

CREMATORY CONTRACT DECLARED NOT LEGAL BY SUPREME COURT

High Court Hands Down Decision Granting the Injunction Against the Destructor Company Erecting Plant for Atlanta—Mayor Woodward Elated Over Action.

COURT SAYS CONTRACT WOULD CREATE A DEBT BARRED BY STATE LAW

Opinion Reached on Appeal From the Decision of Judge Bell in Superior Court, Who Held That Atlanta Was Within Her Legal Privilege in Contracting With the Destructor Company.

The contract of the city of Atlanta, with the Destructor company of New York, for the purpose of erecting a city crematory, is illegal, and its performance must be enjoined. So the supreme court declared in a decision handed down late yesterday afternoon. The decision of the court, which was written by Chief Justice Fish, and in which the other justices concur is based entirely on constitutional grounds, it being held that the contract would create a debt for which no provision has been made by the voters of the city, in violation of article 7, section 7, paragraph 1, of the state constitution, which says: "No municipality shall incur any debt except for a temporary loan or loans to supply casual deficiencies in the revenue not to exceed one-fifth of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property within said municipality without the consent of two-thirds of the qualified voters thereof, at an election for that purpose, to be held as prescribed by law."

Limit on Indebtedness.

The constitution further fixes a limit on the indebtedness that can be incurred. After holding that the contract between the city and the Destructor company is void, the court outlines the history of the case.

The contract provided for the construction of a crematory in Atlanta at a total cost of $275,000. $50,000 to be paid the year the contract was made, and the balance in installments of $25,000 each except the last extending through a series of years, installments to be paid annually and to bear interest at 6 per cent per annum until paid. The city pledged its "good faith" to the payment.

The court held that the term "good faith" was understood to mean that the city could not bind itself to pay beyond the current year, but the mayor and council of that year recommended to the mayor and general council of succeeding years to make appropriations to cover the deferred payments specified in the contract, and that if a default in the payment by the city of any future installment of the purchase money should be made, the city should without any legal process whatever transfer the possession of the plant to the contractor company, and that the company should become immediately vested with the title, possession and control of said plant, exclusive of any determination of the city of Atlanta and said company shall have the right to operate free of tax for its own account for a period of ten years from the date of such default. Held that such a contract is void, and that a debt within the meaning of the constitutional provision on that subject set out in the first headnote and being entered into without submitting the question to a preliminary vote of the people it is invalid.

Taxpayers Have Right to Enjoin.

In regard to the right of taxpayers to enjoin the appropriation of funds to be used in carrying out the contract, the court said:

"Taxpayers of the city have such an interest in the municipal funds arising from taxation that they may enjoin the creation of illegal debts by the corporation of their payment. The court by no means undertakes to say that the city cannot erect a crematory, however. It simply passes on the existing contract with out limiting in any way the city's right to build and operate a crematory in such manner as it shall see fit, provided it does not

GEN. B. H. YOUNG IS AGAIN ELECTED TO HEAD VETERANS

Commander-in-Chief and His Three Departmental Officers Are Unanimously Chosen to Serve Again.

JACKSONVILLE GETS REUNION NEXT YEAR

Virginia Reel, Followed by Turkey Trot, at Elaborate Ball Given for the Old Soldier.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—Jacksonville, Fla., late today, was awarded the honor of entertaining the Twenty-fourth Annual United Confederate Reunion, and Commander-in-Chief General Bennett H. Young of Louisville, Ky., with his three departmental commanders, were re-elected at the last important business session of veterans during the present reunion here.

The next reunion went to Jacksonville after more than an hour's deliberation, in which the hospitality and fame of that city, Nashville, Tenn., Houston, Texas, and Tulsa, Okla., had been proclaimed by eloquent orators. When a vote was taken Jacksonville received 1,328 votes, Nashville, the nearest opponent, receiving 406. The selection of the Florida city then was made unanimously.

Departmental officers who again will serve under the command of General Young, are Lieutenant General Theodore S. Garnett, of Norfolk, Va., commander and general; Lieutenant General George P. Harrison, of Opelika, Ala., commander of the army of Tennessee; and Lieutenant General K. M. Vansandt, of Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the Trans-Mississippi department.

Monuments Dedicated.

Other features of the second day's reunion program were the impressive ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of handsome monuments at Chickamauga Park by delegations from Florida and Alabama, and the parade of the Sons of Confederate Veterans of the army of North Virginia.

The afternoon was preceded by a lively discussion which followed the report of the committee on credentials. This committee recommended that credentials be withheld from General W. J. Behan of New Orleans, because it was alleged he belonged to two Confederate veteran organizations. General Behan mounted the platform and denounced the recommendation of the committee as malicious. After relating the battles in which he had participated during the war between the states, he called upon the veterans to ratify the committee's recommendations. For a time the meeting was a turmoil. Explanations were called for, and it finally was stated that General Behan had come as chairman of a delegation from one camp while he still retained membership in the fifteen Louisiana camps which seceded from the veterans' organization four years ago.

A motion was made to amend the credentials committee's report so as to exclude the portion of it referring to General Behan. When a vote was called on the motion the presiding officer could not determine whether the ayes or the nays were the more numerous. An official vote by state divisions then was called for and the amendment was adopted.

Resolutions Adopted.

The report of the resolutions committee submitted this afternoon was accepted unanimously. Among the resolutions was one designating the general commander of the veterans' together with state division commanders, as representatives of the veterans as such.

Durham Man Shoots Wife, Slays Arresting Officer And in Turn Is Killed

Durham N. C., May 28.—(Special.)—Sergeant G. D. Cates, second officer of the Durham police force, was killed here tonight while trying to arrest Felix Conklin, a white man, who had shot his wife. Officers Cates and Morgan responded to a call from West Durham saying that Conklin had shot his wife, and when they started to arrest him, the drunken man opened fire. One shot took effect in Cates' body, and he died soon after reaching the hospital. Officer Morgan pulled his gun and began firing at Conklin, but not till Conklin had fired the fatal shot. Conklin is well connected here and well known. He was drinking and, in a quarrel, became enraged and shot his wife.

NEGRO SWEENER TELLS THE STORY OF MURDER NOTES

James Conley Makes New Affidavit, Swearing That He Wrote the Dictation of Leo M. Frank.

EVIDENCE CHAIN NOW COMPLETE, SAY POLICE

Conley Declares Frank Gave Him $2.50 for Writing the Notes—He Writes "Night Witch" for Night Watchman.

James Conley, the negro sweeper at the National Pencil factory, in which little Mary Phagan was murdered, made a new affidavit Wednesday morning in which he threw additional light on the case, incriminating Leo M. Frank, and which detectives think will solve the long-drawn-out mystery.

"Write 'night watchman,'" he said to have been commanded by detectives Wednesday morning. The result was night witch, just as to the note found by the body of the murdered girl. This, the detectives declare, is the strongest corroboration of his statement that he wrote the notes at the direction of Frank, the factory superintendent.

The city detectives are said to put full credence in his statements now, as in the new affidavit he is said to have sworn that the notes were written on Saturday, about 1 o'clock, and not on Friday, as he first declared.

Fearful for His Neck.

His reason for deception the first time is said to be that he feared for his own neck if he admitted the truth. As matters stand now, he is regarded by the detectives merely as an unwilling tool, and not as an accomplice of the murderer, whom ever he may be.

According to this new affidavit, the negro's complete story of his part in the affair is said to be as follows: A little after 10 o'clock Saturday morning he was standing at the corner of Forsyth and Nelson streets, when Frank, his employer, passed by, going in the direction of Montague Brothers. Mr. Frank is said to have told him to wait there until he (Frank) came back. A few minutes later, according to the negro, Frank returned and took him to the factory with him. Here he made the negro sit on a box by the stairs, so the affidavit is said to state, and wait and see what he could see. When wanted, Frank is said to have told him that he would be killed.

Be careful not to let Mr. Darley see you," he swears the superintendent said. Heard Frank whistle. About an hour later the negro is said to have become asleep, as he had been sober, was in a comfortable position and doing nothing. He dozed a while, and then awakened as he heard a sharp whistle, so he said, and saw Frank standing in the doorway at the head of the stairs.

He heard the door open and when he reached the factory superintendent's side the latter is said to have grasped the negro under the arm. Conley swears that Frank was quaking violently. The negro further stated that he got the impression that Frank wished to keep him from looking toward the rear.

In this way the negro was led into Mr. Frank's office, so he swears. He also swears that as the negro further stated that he looked up and noticed that it was four minutes to 1 o'clock. According to Frank's sworn testimony before the coroner's jury before he was formally accused, the murdered girl, little Mary Phagan, had received her pay, and left before that hour.

Put Him in Wardrobe.

The negro swears that they went back into the inner office, Frank saying nothing, but still maintaining the tight grip on the negro's arm. People were heard approaching the negro door, and Frank put him in a big wardrobe, soon disposed of the visitors and released him from his temporary confinement.

Then Frank, trembling from head to foot, so the negro declared, said that he wanted to get a sample of the negro's handwriting. Frank dictated and the negro wrote. Conley swears that he remembers that one of the notes began, "Dear partner," and that he saw as Frank walked forth nervously in the office his hands trembled he ran them constantly through his hair, and at one time muttered to himself in an undertone, "There's no reason why I should hang."

Conley says that after he finished writing, Frank warmly thanked him and called him "good boy," etc. and gave him $2.50 and led him to the door at the head of the stairs.

The negro swears that he left the factory at about 1 o'clock. He further states that he did not see Mary Phagan at any time on the day of the murder, and that he didn't see Frank again until Tuesday morning.

Said He Could Not Write.

For the first two weeks of his incarceration the negro, Conley, stoutly maintained that he could not write. However, the detectives found that he had bought two watches on the installment plan and signed "deeds" to them. They compared his writing on these, they say, and found it identical with the writing on the slips of paper found by the body in the pencil factory.

A short while after this he called for Detective John Black and made his confession. The fear that he himself would hang is said to be the reason that he denied any connection with the case. Conley still maintains that he had no knowledge of a crime being committed in the building.

Chief Beavers has conferred with Judge L. S. Roan as to whether he could take the negro to Frank's cell.

Young Victim of Brutal Murder

Nellie Stevens, the 15-year-old foster daughter of Mrs. Sarah Stevens, who was murdered at her home near Constitution, Ga., on Wednesday morning. The house was then set on fire in an attempt to destroy all clues to the murder of the girl and her mother.

HE HANGED HIMSELF TO TREE IN ORCHARD

Roseville, Va., May 28.—W. J. Miller, 60 years old, whose home is near Bedford, Va., committed suicide at 6 o'clock this morning by hanging himself to a tree in his orchard. His body was found by members of his family before life was extinct, and although he lived for fifteen minutes after being cut down, never regained consciousness. Mr. Miller leaves a wife and six children. Miller's destruction was deliberate. He climbed to the topmost branches of the tree, tied the rope securely and jumped. He died from strangulation.

SPECIAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING SECTION IN THE WOMAN'S EDITION.

So completely has attention been concentrated upon securing the display advertising, the extra circulation, and the preparation of the paper editorially, that it has been rather suddenly realized that The Woman's Edition of The Constitution was about to go to press without a Classified Advertising section. In these days any newspaper without classified advertising would be an oddity and a Woman's Edition particularly, no matter how complete otherwise, would contain a flaw without any "want advertising," inasmuch as women are as much interested in the little advertising as in the display.

In order to correct that oversight while there is still time, it has been determined to establish a "Want Ad Page" in The Woman's Edition.

The rate will be 10c per word, or 7c per line, for all classifications. The same classifications now carried by The Constitution will be followed. Ads will be accepted only for cash, and must be received by noon of Tuesday, June 3. Checks, drafts or postage for small amounts will be accepted from outside of Atlanta.

There are 18,000 women in this state, 8,000 of them in Atlanta, participating in the issuance of The Woman's Edition. Already the circulation, with advance special sales, has reached 60,000.

The deep interest of the women of the state in the paper insures that it will be read page by page by all of them. No better prestige could have been established for any advertising medium. Its adaptability to want advertising is obvious.

This section in The Woman's Edition will be separate and apart from the regular classified pages of The Constitution of that date, and Want Ads for The Woman's Edition must be so ordered at the special rates and terms specified above.

FEDERATED WOMEN'S CLUBS OF GEORGIA.

J. HAM LEWIS NAMED WHIP OF THE SENATE

Washington, May 28.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, was today elected democratic floor manager and assistant to Majority Leader Kern by the senate democratic caucus. Senator Lewis' position is a new one in the senate and corresponds to the whip in the house. The caucus adopted a resolution urging all democratic senators to remain in Washington, and went on record as opposed to any long trips to Europe such as several senators had planned, until the tariff bill has been disposed of. Because of their slender majority plans were discussed for keeping members in line and getting them to the senate for important votes.

The caucus also named a committee to confer with a committee from the house and members of the national democratic committee regarding reorganization of the congressional campaign committee. Senators Goro, Chamberlain, Shively, Newlands and Thomas were named. The sixth annual council of the diocese of Georgia will be held in the general convention.

BLACK SLAYER'S BODY CUT UP AND SINGED BY MOB AT HAMPTON

Hampton, S. C., May 28.—Austin's body arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning. It was taken from the sheriff by the mob, the head cut off, fingers, toes, etc., cut off by members of the mob for mementoes and the body "singed" and hanged from a tree in front of the courthouse. The mob was orderly and no violence occurred.

Savannah, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Richard Henry Austin, a negro, and the alleged murderer of Dr. S. C. Moore, Magistrate Edenfield and Victor Bowler, in Hampton county, South Carolina, who was badly wounded when shot down by a sheriff in his capture at Newtonville Tuesday night, died tonight aboard the steamer Attaguin, half way between here and Bluffton, S. C. The negro had been brought here on a stretcher with his abdomen torn open by nine buckshot wounds, and his left arm broken by a rifle bullet.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE IS SCENE OF MURDER

Columbus, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Walter Duke and Perry Argo, residents of Phenix City, met on the Fourteenth street river bridge at 11 o'clock tonight and became involved in a difficulty which resulted in the shooting of Argo by Duke with a pistol. The ball penetrated Argo's breast near the heart, and he died en route to the hospital. Duke was arrested by J. H. Ward, authorities and placed in jail there. He will be brought to the Georgia side tomorrow, as the shooting occurred within the jurisdiction of this state. Full particulars of the killing and the cause leading up to it have not been learned. Duke is a shoe salesman for a Columbus company. Argo's former home was Cochran, Ga.

ROOSEVELT LISTENS WITH PLEASSED SMILE

Believed That Prosecution in $10,000 Libel Suit Against Michigan Paper Will Complete Its Case Thursday.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Men who have been associated with Theodore Roosevelt in public life and private life, who met him on the Nile when he returned from his African hunting trip, and newspaper men who accompanied him on his various political campaigns, testified today in Colonel Roosevelt's libel suit against George A. Newett, a newspaper owner of Ishpeming, Mich., that the former president not only was not a drunkard, but that he was notably and extremely temperate in the use of intoxicants. It would have been impossible, witnesses said, for Colonel Roosevelt to have been under the influence of liquor without the fact becoming known to his associates. They testified, for him to have drunk liquor with any regularity without the fact of it on his breath being apparent.

Throughout the hearing of the case, in which the former president is suing for $10,000 damages because of the publication last October of an editorial charging him with getting drunk, Colonel Roosevelt listened with evident satisfaction to the testimony of former members of his cabinet and of newspaper men. Frequently he smiled as some incident of his campaigns of which the paper was reticent from the witness stand.

Break Causes Chuckle. Once Colonel Roosevelt gave vent of an audible chuckle. This was when Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, in telling of his acquaintance with members of the Roosevelt family, said the colonel was the father of five children, although he has six. Colonel Roosevelt's sense of humor was awakened at once by this lapse of Mr. Bacon's memory, and the merry chuckle which he vainly tried to smother in his hand caused a ripple of laughter about the courtroom.

For almost six hours of testimony taking on a suggestive character, Colonel Roosevelt occupied his chair just back of his counsel. The day's proceedings were marked by an important ruling by Judge Richard C. Plannagan, which, in the introduction of evidence by the defense, will have the effect of excluding certain kinds of hearsay testimony. This ruling came after a prolonged argument, during which the jurors were excluded from the room and the introduction of evidence by the defense had urged for the exclusion of certain kind of testimony which they said might be introduced by the defense through depositions.

The effect of the ruling was that Colonel Roosevelt's general reputation may be introduced, but that rumors bearing upon reputation coming from persons not qualified by experience to judge, shall not be admitted in the future progress of the hearing, it was explained. The court, a panel of six, traveled extensively with the former president, or who has been associated with him with any degree of constancy, may testify as to his reputation. But a man who hears the colonel deliver a political speech, or saw him for only a few moments in a crowd, may not testify as to his general reputation although he may tell how the colonel acted or appeared at that particular time.

