MILLIONAIRE KING OF CARNIVAL PAYS $1,500 FOR TRAIN

Jesse H. Jones Hires Special on A. & W. P. Road in Order to Reach Houston in Time Today. KING COTTON TO CROWN QUEEN OF "NOT SU OH" Mr. Jones Had Been in New York for Three Months and on Way Home Missed Connection in Atlanta.

The largest crowd that ever attended an automobile show in Atlanta on any one night was present at the evening concert of John Philip Sousa's band Tuesday evening at the Atlanta million-dollar automobile show. From 3,000 to 4,000 people.

Sousa, with his great band and fine artists, made such a tremendous hit that it is certain that the Auditorium will be packed almost to its capacity at every concert from now until Saturday evening, when the show closes.

Both Sousa and his soloists were escorted to New York City, where the evening crowd seemed never to get enough of Mr. Sousa and all his company were very gracious in responding to many encores, too, were undoubtedly rendered not without being against considerable odds.

Sousa jumped to Atlanta. Sousa finished an engagement at Scranton, Pa., Saturday night and went directly to New York City, where he played at the Hippodrome to 3,500 people Sunday night. At midnight Sunday he left New York for Atlanta, expecting to arrive at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, but was delayed seven hours by a wreck just above Redville, N. C. He arrived in Atlanta by an hour and a half before time for his first concert.

The car containing his instruments was in the margin, but with thirty minutes' margin he was able to get to the Auditorium-Armory just in time not to be late. Mr. Clarke, his manager, said that this is one of the closest calls the company has ever had to keep from breaking its record of never having been late for an engagement.

Playing under the great fatigue resulting from the wreck, Sousa made a phenomenal hit. Tuesday evening Atlanta was given the opportunity of hearing all three of Sousa's soloists, Miss Virginia Root, L. Clarke and the Shores of the Mighty Pacific, one of his own compositions, Miss Virginia Root, Sousa's coloratura soprano, who had scored a great success at the afternoon show, when she won the prize of her hearers when she sang "Will You Love When the Lilies Are Dead." As an encore she sang "Mary of Arkyie."

A large number of people availed themselves of the opportunity to see the show, and the remainder of the show floor in this they showed wisdom, for from the rear balcony of the Auditorium is probably the best place to see the show. The bandmaster's baton instantly translated and appreciated, whereas much of the effect is lost on the ground floor.

WITH DEAD BODIES AND TORN VESSELS SHORES ARE LINED

At Least Sixty Lives Claimed By the Three Days' Gale and Snow Storm That Swept Great Lakes.

TOTAL PROPERTY LOSS RUNS INTO MILLIONS

On Land, Cleveland Was the Hardest Hit—Five Persons Killed in Ohio City—Loss $2,000,000.

Chicago, November 11.—The shores of Lake Superior, Huron and Erie were strewn tonight with wreckage of a three days' gale and storm, which cost the lives of probably three score persons, turned bottom-up in midlake a 300-foot vessel with its crew, wrecked or grounded numerous other craft and caused a property loss as yet unestimated, but which will run into the millions.

Details of the storm, which literally swept from the western end of Lake Superior to the eastern shore of Lake Erie became known only today when survivors began arriving in various ports with tales of hardships and heroic rescues seldom equaled on the lakes.

On land the storm hit hardest at Cleveland, Ohio, where 24 inches of snow fell, five persons were killed and ten others lost, and where $2,000,000 damage was caused to property, chiefly telephone and telegraph systems, thus keeping that city out of direct communication for two days.

Death Toll of Storm. The death toll of the storm on the Great Lakes was many ports unreported, is as follows: Twenty-five, perhaps forty, men drowned in the overturning of a freighter found floating in Lake Huron.

Five bodies washed ashore at St. Joseph, on the Canadian side of Lake Huron, (four had belts marked "Wexford" and one wore a belt marked "London").

Two bodies washed ashore opposite the position of the overturned boat. Six members of a lightship drowned in Lake Erie near Buffalo, N. Y.

The escapes from death were numerous. After the storm, about Friday midnight, had blown away the forward part of the ship, Captain J. W. Duddleson, of the steamer L. C. Wald, navigated his vessel by a small inaccurate compass and with the aid of a lantern held by a sailor. In this way he guided himself and crew to this port.

FAMILY TROUBLE CAUSE OF FIGHT

"Told My Wife False Stories," Say Andy King, Who Had Fight at Five Points With Greenway.

