given us the "Advice of a Parisienne." Our most celebrated academicians, our ministers, our celebrities, gathered about her with their felicitations. Monsieur the Professor E. one of our most eminent surgeons was present at this triumph. He approached the charming comely hunchback tied today for you. He followed all your appearances, he adored you, wrote to you, sending you flowers. But he would never present himself to you. In spite of his advice he made me operate upon him, and this morning he died in my arms pronouncing your name."

A Hot Shot.

(From The Ogletrope Echo.) It is plain that a number of legislators do not want equalization of taxation. They want to draw their full per diem, but would have other tax-payers to contribute more than a just proportion to its payment.

Why He's "Agin 'Em."

(From The Monroe Advertiser.) We're against the silhouettes and the slit skirts. We believe in leaving something to the imagination.

"The tourist gives up in despair and goes home."

TACOMA, WASH.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Sivvash."

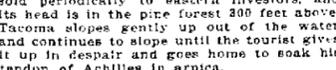

Tacoma, Wash., is not an exhortation to wrap up a bath and carry it to your residence. It may sound that way, but it refers to one of the most irrepressible and uncontrollable cities on the Pacific slope—Tacoma, once the rival of Seattle and, according to the Tacoma papers, tomorrow the rival of Chicago.

Tacoma is situated on one of the many vermiform appendices of Puget sound. Its feet are buried in the mud flats, which are held periodically to eastern investors, and its head is in the pine woods, 200 feet above the Tacoma slopes, gently up out of the water and continues to stoop until the tourist gives it up in despair and goes home to soak his tendon of Achilles in arnica.

Tacoma is situated on three great trans-continental railroad lines and all trains stop there. Most of them not only stop there, but disintegrate and go no further. Steamships from a hundred ports toot their way up the sound to Tacoma and every year a whole pine forest comes down to the city and is shipped for foreign parts.

Tacoma was first thought of in 1852, and seven years later it had 23,000 people, most of whom lived in pine houses. Tacoma was first modeled in pine like Portland, but has since been built in brick and stone. From 1890 to 1900 Tacoma enjoyed a long refreshing nap while Seattle, amazed away with great energy and assumed a commanding lead which still makes the Tacoman mad when he discusses it. By 1900 Tacoma had only gained 1,700 additional citizens. Since then it has grown with great fury and now contains 35,000 people, 54,000 of whom will still total stranger a building lot if urged a little.

Tacoma is smaller than Seattle or Portland, but is much fiercer than either. Police regulations forbid discussions of the two cities by Tacomans and Seattle men. The city is remarkably healthy, practically the only occupants of the cemeteries being travelers who have come to town and have incautiously alluded to Mount Tacoma as "Mt. Rainier." Tacoma, like other western cities, is up-to-date, and has the commission form of government, including a recall clause. Tacoma's greatest ambition is to recall Seattle to about 150,000 population and then pass her in the next census.

Long Literary Life.

(From The London Chronicle.) It would be hard to parallel the achievements of M. Francois Peritault, the latest Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, who published his first volume in 1830, when he was 17, and his latest in 1912. There appear to be only two other instances of a centenarian writer, and neither of these could show a literary life extending over eighty-two years. Michel Chevreul, who died in 1881 at the age of 103, issued his earliest publication at the age of 37 and his latest sixty years afterward. Miss Caroline White, whose death occurred last September in her 101st year, came nearer than this to the record of M. Peritault. She began writing for the monthly magazines when she was 23 and continued her literary labors until within a few months of her death.

Schoolhouse With Playground Inside.

(From The Popular Mechanics Magazine.) Surrounding the lot upon which it stands the school building on Wadsworth street, Los Angeles, is a new departure in educational structures. Instead of having its playground outside of the building, it is a large court formed by the walls. Many advantages are claimed for the novel design. The building is easily emptied in case of fire, being only one story high, and each classroom having direct exit to the street. Each room receives light and air from two sides.

Husband of Minola McKnight Describes Movements of Frank

Albert McKnight, colored, the husband of Minola McKnight, who made a startling affidavit for the police in regard to circumstances at the Frank home on the night of the murder, followed February to the stand.

"What is your wife's name?" the solicitor asked.

"Minola McKnight."

"What does she do?"

"Cooks at Mrs. Selig's home."

"How long has she held that place?"

"For two years."

"Where were you about 1 o'clock on the afternoon of April 25?"

"I was at Mr. Frank's home."

"The Franks have been living with the Seligs, Mrs. Frank's parents?"

"Did you see Frank?"

"Yes."

"What did he do?"

"He went to the sideboard and then went out. The sideboard is in the dining room."

"How long did he stay at home?"

"Five or ten minutes."

Rosser began questioning the negro.

"Who was at home when Frank arrived?"

"Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Selig."

"Where were you?"

"In the kitchen."

"How could you see into the dining room?"

"The door was open."

"Do you know positively that he ate nothing?"

"Yes."

"Doesn't the door stay closed?"

"Sometimes."

"How could you see into the entire dining room?"

"I could look into a mirror in the dining room."

"How long is the dining room?"

"I couldn't tell."

Sketch Drawn by Prisoner.

Frank, at this point of the negro's testimony, drew a sketch to illustrate the position of the dining room and kitchen. McKnight explained by aid of the drawing how he could see into the dining room.

"You haven't got a curve in your eye, have you? You can't look a curve, can you?" Rosser asked.

Witness did not answer.

"You say Frank went to the sideboard then back to town?"

"Yes."

"You couldn't tell what he did at the sideboard?"

"No."

"Who talked to you at the station?"

"Mr. Lanford, Mr. Starnes, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Dorsey."

"That's the day Dorsey sent Minola to jail, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Did you go to see Minola in jail?"

"No."

"Never?"

"No, sir."

"When you got to Frank's home, Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Selig were there, weren't they?"

"I heard them talking."

"You followed Frank from the house, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Where did he go?"

"Took Street Car to Town."

"He got on a Georgia avenue car at Pulliam street?"

"Yes, sure."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, sir."

Dorsey began questioning here.

"What street is the Frank home on?"

"Georgia avenue."

"Upon leaving his home, what did Frank do?"