John H. Found and William H. Van Benschoten, Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys, said the ruling was agreeable to them. Horace Andrews, one of Mr. Newett's counsel, described the present civil action as "a sensational case" and pleaded for an unrestricted ruling on the admission of evidence by the defense.

Almost every phase of Colonel Roosevelt's public life was touched upon by the witnesses, who have spoken with emphasis when they expressed personal knowledge in denying, as the editorial charges, that the colonel gets drunk and that not infrequently, and "all his intimate friends know it."

Merely Courtesy Drinks. It was asserted that whenever Colonel Roosevelt drank champagne or wine or a mint julep, it was out of courtesy to his host at some public function, that he often only took a mouthful from a wine glass, and that on one occasion he ordered a railroad company not to place in his special car the supply of liquors usually placed in such cars. The witnesses were Mr. Bacon, Truman E. Newberry, former secretary of the navy; John Callan O'Loughlin, a Washington newspaper man; Lucius F. Curtis, a New York newspaper man; and Gibson Gardner, a newspaper man, who testified the day before, was recalled. Repeatedly and in various phrases

COSTLY DIAMOND RING, MONEY AND REVOLVERS MISSING FROM HOUSE

Suspicion of Crime Is Also Directed at a Half-Breed Who Had Been Dismissed and Two Negroes Seen in Neighborhood—Husband Is in Chattanooga Attending Reunion of Confederate Veterans.

Two skeletons found in the "mouldering ruins of a country home near Constitution, eight miles from Atlanta, yesterday at daybreak, told the story of the murder and incineration of aged Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens and her pretty daughter, Nellie, aged 15.

The police of every important city in America have been notified to look for her son, Wade, 17 years old, who disappeared some time Tuesday night, and who is suspected of the crime. The coroner's jury, empaneled at the scene, recommended that he be apprehended and held for full investigation. Bobbery apparently was the motive. A handsome $100 diamond ring is missing, along with two costly revolvers, an unknown amount of money which had been hidden in the burned home, and two valuable watches. An unbreached shotgun was found near the body of the mother. An open knife was discovered beneath her.

The murder occurred at midnight. The fire was seen, mounting to its full height, at 1 o'clock in the morning. The ruins and tragedy were discovered by a wagon load of children at sunrise, who were passing along the road on the way to their schoolhouse. Sheriff McCurdy, arriving immediately on the scene with bloodhounds, was unable to find the scent.

The husband and father, William Stevens, an aged farmer, was in Chattanooga, attending the annual confederate reunion. The son and suspect disappeared Tuesday night, and efforts to locate him Wednesday proved fruitless.

The dead mother was a wealthy woman, and is said to have owned considerable property in East Atlanta and along the McDonough road. She is said to have always kept a large sum of money secreted in her bedroom. She was the best-known resident in the vicinity of Constitution and McDonough.

A quarrel ensued between her and Wade, the son, Tuesday afternoon, when he is said to have demanded money with which to go to Chattanooga and thence to Cincinnati. The younger victim, Nellie, was sent to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. L. G. Self, with the youth's clothes, in an effort to detain him at home.

Wearing a pair of overalls and jumper coat, the son stole away from home at sundown, coming into Atlanta, where he met "Red" Merchant.

C. F. von HERMAN, Section Director.

Striking photograph of all that was left of the residence of Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens, which was cremated in a vain attempt to conceal a double murder. The crosses indicate the remains of the two victims, found by school children early Wednesday morning.

The ambulance and the machine had changed its way through the trees. When the bodies had been removed a young girl, evidently a neighbor from the ruins, telling Sheriff McCurdy from the barn several yards, said that someone had better attend to the stock that belonged to the dead woman. The sheriff instructed the girl and her sister, a much younger child, to remove the animals to their own home if she would.

NEGRO SWEEPER TELLS STORY OF MURDER NOTES

and confront the superintendent with the black. Judge Roan, it is understood, told the chief that under the law Frank would be entitled to consult his attorney, and have the latter present, should such a meeting be arranged.

Frank's attorney, Luther Z. Rosser, is at present at Clayton, Rabun county, engaged in the Tallulah Falls suit. Sheriff Wheeler Mangum sent Frank word and the latter stated that he did not wish to see the officers or the negro, unless his attorney was present. Without Frank's consent the sheriff would not allow the officials to visit Frank in the tower, and the attempt was given up. Whether Chief Beavers will make another effort to get Frank and Conley together is not known.

Conley has also admitted having written the phrase of the murder notes in which appear the words: "That long tall black negro did this by himself." He has not been shown the remainder of that note, or the other note found beside the body. Detectives will today compare Conley's handwriting with that of the other note.

The negro says he wrote other phrases at Frank's dictation, but cannot recall any beside the words just cited. He says he can identify the other writing if it is shown him, which will be done some time today. Detectives now place complete confidence in his story, and will keep him in prison as a material witness in Frank's trial.

Many people have wished to know just exactly how Conley copied the handwriting on the murder notes. Some believed that the notes were placed before him and he was told to copy them, while others think he wrote from dictation.

According to Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, Conley has not yet seen the murder notes. The words were dictated to him, but not spelled as was done in the case of "Nigger" Conley's spelling corresponds with that of the note.

Scott says that Conley's story is to the effect that he withheld his confession because he expected to be paid a large sum by Frank or his friends when he made his first confession. He believed that if he admitted having written the notes on Saturday, instead of Friday, it would incriminate him more than the suspected superintendent, and he would be hanged on circumstantial evidence.

The negro Conley is regarded by the detectives as their most material witness. He is the missing link, they think, which connects the chain of circumstantial evidence which they have gathered.

When the coroner's jury, empaneled upon the discovery of these crisp bodies in the barn, found that Mrs. and her daughter, Nellie, met death at the hands of some unknown person or persons.

The original verdict was: "The coroner's jury, empaneled upon the discovery of these crisp bodies in the barn, found that Mrs. and her daughter, Nellie, met death at the hands of some unknown person or persons."

Concentrating most of his efforts in the search for the missing ax, the sheriff hopes to find on his handle finger prints which will lead to the slayer. Also, he has staked out the footprints found in the nearby woods, intending to have them examined and measured by experts. All pawnshops throughout Atlanta have been given descriptions of the stolen revolver, the two watches and the diamond ring.

There was a pathetic scene at the ruins late in the afternoon, when the coroner instructed the undertaker to remove the remains of mother and daughter.

As his instructions were carried out a mob came from a group of girls who had known both the slain girl and her foster parent. One little girl, Josephine McCaulay, was set away from the scene, weeping hysterically.

Men stood about in silence. Suddenly, someone doffed his hat. Then the entire crowd of men removed their hats and stood with bared heads as the undertaker's assistant "sawed" work for a moment to take on his cap.

Even the coroner's jury, which sat deliberating upon the crime beneath their hats and stopped the inquest until the casket was placed in is reported to have closed a business deal Tuesday afternoon which brought her a considerable amount, all of which is believed to have been stolen by her murderer. A large savings bank, found near the bodies, had evidently been ransacked.

She was a sister of Sergeant J. V. Whatley, of the Atlanta police department. When notified of her death, Whatley, in the automobile of Chief Beavers, rushed with the chief to the scene. He will personally conduct an investigation into the crime. Chief Beavers also is taking an interest in the case, and is exerting every effort to apprehend the missing son.

The dead woman's husband was telegraphed to Chattanooga. He wired back that he was leaving that city at 1 o'clock last night, and arrives in Atlanta this morning. He is 70 years old. Mrs. Stevens was about 50 years of age. She had been a resident of Fulton county until Christmas.

The Stevens family had occupied the home in which she met death only since Christmas. It was a single-story, frame structure, containing eight rooms. The flames completely destroyed it. Adjoining structures, such as the barn, chicken house and out-houses, were untouched.

The girl victim was a pretty girl of 15. She was popular throughout the section, and, it is said, was engaged to be married at an early date. She was deeply attached to her foster mother, and she was an ardent lover of books and music.

Believing the fatal axe may be in a well in the rear of the ruined home, the water will be pumped out. Even if the axe is not found the well is expected to reveal some clue.

Positive in his belief that both victims were stabbed before dealt the death blows, Sheriff McCurdy brings the statement of Dr. Fincher to support his theory. Dr. Fincher testified before the coroner's inquest that the knife found under the woman's body was a new one, and that it had been bent by being thrust into some object.

The blade was open when discovered. Dark stains, that were not erased by the flames or heat, remained. A microscopic examination will be made to determine whether or not they are blood stains. Also, the husband will be made to identify the weapon immediately upon his return.

Two Negroes Driving Rapidly.

The two negroes driving away from the scene were noticed by J. J. Patrick, a farmer and resident of McDonough road near the Stevens home. He says they were riding hurriedly in the direction of Atlanta, and that the body of their wagon was filled with fresh oats. Importance is attached to his story, because of the discovery of wagon and horse tracks near the burned home.

Although his name is not known, a wide search is being made for the Mexican halfbreed at whom Mrs. Stevens shot when he was recently seen prowling around the place.

All day Wednesday the home was a mecca for curious sightseers. The bodies, at the order of Sheriff McCurdy, remained in the position which they were found until late in the afternoon.

The tiny golden buckle lay upon the skeleton of Mrs. Stevens until removed by the undertaker. Everywhere over the ruins men searched for clues or for money or valuables which might have been overlooked by the murderer.

So disastrous were the flames, however, that nothing could be found except the locked bank. An examination of the two fireplaces and the stove revealed that there had been no fire in either on the preceding night. The footprints found in the woods are considered the most valuable clues.

Mrs. Stevens is survived by her husband, one son, Wade Stevens, and an adopted daughter, Miss Nellie Stevens; six sisters, Mrs. Nellie Patrick, Mrs. Charlie Smith, Mrs. C. L. Golden, Mrs. H. E. Hartley, Miss Lillie Whatley and Mrs. W. C. Sims, of Meansville, and three brothers, J. W. T. C. and E. T. Whatley, of Barnesville. The bodies of Mrs. Stevens and her daughter were brought to Patterson's chapel, where they will be held pending the arrival of William C. Stevens from Chattanooga.

a companion. He and March, at later at night, encountered Charles B. McWilliams, another youth. To McWilliams they told a story of a planned trip to Chattanooga and Cincinnati, saying they intended to hobo their way to both cities.

Half-Breed Involved. By This Theory.

A theory diverting suspicion from the wayward son has been offered by the story of Miss Josephine McCaulay, of 739 Glenwood avenue, an intimate friend of both the slain mother and daughter. She says that only a few days ago, Mrs. Stevens came to the Glenwood avenue address, telling an exciting story of shooting at a half-breed Mexican whom she had employed to work around her home.

The half-breed, Miss McCaulay says, while working at the Stevens home, had insulted the daughter, Nellie. Subsequently he was fired. A short time following, he reappeared at the home, lurking about the rear of the place. When seen by Mrs. Stevens, she fired twice at him, once as he fled into the woods adjoining the house.

Another theory is that the murder was committed by two suspicious negroes who were seen driving away from the burning home at sunrise Wednesday morning. They rode in a one-horse wagon, the body of which was filled with fresh oats. Tracks of a horse and of a wagon were found in a spot near the ruins. In the immediate vicinity was discovered a small pile of fresh oats. Efforts are being made to locate both negroes.

The murdered mother had a record for bravery. Often she had defied her home from intruders. It was set on the knob of a hill in a desolate section of the woods, backing on McDonough road, just back of the Constitution. She had also kept a loaded shotgun and pistol conveniently near her bed.

Mother Fought Her Assailant.

That she fought her slayer is not doubted. The shotgun, loaded and by the side of her body, is mute evidence of that fact. Also, the open knife which lay beneath her body, her head had been crushed brutally, and possibly both she and the dead girl had been stabbed. A box, too, which lay near the doorway of the room of tragedy, was probably used in the fight with the slayer.

The two skeletons lay almost side by side. The mother's was nearer the door. The girl was upon her face, the means of identification were the false teeth in the skull of the older woman, and a gold buckle, an heirloom, which pinned the nightgown around her throat.

A ripping hole had been crushed in the woman's skull, and a smaller hole was in the skull of her daughter. Their bones lay in the center of the room, near the doorway. The building was burned down completely. Only the brick work and the stoves remained. The ruins smoked and smoldered all day Wednesday.

Supporting the arson theory were the ashes of an amount of firewood, built in a pile at the rear of the building, and empty kerosene and gasoline cans found nearby. The fire is believed to have originated in this section of the structure, and was fanned by a brisk wind from the east.

This is the theory advanced by Sheriff McCurdy and other officials of DeKalb, who are investigating the crime.

Mother and Daughter Are Stabbed.

The house was entered about midnight. Mrs. Stevens was awakened by noise of the intruders. Jumping out of bed, she seized her shotgun. As she reached the door of her room she opened the gun to fire. It was wrested from her hands. A scuffle ensued.

The daughter was awakened by noise of the struggle. The slayer woman was stabbed. The daughter screamed. As her mother fell to the floor she darted forward to escape. She, too, was stabbed. The murderer, undoubtedly some one well acquainted with the premises, then went to the rear of the house for the axe used in splitting firewood.

It is determined that his victims should not live to tell their stories, their skulls were crushed with the axe. Afraid that some clue would be left

EPISCOPALIANS TALK OF CHANGE IN NAME

Committee Appointed to Decide Position of the Atlanta Diocese — Bishop Nelson Deplores Lack of Clergymen.

Atlanta, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The sixth annual council of the diocese of Atlanta of the Episcopal church met this morning with Emmanuel church, this place, the Rt. Rev. Charles K. Nelson presiding.

The chief business of the council outside the regular routine will be the selection of clerical and lay deputies to represent this diocese in the general convention.

The first thing this morning was the meeting of the women's auxiliary with a brief address from the bishop to that body. At 10 o'clock the council was formally opened in beautiful and impressive manner. The Holy communion was celebrated—the bishop celebrating the Rt. Rev. Dean Pise, proctor; Rev. H. F. Saunier, epistoler; Rev. John D. Wing, chaplain; Rev. Troy Beatty, of Emmanuel church, server.

Business sessions of the council, of the women's auxiliary and of the junior auxiliary were called about 11:15 and again this afternoon. This evening in the church the missionary service was held with addresses by the bishop, the department secretary, Rev. R. W. Patton, and others. Interesting reports were made on the needs and condition of the diocese in the matter of missions.

The Bishop's Address.

Declaring that the work has progressed during the year the bishop in his address alluded first to the lack of a sufficient number of clergy to fill all the stations. With the right sort of living exist the bishop declined to be a party to withholding a living wage from the clergy and will not ask a clergyman with a small family to accept less than the pay of a day laborer.

The bishop adjured the clergy to work for the "extension of the kingdom, and for the intensifying of personal religion, social ethics, civic strength, political obligations and national and communal purity and righteousness."

In reviewing the field of the diocese the bishop recommends that the convocations of Columbus and Macon be combined so as to include the counties as well as Fort Valley and Tallapoosa.

An additional endowment of not less than $75,000 was recommended to be raised for the support of the episcopate.

Discusses Title of Church.

"That this is the Catholic church of the United States and in all America is about as clear to me as anything can be," said the bishop in discussing the correction of the title of the church. "No other ecclesiastical body, except to followers of Irving, have the title or desire it; no others undertake to prove their lineage from the church of the apostles and corporate unity with Christendom before the great schism between the east and the west, and none others of those which are Catholic in constitution or name claim to be autonomous localized branches of the Catholic church for America and America does not calling into question their Catholicity not one of them under their own title deeds, claims or assumes to be the American Catholic church, even should they subdue and attach every Christian in America."

The subject of the correction of the title, the bishop declared, has been discussed for many years, he hoped that it will not be discussed at the approaching general convention, as it is plain, he said, that our people are in no mood to settle the question amicably or lovingly. He enjoined less bitterness and warmth and urged the diocesan council and parishes not to memorialize the general body, but to leave that tribunal questions in free and impartial, cool and wise manner.

One of the most important matters, interesting the church and the general public, which the council of the diocese of Atlanta considered today, was the appointment of a committee to take action on the position this diocese will take in the movement for changing the title of the church from the "Protestant Episcopal church" to the "Catholic Church of America." This question will be the greatest one at the coming general convention, and the choice of deputies to that general convention will be significant in indicating the trend of the church in this matter.

Rev. C. H. Wilmer, of Atlanta; Rev. John S. Bunting, of Macon; Rev. S. A. Wright, of Columbus; Dr. Harry C. White, of Athens; Slaton Grantland, of Griffin; and Mr. T. E. Berry, of Macon, were named a committee on the change of the name of the church.

