

FOREIGN POWERS BRING PRESSURE ON GEN. HUERTA

Great Britain, France and Japan Are Urging That the Huerta Regime Meet Demands of United States

HUERTA GOVERNMENT IN DESPERATE STRAITS

No Money to Pay Running Expenses—Washington Expects Important Developments in Next 48 Hours

Washington August 23.—Great Britain, France and Japan are among the nations which have interposed their influence upon the Huerta administration in Mexico in support of the efforts of the United States to bring about a peaceful settlement of the revolution.

While administration officials were silent today regarding this phase of the situation there was a lively interest manifested in the circles here as to the probable effect of foreign pressure on the Huerta government.

It was learned that the United States authorities hoped President Wilson would not read his message to Congress next Tuesday as had planned and showed a disposition to prolong the negotiations. The United States officials are making a study of the field overtures being made by Huerta within 48 hours from the United States indicating a desire to accept the fundamental proposals of the United States president will probably claim to Congress and to the world the attitude of this government toward the southern revolution.

The fact that diplomats from some of the very countries which not only have formally recognized Huerta but whose bankers have loaned him money for his government is calculated to produce a somewhat definite short. Official reports to the Washington administration show the Huerta regime to be in a desperate financial straits with the respect of getting funds available to meet the running expenses of the government or pay its troops already restless because of deferred payments.

Air of Uneasiness
So important is this aspect of the situation regarded by the United States government that it is believed some prominent member would be forthcoming from Mexico City before President Wilson finally determined to communicate his message to Congress.

The interests of the United States and the elimination of Huerta was reiterated positively by administration officials—a position which Huerta has been instructed by the United States government to believe here now would persuade President Wilson to hold up the presentation of his message.

The sending of a special envoy from Mexico to Washington further to discuss the situation with President Wilson is regarded here as a likely move. It is known that the United States government will make it after the such a proposal is made in the future. It is believed however that the United States officials now have about the idea of sending an envoy and are seeking to develop a new basis for negotiation.

More Troops for the Border
With only three American soldiers available for the protection of certain knowledge that the United States army and ammunition are being given in military circles the dispatch of fresh troops.

The possibility that is a result of the steady northward movement of federal troops in Mexico may be that to cross into Texas and Arizona to escape capture has also been taken into consideration and though no orders have been issued plans of the army have been laid out to be largely increased the maneuver of which under General Carter.

The augmented force would thus be in a position to deploy in strength.

Four Wives for Orr And All Are Living Says Sheriff Rector

Atlanta Bride Says She Is Convinced of His Innocence and Will Stick to Him to the End

Three wives in South Carolina and one in Atlanta all within the space of twelve months is the record established by W. J. Orr, 31 Todd street according to Sheriff Rector of Greenville S. C. who came to Atlanta Saturday to take Orr back to Greenville on a warrant charging him with bigamy.

Orr married Susie Beach of Atlanta last April after having been in the city only three weeks and has been living with her at 11 Todd street ever since. He is an electrician and has been employed on the wiring of the new Y. M. C. A. building. It is alleged that Orr married Maude Galaway in Greenville about a year ago and deserted her after living with her only one week. The woman has a 3-month old child and claiming that Orr was in Atlanta had a warrant sworn out for him and Sheriff Rector immediately notified the Atlanta authorities who placed Orr under arrest Saturday morning. It is also claimed that Orr has two wives in other points in South Carolina.

The girl who married Orr in Atlanta was prosecuted when at his arrest it was found that she knew absolutely nothing of any former marriages having been contracted by Orr. She refused to make any other statement except to say that she is firmly convinced of Orr's innocence and that she will stick to him to the end.

When seen at the stationhouse last night Orr would give out no statement simply saying that he was innocent and that when he arrives in South Carolina he will have no difficulty in establishing same. He admitted knowing the girl but would say nothing further. He will be taken back to South Carolina today.

PAPERS IN POCKET SAVE B. F. O'SHIELDS' LIFE

Following Quarrel, His Wife Fired Revolver at Him on Saturday Night

Mrs. B. F. O'Shields of Tenuille street fired a revolver at her husband Saturday night about 10 o'clock following a family quarrel. The bullet penetrating through O'Shields' coat and being felt deep from its course it some heavy papers in his inside pocket which probably saved his life.

According to Mrs. O'Shields story she has been having trouble with her husband for some time but recently an argument was had between the two and everything has passed off peacefully until Saturday night when she returned to the house after a drink and started to abuse her husband. After hot words had passed between them she alleges that O'Shields became enraged and struck her several times with his fist. She told the police she was called to fire in self defense.

O'Shields on the other hand alleged that his wife shot at him with out provocation and wanted the police to arrest her for attempted murder. Chief Officer Gorman and Sheriff Rector accepted the woman's version of the story and took O'Shields to the station house charged with assault.

I. H. SMITH BITTEN FROM HEAD TO FOOT IN FIGHT WITH BLACK

Milwood August 23.—(Special)—In a fight between I. H. Smith, a prominent tireman and a common sailor man of Hinsonville and seven negroes of the south of here and John George a negro this morning the latter attacked Smith and severely bit him from head to foot. The negro directly went home and Smith returned that he was going after his gun, drove to Milwood, purchased a shotgun and a box of shells and returned to Hinsonville.

It is said the trouble arose over a matter of whittens the negro owning Smith's whittens. Smith says there is not a gun in that part of the country owned by a white man.

"DICE BOX" M'GUIRE INSTRUCTS THE COURT

Chicago August 23.—Dice Box M'Guire more properly known as Eugene Grant wanted in New York for the alleged theft of railway mile are books gave a hitch to his trousers today fixed Municipal Judge Graham with his eye and spoke through a mat of whiskers.

The court held Dice Box how ever pending the arrival of requisition papers.

THAW SQUABBLES WITH THE LAWYERS HIRED TO SAVE HIM

Never in Canada's History Has There Been Such a Legal Snarl Within Snarl Before the Courts

JEROME IS EMPLOYED TO WORK AGAINST THAW

Thaw Is Loquacious, Erratic and Domineering, and His Attorneys Are Kept in Hot Water

Sherbrooke Quebec August 23.—Harry K. Thaw squabbling with the Dominion's leading lawyers retained to prevent his return to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Insane from which he escaped last Sunday morning (which he escaped last Sunday morning) tonight apparently was as much in ignorance of the next move in his case as the casual idler at the Sherbrooke jail.

For two hours his counsel conferred this afternoon debating whether they would produce Thaw in court on a writ of habeas corpus next Wednesday or abandon the writ surrender him to the immigration authorities and countenance his departure to Vermont a procedure to which it was said here the immigration officers had agreed. The two hour talk was presided by a conference with Thaw as to his preference but it resulted in no definite decision.

Thaw was loquacious erratic domineering and it was decided to await the arrival here of Roger O'Mara of Pittsburgh Thaw's detective guardian according to the understanding he will arrive tomorrow night.

Legal Snarl Within Snarl
Never in the history of Quebec since or the Dominion of Canada has such a legal snarl within snarl been before the courts.

In brief Thaw is held on a commitment charging him with being a fugitive from Matteawan where he was confined on a criminal charge. This is an error. Acquitted of Stanford Whites murder on the ground of insanity he was held there on no charge but as a lunatic.

Both sides had admitted that the commitment is defective and it was conceded that he would be released on the writ when arraigned. Why not then Thaw's lawyers were asked by immigration authorities can it be as it would all your objections to his being held turn him over to us leave a hearing at Coaticook where he was first locked up after crossing the border and we will deport him to Vermont. It will then be up to New York state to extradite him.

The agents of the immigration authorities here are subordinate and Thaw's lawyers believe that the final decision in the matter of deportation will come from the minister of the interior who at present is in Vancouver on vacation facing such a predicament. It was said tonight that the habeas corpus hearing would be held Wednesday.

Another possibility was suggested Thaw would come into court plead not guilty to the present charge and demand trial. This it was said might not take place until the October term.

How about it? Thaw was asked. Wait for Roger he cried.

Thaw Talks of Jerome
O'Mara was thus literally the missing keystone in the Thaw case to fight and William T. Jerome Thaw's old enemy and prosecutor was the missing general of the New York forces. It was said here that Jerome retained by the New York attorney general's department would arrive Sunday.

Thaw did not appear particularly disturbed when told Jerome was here. "Willie coming he said I rejoice in my life I have lawyers who will take care of me and I am able to confer with them. I have never had a lawyer except Delmas and maybe a couple of others who were over $25 a day."

A clique of Stanford Whites friends have always pursued me and he pursued me up here. But their flight is wrong. Canadian care leaving that New York is trying to treat Canada as a little principality. But I think it was wiser to have come to Canada than to enter Pennsylvania.

Well I hope Jerome has a good time here. I have a lot of things on my mind. I was going to spring them at White Plains in 1901 but decided not to. I'll spring them some time though.

As he rambled on Thaw had a stenographer taking down what he said. He seemed to say a word about Jerome Thaw or the child she says in his are books gave a hitch to his trousers today fixed Municipal Judge Graham with his eye and spoke through a mat of whiskers.

Judge they ain't no governor in New York and you know it. You ain't got no right to hold me and it's a bloomin' shame.

The court held Dice Box how ever pending the arrival of requisition papers.

MRS. LONGSTREET ATTACKS SMITH

In a Warm Communication, She Answers Statements Recently Made in Regard to Gainesville Postoffice

Several days ago The Constitution published Senator Hoke Smith's version of his part in the appointment of Mrs. Ham as postmistress of Gainesville Ga. over the protest of Congressman Bell who recommended A. S. Hardy for the place and who was very active in his behalf.

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, the former postmistress referred to in Senator Smith's interview and who has figured conspicuously in recent developments in the contest sends The Constitution the following statement from Washington in reply.

Mrs. Longstreet's Reply
Editor Constitution Inasmuch as you gave the version of the Gainesville postoffice case as told by Senator Smith and Congressman Bell false news requires that you print the story of the innocent victim of the manœuvre of the Smith regime. I am these lines north of Mason and Dix on line unwillingly exiled by the Wilson administration.

In my long and desperate struggle to retain the commission of the Gainesville postoffice I have found Senator Smith to be a profound hypocrite and a sniveling knave. He is against the corporations when it helps him to get an office to be against them. He is for the corporations when he thinks it will help him to keep the office.

It is true that the fight which was successfully made to oust me from the postal service of Georgia was made possible by the corrupt and meandering conduct of the men who have ever lifted Hydra heads south of the Potomac. But Big Business never could have succeeded without the ardent cooperation of the junior senator from Georgia. He had Mrs. Ham appointed and then denied it just as he betrayed Senator Bacon and robbed Georgia of the second highest place in the organization of the senate and denied responsibility Senator Smith has a right which no one will question, to carry the patronage of Georgia in his vest pocket to dispose exclusively for the advancement of his own political ambitions if Georgians are willing. But he has no right to be a treacherous double dealer while holding the commission of a sovereign state in this republic in the world's highest deliberative body.

Last fall about the time Mrs. Ham sold her country home and moved into town just across the street from the Gainesville postoffice Senator Smith promised her the office meanwhile he was professing the most ardent friendship for me on having risen above the bitterness of the reconstruction period in support of one who bore the name of Longstreet. A little later he told Congressman Bell that Mr. Hardy

SHAMED GIRL'S STORY JAILS FIRST COUSIN

Homer Meroney Bound Over on Charges Brought by Miss Cora Washington

Rome Ga. August 23.—(Special)—Behind closed doors in a justice court today Miss Cora Washington a beautiful young woman of 20 daughter of one of Floyd county's prominent families told with bitter tears and burning blushes a story that resulted in the binding over to the superior court of her first cousin Homer Meroney on the charge of seduction. The girl's father J. D. Washington a wealthy farmer of Reeseburg near Rome is the prosecutor in the case.

Owing to the prominence of the parties involved and their wide family connection there is unusual interest in the case. Upon the witness stand Miss Washington told a pathetic story of the events which led to her downfall. She claims to have yielded to Meroney's advances only after promise of marriage. Their acquaintance had extended over many years and during recent months Meroney had lived at the Washington home. She stated that the wedding date had been set for January but before that time the defendant had disappeared. The child a boy was born in July after his birth warrants were sworn out for Meroney who was arrested in Columbus Ga.

According to the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Smith Meroney admitted that he and the girl were engaged and said he was willing to marry her in court however his attorneys brought out the fact that the defendant had been married several years ago to Miss Cora Winkle, of Polk county, that she had obtained a divorce from him but that he had been denied the right to marry again. They advanced the plea that Miss Washington knew this state of affairs and therefore could not have been deluded by promise of marriage.

Meroney was unable to raise the required bond and is in Floyd county jail pending the convening of an adjourned term of Floyd superior court in October.

STOCKHOLDERS APPROVE NEW HAVEN BOND ISSUE

New Haven, Conn., August 23.—Howard Elliott's first meeting today with the stockholders of the New Haven Railroad of which he has just been chosen president was a stormy session. It was a special meeting called to authorize $67,500,000 in 6 per cent convertible debenture bonds to provide for the road's floating debt and to grant of stockholders had warred words to say regarding the financial management of the road.

It developed that the financing of the bond issue, in charge of J. P. Morgan & Co. would cost 2 per cent, and some of those present criticized this arrangement, declaring the issue should have been offered to stockholders first. Other speakers expressed surprise that the road had a floating debt and urged publicity in the financial affairs of the road.

The bond issue was finally approved by a vote of 999,000 shares to $,000.

BANKERS PROPOSE RADICAL CHANGES IN CURRENCY BILL

Committee Named to Go to Washington for the Purpose of Securing Adoption of the Amendments.

Chicago August 23.—Bankers from all parts of the country at the close of a two days conference agreed on a number of important amendments to the Owen Glass currency bill now pending in congress, and appointed a committee of seven to go to Washington and endeavor to have changes incorporated in the measure. Members of the conference expressed belief that the administration forces in Washington will be convinced by the arguments they will present and modify the bill so that it will be reasonably satisfactory to the banking and business interests of the country.

The amendments were presented to the conference by a committee on resolutions, and were adopted after a long discussion by unanimous vote. The committee went through the currency bill section by section and recommended more than twenty changes.

The committee named by Chairman Hepburn, of New York, to go to Washington and present the recommendations of the conference to President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo included James B. Foren Chicago chairman George W. Keynolds Chicago E. J. Hill Norwalk Conn. R. F. Maddox, Atlanta Sol Wexler New Orleans Joseph Chapman Minneapolis and Festus J. Wade St. Louis. The committee will go to Washington in a few days to begin its work.

Text of the Resolutions.
The resolutions adopted at the conference read as follows: The currency bill now pending in congress of the American Bankers' association charged with endeavoring to secure remedial banking legislation and regarding the banking measure now pending in congress as evidencing the earnest wish of the administration to give a wise law to the country, has profound regret to co-operate in every way to this end upon its invitation that the presidents of the forty-seven state

SOLICITOR DORSEY ADDRESSING JURY WHEN JUDGE ROAN ADJOURNED COURT

Whole Day Is Consumed in Speech of Chief Lawyer for Prosecution, Which Will Be Resumed on Monday When Case Will Go to Jury After Charge of Judge.

SLAIN GIRL'S MOTHER AND WIFE OF ACCUSED BREAK DOWN SOBBING

Solicitor Takes Up Abibi of Prisoner and Picks It to Pieces—Tells About Minola McKnight Affidavit and Defends Detective Department—No Doubt That Frank Dictated Murder Notes, He Declares.

Only the limitations of human endurance taxed to its utmost, kept the Frank case from going to the jury Saturday afternoon.

It will not go to the jury before Monday afternoon.

At twenty minutes to 2 o'clock, after Solicitor Hugh Dorsey had been speaking at top speed for four hours and a half Judge Roan ordered an adjournment of court until 9 o'clock Monday morning at which time Mr. Dorsey will resume his speech—a speech which is destined to go down into history as one of the most wonderful efforts ever made at the Georgia bar. Mr. Dorsey had already spoken six hours and forty minutes when, lacking nourishment and rest, he was compelled to let the case go over until Monday morning, much as he desired to see it finished and in the hands of the jury.

Dorsey Is Making A Wonderful Speech.

When Hugh Dorsey was cut short Saturday by adjournment hour, he was given a tumultuous ovation by the crowd that stood on the street in front of the courthouse. He had made a matchless beginning. Of that there was no doubt.

But could he keep it up? That was the question. If there were any who doubted, their doubts were speedily dispelled Saturday when he took up the dark fabric of the crime and the crimson word guilty began to take shape and form under the skill of his logic and eloquence. The spell had not been broken by the hours that had intervened. Rested and refreshed by the night's sleep he once more plunged into the dark story and the searchlight of his reason illumined and made clear many spots which hitherto had been obscure. He patched and pieced and cut and shaped, and under the very eyes of the jury and spectators the state's case took wonderful and frightful form.

When Mr. Dorsey thoroughly exhausted

SOLICITOR REASSERTS HIS CONVICTION

have had their lunch and will be working there the greater part of the afternoon.

"Well, Mrs. White comes down the steps and passes the office. Is Frank ready to leave? He's got on his hat and coat? No, he's not in a hurry then, not at all. He's got to wait there to get rid of that body."

Addresses Himself to Frank.

Here Mr. Dorsey gradually drifted in the use of the second person in his talk and seemed to be addressing himself to Frank instead of to the jurors. "You went tripping right back to see if anything was all right, and then you signalled Conley," he continued, "and you soon learned, by what Conley said about not seeing a certain girl go back down the steps, that you were given away, and so you sent him back to get the body. There was no blood there where you had killed the girl. The blood was not sufficient, and no blood was there until Conley dropped the body and caused it to spatter over you."

"No, you had struck the girl and gagged her and assaulted her and then you went back and got a cord and fixed the little girl, whom you had assaulted, when, thank God, she would not yield to your proposals."

"You got that cord because you wanted to save your reputation—you had your character—you wanted to save your reputation among the good people of Rabbi Marx's church and among those in the B'nai B'rith, and you wanted to save your reputation among the Hasses and the Montags."

"Oh, you know that dead men tell no tales, you know it, but you forgot that murder will out. Oh, had that little girl lived to tell the assault made on her in that factory, there would have been a thousand men in Atlanta who would have feared your wealth, and your power and relatives, rich and poor, but who would have stormed the jail and defied the law in taking vengeance on you. It is not right that it should be so; people ought to wait for fair courts and honest juries to decide these things, but they don't and you know it."

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised that if Frank hadn't put Mary Phagan's handbag in the safe it would have turned up just the same as the planted envelope and blood spots the Pinkertons found on the first floor."

"This cloth that was found around her throat was torn from her own underclothing and placed over her mouth for a gag, while Frank slipped back to his office for the cord with which to strangle her."

Describes Death of Girl.

"When she did not yield to his lust that was not like that of other men, he struck her. They scuffled. She fell against the machine. Her brain lapsed into unconsciousness."

"They say he had no marks on his person—he did not give her time to inflict marks. There are no marks. "There never was such a farce as this attempt by Frank's able counsel to disprove the fact that the spots found on the second floor were blood stains. They bring in this perjured juror. He says it wasn't. Who is this juror?"

"You know it was blood and that it was the blood of Mary Phagan, because its location corresponds with the spot where Jim Conley says he dropped it. I say that."

"Barrett discovered the blood and hair long before any reward was offered. The hair was identified by Magnolia Kennedy, their own witness. "When it became apparent that too many pearls were being sent to the elevator boy and get the key, old man Holloway, who lied and betrayed us, perjured himself in a story about having opened the box, himself."

Says Holloway Perjured Himself.

"Holloway perjured himself either to obtain acquittal of his boss or to get the reward for the conviction of Jim Conley," he asserted. "I say that Barrett acted as an oasis in a rocky desert for truth and veracity, although his own job be in jeopardy. Barrett told the truth. If there be a man in town who rightly deserves a reward, it is that poor employee of the pencil factory who had courage to tell the truth.

"Compare him with Holloway. "Neither did Barrett make his discoveries on May 15. His find has no resemblance whatever to a plant."

"But you could wipe Barrett completely out of the case and have an abundance of ground on which to convict."

"Mrs. Jefferson saw the blood and so did Mell Stanford. It was not there Friday, because Stanford swept the floor and is positive he did not see it. "Jim Conley saw Mary Phagan go up and never come down. She was killed where Jim Conley found her, and her body was put where Frank wrote in his telegram: 'In the cellar.'"

"Darley and Quinn saw the blood spots. Sometimes, you know, we have to go into the camp of the enemy for ammunition. The handsome Darley was tied up by an affidavit. It was a hard pill for him, but he had to swallow, and he admitted having seen the blood that so glaringly accused his boss."

"To cap it all, Dr. Claude Smith saw the blood, and, upon analyzing it, found there were blood corpuscles, disproving the argument of the defense that it was paint."

"Their own witnesses, Schiff, Mag-nolia Kennedy and Wade Campbell all saw this blood and admit having seen it."

New Richmond in Field.

"Frank and his friends found that Harry Scott didn't manipulate to suit them. They got some new Richmonds and put them in the field. Where are they now? These men who found the club and blood spots and planted envelope?"

"Where is Pierce, the Pinkerton head? Echo answers 'Where?' "Where is McWorth, who helped and then? Echo answers 'Where?' "All detectives, Starnes, Black, Campbell, Rosser, Scott, every one of whom searched in vicinity of the scut-hole hole, say they could see no blood spots nor club nor envelope. "Don't you know that if they had not been planted and had been there after the murder, Holloway and others of his ilk would have been only too glad to have reported it to their superintendent in prison."

"Why, only a few days after the murder, a general clean-up was ordered by insurance authorities. None of the cleaners found the blood nor the club nor the envelope on the first floor. Why? Because they weren't there."

Evidence All Planted.

"The club and spots and envelope are purely in keeping with the planting of New Lee's bloody shirt."

"Boots Rogers saw Frank take out the clock slip that morning and say that it was accurate. But, later, when the shirt was planted, this graduate of Cornell, this man so quick of figures, saw that New wouldn't have had time to go home and change his shirt, so he accordingly changed his figures and altered his statement."

"But, the man who planted the shirt did his job too well—he got a shirt too clean and smeared blood on both sides."

"And, more about this club—Dr. Harris and Dr. Hunt both say that the wound in Mary Phagan's head could not have been inflicted by this planted club. It was too large, too round. "They harp on this Minola McKnight business. Isn't it strange that Minola, herself, should tell such a story to her husband, then corroborate it in a sworn and written statement."

"Are we going to swallow all this stuff of Mrs. Selig's without knowledge of human nature?"

"Minola, in presence of her counsel, made that statement and swore to it. Gordon would not have been worthy of the name of a lawyer had the story not been true and he had not said: "Minola, don't put your name to that story unless it be true."

"If the statement wasn't true, Gordon, her lawyer, would not have sat there without raising a hand, knowing well knowing that his client could be sent to the penitentiary for false swearing."

"The reason Minola made that affidavit was because it was the embodiment of the truth, the pure truth." "It was at this point that Judge Roan recessed until Monday, on account of the exhausted condition of Mr. Dorsey."

Mrs. Williams Is Elected Head of G., A. & F. Railroad

MRS. J. P. WILLIAMS.

Bainbridge, Ga., August 23.—At a meeting of the directors of the Georgia, Alabama and Florida railroad today, Mrs. Cora E. Williams was elected president, succeeding her husband, the late Captain J. P. Williams, Mrs.

Williams is believed to be the only woman in the south who is president of a railroad. All other officials were re-elected, including the vice president, Colonel Green Johnson, of Sandersville.

SOLICITOR DORSEY ADDRESSING JURY

bausted, left the court room at 1:45 o'clock, the waiting crowd on discharge cheered him wildly. It was a splendid tribute to a man who, in discharge of his duty and in the face of many disagreeable obstacles, has fought his way regardless of pressure or opinion.

Large Crowd Hears The Solicitor's Speech.

As early as 7 o'clock a large crowd was in line in front of the courthouse clamoring for admission. When the doors were opened the crowd surged in and in five minutes there was not a vacant seat in the room. Many ladies were in the audience—friends of the Phagan girl and her family.

Seated near the rail was Mrs. J. W. Coleman and her daughter, dressed in deep mourning. Only a day or so before they had suffered hereavement in the death of Mrs. Coleman's mother. Mrs. Frank sat beside her husband. His mother occupied another seat next her son.

Mrs. Coleman Hysterical Over Story of Murder.

In the midst of Solicitor Dorsey's graphic description of the murder of her daughter, Mrs. Coleman's voice rose in a moan, which ended in a heart-broken scream of hysteria. It pierced the hearts of all in the courtroom. The sight of the mother's grief was too much for scores in the audience. Mrs. Leo Frank was deeply affected and broke down sobbing on her husband's shoulder. Strong men made no effort to hide their feelings. The tender-hearted sheriff cried and was not ashamed of his tears.

It was a dramatic moment—the most dramatic of the trial. When one looks back at the task which Solicitor Dorsey set for himself the wonder is not that he found himself unequal to concluding his speech Saturday, but that he should have covered so much ground as he did.

When Luther Rosser reached the recess hour, Friday an adjournment was had and he had an opportunity to refresh himself and begin the labors of the afternoon fully equipped physically and mentally. No such opportunity was given Mr. Dorsey. Judge Roan was anxious to conclude the case and no adjournment was had for lunch. It would have been cruelly to expect Mr. Dorsey to continue to speak much longer.

There were few points in the case which Mr. Dorsey failed to touch on in the four hours of his speech Saturday. He started out with Frank's character and contended that the failure of the attorneys for the defense to cross the witnesses who swore Frank's character was bad was an admission of weakness. He contended that Frank was a pervert and classed him in the category of Oscar Wilde.

He took up Frank's alibi and picked it to pieces. He showed that it had been bolstered up in many places—the time advanced here or shortened there.

On the subject of perjury he said that if there had been perjury it had been on the side of the defense; and he attacked Quinn, Holloway and others whom he charged with falsifying. The letter which Frank wrote to his uncle on Memorial day and the telegram which he sent to Adolph Montag Monday morning were analyzed. He said there was no doubt the letter was written on Memorial day and that it was written for a purpose. He analyzed the psychology of this letter

Many Records Are Badly Broken by State's Most Expensive Trial

By Britt Clark.

Besides costing Fulton county a small-sized fortune, the trial of Leo Frank has broken many records which at one time seemed likely to stand for all time.

It has been Georgia's longest trial. It has sent to court record a half-million more words than any other.

It has been the state's most expensive. It brought to court more witnesses than any two criminal trials.

It fostered more widespread interest. It brought more sentiment into play. And that's not all!

Worked Papers Hard.

It worked the newspapers harder than they worked that eventful night when Daisy Grace fled herself from the jail of Fulton and journeyed to Philadelphia. If all the white paper that has been devoted to the Frank trial were stretched in a string, it would reach all the way from Rabun Gap to Tybee Light.

If anyone were to tell you that the state would expend 10,000 perfectly good dollars in this expensive cost of the living era just to hang a man you'd either think the state was very vindictive or that your friend was a liar. But that will be just about what the state will have to pay when the verdict is in and the jury has gone home.

Longest of All.

There are only two criminal trials in Georgia's history that can compare in time with the present case. The famous Ed Cox trial thirty-five years ago lasted more than two weeks. He was convicted for killing Colonel Robert Aiston in the old capitol building.

The Pannigan trial in DeKalb county, which lasted three weeks, was the next rival. Pannigan was sentenced for the slaying of a family in the county in which he was tried.

Tomorrow the Frank trial enters into its fifth week. The speech made by Solicitor Dorsey—which, by the way, is not yet completed—is the longest in southern criminal annals. It already has lasted six hours, with prospects for an additional two or three—maybe more.

The next longest speech was four or five hours. That was in the halcyon days of Charley Hill, who brought tears and smiles and anger when he spoke. Some have said that that grand old man never made a better speech than Dorsey's argument. Some say not so. They haven't heard Dorsey.

Dorsey's Speech.

Dorsey's speech was a masterly argument, with the stamp of genius in every line, and, in the face of es-tablished precedent, a part of Atlanta did something it never did before:

NINE-YEAR-OLD NEGRO KILLS HIS COMPANION

Perry, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—On Wednesday George McCluster, a negro boy 9 years old, killed Coy Barrett, a negro boy 12 years old, by stabbing him in the shoulder with a knife. The crime was committed about seven miles from town on J. A. Wood's place, about beyond Myrtle on the Perry and Fort Valley public road.

The coroner's jury returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that Coy Barrett was killed by his death by a knife wound inflicted by George McCluster." George was brought to town and put in jail on a warrant for committing a felony.

MARSH ADAIR RECOVERS FROM PTOMAIN POISON

Marsh Adair had a violent attack at the theater the other evening from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, caused by eating ice cream. For a time his condition was alarming. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he has recovered.

Pardon for Watkins.

Jackson, Miss., August 23.—Governor Brewer today issued full pardon to Light Watkins, former clerk in the land commissioner's office, who confessed to having embezzled $325 of the state's funds and sentenced two months ago to serve one year on the county farm. Since his sentence Watkins has been inmate of the hospital and recently was discharged.

Primitive Baptist Church.

Dawson, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Members of the Primitive Baptist church, of which Elder W. F. Brett is pastor, are preparing to build a church in a new town near John E. Thomas, about one mile north of Dawson. A building committee has been appointed and the erection of the structure to commence the early of the date.

Rev. Ross Will Speak.

Rev. L. N. Ross, pastor of the Metropolitan A. M. E. church, Washington, D. C., will speak under the auspices of the Holmes institute Monday night, at 8 o'clock, at the big Ebenezer A. M. E. church, Wednesday night he will speak at the Ebenezer Baptist church at the same hour. The proceeds will go towards the maintenance of the Holmes institute, for the education of negro children.

PERMANENT RECEIVER FOR V. M. & W. RAILWAY

Valdosta, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—A hearing on the petition for a permanent receivership for the Valdosta, Moultrie and Western railway was held before Judge W. B. Thomas at the superior court, here today and E. H. Jones, temporary receiver appointed two weeks ago, was made permanent receiver. On petition of the minority stockholders of the road A. L. Davis and C. I. Harrell were appointed co-receivers and Frank Roberts and W. B. Conoley advisory receivers and sales commissioners. Mr. Roberts is president of the road. C. I. Harrell continues as general manager of the property. Mr. Jones, the permanent receiver, owns the entire $800,000 bonded indebtedness of the road and the men appointed as co-receivers and advisors are the leading stockholders. All of them are serving without remuneration in an effort to reduce the expenses of receivership and make the best disposition for the stockholders.

CORDELE COTTON BUYERS RESENT A LICENSE TAX

Cordele, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The recent action of the city council in assessing a tax of $25 on local cotton buyers and $1 per day on transient buyers has created considerable dissatisfaction among local cotton buyers. They feel that the license and cases have been made against them to be tried before Mayor Harder. Cordele, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The recent action of the city council in assessing a tax of $25 on local cotton buyers and $1 per day on transient buyers has created considerable dissatisfaction among local cotton buyers. They feel that the license and cases have been made against them to be tried before Mayor Harder.

Heat Is Quick to Affect the Bowels

Well-Known Fact That Extreme Heat Conduces to Chronic Constipation.