"Came out of the front door and walked up Georgia avenue to Pulliam street, where he caught a car."

"Which was nearer for him to have caught a car, at Pulliam street or Washington street?"

"Both are about the same."

"He was then called from the stand."

Humor-Pathos-Tragedy In the Quickly Changing Kaleidoscope of the Frank Trial

By Britt Craig.

The Leo Frank trial is a clearing-house of human emotions. If you don't know what a clearinghouse of human emotions is, go into the courtroom and sit awhile. That is, if you can get in. A good many haven't been able to. Yet, on the other hand, a good many have.

They say that humor and pathos go hand in hand. Down there at Pryor and Hunter streets, right across from the spot where the magnificent new temple of justice is mounting higher and higher every day, they go with locked arms. Tragedy walks between in what little space is left.

A person with just a little imagination and an ordinary hearing apparatus can sit in the courtroom and enjoy a performance that includes farce, comedy and tragedy and most anything else that is included in the list of human feelings.

It's a pity the place isn't large enough to accommodate everybody.

A Self-Appointed "Sob" Sister.

A slight little woman, as pretty as a picture, came into the courtroom the other day at an afternoon session. She carried a heavy notebook under her arm and had to push her way as she wedged in between one man here and another there.

She eventually reached the press table. A number of reporters were bumming cigarettes from Florine Miner and sending notes to Chief Lanford, jokingly asking if he would deny the report that he had died that morning. There was an empty seat, and therein she reposed herself and notebook with an air of "Well, here I am, thank goodness."

A reporter who had an eye for beauty as well as an insatiable curiosity, quired:

"What paper are you with?"

"I'm not on any paper, thank you. I'm a sub-sister."

"A what?"

"Oh, a sub-sister. Don't you know what they are?"

"Yes, but they work on papers like other ordinary reporters."

"Are you a free-lance?"

"What is the job of sub-sisters?"

"They write stories with tears in 'em and make folks cry and weep and pull at their heart strings."

The press table grouped their heads and said that no sub-sister who ever admitted she was a sub-sister ever would be. So, they concluded that she was a rank impostor, making no difference how pretty she was, or how willing she was to admit that she belonged to somebody's sub-sister.

"We don't allow any free-lances at this table," said Deputy Sheriff Miner. "If you're on no particular paper, you'll have to move."

"Very well, then," she answered. "If it'll suit you, I'm on the Fulton County Daily Report."

She sat.

talked interestedly for several moments with Judge Roan.

Mr. Moore has made repeated and constant denial that he is in any manner associated with the defense in the Frank case. The rumor has been in circulation some time, however, that he is a silent figure in movements of the defense.

Reserve Seats DuLuxe.

There are places and places from which one may be able to witness a big trial, but the bank gallery of a livery stable with only a bannister waiting for a seat is a point of vantage hitherto unheard of.

But many hitherto unheard of things have happened in the Frank trial.

At the Friday morning session someone happened to glance through a window directly behind the witness box. A few feet beyond, just across an alley, a long gallery of an adjoining livery stable was filled with men and women and girls. Many sat on the bannister railing, while others reposed on buggies and wagons and vehicle of all sorts.

A woman who was pretty enough to have wiled her way past the door-keeper of an executive session of the board of education, stood in the doorway to the kitchen of a Greek restaurant.

All these spectators were able to read the entire examination of witnesses and most of the arguments.

Agent Nervousness.

It was an interesting argument that followed Solicitor Dorsey's objection to E. L. Holloway's query put to M. B. Darley, regarding the nervous demeanor of others who were with Frank at the pencil factor on the morning of the body's discovery.

Attorney Arnold had asked Darley after Darley had stated that Frank was obviously nervous and trembling. If all others around the building were similarly affected.

"I object," interposed the solicitor, and the fireworks began.

"Some men," said Mr. Arnold, "display nervousness and some do not. It is all according to temperament. Some men are able to face a hailstorm of bullets while men drop, bloody and disfigured, all about them. Yet, there are plenty of us who quail at the sight of a corpse, and are completely unstrung at such a spectacle."

"The question of nervous deportment should have never been injected into this case. Some of the biggest rasps on earth car sit stolidly and never tremor, while a man of undisputed honesty will quake and tremble on examination."

The solicitor, after citing a ruling in the famous Woolfolk case, said briefly:

"It is absurd to throw out a drag-net and attempt to rope in everybody's temperament on the day of the tragedy—utterly absurd."

He was sustained.

Deputies as Censors.

The duties of a censor, which, heretofore, has been confined to moving pictures and bald-head-row stage performances, now apply to Atlanta's juryman, Deputy Sheriff Florine Miner, or whoever is deputizing the jury in the Frank case, has been assigned by Judge Roan to censor whatever mail the jurors desire to read during course of the case.

Not only that, but he has been ordered to censor the jury's literature. Friday afternoon at the close of the Friday session Judge Roan gave the juryman permission to read magazines and periodicals which the sheriff—or his deputy, or whoever is concerned in the matter—decided was fit reading matter.

Speculation is rife—whatever that happens to mean—over the kind of literature a sheriff or his deputy will select for a jury.

It will also, no doubt, be a very delicate job for the sheriff, or his deputy, to peruse some of the mail of the jurors.

Maybe, though, the situation can be solved, as has already been suggested, by swearing the deputy or the sheriff or whoever it is who has the censoring business on his hands to utter secrecy. Things are likely to develop—if not likely, liable—which needs secrecy, utter secrecy.

Lanford and the Press Stand.

Chief Newport A. Lanford, of the detective department, of police headquarters, has been an interesting figure in the Frank trial. Every day he sits just behind the table occupied by the state.

It was under his direction that much of the important evidence was gathered which is being produced by the solicitor. He was associated with the thirty degree and examinations to which Frank was subjected and those under which Jim Conley was put.

He is a large, striking looking man, very big and heavy and wears a moustache closely cropped, which is beginning to show gray at the edges. He is a thin observer of the proceedings, overlooks nothing and frequently makes suggestions to the solicitor.

During lulls in the trial he makes the occupants of the press table butts for his pointed jokes. He denies that the defense is planning to put him on the stand. When asked to verify the notion that the defense would use him he said:

"They'll quickly discover that they are resting under a decidedly grave misapprehension of the testimony I could give—it would be very hurtful to them."