Rev. John D. Wing, of Atlanta, was unanimously elected secretary of the council today. Reports were heard and referred from the treasurer, E. W. Stetson, of Macon, on the board of missions, corporation, committee of clergy relief, finance and secretary. A committee was named to consider the bishop's report on the establishment by the church of a school for young women. This committee is to report to this meeting.

Officers of the council and of the women's auxiliary are to be elected tomorrow. Eight Atlanta and three Macon churches and thirty from other towns are represented.

Maryland Episcopals Opposed.

Baltimore, Md., May 23.—The Maryland convention of the Protestant Episcopal church today voted against the proposal to change the church name. A study was caused by the report of the social service commission, which went over without debate for consideration at another meeting.

This report discussed the vice question, race track gambling, sex hygiene and the saloon problem in frank and emphatic language. It called upon the clergy to require health certificates from those desiring to be married, and recommended wisely adapted sex hygiene education in the schools. An unequivocal recognition of the single standard of morals for both sexes also was urged.

DECISION TODAY IN TALLULAH CASE

Value of Plats and Blueprints Over Field Notes Urged as a Most Important Point by Attorneys.

By J. Walter LeCraw, Staff Correspondent.

Clayton, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Addressing their legal arguments and oratory directly towards Judge J. B. Jones, upon whose charge to the jury the decision in the power company land suit will largely rest, Edgar Watkins and Alex. C. King began late this afternoon their closing argument in the Tallulah Falls hearing.

Attorneys for both sides declared that Judge Jones' construction of the law in his charge to the jury would have a far greater influence on the verdict than what the jury of eleven north Georgia farmers and a school teacher might think about the evidence. The argument will be completed tomorrow and a verdict is expected early in the afternoon.

Only Part of Lines on Map.

"Do you mean to say that after you had surveyed this land and found the lines went down into the gorge, you deliberately created this map showing all the lines?"

"No," answered Professor Koch. "Does it represent the facts as to the land top lines? Do they really stop at the top of the gorge, as shown here?"

"No."

"Why did you make such a drawing, then?"

"I made it at the suggestion of the attorney general, as it was wanted to attach to the petition to the legislature."

Old Grants as Evidence.

By the introduction of the actual deeds by which the state of Georgia is declared to have granted the land in the Tallulah gorge in the years 1818, 1819 and 1820, the attorneys for the Georgia Railway and Power company began the presentation of their evidence early Wednesday afternoon in the hearing of the Tallulah Falls land suit.

Heard and yellow, the grants themselves to some of the tracts were introduced, while certified copies of others were presented. There was no dispute as to the validity of the grants, but only as to the lines of the land extending down the side of the gorge.

"One thing is absolutely certain from a study of these grants," said H. H. Dean, one of the corporation attorneys, in presenting them. "Whether the lines of the survey coincide with them or not, the grants show that the legislature of 1818 and 1819 intended the purpose of all the land around the falls, including the sides of the gorge. If they intended to do so, and yet the lines of the survey fell a few feet short of reaching all the way to the river, it is fair for somebody to come forward nearly 100 years later, after millions of dollars have been spent on the land by those who had bought it, and claim that the little land bordering the river has belonged all this time to the state."

Some Lines Cross River.

"While three of the land lot lines fell a few feet short of the river, it is also a fact, as brought out by the testimony of the civil engineers from the University of Georgia, that some of the lines extended clear across the river, showing that the variation in the lines was due to the inaccuracy of the older survey and the danger connected with surveying such cliffs and precipices. These grants and the 1912 survey establish beyond a doubt the power company's present ownership of the land in the Tallulah gorge."

The entire evidence presented by the company's attorneys required only about three hours. They read depositions from a number of the people from whom they had bought land, including Mrs. B. A. Young Cartledge, of Atlanta.

Long Suits Over Land.

One of the main points in the company's evidence was the fact that for many years there had been disputes and lawsuits between Miss Sarah White, Mr. Moss and others over the boundaries of their lands extending clearly to the river. In all of these lawsuits it was generally accepted that the land in the gorge was owned by the private individuals, argued the company's attorneys. J. A. Reynolds, civil engineer of Rabun county, testified for Them as to the Disputed Lines in These Lawsuits.

Extending into the property that is now claimed by the state.

Immediately upon the closing of the company's evidence, the four attorneys—Alex. C. King, Luther Z. Rosser, Charles T. Hopkins and H. H. Dean—began the legal argument in the case, opened to them being five lawyers representing the state and the conservation association—Attorney General Thomas Swift Felder, Edgar Watkins, R. C. Ellis, Judge W. R. Little and W. S. Paris. Judge J. B. Jones, on the bench, announced that the lawyers might have all the time they desired for the arguments.

Lines Didn't Stop at Top.

The interest of the morning's session centered in the testimony of Professor John C. Koch, of the University of Georgia, under whose supervision the 1912 survey of Tallulah Falls was made.

While he was being cross-examined by Luther Z. Rosser, one of the attorneys for the power company, a blueprint was introduced in which the land lot lines were all shown to stop at the top of the gorge, while all the land along both sides of the Tallulah river was apparently not included in the numbered land lots.

"Did you make that blue-print?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"Yes," answered Professor Koch. "Does it represent the facts as to the land top lines? Do they really stop at the top of the gorge, as shown here?"

"No."

"Why did you make such a drawing, then?"

"I made it at the suggestion of the attorney general, as it was wanted to attach to the petition to the legislature."

State Concludes Evidence.

Evidence for the state was completed at the Wednesday morning session, with the testimony of Walter Hunsicker, the Tallulah Falls photographer, who is a member of the conservation association; Celeb Woodall, a citizen of Tallulah Falls, and Professor John C. Koch, who with Professor Strahan headed the university surveying party.

Walter Hunsicker declared that the power company had begun work at the falls after the beginning of the state ownership agitation.

"They did not begin their work until about three years ago, and we had even circulated petitions prior to that time calling on the legislature to investigate the state's claim and preserve the land as a natural park," said Mr. Hunsicker.

He testified, as did also Mr. Woodall, to the existence of trees along the top of the gorge which were pointed out by folks as being land corners, and to the general attitude of people in not treating the land in the gorge as private property.

BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY KILLS AFTER 11 DAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23.—Another death from bichloride of mercury taken by mistake for headache tablets, occurred here today. The victim, Mrs. Louis Zimmerman, 25 years old, took the poison eleven days ago. She quickly discovered her mistake, a physician who was summoned, and she was taken to a hospital.

Until yesterday, Mrs. Zimmerman felt confident that she would recover, and discussing the death of B. Sanders Walker, at Macon, Ga., said to her husband:

"I ought to get well. I took such a small dose."

Her temperature and pulse were normal until shortly before her death, when she complained that she felt as though paralyzed. Physicians at the hospital entertained no hopes of effecting a cure, and say the fact that the woman lived eleven days is remarkable.

33,000,000 FAILURE BLAMED ON BILLINGS

Chicago, May 23.—Attempts to hold C. K. G. Billings, banker of New York and Chicago, responsible for approximately $5,000,000 due to the failure of the John B. Walsh bank, were begun in the circuit court here today. Stockholders who brought suits charged that Billings' negligence as a director permitted Walsh to operate schemes which led to the wrecking of both banks.

The amount lost by the Chicago National bank is placed at $3,500,000, and the Home bank losses at $1,500,000.

The demurrer of Mr. Billings is on file, attacking the sufficiency of the allegations and stating that the other directors should be made parties to the suits.

A plan to accept $152,125 from Mr. Billings in full settlement of his liability was prevented by an order of Judge Tuttle, who appointed W. C. Niblack receiver for the banks. Arguments on the suits were set for next Tuesday.

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS RE-ELECT GARRETSON

Detroit Mich., May 23.—A. B. Carretson tonight was re-elected president of the City of Railway Conductors. The choice was made by acclamation, and all the other officers of the organization were re-elected in the same manner. Two new vice presidents, making a total of seven, instead of five as in the past, were chosen for tomorrow when the convention, which has been in session here since May 15, is expected to close.

JUDGE LAMAR SPEAKS TO LAWYERS TONIGHT

Supreme Court Justice Forced to Change the Date of His Address.

Judge J. R. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, will deliver his address before the Georgia Bar association at Warm Springs, Thursday night, instead of Friday morning as was originally the plan. This is due to the fact that it is necessary for Judge Lamar to be in Washington Friday.

A large delegation of Atlanta lawyers and others had planned to go to Warm Springs to hear Judge Lamar Friday morning. These can still reach Warm Springs in time to hear him by taking the Southern train at 5:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Judge and Mrs. Lamar arrived in Atlanta from Washington on the Birmingham special Wednesday. The judge called upon the judges of the supreme court of Georgia and held an hour's chat with them before he and his wife went on to Warm Springs. Thursday night's address will constitute Judge Lamar's first appearance in Georgia since his elevation to the United States supreme bench.

Among prominent members of the Georgia Bar association who are now at Warm Springs are Judge W. A. Little, of Columbus; Judge Joseph H. Lumpkin, of Atlanta; Judge Beverly D. Evans, of Atlanta; Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens; Orville A. Park, of Macon.

Among the Atlanta attorneys who are expected to attend the meeting of the Georgia Bar association, now in session are John Y. Smith, Hamilton Douglas, Jr., M. T. Parry, Alex. Smith, Sr., John M. Slaton, Robert C. Alston, Daniel Routledge.

Judge Cobb, president of the association, will speak Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

WARDLAW AND CARAWAY TO REPRESENT TYPOS

At the election of delegates from Atlanta Typographical union, No. 48, Wednesday, to attend the fifty-ninth session of the International Typographical union, in Nashville, Tenn., next August, W. S. Wardlaw, of The Atlanta Constitution, and W. C. Caraway, of The Atlanta Journal, were elected.

Although there were four candidates named on the official ballot, these two popular members of No. 48 were elected by a large majority to represent the Atlanta printers at the big Nashville meeting.

It has been evidenced time and time again that vaudeville is a most popular form of entertainment, and that hills of the caliber of the present attraction a the busy Forsyth, where the best quality of Keith vaudeville is offered at all times, will always serve traction at the busy Forsyth, where the theater has become famous. The Great Howard, in ventriloquist entertainment; Caesar Neal in songs and comedy attractions; and a comedy sketch with piano playing help make the show a real entertainment.

"The Resurrection"

(At The Grand.)

Though modern dramatic producers have succeeded in transferring to the stage many wonderfully realistic effects, they constantly are cramped by the limited bounds of the proscenium, the impossibility of producing a scene covering a great exterior. And in this field the motion picture producers have found their opportunity. It is as easy for the camera to cover a mile as a yard. Perhaps this has never been shown more fully than in the latest production from the "movie" makers, Tolstoy's great drama, "The Resurrection," in which Blanche Walsh has the leading role.

"The Resurrection" will open at the Grand opera house Thursday and continue through the week, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 o'clock at night.

WARDLAW AND CARAWAY TO REPRESENT TYPOS

At the election of delegates from Atlanta Typographical union, No. 48, Wednesday, to attend the fifty-ninth session of the International Typographical union, in Nashville, Tenn., next August, W. S. Wardlaw, of The Atlanta Constitution, and W. C. Caraway, of The Atlanta Journal, were elected.

Although there were four candidates named on the official ballot, these two popular members of No. 48 were elected by a large majority to represent the Atlanta printers at the big Nashville meeting.

"Sacred Harp" Singing.

There will be sacred harp singing at Decatur, in the superior courthouse next Sunday, commencing at 9 o'clock. It will be in order to bring diners and spread them on the sidewalks and in the shade, according to J. L. White, president of the Sacred Harp society.

Keith Vaudeville.

It has been evidenced time and time again that vaudeville is a most popular form of entertainment, and that hills of the caliber of the present attraction a the busy Forsyth, where the best quality of Keith vaudeville is offered at all times, will always serve traction at the busy Forsyth, where the theater has become famous. The Great Howard, in ventriloquist entertainment; Caesar Neal in songs and comedy attractions; and a comedy sketch with piano playing help make the show a real entertainment.

"The Resurrection"

(At The Grand.)

Though modern dramatic producers have succeeded in transferring to the stage many wonderfully realistic effects, they constantly are cramped by the limited bounds of the proscenium, the impossibility of producing a scene covering a great exterior. And in this field the motion picture producers have found their opportunity. It is as easy for the camera to cover a mile as a yard. Perhaps this has never been shown more fully than in the latest production from the "movie" makers, Tolstoy's great drama, "The Resurrection," in which Blanche Walsh has the leading role.

"The Resurrection" will open at the Grand opera house Thursday and continue through the week, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 o'clock at night.

HARDWARE MEN OPEN CONVENTION

Georgia Retail Association Has Attractive Displays in Taft Hall in Auditorium. Mayor Welcomes Visitors.

The Georgia Retail Hardware association opened its eighth annual convention in Taft hall yesterday morning with an attendance of 200 members, T. G. Green, of Eatonton, president presiding, with John L. Moore, of Madison, secretary-treasurer, at his desk.

For more than an hour before the convention was called to order by President Green its members and the large number of visitors drawn to Atlanta by the convention walked leisurely through the main auditorium of the Army inspecting the most attractive and to the hardware dealers, interesting collection of exhibits arranged for their inspection. The big floor had been divided into sections allotted to manufacturers for a display of products handled by retail hardware men throughout the state.

One section showed Georgia made stoves, another Georgia made harness, another wagons and buggies, made in Georgia, out of Georgia-grown timber, and yet another presented all kinds of tools from a big circular saw to a small table file.

As President Green called the convention to order he lost no time in presenting Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who, in a few words, welcomed the retail hardware men of the state to Atlanta. Following President Moore's welcome there was an invocation by Rev. W. R. Hendrix. It was then that Mayor James G. Woodruff expressed officially the pleasure Atlanta derived from the convention of the hardware men.

P. S. Twitty, of Dublin, in a happy brief talk, responded for the association to the addresses of welcome, while President Green's annual address closed the morning session.

The afternoon session was given up to the annual report of Secretary-Treasurer Moore, which, while brief, covered fully and interestingly to the members of the association, its life within the last year. Then came the appointment of committees on auditing and resolutions. President Green followed by unfinished business. The afternoon session was closed with addresses by R. W. Hatcher, of Milledgeville; G. W. Woodruff, of Windsor; C. B. Thomas, of Griffin; P. S. Twitty, of Dublin; J. R. Hall, of Moultrie, and W. G. Raines, of Statesboro.

During the evening the entire membership of the association were entertained at the Forsyth theater as the guests of the Atlanta retail and wholesale hardware dealers.

HUNDREDS OF ESSAYS SUBMITTED BY PUPILS AGAINST HOUSE FLY

Four hundred essays on "How to Prevent the Fly" from pupils in all the public schools of Atlanta were submitted to Dr. Claude A. Smith, chairman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce committee on health, yesterday. The essays in question are the best from each grade written in the chamber of commerce prize contest. Several thousand pupils in the various schools wrote essays, but only the two best in each grade were forwarded to Dr. Smith.

The prizes to be awarded are as follows: $10 for the best composition by a pupil of either of the high schools, $10 for the best and $5 for the second best composition by a pupil of the seventh or eighth grade and similar prizes to pupils of the fifth or sixth grades.

SOVEREIGN SECRETARY YATES IS ENTERTAINED BY ATLANTA WOODMEN

Local members of the Order of Woodmen of the World entertained their sovereign secretary, John T. Yates, of Omaha, Neb., at an informal reception at Cable hall Tuesday night. There was a good attendance of members of J. C. Root, Camp, No. 80, to here the sovereign secretary tell of the work that was being done by the order, particularly in the west.

Dr. F. L. Rosenthal, of Columbus, Ga., head counsel, representing the 600 camps of Woodmen in Georgia, presented Mr. Yates to the local camp. On the stage, with the speaker and Dr. Rosenthal, were William A. Roane and Newton Phillips, sovereigns of the local lodge.

ATLANTA KEPT COOL ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

A steady breeze that seemed to take the strength from the sun's rays kept Atlanta cool Wednesday and prevented the heat being felt even during the middle part of the day. The highest temperature registered was 73 degrees at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 7 o'clock in the morning the mercury reached only to the 62-degree mark.

The temperature today will be nearer normal for this time of the year. The forecast shows a slightly rising temperature with continued fair weather. According to Forecaster C. von Herrmann, the maximum temperature of the day will be about 79 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

LUTHER GLENN FREE; GIVES BOND OF $250

Luther J. Glenn, who was recently brought back from Houston, Texas, where he had sipped with Mrs. Lone Paddock, wife of one of Georgia's railroad presidents, was released on bond of $250 yesterday. Since his return he has been in the Tower in default of a $1,000 bond, which his wife secured on a no exeat after filing her divorce suit. The bond was finally reduced to $250, and this was made Wednesday by Glenn's father and he was allowed to go free.