Warrants charging "Andy" R. King, a broker and member of the police board, and his brother, R. Woods King, with assault and battery, were sworn out in Justice Ridley's court yesterday afternoon.

Emmett W. Greenway, brother-in-law of "Andy" King, and himself a broker, swore to the charges which resulted from a fist fight at Five Points shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Attorney Walter A. Sims, a neighbor of Police Commissioner King, went with Greenway before the peace justice to secure the warrants, and will appear before Recorder Nash Broyles to defend Greenway Wednesday morning.

Women See Fight. Political Atlanta was stirred by the combat at Five Points, and several thousand men, women and children witnessed the scrap. When reporters spoke to the belligerents they told different stories.

"It's all a frame-up," Police Commissioner King charged, and his brother, Woods, who also got mixed up in the affair, nodded assent. Commissioner King continued: "It is all a part of a conspiracy to beat me in my race for commissioner. Greenway has been nagging at me for months, but I couldn't stand it any longer when he went to my wife and told her false stories of our family affairs."

Commissioner King also charged that George Rosenbusch, also a broker, and C. S. King, of King & Co., brokers, were in the conspiracy with Greenway. C. S. King is not related to Commissioner King. Greenway asserted that the trouble had nothing to do with politics, and said that Commissioner King and Woods King "double-teamed" him. He denied that Rosenbusch or C. S. King had anything to do with the fight, that they were attracted by the acrobatics and ran over to learn what the trouble was about.

Home Affairs Start Trouble. "The trouble started over home affairs," Greenway said. "Andy King and I married sisters. Our mother-in-law is living with us, and it seems that whenever Andy and his wife have a quarrel mother-in-law is brought into it. Recently Andy told me himself that I was one man in a thousand who would put up with our mother-in-law and told my wife, and she told Andy's wife. Andy called me up this morning and told me that I had lied, and I told him that I would be down town on the 8 95 Inman Park car and would meet him at Five Points and have it out. I was delayed at home, and it was not until 8:25 that I caught a car, reaching downtown at about 8:50."

Immediately went to King & Co.'s office and phoned Andy King, explaining that I was delayed, and I told him where I was telephoning from. He asked me where I would meet him, and I told him, "When I get over to the Fourth National Bank building I saw Andy. We had words and started fighting."

"I want it to be known that I held my own. I sloughed Andy a couple of times, and he disappeared. Then I tackled Woods-King as he rushed at me, and I had him going up about Jacobs' store when the cops grabbed us."

"The whole trouble with Andy is that his wife takes sides with me. She knows that I am right, and it gets his goat."

No Effect of "Sloughing." Commissioner King did not show any of the effects of a "sloughing," nor did Greenway appear any the worse from the combat. Both appeared to dread the "good morning" judge's stunts. King said that he was given a "I can prove that I was sitting at my desk in my office when Greenway called me and invited me to have it out," said Commissioner King.

"There was nothing else for me to do but meet him or declare myself a coward. I had forgotten all about the family quarrel, but Greenway saw the chance to get me mixed up in a street brawl, and he grasped it. The manner in which Greenway invited the fight showed that there was a "frame-up." "He stood right where Rosenbusch and C. S. King could see him from their office," he swore. "Greenway evidently gave them the signal when he saw Andy because they rushed over after the first blow was struck."

Rosenbusch says that he saw the fight, but did not know who was involved, and that when he reached the

FOR WINKING AT GIRL HE IS GIVEN 20 DAYS

War on the Mashers Is Begun by the Police Force of New York.

New York, November 11.—On evidence that he had winked at a salesgirl in the waiting room of a Sixth avenue department store, Daniel Sager was sentenced to 20 days in the workhouse by Magistrate House today. Two of ten other young men arrested by detectives at the same time on the charge of flirting were sentenced to 30 days in jail, and the eight prisoners will be tried tomorrow after spending the night in jail in default of $1,000 bonds.

Plans Announced for Great Dinner. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce membership of the Chamber of Commerce Will Attend Big Georgia Feast at Auditorium.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce membership day dinner en masse, Secretary Walter G. Cooper has sent out an enthusiastic letter urging the whole membership to attend and giving new and interesting information about the dinner plans, and he is already receiving scores of responses. Practically every member of the chamber who will be in Atlanta at the time is going to attend the dinner.

Donations for the dinner, for the coupons on the general tickets and for souvenirs are reported to be coming in rapidly. All further donations of this character should be given to Mill Saul, chairman of the committee, without delay. His telephone number is Main 1945.