So many people are in the habit of eating cold food in hot weather that constipation is very common during summer. It is best to vary the food and have some hot things, as, for example, soups and hot fish and meats, if that is to be the diet. Iced water should be drunk sparingly. In spite of all care people will become constipated, and if you find yourself in that condition you can get immediate relief by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. There is no time of the year when you should be more careful of constipation than in the summer, for constipation of the bowels, as well as the fatal diseases, result from a clogging up of the bowels. You also need general good health to withstand the heat, and hence Syrup Pepsin is best to take because it contains tonic ingredients that help to build up the entire system.

Numerous users throughout the land will verify these facts, among them Mr. George C. Allen, 408 N. Main St., Reading, Mass., who recovered his health completely after using only two bottles; and Miss Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Anna Schoff, 249 S. Washington St., Baltimore, Md., who uses it for constipation and now has her mother and friends also using it. They now avoid drastic remedies like cathartics, tablets, purgatives, salt waters, pills and such things. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is mild and pleasant, and children like it. You can obtain it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a large bottle. Each bottle must be returned. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 using only two bottles; and Miss Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

WITH THE MOVIES

Anna Hoffman, Grand Opera Prima Donna.
 Anna Hoffman, grand opera prima donna, scored a tremendous hit with the music loving Atlantans the past week. Her performance in the role of Warden Merv at the Federal penitentiary. The warden who is ever on the watch for innocent amusement for his charges on Sunday and holidays, appeared to Miss Von Hoffman to render some selections at the Sunday morning services. It did not take the pretty opera singer more than a moment to accept. The church services are held at 9 in the morning.

Miss Von Hoffman will continue her engagement at the Monticountry all this week.

Good Films at Vaudeville.
 For the first time a two reel American feature with Warren Harrison in the leading part will be shown at the Vaudeville Monday.

The film follows the life of a young army officer from West Point west to California and thence to the Philippines. It will hold the audience at the end of the film that makes the play well worth while.

Other two reel features during the week are "The Mad Cup" (Branches) and "The Green Shadow" (Kay-Bee).

An arrangement has been concluded between the Argentine and Bolivian governments for surveying a railroad from La Quiaca to Tupiza.

SAVANNAH'S NEW MILLION-DOLLAR HOTEL GROWING IN POPULARITY

It's Getting to Be the Mecca of the Traveling Public.

FIRE PROOF

When a city grows and grows and finds it impossible to do likewise, it is not only a problem to overcome the difficulty, but it is a problem to have a city that will be a mecca for the traveler. Savannah has done this and solved the matter by building a new hotel.

Not so with Savannah. They simply saw the need and decided to meet it. They had a million dollars, built a hotel in proportion to their increased business and are now receiving the benefits on their independence.

The hotel is a big, splendid building, built in the heart of the city. It is equipped and furnished in a most thorough and comfortable manner. Its cuisine is excellent and its service is of the highest order. It is a place where the traveler can find the best of everything.

TROOPERS CHARGED CROWD OF STRIKERS

Many Persons Are Wounded in a Labor Riot at Erie, Pa.

Erie, Pa., August 23.—Rioting in connection with the strike of iron molders broke out afresh tonight and as a result a state policeman was wounded, three men are in the hospital and a score of injured have been taken to their homes.

The streets were crowded and many people assembled near the Labor Temple where the union men were discussing the question of ordering a general strike which would involve 8,000 men.

The non-union workmen fled out of the plants it is alleged they were met by union workers and foreigners. The latter troop of the state constabulary which was sent here to prevent rioting, responded to the riot call. It is said the commanders ordered to disperse were ignored, and that the troopers rode into the throng. The crowd resisted and a number of persons were injured.

Constable L. G. Adams of the state constabulary, late tonight, is understood to have been wounded, asking for more state police.

The executive committee of the Central Labor Union, late tonight appointed a committee to draft a resolution calling for a general strike. This resolution is to be presented to the union mass meeting to be held Sunday afternoon.

The First Battle

The first battle last night occurred at the boarding house of Edward Stafer, one of the detectives. He had been active on other occasions, it was said, and when his place of abode was discovered, a mob stormed the house and almost beat him to death before he was rescued by the police and taken to a hospital, where he was thought to be dying.

This spark fired the situation and from that hour until daybreak the fighting continued in many localities. The small police force was hurried to one battle ground only to be recalled to another, where the prospect for life and property seemed even greater. Twenty-five or more arrests were made and the men were worn out.

Bitter Feeling Aroused.

The appearance of troopers whose coming was unheralded, was bitterly resented by the union leaders who declared they would continue the strike. President George A. Cook, of the Central Labor union, conferred with the executive committee and at noon the announcement was made that a strike of all union men in the city would be called tomorrow or Monday, the exact hour to be decided at a meeting to be held tonight. Should this plan be carried out it is estimated that a million workmen in Erie by approximately 7,000.

Further plans for continuing the strike will be perfected at a mass meeting of all union workmen in the city tomorrow afternoon.

There is hoping the home team can let all the goose eggs remain in cold storage.

BANKERS PROPOSE RADICAL CHANGES

bankers' associations and that representatives of the 191 clearing houses attend a meeting and unite in an expression, this bill body composed of bankers from the south and north and from coast to coast, representing country and city banks state and national and trust companies, after carefully considering the bill has adopted the following:

Whereas, we recognize the imperative necessity of incorporating into the banking and currency system of this country those proven principles which will provide the most ample and efficient facilities with greatest safety and a currency based on gold which automatically adjusts its volume to trade requirements in order that the highest stability may be attained for our commerce thereby assuring continuity of employment for the laborer and favorable markets for the producer, the fundamental basis of general prosperity, and

Whereas, although the pending measure has many excellent features, and its passage would be a fundamental in any scientific banking system, yet it is believed the application of its principles must in certain respects be made in ways that will more surely avoid a credit disturbance and bring more efficiently into operation the best and most beneficial plan, therefore

Resolved, That we recommend the following changes in the bill, to-wit: That while not rendering the ideal, these changes would render the bill more practical and avoid a credit disturbance and provide a system that would gradually develop into a better and more efficient one, which can alone be had from general participation of banks of all classes and the business community.

The Changes Recommended.

A summary of the important changes in the currency bill proposed by the resolutions adopted by the bankers follow:

That there should be established one central federal reserve bank under the new currency and banking plan instead of twelve, and if this is not expedient, then number should not exceed five, with as many branches as may be required.

That membership in federal reserve banks be made voluntary instead of compulsory on the part of national banks as provided in the case of state banks.

That the amount of subscriptions to the capital stock of the federal reserve banks be reduced from 20 to 10 per cent of the capitalization of the bank applying for membership.

That in order to remove control of the federal reserve banks from political influence, direction of the institution be vested in a board of seven members composed of the secretary of the treasury, six ex-officio members, three members to be appointed by the president of the United States who shall give due regard to geographical territory and three members to be selected by the member banks.

The terms of office are fixed at three six and nine years at the beginning and nine years for all members after the first term. The salary is fixed at $10,000 a year with allowance for necessary traveling expenses.

That three of the directors of regional banks shall be experienced in banking and live in the district.

That directors of regional banks be authorized to elect their own officials who with the federal agent designated by the federal reserve board shall manage the institution.

That the appointment of the federal reserve board shall not act as chairman of the board of directors of regional banks.

That the advisory board of the federal reserve board be abolished.

That the authority of the federal reserve board to compel one member banker to rediscunt paper of another member bank be made optional instead of mandatory.

That the directors of regional banks be authorized to elect their own officials who with the federal agent designated by the federal reserve board shall manage the institution.

That the cumulative dividends allowed member banks out of earnings on their shares in the federal reserve

SULZER NOT AFRAID OF BEING IMPEACHED

Washington, August 23.—Governor William Sulzer, of New York, asserts that he has no fear of the ultimate results of the impeachment proceedings which have been instituted against him. He expressed this belief in reply to a letter to Representative Lafferty of Washington, who made Mr. Sulzer's letter public tonight. Mr. Sulzer says none can conceive the obstacles which beset his path. He emphatically declares the charges against him are groundless, and says Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and his followers know there is no basis for the publicity campaign they are conducting against him, but are pursuing it with the knowledge that it may prove disconcerting to him and worry Mrs. Sulzer.

Speaking of Murphy, he said: "When the political boss found out he could not control me and make me a rubber stamp, he did everything in his power to destroy me politically. When Boss Murphy told me he would destroy me if I did not do his bidding, I defied him to do his worst, and declared I would continue to do my best."

It is believed that the Smith plan contemplates Mrs. Ham's resignation after a short tenure and a Smith man is to succeed her. By giving publicity to this Smith trick, it may die while in swaddling clothes.

Congressman Bell had nothing to say ever to do with its displacement, the ultimate responsibility rests upon the shoulders of Senator Smith. I had political differences with Congressman Bell some years ago. Today I do not know what it was all about. I believe the estrangement was the result of temperamental incompatibility growing out of my allegiance to the Hoke Smith faction of Georgia politics. Congressman Bell was once a member of the good standing of the other crowd. At any rate for six years I had not spoken to Congressman Bell. I had ridiculed him unmercifully for being Democratic. He did not seem to support me. I had publicly announced that if the day ever came when I could not hold the office without his support, I would put on my hat and walk out of it. Under these circumstances it was scarcely to be expected that Congressman Bell would pull off his coat and fight for me. Only a man of Hoke Smith's nobility could do this. He would have espoused my cause under similar conditions. It takes a big man like Smith to be able to forgive and forget. But Congressman Bell was no fighter in the political arena. He requested the appointment of Mr. A. S. Hardy, a young vigorous man who is his friend and eminently qualified to make an efficient postmaster, and stood unflinchingly by his recommendation.

There was an ulterior and deeper purpose, however than merely driving me out of the little postoffice in the mountains of Georgia and defeating Congressman Bell. He wanted to see the beginning of a move to put a Smith man in congress from the Ninth district already one of Smith's chief moguls in Georgia. He is being "collected" by friends and admirers to oppose Mr. Bell next year.

It may be possible for a Smith man to defeat Mr. Bell, but if I know the motto of the people of the blue old Ninth, it will take more than $12,000 to accomplish the feat and if Senator Clapp gets through his bill making it criminal to send outside money into other states, it may be hard to raise sufficient campaign funds. Senator Smith admitted that he spent $12,000 in his last race for Governor of Georgia.

I have literally been exiled from Georgia by the Smith regime in Georgia politics, as I have had to come here in my profession of journalism. I call on my friends in Georgia to register their friendship at the ball boxes next year when Senator Smith seeks re-election. I call on my dear father's friends and on General Longstreet's friends who feel that I live as much right to live in Georgia as Hoke Smith to remember me at the ballot boxes next year.

Washington Streets Paved.

Washington, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The West Construction company, of Chattanooga, has just completed Washington's second paving contract which represented an outlay of $40,000. The work was commenced early in May and the completed work was turned over to the city yesterday after being approved by the Jordon Engineering company, of Savannah who were employed by the city as consulting engineers of the work.

Blow for Women Who Smoke.

(From The Detroit Free Press.)
 Well, smoke as a feminine habit is apparently dying—of Ella Wheeler Wilcox is right. She is quoted in a New York newspaper as remarking that smoking is one of the greatest of beauties destroyers. Doctors of ability and experience agree with her, too. Field Marshal Methuen, of England, calls attention to the same point. And not all of the enamel in the world can hide the ravages of smoking, for they show themselves in the eyes and in the nerves. The woman who wants to preserve even a remnant of good looks will not smoke. Only those who are anxious to make themselves repulsive to themselves and others will persist in the habit of smoke testimony. "Habit? Yes, it is strong. But there are stronger things in the world than mere, paltry little habits, you know."

Out of This Great Plant Comes What You Want When You Want It—

The careful building of good transmission machinery is only a part of Dodge Service. Getting the goods to you—on time—is another part. A thousand or so master-workmen are laboring day and night building their engineering accuracy and skill into Dodge products.

One man—with a handful of assistants—directs the Dodge distribution to every part of the world. Consecutive thought and tireless energy have made possible a remarkable service.

Dodge Service means that no matter where in the United States your factory may be located, Dodge can reach you with standard equipment in double quick time. The most difficult—and consequently the most carefully arranged distributing stations are in the great South.

For years railroad facilities limited a successful service. Today Dodge-Atlanta, through its Subsidiary Service agents, can supply you with "what you want when you want it."

A break-down—cripping your factory—call Dodge. A replacement—call Dodge. A new building that should be hurried into operation—call Dodge. Say to your engineer or superintendent—"When you want power harness in a hurry—call Dodge on the phone—collect."

CITY URGES COUNTY TO CLEAN UP CREEK

Commissioners Told of Need for Removing Debris in Peachtree Creek.

To urge the absolute necessity of clearing Peachtree creek of rock and debris and to emphasize the fact that the work is imperative to the successful operation of Atlanta's new $195,000 sewerage disposal plant, Chief R. M. Clayton, of the city construction department, went before the county commission yesterday.

The city engineer called the attention of the county commission to the fact that the work was passed up favorably more than a year and a half ago, and asked for immediate action. Fletcher A. Quillian, chairman of the bond commission, also pointed out that it was the duty of the commission to do the work and thereby eliminate a danger which threatens the biggest improvement project ever accomplished in Atlanta.

"The clearance of the creek is a small detail," Chief Clayton said. "It is trifling compared to the problems we have solved in these plants. Such a small detail should not be allowed to stand as a menace to the plant."

City Data It Up to County.

The city officials placed the matter squarely up to the county commission. Bond Commissioner Quillian informed the county that Peachtree creek plant will be in operation on September 1 with three filter beds in operation, and he took the firm position that the clearing of the creek is a duty which the county owed the city not only by reason of a former promise to do the work when called upon by the city but also by reason of the advantage it will be to the treatment of the sewage which was voted in bonds by the property owners.

Because of the numerous requests particularly with work which the county commission is carrying out, the committee asked that the matter of clearing the creek be left to the Seeks to Annul Contract.

H. S. Gibbs, of Atlanta, filed suit in the superior court against the county commissioners and the H. W. Manville company to have the contract for the cork tiling for the floor of the new courthouse set aside. Gibbs sets forth that he is the agent for several manufacturing concerns and bases his complaint on the ground that the material which the contractor proposes to install does not come up to the architect's specifications. The contract aggregates $14,000.

Wright to Study Systems.

M. J. Wright, the Bertillon expert of the Atlanta police, leaves tonight for Chicago for a stay of several weeks during which time he will make a study of the metropolitan system of identifying criminals by fingerprint. Some time ago the board of police commissioners, at the instance of Chief Beavers, presented a recommendation to the city council for an appropriation of $100 for the purpose of putting in an identification system of this kind. The matter has not yet been considered by the council but it is expected that the visit of Mr. Wright to Chicago will hasten action in this important adjunct to police work.

Primitive Baptist Meeting.

For the present the Primitive Baptists will hold their meetings at the church in north house in College Park at the end of the car line. The meeting will be at 11 o'clock this morning.

Clayton Urges Work.

Captain Clayton takes the position that inasmuch as the city has been handicapped by the failure of Chester A. Dady, the first contractor, to complete the plant in time and inasmuch as Receiver Sullivan, who was put in charge of Dady's affairs, has been forced to incur additional expense in order to get sufficient stone to complete the three filter beds by the first of September, that the county should make efforts to aid the city in every possible way.

Peachtree Creek Plant is Complete.

Except for six filter beds, the sewerers will be connected this week and on September 1 as promised by the engineers the plant will be in operation. The six remaining beds will be rushed to early completion.

Assistant Engineer Hanson who has charge of the construction details of the sewage plants says that the shipment of stone is great enough to indicate that the plant will be finished in every respect before the new year.

WAITERS WILL BANQUET Employees of Georgian Terrace Hold Social Monday.

The Georgian Terrace waiters will hold their first annual banquet and social on Monday night at 225 Auburn avenue. An orchestra will be in attendance and an elaborate program of speeches and music has been prepared.

The committee on arrangements includes F. D. Carvin, chairman, A. Washington, vice chairman, J. B. McBraver, secretary.

On Refreshments—H. O. Jarrett, chairman, Thomas Gillard, vice chairman, John Fitzgibbon, secretary.

Floor Committee—John Carroll, Obie Orr, Julian Ector.

BIG EDUCATIONAL RALLY HELD AT SALEM CHURCH

A big educational rally was held at Salem church, 5 miles east of Lithonia, Friday. It was an all-day affair, breakfast dinner being served on the grounds by the 800 people present. Professor R. E. Carroll acted as master of ceremonies and the following delivered addresses: R. Frank Smith, Professor J. H. Walker, Robert S. Hunter, L. T. Y. Lynch and R. D. Evans.

In the afternoon a spelling bee was held, in which the Wesley chapel school children came out victorious. Miss Emma Wesley, principal of the Hill street school, Atlanta, presided.

FARMERS' UNION PLANS TO MOVE HEADQUARTERS

No Definite Action Taken, But Options Are Secured on Lands at Alma.

Waycross, Ga., August 23.—(Special)—No definite action was taken at today's rally at Alma, regarding the removal of the Farmers' Union headquarters, but options on a sufficient acreage to induce leaders of the organization to seriously consider moving shortly were secured.

Charles S. Barrett, national president of the Farmers' union, J. J. Brown, former assistant commissioner of agriculture and V. E. Padgett, made addresses. About eight hundred people attended.

It is understood that Mr. Brown with N. L. Rhodes, of Tennessee, will move to Alma and in the event they do this it is stated that President Barrett will seriously consider joining them. Plans are being made for establishing a big state paper and a large model farm will be a feature of the settlement. The land on which options have been given is located along the Atlanta Birmingham and Atlantic and the plans detailed today will bring about five hundred families into south Georgia during a year.

Dr. Walker Preaches Today.

By H. K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church who has returned from his vacation will preach tomorrow morning on "The Christian for the New Day." It will seek to correct some of the mistakes of "the man in the street" on the subject of what it means to be a man in the church in these times. Services in the church will be resumed the first Sunday in September.

The Ponce de Leon Apartments

OPEN SEPTEMBER FIRST, NINETEEN THIRTEEN

The Location

The magnificent structure erected by the George A. Fuller Company of New York, under contract for the Fulton Properties Company, and known as the Ponce de Leon Apartments, was completed in August and will open for occupation by its tenants on September 1, 1913.

It is located on the southeast corner of Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, Atlanta, Ga., at the intersection of the two residence thoroughfares which are probably more famous throughout the United States for their striking beauty than any boulevard of any city in the western hemisphere, with the possible exception of Fifth avenue, New York.

The site of the building is at the apex of Peachtree ridge, the highest altitude in the City of Atlanta, and from the roof garden an extended view of the entire city and the surrounding country may be obtained, bringing Stone Mountain, on the east, and Kennesaw Mountain, and the foothills of the Blue Ridge, on the north. In easy view of the observer.

The million dollar Georgian Terrace Hotel occupies the opposite corner, also facing Ponce de Leon Square, which marks the boundary line between the path of commercial industry and the palatial residences which have made this section of Atlanta famous throughout the world.

The Building

The building, which was planned by W. L. Stoddard, of New York, was designed to afford all the privacy, security, comfort and luxury that can be obtained in the most modern and expensive homes, at the same time eliminating those objectionable details that are necessary attendants upon the individual householder.

It was the aim of the owners in building the Ponce de Leon Apartments to provide, in Atlanta's choicest location, an apartment house so planned as to provide not only the maximum of light, sunshine and ventilation, but also an arrangement of rooms, and facilities for operation and service to afford every advantage of a luxurious private residence and to restrict its occupancy to desirable tenants of known respectability and standing.

The design of the building is Italian Renaissance. Its construction embraces every desirable improvement known to modern mechanics and architecture and the interior as well as the exterior of the building reflect equal credit upon the genius of the architect and the skill of the contractors in charge of its erection.

The building contains eleven stories in addition to the basement and the roof garden, and is of steel construction, absolutely fireproof and soundproof, its practical immunity from destruction by fire being recognized by its insurance rating under a nominal classification of the lowest rate enjoyed by any similar building in the Southern States.

The Detail

The entrance hall is in keeping with the general elegance and style which characterizes the building throughout, its design is dignified in character and striking in effect, being finished in Caen stone and Formosa marble, with floor of marble mosaic.

Two passenger elevators of ample capacity and handsome design, finished in Circassian walnut, are reached through the main entrance hall, serving each apartment floor, and the roof garden which crowns the structure. A service elevator is reached through the rear entrance of the building, supplying service to each floor.

The first floor contains the office and private telephone exchange, ladies' rest room, gentlemen's cloak room, public hall and foyer and a commodious cafe, which is one of the features of the building.

The visitors' gallery, located on the second floor, affords a fine view of the public hall and foyer, and is reached by direct stairway and by two passenger elevators. The second floor also contains two housekeeping suites and four bachelor suites, which, with slight modifications, are typical.

Housekeeping Suites

The floors from the third to the ninth floors, inclusive, are typical in design, affording two separate housekeeping suites and four bachelor suites, the latter being capable of separate use or as a combination suite of two, three or four rooms with independent baths.

Housekeeping suites A contain nine rooms, including three bedrooms, sleeping porch, dressing room, hall, foyer, living room, dining room, kitchen, pantry and servants' room, and are equipped with three baths, ten closets, one lavatory and two balconies.

Suite B consists of ten rooms, and includes four bedrooms, sleeping porch, foyer, living room, dining room, pantry, kitchen, servants' room, three baths, ten closets and two balconies.

These housekeeping suites are admirably adapted to entertaining, as the bedrooms are entirely separate and distinct from all the living apartments, although so arranged as to be easy of access to one another or to the foyer or living room.

The kitchens, which are commodious and conveniently arranged, with ample light and ventilation, immediately connect with the servants' room, which is equipped with a private bath, closet and spacious balcony.

The service elevator and independent staircase immediately adjoin the kitchens, which are equipped with separate entrance to the service hall, shut off from the main portion of the building, and each apartment is supplied with a patent garbage receptacle, recessed in the service hall.

The kitchens, pantries and servants' rooms are supplied with hot and cold water and with every convenience for easy and sanitary attention to domestic detail.

Mechanical refrigeration of the most modern and approved type is supplied direct to kitchen and pantry with modern mechanical refrigerators of ample capacity, durable construction and handsome finish, of which each housekeeping suite contains two, one in the pantry and another in the kitchen, making it possible to protect food and supplies from contaminating odors and obviating all the inconvenience, expense and annoyance incident to ice refrigeration.

The pantries are also equipped with sinks and cupboards, and are so arranged as to afford direct and cross-ventilation. Special attention has been given to the arrangement of the dining rooms, which are striking in design, affording immediate access to the pantry on one side and from the living room, as well as from the private passage, on the other. Wide observation windows afford all the light and air that could be desired, and the juxtaposition of the doors and windows affords constant and direct ventilation between the light court and the exterior atmosphere.

The living rooms are designed to afford the substantial comfort of a private residence and are free from the conventional appearance too often found in hotels and apartment buildings.

The adjoining foyer is so constructed as to afford opportunity to transact business matters or interview temporary callers without disturbing other members of the family, or guests, who may occupy the living room or other apartments of the suite, or it may be, at will, thrown en suite with the living room and dining room, making ideal salons for entertaining.

All bedrooms are commodious, light and airy, each housekeeping suite being provided with a combination wall safe for the temporary protection of jewelry and other valuables, and each room having immediate and direct access to a private bath.

The bath rooms are furnished with the most modern and luxurious fixtures and appliances, and are finished in the most refined style with white tiled floors and wainscoting.

The front balcony attached to each housekeeping suite is unique in apartment buildings, and is peculiarly adapted to the demands of the southern climate. A magnificent view from Ponce de Leon Square is commanded by the occupants, who may enjoy the breezy coolness of the afternoon shade with perfect privacy. The side balconies are primarily designed for sleeping porches, but may be readily adapted for use as conservatories, winter gardens or sun-baths at the will of the tenant.

The servants' balconies afford opportunity for the discharge of culinary duties in the comfortable environment of the outside atmosphere, and, in providing domestics with a comfort not ordinarily obtainable in apartments, will materially aid in solving the servant problem.

Each housekeeping suite has direct access to two passenger elevators and one service elevator as well as to the main marble staircase in front and the steel service stairway in the rear and a mail chute on each floor permits the posting of mail at all hours, at the tenant's door.

Tenants are relieved from the annoyance of all such problems as garbage removal, as the janitor of the building gives personal attention to such details, frequently removing, at stated intervals, the accumulations which are temporarily accommodated in patent, odorless, recessed receptacles.

Individual storage rooms are provided in the basement, free of charge, for the use of tenants of housekeeping suites in storing unused articles of furniture, trunks, etc., these storage compartments being conveniently located with reference to the alley turnway and to the service elevator.

Reference to the printed plans of the typical floors illustrate the purpose of the architect to provide the occupants of the housekeeping suites with every comfort, convenience and luxury incident to the arrangement of the most modern and palatial residences and a continued study of the plans will constantly disclose new and striking effects and advantages in the disposition of the various apartments.

Bachelor Apartments

Each floor contains a limited number of apartments which are not provided with housekeeping facilities, and which are intended for occupancy by tenants who desire to avoid the care and responsibilities of complete housekeeping, and who may desire to take their meals in the excellent cafe provided for the purpose on the first floor of the building.

Such apartments are arranged to be occupied singly or en suite, and are so admirably planned as to enable the tenant to take one or more rooms, with or without baths, at will, so that it is possible for a suite to consist of one, two, three or four rooms, with one bath for the suite, or with a bath communicating into each room.

On the floors from the second to the ninth, inclusive, these bachelor suites occupy the most desirable space and location in the building, fronting directly on Ponce de Leon Square, commanding an unsurpassed view and affording constant and delightful breezes. Two passenger elevators and the broad entrance of the marble staircase immediately face the entrance to each of these apartments, and the receptacle of the mail chute on each floor is just at hand.

The tenth and eleventh floors are devoted exclusively to bachelor apartments, and the rooms and halls are so arranged as to permit the formation of convenient suites composed of two or more rooms, either with or without baths, living rooms or private dining rooms.

The altitude of these apartments renders them much in demand, as the building is absolutely fireproof and is served by fast moving elevators, and as their altitude lifts them above the strata of dust and smoke which may be found existing to a greater or less extent in every municipal atmosphere.

These rooms offer inviting opportunity for separate small families or bachelors engaging individual bedrooms and baths, to unite in maintaining joint living rooms. Special cafe arrangements may be made for the regular or occasional service of meals to private dining rooms attached to these suites.

Special Features

The roof garden which crowns the entire structure was designed not only for ornament, but for use, comfort and pleasure as well. It is the purpose of the owners of the building to provide in the roof garden an acceptable substitute for the famous yard gardens of southern homes, and the summer months will doubtless find the Ponce de Leon roof garden the rendezvous of Atlanta's social circle.

The building is supplied throughout with vacuum cleaning process operated from a compression plant in the basement, and eliminating from the building the germ-laden dust which follows in the wake of the obsolete broom and duster.

Immense ventilating fans, also operated by the machinery in the basement, and on the roof through chutes extending from the basement to the roof, keep every part of the building supplied with fresh currents of ever-changing, wholesome air.

The building is screened throughout with the finest quality of copper fly screening, with metal rims, and copper weather strips protect each window against storms.

Each room is equipped with the best quality of Holland shades of uniform type and color, and electric fixtures are supplied to each apartment, at the expense of the building.

Extra Service

The basement contains a modern sanitary laundry, equipped with porcelain tubs, piped for hot and cold water and for steam, each individual equipment being separated by woven wire screen partitions, preventing the confusion of property.

The laundry is also equipped with a patent steam drier, with individual compartments, protected by lock and key, for each tenant.

A nominal charge will be made for the use of this service, the charge being merely intended to cover the actual cost of the service, including hot and cold water, steam and electricity.

An ice-making machine is installed in the basement of the building, and for those tenants desiring the service, cracked ice will be delivered daily in quantities desired, at the nominal cost of furnishing the service.

Many of the living rooms of the building are piped for gas logs, which may, when desired, be supplied and maintained by the tenants.

A limited number of rooms will be furnished to suit the wishes and taste of tenants desiring furnished rooms, and a small charge will be added to cover the expense incident to this additional service.

Maid service will also be provided for those tenants who do not desire to incur the expense and annoyance of maintaining personal servants, the cost of this extra service depending upon the hours for which the service is engaged.

The Cafe

Perhaps the most attractive feature of the entire building is the commodious cafe located on the east side of the first floor, specially constructed to afford the maximum of light and ventilation, equipped with the most attractive outfit that can be supplied, and especially designed to produce upon the eye the restful impressions of simple elegance and quiet comfort.

Everything suggesting the conventional discomfort of the hotel dining room has been studiously eliminated, the purpose of the owners being to afford to the patrons of the cafe not only the menu but the atmosphere enjoyed by those who "live at home." This cafe is conducted for the benefit of tenants of the building, on which account the rate for monthly meals has been fixed at a minimum price only sufficient to cover the actual cost of the service, which is exclusively table d'hotel.

A private dining room has been provided in connection with the cafe, in order that dinner parties and similar entertainments may be given, by patrons of the cafe, in the atmosphere of privacy necessary to the success of such functions.

The cafe is operated by Mrs. Ella Wright Wilcox, who was placed in charge of this department by the owners on account of the eminent reputation she has justly acquired in the previous conduct of similar enterprises, on a smaller scale.

The reputation of Mrs. Wilcox affords sufficient guarantee that the cafe will maintain at all times the highest standard of excellence, in thorough harmony with the type and quality of every department and appointment of the building, which has been pronounced the finest and most complete apartment house of the size in the world.

The Management

No feature of construction, equipment or decoration has been accorded greater care by the owners than the management of the building.

Mr. R. L. Swett, for many years chief engineer of the Georgian Terrace Hotel, and whose entire experience has been devoted to similar work, is superintendent of the building.

His office is conveniently located on the first floor, and he will be at all times accessible to tenants, as his residence apartments are located within the building. He will appreciate prompt and explicit complaints of any nature.

The greatest care has been exercised in the selection of every employe whose duties require contact with tenants and their guests, and every effort has been made to provide the building with every modern facility essential to the complete and perfect home.

The Tenants

While the arrangement of the apartments on each floor insures absolute privacy to the household of every tenant, the management has exercised a commendable conservatism in passing on applications for space.

No publicity can properly be given to the names of the tenants who already occupy apartments in the building, but the list, which will be open to inspection, demonstrates the high standard of patronage the Ponce de Leon has already acquired and which it will maintain.

It will be the painstaking aim of the management to maintain, at all times, throughout the building, the decorum and atmosphere that distinguishes the American home and lends peculiar charm to the social life of the Southern States.

The Rates

The rates quoted on all apartments are absolutely fixed, no reductions being made except as quoted in the rate sheet, as determined by location or by the combination of suites.

TWO MEN ARE BEATEN BY ENRAGED HUSBAND

Believing They Had Used Improper Language to His Wife, He Knocks Them Out.

While riding in his automobile by the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets Saturday night at 2:30 o'clock, with several of his officers as passengers, Chief Beavers noticed a crowd collected on the corner and stopped his machine to investigate.