ALLEN AND ANDERSON EACH CLAIM SAME VOTE

Both Declare That They Are Winners and Each Says 27 Senators Are for Him.

Hon. John T. Allen, senator-elect, passed through Atlanta yesterday on his way to the annual meeting of the State Bar association, at Warm Springs.

Hon. Randolph Anderson, senator-elect from Savannah, had passed through Atlanta a day or two previous, and while here gave utterance to an interview in The Constitution, in which he stated that twenty-seven senators were positively committed to him for the presidency of the senate.

"Now, that's the most remarkable thing I ever heard," said Senator Allen yesterday, "for Randolph has just gotten hold of my count, and he knows that I have the unequivocal support of twenty-seven senators in my race as president of the senate. I am just as certain to be elected as I live—that is, if any faith can be placed in the assurance of good men."

So there it is—now you see it, and now you don't!

Senator Anderson claims that he has 27 out of 44 votes, and the only difference between his count and that of Senator Allen is that the latter holds that out of the 44 votes he has 27.

The election will take place on the fourth Wednesday in June, when the general assembly meets, and one thing is certain—and is, that whether it be Allen or Anderson, the senate will have a splendid presiding officer.

Iron Worker Hurt.
G. T. Pruitt, an iron worker, living at 71 Waltham street, was crushed by a swinging beam on the Healy building Wednesday. He was taken to the Grady hospital, where it was found that his leg was badly injured. Pruitt and a companion worker were caught against a wall by a swinging girder. Pruitt's companion escaped injury.

GETS $4,500 VERDICT
Cordele Woman Gets Big Damages From G. S. & F.

Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Mrs. C. B. Shobe was given a verdict of $4,500 in the superior court of Crisp county today against the Georgia, Southern and Florida railway.

The plaintiff alleges that she was in a buggy in company with two young ladies, and that they were about to drive over a crossing of this road when a passenger train appeared suddenly from behind some box cars, which obscured their view, the horse becoming frightened and ran away, and that she was thrown from the buggy and internally and permanently injured when two wheels of the vehicle passed over her body. Mrs. Shobe's suit was for $10,000.

The case was heard fought by able counsel on both sides.

11,520 Cans of Green Peas in Augusta Grocery Stores Condemned by Inspectors

Augusta, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Government pure food inspectors condemned 11,520 cans of green peas in 425 cases in the stocks of a dozen groceries of this city yesterday on the grounds that they were "sour, decomposed and unfit for food," following complaints from citizens who suffered mild attacks of ptomaine poison after eating contents of cans of this brand. The peas were Colby brand, packed by S. H. Levin's Sons, of Philadelphia.

The inspector from Savannah visited every grocery store in the city and seized every can he found. Merchants told the inspector that the goods had been paid for. Consequently, they will lose their money. The decayed stuff was sold the wholesale grocers under the pretext that it was not the class of goods demanded in the northern markets, and that the company was endeavoring to dispose of their large stock and at greatly reduced prices.

PECAN GROWERS MEET Number of Speeches Heard by Representatives at Thomasville.

Thomasville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The Georgia and Florida Pecan Growers' association convened here this morning in the Tocco hotel, and there are in attendance a large representation not only of the members, but of others interested in this business, which has become an established industry for this section.

The program opened with an address by the president of the association, "Looking Ahead" was the subject of the talk made by ex-President C. A. Vandusen, of the National Nut Growers' association.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the automobile ride given this afternoon to the visitors, who had an opportunity of seeing the pecan groves and other places of interest around the county.

The meeting will hold through tomorrow.

R. NEVER DRUNK, DECLARES FRIENDS

The same question was put to each witness:

"Have you ever known Mr. Roosevelt to be under the influence of liquor?" or "Have you ever smelt liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?" and the answer invariably was negative. Just as often questions were put to the witness as to whether the colonel was in the habit of drinking intoxicants regularly in any quantities, and the answer again was negative.

Mr. O'Loughlin, who said he had known Colonel Roosevelt for many years, put a charge of positiveness to his answers by saying:

"I not only never knew of the colonel's being under the influence of liquor, but any suggestion that he ever was appeared to me, on account of my intimate acquaintance with him, to be absolutely silly."

It was a question put to Mr. O'Loughlin that brought out the argument of attorneys over the admissibility of certain testimony.

Mr. O'Loughlin was asked whether he had heard a general report circulated among newspaper men that the colonel was in the habit of getting drunk. After the court ruling, he was permitted to answer. His answer was that he had heard such rumors, but that he had heard them as wholly unfounded and not worthy of notice.

Mr. Newberry and Mr. Bacon were equally testifies as to Colonel Roosevelt's habits of sobriety.

Members of the Cuban campaign were brought to Colonel Roosevelt's attention in the courtroom. A telegram was handed him from Hugh T. Hubbert of St. Paul, Minn., referring to a letter which the colonel wrote while in camp in Cuba to L. Guttman, at Corsicana, Texas, about the use of whisky among soldiers while on duty. It is likely that Colonel Roosevelt's side of the case will be completed tomorrow. Among those still to take the stand are Clifford Pinchot, James H. Garfield, Rogers H. Post, Lawrence Abbott, William Leahy, Jr., M. Emlen Roosevelt, a cousin of the colonel, and two secret service men who traveled with the colonel when he was president.

Important Ruling Made.

On the question whether Mr. Newberry might show that other newspapers published reports that Colonel Roosevelt was addicted to excessive drinking and whether individuals heard such reports, the court this afternoon ruled that such evidence cannot be admitted. This was considered by Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys as a victory for them, since it will exclude the so-called hearsay evidence as contained in many depositions.

Defense counsel interpreted the ruling to permit witnesses to testify to the "general reputation" of Colonel Roosevelt, with reference to his personal habits.

Judge Flanagan's ruling was as follows:

"The Michigan rule is very well settled that the general reputation of the plaintiff is a matter that is his general reputation previous to the publication of the alleged libelous article and evidence of that nature will be received."

The other question is as to whether or not the defendant may show that other newspapers published similar charges and that it was reported among men that the plaintiff was guilty of similar offenses. The court is very well satisfied that the defendant is not entitled to that testimony, and the testimony of that nature will be received."

William Gardner, a witness yesterday, testified under direct examination to the opinion of certain correspondents in Washington. That testimony will have to be considered drawn out by the plaintiff. I think the defendant will have a right to rebut that statement if he is able to do so.

"Whether or not the defendant will be entitled to show the source of his information for the purpose of establishing good faith on his part and being in the truth of the article must turn, it seems to me, on the other question of whether or not the damages may be increased by reason of actual malice in the publication and the court will pass upon that question now. That question may be properly raised and argued when that testimony is offered. That disposes of all the pending questions, I think."

Exception taken by Mr. Belden.

Mr. Belden said he at least knew newspaper men like Mr. O'Loughlin in reference to this charge published in large papers in the country.

Judge Flanagan: "Publications of such matters by other newspapers are not accepted in mitigation of damages."

Recalled to the stand, with the jury present, O'Loughlin was further examined by the plaintiff.

Swear to Sobriety.

"Did you ever smelt liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?"

"Never."

"What do you say as to his language, was it clean or profane?"

"Never profane."

Mr. Gardner, another Washington newspaper man, who testified yesterday, was recalled and examined by the defense. His brief testimony was a repetition of what he had previously given.

Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, and former ambassador to France, next testified. His testimony in substance was:

"I was born in Boston in 1860. I lived in Boston until 1894, when I moved to New York.

"I was in business there until 1903, when I retired for a year or two, after which, in September, 1905, I became assistant secretary of state under Mr. Roosevelt. I continued as assistant secretary of state until January, 1909, when I was appointed secretary of state for the remainder of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. In December, 1909, I was appointed ambassador to France by President Taft, from which position I resigned in May, 1912, to become a fellow of Harvard college, which position I now hold."

"I have known Theodore Roosevelt intimately for about thirty-six years, having been a classmate of his at Harvard college, where we graduated in 1889. At college he was one of the cleverest and most fearless boys I have ever known. He was always in the best of training physically, one of his chief recreations being wrestling and boxing. He was a good fighter, and I think the fairest fighter I have ever known."

"After I went back to New York after graduation, I did not see as much of him for the next ten or twelve years, but I was in constant touch with him, our families being intimate."

In Best of Training.

"For the next ten years we were both so busy that I was not brought into close contact with him, but I continued our intimate association. During the four years that I was in the state department under Mr. Roosevelt's administration, I saw him constantly, almost every day, at all times of the day and night, officially and unofficially, and frequently lunched and dined with him. The president was always in the best of physical training, reserving several hours every day for different kinds of hard exercise, boxing and in other ways. Some of us who were his most intimate friends in the government always accompanied him."

"On his return from Africa, Mr. Roosevelt spent a week at my house in Paris, where I was with him every moment of the day or night, except when he was sleeping, and since my return I have often seen him either at his own house or mine, for we lived near, either in the country on Long Island."

"During all my life long association with Mr. Roosevelt, and especially in the four years of my closest personal daily contact in Washington, I know that it was impossible for him to have been a drinking man without my knowledge. He is not and never has been so abstemious and temperate. His whole life, both public and private, was clean and decent, in thought, speech, action and in any suggestion of anything but abstemious and temperate to the highest degree is unqualifiedly false."

"Of his all his friends and intimates, I am the least sure, and I have never heard from anyone of them the least suspicion to the contrary."

Only one question was put to Mr. Bacon by the defense.

When Mrs. Y. R. Durham returned from the city to her home at 15 Willow street last night at 8:30 she found that her jewelry had been broken open, silverware which she prized highly strewn over the floor, and a trunk in which she had some valuable deposited, with a lock broken, and the contents scattered about the house.

Upon further investigation she found that nothing, not even a single lock, which had been taken out of a jewelry case, was missing—but when she went out on the back porch, several pounds of butter, and about a score of eggs, etc., were to be found.

Call Officers Milkan and Wood were hurried to the scene from the police station, but found that no trace of the burglar or burglars could be found.

The suspicion is that the thief was looking for money, and was afraid to take any of the jewelry or plate all of which was marked with monograms. The fact that butter and eggs were missing seemed to indicate that some dairy thief had been prowling about, who decided that such was about as valuable as anything to him, and so made way with it.

The house in which Mrs. Durham is staying is rented from W. G. St. John, who is at present out of the city.

"St. Elmo" was picked by the Atlanta public, as its favorite play, is drawing the largest houses of the stock season at the Atlanta. The last four performances will be given tonight, Friday, Saturday matinee and night. Mr. Linn and Mr. Vall have scored heavily in their part. The play is being received with enthusiasm. Wednesday's matinee crowd was the largest of the season. Tonight the outlook is for a big crowd, as the sale is heavy.

WORK ON NEW CREMATORY WILL BE CONTINUED UNTIL
STOPPED BY COURT ORDER

The decision of the supreme court, came like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky on the contracting company that is building the crematory plant. In order to get one unit ready for the disposal of garbage by the 15th of June as promised, the work is being pressed night and day. There are thirty men now engaged on the job besides a large crop of helpers, seventy or eighty men in all. They were at work by artificial light until a late hour last night.

It is the intention of those in charge of the construction of the crematory to continue the work until they are actually compelled to desist by order of court. In this connection, the engineer in charge, P. D. Canham, said last night:

"We are going right ahead with our work. We have a large force engaged, thirty masons, between seventy and eighty men in all, and they are working until a late hour at night to get the first unit ready for operation by June 15. Of course, the Destructor company is not a philanthropic concern primarily nor are we working for charity, but we realize that the city will be a bad dilemma this summer without any arrangement made for the disposal of its garbage unless we can get a part of our plant in operating order next month. This is why we have been advancing the construction as rapidly as possible. We could not work all night if anything could be gained by it."

"One unit is figured to take care of eighty-five tons of garbage daily, but under pressure I believe it can easily consume one hundred. Without the plant that we are building the city will have no means available of disposing of its garbage and I dread to think what will be the effect upon the public health if the garbage is allowed to accumulate and rot in the city."

Other contractors of the crematory, who are working for the contractor, said:

"I have just heard of the decision rendered against the crematory contractor, and of course, cannot express an opinion on it until I have had an opportunity to read over the whole decision. I do not believe, however, that the work will be stopped. We will go right ahead with the work until we are compelled to quit by an order of court."

C. P. Gore, attorney for the taxpayers who sought to enjoin the city and the contract, was jubilant over the victory.

"It means that the Destructor company will be compelled to stop work on the plant as soon as the judgement of the supreme court is made. The judgement of the court below, which will be within ten days. Attorneys for the city and the construction company will have ten days in which to ask for a rehearing of the case and, unless they can prevail on the court to reopen the case, I do not believe likely, the remittor of the supreme court will go down to the superior court in ten days and then Judge Bell will have no alternative but to make the judgement of the court below enforce the injunction. The Destructor company will then be compelled to get off of the ground and they cannot look to the city for pay for any of the work they have done."

Mayor Woodward, who is in charge of the city, said last night:

"I have just heard of the decision rendered against the crematory contractor, and of course, cannot express an opinion on it until I have had an opportunity to read over the whole decision. I do not believe, however, that the work will be stopped. We will go right ahead with the work until we are compelled to quit by an order of court."

C. P. Gore, attorney for the taxpayers who sought to enjoin the city and the contract, was jubilant over the victory.

"It means that the Destructor company will be compelled to stop work on the plant as soon as the judgement of the supreme court is made. The judgement of the court below, which will be within ten days. Attorneys for the city and the construction company will have ten days in which to ask for a rehearing of the case and, unless they can prevail on the court to reopen the case, I do not believe likely, the remittor of the supreme court will go down to the superior court in ten days and then Judge Bell will have no alternative but to make the judgement of the court below enforce the injunction. The Destructor company will then be compelled to get off of the ground and they cannot look to the city for pay for any of the work they have done."

Mayor Woodward, who is in charge of the city, said last night:

"I have just heard of the decision rendered against the crematory contractor, and of course, cannot express an opinion on it until I have had an opportunity to read over the whole decision. I do not believe, however, that the work will be stopped. We will go right ahead with the work until we are compelled to quit by an order of court."

WORK ON NEW CREMATORY WILL BE CONTINUED UNTIL
STOPPED BY COURT ORDER

The decision of the supreme court, came like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky on the contracting company that is building the crematory plant. In order to get one unit ready for the disposal of garbage by the 15th of June as promised, the work is being pressed night and day. There are thirty men now engaged on the job besides a large crop of helpers, seventy or eighty men in all. They were at work by artificial light until a late hour last night.

It is the intention of those in charge of the construction of the crematory to continue the work until they are actually compelled to desist by order of court. In this connection, the engineer in charge, P. D. Canham, said last night:

"We are going right ahead with our work. We have a large force engaged, thirty masons, between seventy and eighty men in all, and they are working until a late hour at night to get the first unit ready for operation by June 15. Of course, the Destructor company is not a philanthropic concern primarily nor are we working for charity, but we realize that the city will be a bad dilemma this summer without any arrangement made for the disposal of its garbage unless we can get a part of our plant in operating order next month. This is why we have been advancing the construction as rapidly as possible. We could not work all night if anything could be gained by it."

"One unit is figured to take care of eighty-five tons of garbage daily, but under pressure I believe it can easily consume one hundred. Without the plant that we are building the city will have no means available of disposing of its garbage and I dread to think what will be the effect upon the public health if the garbage is allowed to accumulate and rot in the city."

Other contractors of the crematory, who are working for the contractor, said:

"I have just heard of the decision rendered against the crematory contractor, and of course, cannot express an opinion on it until I have had an opportunity to read over the whole decision. I do not believe, however, that the work will be stopped. We will go right ahead with the work until we are compelled to quit by an order of court."

LIKE BLIND BELISARIUS.

Rich Georgia appears like blind, begging Belisarius at the gate when it comes to providing vital educational facilities for the coming generation. The simile is fully justified by the modest petition the students of the University of Georgia are making to the forthcoming session of the legislature.

The institution is and has for ten years been in imperative need of a new dormitory, a new dining-hall and a central heating plant. The facilities in all three of these directions are now disgracefully inadequate. The efficiency of the highest educational institution in the state, the institution from the doors of which have gone many of the men who made American history, is actually impaired.

The claim that Georgia is not able to take proper care of the university is preposterous. The total annual income of the university from all sources is $163,039. The total income of Alabama's university, and Alabama is not nearly so rich or populous as Georgia, is $239,914. North Carolina, which also is poorer than Georgia in people and resources, gives her university $175,023. Tennessee, not comparable to Georgia, gives hers $167,023. Texas, the only state in the column larger than Georgia, spends $259,230 on her university. Georgia is, therefore, all allowances made, at the bottom of the list of these southern states in the amount allowed her highest educational institution.