The general sale of tickets to the public will be put on today or tomorrow and due notice will be given through the press. Over a thousand tickets will be printed and as long as they last every Atlantian will be given equal opportunity to purchase. The tickets will be printed and as long as they last every Atlantian will be given equal opportunity to purchase.

The following letter by Mr. Cooper tells interesting facts in connection with the proposed banquet.

"Dear Sir, Tuesday, November 11, having been designated as Georgia Day by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, headed by Mr. W. H. White, Jr., and composed of twenty leading citizens, has made arrangements for a Georgia products dinner to be given at that date at 6:30 o'clock in the arena of the Auditorium for 1,000 persons.

"Every ticket will consist of a long series of coupons, each of which calls for some article of apparel presented to the holder by a Georgia manufacturer. The City Salesmen's association and other bodies of apparel excepted. It is believed that the capacity of the arena, estimated at 1,000 places, will be largely filled."

The committee has undertaken to seat members of the chamber of commerce to the dinner, and it is believed that the capacity of the arena, estimated at 1,000 places, will be largely filled."

The dress contest. Those who heard Mr. White's announcement at the chamber of commerce meeting Tuesday, on looking into the matter found that nearly every article of dress, from the most expensive to the most ordinary, is made in Georgia. The contest is to be held at the Auditorium, and the actual cloth is made for a Georgia manufacturer.

WOMAN CAPTURES NEGRO INTRUDER

Gets Husband's Revolver and Holds Him Prisoner Until Neighbor Comes to Her Assistance.

When Mrs. J. E. Price, a pretty young matron, living at 454 Courtland street, discovered a negro beneath her bed Tuesday afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock, she did not scream, faint or call for help. On the contrary, she delivered a severe jolt to the popular theory that all women stand in mortal dread of stealthy intruders, by going quietly to another room to secure her husband's revolver, and then calmly came back to the room in which he was hidden; commanded him to come forth and then held him prisoner at the point of the pistol until help arrived.

It appears from the story told by Mrs. Price to Call Officers Milam and Palmer when they arrived to place the negro under arrest, that she was alone in the house, in a rear room. Hearing a stealthy step in the front of the house, she went forward to investigate.

As she passed through the hall she distinctly heard a man slip from the second room into the front room of the house. Mrs. Price slipped noiselessly into the second room, the one just vacated by the negro, and secured the revolver. She then stepped boldly into the front room and started search and discovered the negro under the bed.

"Come out and don't try to run, either for if you do I'll fire," said Mrs. Price in a business-like tone. Evidently realizing the danger of the situation, the negro came meekly out from under cover.

Keeping the man covered, Mrs. Price backed to the front door where she stood for some minutes until she saw B. B. Gunn, 123 East Twelfth street, passing, and called to him to help her. Gunn came in the house and held the negro in the front room. Mrs. Price then called to the station house. When taken to the station house he gave his name as Joshua Freeman, 260 Piedmont avenue. He stated to the police that he was pursuing a woman and that he was in the house when he saw Mrs. Price. He stated that he had run into Mrs. Price's home to hide.

"I was determined that he should not escape," said Mrs. Price "but, to be frank, I was—well, scared to death."

HARRIS BARS "BOOZE" AND THE VICTIMS SING

Water Wagon Order of Census Director Causes Employees to Make Songs About Him.

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington, November 11.—(Special.) Spirits are low in the census bureau among a certain class of employees since Director William J. Harris took charge. Clerks who formerly came to work in an intoxicated condition are no longer made welcome. Women employees working in the same room objected, and the new director's being intoxicated meant a discharge. Some few ignored the order and were dismissed.

In a lull interval one of the tipsters indited this. "If a body takes a toddy, Applejack or rye. If a body takes a toddy, 'Need Bill Harris cry?'"

"Everybody takes a toddy. 'None,' Bill says, 'shall I. But all the barkeeps smile on me When passing out the rye.'"

Another one of the rhymersters took another tack in this fashion. "A worker in the census. Lay perishing of thirst When a comrade dashed beside him Saying 'Listen to the worst.'"

"The Georgia drought has struck this place. And chased the whiskey all cheer. No more and the wacky folk for our'n Nor yet the fumes of beer. "The dying man in horror rose. 'Oh, what's the use?' he said, 'The good old days are past and gone, And then his spirit fled.'"