A Touch of Tragedy.

The grim story of Mary Phagan's tragic and was brought forcibly to the attention of a crowded courtroom Friday afternoon when Dr. Roy F. Harris, state chemist, told on the stand of exhuming the body of Mary Phagan and of making minute examination of her corpse.

With a precision of the medical expert, he calmly related the story of the discolored eye, the wounds on the body and the gash in the head. He told of opening the skull to ascertain whether or not the blow had been sufficient to break and of examining the brain for hemorrhage.

There was not a sound from the hundreds, straining eyes and ears for fear one tiny detail would be lost. The room was hushed and stifling, and only the noise of the street was to be heard blending with the ceaseless buzzing of the oxonators and the electric fans. It was the most thrilling testimony of the day, and during its course many women arose and left their seats, hiding their faces and the crimson that spread to the cheeks with newspapers.

"There was a deep impression in the throat," said the medical expert. "It was made by a stout cord or twine. It was an eighth of an inch deep and fully that wide. Death, unquestionably, was from strangulation."

When the solicitor arose holding to view the wrapping cord which had

LOYAL CHINESE FORCE MARCHING ON CANTON

Immense Exodus From Threatened City and All Business Has Been Suspended.

Hongkong, China, August 1.—General Lung Chi-Kuang with a force of loyal troops from the province of Kwang-Si is marching on Canton after taking possession of Shuihung on the West river. An engagement is imminent between General Lung's army and troops dispatched from Canton by the governor general of Kwang-Tung.

General Kuang occupied the city of Shuihung on the West river and captured the gunboat Tai-Kong which was in the hands of the rebels. Communication with Shams-Hui has been cut and trains stopped. Troops have been hurried to oppose the advance of General Lung's forces but the city of Canton is panic-stricken. There is an immense exodus from the city and all business has been suspended.

been found around the neck of the body, and said:

"Could it have been inflicted by a cord this size? There were many shuders, especially from the girls and women."

As the witness gave his answer, his features whitened. He wavered and clutched the arms of the chair for support. He had almost collapsed, and could not resume his statement because of illness with which he had been confined to bed for three previous days.

HIS TESTIMONY ANGERED DORSEY

E. L. HOLLOWAY, Who, on Thursday, declared he had made a mistake when he signed affidavit that power box of elevator was closed on day of murder.

Stenographer Parry Identifies Notes Taken at Phagan Inquest

Stenographer Parry, the official court stenographer, was next called to the stand to identify a number of notes he took at the coroner's inquest held in police headquarters shortly after Frank's arrest.

He was asked by Solicitor Dorsey: "Did you report the coroner's inquest over the body of Mary Phagan?"

"Did you take a statement from Leo Frank?"

"Yes."

The solicitor showed the stenographer's notes.

"Is that your report?"

"Yes."

"Is it correct?"

"It is correct to the best of my ability."

"You are an expert?"

"I am a man of twenty-five years' experience."

Attorney Rosser took the examination: "Look at Lee's testimony. Did you take it down correctly?"

"To the best of my ability."

"I don't want to know your ability. I want to know if it was correct. Are you prepared to say whatever you took down is correct or not?"

"In the proper acceptance of the term it is correct."

He then identified an amount of Lee's testimony.

Women and Girls Thronging Court for Trial of Leo Frank

Fully one-fourth of the big audience at yesterday afternoon's session of the Frank trial was composed of women and girls. It was the largest crowd of the entire case, and, to the credit of Deputy Sheriff Miner and his force, was handled more effectively than at any preceding session.

There were many strange faces. The women sat in conspicuous seats, fighting many times to obtain a location in view of the witness stand and the tables at which sat the state's lawyers and counsel for the defense. Many were small girls, especially one, who did not look over 11, and who wore a big hat that covered a mass of brown curls.

There were all types of feminine auditor—the woman of social position and the working woman, most of the latter coming into the courtroom later in the afternoon when their working hours were at an end.

Gay Febuary Tells Frank Jury About Statement Prisoner Made

Gay C. Febuary, secretary to Chief Newport A. Lanford, of the detective bureau, and recent figure in the sensational dictagraph episode, was called to the stand to testify to a statement made by Leo Frank on April 26 in Chief Lanford's office.

It was during Febuary's testimony that Frank's statement was permitted to be produced before the jury. It was read by Attorney Stephens, an associate of Solicitor Dorsey.

Mr. Dorsey questioned Febuary: "You were present at Lanford's office when Frank and Luther Z. Rosser were there?"

"Yes."

"Do you remember having made stenographic report of a statement made by Frank?"

"Yes."

He was given the report for identification, which he established.

"What was Attorney Rosser doing during the time the statement was made?"

"Looking out of the window most of the time."

Mr. Rosser began the interrogation at this point.

"You haven't got a dictagraph with you, have you?" he asked sarcastically.

"No," was the answer.

"Lanford sent for you to make this statement, didn't he?"

"Yes."

"You are Lanford's private secretary?"

"Yes."

"He has been chief of police for years?"

"He has been chief of detectives."

"Chief of detectives, then, that's just as bad."

Here Rosser pointed to Lanford, sitting in a chair at the railing.

"That's he—my handsome friend over there."

Public Property Committee of Senate Will Probably Incorporate Best Features. Three resolutions providing for the exchange, sale or lease of the present governor's mansion are now pending before the committee on public property of the state senate. The resolution of Senator Peyton of the thirty first creating a commission of five members two from the senate and three from the house to negotiate for a suitable sale or exchange of the mansion which was reported unfavorably by the public property committee several days ago was re-committed Friday morning when Senator Peyton moved that the report of the committee be disagreed to. Senator B. S. Miller spoke in favor of the Peyton resolution on the grounds that it was the only one of the three which incorporated in it a section which required the commission to report to the legislature and receive its sanction before final consummation of any deal that might take place. Senator Miller stated that the upshot of the Watts resolution was only $400,000 valuation on the present property and that he had heard that already a half million has been offered for the property.