Comparisons with universities of the central states, comparable relatively to Georgia, disclose nothing to Georgia's advantage. Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin all spend more than a million on their universities. Minnesota spends nearly a million and a half. Missouri spends $640,197. Save Texas, Georgia is wealthier than any of the southern states that outstrip her in university expenditures. And if states like Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, with only relative difference in resources, can spend more than a million on their universities, surely Georgia should be enabled to spend half a million, or as much as Missouri, $640,000.

Far from doing so, Georgia stints her sons studying at the university, not of comforts or luxuries, but of the positive necessities of life. Proper heating, dining and sleeping facilities are indispensable to health, efficiency, life. And Georgia curtails these at the university, and has been doing so for years.

How long will the people of this wealthy state subscribe to the tacit indictment that they are willing to spend infinitely less on their highest institution of learning than poorer states?

THE EVER-WITH-US JINGO.

At a recent dinner in Washington, it will be remembered, Secretary Bryan sharply attacked the newspapers that made use of flaring and exaggerated headlines to foster war spirit. His latest activity is an official denial of a dispatch sent out from San Francisco and published in Japanese newspapers to the effect that this government was strengthening its defenses in Hawaii and the Philippines. Mr. Bryan states that no undue significance is to be attached to these maneuvers, which are a part of the regular routine of the war department. The jingo will probably be the last species of demagogue to walk the plank in this country. By a curious contradiction, while he is among the most dangerous types of perverted statesmanship, he is one of the most difficult to reach. Of recent times he has been particularly active. He has worked on the public hearings and through the press. The slightest routine indication of activity on the part of the war department has been sufficient to furnish him material for a war scare. He has never wearied in stirring up racial animosities by studied misrepresentations and distortions.

The last to suffer in the event of hostilities, the jingo is the first to willingly thrust thousands of lives on the hazard, endanger property and plunge the country into debt from which it will be generations in escaping. We are still paying for past wars. The huge pension lists from these affairs absorb national resources that should be expended in other directions. Yet the jingo, unmindful of this and other penalties of war, continues cheerfully his murderous propaganda. Few influences outside America so insidiously menace the public welfare as does this foe from within.

CHIEF BEAVERS' STATEMENT

Elsewhere on this page we publish a statement from Chief of Police James L. Beavers and comment thereon, both statement and comment being self-explanatory. Many years spent in the public service make unnecessary any statement from The Constitution regarding its position on issues involving the public morals or the public welfare, even if the chief had not himself corrected an interview which, without a statement from him, may have been misinterpreted.

Chief Beavers has set the record straight with reference to any utterance of his that may have been susceptible to misconstruction.

As to the chief himself, The Constitution repeats the substance of its editorial of September 28 reproduced elsewhere under the caption, "A Wholesome Example." That editorial was published two days after the closing of the restricted district. No more vigorous editorial commendation of the chief's course has been published since. He merits today the words then so emphatically spoken in the first editorial utterance of any Atlanta newspaper on the subject of the chief's course.

"LIFE" WILL BE FAIR.

The following editorial extract from The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser apropos the sob artists and newspaper ghost-dancers who have been misrepresenting Georgia is self-explanatory:

The Literary Digest, which was taken in by the famous Ollie Taylor fake, sent out of Atlanta, announces itself ready to do the handsome thing, so it will apologize for being deceived by the fakers who sent out the lying fake.

Life, the New York publication which used this patent fake to spatter mud on the people of the south in its campaign of abuse against such states as Georgia and Alabama, is not expected to make an apology. Life has neither the purpose nor the ability to be fair. When northern commentators on southern conditions run across any newspaper story describing the brutality and cruelty of the southern people, it would be well for them to confirm the story before becoming hysterically abusive. The unscrupulous correspondents of northern papers in southern cities have found out they have the best chance to sell a southern story if it contains an account of cruelty or injustice, to reflect on the people of this section.

We are sure our contemporary is a trifle hasty in condemning Life. When corrected by The Constitution, the editor of Life wrote, declaring that the basis of the Taylor fake had been gathered from several newspaper reports, and that in cases of this nature corrections were often set forth too late to overtake the original harm. A spirit to do the fair thing was clearly manifested, and we are sure Life will fully measure up to its first obligation in the premises. Give it time!

The Gray Line of Dixie.

Echoes of far battles still by hill and glen; The band is playing "Dixie" for all the marching men; Hear the thrilling music, ringing far and free, As when war-bugles summoned the veterans of Lee.

The gray line of Dixie—they march not as of yore; The cannon's thunder silenced, the war-dream gleam no more; And from life's sunset-valleys, and from the battle-rod Their comrades beckon homeward to the glimmering heights of God.

Lost on the Tariff Road. "One of our old-time citizens," says The Cleveland, Ga., Bugle, "just returned from Washington, started in to give six lectures, in which he promised to tell us all about the tariff, but after the first lecture the others were called off, as it was the verdict of the audience that the old man was wandering in his mind. He was more 'mixed' than a Georgia corn today, when he tackled the tariff schedules, and he closed by saying: 'Brethren, I've lost the road. I reckon 'bout all I know is a railroad schedule when it's plain-printed!'"

The Last Dream of May.

HELLO THERE!

In the light entrancing— Last dream of May, Mistress Spring is dancing Her lovely life away. Sweet it was to linger Where the violets stay; Without a sigh she smiles goodbye, And dances life away.

Chief Beavers Answers the Suggestion That He Criticised The Constitution

In a statement given the press yesterday Chief of Police James L. Beavers denies the suggestion that he criticized The Constitution as being adverse to his anti-vice crusade. His statement follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., May 27. 'My attention has been called to an article in the Sunday papers in which an interview with me makes it appear that I was attacking Mr. Clark Howell personally and his policy with The Constitution. I only repeated the conversation I had with him on the next day after he returned from Panama on about March 1, this year.'

"I meant no reflection on Mr. Howell, but only had reference to certain local reports in his paper, and he now assures me that there was no intention on his part to discredit the work which I have been trying to do in this city, and that the article that appeared in the rectorial columns of The Constitution was without his knowledge and consent, and that it was not his intention nor does he approve of anything that would in the least hinder or discredit the work that the police department has been trying to carry out.

"I would regret very much indeed to have any utterance of mine construed into an attack upon Mr. Howell, whom I have always regarded, and now esteem, as an exemplary citizen and journalist who holds the merited confidence of the public, as he does of my department and of myself. J. L. BEAVERS. 'Chief of Police.'

The Constitution's Position.

Commenting upon Chief Beavers' statement, Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, said:

"During my absence in Panama in January, a police raid was made on a certain downtown rooming hotel. The Constitution next morning locally reported the affair, and the fact that a man and his wife were subjected to undue treatment, with comment from the inadvertent victims and the manager of the hotel.

"When I returned from Panama the chief complained of the local report referred to. I explained to him that nothing was further from my intention than to discredit his work, and that following The Constitution's oft-repeated commendation of his high sense of duty in endeavoring to enforce the law, he would have our cordial support to that end.

"He thanked me, recalling the fact that two days after the houses were closed I had sent for him to tell him that his attitude would have The Constitution's support.

"Next morning—September 26—The Constitution's leading editorial, 'A Wholesome Example,' unqualifiedly approved the chief as 'an official with the nerve and the courage to enforce the law,' stating that 'he has set a singularly wholesome example of a blunt interpretation of duty.'

"I am still of the opinion that no good citizen would invite the return of the segregated district, nor the spread of its attendant evil in other directions. In my talk with the chief I expressed my doubt as to his ability to absolutely eliminate the evil, and while the segregated district has been closed we are still wrestling with other phases of the problem.

"I think the chief is doing the best he can, and he should have the support of all good citizens in his efforts."

Beavers Indorsed September 26. Two days after the closing of the restricted district The Constitution published, September 26, 1912, a leading editorial under the caption, "A Wholesome Example," commending Chief Beavers' course. This was the first editorial utterance of any Atlanta newspaper on the subject. The editorial follows:

"A WHOLESOME EXAMPLE. 'Whatever public sentiment may be as to the wisdom of the peremptory manner in which Chief Beavers has proceeded to close the houses of ill-repute in Atlanta, it will not be divided in unqualified approval of an official with the nerve and the courage to enforce the law whatever the law may be and wherever its enforcement may lead.'

"The law forbids the presence in the city of resorts to which, not one law, but all laws, that he developed the heavy to follow his sworn duty is a guarantee that Atlanta has at the head of its police department a man who may be relied upon to execute to the letter whatever ordinances or statutes are framed for the city's government.

"There are some who argue that the enforcement of laws touching intimate, social problems—such as the one under discussion—should be left to the personal discretion of the man at the head of the police authorities.

"That reasoning would work admirably were it possible to have always as chief of police a man gifted with omniscience as well as unblemished integrity. It would, then, be safe to vest in his discretionary as well as executive functions.

"But a successor to Chief Beavers might not develop his superb courage. He might, instead, construct the law according to his own individual peculiarities, applying those he decided ought to be applied and making dead letters of others for which perhaps the entire community clamored. It requires no imagination to see that such a condition has in it all the makings of chaos.

"If a law is vicious, unwise or unreasonable it will eventually fall of its own weight. But until it is repealed, it is a law, and all the force of law, and its application, is to be applied without quibble or qualification. Public sentiment makes laws; courts construe them; the authorities execute them. In an era that sometimes thwarts and perverts our democratic scheme of government, Chief Beavers has set a singularly wholesome example of a blunt interpretation of duty."

A Little Spring Song.

(By Alice Louise Austin, Age 11.)

I. As the brook flowed along Through the meadow one day, It sang a little spring song, And then ran on its way.

II. It gurgled soft and low All of the night and day, Into the sea it did go, Until it lost its way. Hapeville, Ga.

The World's Mysteries

WAS AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE ACHIEVED BY A LIE?

Was American independence achieved through a lie? It was gravely asserted some years since from a New England pulpit that it was, and in a heated discussion that followed such an attempt to stigmatize our independence, the question resolved itself into one of morals, the point at issue being how far is it right to deceive an enemy in time of war.

That stratagem was used successfully is certain, but the history of the world is full of such instances, both in love and war. The facts, upon which the charge regarding our independence was based, are as follows:

General Clinton, the commander-in-chief of the British forces, was in New York with a portion of the British army, while Lord Cornwallis, with another portion, was in Virginia. Washington, assisted by General Knox and Count Rochambeau, determined to attack Cornwallis. In order to prevent Clinton from sending assistance to that general, the latter equipped a fleet of warships and hurried them down the coast. But his fleet was detained by contrary winds. In the meantime Cornwallis hit on a daring plan for escape with the bulk of his force in ships by night, slipping through the line of watchful French warships, but a violent storm arose and he was compelled to relinquish the idea. Thus twice the winds of heaven assisted in the fight in liberty's behalf.

Caught starving and short of ammunition, with no relief in sight, Cornwallis was finally compelled to surrender, on October 19, and this was the greatest and the final triumph of the war. It broke the backbone of England's American power. On hearing the news, the British prime minister cried aloud: "It is all over! Oh, it is all over!" Clinton's relieving fleet, by the way, had already reached the Chesapeake when its admiral learned of Cornwallis' fate, and turned sorrowfully back. Thackeray, the novelist, commenting on the siege of Yorktown and other revolutionary events, wrote: "We had the best cards—and we lost the game! From the beginning to the end we were forever arriving too late!"

All is fair in love and war is the old saying, and it is particularly true of war, for in this deception of Washington, the English General Clinton was fooled by the Americans, and it was probably the lie told and acted that won for the colonies their independence.

New News of Yesterday

How the Cavalrymen Kept Their Horses.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Just as twilight was deepening one evening in the month of June, 1865, a spectacle unprecedented and unmatched at the close of the Civil war was vaguely, and as in a fog or mist, outlined to the people of New Haven, Conn. The First Connecticut cavalry was returning from nearly four years' service in the Civil war. The regiment had been brought by steambath from New York, and it arrived at New Haven a little after 8 o'clock. The sidewalks were thronged so that it was almost impossible for anyone to get through the crowds. A dense mass of people collected around the New Haven green. A queer stillness prevailed, especially noticeable because it was maintained by so great a number of people.

At last, in the distance, a faint clattering sound was heard, and the noise increased until, gradually out of the twilight the mounted, hoofs appeared. The sound of the burles was heard, but the twilight obscured almost each individual horse and rider, so that it seemed like a ghostly procession.

The regiment was dismounted at the rear of the Connecticut state-house and the soldiers, with the exception of those who were detained to look after the horses, were treated to a collation made up for the most part of delicacies and seasonal food such as they had not tasted since they went to the war.

After the collation the men, almost in silence, mounted their horses and disappeared in the darkness to the distant field on which they were to camp. In this way a regiment of cavalry, which had seen service all over the south, returned almost in silence and then melted away. For in the course of a few days the regiment was mustered out, and within another week or two the soldiers, with their horses, were back upon the old homesteads taking up their vocation as if nothing had happened.

I had heard that the First Connecticut cavalry was the only cavalry regiment which was permitted to bring its horses home, and to ride back to the place whence, four years earlier, it had departed for the war. The colonel of this regiment was Brayton Ives, who was afterwards president of the New York stock exchange. Chancing in the company of General Ives several years ago, I asked him if it were true that the First Connecticut cavalry was the only cavalry regiment which was permitted to bring their horses home and to ride the animals to the mustering-out place.

"Yes, that was true," General Ives said. "I made special inquiry and I found that my regiment was the only one to whom this privilege was granted."

"How did that happen?" I asked.

"Well, it was simple enough," General Ives replied. "It occurred to me just before we left Washington for home that there could be no good reason why my men should not be permitted to bring their horses home with them.

"I went to see Quartermaster-General Melgus, and I asked him if my men could not take their horses home. He looked at me inquiringly, so I explained to him my reason.

"I said to him that many of my men had become greatly attached to their horses. The horses were almost as affectionate in their manner toward the men as an intelligent dog would have been. They knew their masters' voices. They would follow the soldiers around, obeying implicitly not merely a stern word of command, but as little a thing as a gentle tone of voice.

wards changed his tactics and advanced upon Cornwallis. It has been remarked as curious, or at least a little singular, that the first battle of the revolution should have taken place in Massachusetts at Lexington, April 19, 1775, and the last in Virginia, at Yorktown, October 19, 1781. The two states most distinguished for their opposition to the English government.

After Washington felt that he had acted the lie long enough and that he had Clinton guessing, he made plans to carry out one of the most daring and brilliant feats in all military history. He moved his main army southward from Dodds Ferry, as though to make a general assault in New York. Clinton prepared for the attack, but it was not until Washington and his army was well advanced towards the assistance of the colonial forces in the south that he learned how he had been fooled. He was too far out of reach for the British to overtake him. So much secrecy had been maintained that even the American soldiers had no idea where they were going.

The arrival of Washington's army in Virginia brought to the American force there sufficient strength to prevent Cornwallis from escaping. Cornwallis sent a frantic appeal to Clinton for assistance, and the latter equipped a fleet of warships and hurried them down the coast. But his fleet was detained by contrary winds. In the meantime Cornwallis hit on a daring plan for escape with the bulk of his force in ships by night, slipping through the line of watchful French warships, but a violent storm arose and he was compelled to relinquish the idea. Thus twice the winds of heaven assisted in the fight in liberty's behalf.

Caught starving and short of ammunition, with no relief in sight, Cornwallis was finally compelled to surrender, on October 19, and this was the greatest and the final triumph of the war. It broke the backbone of England's American power. On hearing the news, the British prime minister cried aloud: "It is all over! Oh, it is all over!"

Clinton's relieving fleet, by the way, had already reached the Chesapeake when its admiral learned of Cornwallis' fate, and turned sorrowfully back. Thackeray, the novelist, commenting on the siege of Yorktown and other revolutionary events, wrote: "We had the best cards—and we lost the game! From the beginning to the end we were forever arriving too late!"

Bread Upon the Waters.

By Philip Weitzer, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia.

With eager interest, the little boy was watching every move of the driver, spinning, the car over beautiful country roads. A man sat on the rear seat. The little boy was about his most precious possession. The automobile was going a terrific pace. The faster it went, the ecstasy of the boy increased. But into the man's mind crept a subtle fear, not for himself, but for the boy. Suppose something went wrong. "You need not be afraid; Jim knows his business." This was the confidence expressed by the lady who had sent the man and his boy, Bob, out riding. Just then the chauffeur turned a bit in his seat. The man was impressed by the face. Somewhere, many years ago, he had seen it before.