T. J. Forrest, 607 South A-street, and W. L. Duncan, 14 Leotoe street, were found lying on the sidewalk badly beaten and nearly senseless. They did not know the name of the man who had attacked them, but stated that he had started in to beat them without any provocation whatsoever. According to the story told the officers by bystanders it appears that some man was walking down Whitehall street with his wife and heard some wife language used.

Apparently thinking that Forrest and Duncan were the men who did the swearing, the man struck first one and then the other with his fists, knocking them to the pavement, and then disappeared before the officers arrived on the scene. The two men were arrested and taken to police headquarters, where a charge of being drunk and disorderly was lodged against them when it was found that they had been drinking.

ARENDALE ARRESTED ON AN OLD CHARGE

Will Arendale, a white man, 25 years of age, was arrested Saturday afternoon for an offense committed three years ago. At that time Will Waldrop, a farmer, living near South River, Ga., was walking on a downtown street in Atlanta, and held a $20 bill in his hands. Some one snatched the bill from his hand and disappeared in the crowd. Arendale was arrested for the crime, and was positively identified by Waldrop as the man who snatched his money. In some way Waldrop's address was mixed up, and he was not notified when the case came to trial and Arendale was released.

Saturday afternoon Waldrop met Arendale, who was recently paroled from the chain-gang, where he was serving a term for highway robbery, and immediately had him placed under arrest. Arendale will be given a hearing in the recorder's court Monday.

Jacobs' Drug Store Robbed.

Burglars entered the Jacobs drug store at Mitchell and Madison streets early Saturday morning and secured $22 from the cash drawer, according to a complaint lodged with the police Saturday afternoon. The burglary was effected by breaking the glass from the side door of the store. Nothing else was disturbed in the store, and absolutely no clue was left for the police to work upon.

PLAYGROUND RALLY EXERCISES SATURDAY

Grant Park Athletes Already So Far Ahead They Are Assured of Victory.

The remaining events on the program of the playground rally, begun Friday afternoon at the Grant park ball grounds, will be contested next Saturday afternoon, it is understood. On account of the time consumed with the first events, more than half of the contests had to be postponed, and must be decided before the championship of the city parks can be officially given to any one playground.

Playground games—"Bum, Bum, Bum" by Pine Hill; "Slap Dare," by Stewart avenue; "How Do You Do?" by Grant park; "Three Deep," by Joyner park; "Whip to the Right," by Mims park; "Drop the Handkerchief," by English avenue.

The Fifth Regiment band, which furnished such excellent music for the exercises Friday, will again be engaged for the postponed events next Saturday.

W. T. Fields, Athens.
Athens, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Just two weeks after his father was buried, W. T. Fields, a foundry man of Athens, weighing more than any other man in the county, with one exception, will be interred Sunday in Oconee cemetery.

GODBEE GAVE PROPERTY TO DAUGHTER MAGGIE

Deed of Estate to Child by First Wife Eliminates Contest Over Will.

Savannah, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Victors of a hard-fought legal battle over the estate left by Judge Walter S. Godbee, who, with his wife, Mrs. Florence Boyer Godbee, was shot and killed Monday by Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, his former wife, vanished when it became known that in 1907 Judge Godbee deeded all of his property to Maggie Godbee, of Augusta, a daughter by his first marriage.

After temporary administrators had been appointed to take charge of the property of Judge Godbee and his murdered wife all of the prospective heirs retained counsel. It was learned that a contest was imminent. Discovery that the property had been deeded to Miss Maggie Godbee, however, has largely put an end to the speculation, as some of the prominent lawyers here say it will be impossible to set aside the deed.

Leaped Far to Death.
Chicago, August 23.—A man believed to have been Henry Koothagan, a painter, jumped to his death today from the roof of the 19-story Masonic temple. The body landed among persons thronging State street, but none was hit.

GAMINETTI APPALLED AS HE THINKS OF FUTURE

Companion of Diggs Says That He Must Leave California.

San Francisco, August 23.—F. Drew Caminetti foresees a gloomy future. He professes not to be worrying over his approaching trial for alleged violations of the Mann act for which his companion, Maury I. Diggs, has been convicted, but he appears to be appalled by the prospect of trying to live down the scandal caused by his trip to Reno with Diggs, Marsha Worthington and Lola Norris.

"Suppose," he said today, "the indictments against me were dropped. What could I do? There is nothing in California for me—I must go where the name of Caminetti is unknown. When public opinion is against a man it is just about his finish. After I was indicted I went back to Sacramento and tried to get a job. I didn't care what kind of a job—anything to keep my mind off my troubles. But nobody would have me around."

"You think it's easy for me to see myself pointed out and whispered about? Well, it's not, and I have a hard time trying to appear as if I didn't mind it."

Caminetti denied that he had become reconciled with his wife. He said that

First Bale in Wilkes.

Washington, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The first bale of cotton of the 1913 crop was marked Thursday by H. L. Aycock and his son, who produced a bale of good middling cotton weighing 420 pounds, for which they received 15 cents per pound. Wilkes county's first bale this year was just one week earlier than the initial bale last season, despite the prediction that the crop would be fully two weeks later in moving this year than it was in 1912.

They had had dinner at the same house once since he had been in San Francisco and that he had been once to play with his little daughter.

THE SOUTHERN STATES LIFE ANNIVERSARY CLUB ADJOURNS

Sixth Annual Meeting of the Leading Producers in This Strong Southern Company. Every Man Has Written Over $100,000 Worth of Business in the Past Year. Many Fine Papers Read.

Believing in the old song, "Always Leave Them Laughing When You Say Good-Bye," W. S. Witham, the well-known farmer and financier, brought the Sixth Annual Convention of the Anniversary Club of the Southern States Life Insurance Company to a close, when, at the Hotel Ansley last night, he responded to the toast, "A Toast Like a Text, Is Given to Talk From."

Toast Delivered. Clark Howell, Speaker, W. H. Burwell of the House of Representatives, Hon. Cyrus B. Brown of Alabama, and the officers of the Anniversary Club were the speakers at this brilliant gathering.

J. C. WALDEN, SR., President

The first session of the Sixth Convention of the Anniversary Club met on Friday morning at the Hotel Ansley, with large attendance, and one of the most interesting sessions in the history of this splendid organization was held.

Strong Membership. Its membership is composed of those nees during the twelve months, which ended June 30.

President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Southern States Life Insurance Company, extended cordial greetings to the Club and congratulated them upon the splendid showing they had made and upon the wonderful beginning for the next year, as the July business was a record month for production in the history of the Company.

Offices Are Won. Office is won, not given, in this Club, and the agent who produces the most business is automatically elected President. The runner-up is Vice President, and the leading producers in each state are State Vice Presidents.

J. C. Walden, State of Alabama, produced the most business, and was installed as President. J. R. Williams, of South Carolina, followed a close second, and was installed Vice President.

The leaders in each state were named as Vice Presidents as follows: T. Peters, Jr. for Georgia, B. B. Murray for Florida, H. Clay Smith for Alabama, G. J. McDowell for South Carolina.

The other members of the Club to qualify were H. N. McAfee of Georgia, a member for six years; H. Willis Hogg of Georgia, a member for three years; J. T. Weems of Georgia, the oldest member of the agency force of the Company in point of service, for the sixth time; Fred Hines of South Carolina, for the fifth time, and L. E. Black, Jr., C. S. Gurr and J. R. Munroe for the first time.

The photograph of the Anniversary Club, which appears on this page, was taken, after which the Club was entertained at luncheon at the Capital City Club by President Moore. Friday afternoon the Club attended the baseball game and Friday evening occupied boxes at the Forsyth theater.

The concluding session of this interesting convention was held on Saturday morning, at which time a symposium of talks, entitled "Confidential Chats With Medical Department," was participated in by E. M. Veatch, Dr. Gaines, Dr. W. S. Kendrick and Samuel Barnett, Actuary. This was followed by discussion and questions.

Strong Address. "The Company's Method of Payment

The banquet at the Hotel Ansley last night was probably the most brilliant gathering held in the history of the Club and of the hotel.

Over 100 guests were entertained. The colors of the Southern States Life Insurance Company—Red, Blue and White—and the Keystone Arch, the insignia of the Company, were carried out in the flowers, ices and place-cards.

Moore Presided. President Wilmer L. Moore presided as toast master and introduced speakers. J. C. Walden, Sr., President of the Club, was the first, and his response to the toast, "The Anniversary Club: The Top Run," was warmly received. He was followed by J. R. Williams, Vice President, whose subject, "The Southern States Life—Confidence Regets Loyalty," was handled in a splendid manner.

Over One Hundred Prominent Guests Attend Brilliant Banquet at Hotel Ansley Last Night—Speaker Burwell, Hon. Cyrus B. Brown of Alabama, Hon. W. S. Witham and Clark Howell Among the Speakers.

G. J. McDowell, a member of the Anniversary Club, and a familiar speaker at these banquets, responded to the toast, "The Keystone Degree—An Incentive to Work."

Speaker W. H. Burwell, of the General Assembly of Georgia, delivered a splendid toast in response to President Moore's cordial introduction on "Success Is Measured by Ambition." He was followed by Hon. Clark How-

He also signaled his intention of making his election for next year sure by not only leading the agency force in the month of July, but by beating his own and all other previous records of written business in any one month, and thereby establishing a high mark for agents to aim at. Brief addresses were delivered to the Club by the President and Vice President of the Club.

Moore Re-Elected. Robt. F. Moore, Agency Secretary, was unanimously re-elected Secretary of the Anniversary Club, which position he has held with credit since the beginning of the organization.

Following the roll call of the Anniversary Club, badges and certificates were distributed, after which the first "Keystone Degree" was conferred. "New Policy" was the subject of an Dent Invincible—Bisland Has Great Day—Nixon's Debut Great—C. Brown Driven From Rubber—Score 8-1.

By Dick Jensen.

The Crackers climbed into second place Saturday when they triumphed over the Billikens by the count of 8 to 1, making three out of four in the series, and evening up the count in games played for the season, each team winning ten.

One of the best Saturday events that has ever attended a ball game in Atlanta was an appeal to witness the drubbing of the Billikens, and they saw what they came for. It is variously estimated that between seven and 7,000 fans saw the battle.

Robert Dent was on the mound for the Crackers. The big right hander was "right" from the game. The air ran that the Indies got was the result of Nixon's great effort in trying for a line drive, which went for a triple, and an error by Joe Dunn, who tagged the runner out at first base, but had the ball kicked out of his hand when he was spiked.

Curley Brown, twirling for the Billikens, was driven from the mound for the second time during the series. He was spiked by Dick Jensen, who, however, he did not get out of the game. Everything but a strike that went in his favor, line drives that were batted into the outfield in a sensational manner.

The tide changed in the fifth and sixth innings when Nixon was played for the first time. All he had from the pitcher was a slider and that was not very hot.

Bisland's Great Day.

No sportswriter has ever played the great game of baseball at Ponce de Leon that Bisland had on Saturday. He not only belted in the most sensational homer, but he hung up a Southern League record for the most number of assists by a shortstop.

Fifteen times the ball was hit to Bisland's territory. Half of them were hard bounces, but he appeared every one of them, showing one after another, showing one after another and fourteen assists.

Bisland also had a great day at the bat. He got two clean singles and scored a couple of runs.

At Nixon's debut in the eighth inning, the Crackers had a hit, but it was the delight of every fan present. He accepted one pitch and pulled a man going from first to third on a single to right field. Despite the arguments to the contrary, he did not make an error when he tried to Manly's line drive, he scored a triple. It could not be scored any other way.

But it was at the bat that Nixon started the most. The first Billikens fielder had a base, three small errors were made by Manly's line drive, but he scored a triple. It could not be scored any other way.

The Billikens had all kinds of luck in the first two innings, when they drove in at someone and double plays resulted. The one exception was Welchance's apparent base hit, falling over backward, but hitting the ball, when he was in time to double long at first.

How Runs Counted.

The Billikens scored first. They counted their only run in the fifth inning. Manning smashed in a liner to right field, which Nixon made a great try for. The ball took a false hop and went for a triple. Manning scored when Snedcor hit to Bisland and Dunn dropped the ball after tagging him out.

The Crackers tied it in their half. Bisland led off with a single and went to second on Snedcor's error. Holland sacrificed him to third, and Nixon smashed one through Manning for a single, counting Bisland in.

Then came the round that routed Mr. Brown, and put the Crackers in second place. There were too many sixes. There were six runs and six hits in the sixth inning.

Agler led off with a hit to Snedcor, which he beat out. Long beat out a bunt. Welchance smashed a triple to left scoring both men and counted himself on Snedcor's long fly to center, which on any other field in the circuit would have been over the fence.

Bisland drove in three runs. Holland sacrificed and Nixon drove Bisland home by handcarrying Elwert with a liner down the left field foul line. Both Holland and Nixon advanced on the throw to the plate. Dunn hit to Brown and Holland was run down.

Elliot then proceeded to make things certain by smashing a triple to the scoreboard scoring both men. But he cut second base and was called out by the umpire when the ball was relayed.

Agler got two bases in the seventh when Manning dropped his easy fly, long beat out a hit. Welchance forced Long at second. Agler counted when Wallop Smith poked another to the tall unit, which McDowell caught under right near the center field fence.

CLEARING OFF THE GROUND FOR LOCAL AUTODROME

Work has started on the local autodrome. The accompanying photograph was snapped Friday afternoon, showing a part of the large force of men who are engaged in clearing off the ground.

As will be seen in the photo, wheels, heavier than the average man's head, are growing all over the large acreage that the board saucer will cover. Secretary Frank Weldon, of the Atlanta Autodrome Athletic association, that will be held here, started a force of men to work Wednesday, in the manner shown above.

The clearing of the ground of these woods will take about a week longer, however, men are being added to the squad every day, and the work is expected to be rushed to the limit.

As soon as the ground has been freed of these weeds and the few trees are raised, the stumps dynamited, etc., tion, that will control all sporting the little filling and grading that is necessary will be started at once.

The filling and grading will require about 10 days. By the second week in September actual work on the saucer itself will be started.

Orders have already been placed for the 60,000 feet of lumber and the 50 tons of nails that will be necessary to complete the track.

more towards advertising Atlanta than any one thing has done in the past.

All existing track automobile records are sure to fall. All the best drivers, all the biggest and fastest cars will be brought here.

Five minute car schedule from Five Points direct to the autodrome entrance and return will be run.

Slowly, quietly, but surely, all arrangements are being perfected for the great track, that promises to do and Power company has gone over the ground over which the spur track from Peachtree street direct to the entrance of the autodrome will be laid.

They will start work in ample time to have the spur finished before the track is ready to open.

The Old Time Fan Talks HENRY GRADY'S PART Of Old Southern League

By Charles A. Lamar.

Just thirty years ago—August, 1883—the Breunans, a team of professionals, under the management of Jack Brennan, of New Orleans, played a series of games at Pensacola, Fla., Columbus and Augusta, Ga. It was the first team of all professionals ever seen in Georgia. The splendid ball played by all Breunans aroused a strong desire for a southern league, which was organized in Atlanta in the winter of 1885.

The Breunans were very anxious to play in Atlanta, but declined to take a chance, because of the lack of adequate playing grounds. Henry Grady desired them to come anyway and play at Ponce de Leon, but Jack Brennan couldn't see it and there was nothing doing.

The first game they played was at Pensacola and oddly enough they were kalsmanned all the way, getting it on the beam by a score of 4 to 0. And that was the only game they played in Atlanta, guided the destiny of the Pensacola youngsters and what they did to the Breunans was an elegant sufficiency.

Manning's Hard Lower. Landry and Manning made up the battery for the Breunans. After the Pensacola game Manning, who was a hard loser, couldn't be consoling to his friends in New Orleans.

"Pensacola is my gods' home," said the Breunans, who were disappointed at Pensacola. He rejoiced at Columbus and Augusta. The Augusta amateurs were easy work, but the Columbus Stars, led by Hub Collins, a professional infielder, on second, gave them a stiff fight, but the Breunans made a clean sweep at that.

Ruhl and Walker were professionals from Louisville, and Wolfe, who covered left field for the Breunans, was an outfielder for the Louisville National league team. Still later "Hub" Collins went to the Brooklyn, where he was killed in a collision with another player while retaining at top speed for a fly ball.

Landry and Walker and also Collins and the amateurs had about as much chance against the Stars as a canary against a gas house. Henry Grady organized an Atlanta team with a professional battery and went after the Columbus outfit hammer and tongs.

Columbus v. Atlanta. To say that the battles between Columbus and Atlanta on the ball field engendered an implacable war every time the teams met would be well within the truth. Yet there were no casualties worth mentioning, although the melées often got to the jumping station and entirely too rough for all hands and then the police came on the run. And it's well they did.

One day in Atlanta "Hub" Collins, of Columbus, then playing first, held an Atlanta runner on the bag. That brought on pandemonium that would make a no show on a circus parade sound like a twitter from a humming bird.

Even the old-timers quit keeping Wares, 2b, and Snedcor, 1b, from their pipes with outbursts of indignation. But the police relieved the situation by escorting Collins from the ball yard. The Atlanta directors then barred him from the park.

But they couldn't bar him in Columbus. Elwert and Leighton were the battery for Atlanta, but they were far inferior to Ruhl and Walker. That, with the superior team work of the stars and the game play of Collins, put the Athletics to the Atlanta continent and there was nothing to it but a through ticket to London by sea. The Stars were invincible.

The last three games of the season were played at Columbus and the feeling between the two teams was very strong, having been accentuated by the unsportsmanlike conduct of Collins referred to above. But the Stars took all three because they were at home and also the better team.

Thus ended the bitterest series of baseball games ever played in Georgia, since the days of the Georgia nine, since then, so far as my knowledge goes.

"Corner In Beets." After the first game was won by Columbus Jake Hurray, then sheriff of Muscogee county and demon fan, sent the Irish to have to hurry. The boys are anxious to know.

Great losers are the English. They've got a dub prize fighter balking in a cave when it comes to boxing. They contend they can't win at all. They contend they can't win at all. They contend they can't win at all.

McLoughlin won at tennis because he specialized on a "smashing service." The English could easily do that. Well, why didn't they? What should worry, he a champion of "fair play" and whine when I lose.

Crackers Have Chance. Mr. B. Smith and his athletes still have a chance to get by before the strenuous fight comes to a close. But all hands will have to get together and pay strict attention to the main business in hand. It's hard to understand why the Crackers are not on top of the heap in spite of the mishaps and misfortunes, which couldn't be a show on a circus parade foot team in all departments of the game.

Where some of the alleged umpires were entered in a scale, there are men on the staff who have the qualifications for the work required. They are men who have a good much backbone and they haven't a word to say about it.

It is simply an outrageous proposition and wouldn't be tolerated in the National and American leagues for one moment.

The Crackers undoubtedly have the "class." Let us hope they may get their share of the "breaker" and put over the punch that will cop the bunting.

Anyway, they haven't cracked, have they? I pause for a rebuttal.

Distie League. It is none of my blasted business, but it is a cinch that the Distie league is in for a pear-shaped time of it from start to finish. Think of "continuous" ball in the south; it's enough to make the angels weep. There isn't the ghost of a chance for success because "continuous" ball is not to mention Shreveport, New York. The new league is in bad from the get-away and its road is up hill all the way and paved with buzz saws and dynamite cartridges. Take it from an observer.

TENNIS TOURNNEY IN SEMI-FINALS

Wallace Johnson Faces Champion McLoughlin and Niles Meets Norris Williams Monday at Newport.

Newport, R. I., August 23.—Wallace F. Johnson and E. Norris Williams II. won their way into the semi-final round of the all-courts singles championship today, defeating J. R. Strachan and W. M. Washburn, respectively, in the sixth day's play of the annual tournament of the United States National Lawn Tennis association.

Johnson defeated Strachan 2-6, 6-2, 6-4 and Williams, 6-1, 7-5, 8-6. In both cases the scores indicated clearly the superiority of the victors. Williams will face champion Maurice E. McLoughlin Monday.

Johnson started slowly. The tournament committee allotted the grand stand court today to the Johnson-McLoughlin match. Johnson started slowly and for a few minutes the stocky Californian appeared to be making a runaway match of the play.

Johnson's record against Washburn was 19 games and 26 points to 9 games and 75 points. Washburn made his stand in the second set, which he carried to defeat chiefly because of careless play by Williams.

Williams' record against Washburn was 19 games and 26 points to 9 games and 75 points. Washburn made his stand in the second set, which he carried to defeat chiefly because of careless play by Williams.

Forty Games Won in Ninth In the American League

RED SOX ARE BEST

Boston fans probably have a perfect right to complain of the showing of their Red Sox in the pennant race this season, having won seven games in the ninth inning and only having won three contests since then in the final spasm.

The records of the other American league teams in games decided in the ninth inning is as follows: Detroit won 5, lost 8; St. Louis, won 5, lost 6; Chicago, won 4, lost 4; New York, won 3, lost 4; Philadelphia, won 2, lost 5.

In 35 of the 40 American league games decided in the ninth this season the winning run was put on the records either on a hit or an out; in three contests errors decided the tide; in one a steal of the plate settled things, and in another the pitcher forced the deciding count over by issuing a pass.

Only one American leaguer has succeeded in driving home the winning run in three contests. He is Tom Spink, of Boston, who won the Chambers cup offered to the most valuable player in the younger organization last season.

The trophy winner has caused dejection to be marked up against Chief Duffy Lewis of Boston and Earl Hamer of Cleveland, Maurice Rath of Chicago and Pete Compton of St. Louis. The latter was acting in a pinch-hitting capacity on each occasion he made himself popular with his boss, George Stovall. Other sub switters who have won games in the ninth this year are Carlisch of Cleveland, Brief of St.

Louis and Williams of Washington. The players responsible for their teams' ninth inning successes are enumerated below:

Heroes of the Ninth.
Boston 7—Speaker, 3; Lewis, 2; Carrigan, 1; Gardner, 1.
Cleveland 3—Minnick, 1; Moeller, 1; Morgan, 1; Williams, 1; Milan, 1.
Detroit 2—Clegg, 1; Gandy, 1.
Chicago 2—Olson, 2; Lajoie, 1; Carlisle, 1; Denny, 1.
St. Louis 5—Compton, 2; Ertel, 1; Arnew, 1; Johnson, 1.
New York 3—Crawford, 1; Moriarty, 1; Gaherty, 1; Cobb, 1.
Philadelphia 2—McInnis, 1; Lapp, 1.
The pitcher who has figured in the greatest number of ninth-inning reverses this season is Tom Hughes, of Washington. He has been the Senators' moundman in three games that the enemy have grabbed at the finish.

Washington has not let any games escape in the ninth. On the contrary, the Senators have rallied four times in the ninth behind the pitcher, pausing the year and pulled games out of the fire. The American league pitchers charged with ninth-inning defeats this year follow:

Beaten in the Ninth.
Cleveland 7—Steen, 1; Cullen, 1; Greec, 1; Kahler, 1; Falkenberg, 1; Blanding, 1; Mitchell, 1.
St. Louis 6—Hamilton, 2; Stone, 1; Washington, 1; Leverenz, 1; Wellman, 1.
Detroit 6—Lake, 2; Bush, 1; Dubuc, 1; Whittell, 1; Klayfater, 1.
Philadelphia 5—Bender, 2; Brown, 1; Plank, 1; Bush, 1.
New York 4—Keating, 1; Ford, 1; Fitch, 1; Shultz, 1.
Chicago 4—Scott, 2; Russell, 1; Walsh, 1.
Boston 3—O'Brien, 1; Wood, 1; Hall, 1.

Clinton Prough leads twirlers. Madison claims amateur title. Pugh's disturber wins motorboat title.

Clinton Prough, the big right-hander of the Birmingham Barons, leads the Southern league twirlers with twenty-one victories, five defeats and one tie, a percentage of .603.

Harry Coveleskie, the big Pole, of Chattanooga, is second with twenty-four victories, eight defeats and two ties, a percentage of .750. Pugh, with twenty-one wins and five losses and one tie, a percentage of .700, is third.

Here are the leading twirlers of the league, up to and including the games played Friday, August 22. Atlanta has three, Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery one each, and Chattanooga one man in the front row.

Only 2 Weeks

Crackers Have But Fifteen More Games Until Season Ends

Turtles Here This Week for Four. Then Pelicans Come for Three Doubleheaders.

Only two weeks of play remains, and the Southern league pennant race for the season of 1913 will be a thing of the past.

Locally, but fifteen more games remain to be played, with the Memphis, New Orleans, Mobile and Chattanooga clubs, as the opponents of the locals, the teams appearing here in the order named.

The Turtles will be here Monday, playing a four-game series, which will be brought to a close with the game Thursday afternoon. It will be the final meeting between the two teams this season.

The Turtles and the Crackers have engaged in sixteen battles this season, the Crackers winning 9 and the Turtles 7. It will be a close race, as the only been able to win 1 out of the games played. At Red Elm they copped 6 of the 10 engagements.

The latter part of the coming week will be a strenuous one. The New Orleans fall-end Pelicans will be the opponents of the locals, with doubleheaders Friday and Saturday. They will play two games the following Monday, which will be Labor day.

Despite their fall-end standing, the Pelicans have been hard on the locals all season. The teams have engaged in sixteen battles. The Crackers have won 9, the Pelicans 6, and 3 have been drawn. It will be played off this time. The Crackers have won 4, lost 1 and tied 1 with the Pelicans.

Starting with Tuesday of the following week, the Mobile Gulls, the league leaders, will be the team that the Crackers will have to overhaul to win the pennant, will play four games with the locals.

Gulls Win Easily. To date the Crackers have been just as easy pickings for the Gulls. The Barons were for the Crackers, but despite the big handicap, the locals are going to go after every one of the four games. It will be a close race, as necessary if we hope to overhaul them.

In the sixteen games the two teams have played the Gulls have copped eleven, and but one has been won by the locals. In Mobile we only won three out of the ten played, while at Ponce de Leon we did better, winning two and dropping out.

By the time these two teams lock horns, there may be something vital at stake. The Crackers are climbing while the Gulls are just about breaking even.

The final game. The season will be played Saturday, September 6, with the Chattanooga Lookouts as the locals' opponents, with Harry Coveleskie probably creating the mound once more in his role of "Putting the Jinx on the Crackers."

These teams have battled 31 times this season. The Crackers have won 12, the Lookouts 7 and 2 have been ties. At Ponce de Leon the locals have won 6 and lost 3, tying 2. At Lookoutville we copped 2 and dropped 4.

Bob Messenger, of Birmingham, leads the Southern league's stealers. The Red-footed Baron, having purloined Harry's base in 124 games this season.

Dave Robertson of Mobile, a second-year slugger, is third with forty-eight swipes in 146 games.

Here are the ten leading base stealers of the league up to and including the games played Friday, August 22.

Player and teams. G. S. P. C. Messenger, Birmingham 124 56 .451
Robertson, Mobile 110 52 .437
Wares, Montgomery 105 43 .414
Sarr, Mobile 98 32 .333

Barons' Star First; Coveleskie Second—Three Crackers, Price, Conzelman and Dent, in First Ten.

Won and Only Ten Lost, Playing the Strongest Ball Teams.

Chicago, August 23.—Thirty thousand spectators today saw Disturber III, who was piloted by Commodore James H. Pugh, of Chicago, win the American motorboat championship.

Disturber III, did the circuit in 42:47, while Baby Reliance, of Canton, Ohio, was second in 43:02-3-5.

The champion, which carries with it a $5,000 trophy, was open to boats of all sizes and the Pugh boat, Disturber III, had a 24-horse motor and Kitty Hawk V won the right to contend in previous trials. Barnacle failed to start.

Disturber III is among those that will represent the United States at the international races in England. Disturber III has 24 windmills with 62-horse power and takes 100 gallons of gasoline an hour.

PHYSICIAN'S BILLS AND AUTO UPKEEP

Two Things Average Man Dodges as Long as Possible to Damage of Health and Ruin of His Automobile.

For some unexplainable reason the average American citizen balks at paying physicians' bills and upkeep expense for his automobile. The physician must live and is worthy of his hire, although this is disputed by new thought devotees and notables like Fra Elbertus Hubbard.

The owner of an automobile must necessarily spend a certain amount for upkeep each season. One of the important items of expense is the tire, and tire makers have never been able to build a tire that would last as long as the automobile, so replacements must be expected.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent each year for the upkeep alone and the motorist is constantly confronted with the problem: "What tire is the easiest riding and will give me the most mileage for my money?"

The selection of a tire is important. Upon it depends the peace of mind and comfort of the user, as well as the amount of money spent for the upkeep.

Mr. Price, local manager of Diamond tires, when approached on this subject, stated: "All leading tire builders have labored incessantly to produce an automobile tire that would give the user the best service for the least money. They knew the day would come when the motorist would demand 'More Mileage.'"

"Speaking of our own company, we realize that this more mileage, tire must come as a result of co-operation between our chemists and engineers. So ever since we built the first pneumatic tire in America, fifteen years ago, our company has searched and brought together the best brains and factories at Akron, Ohio, the brightest minds, the best brains and experience money could procure, men recognized in the rubber industry as leaders of the profession."

"The result was that at the opening of the automobile season we were able to announce the discovery of Vitzalized rubber. These tires have stood the test and have delivered the mileage the motorist pays for and has a right to expect. As the months have gone by Diamond Vitzalized rubber tires have grown in popularity until our factories were literally swamped with orders. In order to meet the increasing demand our factories have been running day and night. We have increased the size of our buildings, put up new buildings and installed new machinery."

"Motorists everywhere quickly adopted the Vitzalized rubber tire, and for the past three months we have not been able to fill all orders promptly. With our greatly increased production we are now filling all dealers' orders promptly. This will be good news to the thousands of motorists who have been unable to get their Vitzalized rubber tires as quickly as wanted, as well as to those who are interested in reducing their tire expense."

"We are building enough tires now to supply the demand, so no one need be disappointed again by delayed deliveries."

In reply to a question, Mr. Price said that one of the most common tire abuses in city motoring was the sudden stopping of the car. "As a rule," said Mr. Price, "the motorist instead of stopping slowly will keep on full speed and then clap on his brakes. This should be as carefully as any other part of the automobile. They often get out of line, and an uneven brake pressure is very expensive."

"When the brakes are uneven it often happens that one wheel gets all the pressure and leaves the other wheel free. The result is that the thread on the tire that is compelled to stand the entire pressure from the brake grinds off, peels and is naturally short lived. A little extra care on the part of the owner of the car to see that his brakes are properly set will often result in a big saving in tire expense."

FINE INDICATION OF GENERAL PROSPERITY

Makers of Automobile Tires Are Running Overtime to Supply the Demand.

Akron, Ohio, August 22.—One of the indications of a healthy business condition and general prosperity has been the fact that the makers of the automobile tires have been running their factories overtime to keep up with the demand.

In an interview today Mr. W. O. Rutherford, of the great E. F. Goodrich company, operating the largest rubber factories in the world, made the following statement:

"Yes, it is true that as soon as the automobiling season was on, our dealers were crowded with orders for Goodrich tires."

"Owing to the unprecedented demand for this popular make of tires, we have been unable to fill all of our orders within a reasonable time. As a consequence, in some cities, motorists have been subjected to annoying delays, which we very much regret."