The resolution of Senator Turner which creates a commission to look into the expediency of disposing of the mansion differs from the Peyton resolution in that it gives the commission full power to consummate the deal without a report to the general assembly. This resolution as originally introduced created a commission of five members of the legislature but the author is going to present an amendment to the committee asking that his commission be in the hands of the senate and of the speaker of the house shall be members. Senator Turner states that he is merely anxious for action of some kind to be taken on the matter of disposing of the property as he deems it necessary that some provision be soon made for a new mansion. The committee on public property is practically unanimous in favoring the disposal of the mansion and the erection of a new one and in all probability will draft a substitute including features from each of the three resolutions of Senators Watts, Peyton and Turner.

GLASS FOR CREMATORY CAUSES ANOTHER CLASH A dispute between the construction department and the engineers of the Destructor company of New York over the quantity of glass to be used in the new $250,000 crematory now threatens another long drawn out fight in council. Engineer Karpman representing the city while the plant was being constructed ordered that the Destructor company put in polished plate glass. The specifications submitted by the city to the bidders stipulated that polished glass be used. W. E. Dowd sales manager of the company objected. He insisted that the company had the right to put in glass polished on one side. The difference is about $1,000. The Destructor company has asked to be allowed to make the change in the specifications. To compensate the city for the change the company has offered to turn over to the construction department a lot of material consisting of brick and clay electric lamps iron beams and timber estimated to be worth $85,000 according to the company's own figures. The city health board has acquiesced to the request of the Destructor company.

Lobbyist Worried in the Senate Probe When Questioned by Manufacturers' Lawyers

Washington August 1—Cross examination of Martin M. Mulhall, confessed lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, ended today before the senate lobby committee. Mulhall was excused until Monday and turned over to the house lobby committee. The senate committee will turn next week to the files of the National Association of Manufacturers and an examination of its officials. The senate lobby committee started out again today with another disagreement about the cross examination of Mulhall. After an executive session on the committee decided that the attorneys for the National Association of Manufacturers should have an additional two hours to examine the witnesses. The committee however put the questions. The lawyers began to direct the inquiry to the national council for industrial defense. Mulhall previously testified that a collector for that organization had told him it raised between $200,000 and $300,000 for lobby work. He stuck to his story that the organization was solely a paper one in which a few officials of the National Association of Manufacturers bore the name.

The lawyers worried Mulhall by asking him about a black list of congressmen put in the record two weeks ago. He could not explain the names of several republicans alleged to have been put on the list by the republican whip of the house. When the committee questioned Mulhall on claims in his letters about naming chairmen and committees and placing friendly congressmen the lawyers tried to pin him down to direct answers on how he expected to do these things. Mulhall said he was not clear about it now but thought Attorney Emery was to make the arrangements.

Apparent contradictions in Mulhall's testimony about an alleged offer for his letters by Samuel Gompers came up. Once he swore Gompers tried to get them from him. He finally testified that American Federation of Labor officials never offered him anything for the letters.

ORE TRAINS COLLIDE 2 KILLED, SEVERAL HURT

Duluth Minn August 1—Three laborers are known to have been killed and two were fatally injured four were badly hurt and a score more are unaccounted for as the result of a collision of ore trains at the Alhauze ore docks last night. Indignant over the accident 50 dock hands struck today. The accident is blamed to careless switching. A moving ore train ran into a standing train throwing the workmen into ore pockets and covering them with ore. All the ambulances in the city and a dozen motors were summoned. The dock managers ordered work resumed but the foremen refused. Special police then took charge of the docks. A number of boats loading will be delayed unless an agreement with the striking laborers is reached.

PROPOSES SUBSTITUTE FOR IMPEACHMENT TRIAL

Washington August 1—A constitutional amendment proposed in the house today by Representative Hull would provide that congress shall have the power to abolish any inferior court of the United States and remove a judge of any inferior court of the United States from office by resolution. It concurred in by two thirds of both houses. In a statement accompanying his report Hull said: "The ancient procedure of impeachment which has come down to us from another century is so complex, involved and cumbersome as to render it most expensive and difficult of utilization. It has become manifest that a simple substituted method of procedure should be made available."

ACTION POSTPONED ON COTTON FUTURES BILL

Washington August 1—Definite action on the Smith cotton futures bill was postponed by the senate committee on agriculture today after two hours debate until a meeting probably next week when a vote will be taken by the full committee on the advisability of approving the measure. Senator Randall of Louisiana led the attack on the bill in committee. He was supported by one or two other senators. The bill is originally drafted by Senator Smith of South Carolina and led to the delivery of cotton within a grade of the grade sold. It was amended in subcommittee so as to require the delivery of the exact grade. The New Orleans cotton exchange is said to be willing to cease opposition to the bill if a margin of two grades either way is allowed.

World Famous Preacher in Atlanta En Route to Cartersville Services.

Gipsy Smith, the world famous evangelist of Cambridge, England, who is now on his eleventh trip to America, arrived in Atlanta Friday. He will leave Saturday morning for Cartersville, Ga. where he will participate in the Sam Jones services which begin there Sunday. The great evangelist arrived in New York on the steamship Olympic last Wednesday. He was born in a tent of a roving gipsy band and lived under the green tent and blue sky until he was 17 years old. Today he is brown as a berry and as big and hale as if he had just come in from the roads that wind through the hills of England. With his swarthy face his great shock of black hair and his deep lustrous eyes he is almost surprised at first glance that he is not adorned with the red britches and the loose blouse of the gipsy in the movies. His manner is powerful though and bigness is once apparent and one is not greatly surprised that he has been the means of turning the courses of a thousand lives. Gipsy Smith was in Atlanta six years ago and spoke at a revival then.

'GIPSY' SMITH being conducted by Dr. Len G. Broughton. "I like Dr. Broughton," said Mr. Smith. "He is a great and good and powerful man. Wherever he goes he produces results. The last time I saw him was several months ago in England, when he and I addressed 5,000 people at the great anniversary at Manchester."