An old mother came to Logan, of the Associated Charities. Bent with years of poverty, she was now more bent with the weight of sorrow. Jim, her seventeen-year-old son, was in jail. They were intent on putting the boy "behind the bars." He had stolen some stuff from the corner grocery and maliciously broke out the window panes. She admitted that Jim was a mean lad, the leader of a mean gang. "No, I don't mean to shield him in his meanness. Jim ain't what I call a good boy. But wouldn't you want to save him? He is the only boy I've got." Finally the grocer was mollified. The case was not pro'd on the agreement of Jim and his mother to move from the neighborhood.

Logan took the young fellow and put him in the varnishing department of Woodward Lumber company, where he became a first-rate painter. That was seven years ago. From that day to the day of the ride, he had not seen Jim again. Jim married four years ago. His home is a happy one. He is an asset to the community.

The next legislature will be called on to enact a law making it possible for judges to do what was done in this case. The legislature will be called on to do this in recognition of the fact that a good many of the acts we now term criminal, and treat as such, are the result of misdirected energy, which, if set aright, would redeem the offenders and save the state from the stain of making criminals of thoughtless boys.

It must not be thought that probation means turning the offender loose. Probation, correctly administered, is a stern regimen of discipline making for self-mastery and self-control.

A Modern Diogenes.

(From The Christian Herald.)

A wealthy man who died in Brussels recently left much of his large fortune to a girl who was unacquainted with him. He was very eccentric, and, like Diogenes, he set out to find an honest man. His tub was an omnibus and his lantern a small coin. In the omnibus he took his seat near the conductor and always placed himself very obliging, passing up the money of passengers and returning the change, but to the latter he always managed to add a franc or half-franc. Then he would watch those to whom it came. They would count it carefully, notice the extra coin, and invariably slip it into their pockets. But at last a young woman passed her back, with "Conductor, you have given me half a franc too much." The man followed her to her home, learned what he could about her, and made his will in her favor, though he never told her that the half franc returned would bring her a million.

abl priced for the horses. When they were mustered out they could take their horses home with them. "General Melgus seemed to be very favorably impressed, even somewhat touched, by my appeal. He gave the necessary order, and it was for this reason that my men brought their horses home."

SAYS SOUTHERN PACIFIC MUST GIVE UP CENTRAL

Attorney General McReynolds Finally Decides That the Two Systems Must Be Divorced.

Washington, May 28.—Attorney General McReynolds has decided to contend that the Southern Pacific must give up the Central Pacific in the pending dissolution of the Union Pacific merger, and will bring suit under the Sherman law to accomplish that end if the dissolution plans fail to include it.

It became definitely known today that the attorney general had finally decided that the Central Pacific must be divorced from the Southern. Disposition of the Central Pacific is understood to be the cause of the hitch in the efforts of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific to reach an agreement.

The plan which the Union Pacific will generally present to the attorney general contemplates, it is believed here, only the disposition of the $125,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific and will leave the question of the status of the Central Pacific to separate litigation to be brought by the government. The supreme court ordered the sale of Union Pacific holdings of Southern Pacific stock and left open to negotiation or future litigation the disposition of the Central Pacific.

The action of Mr. McReynolds regarding the Central Pacific coincides with that of former Attorney General Wickersham, who threatened an anti-trust suit unless the Southern Pacific disposed of its subsidiary.

HALF-DOZEN WIVES MOURN DEATH OF MUCH-WEDDED MAN

Chicago, May 28.—At least two widows and a fiancée are mourning the death of Homer E. Morrison, and the police are working on clues that may lead them to three other women who can claim the man as their late husband.

Morrison died last Thursday of what may have been poisoning.

Two of his wives have complained that he took $7,000 of their money, and a widow, who says he promised to marry her, admits she gave him $1,600.

Mrs. Homer E. Morrison says she married Morrison three years ago; Mrs. R. W. Thompson says she married the same man under the name of Thompson seven years ago; Mrs. Pearl McDevitt asserts Morrison promised to marry her next month.

These three women lived on the same car line without knowing the existence of each other. Sometimes Morrison visited all three the same day.

Under the name of Thompson the man posed as a claim adjuster, but for seven years kept Mrs. Thompson in the dark regarding his place of business. To Mrs. Morrison he was a real estate dealer, but she never knew where his office was. By day he was manager of a rooming house on Chicago avenue, where he never was seen at night.

From what Mrs. Thompson has said, the police suspect that Morrison took poison, and they are gathering evidence to present to the coroner.

HE ASKS INDEPENDENCE FOR THE PHILIPPINES

Washington, May 28.—Representative Francis B. Burton Harrison today appealed to President Wilson to grant immediate independence to the Philippine islands. He declared that not only were the Philippines an easy point of attack for an enemy of the United States, but that the people were capable of self-government and deserved promised independence.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY OF PUJO COMMITTEE

New York, May 28.—The authority of the Pujo committee, that searched for a "money trust," to compel witnesses to answer, will be questioned before the United States supreme court, George G. Henry, New York banker, indicted in Washington for contempt after his refusal to answer questions asked by the committee, have notified today that he would appeal to the highest court from the recent decision of Federal District Judge Mayer ordering him to stand trial on the indictment. Judge Mayer issued a stay to permit the banker to carry up his appeal. Henry furnished $2,000 bail.

Students Fight Flames

Ann Arbor, May 28.—Three thousand students of the University of Michigan turned out to fight a fire today that attacked university hall, the oldest building on the campus. They kept the flames to the hall's south wing.

Deferred Payments Permit Your Buying A Diamond Without Feeling the Outlay

Diamonds can be bought here by paying only one-fifth cash—the balance, plus 6 per cent simple interest, to be paid in ten equal monthly payments.

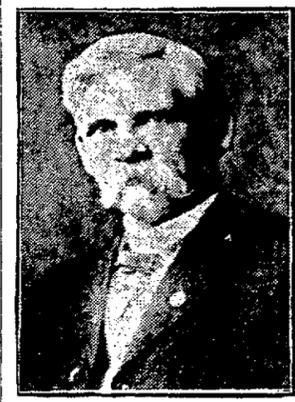

The 6 per cent simple interest is the difference between cash and the long-time accommodation. It is just enough to pay for the additional bookkeeping involved. It would certainly not be fair to the cash customer to sell on long time without this difference.

Diamonds will unquestionably be advanced 20 per cent within the next few months. The advance in price by the syndicate and the new tariff bill makes the advance certain.

Selections sent anywhere for inspection. Call or write for booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," and large general catalogue. They quote net prices and give full particulars about our attractive plans.

WAR BETWEEN BULGARIA AND SERVA IMMINENT

GENERAL BENNETT H. YOUNG, Re-elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans on Wednesday.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY STATE ODD FELLOWS

Dr. L. B. Clarke, of Atlanta, Elected to Short Term as Grand Representative.

Savannah, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—Dr. L. B. Clarke, of Atlanta, was today elected to the short term as grand representative of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows. Although there was a contest when the election was first called, all opposing candidates retired in favor of the Atlanta man. Retiring Grand Master W. S. Coleman, of Cedartown, was elected as long-term representative.

Only two candidates then appeared for the short term, Dr. Clarke and Colonel John W. Bennett, of Waycross. The Waycross delegate then exemplified the spirit of the order by announcing that he would not oppose his friend and brother.

He said when he was ill in Atlanta in a hospital Dr. Clarke was his constant attendant. He asked the lodge to honor Dr. Clarke as they had honored him.

He delivered a very pretty brotherly love speech, and was warmly applauded. Members were asked to meet at the next meeting place of the grand lodge.

EDUCATION DELEGATES TO THE HAGUE NAMED

Washington, May 28.—Secretary Lane today recommended to Secretary Bryan the appointment of American delegates to the international conference on education at The Hague next September.

Congress will make no appropriation to pay expenses of the delegates, but the following named, selected by the secretary, have expressed their willingness to accept appointment upon these conditions:

Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, California; Dr. Charles H. Wood, director of school education, University of Chicago; Charles N. Kendall, state commissioner of education, Trenton, N. J.; Randall J. Condon, superintendent of education, Cincinnati, Ohio; David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany; Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, secretary of the American School of Peace League, and special collaborator in the United States bureau of education, and Philander F. Claxton, commissioner of education of the United States.

TOBACCO TRUST "DEATH" STUDIED BY M'REYNOLDS

Washington, May 28.—Attorney General McReynolds still is studying whether the decrees dissolving the "tobacco trust" is being complied with, and whether all semblance of a "tobacco trust" has disappeared.

Since the entry of the decree the department of justice made a few local investigations in the south where complaints alleged that the decrees were being violated. The results have not been definite.

The attorney general was the government's attorney in the original tobacco case. He disagreed with former Attorney General Wickersham as to the terms of the decree dissolving the trust, especially that feature by which the stock was distributed pro rata among the stockholders.

STILWELL SENTENCED TO 4 YEARS IN PRISON

New York, May 28.—Former State Senator Stephen K. Stilwell, convicted of bribery by a jury last week, after he had been exonerated by the New York state senate, was sentenced today to serve not less than four years nor more than eight in Sing Sing prison.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury granted a stay of execution, so Stilwell's lawyers might apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Stilwell, state senator from the Bronx, was convicted of attempting to obtain $3,500 from George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company for favorable consideration by the senate and assembly codes committee of a bill to make illegal discrimination against bank note companies by stock exchanges.

Kendall refused to pay. Governor Sulzer, called on Stilwell to resign. Stilwell declined. The senate investigated the charges and exonerated Stilwell by a vote of 28 to 21. Thereafter the case was placed in the hands of District Attorney Whitman.

Stilwell is 47 years of age, and had been long in politics.

WAR BETWEEN BULGARIA AND SERVA IMMINENT

Military Circles in Sofia Expect Almost Immediate Outbreak of Hostilities.

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 28.—Military circles of the Bulgarian capital expect an almost immediate outbreak of hostilities between Bulgaria and Serbia.

Vienna, May 28.—Bulgaria has addressed note to the powers offering to submit to their decision the question of the future of Saloniki, according to the Reichspost.

Saloniki, May 28.—Severe tension continues between the Greek and Bulgarian armies facing each other north of Saloniki. Shots were exchanged yesterday and today. The Greeks accuse the Bulgarians as aggressors.

In spite of the declaration made at Sofia that the Bulgarian troops have been ordered to observe a moderate attitude and to avoid conflicts with the Greeks, the Bulgarian commanders apparently are preparing to attack Eleftheria, with a view to gaining complete occupation of the dominant position of Mt. Panghion. They have already placed guns on the hill crests southeast of Prava, commanding Eleftheria. The Bulgarian troops have also occupied the heights commanding Bujukti, south of Lake Dolran, and the town of the same name occupied by the Greeks.

The Greek generals believe the Bulgarians are systematically creating incidents and endeavoring to drive the Greeks toward the sea and seize the positions vacated by them.

PATENT METAL SOLDIER; WHERE ARE HEROES?

Copenhagen, May 28.—The dream of seeing the next war waged by automatons in place of soldiers, has developed into the patenting of an invention which it is said would revolutionize defensive tactics.

Ason's contrivance is a cylinder which may be buried in the ground for years in the same fashion as submarine mines are placed in harbors, doing no damage until they are fired. The cylinder is operated by electricity from a station four or five miles distant. When a button is pressed, the cylinder jumps two feet from the ground and fires 100 shots horizontally, the shots being effective at a range of 3,000 yards.

Ason asserts that crops might be grown over the automatons in time of peace, and thus they would be well hidden, so that the enemy would not know their position until they started firing.

DEATH HAS CLAIMED MISS MARY E. POE

Miss Mary Elizabeth Poe, of Goggans, Ga., died Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Walter Reynolds, 128 East First street, where she came up a few days ago to visit her sister, who was stricken Monday night with the illness that caused her death. She was the daughter of the late Judge John C. Poe, whose father was one of the pioneers of Macon county. She was survived by three sisters, Mrs. Walter Reynolds, of Atlanta; Miss Alice Poe, of Goggans, and Mrs. John Maury, of Johnsonville, and by two brothers, John W. Poe, of Macon, and James E. Poe, of Goggans. The interment will be Friday in the Poe family cemetery near Goggans.

MEMPHIS POSTMASTER IS UNDER INDICTMENT

Lee W. Duto, charged by Federal Grand Jury With Soliciting Campaign Funds in 1910.

Memphis, Tenn., May 28.—Lee W. Duto, postmaster at Memphis for the past twelve years, today was indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of soliciting campaign funds in 1910. It is stated similar charges against Newell Sanders, of Chattanooga, former United States senator, and Henry C. Johnson, republican in West Tennessee, were ignored.

The specific charge against Postmaster Duto is that he violated postal code No. 13, when he obtained a $10 contribution from W. F. Roberts, clerk in the postoffice on October 1, 1910.

The charges against Postmaster Duto were first made last year, but at that time no action was taken by the grand jury. Similar charges also were made against government officials at Nashville and Knoxville, but the men indicted were acquitted when placed on trial.

Friction between factions of the republican party in this state is said to be at the bottom of the charges.

Unnoticed by Spectators and Officers, Negro Prisoner Walks Out of Courtroom

Cordelia, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—Unnoticed by three bailiffs, the sheriff and spectators, Richard Thorne, a negro who had pleaded guilty in the superior court before Judge W. F. George for stealing a pistol, deliberately walked out of the courtroom and made good his escape, his absence not being noted until an hour later.

Judge George had postponed sentencing him in order to hear the pleas of other prisoners.

Thorne was arrested in Berrien county yesterday.

BAD DAIRY CONDITIONS EXISTING AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—American marketmen and dairymen have just been officially investigated by representatives of the state veterinary and pure food departments, and the result has created considerable comment locally.

D. W. H. Beahm, S. E. Hutchens and P. A. Methvin, with Chairman, Chambers, of the American board of health, inspected at butcher pens, meat markets and dairies, with the result that there is going to be an immediate and wonderful improvement in many of these places, which failed to measure up to requirements.

Citizens were surprised to learn of conditions existing and are pleased at the result of the thorough inspection.

Young Women From Four States Get Diplomas at Agnes Scott

Sixteen young women from four states were graduated from Agnes Scott college at the closing commencement exercises in the college auditorium Wednesday morning. Besides the degree several scholarships and prizes were awarded.

Many of the girls' parents and relatives and a large number of their friends were at the exercises to see them graduate. The young women made a pretty array as they received their diplomas.

The following received their diplomas: Grace Lydia Anderson, Decatur;

FARMER CONFERENCE TO BE CONDUCTED AT BERRY SCHOOL

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—Booklets have been issued by the Berry school announcing the first summer school and farmers' conference ever held by the famous institution beginning July 2 and continuing until August 15. The special purpose of the summer school is to teach those who cannot attend the regular sessions and at the same time give opportunity for husbands to take extra work.

The school will place its splendid equipment and corps of instructors at the service of the male teachers of rural, public and Sunday schools of north-west Georgia, as well as farmers, young men and women.

Six weeks' courses for rural school teachers will be given in agriculture, Bible, civil government, geography, history, mathematics, methods of teaching and science of rural schools.

Two weeks' courses for Sunday school teachers will be given, the first series from July 2 to July 15, the second from July 24 to August 15. These include Bible outlines and Sunday school methods for personal study.

A six weeks' and a two weeks' course are offered farmers, the latter for those who cannot spare time for the former. General agriculture, animal husbandry, farm mechanics and dairying will be taught. A three days' conference will be held July 31 to August 2, in co-operation with the Farmers and Merchants' Co-operative association.

Noted agriculturists and demonstrators of this and other states will be joined by experts from the United States department of agriculture and practical farmers, gardeners, dairymen, scientists and business men, all of whom will lecture.

The Berry school during the coming summer are altogether as unique and promise to materialize as usefully as the famous institution itself.

R. I. C. Convention

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—About fifty rural mail carriers of the seventh congressional district will hold their first annual convention here Friday, Wednesday day, which is observed by the postal authorities as a holiday. A program of entertainment is being mapped out by the local carriers who will be hosts to their visiting brothers.

Rome Commencement

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—Ten boys and girls graduated this morning from the Rome high school, the exercises being held for the first time in the new building of the school building, formerly Short College, this is the first time in the history of the Rome high school that the commencement exercises have not been held in the opera house.

Seaborn Weighs to Speak

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—Seaborn Wright, the prohibition leader of Georgia, has accepted an invitation to speak at a mass meeting Sunday in Macon to discuss law enforcement. He will probably play special attention to the open violation of the prohibition law there, and as he never minces words, a sensation is expected.