The favorite hymn at the bureau now is "Shall We Gather at the River?" Kingsley Succeeds Ogden. New York, November 11.—William M. Kingsley, banker, was elected president of the board of directors of Kingsley Ogden & Co. at a meeting of the directors and faculty today. He succeeds Robert C. Ogden, who died last August.

UNDER WORLD BAN, DICTATOR HUERTA MUST SOON YIELD

That Is the View Taken of the Situation in Disturbed Mexico by the Officials at Washington.

MEXICO IS DISCUSSED AT CABINET MEETING

If Europe Follows Lead of United States, It Is Believed Huerta Will Soon Be Eliminated.

Washington, November 11.—President Wilson's cabinet stands firm behind him in his efforts to force the retirement of Provisional President Huerta as a necessary step to the pacification of Mexico.

More than two hours today the cabinet discussed every phase of the Mexican situation, and the consensus of opinion was that the United States government should not take a single backward step in its announced program looking to the restoration of constitutional government in the southern republic.

Though cabinet members were reticent afterwards about expressing their views, it became known that all favored steps which would convince Huerta that the United States was earnest in its demand that he eliminate himself from the situation. On the question of raising the embargo on arms, the cabinet members expressed various opinions. Some of them recognized in this method a practical and perhaps early solution of the difficulty, but there was no final decision on the point.

To Force Collapse of Huerta. There is a hope on the part of both the president and Secretary Bryan that a measure so radical as permitting export of arms to Mexico will be required to solve the problem. Influences are at work which, in the opinion of many officials, may force the early collapse of the Huerta regime. There is a closer and more frequent communication between the state department here and foreign governments generally than has been in evidence at any time since the Mexican problem became so widely international.

ANNUAL JUBILATE DRAWS BIG CROWD

Delegates and Visitors to Baptist Women's Missionary Union Convention Pour Into Atlanta.

Every seat was filled and the aisles of the Baptist Tabernacle were crowded Tuesday when the twenty-fifth annual jubilate of the Women's Missionary Union south convened. From every hamlet, city and village in Georgia delegates were in attendance. Each in its own way brought with it the day's worth of interest and visitors. Arrangements had been made for the delegates to be housed in the homes of the friends of the union. However, on account of the unexpected overflow the hotels had to take for a good many of the out of town people.

When Miss Emma Amos, secretary, called the convention to order at 10 o'clock many of the delegates had not yet arrived. Mrs. W. J. Neal, of Carlevisville, president of the executive board of the Georgia union, presided. Miss Marie Buhlman, of Baltimore, whose mission work is with the emigrants coming to the south, presided over the prayer service. Then followed several addresses.

Mrs. Orme Speaks.
The feature of the morning session was the address by Mrs. A. I. Orme of Atlanta. She is a member of the Women's Missionary Union in Georgia. Following Mrs. Orme's address about thirty of the first members of the union were invited to come upon the stage. They were then decorated with white roses and were given an ovation by the entire assembly.

Mrs. J. C. Lanier, of West Point, was the principal speaker, and delivered a very interesting history of the Women's Missionary Union. She stated that the work of the union had grown from a very few willing workers to the large and helpful organization it is today. She told us that the union had not only its work as an auxiliary to the South in Baptist convention. Our Spiritual Needs. Sobos beautifully rendered by Mrs. A. B. Cunyus, the convention selected the features which added interest to the program. The morning session was brought to a close with a prayer by Mrs. Stainback, president, and the oldest member of the union.

Miss Priest's Address.
Miss Sallie Priest, a noted missionary from Shanghai, China, was the first speaker at the afternoon session. Miss Priest stressed the urgent need for permanent foreign mission equipment. Her subject, "Adequate Church Building at Home," Mrs. H. H. Pitt of Tifton, Ga., one of the most active members of the Georgia union, who but recently donated $5,000 to the cause, spoke on "The Jubilate Prizes." She urged impetus was given to every member by the address of Miss A. B. Cunyus, Raleigh, who is used in the spirit of a true optimist. A Prophecy of Growth. Miss Heek also outlined a plan which she would like to see follow in her prophetic words to become a realization. The afternoon session was brought to a close by a prayer by Mrs. J. J. Stainback.

God's Bless on Immigrants.
Miss Marie Buhlman, in charge of the Baptist mission in Baltimore in her discourse on "Home Missions and the Immigrant" at the meeting last night. She was the most interesting speaker of the first day's session.