DRASTIC DEMANDS MADE AT PEACE CONFERENCE

Allyes Want Indemnity—Would Leave Bulgaria Less Than 30 Miles on Aegean Sea

London August 1—The allies in demands presented to the Bucharest conference today proposed the establishment of a frontier standing east from the Struma river running midway through Rumania and reaching the Aegean sea 15 miles west of Ledeagatch. This would leave Bulgaria a large amount of territory to Pumania the allies also maintain their demand for an indemnity. It is probable that the negotiation will be protracted and that the armistice of five days will be renewed. A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Belgrade asserts that the casualties of the Serbian army in the past month of fighting aggregate nearly 35,000.

St. Petersburg August 1—Denial was given today to sensational reports spread abroad that the Russian government had decided to take warlike steps against Turkey. It was stated that Russia was determined to avoid isolated action and that the present trend of events was rather in favor of a rapprochement with Austria.

LEONARD PARKER TO BE NAMED AS NAVAL CADET

Washington August 1—(Special)—Representative Crisp was deeply gratified today to secure the promise of President Wilson to name Leonard Parker as a naval cadet from the United States at large. Owing to the recent redistricting of the state Mr. Crisp had no appointment to the Naval Academy. He appealed to the president direct and was given one of the president's ten appointments.

C. B. Chapman, Jr. of Sandersville has been appointed a special agent in the census bureau by W. J. Harris, the director.

ATTACK ON M'REYNOLDS MADE BY LEADER MANN

Washington August 1—The Diggs-Cammitt debate in the house wound today with Republican leader Mann delivering a hot attack upon the administration and Attorney General McKeen for postponement of the present out and Chairman Clayton of the judicial committee replying with a brilliant defense. Galleries were crowded but Mr. Mann minced no words. The republicans have fallen down utterly in their attempt to make a scandal out of this case. Clayton said they have not been sustained by the facts so the gentleman from Illinois adopts the tactics of a police court lawyer and keeps his way out of court. The house tabled Representative Kohn's resolution calling for information which Attorney General McReynolds already has supplied 33 to 35.

QUESTIONS ON TARIFF ELICIT FEW REPLIES

Only Sixty Six Answers to List of Queries Sent Out by Senate Finance Committee

Washington August 1—Most of the manufacturers of the country have ignored the lists of questions sent them by the senate finance committee in regard to the industries and the probable effect upon them of the democratic tariff revision. Senator La Follette told the senate today that only sixty six replies had been received to the 2,500 sets of questions mailed by the committee to manufacturers who had protested against proposed rates of duty and suggested that the manufacturers must be confident of not being hurt by the new tariff or were not altogether frank. Senator La Follette, originator of the idea of sending out the questions with the hope of throwing light on tariff revision had his own list mailed along with that of the committee. He declared the few replies received afford little information particularly concerning the comparative cost of production in the United States and in competing countries.

The senator's remarks were his first during the tariff debate and were made opposing an attempt of Senators Dillingham, Page and Gallinger to increase proposed duties on granite. The amendment was defeated 19 to 14. Earlier in the debate Senator Gronna concluded his criticism of the tariff bill and Catron of New Mexico attacked it as a dangerous piece of legislation.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM AN AWFUL WRECK

Muncie Ind August 1—A miraculous escape from death and injury took place early today when the tender of the New York Central limited No. 29 the fast eastbound train jumped the track on the middle of a 100 foot bridge five miles west of Muncie. The train ran a third of a mile when four Pullman cars left the track. Although two steel rails were driven through the floor of one of the Pullmans not a single passenger or train man was injured.

"Rules of Civilized Warfare Are Being Swept Aside," Says Union Bulletin.

Calumet Mich August 1—Methods of state troops on duty in the mine strike zone in keeping the streets clear today brought vigorous protests from union headquarters. In several authenticated instances citizens were struck while passing along the sidewalks or ordered into their houses while sitting on doorsteps. Isaac Bahula a jeweler was clubbed by a patrol which drove his horses on the sidewalk on one street. The following statement was issued from union headquarters by Guy E. Miller of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners: "The rules of civilized warfare are being swept aside in the copper district. Last night's brutalities certainly deserve the censure of every man who has not lost all respect for human rights. Notwithstanding the statements of the mining companies that strike breakers would not be used we find such men active about the sheriff's office."

Last night a baby carriage was run over and its little occupant thrown on the pavement and an old man was beaten with a pick handle and later taken to the hospital. Residents in various parts of the city were driven from the porches of their homes. Had such acts being committed in an unorganized community a riot would certainly have resulted. It seems that some parties who are supposed to be guardians of the peace seek a pretext for martial law. General Abbey has promised town officials that the patrol will be held in check.

MRS ZACHRY CONTINUES FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

Augusta Ga August 1—(Special)—Bill of exceptions in the decision of Judge Henry C. Hammond, of the Richmond Superior court giving the two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Zachry into the sole and permanent custody of their father was filed with the clerk by C. E. Dunbar, attorney for Mrs. Mary Zachry yesterday. Mrs. Zachry is now in Columbia where she fled immediately after the decision was handed down in an effort to retain possession of her children in defiance of the court order. Since Mrs. Zachry's flight to Columbia her husband has entered habeas corpus proceedings for the recovery of the children. The hearing is set for this morning at 10 o'clock before Judge Eugene Gary of the South Carolina circuit court.

Considerable interest in this case is exhibited in Augusta and the decision of Judge Gary is somewhat eagerly awaited.

BABY'S AWFUL ECZEMA CURED

Face Just a Sore Scratched Till It Bled Resinol Stopped Itching Almost Instantly Soon Well

May 29 1913—My baby's face broke out with eczema. We tried many prescriptions ointments and lotions but the baby's face kept getting worse all the time. He would scratch it until it would bleed and finally his face on both sides was just a awful sore. It bothered him so much that he could not sleep much at night.

I sent for samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment and used them according to directions. The result was something wonderful. The itching stopped almost instantly and from the first application we could see a marked improvement. I then bought a fifty cent jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap and by the time the jar of Ointment was used the baby's face was almost entirely cured. So I bought another jar and used only half of it and the cure was complete. My doctor recommends Resinol very highly and I cannot say too much for Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment.

(Signed) S. L. CARTER, Salem Va. Physicians have prescribed Resinol for eighteen years and every druggist in the country sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. It is sold by Dept. 2 R Resinol, Baltimore Md.—(Adv.)