Continuing Mr. Rutherford said: "When we have had any changes in prices to announce in the past and wanted quick action, we have invariably used the advertising columns of the daily newspapers. In the very near future we will announce to motorists through the newspapers that we are now filling promptly all orders received from our dealers."

"It has been an uphill fight to attempt to bring up our production so that we could ship all orders promptly. But we are pleased to say that by installing new machinery and adding to our force of expert tire builders we can for the first time this season, meet the ever-increasing demand for Goodrich Unit Milled tires. This news, we are sure, will be welcomed by motorists, especially those who have insisted on having our particular brands and been compelled to wait till our production could be increased sufficiently to meet the record-breaking demand we have experienced this season."

Easily Explained.

How the senate can spend so much time in session and make so little progress with the work of tariff revision would seem inexplicable if it were not public business.

35 horsepower

114-inch wheelbase

Again the price comes down—

—again the value goes up!

—again we prove the power and possibilities of large production.

Last year we built 40,000 cars. This was not enough for the demand by nearly 10,000 cars. This year we will manufacture 50,000 cars (twice as many as we did two years ago), cover the car with additional value and, what will strike you as most remarkable, MAKE THE PRICE LOWER THAN EVER. Such is the net economical result of manufacturing one type of automobile on an enormous scale.

You who have followed our success from season to season have watched our annual models grow in value and decline in price. And as our prices came down our production went up. We have always and unfailingly given the public more automobile for less money than any other manufacturer in the industry.

Here are the big 1914 facts!

The motor has been enlarged. The bore is 4 1/8 inch—stroke 4 1/2 inch. It is conservatively rated at 35 horsepower and will develop 50 miles an hour. It has a five-bearing crankshaft and three bearings on the camshaft.

The wheelbase has been lengthened to 114 inches. This, as you know, is the average wheelbase of $1200 cars. And a long wheelbase eliminates road jars and rut jolts.

The tires are larger—33 x 4-inch Q. D. Large tires insure less upkeep expense, smoother operation and add to the appearance of the car.

The body design is symmetrical and graceful. It will appeal to those who admire the beauty of simplicity. It has a European cowl dash and full U doors (fore and rear) with disappearing hinges. The body is richly finished in dark Brewster green, edged with lighter green stripings and trimmed in heavy polished nickel and aluminum.

The upholstery is Turkish—soft, luxurious and comfortable. The rear back-cushion is 18 1/4 inches deep.

The equipment is the pick of the market—and is complete. It includes such high-priced features as one of the finest electric lighting systems with storage battery. Head, side and tail lights are electric. Dash light is also electric. All light and control buttons are located on the dash under the cowl. Set flush with the dash is a $40 Stewart speedometer—the most practical speed indicator in the world. Timken bearings, Splittdorf magneto, Model R Schebler carburetor, Electric horn, 18-inch Steering Wheel, Mohair top and boot, and a clear-vision windshield are a few of the many other finishing touches that go to make it the car complete.

The foregoing is but a short digest of the newest Overland, yet it concisely itemizes and sums up the greater Overland value. When you fully realize what an exceptional and economical buy the 1914 Overland is—after the great value facts have become firmly lodged in your commercial and calculating brain, remember this—THAT IN THE VERY FACE OF THIS INCREASED VALUE THE PRICE HAS AGAIN COME DOWN.

Price reduction is a condition that is controlled and regulated by factory facilities—the larger the manufacturer the lower he can market his merchandise. As we are producing more cars of this type than any other manufacturer in the world we can effect industrial economies which make it possible for us to market a car that will, on the average, cost you 30 per cent less than any other similar model.

Now—see this car.

Deliveries will be made according to the action you take. Prompt action means prompt delivery.

Demonstrations now going on all over the world. Make your appointment immediately.

SPEEDY MITCHELL KILLS PRAIRIE DOGS

Pilot Car in Reliability Run in North Dakota to Quick for the Little Pests of the Prairies.

Some incidents of annual national reliability tours held under the auspices of the American Automobile association stand out prominently and keep alive traditions that the veterans of these runs like to discuss. Perhaps none in the nine annual events approached the incident of the 1917 tour that marked the trip from Minneapolis to Williston at the wheel of a car of the same state. A unique event and entirely unparaleled in its history was made at this time by the Mitchell Moose pilot car, a car that the grain farmers all are talking about and which in all probability will be increased as long as automobiles traverse the trails.

First of the cars to get away early in the morning on its coast it spread its task the Mitchell Moose generally hit up a speed of 30 miles an hour and made a record of 100 miles in 10 hours. The dogs were at the edges of the grain farms evidently keen for their mutual meal. These pilots were accused to be a little slow moving, four wheels at a time. The pilot car was not even equipped to give warnings at the approach of speeding automobiles. Being averse to getting out of wheel ruts until they came to the prairie, led to their arrival at the prairie with a plump little fellow walking along seeking the line of least resistance.

Pilot Frank Ziller who also had acted as a thinker for the tour is not the most brilliant but he regards the goats and prairie dogs as no success. Frequently his effort drew prairie dogs strung up in the fence wire as a warning from an exasperated farmer to the drivers of the dog village.

A few more carcasses along the highways for the boys to gather for goodness said the driver of the Mitchell Moose as his machine sped along and crushed the dogs.

It is no exaggeration to say that on the day that the nation's tour took the motorcade from Minot to the Maize City to Williston the pilot car alone destroyed in only two hundred prairie dogs. The machines that followed set the trap for the killing of the prairie dogs generally found the pilot car the first most plentiful.

Just like spreading a new kind of corn that day is the way a driver of a car that day. There was a car that day that the pilot car had a considerable addition to the wheat crop by doing so. It pronounced work in killing the pesky dogs and the pilot car was a juggernaut—no other machine ever got out so early or made such a fast run.

WILKES-LINCOLN FAIR IN PERMANENT HOME

Washington Ga. August 23—(Special)—Permanent buildings are being erected for the joint county fair which is to be put on for a week in October by the progressive farmers of Wilkes and Lincoln counties. After the slight success of last year's fair, the fair prize the Wilkes Lincoln fair association was organized several months ago with a capital stock of $5,000. A splendid site has been purchased large and commodious buildings are now being erected and the prospects of an other successful fair have been brightening as the date of the opening draws near.

Interest in the agricultural resources of northeast Georgia and the wonderful productivity and carelessness of the soil in this section has been wonderfully enhanced through this agency. The boys corn clubs of the two counties have taken a prominent part in the preparation for this year's exhibition. Agricultural experts declare that for the first time in the history of these two counties, a sufficient quantity of corn will be raised this year to more than meet the demands of home consumption and leave a balance to be shipped to less enterprising communities.

WINS $10,000 SUIT FOR LOSS OF LEG

Cordelia Ga. August 23—(Special)—One of the most important civil cases on trial at the present term of the superior court of Chisp county was concluded late yesterday afternoon when W. B. McMichael, Jackson Ga., was awarded a verdict of $10,000 in a suit against the Seaboard railway. McMichael who is a nephew of the late Judge John I. Hall of Macon had been a fresh conductor on this road running between Atlanta and Athens when in an accident near Birmingham he lost his left leg. The amount sued for was $25,000, and the case was tried under the federal employees liability act of 1908.

AUSTELL MAN CHARGED WITH SNATCHING PURSE

Charged with snatching a pocket book from the hand of Mrs. A. W. Williams as she walked on a downtown street late Friday afternoon Herbert Cloud a white man 35 years of age claiming to be a merchant of Austell Ga. was arrested Saturday afternoon and taken to the station house.

The pocketbook which contained $3 was taken by a man fitting Cloud's description who after snatching the book from Williams' hand darted around the corner and disappeared in the crowd of afternoon shoppers. Cloud stoutly denied his guilt when taken to police headquarters and states that he came to Atlanta late Friday evening and therefore could not be the man wanted.

Mrs. Appleard Recovers.

Washington Ga. August 23—(Special)—Mrs. T. J. Appleard of Tallahassee, Fla. wife of Florida state printer, who was stricken with paralysis on her right side two weeks ago, just as she entered a railway coach to return to her Florida home, is sufficiently improved to return to Florida today with her husband and two daughters who have been with her since her serious attack.

MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN OPENS UP IN MACON

A. L. Dasher and Wallace Miller Fighting Bridges Smith, Administration Candidate.

Macon Ga. August 23—(Special)—Macon is now in the midst of what gives promise of being one of the bitterest municipal campaigns this city has ever seen. It is to be a fight against the present city administration which the opposition is determined to preserve through to do so it will have to resist a cross fire there being three mayoralty candidate in the race two of whom are planning to center their fire on the administration.

Several months ago in fact shortly after he was elected to council on the administration ticket Alderman A. L. Dasher began attacking the administration. This began with his attack on the street railway, closely followed by the fight against the police department in the Chapman Bernstein affair and has since been followed by a number of anti-administration moves. Shortly after Alderman Dasher was elected in his effort to discredit the administration through his fight against Chief Chapman he announced his candidacy for mayor and since that time has been plunging steadily in ways proving himself a nimble fighter but apparently outclassed by his heavy opponent—the administration.

For a few days it looked as though the race would be between Dasher and Smith and Dasher but a week ago a new figure loomed up on the political horizon in the person of Wallace Miller member of the legislature from the 1st district, lawyer and son of Judge A. J. Miller, himself a former mayor of Macon.

Young Miller like his father is a close personal and political friend of Senator Hoke Smith and this fact will give him a decided edge in the bitter struggle into the fight. With these lines so closely drawn there is some speculation as to just where Dasher will come in. It is known that he is banking heavily on the laboring class for support and that there is a certain amount of support from the laboring class. It is not clear to the casual observer.

Bridges Smith is the Unionist and holds a card in the Typographical Union. He is a man of the day and in the days when the setting was done by hand. Heretofore he has always had the bulk of the union support and his friends see no reason why he should not have it again.

Born on the Hill

Though admitting that Wallace Miller is a formidable candidate the Smith adherents declare they do not fear the outcome. They have put Miller down as the silk stocking candidate probably because of the fact that he was born and reared on the hill. Behind his candidacy they see the hand of W. J. Massee president of the Georgia Public Service corporation who was favored from the present view of the Macon Railway and Light company and other local property a couple of years ago started a power plant of his own and has since been making an unrelenting fight to displace the company with which he is connected with a little degree of success. Mr. Massee's brother was one of the five commissioners who selected Miller's administration ticket.

Dasher Runs Alone

It is generally believed that Mr. Dasher will have an odd man's ticket but will make the race for mayor by himself. He has decided that if only he can move his feet from the race head winds will be blown away by both the Smith and Miller campaign committees and both have gone actively to work securing support. Mr. Dasher has been conducting an active campaign for several months.

REWARD OFFERED FOR MERIWETHER NEGRO

The last thing which Governor Slaton did before his departure for the west was to offer a reward of $150 for the apprehension of Walter alias 'Reddy' Lewis, a negro of Meriwether county who is wanted for the murder of L. C. Marchman. Mr. Marchman was a well to do white farmer living near Greenville. He had caught the negro in the act of committing a crime arrested him and was carrying him to Greenville to turn him over to the authorities when the negro is said to have exposed himself to go into a cabin for a drink of water. Instead of getting the water he went in with a shotgun and shot Mr. Marchman dead. He made his escape and is still at large. There is much public feeling over the case in the community where the crime occurred.

REJECTED BY A GIRL, HUBNER KILLS HIMSELF

Sterling, Ill. August 23—Charles Hubner of Tampa Fla. committed suicide in a local hotel today. He left a note stating that he took his life because Miss Anna Kologowski refused to marry him following his trial for murder in Tampa. Tampa Fla. August 23—Charles Hubner, who suicided in a hotel at Sterling Ill. today shot and killed Henry Hubner in a local hotel. Hubner was acquitted after a plea of self defense. Following the acquittal Hubner was taken to a hospital in delirium. He created a sensation on the witness stand by stating which led many to believe he was insane.

MANY CONVERSIONS AT GRACE CHURCH REVIVAL

The first week of the evangelistic campaign at Grace Methodist church has ended, and the second week begins today with full revival services, commencing with the Sunday school. Mr. Bass will preach three times, at 10:30 and 8 o'clock. The afternoon sermon will be to men only on the theme of Manhood. Mr. Stapleton will render several solos and the large senior and junior choirs will lead the great congregations in sacred songs.

REV. J. M. BASS Who preaches three times at Grace church today

A number of persons have professed conversion and applied for admission into the church. Dr. Jones and his official members are pleased with the meeting so far and expect large developments during the second week. Mr. Bass will preach daily at 10 and 8 o'clock and will conduct special services for women and children.

WILD MAN IS CAUGHT NEAR SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco August 23—A wild man was caught today in Marin county, across the bay, from San Francisco, by Sheriff Keating and a deputy and will be held pending an inquiry to determine whether he is sane.

Efforts to converse with him have been unsuccessful. For nearly two years complaints have been made by residents of Camp Taylor of a wild man that frightened women and children and pilfered articles of food. Until yesterday Sheriff Keating had been unable to track him to his lair. The officers stumbled upon his camp by accident and had no difficulty in arresting him.

His few clothes which were of American make were fashioned into the semblance of a Turkish costume. His general appearance and swathy skin strengthened the sheriff's belief that the man was an Oriental. The camp revealed a curious combination of primitive and civilized equipment. It was built around three big hollow trees one of which was used for sleeping quarters. The floor was carpeted with the skins of animals and in another tree the wild man had rigged up a kitchen. The kitchen was the storehouse and contained quantities of nuts and dried berries. Nearby was a potato patch, carefully cultivated.

NEXT PEACE CONGRESS TO BE HELD IN VIENNA

The Hague Netherlands August 23—The twentieth universal peace congress had its closing sessions today. The delegates voted to hold the next congress at Vienna in 1914. The peace congress finished its labors after recording a further series of good intentions and its appreciation of President Wilson's attitude towards peace. The thanks of the congress were telegraphed to President Wilson.

The question of the fortification of the Panama canal was resurrected today by Professor Slayden, of Washington and Professor Slocum, of Colorado who secured the passage of a resolution asking the United States not to fortify the canal. In another resolution delegates expressed their satisfaction at President Wilson's proposal for the settlement of disputes which could not be settled diplomatically. To investigate by an international committee.

WOMAN TAKES A SHOT AT HOSPITAL DOCTOR

New York August 23—Shot at by a woman who stood at arms length from him in Sixth avenue yesterday Dr. Howard C. Taylor a visiting physician at Roosevelt hospital escaped the bullet and believing the woman had aimed at another person went to his home ignorant that he was the intended victim. A few hours later Dr. Taylor was informed of the facts among them that his assailant had been identified as Helen Turzoer 29 years old, a servant whom the physician had operated upon for appendicitis. Arrested on a charge of assault, the woman said she had regarded Dr. Taylor responsible for illness that followed the operation, according to the police, and had decided to kill him. A girl companion of Miss Turzoer at the time of the shooting was also arrested.

AERIAL NEWS SERVICE FOR THE U. S. WARSHIPS

Washington, August 23—Uncle Sam's aerial news service whereby the officers and men of the United States warships far out at sea are kept informed each night of the latest news and other items of interest, has proved a great success. Reports to the navy department from the battleship Illinois which has just returned to home waters with a big party of 100 women declare that the reports were picked up readily by the vessel when it was 2,175 nautical miles out at sea from the navy's powerful station at Arlington, Va., and 2,610 miles distant from the station at Key West. The battleship also reported intercepting wireless messages from European stations.

Spoooner's Weekly Auto Gossip Gathered From Many Sources

When their contract expires with the Ford Motor Company, Dodge Brothers Manufacturing company will put a new automobile on the market equipped with the Ford V-8. Work will be July first of next year. Work will be started at once upon an addition which will be fully as large as the present Dodge brothers plant, and which will furnish employment for at least 100 men at the outset. The Dodge brothers, John and Horace E. have made the major portion of the parts for the Ford automobiles since the mammoth business started ten years ago. The vision of the two companies will necessitate the construction by the Ford company of an immense plant, the size of the Dodge plant today to make the parts which have been manufactured by the Dodge Brothers. These changes will add two immense manufacturing plants to Detroit employing from eight to ten thousand men and will mean an increase in the population of fully 40,000 people.

The new car will be known as the Dodge car and it will probably sell at a little higher price than the Ford. Other particulars are not obtainable at this time as heretofore the Dodge Brothers had been working on a much higher priced car of six cylinders. It is reported that this car will list for about $1,000.

The new addition to the Dodge Brothers plant will be built on Elm street between 10th and 11th and will add the present huge factory. When completed the combined Dodge Brothers plant will be fully as large as the Ford. The new structure will be 210 feet in length and the first unit which will be 90 feet in length and contain 20 acres of floor space will be completed immediately in speaking of the great move Mr. John Dodge said that the business of Dodge Brothers had been a success since the automobile business the Dodge Brothers will manufacture every part of their car. Mr. Dodge will resign as vice president of the Ford company but he has a large interest in the automobile business. The Dodge Brothers are stockholders in that company. They own one-tenth of the stock and drew $1,000,000 in dividends last year and recently drew another million and worth their own tenth interest as well.

Mr. Dodge's brother who had withdrawn time ago that the Ford company had purchased this one tenth interest for $500,000 but it was denied. General report has it that material for Dodge brothers is being purchased by the company.

Operations have been started by the Tiffany Electric company purchasers of the Flanders Manufacturing company plant and orders are being placed for over a car. The plant will be started in thirty days according to E. L. Roy Pelletier.

It is seldom that an organization either in the automobile field or any other field has a wide membership amounting to ten per cent of the total number of members. The Wolverine Automobile Club is noteworthy as the registration book in which all Detroit and its vicinity are registered daily upon entering the club shows that fully ten per cent of the club members and the privileges go to members.

Charles F. Redden general sales manager of the Maxwell Motor company and his personal representative C. M. Strieby are in Minneapolis for a trip taken for a much needed district sales manager at the Maxwell Motor company show rooms in Minneapolis and both Mr. Redden and Strieby will be the main speakers at the luncheon.

As proving conclusively the statement that the Ford Motor company would use wire wheels made by Henry Ford and his wife at the Indianapolis plant and would become known as the Ford Motor company has started a plant 1,000 feet in length and 80 feet in width to manufacture wheels for the company. It is a step having a trip taken for a much needed district sales manager at the Maxwell Motor company show rooms in Minneapolis and both Mr. Redden and Strieby will be the main speakers at the luncheon.

Myra and Wright Tire company have started the removal of machinery to new buildings recently completed. This will add 400,000 square feet of floor space to the factory. A like addition of 400,000 square feet will be ready April when the local tire plant, number 10, which is the largest in the world. The power plant of the company has been doubled by additions. The management denies that it has any disputes with the tire bulling and states that no property has been added during the last two years to the company buildings.

Albert F. Mals and Ben Marks have incorporated the Mals and Marks company to manufacture the light delivery commercial wagon which Mr. Mals has been at work upon for several months. The announced capital stock of the new company is $5,000. The new company is a very practicality it is reported of 750 pounds and will weigh 750 pounds and be constructed for the particular use of the small merchant with a list price of about $750.

B. F. Everitt of the former Everitt Motor Car company, now merged in the Maxwell Motor company, is quietly at work designing a car which he will place upon the market.

R. C. Hupp of the Monarch Motor Car company has secured factory space in the former Carhart Motor Car company factory out Jefferson avenue and work has been started on the first cars of the company.

Sterling Motor works, of which William C. Little is the head, has taken over a portion of the factory formerly occupied by the Chevrolet Motor company and with manufacturing motors for cycle cars, particularly the type which is now obtainable. Heretofore the Sterling Motor works has been located at Flint and has manufactured motors for the Chevrolet and Little cars but Mr. Durant and Mr. Little are to have divided their interests.

Robert R. Adams former purchasing agent of the Interstate Automobile company, Muncie Indiana, has become the purchasing agent of the American Cyclear company. New and modern machinery of the very latest pattern is being installed by the Sterling Motor Car company. A large factory building 7 1/2 acres in extent and tool equipment is also being added to the factory, the entire order for machinery having been one of the largest ever placed by Detroit. Several innovations in the way of automobile making machinery are among the lot.

Former Atlanta Pastor Will Lead Two Weeks' Meeting to Begin on September 7.

Macon, Ga., August 23—(Special)—Macon church people are looking forward with interest to the coming revival meeting to be conducted here by Dr. LeRoy C. Broughton former pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church in Atlanta. The meeting will begin on September 7 and continue for two weeks, the services being held at the Macon Baptist churches though it is anticipated that other churches will participate.

Dr. Broughton is at present in Northfield Mass. where he is taking part in the Northfield conference program. Practically all of the Baptist ministers are out of the city at present and nothing has been done aside from the securing of the auditorium and the Macon Baptist churches though it is anticipated that other churches will participate. The meeting coming just at the time it does being a most interesting feature, especially in view of the fact that a law enforcement league was recently organized here by the ministers of the city and a campaign of law enforcement is being conducted by the law enforcement clubs out of business. Mr. C. A. Forster who has been acting as commercial manager of the Maxwell Motor company, incorporated, since the organization of the company has tendered his resignation to take effect as soon as he can arrange to turn over to the other department heads of the Maxwell company, the numerous duties of the commercial department. Mr. Forster was formerly sales manager and later assistant general manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine company and it is understood that the excellent record he has made in the Maxwell company has brought him a very flattering offer which he will take up in the near future. Mr. Forster has built up an extensive acquaintance in the automobile business his connection with the Maxwell company and leaves the company with the good will and best wishes of his associates.

W. W. Austin has been made superintendent of the new plant of the Studabaker corporation known as Plant 15 and formerly the Vulcan Gear Works plant a part of the Flanders Manufacturing group at Pontiac. The Studabaker corporation has selected this plant for the manufacturing of replacement parts.

The recent resignation of A. A. Lehr as purchasing agent of the Cartercar company terminated two years of service with the General Motors company interests. When the General Motors company offices were removed from New York to Detroit Mr. Lehr was selected as assistant director of purchase and was later transferred to the Cartercar company plant. Mr. Lehr first became identified with the industry in the early days and was with the Pope Motor Car company at Toledo. He came to Detroit as one of the organizers of the De Luxe Motor Car company and later became identified with the E. M. F. company at its inception. He was with this company until it became the Studabaker corporation and affected the industry identified with the General Motors company and with the Cartercar company, continued to reside in Detroit where he intends to remain forming a connection after his return from a trip taken for a much needed district sales manager at the Maxwell Motor company show rooms in Minneapolis and both Mr. Redden and Strieby will be the main speakers at the luncheon.

BROUGHTON TO CONDUCT BIG REVIVAL IN MACON ON NEGRO VILLAGE

Former Atlanta Pastor Will Lead Two Weeks' Meeting to Begin on September 7.

Macon, Ga., August 23—(Special)—Macon church people are looking forward with interest to the coming revival meeting to be conducted here by Dr. LeRoy C. Broughton former pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church in Atlanta. The meeting will begin on September 7 and continue for two weeks, the services being held at the Macon Baptist churches though it is anticipated that other churches will participate.

Dr. Broughton is at present in Northfield Mass. where he is taking part in the Northfield conference program. Practically all of the Baptist ministers are out of the city at present and nothing has been done aside from the securing of the auditorium and the Macon Baptist churches though it is anticipated that other churches will participate.

The meeting coming just at the time it does being a most interesting feature, especially in view of the fact that a law enforcement league was recently organized here by the ministers of the city and a campaign of law enforcement is being conducted by the law enforcement clubs out of business. Mr. C. A. Forster who has been acting as commercial manager of the Maxwell Motor company, incorporated, since the organization of the company has tendered his resignation to take effect as soon as he can arrange to turn over to the other department heads of the Maxwell company, the numerous duties of the commercial department. Mr. Forster was formerly sales manager and later assistant general manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine company and it is understood that the excellent record he has made in the Maxwell company has brought him a very flattering offer which he will take up in the near future.

W. W. Austin has been made superintendent of the new plant of the Studabaker corporation known as Plant 15 and formerly the Vulcan Gear Works plant a part of the Flanders Manufacturing group at Pontiac. The Studabaker corporation has selected this plant for the manufacturing of replacement parts.

The recent resignation of A. A. Lehr as purchasing agent of the Cartercar company terminated two years of service with the General Motors company interests. When the General Motors company offices were removed from New York to Detroit Mr. Lehr was selected as assistant director of purchase and was later transferred to the Cartercar company plant. Mr. Lehr first became identified with the industry in the early days and was with the Pope Motor Car company at Toledo. He came to Detroit as one of the organizers of the De Luxe Motor Car company and later became identified with the E. M. F. company at its inception. He was with this company until it became the Studabaker corporation and affected the industry identified with the General Motors company and with the Cartercar company, continued to reside in Detroit where he intends to remain forming a connection after his return from a trip taken for a much needed district sales manager at the Maxwell Motor company show rooms in Minneapolis and both Mr. Redden and Strieby will be the main speakers at the luncheon.

Crowd in Mitchell Blows Up Store and Fires a House While Rifles Bark.

Moultrie Ga. August 23—(Special)—From Mitchell county come tidings of the destruction of a store by a crowd of infuriated white men. A trouble first occurred between the Bradley brothers the negro proprietors of the leading store of Greenough, and John Davis and another two young white men of the community and grew out of the failure of one of the Bradleys to return some money that had been advanced him. John Davis was assaulted by one of the Bradleys and knocked senseless with a piece of scantling. The white boys returned home and the Bradleys left the village. At night a mob of white men assembled in the community and armed with dynamite and such artillery as was available visited the negro village planted the dynamite under the Bradleys store and blew it into atoms, set fire to other stores fired into the negro residence sections and received return fire from armed negroes for a time.

The shooting seems to have been ineffective as no deaths are reported. Fear of a further outbreak has been felt by the non-combatants of the community but the officers now appear to have the matter in hand. The Bradleys are still at large.

MASONS WILL ENJOY BARBECUE WEDNESDAY

Panthersville Masonic lodge will hold a convention and barbecue Wednesday August 27, at Panthersville in DeKalb county. Several well known Masons will attend the meeting and assist in the degree work. Before noon the public will be admitted to the hall and short talks will be made by prominent Masons. Dr. Horace Grant of Atlanta will make the principal address and in the evening confer the master's degree.

Shows Fine Corn.

Thomasville Ga. August 23—(Special)—J. P. Gay living near Coolidge had an exhibition here this week some corn grown by him which is an example of what Thomas county can do in that line. One ear of this corn weighed two pounds and nine ounces and when shelled the grains filled a quart measure. The ear measured just two inches in length. Mr. Gay has a half acre of this corn which he will exhibit at the fair here this fall.

We Paid $50,000 To Prevent Tread Separation On No-Rim-Cut Tires Another Exclusive Feature

Here is another vital feature found in Good-year tires alone. This fabric—called "rivet" fabric—is patented. We bought the rights for $50,000.

In every well-made tire, at the base of the tread, runs a breaker strip. It is usually a solid weave.

It is near this strip, where rubber joins with fabric, that loosened treads occur. It has cost tire users millions of dollars.

The "rivet" fabric is our breaker strip. Note the openings in it. We force the tread rubber down through these openings, so hundreds of large rubber rivets are formed to prevent tread separation. Then the whole tire is vulcanized en masse. This is one of the biggest of Goodyear economies, and no other maker can use it.

Saving Blow-Outs At a Cost of $1,500 Daily

Here is another exclusive feature. No-Rim-Cut tires get the "On-Air Cure." That is they are finally cured on air bags shaped like inner tubes. They are cured, as you use them, on elastic air.

Other tires are cured on iron cores alone. The fearful compression often buckles the fabric. And there, where some of the fabric bears no part of the strain, thousands of blow-outs cure.

Our "On-Air Cure." Robert R. Adams former purchasing agent of the Interstate Automobile company, Muncie Indiana, has become the purchasing agent of the American Cyclear company.

New and modern machinery of the very latest pattern is being installed by the Sterling Motor Car company. A large factory building 7 1/2 acres in extent and tool equipment is also being added to the factory, the entire order for machinery having been one of the largest ever placed by Detroit. Several innovations in the way of automobile making machinery are among the lot.

WESTERN FARMERS TURNING TO SOUTH

Prince Webster Says That the Farmers, Discouraged by Drouth, Have Eyes on This Section.

That the farmers of the middle west, greatly discouraged over the fearful drouth conditions which have prevailed over there this summer, have their eyes set on the south, is the report brought back by J. Prince Webster, rate expert of the railroad commission, who has just returned from a business trip through Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Mr. Webster reports that in the states which he visited there had not been rain for six weeks and more, and that the corn crop was literally burnt up in many places and a total failure. "Everywhere I went," said Mr. Webster, "I found that the farmers had their faces turned towards the south. They are thoroughly discouraged over the situation in their own states and showed the keenest interest in southern people and southern conditions."

"I feel sure that one of the results of the crop failure this year in the middle western states will be a molestation of the immigration of western farmers to our section. They seem particularly interested in Georgia, and I have no doubt that this state will profit greatly by the tide of immigration which is sure to turn in our direction."

"The conditions in the west this year are really tragic. I passed through counties in which the corn was twisted up and dried brown and where the farmers can hardly expect to realize a cent from their year's labor. "I found the people everywhere making inquiries about farming conditions in the southern states and large numbers of the farmers throughout the middle west are ready to move if they receive the proper encouragement. There is little doubt that the enterprising western farmers, once they have their eyes turned in this direction, will do great things for the development of Georgia and the other southern states."

Mr. Webster was very much impressed with the efficiency of the railroad commissions in the states which he visited, particularly with that in Wisconsin.

"The Wisconsin commission," said Mr. Webster, "after five years' labor, has accurately figured out the exact cost of freight transportation for an article of freight that may be shipped. Their investigations, however, were closely followed by the interstate commerce commission and the national commission is following the policy laid out by the Wisconsin commission in many particulars."

"I found that in Minnesota, the railroad commission does much of the work which is done in Georgia by the department of agriculture. They inspect grain, having 300 inspectors for that purpose, and also look after weights and measures. They have a room, popularly called 'Chamber of Commerce,' in which are kept for public inspection the false weights and measures confiscated by the commission. The exhibition of these false weights and measures at the state fair each year is said to have very wholesome effect on the merchants who are inclined to be dishonest."

OVER THREE MILLIONS LOPPED BY VETOES

Austin, Texas, August 23.—Governor O. B. Collett, today in a series of sweeping vetoes, cut nearly three and one-half millions dollars out of the appropriation bills passed by the special session of the legislature which ended Tuesday. As out the appropriations for the next two years totalled in round numbers $11,600,000. The governor vetoed the Warren-Wilkey bill putting the penitentiary system on a profit-sharing system.

CONVENTION DOINGS ARE BEING MAILED OUT

There are being mailed out today by Secretary A. A. Pierson, of the Cotton Seed and Oil Association of Georgia, the annual proceedings of the convention recently held. In addition to the addresses delivered before this association, the proceedings contain the rules under which these members operate. The cotton oil mills which are contributing so much to the industrial wealth of this state have already begun their fall crush, and the fresh by-products of the oil seed are already entering the market.