GERMAN BUSINESS MEN TO MEET IN SAVANNAH

Charleston, S. C., May 28.—The eighth annual business session of the South Atlantic Business league of German societies was held here today. Savannah was chosen as the meeting place next year. Officers were elected as follows:

J. H. Muellerling, of Savannah, president; G. Mau, of Atlanta, first vice president; G. Stecher, of Tampa, second vice president; Oscar Seewald, of Jacksonville, third vice president; Dr. L. E. Knobloch, of Charleston, fourth vice president; William Niesl, of Brunswick, fifth vice president; Louis Richebe, of Macon, sixth vice president, a new office; Colonel H. E. Dreessen, of Savannah, treasurer; Paul Wierse, of Charleston, secretary; John O. Cappelmann, of Charleston, solicitor.

JACK JOHNSON AGAIN IN MESHES OF LAW

Chicago, May 28.—Jack Johnson, the ex-heavyweight champion, who recently was found guilty of violating the Mann white slave law, was arrested again today, this time on the charge of cutting out his muffler while riding in his automobile on North Clark street.

"Well, that's the limit," exclaimed Johnson, after his arrest, "they seem to want to get me all the time. It's persecution, that's all."

Johnson was released on his own recognizance. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

JAP POLITICIANS USE CALIFORNIA PROBLEM

Tokio, May 28.—The executive committee of ex-Premier Count Katsura's new party today issued a statement declaring that the proposed cabinet could not be relied upon to settle the California alien-land ownership question, and adding that the party had decided to adopt its own propaganda with regard to the dispute.

The cabinet is in a strong position with the public.

MORSE ELECTED HEAD OF STEAMSHIP COMPANY

New York, May 28.—Charles W. Morse was elected today president of the Hudson Navigation company, owners of a line of steamers operating on the Hudson river. Morse was head of the company in 1909, but was deposed a year later. Major W. Robertson, who succeeded him sold his interest in the line to a syndicate of bankers, who placed it in Morse's hands, thus giving him control.

Nearly Every "Worshiper" at Negro Revival Took Part in a Free-for-All Fight

Cordelia, Ga., May 28.—(Special).—When Sheriff John Ward, of Crisp county, was notified last night that a fight had occurred at a negro church several miles in the county, where a protracted meeting was being held, and that several had been badly injured, he went to the scene of the difficulty in an automobile.

He found that the fight had been a free-for-all and that nearly every negro man attending the meeting had taken part. Seven were placed under arrest and two of them were brought in on the automobile and lodged in the county jail, while five others, who were so badly injured by knife wounds that they could not escape, were hauled to the city on a two-horse wagon.

Brilliant Exercises Mark the Commencement at Brenau

Gainesville Ga. May 28.—(Special) Seldom has Brenau college had a more brilliant commencement than that which marked the closing of this scholastic year. Two notable addresses were by Bishop Warren A. Candler of Atlanta and the other by Chancellor David C. Barrow of the University of Georgia who delivered the address to the graduating class contributed a serious and intensely interesting note to the exercises while the festive incident to commencement made the occasion one of much pleasure and enjoyment.

Commencement began with the presentation of the annual play by the Seniors of the oratory school. On Saturday evening, the alms house banquet was given in the presence of the class of 1901 which held its decennial reunion a year and of the Brenau Colony of Atlanta lending unusual interest to the occasion.

On Sunday morning Bishop Warren A. Candler preached the commencement sermon his serious thought being lightened by humorous and sarcastic phrases in such manner that the audience was first touched to earnestness

Rawling-Wilcox

The marriage of Miss Katherine Rawling and Mr. Philip Wilcox Wilcox was a beautiful event of last night solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. William Rawling in Druid Hills.

The ceremony took place in the library of the bride's home where the wedding music and the bride entered the library with her father.

A pretty brunette with a dignified and a style which distinguished her, she was charming in her wedding gown of white brocade, simply finished and trimmed with a white lace. The beautiful veil was of lace and her bouquet was of white roses and white lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Rawling is to elope in gray charmeuse draped with white pink chiffon and trimmed with a white lace. Mrs. Sidney S. Wilcox of New York the groom's mother wore a white Brussels lace gown with a finish in ivory. Mrs. Fuld of a small high-cut white black chiffon cloth. Mrs. J. T. Wheeler of New York the bride's aunt wore a black lace gown.

A buffet supper was served from the dining room and there elaborate decoration was in pink. The table centerpiece was a basket of pink roses the handle twined with roses and the silver candlesticks had pink shades and pretty floral of color was pink. The mantel was banked with ferns and roses were massed on mantel and buffet punch was served in the parlor which was a bower of green. Upstairs a profusion of sweet peas decorated all the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox went east for a short trip the bride caught as she was leaving the house by a fragrant shower of rose petals. In their return they will occupy the home of

Forecast for Today—A Shower of

Remnants

Of White and Colored Cotton and Mixed Fabrics

At Half-Price

Quite impossible to tell you on paper all it means to women to be able to select from such an assortment of desirable fabrics as these—the season's most popular materials, reduced by active selling, to short lengths—at half price.

Wonderful assemblage—larger in its scope, more varied in its kinds than any previous sale of Remnants. You can hardly think of a practical or desirable fabric that is not among them—from the least expensive gingham to silk-and-cotton mixed novelties, and each piece means the saving of exactly half.

The collection is made up about equally of white and colored goods, including such as ratines, voiles, Swisses, poplins, seco silks, chiffon lisse, silk-and-cotton mixed goods, crepes, piques, luna lawns, Persian lawns, dimities, nainsooks, madras, ginghams, percales, and various others.

Lengths varying from two yards to dress patterns, of which there is a goodly supply.

Find the remnants on special tables in the Wash Goods Section, second floor, opposite the elevators.

SOCIETY

To Miss Francis.
Miss Martha Francis was guest of honor at a pretty luncheon yesterday, given by Mrs. Charles E. Shelton.
Covers were laid for twelve, and the table was elaborately decorated in pink sweet peas. A large mound of them formed the centerpiece, and at each end were smaller mounds. The place cards were handpainted in sweet peas, and the color details were in pink. Mrs. Shelton wore a dainty lingerie gown. Miss Francis wore white French crepe embroidered in dull blue and rose. It was fastened in coat effect with vest of chiffon, and it was worn with a black hat trimmed with paradise feathers.

TRYING TO CONNECT WOOD WITH ATTEAUX
Great Crowd Listens to Evidence in Alleged Dynamite Planting Conspiracy.

Boston, May 28.—Another big crowd listened today to evidence introduced by District Attorney Pelletier in support of the charge that William Wood, president of the American Woolen company, and Frederick E. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer, conspired with others to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to cast suspicion upon striking textile operatives.
One of the many witnesses called in an attempt to fill in the gaps in the government's case and connect more closely the principals with the alleged plot was Max Mitchell, a banker of Boston, whose direct examination was apparently intended to show intimacy between Wood and Atteaux.
Several times during the trial the prosecutor had questioned witnesses concerning the whereabouts of Charles Hardy, an official of the American Woolen company, and Orville Reddig, formerly employed by Wood as a chauffeur, but without receiving any information. Today three police officers testified that they had been unable to serve a summons on Hardy requiring his attendance at the trial, and Lawrence police inspector testified similarly regarding his efforts to locate Reddig.

The danger of the "plant" was illustrated in the testimony of Joseph Assaf, a Syrian painter of Lawrence, in whose home some of the explosive was placed. Assaf said that when he opened the package he thought the sticks of dynamite were for a party. He tried to burn a stick and then smelled of the scorched portion. Later on he showed the stick to a person who told him it was dynamite. He intended taking it to the police station and hid it for safe-keeping in his bedroom, where it was later found by the police who arrested him.

GRADUATING EXERCISES AT DISTRICT COLLEGE
Barnesville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) The commencement exercises of the Sixth District Agricultural and Mechanical school came to a close last night.
The commencement sermon was preached by Rev. W. D. Husbands, Dade City, Ala. The literary address was delivered by Rev. John Yarbrough, of Jefferson, in the absence of Hon. John N. Holder, who was prevented from being present by sickness. A number enjoyed the commencement, and the presentation of a "Debt of Honor" by the Dramatic club of the school under the direction of Professor Karl J. Kay.
The graduating exercises were as follows: Salutatory, Miss Helen Maxwell; class history, Miss Adell Hamlin; valedictory, Berner Means. The musical numbers reflected credit on the department and the students. Rev. E. E. Wasson delivered the diplomas to the class.

TONGS OF CHINATOWN SIGN PEACE TREATY
New York, May 23.—The Hip Sines, On Leongs and the Four Brothers—warring Tongs of Chinatown—signed a treaty of peace this afternoon. Representatives of the three tongs met in the chambers of Judge Foster, of the court of general sessions. With a small paint brush they signed their names to the treaty, printed in the Chinese language, and afterwards, with pen and ink, signed a typewritten English translation.
New in the history of Chinatown are the provisions of the agreement. The old "dead line," with the Hip Sines on one side and the On Leongs on the other, is wiped out. The long blue guns of the leaders are to be cast into the river and each tong is to bear toward the other "a spirit of brotherly love." All disputes and disagreements shall be arbitrated by the Chinese Merchants' association or a committee, though if this fails the police captain in charge of the precinct is to be sole arbitrator.
Tonight Chinatown is gladdened with copies of the treaty printed on flaring red paper and signed by the representative of the three tongs.

STRIKE ORDERED AGAINST GOV. FOSS
Boston, May 28.—Workers in two Hyde park manufacturing plants controlled by Governor Eugene N. Foss, voted tonight to strike tomorrow. The vote came after the governor's refusal of demands for a 20 per cent increase in wages and betterment of the working conditions. Governor Foss in refusing the demands recently announced that unless he imported help, it would be necessary to shut down the plants.
Brooks Succeeds Bass.
Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—W. W. Brooks, a well-known capitalist and philanthropist, was elected president of the board of trustees of Shorter college to succeed Captain J. L. Bass. T. W. Lipscomb, was elected vice president and J. P. Cooper, secretary and treasurer. Dr. W. H. Harbin, of Rome, was chosen moderator of the board. Other new trustees attending were Frank Hitchcock, of Moultrie; W. E. Johnson, of Washington; F. S. Eberhardt, of Madison; and L. G. Hardman, of Commerce.

FOREIGN PROTEST TO CHANGE TARIFF
Provision in Bill Granting Discount on Imports in American Vessels Probably Will Be Eliminated.
Washington, May 28.—Congress in all probability will yield to the protests of foreign nations against the provisions in the Underwood tariff bill granting a 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American-owned or controlled vessels.
That the provision can be eliminated in the bill without harm, and that congress has no desire to insist upon foreign nations or industries with treaty obligations was admitted today by administration leaders who are in charge of the bill. President Wilson is said to have intimated that he would not object to having the clause eliminated from the bill.
This action, it was reported, would be recommended by the senate finance sub-committee, headed by Senator John Sharp Williams, which is considering the administrative features of the bill. The committee is expected to seek to modify another clause which compels foreign merchants to submit their books to an American agent in case of disputed valuations, and provides as a penalty for refusal that the goods be excluded from entry.
Germany, France and England have made strong protests against this clause and assurances were given today that an effort will be made to eliminate the objectionable features.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT NATIONAL CEMETERY
All arrangements have been made for the celebration of memorial day at the national cemetery in Marietta tomorrow by O. M. Mitchell, Post No. 1, of the Grand Army of the Republic. The address of the occasion will be made by the Rev. W. H. Hopkins, superintendent of home missions of the Congregational home mission board. George B. Leavitt, commander of the post, will speak on the "Duty of the Day." A tribute will be paid to the dead by F. A. Jones, of Post No. 4, Tallapoosa. Music for the occasion will be supplied by the band of the Seventeenth infantry regiment, of the United States.
It is expected that a number of survivors of the Union army and their friends will go from Atlanta. Two special cars have been chartered for the accommodation of ladies who wish to attend, which will leave Atlanta at 9 a. m. and 9:30 a. m., returning at 1:30 and 3:30 p. m.

Wool and Sugar Fixed.
Several democratic leaders who were emphatic in declaring that whatever was done by the committee there would be no changes in raw wool or sugar. At first the committee seemed concerned this seems to be determined. The fight to change them will be made in the caucus, but the present prospect is that the administration forces will not yield flag. A report that the rates on woolen manufactures would be increased was denied by Senator Simmons.
In response to a request from Senator Williams Lincoln K. Passmore, of West Virginia, Mutual Life insurance today, presented statistics to establish the contention that his company is entirely mutual and that all its funds are exclusively devoted to the interest of the membership. He itemized statements of the transactions of the year 1912, showing the disposition of all funds that were presented. Mr. Passmore declared the proposed act discriminated against mutual life insurance companies.

ELLIS WILL APPEAR BEFORE CITY DOCTORS

UNION CHAPLAIN SEEKS TO RETURN TESTAMENT
"Wade Goleisy, from hi mother," Wade Goleisy's mother wrote that inscription on the fly-leaf of a pocket Testament more than fifty years ago. When the boy marched away to the war, no one seems to know now who Wade Goleisy was, who was his mother nor where their home was, except the boy was a young Confederate soldier, whose home was somewhere in the southern states.
But young Goleisy was killed in the war, and as he died he handed the little Testament to a chaplain in the northern army and asked him to return it to his mother. The chaplain never succeeded in finding the boy's mother, and the chaplain's son, Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, of Marion, Ohio, has the little book now, and is trying to locate some relative of Wade Goleisy or a friend of his family who would like to have it.

ERUPTION SPREAD ON BABY'S FACE
Chest and Lower Limbs, Broke Out in Pimples, Would Scratch and Cry. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.
Turkey, Texas.—"At six months old our little girl baby's face, chest, and lower limbs began to break out like heat. It broke out in pimples, and she would look as red as if she had fever. It continued to spread until she was almost a solid mass of pimples. She would scratch and cry and we could not get any rest for three months. The pimples began to run a yellowish water and would scab over. We had her treated and used every remedy we could hear of; nothing did her any good. Finally a lady told us her baby had the same trouble and was cured from Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so at once I ordered a 25c. cake of Cuticura Soap, and one box of Cuticura Ointment. She began her good work at once, and she was completely cured.
"Our other child, when she was three days old, was taken in the same way. She had the oozes all over in small red pimples. She was as raw as a piece of beefsteak. She was very fretful and had sores all over her. It would itch and she would scratch and cry nearly all the time. The Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her." (Signed) E. H. Turner, Mar. 11, 1912.
Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

CINCINNATI HIT ADDED TO SCORES

Southern League Scorers Notified of Change by President Kavanaugh—Effective at Once.

The famous "Cincinnati Hit," which crept into the big leagues this spring...

The Cincinnati hit, in brief, is as follows: With a runner on first base, the batter hits to short or third or any infield position...

The same play can happen with a runner on second or third, the rule being that only infield grounders on which a play is made to the advanced base without success...

President Kavanaugh, however, takes the opposite side of the question on the earned run proposition. He does not believe that a pitcher's record should be based on the earned runs scored...

The "Cincinnati Hit" is now in effect however on local grounds.

ONE AMERICAN IN GOLF TITLE

Schmidt, a Youngster, Meets Harold Hilton, a Veteran, in British Championship. Weber Eliminated.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 28.—W. Heinrich Schmidt, the Worcester player, is the sole survivor among the American entrants in the contest for the amateur golf championship of the world. He won in both the fourth and fifth rounds today and will meet in the sixth round tomorrow H. H. Hilton, of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, who has held the world's championship title three times and has been British amateur champion and amateur champion of the United States.

Playing with machine-like accuracy and showing no signs of fatigue despite the gruelling fight with A. V. Embury, of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, who has defeated by one up earlier in the day, Schmidt in the fifth round fairly smothered Willie Gries, the New Club, St. Andrews, who yesterday downed Hunt, the famous Irish player, and a not favorite for the championship.

The American won 6 up and 6 to play. Harold Weber, of Toledo, Ohio, was eliminated by Worthington, of the Murray Golf club, who won by one up.

Weber's defeat leaves Schmidt to represent America among the eight who remain to compete for the championship. But the odds are stacked against Gries, who is such striking contrast to that displayed by Hilton, who only just scraped through in his match with Gries, that the Massachusetts youngster has been made an open favorite by the audience. The renowned English player for the tomorrow's match and only six to one is laid against Schmidt as the ultimate winner.

Schmidt worked his way through colts and is paying the expenses of the trip by special work. His victory would be most popular among the Scotch artisan golfers, who say they are tired of seeing the American championship won by rich men who devote their whole time to golf.

M'GOODWIN HEADS SEWANEE TIGERS

Sewanee Tenn., May 13.—(Special.) Robert Lee McGoodwin, of Lake Providence, La., has been made captain of the Sewanee baseball team for the season of 1914.

EMPIRE STATE LEAGUE

Waveross 5, Thomasville 2. Thomasville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Waveross made it two of the series by winning this afternoon. Score 5 to 2. Wahoo's batting and base-running and Fenton's fielding were two features.