Sulphur-Saline HAMPTON SPRING WATER Diuretic-Laxative Here's a water that's a perfect GERMICIDE. It prevents TYPHOID FEVER, and— It takes the sour out of Stomach, the bile out of Livers, the deposits out of Kidneys. It "cleans up" the delicate internal machinery of the body. It puts you on your feet, and holds you there. Proofs in Every Bottle Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., DISTRIBUTORS

Not attacks. Facts. Some appropriations in Georgia: $10,000.00 agriculture. $10,000.00 carrying out pure food and drug act. $ 5,000.00 for cattle tick eradication and protection of live stock. $15,000.00 to developing live stock and exterminating the cattle tick. $ 6,000.00 to manufacture and distribute hog cholera serum. $20,000.00 horticulture and entomology. Nothing for wayward and delinquent girls—for their protection, development and culture— Later, if— Maybe, next year— God pity them! THEY CAN NOT WAIT. These are girls—not hogs, nor cows, nor fields which may be replaced. Once lost, these—? And crime claws— Hell reaches out for them, even while you talk. Seventy five girls— Only those under sixteen known to us—others—scores are in the State sinking because there is no place. Care for prisoners is required by the laws of Georgia and of God, as well as appropriations for sick cattle and hogs. And if the State's Wards—we will not call them prisoners—be as they are, these girls, what will you do with them? In the chaingang? With the hardened prisoners of the prison farm? You could not put them in your reformatory for boys. WHAT OF THESE GIRLS? The Prison Commission says: "No place for them in Georgia." Agriculture. Pure food. Tickless cattle. Choleraless hogs. These are much to be desired. They should be cultivated and sought. But you know these girls. You would take care of them. They are more valuable than our cows and hogs. Georgia's shame! Other States take care of girls. Why not Georgia? Of the JONES MILLS bill providing a reformatory for girls, CHAIRMAN WHEATLEY said: "It was referred to a subcommittee to plan for the creation of a home and to make such changes in the measure for an appropriation that could be granted." Cutting $45,000.00 from the $75,000.00 appropriation asked, the subcommittee reported back the bill carrying an appropriation of $30,000.00, for action by the whole committee. The Penitentiary Committee had previously recommended the bill without a dissenting vote. All recognize the need. And if money can be obtained for the cultivation of hogs, cattle and fields, surely it can be found for this—the saving of girls. NOT AN ATTACK. A fact: We believe that the Committee on Appropriations will find a way. While taking care of beasts and spraying bugs, you will not neglect and destroy our girls. You can protect both. You will.

VOLS' LAST APPEARANCE AT PONCE DE LEON

Double Bill Is Divided; Play Two Games Today; Love to Hurl One Game

By Dick Jemison. The Cracker and the Vols divided a double bill at Ponce de Leon Friday afternoon...

The first game was delayed thirty minutes on account of rain, and the second game was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

The teams will tie up in a double bill again this afternoon, the first game starting at 2:15 o'clock.

Thompson will be pitted against Williams in the first game, with Dunn and Gibson doing the receiving.

"Slim" Love will twirl the second for the locals, with Chapman behind the bat. Crackeridge and Noyes will probably be the notable battery.

Forest More and Gilbert Perry locked horns in a hot pitchers' duel in the first game, and for eight innings they battled without either having any apparent edge.

In the eighth the Cracker bunched three hits on More for two tallies, which were sufficient to win. Up until this time More had allowed but four hits, scattering them through the nine innings in fine style.

The Vols tied it in their half of the eighth. Hoffman singled, Lindsay sacrificed him to second. He went to third on Holland's error of More's tap and counted on Daley's infield out.

Chapman opened the Cracker's eighth with a single to center. Price and Long were easy, but Agler shot a triple to right, scoring Chapman, and Welchone smashed through the infield, scoring Joe and winning the old pastime.

Chicago, August 1.—Clarence Griffin, California's latest tennis marvel, topped in the national amateur state today by qualifying for the western championship finals through a victory in his hardest match of the tournament...

While the men battled through the semi-finals, Little Miss Gwendolyn Rees, of Dallas, Texas, won the western women's championship, defeated by Miss Mary Brown, of Los Angeles.

Miss Rees, by all round better work, defeated the former Miss Rees of Chicago, in a former match, 6-3, 6-2.

The last point was hard fought for by the Dallas player, one of the girls failing to see that one of Miss Neely's drives went out.

The result of the decision was that Miss Rees has to play for the cup this afternoon. Miss Rees and Miss Neely defeated western women doubles champions, Mrs. P. F. Burdick and Miss May Sutton of California, and Miss Neely won the title last year, but Mrs. Burdick did not enter this year.

The doubles championship tomorrow Hayes and Winston will meet Byford and Burdick. Both pairs are Chicagoans.

Government Condition Report

Lower Than Expected and Caused a Sharp Advance. Spot Cotton 10 Points Up.

New York, August 1.—The government report making the condition of the growing cotton crop 79.6 against 81.8 last month and 80.7 per cent was under general expectations and caused quite a sharp advance in the market during today's trading. Business was not particularly active and there was nothing to indicate that the official statement had materially stimulated demand from either trade or speculative sources but there was considerable covering as well as some support from Wall Street bulls and the market advanced some 15 to 20 points after the publication of the figures. The close was barely steady as a result of realizing but last prices were from 8 to 14 points higher.

Business was quiet enough during the morning to suggest that speculative accounts had previously been pretty well covered up for over the bureau cables were a shade better than due covering by nervous shorts or continental buying and the local market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points. There was not enough demand to maintain this improvement, however, and toward midday the market eased off under scattering liquidation which seemed partly due to reports of showers in central Texas.

Just before the government report was issued prices were 2 or 3 points net lower on new crop positions but quickly rallied closing within 4 or 5 points of best of day.

Spot cotton quiet 10 points up mid-dling standards 1 to 2 1/2.

Indications pointed to lower temperatures in the southwest which led to a feeling of some improvement in the cotton crop. The barometric conditions of the day were somewhat improved, the probability of a heavy rain in the afternoon probably tended to modify the influence of the comparison of condition figures to some extent while on the other hand the government report was accompanied by a reported absence of rain and the appearance of showers in the southwest which probably tended to react on the market in a similar manner.