NO GOVERNMENT LOAN FOR AUGUSTA BANKS

Augusta, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Augusta banks will not participate in the $50,000,000 loan offered by the United States government. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Clearing House association of Augusta at a meeting when the report of the three Augusta bankers who attended the conference between Secretary Pierson and Mayor McAdoo was submitted. The statement was issued following the meeting that the banks of this city were in good condition, had sufficient money in their vaults and at their command to meet all their requirements of the coming season.

The W. A. Weatherby party of 100 from Boston have already informed Mr. Houser that they will visit the city immediately after the emancipation and it is expected that several thousand more will come with them. The office of the convention bureau was moved from its former location, 817 Exchange building, to the chamber rooms on the fifth floor of the Empire Friday.

CLAIM AGENTS TO MEET AT MACON SEPTEMBER 16

Macon, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The annual conference of the railroad claim agents of the southeastern territory will be held in Macon September 16 and 17 at the Hotel Dempsey, this announcement being made today by George Graves, of Cincinnati, chairman of the organization at a general conference of the Queen and Crescent system. It is expected that representatives of forty railroads in the southeastern territory will be in attendance of about 100 delegates, in all.

ATLANTA'S AUTO SHOW SLATED FOR NOVEMBER

Committee on Arrangements Is Making Plans for Biggest Exhibit in City's History.

Atlanta's auto show for this year has been set for November 3 to 15. The committee on arrangements decided that point last week and have already begun to set things in order for the big event.

From the present outlook, the association will have for the show-rooms this year many pleasant surprises.

One of the big features of the show will be Sousa's band.

Although the musicians of the March King have not yet been signed up, negotiations are on to bring them here in November to do the music making for the show. These negotiations are favorably advanced and the hopes of the automobile men are that they will be able to get this famous band for the week.

Elaborate plans are being made for the decorations of the auditorium. The color scheme this fall will be blue and white.

Local dealers are communicating with their factories and making arrangements to have the biggest and best exhibits here this fall that the factories of the country can produce. The 1914 models of every make represented in Atlanta, and then some may be expected. Accessory men are getting ready for a display of goods unexcelled by any show in the country.

The arrangements committee will be the busiest set of men in Atlanta for the next few months. They will meet one day this week, when something more definite may be known at this early date. If you've got an idea take it to 'em.

HUSBAND IS ARRESTED FOR ATTACK ON WIFE

An early hour Saturday morning the police were called to 81 Lansdown street to quell a disturbance that had aroused the neighbors, and upon arriving, were told that D. H. Kent, an aged collector in the employ of Jones & Kennedy, 91 South Forsyth street, had been unmercifully beating his wife, striking her with his fist until she fell unconscious to the floor, sustaining a broken arm and other injuries from the fall.

Mrs. Kent was taken to Grady hospital, where her injuries were given attention, but on account of her age her injuries will not permit her to appear in court to testify against her husband for some days. She is 56 years old, her husband is 55. They have been married seven years, coming to Atlanta some years ago from Marlow, Ga.

Kent was arrested by Call Officer Anderson. He made bond in the sum of $100 and upon his release started for the hospital to see his wife. An intern carried a message to Mrs. Kent stating that her husband wanted to see her and strengthen matters out, whereupon she broke into fresh sobs, and declared that she never wanted to see him again. Mrs. Kent avers that her husband struck her without provocation.

Kent contends that his wife was to blame for the trouble, in that she refused to turn over to him certain tools with which he did gardening work about the house, and that becoming exasperated at her refusal he struck her with the flat of his hand.

WASHINGTON, GA., WANTS BETTER TRAIN SCHEDULE

Washington, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—For better schedules on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad, which will affect materially the business operation between this city and Atlanta, Augusta and Athens, the Washington Chamber of Commerce has named a strong committee to appear before the officials of the railroad within the next few days. The proposed change is being heartily backed and approved by the citizens and business interests between Washington and Union Point, particularly. The proposed change which is being sought by Washington is for the train which now runs between Athens and Union Point every day be continued on to Washington instead of stopping at Union Point over night. By this arrangement, passengers coming from Atlanta and intermediate points to any town on the local branch in the afternoon will be picked up by the train out of Athens, which would reach Washington about 6:30 in the afternoon. In this way the tedious delay of nearly three hours at Barnett would be eliminated.

BELL ADDS NEW PHASE TO EXTRADITION LAW

Obney McCormick, of Philadelphia, arrested as he was leaving the federal prison last Thursday where he served two years on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was released from custody on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge George L. Bell Saturday. In liberating the prisoner, Judge Bell established a new extradition phase, holding that under the constitution of the United States, McCormick did not flee from Pennsylvania to Georgia, but was brought here by the federal authorities to serve sentence. McCormick was convicted of operating a fake lumber scheme and defrauding people by use of the mails.

OFFICER PAT OF MACON GROWS CELERY-LETTUCE

Macon, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The fame of Patrolman Pat Pierce as a gardener is spreading. His latest accomplishment is the growing of a "celery-lettuce" plant, known to the scientists as "tucullus." This plant, according to Patrolman Pierce, can be used instead of lettuce, asparagus, spinach, peas, cabbage and several other varieties of vegetables. The plant comes from the Orient, where, according to Patrolman Pierce, they raise opium and harem.

GOOD ROADS CONGRESS TO MEET IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—The program committee in charge of preparations for the good roads congress to be held in Augusta in connection with the Georgia-Carolina fair in November, composed of Judge William F. Eve, of Augusta, president of the Georgia Federation of Good Roads Authorities, Hon. J. D. Price, Georgia commissioner of agriculture; Hon. J. J. Watson, South Carolina commissioner of agriculture, and others will forward invitations to Governor Slaton, Senators Bacon and Smith, of Georgia, the South Carolina senators, chairman of the pots road committees of both houses of congress and numerous others to attend, and deliver addresses during the convention here. That Governor Slaton has expressed his desire to attend this assembly here, which the promoters propose to make the largest of its kind ever held in this state, is intimated by officials of the movement here. Plans are on foot now to secure exhibits of good roads constructing machinery from the manufacturers, and it is stated several roads experts from the national public service department will have charge of the numerous demonstrations of good roads building during the week.

Hydro-Aeroplane Record.
Chicago, August 23.—Glenn L. Martin, of Los Angeles, established a new passenger-carrying record for hydro-aeroplanes yesterday, when he flew for 16 minutes and 10 seconds with three women aboard his air craft. The total weight of the four was 515 pounds. The former record held by Tony Jannus was 3 minutes.

PLAN TO RAISE $60,000 TO ADVERTISE AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed for the inauguration of a civic revival to raise $60,000, to place Augusta on the map securely and to advertise her trade interests and manufacturing possibilities. With a great hydro-electric development at Augusta, capable of furnishing power for many new manufacturing, almost completed, and the city on the verge of one of its most prosperous trade seasons,

CANDIDATE FOR SENATE R. O. COCHRAN SPEAKS IN RABUN COUNTY

Delivers Campaign Address at Clayton, Setting Forth Platform of His Race for the United States Senate.

Here is the address in full of Ralph O. Cochran, candidate for United States senator, who delivered at Clayton Saturday.

I am glad to be in Clayton and have an opportunity of addressing the people of Rabun county. You have heard the expression, 'The Gap to Tybee light' and it is fitting that in my campaign for the United States I should deliver the keynote address in this county—the address that in a substantial measure carries my position on the question that the people of Georgia will be interested in in casting their votes in the election next month.

It is further true that you people of Rabun live in a county that was settled in 1819, almost a hundred years ago and bears the name of one of the chief executives of this state. This county has been furnished many men of public acumen, including its history who have been worthily sons and distinguished servants of the people.

I am here today in advocacy of my candidacy for the United States senate. At the suggestion of some of my friends I will be perfectly all some time ago. It is an undertaking worthy of any man's highest ambition.

Confident of Victory. I want to tell you here to-day that I am going to Washington to elect to win this race and I have every confidence in ultimate success. It is a big undertaking, but I believe in the sentiment of the people of Georgia today is in favor of electing a man who has made a record for himself and to represent all people alike in all interests that within the borders of this state.

It is true that probably in the course of years I am 79 years of age. I am the youngest man ever elected to office in the state. During the progress of the campaign I will be confronted with a host of young and old men who will not have had sufficient experience. I have not had sufficient experience. I have not had sufficient experience. I have not had sufficient experience.

Watch Dog of Treasury. At this time I want to put the people of Georgia on guard. I have been elected to office in the state. I have been elected to office in the state. I have been elected to office in the state.

A Business Man. In advocacy of my candidacy I place before the people of Georgia the proposition of electing a business man to the United States senate. I am a business man. I am a business man. I am a business man.

Without Any Prejudice. Under no political color do I speak all classes of our people. I speak all classes of our people. I speak all classes of our people. I speak all classes of our people.

Too Many Government Bounties. I have all along been of the opinion that the government should not look for support in the government. I have all along been of the opinion that the government should not look for support in the government.

Passing Too Many Laws. I am further of the opinion that we are passing too many laws in our state and nation. I am further of the opinion that we are passing too many laws in our state and nation.

Against Class Legislation. I am in favor of no class legislation. I am in favor of no class legislation. I am in favor of no class legislation. I am in favor of no class legislation.

DR RIDLEY SURPRISED BY HIS CONGREGATION. The friends of Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, who returned to this city a few days ago from his vacation at the residence last night.

or anything else. However, if there is to be any class legislation, it should be in favor of the biggest class and I should say that this class is composed of those of moderate means. If ever there was a time when the United States senate for any class whatsoever it will be for the class here designated.

Stands for Good Roads. Down in my country it is generally estimated that property on a meandering road is never worth as much as double as much as property on a road that has not been so improved. Also, the general benefits that are derived by reason of the construction of such thoroughfares to the people of this country.

No Mud-Slinging. It is well to say also that God has endowed me with a degree of independence so much so that I can tell you in all frankness and I think that if you do not feel right about it, it will be perfectly all some time ago.

Promote Agricultural Interests. The people of Georgia will never reach that point of prosperity that is desired until they are able to produce enough to get the other man's money and then have enough to live on so as to save them from the competition of the other man's money.

Platform a Satisfy. As an incentive to his people to attain the goal which he has set before them, he has a platform of principles and a program of action.

In it is transgressing the inalienable rights of property and person, and much of that that is suggested tends to do much to the detriment of the nation not long ago to count the sections of laws that compose the code of Georgia. It is estimated that there are approximately 4,000 sections of laws under which we are living this day. It has almost gotten to the point where a man's mind must be an encyclopaedia to carry the innumerable laws governing cities, counties, states and nations.

I want to say on this occasion that I consider that the sections of law that I shall stand at all time for the cause of good roads. If we ever expect to have a great system of roads in this entire country, the national government will have to take hold of the proposition. It strikes me that the money appropriated for the purpose is just as much within the constitution of this country as the right to appropriate funds to develop the waterways and improve harbors.

MACON IS DIVIDED ON SPEER CHARGES

Wide Diversity of Opinion in Regard to Judge Threatened With Impeachment

Macon Ga. August 23.—(Special)—The charges which have been made against Judge Lemory Speer of the United States district court for the southern district of Georgia and which may possibly result in his impeachment if proven form a house hold topic in Macon now overshadowing the Frank trial and shaming honors with the municipal campaign which is just now hitting its stride.

White Judge Speer has his enemies and also has his friends and they are standing by him now that he needs their aid. Yesterday a good many telegrams were received from the members of the Georgia delegation in congress.

Atlanta Boys Complete Great Summer at Culver

Who Is the Most Popular Street Car Conductor in Atlanta?

In order to determine this, The Constitution announces a Popularity Contest for the benefit of the Street Car Conductors only

Opening Tomorrow, August 25th—Closing Saturday, October 4th

GRAND PRIZE=$100.00 IN GOLD

ADDITIONAL PRIZES

- 2nd prize, Standard Solid Gold Railroad Watch (guaranteed).
- 3rd prize, Tailor-Made Conductor's Overcoat.
- 4th prize, Complete Conductor's Uniform, including Hat.
- 5th prize, 26-piece Silver Set (25 year guarantee).

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR EVERY CANDIDATE TO WIN

A Cash Commission will be paid to every contestant who is not fortunate enough to win one of the five prizes.

The Constitution will pay 25 Cents (to all contestants not winning a prize) for every three months' contract that is presented and accepted at its office, and 35 Cents for every six months' contract.

Prize winners will not receive a cash commission.

RULES OF CONTEST

1. Any Street Car conductor now employed by the Georgia Railway and Power Company is eligible to enter as a contestant.
2. All conductors must qualify by presenting a nomination blank properly filled out and signed by a responsible citizen of Atlanta to the Contest Manager at The Constitution office.
3. Votes allowed for new subscriptions to the Daily and Sunday Constitution as follows:

VALUE OF BALLOTS
3 Months' new subscription with 55 cents paid-in-advance	1,000 votes
6 Months' new subscription with $1.10 paid-in-advance.	3,000 votes
All orders must be taken for Daily and Sunday Constitution.
4. The meaning of "new subscription" is one where The Constitution has not been taken by any member of a family for thirty days previous to the opening of this contest.
5. The Constitution will publish special vote coupons at different times which will entitle the candidates to an extra number of votes, providing the special coupon is turned into this office on the same day of its issue and with new three or six months contracts.
6. Fifty-five cents (the subscription price for one month) must accompany every three months contract, and $1.10 (the subscription price for two months) must accompany every six months contract. The subscriber must understand that the remaining unpaid subscription is to be paid regularly each week to The Constitution carrier at the usual subscription price of 12c per week.
7. Vote coupons will be issued immediately after the subscriptions have been verified.
8. The Constitution reserves the right to reject all subscriptions not considered new and all subscriptions which The Constitution believes will not be paid or carried out for the time stipulated in the contract.
9. The Circulation Manager of The Constitution is the Judge as to rules and regulations. New rules or conditions may be made at different times upon publication and will apply impartially between contestants.
10. Prizes will not be presented to the winners until the Saturday following the close of the contest, it being necessary to reserve this time for verification of orders turned in during the latter part of the contest.

A Board of Prominent Business Men Will Be Selected to Determine the Prize Winners

NOMINATION BLANK

The Atlanta Constitution:

Please enter Mr.

Conductor's No. Street

As a candidate to the Street Car Conductors' Popularity Contest.

The above person is now an employee of the Georgia Railway and Electric company as a conductor in good standing.

Entered by

Address

The contestant will receive a credit of 5,000 votes on receipt of this Nomination Blank at The Constitution office.

NOTE—No candidate is allowed to enter the contest more than one time.

Any candidate may nominate himself, but the nomination blank must be signed and approved by some responsible party.

For Contract blanks and inquiries, you should call or write to "The Contest Manager," at the office of The Constitution.

Every conductor should be nominated during the next two days to enable him to get an early start—this makes a strong finish.

Do not forget that you will receive some compensation for every contract turned in.

22 3-4 ACRES ON PEACHTREE ROAD FOR $3,200.

THIS IS a real bargain. It is worth every dollar of the price for farming purposes; and everybody knows the results from acreage tracts along Peachtree Road. This, like others, will soon sell by the front foot, and it has about 500 of them. It also has a tenant house on it. No. It is not located within the city limits. It is just about as far out, figuratively speaking, as Buckhead was a few years ago. It is a beautiful site for a country home, and no property has a better future as an investment.

Georgia's Neglected Dairying Industry Gains New Life

The Dairy Instruction Train of the Southern Railway in Atlanta with the staff of instructors and some visitors lined up on the platform.

"The trouble isn't so much the hollow tail of the cow as it is the hollow head of the farmer"—Brahnens

Have you ever traveled through Georgia in the winter time—through the so-called farming districts farther away than the places you can see from the train window? If so, you must have seen, and shivered when you saw, the poor little emaciated-looking cow standing under a makeshift wooden shed, or maybe the lean-room end of an unpainted farmhouse. The poor little cow has been milked and left there—out in the cold. She is unclean, unkempt and barely fed. You hesitate to enter if you are hunting shelter for the night, for you realize the poverty and discomfort of the cow very directly reflects the atmosphere of the home.

Upon the crop everything has depended, and the crop this year has not been good. In some of these homes there has never been a good crop. It is always bad, sometimes worse, but never better. Yes, I know it may not be loyal to paint such a picture as for its resources. But this picture can be seen and will be seen this winter, and last year eighteen million, four hundred and thirty six thousand and sixty-eight pounds of butter were bought outside of the state of Georgia.

Now, if it were difficult to raise cattle in Georgia, if our climate and soil were not conducive to the raising of cattle and produce dairy products cheaper in the state than in those states from which we send our money for the purchase of these products, I would say an arraignment of our present indifference in this matter were unjust.

Wasted Oratory

Georgia orators since the state was in swaddling clothes have tried their lung power boosting the state's resources, the richness and fertility of her soil, her agricultural lands, and her advantages for every kind—compared with any other part of the globe.

Yet, with all of that—and this is not pleasant, either—there is a certain little worm called "hook worm," yielded by the soil, and there is a certain little tick called cow tick, which has infested the state in more places than any map yet shows. Now, the impoverished cow, with its tick company, is going to be with us as long as we have our hook worm citizens with us, for there are many people in Georgia who, when it comes to the care of their cattle, have the hook worm spirit—the one unmistakable symptom of laziness. Georgia will never be able to rid herself of the stain upon her good name which is left by the trail of this worm, until she can point with pride to the well-built cowshed and the healthy cattle underneath.

The Cow is Neglected.

"Sookie" has been long enough neglected in Georgia. She has lost her cud and wagged her hollow tail long enough against a tottering shed, and the time has come when she should be raised to her dignity in the animal kingdom, given a comfortable abode on the farm, and given her chance to produce right here in her state, some of those eighteen millions of pounds of butter we have been buying outside of the state each year for a long time.

Sookie has the same chance that the ten thousand dollar beauty had whose picture is shown on this page today. This picture hangs as an inspiration in the dairy construction car of the Southern railroad passing through Atlanta Thursday and Friday, bringing a message which, when it is acted upon, will add another chapter of prosperity to Georgia's history, and warrant her claims as the Empire State of the South.

There is no reason why Georgia's cattle should ever touch polluted soil, no reason why they should be preyed upon by ticks or hollow horns, if they are only given the care that is coming to them from intelligent, energetic rural citizens.

It's Time to Wake Up.

But so long as our cattle is neglected—so long as we do not see what is ours while our possessions are, and make the best of them, we will still be held down by the hook worm spirit, which sends millions of dollars out of the state which might be ours right here. Every farm in the state should have its department for cattle—its own dairy—and until that is accomplished the farm is yet incomplete. It is so much the integral part of the life of the farm—the cattle-raising and the dairying—the owner scarcely has the right to term what he has "farm," until he has well developed that part.

Lately, since our United States commission was sent to Europe to investigate the credit systems, and we have heard wondrous stories of the prosperity there, where rural credit has worked out so surely for the farmers' interest, the question is asked "How?" One of the first things we hear is the success the farmer has in cattle-raising and dairying. That is one of the great assets they can put forward to warrant their credit.

How many of our rural borrowers would be able to do that? They must come to it.

Must Use Resources. It is not so much what we have in Georgia now—everybody knows what we have—but it is what we are doing with it. All our talk about resources is not going to mean anything, unless we do something with these resources.

Clever Sheriff of Spalding Ferrets Out Mystery of String of Daring Robberies

Will Kirkland and Two Associates Are Arrested and Make Full Confession of Their Crimes.

SHERIFF L. D. HUTSON.

Griffin, Ga., August 23.—(Special)—The burglarizing of the Persons-Hammond hardware store here last week by Will Kirkland and two associates gave rise to a vast amount of human interest gossip on the streets, as well as affording Sheriff L. O. Hutson and Deputy Sheriff Mallory a splendid opportunity to do some clever detective work. The burglary, which was consummated at about the same time as two others, was well planned as to details, filled with daring ventures, and successfully made under the glare of electric lights and at a time of night when none of Griffin's citizens had even thought of retiring.

The planning of the burglary was arranged with much completeness, and the detecting of the criminals and the rounding up of the gang, followed by their arrests and confession to Sheriff Hutson, was executed with the cleverness of a Nick Carter or a Sherlock Holmes. This good piece of work has made the already popular sheriff of Spalding county the man of the hour.

Hardware Store Robbed. For the fourth time in the last few years the hardware store was entered Thursday night, and many valuables were taken out. When the store was opened Friday morning for the day's business it was soon observed that the goods had been tampered with.

Upon examination of registered number of pistols in stock it was found that this one was of the missing numbers. Soon the sheriff was speeding to the home of Russell Kirkland, near Rushton cotton mill. Behind bars Kirkland confessed finally to having in his possession nine of the stolen pistols, that he had buried five of them and had put in the keeping of a Greek fruit merchant three others, besides selling one to Bunk Latta, the dairyman.

Bicycle Is Stolen.

At this juncture knowledge of a robbery of a bicycle shop, owned by Tom Elliott, came to hand. As Russell Kirkland admitted that the pistols were placed in his keeping by his cousin, Will Kirkland, it then became evident that Will had also robbed the bicycle shop and had used the bicycle to make his getaway.

The next problem was to locate Will Kirkland. It was known that he had relatives in Jonesboro. The presence of a bicycle in the program indicated that he probably went in that direction. Followerman Archer was dispatched to Jonesboro in plain clothes, but returned without his man.

At midnight Saturday night Sheriff Hutson in automobile went to Jonesboro, believing Will Kirkland to be there with his uncle, or at East Point with another uncle. The sheriff found Will at Jonesboro and brought him back to Griffin Sunday morning. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the sheriff, accompanied by Russell Kirkland, went to an old field and dug up the buried treasure and was also given the custody of the guns in the keeping of the Greek.

In the meantime as the plot was revealing and confessions were being made, it was learned that Evans Brothers' store of Jonesboro had also been robbed week before, when a large quantity of watches, knives, chains, jewelry and men's socks had been stolen.

Developments Come Fast.

Also on the busy Saturday, when developments were coming thick and fast, it was determined that Tom Kirkland, a brother of Will, had received some of the goods from both places, Jonesboro and Griffin, since Will had now confessed to the robbery of the Jonesboro store.

It was known that Tom Kirkland lived in the second district of Pike county with a relative, George Barrow, who happened to be a bailiff in that very district. On this same Saturday it so happened that Barrow came to Griffin accompanied by Tom Kirkland. As the Spalding county and Griffin authorities did not know Tom by sight, and knowing that he is related to Barrow, they gave Barrow the tip that Tom was wanted in connection with the triple robbery and asked his assistance in locating Tom.

Barrow gave no intimation that Tom had come to town with him and was in town at that moment, but kept mum and hung around till midnight, when he and Tom returned to Pike county.

On the way home Barrow tipped off Tom and at 2 o'clock Sunday morning the two went to the home of a negro, Cephas Matthews, and engaged him to go and hide all the stolen plunder they had in hand.

Sheriff Goes to Pike.

Sunday morning Sheriff Hutson, accompanied by J. B. Mills and J. W. Hammond, went in auto to Barrow's home in Pike, as they had become aware of Tom's presence in Griffin the night before.

Barrow, learning their mission, admitted that Tom had been at his home, but had gone two hours before. However, he assured them he was waiting an opportunity to assist the Spalding county authorities. He suggested that Sheriff Hutson leave with him the warrant and that he make the arrest on Tom's return. Again he suggested that he be allowed to go in search of Tom.

A neighbor of Barrow, standing by, tipped off the sheriff that he had better not let Barrow go, and stated that Tom was then gone to see if the negro had hidden the stuff.

With Barrow in the car with Hammond and Mills, securely hid in the bushes, Sheriff Hutson concealed himself in Barrow's yard till Tom should return. When arrested Tom denied all knowledge of the robberies. After being questioned thirty minutes, he finally admitted the whole thing, and showed that he and Barrow were wearing some of the socks stolen in Jonesboro the week before, and that he had on one of the stolen guns.

Search was made of the negro's house for the plunder, but nothing was found. The journey was resumed, and the negro, Cephas Matthews was located at Orchard Hill, several miles distant. Upon arrest the negro denied all knowledge of the affair, but on his way to jail confessed to hiding the goods and offered to show the sheriff where they were. Matthews led the way to an old barn on a vacant farm near Barrow's home, where, under some hay and fodder beneath the barn floor, the stolen knives and jewelry, with the remainder of the socks, were found.

Tells About Robbery.

Talking of his maneuvers, Will Kirkland said "I thought it the best time to do that job, as the cops wouldn't be looking out for anything big at that time. When Forbes stepped to his back door, I spoke to him and walked away. He was dead easy. Then I came back and raised the car door just a little to allow me to crawl in. As I went through that store I came to a box of cartridges, but I didn't want the whole box, so I just put a few in my pocket. Then I looked on the shelves and took three boxes of every kind of cartridge I could find, so as to have some for every kind of gun I stole. I didn't take any pocket-knives, 'cause I had enough weight on me to tote without them. Then eleven guns weighed me down considerably. I tell you, once I dropped a fine automatic Colt pistol, but I didn't stop to pick it up. Time was worth too much. As I came out that cellar door a negro had just passed, but he didn't see me. Maybe he was after something his self. And I went on throughtown with eleven guns hanging to me. I could have run the whole police department if I had just turned loose on 'em. When I got that wheel out of Elliott's shop I then skidded and made fast the eleven feet high. LARGEST POWER DAM HAS BEEN COMPLETED

Keokuk, Iowa, August 23.—The largest water power dam in the world will be dedicated here next Tuesday. The plant, built at a cost of $27,000,000 in the Mississippi river, where the states of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri join, is expected to develop 300,000 horsepower.

The dam, stretching nine-tenths of a mile across the river, is 53 feet wide at the top. It consists of 119 arches spans each thirty feet, between six-foot piers. In each span is a spillway thirty-two feet high, topped by a steel gate sixteen feet high. By opening and closing a variable number of the gates, the water above the dam is kept at a certain height and sufficient water for navigation below is always passed through the dam.

the water power, converted into electricity, is for use in the new power zone, extending from Burlington, Iowa to St. Louis, the latter taking 60,000 horsepower of current.

In order not to obstruct navigation on the river the power company has built a lock which is to be the property of the United States government. It has the same width as the Panama canal locks and a lift one-third higher than any one lock on the isthmus.

The power house is one-third of a mile long and contains thirty of the largest turbines ever built.

The lake above the dam has an area of 160 square miles and its water is kept at a constant level by the operation of gates in the dam.

France at Panama Show.

Paris, August 22.—The French government today sent a delegation to San Francisco to take possession of a site on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific exposition for the French pavilion. While the French government has definitely decided to take part in the exposition the extent of the exhibits and their variety, beauty and value will depend largely upon the report of this delegation.

Club Women to Take Up Subject. It is probable that at the meeting of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in Cuthbert, in November, plans may be made by which the club women will become a direct agency in the promotion of better dairying movement.

In Atlanta the City Federation of Women's Clubs have already cooperated with the Dairymen's association in bringing the consumer to realize his and her obligation to know the care which should be given milk, this in relation to the preservation of health. In many cases where illness has been traceable to impure milk, and the milk has been analyzed before delivery, and then afterwards in the home of the consumer it has been found that ignorance on the part of the consumer has caused the impurity.

It was interesting to note that at the lectures given in the dairy instruction train Thursday and Friday the most interested listeners were women. They asked questions, took notes, and eagerly sought the literature being given out. How to dehorn a cow was a subject to which much instruction was given to one of the women dairymen present, and another showed a disposition to argue as to the best breeds.

"Now, where is the cow?" asked a well-known Atlanta woman, who had come to hear the lectures. She was deeply interested; examined the milk separator and other new devices. She watched the milk tested, was convinced she knew how, looked at the pictures of the prize cattle beauties, and was very much disappointed when she found the car was minus the all-important animal about which the problem of dairying revolves.

way along the lines of the Southern railway. It is another following-up of the rational theory of taking knowledge to the people, bringing to them that which they need when they can't come after it themselves.

The car is fitted up to accommodate the visitors who come. Pictures of prize cattle adorn the walls, and illustrations are given as to how to build the cow's home, how to milk her; what to do with the milk afterward, and there are whole stories told in the pictures, showing the well-fed cow and the one neglected.

In the upper end of the car are the last invented facilities for the manipulation of dairy products, all the vessels and apparatus for the testing of milk, and much literature to instruct. The car is in charge of three men, experts in their line; a representative from the cattle-raising branch of the United States department of agriculture, the state veterinarian and the representative from the Southern railroad, an expert in cattle-raising and dairying.

The lectures are divided into two courses—those designed to instruct dairymen, and those designed to help consumers of dairy products, but all the lectures are so practical and partake so much of the human interest, that they are instructive and interesting to the people at large.

The Appeal to Women.

For a number of women the club women of Georgia have striven for some form of instruction for farmers' wives, that they might become factors in the development of dairy products. They worked for an appropriation, which might warrant women experts in this line being put on the staff of the extension workers of the college of agriculture. They saw with joy the step in this direction of giving rural women a new interest in home, when the girls' canning clubs were organized under the agricultural extension work, and now they are hoping for a similar movement in the direction of instructing women and interesting them in cattle-raising and dairying.

They believe that in this knowledge women will have a better understanding of all food products; that it will

No More Bleeding Corns

No more knives, no more scissors, no more razors, no more blood poisoning. Away with the instruments of barbarous butchery. Use Jacobus' Magic Corn Liquid. It will take out any corn, hard or soft, whole and positively without pain or danger. Never pare or cut a corn, for if the blade slips, as it frequently does, the corn bleeds, there is serious danger of blood poisoning and many deaths have been caused in this way.

The first application of Jacobus' Magic Corn Liquid gives instant relief from pain and if a soft corn of new growth will remove it. Hard deep, stubborn corns require several applications, but are just as completely removed, now and all, and there is no possibility of danger or pain. Tampering with a corn causes irritation and makes it harder to remove. Use Jacobus' Magic Corn Liquid, we guarantee it to be successful and painless. 20c. by mail 22c. (Advt.)

HART SOUNDS KEYNOTE OF TAX EQUALIZATION

In a very striking address delivered Saturday at Greensboro, State Tax Commissioner John C. Hart sounded the keynote of the administration of the new state tax equalization law, the occasion of the address being the gathering of the home county friends of Judge Hart to bid him farewell on his removal to the capital to assume his official duties.

On account of its very great importance, and because it outlines the policy of the state in the administration of the new tax law, The Constitution publishes the address in full, and in doing so we commend it to the consideration of every citizen of Georgia. It should be read from beginning to end by every person who has the welfare of the state at heart and who feels a sense of pride in seeing the state redeemed from the disgraceful position into which it had been permitted to drift by an abominable system of financial operation for which, as Judge Hart shows, nobody is directly responsible.

Year by year conditions have grown worse until the state found itself in the very vortex of a whirlpool which threatened either default or repudiation. Even with so serious a condition confronting, there were many who took the position that because the state had not defaulted on any of its honest obligations in the past it would not do so now. They recognized the fact that the state's public institutions, charitable and educational, were being conducted on a starvation basis but even that was not enough to impress them with the gravity of the situation and with the fact that an honest system of taxation was the only possible remedy. Fortunately, however, as the result of the brilliant and fearless campaign of the governor, the general assembly was brought to a full realization of the situation and relief legislation was enacted in the shape of the new state tax equalization law.