"Last year," asserted Miss Buhlman, "there were 1,197,892 aliens admitted to this country. These people are now in the United States. They should be interested and cared for until they are able to direct themselves. Here are the opportunities. The opportunity to reach these people is not only at the point at which they land for they are there only a short time. They are on the path to make homes in inland towns and here it is that they can be brought out. My mission is to bring it to you upon you, the women of this great organization, to seek out the immigrants in your various communities. They have no one to look to and will grow up in ignorance of the land. We must do this.

Miss Sallie Priest, a former missionary to China, issued a call for volunteers to go to China. She is in her address "In Behalf of All Nations." At the close of Miss Priest's appeal Miss Bell, daughter of Rev. J. H. Bell, of the Index, came forward and announced that she had felt the call and had already made plans to go to visit the heathen. Miss Bell won a great ovation; her courage was warmly commended by a standing vote by the entire assembly.

Mrs. M. F. McClure, principal of the Women's Baptist Missionary Union training school, at Louisville, Ky., made an interesting talk on the progress of the institution and the great work that it had accomplished during the past year. Mrs. Sam D. Jones, of Atlanta, presided at the evening session which was brought to a close by a prayer by Miss F. E. S. Heek.

Today marks the opening session of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Women's Baptist Missionary Union of Georgia and the union will then get down to strictly business sessions. The session Tuesday, which is really opened the convention, was the twenty-fifth jubilate of the southern union.

Wishups to Vessels.

It was impossible even to estimate the loss to vessels wrecked or damaged by grounding. Shippers in Detroit estimated the loss in Lake Huron and in the Detroit and St. Clair rivers to be several hundred thousand dollars. Three of the wrecked steamers increase the loss by $5,000, while the scores of smaller craft driven ashore in Lake Superior and Lake Erie will send the total much higher. The more important mishaps to vessels were: Unidentified 300-foot freighter, floating bottom up in Lake Huron, a few miles south of Port Hudson, cargo probably lost. Littered the high seas. A few found vessel in such position as to have made it almost impossible for any of the crew of twenty-five to have escaped. SHRINE CONVENTION IS GIVEN IMPETUS

Representatives of more than thirty railroads met with Forrest Adair and F. J. Paxon at the Capital City club Tuesday night to discuss transportation problems incident to "the greatest gathering that has ever been held in the United States."

That gathering, needless to say, is the Shrine convention, which will be held in Atlanta next May. Mr. Adair, who is postmaster of New York Temple, and Mr. Paxon, who is chairman of the finance committee, both made addresses explaining the need of immediate cooperation by the railroads, which was frequently promised by the agents of all the roads.

TALKS AT CORDELE MADE BY GOVERNOR AND MRS. SLATON

Cordele, Ga., November 11.—(Special.)—The celebration of Cordele's silver anniversary today proved one of the most auspicious events that have ever taken place in south Georgia. The city was brilliantly decorated for the occasion, and the visitors numbered between 8,000 and 10,000, coming from more than forty miles around to an audience that packed the public school auditorium to its full seating capacity. Governor Slaton this morning delivered an enthusiastic speech, which was frequently applauded.

In the main, the governor's speech touched on the unprecedented prosperity that has blessed Georgia this year. Georgia is the richest state in the union, declared the governor. The agricultural exhibits at the state fair and at various county fairs has visited recently are the best that have ever come under his observation. His remarks were an appeal to the local and general pride of Georgians in their great state.

Long Civic Parade.

One of the most brilliant features of the celebration was the civic parade, which was nearly two miles in length and splendid in every feature. Captain A. C. Beach made two very successful flights in his Columbia biplane, reaching an altitude of over 5,000 feet. Governor and Mrs. Slaton are guests of honor at a sumptuous banquet at the Swanee hotel tonight, following the civic parade. The banquet will be heard by 5,000 as he discussed national topics.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Thanksgiving Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.

We are going to celebrate Thanksgiving this year with a series of sales, in which the value giving will be very great. We invite you to share it.

Thanksgiving is pre-eminently an acknowledgment of the divine blessings of harvest. From time immemorial man has set aside a period after the crops have been gathered in which to make ceremonial record of his gratefulness for the yield that is to be his support during the unfruitful days of winter.

We are all close enough to the soil to have some appreciation of its wonders. And this Thanksgiving shall be a time when we as a store shall make a fitting observance of our debt to field and orchard—commercially—the products of which to be a real profit to all who come to share them. This year we have an added cause for Thanksgiving.

Our New Store—and all that it means in expression and growth—and the increased ability to serve as we have always wanted to serve.