Factor in the day's advance will be well covered up as a result of the report issued Tuesday morning.

CHICAGO AUGUST 1.—Broadening of speculative buying swept corn prices today to the highest point of the season.

Staggering crop damage reports, coupled with further injury certain if good rains do not soon come gave a purchasing movement extraordinary force. The market closed firm at an advance of 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents over last night. Other leading staples too all showed net gains—wheat 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents, oats 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents.

EXCITEMENT TO TRADE IN CORN MANIFESTED ITSELF AT THE FIRST OF THE BEAT CITY AND COUNTRY AGENCIES.

Many dealers who sold yesterday were buying today and there was a notable increase of investment orders from the southwest. The official forecast of continued dry weather tonight and tomorrow was largely responsible for the unusual conditions and already been brought about by the crop damage actual and prospective that Missouri river cities were today selling corn to ship into Kansas ordinarily a banner state in the raising of corn.

St. Louis merchants were acquiring corn from farmers within 60 miles of Chicago for south east shipment up to February next. Omaha reported a sharp demand in corn to go south to southern wheat.

Despite heavy profit taking by holders of corn prices at no time underwent any important reaction. On the contrary not a few enthusiasts were talking of a further rise to the rarely equalled height of 70 cents a bushel.

Wheat ascended with corn influenced by assertions that farmers would hold wheat for food as being cheaper.

JEWEL THEFT SUSPECTS WATCHED BY SLEUTHS

Houses in Providence and South Boston Believed to Be the Headquarters of Gang.

Narragansett Pier, August 1.—Operatives of a private detective agency tonight have under close surveillance the occupant of a residence in a Providence suburb, believing that he either was the master mind of the gang of thieves which recently obtained more than a quarter of a million dollars' worth of jewelry here or that he maintained the "fence" by which the thieves planned to dispose of their loot. Other detectives are watching another house in South Boston, believing it to be either the headquarters of the jewelry stealing band or the home of the agents.

The suspect in the house near Providence is declared to have obtained the information needed for the robbery of the Charles C. Rogers house of jewelry worth $125,000 from the servants, who are said to have gone innocently on automobile rides with them. The car seen near the Rogers house on the night of the robbery and seen to pass at high speed through Providence on the night of the robbery of J. H. Hagan was robbed of jewelry valued at $150,000 is declared to resemble that of the suspect.

DEMOCRATS ASSUME FEDERAL POSITIONS

Howard Thompson and A. O. Blalock Succeed Walter Johnson and Henry Jackson.

Returning Dr. William Kings, for many years clerical worker in the internal revenue office from which he was dismissed two years ago during the administration of Henry S. Jackson, A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville, began his official work yesterday morning immediately after receiving Henry S. Jackson, his predecessor, for the office.

At the same time the new collector was taking over office—that of internal revenue collector for the state of Georgia—Howard Thompson, of Gainesville, was receiving Walter Johnson, for sixteen years United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia.

Marshal Johnson, retiring, and Howard Thompson, his successor, had arranged the day before to meet in the marshal's private office at 10 o'clock Friday morning for the formal transfer. Howard Thompson had received his commission from the department at Washington and had made the bond required. Walter Johnson had been so advised, and when Mr. Thompson appeared as had been arranged, there was little to be done. As Walter Johnson handed his successor the keys to office door and desk, the new administration of that office began.

The marshal had been advised that he had fourteen field deputies to name along with a clerical force of five and a chief deputy the latter place having been filled by H. R. Rinaldi since Walter Johnson went into office. The new marshal was not ready Friday to make public the name of his chief deputy, but was ready to announce that he would retain L. R. Greer, for many years chief bookkeeper and custodian of the office records. Of the fourteen field workers within the appellate power of the marshal, Mr. Thompson announced four Friday, these four having reported and qualified by making bond and oath. But the remaining number will appear within the next few days to qualify, as the new marshal has practically settled upon his list. The deputies who qualified Friday were B. B. Larders of Gainesville who has been in the service for years, Leo Whitley, of Atlanta, Frank Godfrey, Jr., of Rabun county, W. B. Lovinswood, of Blue Ridge, and A. H. Penland, of Ellijay.

Among his former deputies Collector Blalock named his first commission to John W. Martin, of Atlanta, who has been in that branch of governmental service for thirty consecutive years having served under two democratic administrations and a half dozen republican occupancies of the presidential collector Blalock's other appointments are James L. Patrick, Rev. Harrell, Tobe Moya, J. R. Britton, J. F. Camp, Miller Harrison, John W. Martin, J. A. Henderson, O. C. Cole, O. H. Pendley and R. M. Blount.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Waiting for Grubsticks.
 President Joe Cochran and General Manager Dan Carey, both of the park department, are anxiously awaiting the arrival of a grizzly bear and two cubs which Congressman William Schley Howard secured for Grant park. The bears, until recently, roamed Yellowstone park. The mother and babies weigh, according to bill of lading, exactly 1,400 pounds.

Sanitary Chief John Jentzen reported to the city health board Friday afternoon that the new crematory destroyed approximately fifty-four tons of garbage on the first trial. For the first time since the plant has been completed, Chief Jentzen dumped garbage.

Lithonia Bid Accepted.
 Rubble stone for the retaining walls on West Peachtree will be supplied by the Lithonia Quarries Granite company to the city on a basis of $1.30 per ton. The street committee accepted the bid Friday. The next lowest bid was $1.35 offered by A. O. Venable.

AT THE THEATERS.

Musical Comedy Tabloid.
 (At the Bijou.)
 "The Girl from Dublin" will be seen at four more performances today concluding its engagement tonight at the Bijou. The musical comedy has found the attraction decidedly pleasing and the attendance has been good the entire week. Another musical comedy is scheduled for next week in the appearance of Lew Cantor's original musical comedy, "Along the Pike" with C. Baker and H. J. O'Connell. The company is a large one including a chorus that is really worth while. Many new musical numbers will be introduced and the vaudeville portion of the entertainment is said to be especially clever.