The appointment of Judge Hart as state tax commissioner at once gave hope and encouragement even to those who had before doubted the wisdom of the measure, bringing to its support some of the strongest of those who had opposed it. Of all men in the state it was universally conceded that he was the one best suited for state tax commissioner—the position having been tendered him by Governor Slaton without his knowledge that his name was even under consideration. By unanimous vote both branches of the general assembly enthusiastically endorsed the appointment, and Commissioner Hart has already entered upon the discharge of what is perhaps the most important work ever put in the hands of one man in Georgia.

No honest man can possibly take exception to any feature of the policy which will control in the administration of the new law, as so admirably outlined in Commissioner Hart's address. There are of course some tax dodgers in Georgia, as in every other state, who have been evading their just obligation to the state, but we believe that the principle of honesty and square dealing enunciated in this address will go appeal to their patriotism and public spirit as to put practically everybody behind the enforcement of this law, which holds in its enactment the very salvation of the state.

The whole plan and purpose of the new law could not be presented stronger than in this statement of the tax commissioner: "No discriminations or exemptions should be made in anybody's favor because of his habitation, but every taxpayer everywhere should be governed by the same rule of honest valuations and absolute equality in bearing the burden. The end hoped for is that every taxpayer shall do his share, which is to be determined by the value of his property. This is the essence of justice. No fair thinking man will object to this rule, and if the rule is observed by all taxpayers of Georgia the debt can be paid and taxes would cease to be a burden. But when taxpayers withhold their property from taxation, or make incorrect returns and feel that such things can be done consistently with common honesty, the result is inequality, and one man is made to bear the burden of another."

If the law is given a fair trial, as it will be, the first effect will be to put the credit of Georgia far ahead of that of any other southern state, and as well to give it the lead in every branch of public activity. It means that our charitable institutions will be cared for as those of no other state in the south, and that the public school and general educational system of the state will be put on a plane far above that of any other southern state—that the school teachers of Georgia will be compensated for their services from month to month, instead of being subjected to the humiliation of being forced to wait eight months for their pay, and that every obligation of the state will be paid as it matures.

More than that, Judge Hart expresses the belief that after a few years' operation of the law the state tax rate can be reduced from the constitutional five mills to four and perhaps three mills, and Governor Slaton believes that if the law is administered in strict accordance with an honest construction the state rate can be reduced from five even to two mills. What Kansas has done, Georgia can do.

At any rate the law is in effect, and it should appeal to the honesty and the patriotism of every taxpayer in the state.

GEORGIA'S OPPORTUNITY.

A big packer of Chicago said recently: "By January 1 meat will sell at unheard-of figures. Forty cents a pound for the choice cuts seems a certainty. Forty-five cents is a probability, and even 50 cents a possibility before spring."

This alarming situation has been brought about by the corn-killing drought in Kansas and neighboring states, and the scarcity of cattle—with a few notable exceptions—in the southeast. The western raisers, foreseeing that they cannot afford to hold and feed their cattle, are rushing them to market, and have been doing so for the last two weeks.

Chicago packers will profit by the soaring prices of meat, and Georgia consumers will suffer, whereas they ought actually to be in a position to be benefited. Tennessee will not feel the shortage and the high prices as much as Georgia will, because Tennessee feeds herself on the finest beef, raised at home, and has enough left to ship millions of dollars' worth to other states.

Read Mr. McCraw's intensely interesting story, "Where Luxury Looms on the Farm," elsewhere in this paper. What H. A. Walker, of Wartrace, Tenn., is doing, every farmer in Georgia can do on a larger or smaller scale. That is what W. H. White, Jr., says, and he knows more about it than any man in Georgia.

The day of the big ranch is over. The farmers of Georgia now stand where the farmers of France and Germany have stood for many years. They have had no big ranches over there. In France and Germany a man who owns as much as ten acres of land—and sometimes even less—has his little bunch of cattle. Of course he intensifies his cattle-raising. That is to say, he has the finest stock he can afford, and he puts into execution carefully thought out plans for getting the best results in beef, butter and milk, not forgetting that every head of cattle pays for its board and keep by improving the land on which it grazes.

THE MEAT SUPPLY OF THE WORLD IS NOW BEING FURNISHED BY THE SMALL FARMER, and Georgia can supply not only its own demand, but in a large part that of the other states, if our farmers will only wake up to their opportunity.

TILLMAN ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

It was inevitable that Senator Tillman's speech in the United States senate attacking woman suffrage would provoke a violent controversy. With almost the power of the old Tillman, and in the language typical of his fiery type of "bitchfork oratory," always interesting though oftentimes brutal, he excoriated the equal suffrage movement. Senator Tillman makes a good defense, it must be admitted, of Dr. Alfred Taylor Bledsoe's article on "The Mission of Woman" published in 1871 when the south was in the throes of reconstruction.

"At the thought of women anywhere, and especially of the south, entering this monstrous and filthy arena of politics, Dr. Bledsoe's chivalrous, sensitive spirit recoiled with horror," said Mr. Tillman. "In sadness, not in anger, he saw, or thought he saw, northern women surrendering their divinity and high privileges for mere human rights, and as an honest man he firmly but kindly spoke his sentiments." But some northern newspapers, as was to be expected, did not deal kindly with Senator Tillman's apology for inserting Dr. Bledsoe's article in The Congressional Record. It contained too much disputable matter to escape harsh criticism.

In states where equal suffrage exists the press has made invidious comparisons and appear to glory in the political morality of their commonwealths as compared to that enjoyed by South Carolina under Governor Cole E. Blease. The equal suffrage states appear content after contrasting their status with the manhood suffrage states.

Statistics asked for by Senator Tillman to show the ratio under equal suffrage of divorce, illegitimacy, and the declining birthrate as compared to conditions under normal man-made political conditions would be interesting and valuable.

The historian Lecky, in analyzing the causes for the fall of Rome, insists that the increased privileges given to women led to the evasion of the maternal function, free love became the rule, and the birthrate declined. The mistress of the world decayed and fell.

That no such analogy can be drawn in this country with states which have granted women the suffrage is contended, with force and conviction by many profound students.

If Senator Tillman is right in his premise, every true man will agree with his conclusion:

"We had better endure the evils of corruption in politics and delinquency in government, rather than bring about a condition which will mar the beauty and dim the luster of our glorious womanhood. We can better afford to have degraded and corrupt politics than degraded and bad women."

Whether a larger part in public affairs will help to improve conditions or will serve to lower the moral standard of the women engaged is the controversy that must be fought out solemnly and thoughtfully in every state which proposes to extend to woman the ballot.

RECALL OF JUDGES.

At the American Bar association's annual meeting next month in Montreal, one of the most interesting questions to be debated will be the recall of judges.

Despite the constitutional provision for the impeachment of an unworthy judge, the movement for the judicial recall has made such headway as to cause advocates of the old established order very serious concern.

A corollary of the judicial recall is a demand for the recall of judicial decisions. This received much attention in the last legislature of Massachusetts, according to the report of the committee on judicial recall of the American Bar association. This report held:

"The significance and danger of the judicial recall are, in many states and localities, underestimated, even by some members of our committee. Because, here and there, up to the present time, no special local demand for the judicial recall has shown itself, it seems to be considered that the adoption in 1903 in Oregon of the recall of judges, and in California in 1911 of the recall of judges, was not necessarily indicative of the danger of its further extension."

Besides its adoption in Oregon and California by constitutional amendment, the recall of judges has been within the past year made a constitutional provision in the states of Arizona and Nevada. It has been recently voted by the legislatures of the states of Kansas and Minnesota, to be submitted as a constitutional amendment for adoption by the people. At the last election in Colorado, constitutional amendments for both the recall of judges and for the recall of judicial decisions, initiated by the people under the initiative and referendum, were adopted. In Arkansas a constitutional amendment for the recall of judges, initiated by the people, was rejected at the last election. But the state supreme court held that it had not been properly submitted, and, therefore, not adopted.

In many other states the movement has been strong, without as yet sufficient strength to secure enactment of legislation looking to a constitutional change. This is true of Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio.

GOVERNOR OF PHILIPPINES.

In Francis Burton Harrison, of New York, nominated as governor-general of the Philippine Islands, President Wilson has selected a clean, wholesome, able young democrat who bids fair to make a creditable record in the Far East.

Before the end of the present administration, the Philippines are certain to receive considerable attention, and the governor-general will be much in the world's eye. That he will bear himself with dignity and good sense seems assured.

Mr. Harrison has represented the Thirtieth New York district in congress since 1902. His father was secretary to Jefferson Davis, president of the southern confederacy.

Enduring for the Spanish-American war, Mr. Harrison was made captain and assistant adjutant general. His wealth has not been a bar to the development of a vigorous, sturdy, patriotic Americanism. Some positive statement in regard to the new administration's policy toward the Philippines should shortly be made. The Baltimore platform declared:

"We reaffirm the position three announced by the democracy against a policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation in the Philippines or elsewhere. We condemn the experiment in imperialism as an inexcusable blunder, which has involved us in enormous expense, brought us weakness instead of strength, and laid our nation open to the charge of abandonment of the fundamental doctrine of self-government. We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine Islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers."

No sane man believes that a stable and independent government could be set up in the Philippines without years of preparation.

Disappointed office-seekers should cheer up; there are fine crop prospects, and instead of ruminating the country in their dreams they can do some rewarding work for it in their waking hours.

Lind didn't go to Mexico to hunt trouble; it was there waiting for him, and he knew that it would sit up all night to meet his train.

Takes a long time to become famous in two hemispheres. Great Britain didn't appear to know that Ambassador Wilson had criticized her and talked his head off.

Poor little Evelyn was afraid Harry would kill her while he was running away from her at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

The World's Mysteries WHO WAS KASPAR HAUSER?

One of the most remarkable mysteries of history is the identity of Kaspar Hauser, a German youth. During the early part of the last century all Europe seemed to be excited over this strange boy, trying to solve the question as to who he was and the mystery surrounding his death. Andrew Lang, who made a study of European legends, took the view that "possibly Kaspar was a sort of 'ambulatory automaton,' an instance of a phenomenon, known by other cases to students of psychological abnormalities, of which the characteristics are a mania for straying away and the persistence of delusions as to identity. He regarded Kaspar as simply a "humbly" "the authentic records" purporting to confirm the kidnapping story Lang stigmatizes as "worthless and impudent rubbish."

The strange career and actions of Kaspar Hauser have been, however, a subject of much curious speculation. To the present day the mystery hanging over his origin remains undispelled, and the whole affair is beset with such anomalies and contradictions that it is almost impossible to form even a well-grounded conjecture on the subject. Young Hauser appeared in the streets of Nuremberg between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of May 26, 1828, dressed in the garb of a peasant and with such a helpless and bewildered air that he attracted the attention of the passerby. He was apparently between 16 and 17 years, and had a letter addressed to the captain of the Sixth Regiment on his person. This letter stated that the boy was given into the custody of the writer, October 7, 1812, and that according to agreement he had instructed him in writing, reading and the Christian religion.

Along with this letter was inclosed another which was written by the boy's mother, stating that he was born April 30, 1812, and that his father, formerly a cavalry officer in the Sixth Regiment of Nuremberg, was dead. He could speak very little and was almost totally ignorant, but he was able to write his name in firm, legible characters, but the question he could answer as to his identity was that he was from Regensburg.

The only nourishment he would take was bread and water, and he was seemingly ignorant of outward objects. For some time he was detained in prison as a vagrant, but on the 18th of July, 1828, he was delivered over by the town authorities to the care of a schoolmaster. Further mysteries accumulated about his Stories About Dreams.

(From The Chicago News.) St. Augustine records that a disciple of his, having to lecture on Cicero's rhetorical works, was baffled by a certain passage. He slept, and in a dream his master, who was really far away, and unconscious of the whole thing, appeared to him and expounded the passage. In 1893 Herr Hilprecht, professor of Assyriology in the University of Pennsylvania, was worried over two small inscribed fragments of agate found at Babylon, of which he had received drawings. In a dream a tall, thin Assyrian priest told him they "belonged together," being portions of an inscribed votive cylinder which had been cut up to make earrings for the statue of a god. The professor found next day that the fragments did fit and make a continuous inscription.

Melton Prior, war artist, always averred that he owed his life on the one occasion to warning dreams. "When going out to the Zulu war in Africa, he twice dreamed that he was shot and then buried. On arriving at Durban he received a letter from his mother telling of a dream identical with his own, and begging him not to go to the front. He obeyed her injunction, and engaged another artist to go in his place. The unfortunate artist, substituting his name for mine, was killed in the fighting."

Robert Louis Stevenson was a wonderful dreamer, and could dream in sequence, continuing a dream from the point where it had broken off the night before. It was in this way that he dreamed the part of "Jekyll and Hyde" was put together. Dante, too, is said to have dreamed many cantos of "The Divine Comedy," and Voltaire records show the "Henriade" came to him in sleep. "Ideas occurred to me," he wrote, "in spite of myself, and in which I had no part whatever."

News in Reading Rocks.

(From The Providence Journal.) In southern Illinois and adjacent Kentucky there are found beautiful flat beaches over which the farmer drives, as on any highway, never thinking to inquire what has become of the lakes the waters of which once lapped the beaches. The lakes have long been dry, though their existence in a geological sense—time—say within some one million years—plain enough to the United States geological survey which has been mapping that region. What people down there go about on, when they are not strolling along the beaches, is the crust of sediment deposited in the lakes one hundred feet thick. Deposits of sediment made long before that, when southern Illinois was a part of the ocean, are now solid rocks.

At a later period, still many million years ago, it was a luxuriant swamp, and that has become coal mines. Once upon a time, too, a great glacier crept down, dragging huge boulders from the Canadian ledges. When the glacier retreated, these boulders were left scattered about and strung along. No such rocks are found in Illinois except in the track of the glacier. Such tidbits of information imparted by the geologists suggest that reading the rocks may be more interesting reading than the latest novel or a debate in congress.

Cat Runs Down Rabbit.

(Sacramento, Cal., Correspondent, N. Y. Sun.) In western Colusa county, on the Jones ranch, is a cat called Baby, which, according to Frank M. Woodson, humane officer, who has just returned from Colusa county on a hunting trip, surpasses all of the cats he has killed and the multitude of others he has seen and heard of.

This cat, because of the admiration shown by Woodson, added another record to his long list—white the hunter visited his master. Woodson had been out hunting rabbits and came in with a goodly bag. Baby was not to be outdone by the visitor and went on a hunting trip all alone.

Woodson gives Baby's description as follows: "Height, 14 1/2 inches; length of front legs from toes to paw, 10 inches; length from tip of nose to tip of tail, 35 1/2 inches. Outside of this Baby is simply a cat with a beautiful disposition and a mezzosoprano voice.

To chase a fleet jackrabbit and keep it in sight is some feat. But Woodson's feline friend did not stop at mere pursuit. He kept at its flying hind legs for three miles, caught and killed it. For absolute proof Baby carried his prey clear back home over a six-foot fence and left it on the back porch.

The Capture of Canada.

(From The Philadelphia Ledger.) He received a letter from a United States army officer how long it would take to capture Canada in the event of trouble with England. "About one week," was his reply.

He assured me that he was not speaking lightly or at haphazard, but he based his estimate on facts pigeonholed in the war department.

Canada is, for this reason, England's own greatest argument in favor of the Monroe doctrine. Indeed, King George's most highly prized colonial possession is protected as such by that message sent to congress ninety years ago next December by James Monroe as is the United States itself.

Of all countries in the world which might do something hostile to the Monroe doctrine, England will be the very last to act. It has Canada to lose and nothing whatever to gain. But Monroe never dreamed anything so foolish as to pretend the United States would object to England's protecting its own American possessions, such as Bermuda and Canada.

Eating Their Words.

(From The Chicago News.) Some authors have been compelled to destroy their own singularly unpleasant fashions. In 1668 Philippus Buytewit, a German jurist, published a description of his travels through Germany. A passage in this offended his liege lord, and Oldenburger was soundly flogged and then ordered to send a copy of his book. It was only a duplicate, but the liege lord, being the only way in which they were capable of assimilating printed matter.

What Could the Poor Man Do?

(From Pearson's Weekly.) An amusing story is going the rounds in Fleet street about an editor who, to the surprise of those under him, had just accepted a large batch of contributions. The manuscripts were not of any remarkable brilliancy, and in the ordinary way they would nearly all have been returned to the senders with the usual formula, announcing that the editor regretted he was unable to make use of them. The explanation of this apparent eccentricity on the part of the editor was that he had, in the hour, with the manuscripts home in his bag, to read at leisure. Between the office and his station he stopped to buy a bottle of whisky, which he put in the bag beside the manuscripts.

In the train the bag got an unnoticed bang, and when he arrived home he was surprised to find a bottle broken and the manuscripts smelling strongly of whisky. Now, that editor has a great reputation for dignity and sobriety, and—well, there you are!

Terrors of the Future.

(From The New York Evening Sun.) London—Robert Donald, editor of The London Daily Chronicle, in his opening address as president of the Institute of Journalists at York today prophesied that aeroplanes and airships will eventually deliver newspapers which will appear almost hourly. At amusement places all the day's news will be given by cinematograph and gramophone. News will be delivered like gas and water, and householders will listen to announcements while resting in their gardens.—News Dispatch.

Newspaper poets and column conductors will be able to talk their copy rapidly into a telephone receiver kind of a thing, we presume, and then go home to lunch. But the horrible thought occurs to us—will the audience be allowed to talk back?

Scott Letter to Barrie.

(From The Cincinnati Enquirer.) It is not generally known that Sir James Matthew Barrie, whose thousands of admirers have become accustomed to his pen name, was one of the closest friends of the late and gallant Captain Scott, of the Antarctic expedition.

Sir James Barrie received a letter from Captain Scott, written after the explorer's companion had perished in the tent, and the document was so terrible in its tragedy that Barrie has refused even to hint at its contents to his most intimate friends. He has, however, preserved the letter, and it is now understood that he will leave it in his will to the British museum.

The Permanent Exhibit Pushing on to Success

Atlanta Manufacturers Are Subscribing For Space In "Atlanta Made" Exhibit Which Assures City Standing Monument to Her Greatest Achievements.

The way in which the Atlanta Manufacturers are subscribing for space in the permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods which is to be established in the top four floors of the new Chamber of Commerce building is acting as an eye opener to the layman who did not previously realize what a number and diversity of articles are made here. Over half of the space is already taken and it is expected that when the full reports come in early next week that every inch will be spoken for. It behooves every man who is desirous of doing in on this splendid advertisement for the city and of each individual plant here to make his reservation at once if he doesn't wish to be left out in the cold.

WILDER GROWS COTTON. Well-Known Syrup Man Believes in Crop Diversity.

We are in receipt of a letter from the D. R. Wilder Manufacturing company, the well-known syrup refiners, which announces the fact that they are practicing crop diversity with reverse English, as it were. The outcry of the diversified crop protagonists has been less cotton and more of other crops, in order that this section of the country should not be so dependent on one-crop farming. The Wilder company have a large plantation at Cairo, Ga., where they grow a great deal of sugarcane and make a great deal of syrup. This year they decided to diversify their crops, and so planted some cotton. On Friday, the 8th instant, they ginned and sold the first bale of cotton in Grady county for the season of 1913. In other words, the first bale of new cotton.

Ben F. Dodson is the name of a new addition to the force of the J. K. Orr Shoe company. He will cover the territory in the middle and northeast portions of Texas.

BIG BARBECUE HELD YESTERDAY

City Salesmen's Association Holds Annual Barbecue at Cold Springs—Over Five Hundred Present.

The City Salesmen's association held their annual barbecue at Cold Springs on grounds yesterday afternoon. There were over 500 people present and everyone showed that they regarded the time they had as one of the best ever. These annual barbecues have been given by the association for many years past and it is the general opinion that while the first one was good each has gone better than its predecessor. A number of excellent speeches were made yesterday and the eating, music, dancing and entertainment were all at least 22 karat. Incidentally, President Simmons, of the association, was heard to remark that they numbered more members now than ever before in their history and that the things for which the association stands are in more prosperous condition than at any time in their history. Which makes the whole thing satisfactory from every viewpoint.

News of the U. C. T. Fulton Council 505

By P. S. Brumley, Secretary.
Brother W. A. Baughin who hits the road in the hick place was in town last week for the first time in several weeks.
Brother Theo A. Brown, who has been farming this summer near Deatur is now back on the road and left for his territory in South Carolina.
Brother W. H. Higginbottom made a special trip to Fitzgerald for his firm last week and reports business excellent.
Brother George F. Maddox the hardware man spent quite a while in Senola last week. Why?
Brother A. R. Tucker the Armour man is back on the road after his vacation looking like the morning after.
Brother T. E. Mathews with the Pittsburg Plate Glass company is back from his vacation and out on the Firing Line again.
Brother I. M. Wingfield who has been at home sick for some little time is reported better we are glad to say.
One of our new members Brother John H. Collier has returned from a New York trip and is now in his south Georgia territory.
The following list of new members were initiated at our last meeting: D. A. Collins, J. W. Cooper, C. F. Owens, C. Schneider, O. K. Parker, H. B. Mashburn, Dennis Fleming, H. C. Cox and G. B. Williams.

HARRIS WRITES LETTER Some Erroneous Ideas on Relative Values of Cities.

Percy W. Harris the well known and deservedly popular salesman for the A. M. Robinson company is back in his South Carolina territory sending in those big orders after being rejuvenated with some of the Atlanta spirit during the convention. Mr. Harris left last Wednesday, and before going ginned a little epistle to the editor of this department. It expresses some views about the value of Spartanburg as a city which may be all right as far as the usual run of places go but when he places the Carolina town ahead even of Atlanta it is like stating that Shady Dale Ga. is a bigger theatrical center than New York City. However, we are quite willing to concede that Spartanburg is a nice little town and is growing right along in a most precocious manner. Also we would like to endorse the sentiment in reference to Secretary John Wood of that town. We have had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Wood and nothing that can be said about him is too good.
Mr. Harris' letter is given in full. Ralph T. Jones, Editor Constitution Firing Line—Dear Sir: I know as all men know that the 17th is unlikely yet some of the big things have occurred on that date. So I am starting out on this trip on the 13th of August 1913. Before I leave I beg to hand you this small letter and if you can find anything suitable you have my consent to publish what you wish. Come to my city Spartanburg some time. I'll be glad to see you and do all I can to make your stay pleasant. You will find Spartanburg the best town in the world. Greenville is mighty near as good as Spartanburg and is close to us in location. I would say that Spartanburg is the best town in the world and Atlanta is the 1st town in the south. Spartanburg is the City of Success and if you don't believe I write John Wood secretary of the chamber of commerce there. And John Wood is the best of all. Come to see me very truly.

P. S. Enclose a few paragraphs which you may like.
There never was a man so good but some one could (and would) take his place.
Boost all down the line and tell the truth all the time.
Principle above price. You can buy my merchandise, but no man can buy my principle.
Be sure your sins will find you out. The wages of sin is death. Will there be any stars in my crown?

News of the U. C. T. Atlanta Council 18

By E. M. Linceford, Secretary.
We are glad to receive the re-statement of Brother F. S. Vickery.
Brother W. J. Elliott executive committee man of Atlanta is at Borden Wheeler Springs recuperating for a few days and getting in trim for the 1914 Southern Merchants convention.
We have missed the Aves from our meetings for several weeks. Where is he?

Brother R. F. O'Kelleys is in Orange N. J. for a few days setting his line in readiness and at the same time giving the No. 10 Hat Manufacturing company a treat by his genial personality.
Wonder where Brother H. D. Shackelford is spending his vacation? Nobody seems to know but we hope to hear from him through these columns.

On account of the hot weather we will have no more meetings until the fourth Saturday night in September when we will open up with a good meeting and several applicants to be initiated. Let's have a record attendance.
Do you know that Atlanta council 18 meets ever second and fourth Saturdays of the month in the E. of P. hall in the Kiser building at 8 o'clock? If you haven't been attending think of some excuse to get there.

Have you received a letter from Grand Counselor Weir with reference to membership? If you haven't, ask about it.
The report of our representative to the supreme council T. B. Lewis was heard at our last meeting. There were a number of things he heard and saw that you should know. When you see him, ask him.

This week we introduce to you A busy Miss, named Trixie, Pray listen to her reasons, do, To boost that label "Dixie."

STEALING THE REPUTATION OF "ATLANTA MADE" GOODS

The FIRST MONCRIEF FURNACE ever made was made in Atlanta in 1898. It is the only furnace manufactured in the South and was originated by Mr. S. P. MONCRIEF. Hundreds of these furnaces have been placed in Atlanta homes, and the owners have all been pleased, not only because they are buying "Made in Atlanta" furnaces, but because they are as good value as can be found anywhere in the trade.

This business has grown until there are now more than 125 people in Atlanta dependent for their support on the manufacture of these furnaces.

NOW comes the T. E. Henry Furnace Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, and establishes a branch in Atlanta, on Walton Street.

We welcome honest competition as do all Atlanta manufacturers, BUT these people are trying to STEAL the name "MONCRIEF" as well as the business which has been built up. They are represented by R. A. JONES, who is stating that he is with the original Moncrief Co., and that the firm is no longer on South Pryor Street, but is now on Walton Street.

IT IS NOTHING BUT A PLAIN STEAL. REMEMBER THAT THE ORIGINAL FIRM, MANUFACTURING THESE FURNACES IN ATLANTA, is the

Chile Con Carne GET WHILE IT'S HOT

J. W. O'Donnell, with Dobbs & Wey, leaves Wednesday with his samples for the fall and Christmas trade. He will go direct to Albany from here, where he will show his usual holiday display. The remainder of the sales force will leave a week from tomorrow.

C. A. Smith, with the A. M. Robinson company, reports a mighty good week's business. He has sold about $4,000. The company also reports fine house trade and good business from all the men, making one of the best weeks of the year.

W. B. Beacham, the J. K. Orr shoe man, from Athens, Ga., returned last week from Chicago, and was seen in the house Saturday.

W. J. Thebaut, with the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company, made a mighty fine record of sales last week.

J. E. Ivey, special gas engine man with the John Deere Plow company, has been in the city all week on special work.

Mack Hirschberg, with the Hirschberg company, is now in Key West. He is busy taking plenty of big orders, and will probably be back in about two weeks. W. C. Tennant and Max Samuels were both in for the week-end.

F. G. Stanley, with the Lamar & Rankin Drug company, who has succeeded R. M. Sloan in his territory, is doing extra good business just at present.

The Gramling-Spalding company report that their men are getting some unusually good fall business, and that prospects are excellent.

Allen Edwards, out-of-town shipping clerk with Fain & Stamps, will spend his vacation next week at the home of his parents in Cobb county, near Marietta. His brother, Cliff Edwards, states that he will have his youthful days recalled by being sent out to pick cotton. Mr. Stamps is looking forward to acting in the absent one's capacity for the week.

L. A. Redwine, vice president of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, leaves Wednesday for New York, buying notions and goods, furnishing goods for the spring trade.

The Ins this week with the Brown-Perryman & Greene Co. are J. O. Chambers, J. F. Tate, C. D. Dickinson and J. H. Martin. William Hughes is vacationing at Newnan.

Thma E. L. Adams company reports prospects as the best for years, and that they are enjoying some of the best business they have seen for some time past, with a most optimistic outlook.

L. B. Robinson, with the A. M. Robinson company, was out Saturday for the first time last week. He has been sick at his home, but is recovering surely and rapidly, fortunately.

President E. G. Thomas, of the Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company, returned Friday last from a three days' return to Cincinnati, where he attended a conference of the different Rice & Hutchins men. This week he goes for a short vacation into the Nacoochee valley, and then will start his traveling men out with their spring models, which are now being lined up for them.

H. P. Lovelace, who has long been with the Consolidated Paper company, in the capacity of shipping clerk, took his first trip on the road last week, going up the Seaboard Air Line as far as Athens. He did excellent business, and will probably be out the greater part of his time in the future.

The Dixie Pickle and Preserving company report that they will bring all their salesmen in this week for a big local advertising campaign.

The John Deere Plow company, of Atlanta, reports that their general office manager, R. C. Hipp, is away on his vacation at Manchester, Ohio. William Shoemaker, their south Georgia salesman, who has been sick for the past three weeks, left for his territory again last Thursday.

The Hirschberg Co. were found this week hard at work on school goods. They are supplying a large quantity of the Alabama school and college theme tablet. This is a wonderfully good tablet, and is used exclusively in the schools and colleges of Alabama.

C. M. McLaughlin is a new road man with the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. He has now been out for about two weeks and has sent in some mighty nice business. At present he is in middle Georgia. Previously, Mr. McLaughlin was a member of the house force.

Both Messrs. Malone and Carlton were found last Friday up to their eyes in work. They just had time to say "Howdy!" and remark that C. C. Phillips was cleaning up in great style in south Georgia, before it was "Good-bye."

W. F. Spalding, of the Gramling-Spalding Co., returns from Lebanon, Ky., tomorrow, where he has spent a week visiting his mother. President T. A. Gramling returned from the Pains month's vacation in Tennessee and Indiana, stating that there was no state like Georgia and no place like Atlanta.

James Rainbow Thornton, with the E. P. Richards Co., who has been in the Pains month's vacation, will go out the latter part of this week. The company reports that the mail orders are still rolling in, and that their catalogue has been a splendid investment.

The M. C. Kiser Co. report that their men are all out and that the whole crowd, Messrs. Benson, Diehl, Kenimer, Addy et al. are sending in plenty of good business.

Yesterday was Sport Ramsou's birthday. He is an important member of the Pains & Stamps house force, but refused to divulge his age.

E. E. Shyer, with the Consolidated Paper company, came in yesterday from Rome, Ga. J. C. Mason is laid up with a swollen foot at his home in Cuthbert.

The Ins this week with Fain & Stamps are W. Y. Bailey and J. C. Owens. Bill Quarles, city salesman, was sent back on the job Saturday, after a vacation at his summer home near Smyrna.

The Ins this week with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Co. are W. F. Seay and J. O. Castleburr. A. S. Wilkins will spend Sunday at Sharon, Ga., and A. M. Wilkins will be at Comer, Ga.

Dave Perryman, a member of the firm of Perryman Bros., Heflin, Ala., and a brother of the well known Perryman of the Brown, Perryman & Greene Co., was a visitor at their place yesterday. He will remain in the city for about ten days.

F. M. Halley, with the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing company, reports conditions good in the territory he covers.

D. L. Barnwell, salesman for the Remington Typewriter company, was here Thursday.

Tillman Funk, salesman for the Forty-Four Cigar, is just in from a trip through eight states.

Claud Henler, the hardware salesman, who has been sick for quite awhile, is not improving fast, but continues to grow weaker. The cooler weather lately has been in his favor though.

L. R. Martin, salesman for the Flint Tobacco company, came in Thursday to be here several days, meeting the trade.

W. A. Bell, salesman for the National Biscuit company, reports good business.

J. A. Cook, salesman for the Dinkins-Davison Hardware company, was here Wednesday.

Leo Gotthelmer, salesman for the National Pencil company, was here this week. Leo is an old Athens boy and claimed the Classic City as home until a few years ago.