So Then This Ringing Message With a Tangible Meaning to You TODAY

In the series of sales which we have planned—beginning today—by reason of our increased buying ability, we give larger, better and sounder value than we have at any time been able to offer.

Yes! This is a season of special rejoicing with us. And we are giving thanks for the best harvest in our store's history.

A good year's business that has been built upon more than the mere love of gain. Its code has been one of honor and its ethics have harmonized with the upward trend of humanity.

There have been times when the head and hand fell short of the day's goal. But the public has shown in its loyalty, its approval, its confidence, as well as its steadily expanding patronage—an appreciation of our efforts. And with gratitude and encouragement we go forward, realizing that the dissemination of those stimulating influences which, even in the busy channels of trade, make for ennoblement and good will, found their basis in the right principle—the system of fair dealing inaugurated in this store many years ago.

A sweeping statement. We want you to test it. We make it advisedly, because we have here the merchandise—a collection which we believe is unequalled at the prices quoted.

WHERE DISEASE IS CRIMINAL.

That the municipal negligence of Atlanta is particeps criminis to the death-rate, is squarely corroborated by no less an authority than the sanitary and health expert of the Russell Sage Foundation.

Here are some of the more glaring counts in his indictment:

One-third of the deaths in Atlanta are due to preventable diseases.

Nearly one-fifth of all occur among infants less than a year old.

Nearly one-third between the ages of 25 and 50, the most productive time of life.

Nearly seventy per cent of all deaths occur before the age of 50.

Almost total neglect of negro health and sanitation menaces not only the negro but every white Atlantian.

A mockery of vital statistics that hampers the fight against disease at every turn.

Stinginess in appropriations to health work, lack of up-to-date methods in the organization of the health and sanitary departments, not referable to the men in charge but to the manner in which their hands are tied.

The inefficiency of board or political control so vital, complicated and technical a matter as health.

Each and every one of these accusations is well founded.

In this twentieth century of marvelous scientific progress, municipal Atlanta is in danger of forgetting that many diseases are CRIMES.

With typhoid, tuberculosis, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria and others, the way of prevention is pointed out with signal distinctness. Few people who read can be ignorant.

The community that blunders upon disease despite the plain warning is guilty of contributory criminal negligence.

Explicitly applicable is the warning Mr. Schneider sounds with regard to the negro. For years The Constitution has been hammering home the warning that the neglected negro hovels and negro settlements were as many menaces to the white people; that the infected negro was a peril not alone to his own locality, but to white neighbors blocks away; that white residents might scrupulously observe sanitary regulations, but that so long as attention was not paid to the negro problems of hygiene and sanitation these other precautions were largely nullified; that our health duty to the negro was not one of philanthropy or altruism but one sheerly of self-preservation.

A source of danger in Atlanta, as this expert indicates, is its milk supply. It is probable that a large proportion of the infant mortality can be traced to this agency.

It is notably encouraging that, since Mr. Schneider made his survey, Dr. Claude Smith, the city bacteriologist, has instituted such a rigid inspection and regulation of the milk supply as to radically lessen danger from this direction.

If he is given funds he can settle the entire problem.

What is said about the board or political control of health problems, and about the quasi-separation of the sanitary and health departments, is pertinent. An individual does not call in a politician to prescribe for his illness. A community should not expect novices to care for her health.

Specialist Schneider has laid down a constructive set of recommendations for bringing Atlanta's health to par. He drives home the terrific cost of so-called "economy" and the city's obligation to protect health and its money interest in promoting efficiency with a force that should reach every conscience in Atlanta.

THE BETTER WAY.

Arbitration as the preferential method for settling industrial disputes is given significant impetus by the handing down of the decision in the eastern railroad cases. The controversy between the railroads and employees of the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio was the first great test of the Erdman act as broadened by the Newlands amendment.

Under the terms of the latter provision, six arbiters sat on the questions at issue. Of those, two represented the employees, two the railroads and two were neutrals, acting presumably as umpires.

The hearing has been under way since September 11th and has, of course, been of the most exhaustive and painstaking description.

It was not to be expected that all parties would be satisfied with the board's findings. Compromise is essentially the distinguishing principle of arbitration and compromise means concession.

Each party-disputant fell short of winning all their contentions. The thing that will count most with the nation is the fact that an understanding has been reached without resort to the terribly expensive and dubious weapons of the strike and lockout.

Had these devices been employed in the case under discussion the cost in lives, dollars and morale might have been staggering. Under the most peaceful of conditions, even, the traffic of the entire country would have been temporarily paralyzed.