Keith Vaudeville.
 (At the Forrest.)
 Matinee and night performances today will end the week at the Forrest and mark the beginning of a new show—one of the best. The combinations of the season for the week starting with matinee on Monday afternoon the Fitch Berlin Sextet, who have been the feature with Edric Fox in "Over the River" all season will make their first appearance here. Van Hove, the Dippy Star Magician will offer an act that is a great treat in New York because of the eccentric methods of the young man and another feature will be Robert Eversole, the Hippodrome Artist, the little Jester, will help to make things merry.

Alaska-Siberia Pictures.
 (At the Grand.)
 The Alaska-Siberia pictures at the Grand will be exhibited for the last time at matinee and night today. There has never been a more interesting exhibition of pictures than these eight reels that have been seen by hundreds of people this week. Starting on Monday, the management will offer in addition to positively first rate vaudeville pictures, two great features. The first half of the week will be Zigomar, the "Eel King" a wonderful thrilling and sensational story in four reels and the last half of the week will be "The Great Escape," an equally as thrilling subject in three reels.

WEDDED IN HOSPITAL, WALLACE VAN SYCKEL DIES FROM ILLNESS

Macon, Ga. August 1.—(Special)—News has reached Macon of the death of Wallace Van Syckel, in Lebanon, Pa., yesterday, his death being due to typhoid fever.

Some time ago Mr. Van Syckel was taken sick, and was removed to a hospital, where he was treated for typhoid fever, though a physician from Johns Hopkins hospital a short time before his death pronounced the disease pernicious anemia.

Shortly before he was taken sick invitations had been issued for the marriage of Mr. Van Syckel to Miss Marian Bowman. The invitations were recalled, and the couple was married quietly at the hospital.

Mr. Van Syckel was the son of John C. Van Syckel, a former Macon merchant, who was once a member of the city council. The family removed to Pennsylvania about twelve years ago, though they are still remembered here, having been prominent in the social life of the city.

SHE PRESSES CLAIMS AGAINST PRINCE WHO WEDDED AN HEIRESS

Los Angeles, August 1.—Mrs. Clara Melcher, proprietor of a laundry in Vienna, appeared today before a federal immigration inspector and was interrogated relative to the claims she declares she has against Prince Stanislaus Sulkowski, a nephew of the Grand Duke of Berlin, a son of a noble Austrian house. The prince was married last Monday night to Miss Marie Louise Freede, daughter of a retired millionaire. The ceremony was quiet, plans for a brilliant church wedding suddenly having been changed.

An attorney, who was first approached by Mrs. Melcher and then retained by the prince, said he had suggested to Mr. Freede, the prince's father-in-law, a payment of five or ten thousand dollars in settlement of the woman's claims, but Mrs. Melcher, through her lawyer, declared she must have not less than $50,000.

In the meantime the prince and his bride are on their wedding trip. Mr. Freede said they were out of the country.

TWENTY-THREE HURT IN DUST EXPLOSION

Hymers, Ind., August 1.—Five men were probably fatally burned and eighteen others dangerously hurt in a dust explosion at Jackson Hill No. 2 mine, 3 miles east of here, late today. It is believed the dust was fired by a "windy" shot. The mine property was heavily damaged. Rescuers brought out all the injured miners.

DELAWARE GAP SWEEP BY TERRIFIC STORM

Stroudsburg, Pa., August 1.—Stroudsburg and the Delaware Gap this afternoon were the center of a storm which is said to be unprecedented in this section of the state. Seven and one-half inches of rain fell between 12:30 and 3 o'clock, doing damage estimated at more than $100,000. No lives have been reported lost.

Mauch Chunk, Penargyl, Portland and Bangor also suffered severely. Hotels at the Delaware Water Gap crowded with summer tourists, were badly damaged, water mains were broken and the resort is in darkness tonight through crippling of the electric light plant.

Miles of track were washed out on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Pennsylvania, and the New York, Susquehanna and Western.

Seven bridges were washed away. All trains on the Pennsylvania railroad were annulled north of Belvidere.

Wire connection with Mauch Chunk was paralyzed, and a report that the Lackawanna tunnel there had caved in could not be confirmed.

At the point of the gap, near Delaware Water Gap, thousands of tons of the mountainside slid away, carrying with it 200 yards of a concrete embankment which supported the road way and burying the Lackawanna tracks and part of a passing freight train under 30 feet of earth. During the storm it was so dark persons could not see 100 feet.

Storm in West Virginia.
 Charleston, W. Va., August 1.—A terrific hailstorm swept through the Kanawha valley late today damaging crops and prostrating wire communication. The monetary loss is heavy, but no loss of life is reported.

BRIBERY CHARGE MADE IN WESTERN FUEL CASE

San Francisco, August 1.—At a conference with the special counsel who will prosecute the Western Fuel company cases here this month, David G. Powers, formerly an employee of the company and now the chief witness for the government, said today that he had been offered $50,000 if he would vanish.

Powers gave the names of those who had approached him, and the physiology of the offers. Matt I. Sullivan and Theodore J. Roche, in charge of the case as assistants to the attorney general, declined to discuss Powers' story, beyond saying "We shall vigorously prosecute every person connected with this immense fraud."

The president and directors of the Western Fuel company are charged with having defrauded the government of customs duties aggregating nearly $1,000,000 by manipulating weighing tickets showing the tonnage of imported fuel.

"The Western Fuel men can't be convicted," Powers said he was told, and you are a fool not to accept the $20,000 they are willing to give you to disappear. Take what you can get and quit. If $20,000 ain't enough, they'll be glad to make it $50,000. You've got to look out for yourself."

This is the second charge of corrupt influence made since the indictments were returned. When John L. McNab resigned as United States attorney he charged in a sensational letter to President Wilson that pressure had been brought to bear on Attorney General McReynolds to order the trial postponed.

The gospels have been printed in Japan in three little known dialects for circulation among the aborigines of western China.

This property is obliged to be sold in order to wind up the estate of Mrs. Victoria A. Foster. There is a mortgage of $1,000 bearing 7 per cent interest, maturing September 1, 1918, which must be assumed by the purchaser; and the balance paid in cash.

Go out and examine this property carefully and attend the sale next Tuesday.