SALESMANSHIP.

The convention just closed has been of value in many ways. But one way in which it has proven profitable is in the better salesmen who will go out from Atlanta as a result. This is a point in connection with these occasions which is commonly overlooked and yet which is of big importance.

The opportunity to mingle with their fellow salesmen, the merchants and the house men, together with the chance to listen to the vital problems of business discussed by practical speakers, is one which no salesman who is alive to every chance to increase his own selling power will overlook. The mere mingling in social intercourse with these men will add to the strength of personality of each and every salesman, and it is always a case is salesmanship that the stronger a personality a man has, the better salesman he is, provided he expresses that personality in a selling manner. It is in the intercourse with our fellows that we receive the most and the best education, and this convention intercourse is like a post graduate course to any man whose business demands the force of a sales argument every time he wants to increase his value to his firm. The more a man knows of human nature, the better he is equipped for his business which takes him amongst that human nature, and the only way to learn men is to mix with them and get to really know them and let them know you.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

C. J. Van Houten & Zoon Hold Convention in New York.

A letter from A. J. Edmondston, the genial Round Cocoa salesman for this territory, tells of the annual convention of the salesmen of C. J. Van Houten & Zoon, recently held in New York. William Cruger Cushman, manager, was in the chair, and a very progressive meeting was held.

Mr. Edmondston states that he left for Savannah last Tuesday to make a 1,000-mile trip through his southern territory. He will be in Atlanta to work the trade about October 20, but will be here visiting for a week-end or so before then.

OFF ON VACATION.

Secretary Takes Rest and Goes to Wrightsville Beach.

Secretary Harry T. Moore, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, is now away at Wrightsville beach enjoying some well-earned relaxation. Probably the busiest man in the city throughout the recent Southern Merchants' convention, the association showed their appreciation of his untiring efforts by telling him to go and rest up just as long as was necessary. So Mr. Moore left last Thursday for the coast to inhale the ozone and disport himself in the roaring surf, etc.

MAKES CHANGE.

Well-Known Dry Goods Salesman Goes to New Connection.

Lewis Parker, one of the best known dry goods and notion salesmen traveling out of Atlanta, has recently made a change of connection and will henceforth send his expense accounts to another Atlanta firm. He will be with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company from now on, and both he and his new firm are to be congratulated on the acquisition.

AUGUSTA'S SOCIAL SIDE

Augusta, August 23.—(Special Correspondence)—The marriage of Miss Carolyn Nurnberger to Mr. Reed Wynne was witnessed by a large company of friends on Wednesday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pinckney L. Nurnberger in North Augusta.

Three parlors were tastefully decorated with palms and flowers, and a floral altar was improvised at the rear of the back parlor. The bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding march, the groom coming first with his best man and brother, Mr. Wooding Wynne. They were followed by dainty little flower girl, Miss Florence Foye, after whom came the bride with her father. A buffet supper followed the ceremony and congratulations. Later the bride changed her wedding gown for a traveling suit and Mr. Wynne left for a honeymoon in the North Carolina mountains.

At 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the rectory of St. Paul's church, Rev. Geo. Sherwood Whitney officiating, Mr. Ernest Parker, of Greenville, S. C., and Miss Cecily Baker were married, and left immediately after the ceremony for a sojourn in the mountains of North Carolina. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Frank Baker and the groom is principal of the Trenton, S. C., high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Watson will soon return from Canada, where they have spent the summer.

Seven tables of ruck were the game in compliment to Miss Virginia Jink at the home of Miss Beryl Elliott, on Friday. On Sunday an automobile party to White Oak Campground is planned in her honor. Miss Jinks was complimented with a swimming party on Thursday evening by Miss Lillian Hackett. A picnic supper after the swim and then the moonlight ride home.

Miss Modjeska Moody was married to Mr. Edgar Bennett Thursday evening in the presence of a large number of their friends, Rev. Howard T. Cree officiating. Mrs. A. A. Farrar was bride's attendant and Mr. M. G. Seigler best man.

Mrs. John P. Weisger entertained with bridge at her home in North Augusta. In compliment to Miss Kate Robinson, who is to be a September bride, her engagement to Dr. John Reese has been announced. The house was attractively decorated for the occasion, and six tables were engaged in the play. The high score prize, a cut glass vase, was won by Miss Annie May Ramsey, and Mrs. Claude Freeman drew the consolation. Miss Robinson was presented with a handsome traveling bag as a souvenir of the occasion, and appropriate for her approaching bridal trip.

At a meeting of the parliamentary class at the Young Women's Christian association yesterday it was voted to organize the Federated Women's Club of Augusta, about the first of October. Mrs. A. H. Brenner, Mrs. Frank E. Fleming, Mrs. Percy Burum and Mrs. Lindsay Arrington were made a committee to arrange all preliminary for the organization.

Monday--a Display of New Wooltex Suits

In which you can see the most advanced style ideas in fabrics, colorings and embellishments.

There is a great range of choice of materials, many of the smartest styles being made up of smooth finished cloths, while others of equal style value have been developed from rough fabrics.

The materials include eponges, zibelines, diagonals, cloths, matelasse, poplins, whipcords, Bedford cords.

Great variety in color effects marks the season's display, and one is not confined to the dull and somber hues usually found in tailored suits. There are rich, beautiful mahogany, plum, wistaria, bronze green, taupe, russet, blues and leather.

Bright colors appear on some as a trimming on collar and cuffs.

Coats are Quite Long in Back

Cutaway style—long in the back and quite short in front, and the sharp slope gives a most graceful and becoming line to almost any figure.

There is a pronounced tendency toward more freedom in the lines of suits. Coat sleeves are larger, the skirts somewhat fuller than in recent years.

These new style notes are splendidly expressed in the showing of

Wooltex, a Very High Type of Suits for Women

Prices range from $25 to $65.

New for Autumn--Women's Afternoon and Evening Gowns

Already they are being chosen and fitted in our dress salons.

They are new and irresistible. So new that some of them have just gone into the little white cabinets, to be shown for the first time Monday. So irresistible that they, like others, will go as soon as they are shown.

Almost every style has a high girdle of some rich velvet. Many have the upper part of the bodice of transparent stuffs, marquisette or chiffon embroidered, and opening over lace and net chemisettes.

Sashes are plaited; some dresses have tunics or hip draperies, showing all that remains of the pannier which threatened two years ago.

It is interesting to see how the designers are dealing with draperies—the tiered skirt of combined lace and chiffon, or all lace, the girdles and what piquant little touches they add.

Colors, too, have something of autumn richness about them—while the light or white evening gowns have bright flashes of color in sash or girdle or garniture.

Prices are, $35 to $100.

First Early Peep at New Wool Dress Fabrics Black a Leading Feature

Moire Crepe Poplin in black; a beautiful fabric for dressy costumes; 42 inches wide; $2.25 yard.

Flake Poplin—Black—a light-weight, silky, superb fabric; 44 inches wide; $3.50 yard.

Beautiful Crepe Poplins, in the new leather or brass shade, Copenhagen, navy and cream; $1.75 yd.

New Linen 5c Laces at 5c Yard

A new shipment of new Linen Laces in new and dainty patterns—narrow widths—has come to supply the demands for trimming infants' and children's clothes.

They will be put on a table for your choosing Monday—plenty of edges and insertions—all at 5c yard.

Allover Embroideries for Collars and Cuffs

They are sheer Swiss, in the eyelet effects so popular for collar and cuff sets. The dark suit which must soon be donned will call for fresh sets daily. These embroideries are particularly dainty, and are priced at $1.00 yard.

Marble Entrance to Cox College.

This beautiful entrance symbolizes much to the young student who crosses it for the first time. She enters it with quick step, throbbing heart, noble ambition to do something and be something in the great moral and intellectual world that lies before her.

Within she finds a warm and joyous welcome. A thrill of delight goes over the student body when one more is added to the happy number. She also finds an atmosphere of earnestness and high endeavor. The college courses are attractive and interesting, the daily tasks are difficult but stimulating, the association is inspiring and character building goes on under the highest and most helpful influences.

Cox College is situated three miles from the city limits of Atlanta, the busiest center of life and activity in the South. On the double tracks of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, it may be reached by day travel from any point in this or adjoining States, and also enjoys the privilege of the electric railroad from Atlanta with 10 minute schedule at five cent fare. When the students attend church services or any entertainment in a body they have the privilege of special cars which furnish ample accommodations, do not stop in transit and shorten schedules.

Cox College, long famous for its conservatory work, has a literary course of equal rank. The academy furnishes splendid preparation for college. To keep abreast of the times a stronger faculty has been secured for the coming session. Many improvements have been made this summer in order to handle a larger enrollment than usual.

There will be a joyous reunion among the former students and quite a commotion and welcome by the little city of College Park when school reopens September 10th for its seventy-first session.

Those who are interested in the higher education of women may obtain a beautiful catalogue and illustrations upon application to Cox College and Conservatory, College Park, Ga.—(Adv.)

New Fall Millinery

The All-Black Hat a Feature

An all-black Hat is always correct. It sets off the pale colors of the toilette and brings into harmony the more vivid ones.

It is both dressy and serviceable.

New Ideas Are Shown Here

Small, dressy Hats of black satin, soft crowns, butterfly bows, maline and jet trimmings; some have high, halo-like trimming around the crown.

In Lower-Priced Millinery

See the new Hats Monday.

A Sale of Cotton Dress Fabrics That Few Will Want to Miss

The remaining stocks of Wash Goods and Summer Cottons are priced so extremely low that one finds it hard to withstand the temptation to buy dresses by the half-dozen to lay away for next season.

Some examples:

12 1/2 yd. For Printed Crepe Voiles that have sold all season at 25c yard. Bulgarian and Jouy patterns—some bordered effects—36 inches wide.

7 1/2 yd. For Bates' Toile du Nord and A. F. C. Gingham hams and Wm. Anderson's Madras—the regular 12 1/2c and 15c grades; 25 full, new pieces to sell Monday at 7 1/2c yard.

August clearing of children's apparel brings such unusual opportunities as these:

The Final Week of Our Twice Yearly Shoe Sale. Every low shoe in the house has reached a new price level for this, the end of our 1913 summer season. A mere reduction in price does not necessarily represent a bargain. A bargain is a bargain indeed—in shoes—when you buy a correct style, plus good wear, good fit and proper store service, at a fraction of the original established price. Our July business was conducted actually at a loss and August will show a still greater one; but we find that in each six months' season it pays us better to clean house absolutely than to carry over broken sizes, odds and ends and what will be next season-old stock. That is the reason why Allen's shoe sale means more than the average shoe sale. Next week we will offer exactly 522 pairs of shoes in white, black and tan, at $1.50 a pair, and over 200 pairs of white only at $1.00 a pair. These are badly broken in sizes, but splendid values. Every $4.00 low shoe in the house is offered at... $2.75 Every $5.00 low shoe in the house is offered at... $3.75 While the $6.00 and $7.00 shoes are grouped together at... $4.75 Boys' and girls' barefoot sandals, fifty cents a pair. Miss Ross and Her Studio Of Interest to Her Friends

MISS LULA ROSS. A talented Georgia artist, who has returned from Europe to apply her talents at home.

The return to her native state of Miss Lula Ross of Rome, Ga., and her decision to make her permanent home in Atlanta is an announcement pleasing not only to her countless friends in the state, but to those art loving people who appreciate the significance of the artist who "comes home to paint."

Miss Ross has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Edward Durant, at the Rosby, and has been personally superintending the building of the house in which her studio will be built. "It faces the west on Durant place," explained Miss Ross in talking enthusiastically of her prospective home, "for nowhere in this or the old world have I seen more beautiful sunsets over a wonderful sky line than right here in Atlanta."

Yes, I prefer landscape painting and working in the open--every artist does--and will indulge myself in this pleasure in and around Atlanta. While in Europe, where I studied a number of years in France and Italy, I was a member of many of the out-of-door classes but I can assure you that America's great "out-of-doors" can give just as much inspiration. The American student is realizing this more and more every day.

The Broadened Viewpoint. "Getting the training which the old world masters can give living in the very atmosphere of the greatest art human genius and talent have produced the American student, who is right-minded, gets the broad viewpoint that makes him realize that with the training he gets abroad he can come back home and find plenty of subject matter. This fact is emphatically proven each day, and I believe this homecoming is going to give us in our country the very force which has been needed for what may be called a native art life."

Like every other form of education the time has come for the knowledge of art to be applied and not just wasted in endless seeking for a fame, which can just as easily be found at home as in foreign lands. In other words, art in America is going to find its most onward move through applied art, that is the artist coming back and applying what he has learned in his every day life and every day things. He can relate art to everything around him and paint a "gray day" picture in the misty atmosphere which veils Kennesaw mountain just as wonderful as he could one on foreign shores.

"The lights of our own sunsets can be portrayed with as much skill as the sunrise of any other, and we have not the same glory of color, the same scenery and scapes and openness."

To Make Exhibition. Miss Ross is an instructor in drawing and painting, but her special work is landscape painting and she promises in the early winter to make an exhibition of her work. Talking of the growing spirit of art as she has seen it here and elsewhere, in this country she believes that to push art in its relation to civic beauty and the people at large it will have to come through a more general knowledge of the subject, in the people patronizing it as well as its gradual growth through the public schools.

Gossip of Georgians in the Metropolis

(By R. S. Carraway, The Constitution's New York Bureau.)

In view of the division of opinion which still has been displayed this month, as to the probable course of American business affairs and American prosperity generally, this autumn, The New York Evening Post has made telegraphic inquiry from a number of merchants and financial correspondents all over the United States, as to just what the general expectation is. Until a month ago predictions were generally gloomy. There was a wide spread belief that the tariff changes would seriously hurt the autumn trade. There was also great uncertainty as to what would be the state of the money market, an uncertainty which, at one time, went so far as to cause prediction of another panic.

The questions telegraphed by The Evening Post to interior merchants, asked for a frank expression of opinion on the autumn outlook. The replies indicate a strong consensus of opinion that the good points far overtop the bad, and that a prosperous season is ahead of us.

John Silvey & Co. of Atlanta, sent this message: "Business outlook in Georgia is unusually good. We note steady improvement in trade at present, and we look for this to continue during the fall. It is our opinion that the corn crop and money market will not extend to interfere with business in this section. Crops have been made on an economical basis. Secretary McAdoo's offer to the banks of the south is very helpful."

George W. Tideman, one of Savannah's largest merchants, had this to say: "In this section the business outlook is exceedingly bright for fall business. The cotton crop indicates a yield about the same as of last year. Most of our farmers have made fairly good crops of corn and oats, and are in a position to pay their debts. Money in this section has been very tight all this year. Farmers and people generally have economized and, to a large extent, the marketing of this cotton crop, money conditions in this section will ease up very much."

C. G. Lambert of Atlanta, who comes to New York every few months, says he is not in the habit of purchasing property belonging to hotels in which he stops, nor is he such a devoted student of the Scriptures that he feels he must carry about a Bible with him wherever he goes. But when Mr. Lambert arrived at the Hotel Imperial one day this week he called for the assistant manager, opened his suitcase and solemnly handed the other a book which the manager recognized as a kind kept in every room of the hotel.

"I swiped it," said Mr. Lambert, "but inadvertently I am not in the habit of stealing Bibles. I remember that when I left here the last time, some two months ago, I packed my bag in a hurry and, to my surprise, the size of my safety razor case and I must have put it in without looking at it."

The Rev. Dr. C. B. Wilmer of Atlanta is expected to have an important part in the controversy of the Episcopal church over the proposal to change its name when the annual convention of Episcopalians is held in this city next month. Leaders in the church will all be in triumph for any part in the Episcopal church, and to prevent an unseemly wrangle in the convention. It has been agreed that sixteen speakers, eight clergymen and eight laymen, shall carry the debates and Dr. Wilmer has been chosen as one of this number. Dr. Wilmer was leader of the Low three years ago, and was among one of the first chosen to carry on the debate against the change of name.

The Rev. James H. Owens who for the past twenty years has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Paterson, N. J., has accepted the call tendered to him by the congregation of the Vineville Presbyterian church in Macon. He will leave for the Georgia city about October 1.

Dr. Owens is a brother-in-law of T. C. Parker, of Macon and while on a visit in Macon the congregation of the Vineville church heard him and extended a call to assume the pastorate of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Doughty announce the engagement of their daughter, Juliette Berry Doughty, to Hoyt Brown Evans, of New York. The wedding will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doughty, in New York, on October 10. Mr. and Mrs. Doughty and their daughter formerly resided in Augusta, and Mr. Evans is the grandson of Edward J. Brown of Atlanta and a cousin of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. The most prominent southern families.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lersch of Poughkeepsie, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Joan Lersch, to James Robert Wagon, of Macon. The wedding will take place at the latter part of this month at the home of the bride's parents in Poughkeepsie.

Metropolis during the present week, and Georgia, as usual, was well represented. The manager of one of the large hotels yesterday placed a conservative estimate on the number of out-of-town business men now in New York. He said fully eight thousand. The hotels where the buyers generally congregate, such as the McAlpin, Navarre, Grand, Albert, Veltoria and Georgian, are turning away guests by the hundreds daily.

Shrewd, self-reliant and capable, these men have brought with them statistics on the crop conditions in the west and south, and they have decided views on the probable effect of the reductions in the tariff on business, the state of the money market, the likelihood of the pending currency bill and the peculiar needs of their home localities.

C. J. Bloodworth, of the Chamberlain, Johnson, DuBose Co., of Atlanta, who has been stopping at the McAlpin, explained the situation in Georgia to The Constitution's correspondent. "The only thing I am considering in making my purchases," said Mr. Bloodworth, "is the crops. Business conditions in my state have not been as good as they might be, but the indications are for a very good year. We depend very largely upon the cotton crop. My purchases are as large as they ever were, and we are expecting a year of good business. We have no fears whatever of the effect of the revision in the tariff."

Atlanta buyers in the city this week included J. D. Bellah, J. E. Collier, Miss M. Brown and W. H. Brittain, for J. M. High & Co., F. A. Sherman and Miss L. Cabanis, for M. Rich, J. P. Meador, for Meador-Cauchon Co., and Miss A. W. Richards and Miss Esgricola, for Davison-Paxon Stokes Co.

From other Georgia points were: J. Hoffman, Albany; B. S. Orr, J. S. Walker, H. L. Minor and J. F. Flynn, Valdosta; H. L. Minor and J. F. Flynn, Waldorf; Astoria—Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Atlanta Has Royal Hosts At White Sulphur Springs

Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, August 23—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, of Atlanta, entertained their daughter, Miss Margaret Grant, and the Georgia girls here, including the Misses Harriet Calhoun, Katherine Ellis, Martina Burke, Martha Sue Phinizy, Nell Phinizy and Marguerite Wright at a lawn fête, which was followed by a cotillon when many beautiful favors were distributed. A buffet tea was served on the lawn under marquees, before the company, which numbered nearly 200, adjourned to the ballroom where dancing continued until long after sunset. The decorations were American Beauty roses and palms, which were banked high enough to obscure the walls, and screen the musicians. Mrs. James H. Preston, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Frank Ellis, of Atlanta, assisted Mrs. Grant, at the favor table. Thomas B. Paine, of Atlanta, E. Pendleton Turner, of Washington, and Jo Lane Sterne, of Richmond, led the cotillon figures.

All the prominent southerners here were invited to the Grant party. The morning german given by Mr. Stevens for the Misses Stevens, Young Moulton and Godwin was very attractive. The invitation list numbered very nearly 300, while only about half were invited to the Grant party. The occupied chairs arranged in semi-circles around the ballroom.

At the annual fancy dress dance for Juniors on Tuesday evening the youngsters from Atlanta made a big hit. Some of those whose costumes attracted attention were Rankin Manley, clown, Doughty Manley, a daisy, Frances Ellis, morning star, and Valley Manley, Fannie Manley.

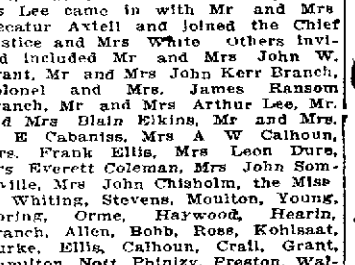

Evening Cotillon.
Probably the most attractive affair ever given here was the subscription cotillon of Monday night when the hosts included Thomas B. Paine, of Atlanta, who was the chairman of the committee, and the Messrs. Doughty Manley also of Atlanta. Billus Phinizy, of Athens, Ga. Marion Whaley, of Charleston, S. C. Garrett B. Wall, Jo Lane Sterne, Henry W. Anderson and John Aiken Branch, of Richmond, and Mr. H. Snowden Marshall and Dr. John Herndon French, of New York.

The Messrs. Paine and Stern alternated in leading the figures which were unusually beautiful. During the seated supper which was served in the Grill at midnight before tangoing one stepping and "fish-walking" were resumed in the ballroom, toasts were drunk to the leaders and the hosts who sat at a circular table in the middle of the room, with Madames Paine, Phinizy, Wall, Whaley, Marshall, Manley, and French, while the one hundred couples who danced. Hand the honor guests, numbering fifty, were invited to see the affair, sat in congenial groups at small tables. Thomas Nelson Page, who arrived last Friday to attend the annual morning german given by George W. Stevens, for his daughter, Miss Helen Stevens, and her guests, the Misses Alice Young, Mary Moulton and Nan Godwin, was present. Miss Mary Curtis Lee came in with Mr. and Mrs. Decatur Artwell and joined the Cotillon and Mrs. White, others invited included Mr. and Mrs. John W. College Men to Organize for Woman Suffrage in Georgia
A group of college men, among the best-known young men of the state, will organize in favor of woman's suffrage, this fact made known at a meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association in Carnegie library Wednesday.

Mrs. M. L. McLendon introduced several young college men, the first speaker being Mr. Victor Victor, of Atlanta. He believed that suffrage for either man or woman, nor was it a privilege. Much time had been lost by the suffragists in combatting the theory that the purity of the home would be lost if women had the ballot, and by other fallacious arguments. Women should demand to beg for votes. If they would demand them they would be benefactors.

SOCIAL LIFE IN MACON

Macon, Ga., August 23.—(Special Correspondence.)—Two weddings broke into the quiet of last week's social life, and while they were neither one large affair, they were of widespread interest to the many friends of the popular young people.

The first, which united in marriage Miss Ethel Ruth Davis and Mr. Harry Andrews, of New York, occurred Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at Lakeside, the suburban home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. W. A. Scott. The home was attractively decorated in white roses and ferns.

Rev. William Burke was the officiating clergyman. The twin sisters of the bride, Misses Caro and Susie Davis, were the only attendants, both wearing dainty white lingerie gowns made over white charmeuse and carrying armfuls of pink gladioli.

The bride, who is a beautiful young woman with rich brunette coloring, was lovely in white crepe meteor, hand-embroidered in roses and trimmed with exquisite lace. Lilies of the valley held the bride veil in place and the bridesmaids wore fragrant blossoms with white roses composed her bouquet. Only the relatives and a few close friends were present, and after the informal reception which followed the ceremony, the bride and groom, accompanied by the bridesmaids, sailed from there to New York to spend some time in the Catskill mountains. After September 15 their residence will be 4226 Maryland avenue, St. Louis.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Patillo and Dr. Thomas Hardeman Clark, of Leesburg, took place Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Patillo, on High street.

The ceremony, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. W. N. Ainsworth, was artistically decorated with white flowers and palms and ferns, the lighted altar, which was beautifully decorated with pink roses and being lit on either side by tapers in cathedral candlesticks. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Maude Patillo. Mr. Robert Heath, of Leesburg, was the groom's attendant.

Mrs. J. S. Jackson has as her guests Misses Mamie and Frances Beatty, of Atlanta.

Miss Claude Estes was hostess at an informal sewing party Monday morning complimentary to Miss Ruth Ponder, of Forsyth, the charming guest of Miss Grady Stone in Vineville. At 1 o'clock the guests adjourned from the shaded porch to the dining room, where a seated luncheon was served. Miss Ponder returned to her home in Forsyth.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Robert L. Smith entertained at a 42 party in honor of her guests, Miss M. A. Lindsey, of Atlanta, and Miss Gertrude Smith. PREMATURE GRAYNESS CAN BE AVERTED

THE hair turns gray because it has lost vitality, due to sickness, nervous strain, deficient nutrition and sometimes hereditary causes. To pull out the hairs when they begin to turn white is simply to enlarge the cells, coarsen the hair and cause it to whiten more quickly than if left alone. It is not to be feared and only satisfactory treatment for premature grayness is a pure, reliable hair restorative such as Restorative Hair Dye. This restorative is prepared in our own laboratory, a scientific formula, and we guarantee it to be non-injurious. It is not to bleach or change the original color, but is to restore faded or gray hair to its natural color and lost vitality. Its tonic effect makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and keeps it in a healthy condition. Does not sting the scalp and its use cannot be detected. Don't let gray hair stand in your way either in the social or business world. Thousands of others are using this splendid restorative with best results. We have sold it for over a quarter of a century without even one complaint against it. It is a pure, beneficial restorative and cannot harm you. For light, medium and dark brown and black hair. At druggists and toilet goods departments, 75c; by parcel post, 85c.

Send us the name of your druggist if he cannot supply you, and we will send you FREE samples by Registered Mail. Face Powder and Cold Cream of Rosen, Jacobs, Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.

Washington Seminary
ITS BOARDING DEPARTMENT

In the formative period of the life of girls who are away from home at school, proper home influences must be exerted in the school. To meet this need, Washington Seminary, Atlanta, maintains a strictly limited boarding department for girls from thirteen to twenty years of age.

It provides for them an elegant home, as beautiful in all its appointments as the most expensive private residences. The rooms are large, nicely furnished, and almost all have private baths connecting.

Students and teachers live together as a family, under a family method of government, and the faculty is thus able to exercise a careful oversight of all the girls' interests—health, amusements, studies, and moral training.

Illustrated catalogue and full information may be had on application to L. D. & E. B. Scott, Principals, 1374 Peachtree Road, or phone Ivy 5672-J.

SESSION OPENS SEPT. 11, 1913

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Wrinkles

(From Feminine World.)
The use of creams on the face sometimes causes hair to grow. You can avoid the risk of growing superfluous hair by avoiding cosmetics and using microtized wax instead. There is nothing better for any condition of the skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive matter. The latter is naturally replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy complexion, full of life and expression. It's the sensible way to discard a freckled, tanned, over-red, blotchy or pimply skin. Get an ounce of microtized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, erasing in the morning with soap and water. It takes a week or so to complete the transformation.

The ideal wrinkle eradicator is made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings almost instantaneous results.—Adv.

Most Amazing and Thrilling Story Ever Written!

THE POISON BELT

By CONAN DOYLE

Creator of Sherlock Holmes

Order At Once

BEGINS
SEPTEMBER 7, IN THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION

"The Stillness and Silence of Universal Death— * Challenger breathed two or three times with Enormous Gulps."*

WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY AFFORDED
READERS OF SUNDAY CONSTITUTION

"The Poison Belt," Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Latest and Greatest Story, Will Be Published in Generous Installments in the South's Standard Newspaper, Beginning With Sunday, September 7.

It isn't often that such a literary treat is offered to the readers of a Sunday newspaper as that now planned by the publishers of The Atlanta Constitution.

On Sunday, September 7, the first installment of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's latest story, "The Poison Belt," will be printed in The Constitution, and on each succeeding Sunday other generous installments will appear until this marvelous story is completed.

Stories by this gifted writer of fiction are so costly that only the most enterprising publishers care to make the large investment necessary to buy one of his masterpieces, and the people of the South are to be congratulated that they will have the first opportunity to read this entrancing story of mystery by simply buying The Sunday Constitution.

Sir Conan Doyle's price for "The Poison Belt" was $5,000, which stamps him at once as one of the highest-priced writers of the age—a writer whose words are veritable dollar marks, whose letters are nickels and dimes.

But this titled writer of mysterious romances and weird tragedies, of strange adventures and wonderful detective skill, cares little for the money end of the story business—he accepts it as a tribute to his genius as a word painter, as he accepted knighthood and the accompanying title from his king. His interest is in the strange characters he creates and the wonderful exploits he makes his fancied personages perform—in the weaving of mysterious plots of crime for a wonderful detective to unravel; in the delving into the past for characters to entrance and mystify the people of today.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle first became a great writer in the public mind through his creation of that mythical wonder—Sherlock Holmes—who at once became the model for detectives all over the world. The wonderful deductions of Holmes, which enabled him to solve mysterious crimes that baffled all other detectives, established among real detectives a new school of thought and action wherein a scientific basis was sought for the ferreting out of crimes of a mysterious nature.

Everybody knows about Sherlock Holmes, and almost everybody knows more or less about the man whose wonderful brain evolved the entrancing stories of which the famed sleuth was the central figure.

But Sherlock Holmes, great as he is or was, is only one of the peculiarly gifted mythical characters introduced to the public and made to seem as real persons of flesh and blood by this great English writer.

Sir Conan Doyle's stories of romance, adventure and mystery are numerous, and all have been highly popular, so popular indeed that he is now resting securely on that pinnacle of fame that inspires all writers to strive and strive in the hope that some time they will reach its dizzy heights and reap the reward they prize most—the acclaim of the world.

Most readers of The Constitution will vividly recall Sir Conan Doyle's marvelous story—"The Lost World"—which, for mysticism, adventure and romance, eclipsed that other wonderful story, "She," by H. Rider Haggard.

In this story, wherein his imaginary characters discovered a lost world in the hidden recesses of South America, he introduced a new character, at once as quaint and peculiar and as marvelous in his own particular way as Sherlock Holmes—Professor Challenger.

The story he told of the discovery of this lost world and of the adventures of the men who discovered it was so real that it seemed that it was recounting a historical fact, and it was difficult to believe that it was only a story.

And now this word-weaver, this marvelous picturer of things that might be, has written another great story of mystery that simply throbs with interest from the first word to the last.

Before the reader has glimpsed a dozen lines of "The Poison Belt," his interest is aroused; before the first chapter is perused he is absorbed in the mystery that beckons him on and on, and when he comes to the end of the installment he wonders why the entire story wasn't printed, even if it occupied the whole Sunday Constitution.

"The Poison Belt," will undoubtedly go down in history as the greatest of all the stories written by Sir Conan Doyle. Notwithstanding the many other entrancing mysteries he has evolved, and that each one eclipsed all other efforts, this last one seems to have embodied in its mystic interest the culmination of all his wonderful ability as a writer.

Professor Challenger, quaint, peculiar and interesting, appears in the first chapter with a proposition that simply sets the mythical world agog. And that's enough to say that the reading public will hang upon the words written by Doyle until they come to "The End."

The publishers of The Constitution urge the public to send in their orders early for The Sunday Constitution. Although many thousand extra copies will be printed in order to accommodate those who will fail to take advantage of beginning with the first chapter on September 7, it is the experience of all that thousands will be disappointed as the extra copies will go quickly.

Remember the date—Sunday, September 7.

"The Poison Belt," Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Greatest Story, begins in The Sunday Constitution September 7th and continues in the Sunday Edition only until completed. Order Now!