For with the enormous growth of this country and the interlocking of material sectional interests the railroads of the east cannot be disassociated from the railroads of the south and the west.

With the paralysis of transportation, would have come a paralysis of business, entailing suffering and loss difficult to put into figures. And this is not to reckon with the possibilities of violence and the engendering of hatreds, the penalties of which might have come down even a long era.

All these terrifying contingencies have been averted, and it is entirely probable the work has been done with much more justice and equity than if carriers or employees had appealed to the ancient and discredited methods.

Incidentally, the great third party to crises of this nature, the consuming public that supports the two other parties, has learned one lesson more as to its own rights. Each successful arbitration of this nature is a certain step toward compulsory arbitration; the people decreeing that their business and prosperity shall not be laid waste while the parties to a quarrel thresh out their differences in obstinacy or violence.

CONQUEST BY OSTRACISING.

Can the United States solve the Mexican problem by an international, but peaceful, blockade of Huerta? That appears to be the experiment toward which the Wilson administration is feeling its way.

Washington, it now appears, is to refuse to recognize any of the acts of Huerta. The congress he will attempt to seat it will regard as non-existent, as it should, since the election which brought its members into power was no more valid than the presidential election Huerta himself acknowledges to be invalid.

In other words, so far as the United States is concerned, Huerta and his crew are henceforth to be legally dead.

It is likely that Europe will fall in, negatively at least, with this program. France and Germany have already given intimation of so doing. The recent speech of Asquith, the British premier, gives guarantee of a similar course and sounds like a veiled repudiation of the recent indiscretions of Sir Lionel Carden, England's bumptious ambassador.

With all the European creditors of Mexico lined up with America, and supplies from every direction cut off, the present de facto government cannot enjoy very long life of activity. It will be literally starved out.

Of course, the program here outlined, is merely on the side of negation. When Huerta is eliminated, as he will be by force or otherwise, some individual or individuals must take his place. No country can run itself, just as it is impossible to conceive of a locomotive negotiating distance without an engineer, or a ship driving ahead minus the man at the wheel.

It may be that recognition of the belligerency of the constitutionalists, and lifting the ban on importation of arms, will turn the trick.

At all events, the president has conclusively demonstrated two facts: (1) That he is bent on dislodging Huerta; (2) That he will resort to every expediency reconcilable with honor before entering upon the dangerous course of intervention.

Huerta's time will be short as his shrift.

The senate is fighting almost as hard over the currency as the average citizen does to get it.

And they do say it's getting too hot in Mexico for even the movie men.

Diaz's advice to Huerta to "beat it while the going's good" has the profound value of experience behind it.

DEBT OF THE SOUTH TO HENRY W. GRADY

BY J. A. WATROUS (Lieutenant Colonel U. S. A., Retired, in The Chicago Record-Herald.)

Atlanta was an obscure point previous to 1861. Today it is one of the well-known cities of the nation, with a population fast creeping upward toward the quarter of a million mark.

Georgia played a foremost part in the civil war. So also Georgia has played a strikingly important part in the upbuilding of the south.

One of the first, if not the first, southern papers unafraid to accept the situation after the war and make able, heroic and persistent efforts for the betterment of the people of the north and south, was 'The Atlanta Constitution,' owned by Captain Evan P. Howell and Henry W. Grady.

Howell, a young lawyer when he went into the Confederate army, was a captain in a soldier, but his father was major of a Georgia regiment and killed in General Gordon's break through the Union lines at Petersburg, March 25, 1865. They became owners of the paper in 1867, and it was in the nation that seems to be to serve their city, state and nation more than to enrich themselves.

They were broad-minded and up-to-date enough to know that the war was over and that it was the plain duty of Georgia and the south to put their shoulders to the wheel and enter into the upbuilding upon a solid and better foundation than the south had ever known.

Such efforts, when they first began, were not looked upon with favor by all, but steadily grew in favor, with the result that in a few years the population of Georgia was as well satisfied with its position in the republic as the people of all the other states. I am not saying that the work of these two men and their paper brought about this condition of things, without help, but I do say that they and their paper were leaders in that direction and their leadership and work exerted powerful influence in advancing all good things in all portions of the south.

Who doesn't recall Uncle Remus and Chandler Harris—and his inimitable stories. He was connected with the paper for nearly a lifetime. Though dead, Uncle Remus lives and labors in right directions through his books and other writings. A quarter of a century ago Frank L. Stanton, a country editor, an interesting writer of prose and poetry, was placed on duty.