Many safe cracks to center and right field landed in Fenton's glove and Wahoo rapped out a homer, with one on in the third inning. Thomasville's fielding was errorless, but awful slow at times, allowing scores where they should not have. The umpiring of Bennett was the special feature of the game from the manager's viewpoint and that of the grand stand and bleachers. Both pitchers twirled good, steady ball throughout. Thomasville played its first errorless game.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Waveross . . . 203 100 000—5 7 4
Thomasville . . . 000 001 010—3 6 0
Batteries—Warwick and Wahoo; Elrod and Dudley.

Valdosta Wins Two. Valdosta, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Valdosta downed Americus easily in a double-header this afternoon, 9 to 2, and 8 to 1. The games were quite different from the thirteen-inning scoreless time game of yesterday. Valdosta's fierce hitting and in Americus' two doubles and singles, garage, being garnered off the Americus pitchers. Elrod went the whole route for Valdosta. Wolfe pitched the first and a part of the second, Dacey finishing it up. The home team made a clean sweep of the series.

Score—First game: R. H. E. Americus . . . 100 002 000—3 4 5
Valdosta . . . 310 013 20x—9 12 4
Batteries—Wolf and Manchester; Elrod and Pitter.

Score—Second game: R. H. E. Americus . . . 010 000 00—1 6 5
Valdosta . . . 322 200 0x—8 14 0
Batteries—Wolf, Dacey and Manchester; Elrod and Pierre.

Cordele 15, Brunswick 7. Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Cordele won over Brunswick by the score of 15 to 7 in a game this afternoon that was poorly played most of the way through. The fact that Vickery showed up extremely wild in the first inning, walking several men and allowing five scores, and the heavy slugging of the Cordele team, won for Cordele. Vickery was taken out of the box in the midst of the first inning and was relieved by Slocum, who lasted until the third, and was supplanted by Norris. Day featured for Cordele making a one run. Smith made five of the errors marked up against Cordele.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Brunswick . . . 230 005 000—7 7 2
Cordele . . . 030 12x—15 11 0
Batteries—Vickery, Slocum, Norris and Siefert; Fillmore and Eubanks. Time, 2:10. Umpire, McLaughlin.

GEN. LUNSFORD LOMAX DIES IN WASHINGTON. Washington, May 28.—General Lunsford Lomax, one of the oldest surviving major generals of confederate cavalry, died here today, 79 years old. He was an intimate friend of General Robert E. Lee, and served with distinction in many noted engagements. He will be buried at Warrenton, Va., Thursday.

REGISTRY STAMPS ARE DISCONTINUED. Washington, May 28.—Postmaster General Burleson today issued an order discontinuing the use of the special 10-cent registry stamp and providing that additional registry stamps shall be printed after the present supply shall have been exhausted. Hereafter ordinary postage stamps may be used for the preparation of registry fees.

WEAVER LEAVES WITH PELICANS

Manager Smith Loans Right-Hander to Frank for the Rest of the Season—Still Property of Crackers.

As predicted in The Constitution Wednesday morning and despite stories to the contrary, Manager Smith turned Pitcher Buck Weaver over to the Pelicans, and he left Wednesday night with the Birds when they pulled out for Nashville.

Weaver was loaned to the Birds for the rest of the season. He is still the property of the Crackers and can be recalled at the end of the year.

FIFTEEN CARS HAVE QUALIFIED

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Six additional cars, making a total of fifteen to date, had qualified in time trial for the 500-mile automobile race to be held on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Friday. It was expected the trials of the remaining fourteen entries, which include most of the foreign cars, would be completed this afternoon.

Harry Endicot, injured yesterday by a flying tire valve, struck him on the arm, was out today apparently none the worse for his accident.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

Under this head, the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Q. Dick Semblon, sporting editor The Constitution: What is the latest record for an automobile or a motorcycle? Which made the best time and what is the difference?

A. The latest record for an automobile is held by a flying tire valve which made a mile in 26 and 40.100 seconds at Los Angeles, in 1911. This is the fastest automobile race ever run. The record for a motorcycle is held by a flying tire valve which made a mile in 26 and 40.100 seconds at Los Angeles in 1912. This is the fastest motorcycle time.

Easton, Pa., May 28.—Lehigh university defeated Lafayette in a dual track and field meet here today by the score of 60 to 52.

WILL MAKE OF JUNE 3 ROUND OF FESTIVITY

With Music and Oratory Decatur Citizens Will Celebrate Home-Coming Day. Enthusiastic over the outlook for a big Decatur homecoming day on June 3, the reception committee of the board of trade, of which Mayor John A. Montgomery is chairman, added several new features to the program of festivities yesterday.

From sunrise until midnight on June 3 one round of entertainment has been planned, and some of the most eloquent men in Georgia will be on hand. Decatur county's opportunities for truck farming, dairying and poultry raising will be discussed by Dr. Soule, of the State Agricultural college, and E. F. Smith will advocate ways and means of bringing the Fifth District Agricultural school to Decatur county. C. Murphy Candler will speak on the life work of Jefferson Davis.

The big feature of the day will be the laying of the cornerstone for Decatur's new $25,000 school, under the auspices of the Masons, and appropriate addresses will be made by George H. Naylor, Honorable Alexander J. Howell Green and Mayor Montgomery.

The Atlanta Boy Scouts, with their drum corps, will be on hand for a boy scouts' rally during the afternoon, when a shield which they won at a recent athletic contest will be presented to the Decatur Boy Scouts. A big board of "trade smoker" will wind up the day's celebration, and at 8:30 a grand supper will be prepared for all who took part in the Decatur home-coming.

BURTON GIBSON'S FATE STILL IN JURY'S HANDS. Newburgh, N. Y., May 28.—At a late hour tonight the jury has in its hands the fate of Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client, had reached no agreement after having deliberated since 4:13 o'clock this afternoon. A mistrial was feared, as happened on the first trial of Gibson last fall. Crowds in the courtroom and other parts of the court house awaited the result, local interest in the case being intense.

ATTEMPTED ASSAULT CHARGED TO NEGRO, WHO ENTERED HOUSE

Dublin, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Ralph McGruder, a negro, was lodged in jail here this afternoon charged with entering a white man's house last night, near Orianna, a small village in this county, near the Wheeler county line, and attempting assault upon a young white girl. It is said that about 10 o'clock last night McGruder entered the house and caught hold of the arm of the girl, and when she screamed, attempted to choke her. Another girl in the bed with her called help, and the girl's father ran to their assistance. McGruder jumped out the window and got away before the father could reach him.

This morning McGruder, who has a crippled foot and is easily tracked, was taken to Orianna, where he was at work. They immediately took charge of him and were preparing to string him up when cooler heads intervened and the men were finally prevailed upon to turn the negro over to Sheriff Flanders.

The sheriff arrived here this afternoon with him and locked him in jail. McGruder says that he was drunk and got into the wrong house, and made a mistake in the houses, and got into the wrong place. The matter was kept comparatively quiet and, it is said, that only a very few men knew of the affair, but that a lynching would have taken place, had it not been for the efforts of influential citizens and planters in Orianna that a lynching would have taken place, anyhow. The community is quiet and excitement has died down.

Many Divorces Granted.

Americus, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The divorce mill has ground steadily in the local courts for two days with the result that a dozen matrimonial suits have been severed, three or four of these being white couples. The divorce proceedings have been the principal business before the court as the civil docket was cleared in two days, the lightest business in many years.

"GEORGIA" ELECTIONS HOLD NO INTEREST

Athens, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—University students showed practically no interest today in the annual elections for officers of the Athletic association and out of a membership of 200, only 20 voters were present.

A. J. Johnson was chosen as president of the association and J. Adams, vice president. Roy Davis was selected as manager of the track team, and Hoyt Welch and Russell Patterson were selected as the two men from whom the athletic board will choose a baseball manager. Frank Holden was selected as editor-in-chief of the Red and Black, and R. H. Burford won the place as associate editor.

At a meeting today of the Junior class, E. C. Westbrook was elected as president of the senior class of 1914.

MONOPOLY IN STEEL WAS NEVER DISCUSSED

During Negotiations Which Led to Organization of U. S. Steel Corporation, Says Judge Gary.

New York, May 28.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation and the man who conducted many of the negotiations which led to its organization, declared on the witness stand today that neither he, nor the late J. F. Morgan, nor anybody else had ever during these negotiations discussed the question of obtaining a monopoly in the steel industry or of suppressing competition. Judge Gary was testifying as a witness for the defense in the suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The witness spent the entire day in a detailed recital of circumstances which led to the formation of the corporation and endeavored to show that the sole purpose that actuated its organizers was to obtain "a rounded-out, self-contained proposition, complete in every phase of manufacture from the raw material to the production of the finished product in the mills with the ability to reduce costs to the most economical basis and to develop an export trade. Our effort," he said, "was to extend trade and competition, and we have done that."

With equal emphasis Judge Gary denied that the steel corporation had been overcapitalized as alleged by the government. "The properties acquired were all worth the price that was paid for them," he declared. He denied that the Federal Steel company, the nucleus around which the corporation was formed, was a monopoly in its class, and that the government.

Organization of the corporation was precipitated, Judge Gary said, by the desire of the Federal Steel Company, a J. P. Morgan flotation, to perfect a "rounded out" organization. This opportunity came when Andrew Carnegie offered to sell the Carnegie Steel Company. The Federal, previously had refused several proffers of the Carnegie Steel Company and had attempted to raise $40,000,000 to build a new plant. This attempt was abandoned, he said, when Charles M. Schwab, outlined to Mr. Morgan advantages of acquiring a then existing property. Mr. Morgan was "impressed" and called in the directors of the Federal Steel Company.

Judge Gary described the meeting of the directors at Mr. Morgan's office and laid emphasis on the financiers' desire to know whether it "was a good business proposition" and that nothing concerning the suppression of competition was said. At this meeting acquisition of other properties was decided upon and Judge Gary described how each fitted into the plan of a "self contained organization."

"Was the alleged threat of Andrew Carnegie to go into the steel tube business discussed or alluded to by Mr. Morgan or anyone else, he was asked. "No," said the witness. Judge Gary said that he would not deny that competition existed "to some extent," between the Carnegie company and the Illinois Steel company, a subsidiary of the Federal Steel company.

BIG OFFER MADE FOR COVELESKIE

St. Louis Browns Would Give $4,500 for the Lookouts' Star—Elberfeld Turns It Down.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—(Special.)—Robert Lee Hodges, president of the St. Louis Browns, yesterday made the local club a cash offer of $4,500 for Harry Coveleskie for immediate delivery. Manager Elberfeld turned down the proposition for two reasons, one that he did not want to weaken his team's chances for the pennant which now look so bright, and second because Coveleskie did not want to go until the end of the season.

IS AGAIN ELECTED TO HEAD VETERANS

The re-election of General Young and his departmental officers was the occasion for the greatest ovation which has occurred at the present reunion. Rousing rebel cheers rent the air when the name of General Young was mentioned. After he had been elected by acclamation, General Young said:

"This is worth more to me than all the gold in the treasury of the United States. I would rather have your recommendation than that of all the other men and women in the world. God bless each one of you. I thank you for this high honor which you have seen fit to bestow upon me a second time."

Three cheers for "old Kentucky" were given, as General Young received the congratulations of many friends.

Each of the departmental officers was given a hearty ovation and all were deeply moved.

Many thousands witnessed the parade this afternoon of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Attired in uniforms similar to those made famous throughout the southland by their fathers, these young men presented a striking spectacle. The Richmond Foltzners, the Pelham Guards, from Macon, Ga., and two companies of Tennessee militia participated in the parade in addition to sponsors from many divisions of the organization.

Tonight the aged veterans were given an elaborate ball at Bennett Young pavilion. Regardless of fact that they are to stand the trying ordeal tomorrow of a street parade, many of the veterans danced late into the night. On the spacious pavilion, at various times during the night, dances of fifty years ago and of the present day were executed. The state by Virginia reel was followed by the loss of one eye total disability, were defeated. A new policy of $2,000, available after August 1, was agreed to and the two lower grades of policies now in effect are raised $50 and $100 respectively. The increases will be added August 1. President W. G. Lee announced tonight that the convention would not vote as an organization upon the question of a strike of the eastern roads, but that a referendum vote would be taken by the lodges of the eastern division beginning June 15.

Teacher Who Became Mother Takes Case Before Courts

New York, May 28.—The board of education's ruling that teachers may not marry and become mothers is to be tested in the courts, according to announcement today by counsel for Mrs. Margaret M. F. Peixoto, charged with "neglect of duty" in marrying without the board's knowledge and reporting ill when her baby was born. When Mrs. Peixoto was married in February, 1913, she failed to tell the board about it, fearing that her ruling she would lose her position as principal of public school No. 14. The fact of her marriage was not learned by the board until a few days ago, after she had been on sick leave for six weeks and had been absent for four weeks. She was at once charged with neglect of duty, and is to be given a trial by the board shortly.

Goodrich Tires are best in the long run

Not because the makers of practically half 1913's output of new cars have bought Goodrich Tires to equip them—

Not because so many well known car makers have always equipped their output with Goodrich Tires—

Not because thousands and thousands of more-than-satisfied tire users recommend them enthusiastically—

But— Because the Goodrich principle of unit molding, which was crystallized from our twenty-seven years of experience in rubber manufacturing before we made the first American clincher tire and which we have never changed, demonstrated its soundness from the start—

And because our long experience in selecting the best crude rubber and compounding it gave us the ability to give it toughness and durability and at the same time keep the buoyant life in it—

And because we make Goodrich Tires of the finest fabric that can be woven of Sea Island Cotton—fabric that costs as much as silk—and of pure rubber—

And because Goodrich unit molding makes the whole tire one integral piece—a unit—which wears uniformly and gives long, comfortable service.

The thick, tough tread, being of the tire and not merely on it, naturally cannot strip or peel.

Our single vulcanization makes all the tire at once—a unit—and frees you of the danger from weak spots or dead places caused by over vulcanization cooking the life out of the rubber.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire you need—but there is only one kind and quality.

Write for free set of folders telling you how to get the most service from your tires and how to avoid the common tire injuries.

And, if you plan a tour, let us send the Goodrich Route Book covering it.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON WAS NERVOUS MOST OF THE SESSION

Market Closed Steady at Net Decline of Four to Ten Points.

New York, May 28.—The cotton market was not more than moderately active today, as trading was chiefly local, but the tone was nervous and unsettled, with the close steady at a net loss of from 4 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 10 points in relation to the previous day. May notices were circulating to the extent of about 15,000 bales, according to a local estimate, and that position quickly broke to a net loss of 11 points, under a falling impulsion, owing to the fact that Friday and Saturday are holidays, trading in May ends at noon tomorrow and the activity of that position probably reflected a final adjournment of outstanding interest.

It was rumored that part of the notices received were against cotton that had been taken up by houses with Liverpool connections early in the month, and the fact that after shipping out about 15,000 bales, some of the cotton was being held in London, owing to the fact that the influence on July 15. At any rate, that position eased off with May, and while later deliveries held relatively steady within a point or two of last night's closing figures during the forenoon, the entire list turned easier in the late trading.

A private crop report making the condition of the crop 25.3 per cent and estimating an increase of 4.7 per cent in acreage, no doubt contributed to the late selling movement, while bearishly disposed traders were also influenced by reports of possible friction between Italy and Serbia. Closing prices were at practically the lowest point of the day on new crop months.

Private cables from Liverpool reported a quiet, steady market at that point, while advices from the continent indicated a rather active market, from spinners recently both for spot and new crop deliveries. Little fault was found with prevailing weather conditions in the south, beyond some talk of low night temperatures, but private reports of unsettled conditions in the north and the west were not considered altogether favorable, and probably helped late months during the early trading.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 28.—Cotton made a moderate decline today on the strength of an announcement in connection with the pending agreement regarding the conditions of the new contract. May private market estimates up to 85 per cent of the normal estimate, with selling and interest that effect a spot market, while the "only" balance feature was cold weather in the central portion of the belt. The market was quiet, the season through and at their best, bears were more active sellers, while on the other hand, bulls save the market steady at a decline of 4 to 6 points, on poor cables and the good weather in the Gulf. The temperature in the lowest. The low temperature in the Gulf of the Gulf and the fact that the average minimum temperature for the last night was 57 degrees, coupled with the fact that private reports from Texas, caused a somewhat short selling, but the market recovered to practically the close of yesterday.

The forecast of dry weather for the entire belt and a report putting the condition of the crop at 85 per cent, and the increase in acreage at 4.7 per cent, started selling again and the market until in the afternoon, the trading months were 7 points under the last quotations of yesterday. The close was steady at a net decline of 5 to 7 points.