ATLANTA PREPARING FOR SEASON OPENING

Theater Will Be in the Best of Shape for the First Show Wednesday Week.

Final preparations for the opening of the theatrical season will be made this week when the Atlanta will be thoroughly cleaned, retouched with paint brushes and otherwise made ready for regular usage. The opening will follow the cleaning and on Wednesday night of next week the first performance of 1913-14 will be given.

For the opening of the house, Klav & Erlanger have selected a bright little musical comedy bearing the title of "Mary's Lamb." It is full of laughter and song hits and will be played by an excellent company, with Den McGrath in the leading comedy role. McGrath is a comedian who has won his spurs and he is certain to please the Atlanta public.

After the first week the attractions come thick and fast. Some of the greatest stars in America and Europe are booked at the playhouse, and during the season Atlanta will be offered more big shows than in any past season. More legitimate stars will appear than ever before while a number of new and pleasing shows without stars will be offered.

During the week, in addition to cleaning the house and surroundings thoroughly, the management will test all the fire apparatus and test out the precautionary methods in vogue to prevent fires and disasters. The fans and ceiling arrangements will also be given attention.

The management announces that arrangements have been made to protect the feet of women patrons when cold weather comes through the laying of carpets over the entire lower floor. The one complaint registered against the house in the past has been this drawback. Now that it is remedied the Atlanta will prove the most delightful as well as popular playhouse in the south.

You can generally get around people you can see through—Chicago News.

JEWELRY IS RECOVERED BY ATLANTA DETECTIVES

The efficiency of the detective force was demonstrated Saturday when City Detective Coker, assisted by representatives of the Burns Detective Agency, succeeded in running to earth the burglars who on last Sunday night entered the home of J. W. Russell, 3 Lafayette drive, in Ansley Park, and made away with diamonds and other jewelry valued at considerably more than $500.

Acting on a tip given them Wednesday, Detective Coker and the Burns men have kept a close watch over Preston Fleming, a negro who, with his wife, was formerly employed by Mr. Russell as a house servant, and Fleming, entered a local pawn shop and disposed of one of the smaller articles taken from the Russell home. Going to the home of the couple early Saturday morning, in the rear of 332 Juniper street, a thorough search of the entire house and contents was made by the officers, but no trace of the stolen jewelry could be found. As they were about to leave the house, Detective Coker made the suggestion that the mattress of the bed be cut open, and when this plan was carried out, all of the missing pieces, with the exception of the one pawned, were found. The jewelry taken from Mr. Russell's home included several valuable diamonds and one handsome watch, besides a lot of smaller pieces which were valued chiefly as heirlooms.

DR. DUBOSE TO DISCUSS PROTESTANT TRIUMPHS

At his evening service tonight, Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak on "The Triumphs of Protestantism."

At a recent meeting of the Catholic societies of this country it was declared that "Protestantism is a demonstrated failure."

The discourse of Dr. DuBose proposes to show the contrary of this utterance. The service begins at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

BRENAU COLLEGE-CONSERVATORY

PANORAMIC VIEW OF PART OF BRENAU'S WONDERFUL EQUIPMENT.

COMBINING an "A-1" college of literary note, with a wonderful conservatory of music and a foremost school of oratory, it at once becomes the South's most progressive college for women and earns its title of a national educational institution

Special Announcement

The course of study of Brenau has recently been revised in accordance with standards of foremost American universities and colleges. Hereafter the degree of A. B. will be the only degree granted. The requirements for admission to Freshman class are fourteen units.

Two-Year Courses

For the benefit of many girls who can remain in college only two years, courses are arranged so that diploma may be received and the title of Associate in Arts conferred at the end of two years after the high school. This is similar to the practice of the University of Chicago.

Preparatory Courses

Courses equivalent to the work of a first-class high school are offered and provision is made to receive pupils as young as fourteen years of age.

Music, Oratory, Art, Domestic Science

These subjects are especially suited to the needs of the average woman, and may be offered at Brenau as electives for the A. B. degree. Diplomas in each of these subjects are also offered.

Brenau has no competitors in the South in these special courses, and the demand for teachers who are graduates of Brenau is far greater than can be supplied.

The next term begins September 11. Only a few places are still open.

New Book Ready

A beautiful new book, entitled "Brenau Girl," has just been published. It is sent free upon request. Address, H. J. Pearce or T. J. Simmons, Presidents, Box 14, Brenau, Gainesville, Ga.

Fall Fashion Number

The Well Dressed Woman

Some of the Newest Fashions for Autumn from Paris Modistes

A three-piece costume by Redfern, the short bolero coat has a wide cape collar, the skirt a single seam at the center back, which is concealed by the plaited back panel of chiffon.

Cheruit is responsible for this costume, which was designed from the Balkan military dress. The skirt of blue and green cloth is cut very narrow and slightly draped. The coat is short and hangs loosely from the figure. It is of navy duvetine, and has collar and cuffs of the ribbed material from which the skirt is made.

A black velvet suit by Paquin is made with an elaborately embroidered vest. The jacket is of long cutaway style, the skirt scant and slightly draped. Black satin cuffs and collar, and gorgeously colored buttons add to the beauty of the costume.

An afternoon dress also of Paquin is shown here. It is of crepe tussah, in brilliant strawberry red. Adorned with jet buttons and black velvet ribbon.

New Modes That Have Appeared

By Marion Morris

AMERICAN FASHIONS? NO! FRENCH FASHIONS? YES—by adoption! For we must not forget that Paris dictates to New York, and that the latter does likewise to America. This fact alone explains why American women are only rivaled by the Parisiennes in understanding the art of good dressing!

Even though a well-known sculptor has said that the Summer fashions were exceedingly beautiful—"in that more of the human form was visible"—it is a pleasure to know that Dame Fashion has ordered quite a change in modes. The clinging and transparent modes of a few weeks ago were delightful until they were vulgarized. Indeed, the leaving-off process could not go much further, for many women who did tolerate the pneumonia blouses refused to wear the pneumatic skirts!

Of course, the new and more modest modes are charming and their chic is decidedly pronounced because there is no suggestive touch to detract from their beautiful and smart styles.

No particular period is notable in the history of dress has influenced the new fashions. However, old ideas have been revived from the costumes worn during the Louis periods and the years that followed up to and including the Directory. In doing so the dressmaker has endeavored to create the most wearable apparel—and they have succeeded.

First—the Tailored Suits for Autumn.

The introduction of Scotch plaid fabrics has caused quite a commotion and a difference of opinion. Some people do not take the mode seriously, because so many attempts have been made to launch it successfully—and without any notable result. But, I think that those who are now pessimistic about plaids will have a great surprise, for I am sure that the richness of the colors and the chic ways they are fashioned will bring them plaid silks will be much more popular than the worsteds, because their color tones are softer and richer, besides the silks are more supple and easier to drape. Of course, the smart suits are not the most favored. If one of these weighs more than 130 to 140 pounds would look like cartoons in such coats and skirts. The cloth suits with plaid skirts—generally green and navy predominating—and plain blue or green coats are the most favored. If one of these suits should be your choice, be sure that there is a plain-color skirt to match the coat, for even the best of plaids become tiresome if worn all the while. Even though the coats of these suits may be trimmed with plaid, they are perfectly all right when worn with the plain skirts, for the Scotch color combinations are always effective.

Composé suits of every description are now the fad, but it is a question whether they will remain at the top of Fashion's list during the Winter. Some tailors are so sure of their success, that they are making luxurious suits with white or citron fallie silks skirts, and black or a harmonious color velvet coat trimmed with skunk. Time alone will answer this question! But if you are selecting a suit now, count ten before you decide on one of these.

Although the regulation cutaway coat is approaching the period of being passé, it is suggested in many of the new models. Quite the best of these is a jacket that follows the directive line—being cut away in front at the high waistline and then taking a straight, downward line, which continues in a slant to form a deep point in the back.

The charming skirt with the tunic is also much in evidence. It is particularly smart when it repeats the cutaway lines of the coat, and when it is made in triple effect. I do not think that the predictions for the tunic model can be too glowing, because it is effective and has a certain chic that can only be given by straight and clearly defined lines.

However, there are many tailor-made that have draped skirts. The peg top style, which was not a success last season, has influenced one of these new modes to such a degree that it should be called the perfected peg top. In the front, it is draped downwards and upwards, to give the baggy effect at the hips, but in the back it is quite straight and flat so that it will not break the long line of the coat. This skirt in white pencil striped black velour de laine, is very good-looking with a plain black coat of the same fine fabric.

The Russian blouse jacket is again on Fashion's list. This time, it is more charming, for it is fashioned with the natural waistline and its regular stock collar has been replaced by the graceful de mediet collar of lace.

Nearly every suit has a waistcoat—either separate, attached or in effect! For this reason, there are many suits with jaunty one-button jackets, that permit the waistcoat to be quite visible. These waistcoats generally have the collar and revers attached to them. Then, there are some Russian waistcoats of fine silks and rich embroideries, that invite the taking off of coats in restaurants or at matinees.

Sashes are also an important factor! Nearly all the coats that are designed in the Directoire mode have wide crushed sashes extending from the very high to the normal waistline, and finished with large bows in the front. The loose draped sash that Paul Poiret introduced on a gown a little while ago is now seen on coats—it is inset at the side seams and hangs loose until it lies in a large bow near the end of the coat in the back.

Then, there are plain girdles that are used to hold in place the extreme short fronts of jackets that have medium length loose backs. These coats are quite unique!

Trotteur costumes are very plain and yet they can't be called severely tailored, as their lines are too uncertain. For instance, the skirts of some are gathered or simply pressed in box pleats about the waistline. The bodices are generally quite plain, with fillings or de Mediet collars of lace about the low pointed necks to give the only touch of daintiness. Of course bright colored sashes are added to make the dresses more dashing and effective.

The new dresses deserve a chapter of their own.

The tunic mode heads the list, because it is quite different from the draped styles of the last year or so. Although there are tunics and tunics, the one with the points that was created by Callot is the most unique. This tunic, which extends to the knees, is edged with tiny points and is set on in points, so that it flares like a lampshade. Then there are short tunics that flare—some embroidered around the edge, others edged with skunk, ermine or other short pile furs. The pleated tunics are very delightful when of chiffon or voile, but are quite the opposite when fashioned of a heavy material.

Of course, draped modes are much in evidence, too. These show quite an improvement, as they are more artistic and graceful. The drapery that suggests a painter will surely be quite popular, because it is not extreme and because it gives excellent lines to most every figure. The draperies that swathe the hips in Oriental fashion are worn by the woman who can stand vivid contrasts—for instance, a foundation of a white clinging silk, with draperies of black to match the bodice.

The mode with the straight skirt whose fullness is mostly in the front (in a cluster of pleats), should always be finished with a wide girlish and large

The third gown is of crepe tussah, and shows some very unique features. The skirt is made on a deep yoke, and is slightly draped at the sides. The simple waist has a half low neck filled in with a lace guimpe. The sleeves are of chiffon of the same shade of beige as the gown. Four large buttons adorn the front of the gown.

Plounees will be the craze for the early Autumn. But when Winter comes they will be mostly seen on evening gowns and dancing frocks. Many of the gowns with skirts of numerous flounces are generally of a fine silk or net, with flounces of lace or tulle. While this is a mode of simplicity, it gives opportunity for elegance, as it is lovely when the flounces are of exquisite lace. The standard woman looks best in the model whose flounces are set on straight, but other women should make certain that the flounces dip in the back.

The "Tango" gown has made a greater sensation than any of the other evening modes. But whether it will be a brilliant success is yet to be determined. Of course, its Turkish pantalon trousers make it extreme, but nevertheless they make it practical for its purpose. As a matter of fact, it is much more decent to dance any of the new steps in this costume, as one's limbs are securely covered to the ankles, where the pantaloons are fastened close on jeweled bands. And above the knees it looks quite like a dress, for it is fashioned with a double tunic. When of silk crape this costume is the most effective.

Evening gowns are gorgeous! However, they are not burdened with trimmings, as they are made of luxurious brocaded silks and rich satins. Sashes of silver tulle are among their simple but very effective adornments.

Scotch plaid silks are causing quite a furore at the present moment. True it is that they have been introduced at the beginning of several seasons and that their popularity was but for a little while. But now there is every indication that they will be a success this Autumn, for they are perfectly adapted to the new modes. Quite the most stunning dress that I have seen had a foundation of plaid silk, with tunic of plain charmeuse and a combination bodice of the two silks. Besides plaids are in—on used for trimmings.

BY FIRMLY resisting the temptations to be extravagant which assailed us whenever we went upon our Autumn outfits. This was fortunate because there were three tailored suits to be made and the materials for them were rather expensive—as really nice fabrics usually are.

As Abigail is going to be smart this Autumn for young girls, Louise bought four yards of that double width material in a walnut shade. Its skirt is seamed down the center of the back and straight down the front as far as the knees, where it separates over a V of self-colored soutache-braided walnut brown fallie. Across the back and sides the skirt is gathered on to the waist band, but in front it is set on without fullness and is a trifle overlapped by a broad, straight brown velvet girlish that frills in the inverted V-shaped space caused by turning back the jacket's corners below a pair of corollated sleeves that close its front. The full length conventional sleeves of the jacket are cut-in-one with the shoulders, which form a yoke going straight across a seamless back that curves a trifle below the hips. The other two sections of the yoke slant from the neck toward the under-arm seams and into its lower edge the short, cut-away fronts are slightly gathered. The narrow turned-over collar, the broad band cuffs and the half belt crossing the back are of soutache-braided fallie. Louise searched the shops until she found a walnut brown straw sash and into its lower end, moderately high-crowned new shape and trimmed it with brown wide moire ribbon and a single quill. The ribbon, loosely folded, goes round the crown to the back, where it forms a single, wired loop bending downward toward the left, while the quill, rooted in the loop's knot, slants upward in the opposite direction. When this straw hat begins to get shabby, Louise can cover it with brown fallie.

MILDRED'S new suit is stunning and very inexpensive, considering its appearance. It's skirt of biscuit-colored serge criss-crossed with fine dark green lines is seamed at the back and front centers to within three inches of its lower edge, but as her patent leather boots have biscuit-colored cloth tops, her insteps are not conspicuous. Its dark green serge coat, opening over a mannish looking biscuit colored vest, is forty inches long all round and hangs straight from the shoulders at the back. Its fronts, finished with a narrow, turned-over collar and pointed revers, are held in but not brought together, by a wide belt in green patent leather closing with a metal buckle. The only buttons on the suit are the small ones of biscuit-colored cloth fastening the attached vest. With a remnant of the biscuit-colored serge, Mildred covered the crown of a turban having a broad, closely turned-up brim of dark green velvet, at the back of which she stuck a green feather fancy.

My new suit is black broadcloth made with a severely plain skirt that is far from wide, but still is not so narrow that its only seams—at either side—need be split. Its coat slants away from the crown immediately below the waist line, covers the hips and the sides and runs into rather a long point at the back. It has conventional coat sleeves and its only trimming is the black silk tailor-braid binding its edges, its turned over collar and mannish lapels. It's the sort of suit that looks well at any hour of the day and which may be worn for almost any purpose the year round. That's why I like it, that way. As my late Spring's black satin and straw turban still looks almost like new—because I had worn it scarcely any through the Summer—it will do nicely for the early Fall. After all there's nothing smarter and more becoming to a middle-aged mother than an all-black chapeau.

RUTH will be so cunning in her Autumn outdoor garb—a tan and dark brown striped worsted ratine full length coat with panel back and front, cross-over side forms, collar and cuffs and big, self-covered buttons fastening the left edge from that shoulder to the hem. She'll wear with it a coarse brown straw hat resembling the "sundown" shape, trimmed with a brown and white striped ribbon.

Louise has just joined a dancing class, not because she particularly cares about mastering the newest steps and figures, but because so many of her young friends belong, that each lesson is like an informal party. Her little new frock for these dances is very simple. Just a China silk in a pale yellow shade made with a gathered-to-the-waistband tier that is split from hem to left knee to show a sham petticoat in white net. The kimono blouse has elbow sleeves finished with narrow lace frillings matching the edging of the deeply-curved front, which is filled in with a tucked maline guimpe. All round the high waistline the bodice blouses prominently over a broad girde of corded pink silk fastening at the left back under a single each end.

Please don't imagine that we've discarded our last Autumn's suits. We haven't. On the contrary we've refined the coats, put on new collars, cuffs and buttons and refaced the hem of the skirts. We've found a preparation that removes almost any sort of a spot and much experience has almost perfected us in the art of pressing. Consequently these suits which we're going to wear for general running about look as fresh as when originally purchased. We've been unable to afford new ones we should consider ourselves very fortunate to have these year-old suits to fall back upon.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN.
Put some soap in a pint of hot water, and this is what gives the smart Parisian effect. Pink and green would work up nicely in this pattern. I suggest the most fragile shell pink for the flowers, and a lettuce green for the foliage. As silk bears any amount of stress in padding, you can pad these flowers, but not so heavily that the clever design is destroyed. There are no intricate stitches here. Use a single thread of floss when working the flowers to insure the contour of four-edged petals. You can gain time by working the leaves with double threads. Do not use a heavy needle when working silk. It should have an eye to conveniently carry the thread without leaving a large hole in the material. Use silk cotton floss. I prefer wash floss. As a rule the colors are fast and last longer. True, the all white patterns are beautiful, but seldom seen on tea jackets. Sincerely yours,
Winifred Worth

Doubtless you have heard the remark, "A woman is known by the tea jacket she wears." Certainly anything dainty and pretty in the way of a tea jacket reflects artistic femininity in the wearer. This, then, is why I have given to you a pattern which can be applied to any sized jacket, the floral part used in whole or part. White is by far the prettiest for a jacket. It seems impossible to acquire the habit of wearing colored morning jackets which seldom correspond with the dress skirt worn. But a color is needed, and this is what gives the smart Parisian effect. Pink and green would work up nicely in this pattern. I suggest the most fragile shell pink for the flowers, and a lettuce green for the foliage. As silk bears any amount of stress in padding, you can pad these flowers, but not so heavily that the clever design is destroyed. There are no intricate stitches here. ODDS AND ENDS

If black stockings are washed in warm, soapy water and rinsed in clear water with a little vinegar they will keep their color until worn out.

To quickly cream butter and sugar use the wire potato masher and have the ingredients in a thick, round bottomed crock. If the milk is added it creams more easily.

Lemons will keep longer if placed in covered glass jars. By some it is said they will keep longer if the jars are filled with water. If wrapped in tissue paper and placed in bran they will last many weeks during hot weather.

Good laundresses, when washing white stockings, whether of silk or thread, add a few drops of oxalic acid to the water. The reason of this is that the acid has the effect of removing the stains caused by the boots and shoes, which are only "set" when washed with ordinary soap and water.

Iron rust on stoves which have not been in use this summer can easily be removed by going over the parts with coarse sandpaper, afterward covering the places with hot tallow or any warm grease. The next day wash with hot soapsuds in which there is a liberal supply of kerosene. Fenders, grates and stoves can be cleaned in this manner.

To clean ivory that has become brown or of a blackish tint, dissolve rock alum in rain water; boil this and keep the ivory in the boiling solution for about an hour, taking it out from time to time and cleaning it with a soft brush; then let it dry in a damp linen rag, when it will be found thoroughly cleaned. Ivory is often bleached by the simple process of dampening it and exposing it to the rays of the sun, a process which must be frequently repeated.

Burning accidents would be comparatively rare if mothers would have alum put in the last rinsing water for children's pinafores, nightgowns, etc., when these articles are washed. Two ounces of alum to each gallon of water is the right proportion, and it should always be used for garments made of the common flannelette, for otherwise this is so likely to catch fire that the wearer of it is in danger of being burned to death. Fires are often caused by muslin curtains being blown by the wind against lighted candles or gas, so it is wise also to rinse such draperies in alum water.

To clean a stove pipe place a piece of zinc on the coals. The vapor produced carries off the soot.

When a cake of soap has been used until it becomes so thin it is liable to break put it and a new cake in hot water for two or three minutes, then fit thin pieces onto the new cake and press firmly with fingers; it will adhere and become a part of the new cake.

After using a knife to pare onions drop it in cold water and leave until the dishes are washed, then wash with hot soapsuds and no odor will be noticed. This rule holds good for utensils in which fish have been cooked. Scouring soaps will not remove disagreeable odors from knives and dishes, but this simple method never fails.

Put up several shelves six inches wide over the drainage table of the sink. In wiping the dishes taken from the plate drainer place them in piles, the same kind together, on the shelves. This happy thought, at the end of the already sorted dishes can be put away in the pantry with the least effort.

The stock pot is the mainspring of a well-managed kitchen. In it should be collected bones, poultry, carcasses, trimmings and vegetables, for any scrap is welcome. A piece of shin beef may sometimes be added for extra strength. There will be no lack of soup, gravy and sauces if this is kept constantly going; it is the foundation for them all. Cotton cloth for puddings and dumpling bags will be needed; also bands for binding the beef roast.

VACATION BLEMISHES

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

Much of the injury caused by sun, wind, and glare might be avoided if the owner of the sensitive skin would only protect her complexion according to the Frenchwoman's method. The face is covered with cold cream and powder rubbed into it thick. It leaves the face snow white, but wholly protected from the sun. A pink veil will restore the hue to the face, which might otherwise look ghastly. For the woman who is going to drive all day, this is the best way to protect her complexion.

It really takes weeks to get complexions which are liberally sprinkled with freckles or coated with tan back to normal condition, and if the dainty summer girl wishes to look L. best for the trying winter season she must begin to treat her complexion immediately.

The girl with freckles should remember that it is not the outer cuticle, but the pigment underneath upon which the rays of the sun have their effect, and that any sort of lotion that takes on the freckles must take off the skin, too. Unfortunately, when the thin outer skin comes off it leaves an especially tender new skin to be exposed and the freckles come back larger and worse than ever. Only when freckles refuse to yield to bleaching with buttermilk, lemon juice, and cucumbers should the "skinning process" be tried.

The bleach is made by dissolving eight grains of bicliloride of mercury in two ounces each of rose water and witch hazel; the mercury should be in coarse powder; the crystals allowed to slowly dissolve in the liquids. It is applied with a soft cloth night and morning and allowed to dry on the skin. Then cold cream is rubbed in and let remain ten minutes, after which a soft cloth is used to wipe the face thoroughly. Let the skin peel slowly, and not in great flakes. In this way it gets a little accustomed to the rays of the sun, and where the freckles are not too deep extra precautions will prevent their return. After the bleach has entirely removed the freckles never by any chances go out of doors without putting on a big brown veil of chiffon.

The buttermilk bath is excellent for taking off those freckles which are not too deeply burned in, as, for example, after a summer's outing, when hats and veils have been left at home. Sour buttermilk is not pleasant, but it improves the complexion wonderfully if used constantly. A basin is filled, the hands used and the face washed as in water. Then it is allowed to dry in and the skin soon shows the effect. Pale freckles will disappear almost entirely, while old freckles are bleached considerably, and by a liberal use of good cold cream and powder are scarcely perceptible. Lemon, cut in half and rubbed over the skin is good, but being an acid it will make the skin rough unless cold cream is used afterward.

For the freckles of temporary duration ripe tomatoes are excellent. Cut the tomato in half and rub well into the skin night and morning, letting it dry on the face. Another bleaching mixture is made by scraping horseradish fine until you get a teaspoonful. Mix this with a cup of sour milk and let it stand six hours. Rub this on the face two or three times a day.

Freckles may be taken off the arms and hands and kept off by using lemon juice or the buttermilk and then wearing long gloves or sleeves.

When sunburn has reached the stage where it stings and burns the natural inclination is to bathe it with cold water, and that only increases the depth and severity of the burn. If it is necessary to wash the face, water as hot as can be borne relieves the inflammation of sunburn. Constant application of buttermilk are also effective.

An excellent lotion for sunburn, but which is equally effective for mere roughness and redness is made of four ounces of oil of sweet almonds, ten ounces of fresh cucumber juice, three ounces of essence of cucumbers, one-fourth ounce of powdered white castile soap, and one-half drachm of tincture of benzoin. The cucumber juice is obtained by boiling the cucumbers in water. They should be sliced thin, skin and all, and be allowed to simmer slowly until resolved to a soft mush. Then strain through a fine sieve and then through a cloth.

The essence is made by putting an ounce and a half of the juice into the same quantity of alcohol. Put the essence and the soap in a large jar with a cover and shake thoroughly and when the soap is dissolved put in the cucumber juice and shake the bottle again. Then pour the mixture into a bowl and add the oil and the benzoin, stirring all the while till the liquid is creamy. Keep this lotion in small tightly corked bottles, and shake before using.

It is only superficial, buttermilk and lemon juice, with an occasional application of diluted peroxide will in time remove the tint. Where the skin is deeply tanned a lotion made of one-half ounce of lactic acid, one-half ounce of glycerin, and one-half ounce of rose water will soon bleach it. Apply several times daily with a soft the burning is severe—for any bleachcloth or a bit of absorbent cotton. If the lotion is smarting—apply a good cold cream immediately afterwards.

For the skin that becomes dry and scaly from neglect and exposure, massage is of advantage. One of the best creams that can be obtained is made of one ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of white wax, five ounces of the best imported oil of sweet almonds, one ounce with a good cold cream twice a day and one-half ounces of rosewater, and twenty grains of powdered borax.

Dissolve the borax in the rosewater while you melt wax and spermaceti in granite pan over the teakettle or in a pan of boiling water. When thoroughly melted add the oil of almonds. Let it remain in the boiling water until all flakes of wax, caused by pouring in the oil, are melted. Then quickly pour rosewater into it, letting the mixture still remain in the water until all wax flakes are dissolved. Pour into jar and with silver knife beat the mixture until it is creamy. Do not let the ingredients get too hot; the oil and wax want to melt—that's all.

As to the hair which is streaked with salt water and injudicious basking in the sun while it is still wet, a nourishing tonic is required. One-half pint of castor oil, one-half pint of pure alcohol, one-half ounce of tincture of cantharides, and two drams of bergamot oil make an excellent tonic when the hair is dry and brittle.

RECIPES FOR SWEETBREADS

BY MRS. McCUNE.

To properly blanch sweetbreads you should clean and trim off the gristle. Then put them to soak for about two hours in cold water, changing the water two or three times. Remove from the cold water, drain and then plunge into boiling water into which you have put a heaping teaspoon of salt. Let them stand in this boiling water for five minutes. Remove, drain well and wipe off dry with an old napkin, and they are ready to use.

Creamed Sweetbreads—Take one pair of sweetbreads and cut into small pieces, half a pint of cream, one tablespoon of butter, one tablespoon of flour, salt and white pepper. Melt the butter in a porcelain-lined saucepan, stir in the flour, and when this is thoroughly mixed add the cream. This should make a smooth sauce. Now add the sweetbreads and about two tablespoons of chopped mushrooms—a good quality of canned mushrooms is all right—season and cook for five minutes. When cooked add a tablespoon of sherry wine.

Sweetbread Cutlets—One pair of sweetbreads, chopped fine with a silver knife. Roll a teaspoon of sweet milk. Rub together a tablespoonful of butter and two of flour, add to the milk, let it boil until thick, then beat in the yolks of two eggs and let it cool. Add the chopped sweetbreads, a half-dozen chopped mushrooms, salt, pepper and turn all in dish to cool. Now form into cakes or cutlets, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry as you would croquettes. A porcelain kettle should be used always for sweetbreads.

Sweetbreads with Peas—Take three pairs of sweetbreads and cut each one into four slices, season with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Fry in porcelain-lined frying pan in butter for five or six minutes on each side. Remove and put on hot platter around the edge and cover with the following sauce: Mix together a scant ounce of butter, a half-teaspoon of finely chopped parsley, half a teaspoon of lemon juice, good pinch of salt and dash of white pepper. Mix together with a fork and spread over the sweetbreads. In the center of the platter arrange a can of French peas which have been heated with butter.

FASHIONDOM

STYLISH light weight and becoming is a black tulle mushroom shape trimmed with a bow of black moire ribbon.

What is called Bulgarian traps is a good choice and in the new argent white is lovely for the summer coats of little children.

The newest laydown collars are narrow. Ecu is the predominating color of them. Many of the collars are edged with extremely wide lace.

The woman who can afford to indulge in the fashionable caprices matches her footgear with her individual gowns; even the material and color are the same, so that the tout-ensemble is correct.

The broderie Anglaise bonnet, with a ruffle of valenciennes lace upon mousseline, is the prettiest of headgear for the perambulator girl. Even upon these models there is a blossom, just a single one made of pink or blue satin nestling among the lace on one side.

A LADY who likes fads, yet does not care for the accumulation of odd bits of bric-a-brac, purchased a plain silver napkin ring which she takes with her on her travels, and at each city where she makes an extended visit she has the name of the city, date, etc., engraved upon the ring. It is getting full of names and is very artistic.

TRAVEL BOOKS

EVERY girl should keep one of these, for in time to come it will prove an invaluable record of pleasant times and new experiences. A view, or set of views, of each place you visit, amusing or interesting incidents connected with your journey, your traveling companions, and the house in which you stayed, will bring back to you past experiences with a vividness they would otherwise lack, and in looking over such a volume you will be amazed to find the giant events that have sprung from trivial causes.

How little Elsa guessed that she would meet the man who was to be her fate on the fussy little steamer that plied between the banks of a Scottish loch. It was only "by chance" that she took that boat; "by chance" that "his" sister smiled at her when they met again on the summit of a mountain; "by chance" that he and she learned to know each other and that for good or ill he made his mark upon her life. A "Journey Book" may hold the secret of many a fair romance, and the sooner you start one the more interesting a record it will be.

SERVICE PLATES

"SERVICE PLATES" are those used on luncheon and dinner tables between courses.

The old-fashioned way was when a person had finished eating from a plate it was removed and the place before him left empty until another, containing the next course, was put before him.

Service plates fill this gap, and it is not considered good form ever to leave a place without a plate. The butler or maid, as he or she takes away the plate with which one is finished, put down an empty one, usually of a very fancy kind. This remains until the next course is served to each person. The service plate is then taken up and returned at the next interval.

Service plates are on the table at the beginning of luncheon or dinner, and at that time the napkin is folded on them.

They may be medium size or large, preferably the latter.

Here Are the First of the Autumn Hats

THE center figure wears a hat of black and white velour, with a round crown and left rolling brim trimmed with tulip red ostrich fancy and ribbon in the same shade.

The next model is a small roll brim sailor with mustard color striped ostrich feathers crossed on the top and front of crown.

The last hat on this page is an elongated black velvet toque trimmed simply but effectively with a double curled pheasant quill.

THE millinery for this Autumn and Winter can be best described as chic, for while the hats are not particularly striking when viewed off the head, what a change when they are worn! But what a lot depends on the way they are placed on their wearers, for even the most beautiful may be made to look ridiculous, while the plainest may be transformed into something quite smart and coquettish.

The hat in the upper left corner is a semi-dressy model of cream and brown satin with shirred satin drapery, and double wings, one drooping over the back brim, the other curving over the high crown of this English walking shape.

The hat below it is a black velvet with elongated back brim, in the curve of which nestles a beautiful paradise tree, the new shape for the Fall.