By his great ability, devotion to the south's and the nation's best interests and statesmanship and patriotism of the broadest type, manifested in his daily work and walk, in the city and in the country, Henry W. Grady made himself known as one of the distinguished editors and orators of the country. He was less a politician than his partner, who served as mayor of the city and state senator. Grady was always against the right and good, and he was an everlastingly working man. He wrote from three to a half dozen columns for his paper daily and in the evening made one or two addresses, work that seldom falls to the lot of any other man.

Get the best of the worker sooner or later, it goes the best of Mr. Grady now and then, and when he was old and feeble, and then, to be restored physically, mentally and religiously. On such occasions he would tell the widowed mother that he wanted her to treat him just as she used to when he was a little boy—let him rest his head on her breast, and when he was in bed, let her pray for him, and when he was in the church, prayer meeting and Sunday school, let him sit next to her.

It was not long after one of these visits that Mr. Grady made that historic and thrilling address at a banquet of the New England society of New York in 1884, which brought this quotation from Senator Benjamin H. Hill:

"There was a south of slavery and secession. That south is dead. There is a south of union and freedom. That south, that south is living, breathing, growing every hour."

Henry Grady made that text for his address. The citizen who has not read that address has missed one of the finest American productions. Its close was with these words: "I am glad to be placed by the side of Lincoln's Gettysburg address."

"The new south is emerald of her new work. Her soul is stirred with the breath of a new life. The light of a grander day is upon her. She is growing, growing, growing with the consciousness of growing power and prosperity. As she stands upright, full-statured and erect among the people of the earth, breathing the keen air and looking out upon the activities of the new world, she stands that her emancipation came because through the inscrutable wisdom of God her hour of purpose was crossed and her brave armies were defeated."

While at Atlanta I called to see the rooms in which Captain Howell and Henry Grady had wrought—where Uncle Remus bent over his pen, where Frank Stanton wrote his beautiful stories and effective sermons; where Frank Stanton sent forth day after day a column of verse and prose that he headed "Just From Georgia," material that delights and benefits readers. I wanted to get into the atmosphere where such superb work had been done. I saw the south and the great country. I wanted to look into the faces of the new men in charge, to take the hand of Captain Howell's son, Clark, his successor as editor of the paper, a leader in politics and in other walks of life, who accompanied him from Atlanta to the sea who was a boy carried a good deal more than his spending money by picking up lead from battlefields in and about the city.

Henry Grady, Captain Howell and Uncle Remus were not there, but the rooms and the chairs they occupied and the desks and tables they used were there. It was an inspiration to look at them and recall the rare characters. Frank L. Stanton, genial, kind hearted, pleasant faced, with a natural twinkle in his eye, looks and acts the part of "Just From Georgia."

It was one of Sherman's men who accompanied him from Atlanta to the sea who was a boy carried a good deal more than his spending money by picking up lead from battlefields in and about the city.

PUDDINGS

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," says Mother Goose. A nice attention to detail in the chief thing required to make fine puddings and as this is needed in all branches of cookery it is equivalent to saying that only a good cook can make correct puddings.

They do not follow, as many who read these suggestions should be able to produce a delightful dessert whether they have ever cooked anything before or not.

Puddings may be baked, boiled or steamed. Boiling requires nearly twice as long as baking and steaming, even longer, but this last way is considered the best.

The pudding is put into a buttered pan or dish and a cloth is well dredged with flour and tied over the top and it is set in the steamer and covered closely.

After it is cooked, care must be taken in turning it out so it shall not be ragged or broken.

Puddings that are to be boiled should be tied in a cloth and placed in a bricky boiling water and this must not be permitted to stop boiling, nor be refilled with cooler water, but must stay at a steady boil until the pudding is done.

A baked pudding should be stirred once or twice when it is starting to cook so the fruit will not all sink to the bottom, while one that is boiling must be turned occasionally for the same reason, and also to keep it from sticking to the bottom of the kettle.

On removing a boiled pudding plunge it quickly into cold water and let it stick to the pudding bag. Bread puddings should be tied loosely in their bags to allow for swelling, but batter puddings cannot be tied too tightly.

Pudding bags are never washed with soap, they are washed by hand in clear warm water and dried in sunlight. When needed they should be well rinsed and then rubbed with flour.

Currants are cleaned by sprinkling them with flour and rubbing them between the fingers until they are well separated then put in a colander, run water over them until stems and flour are washed away. Dry them with a soft cloth; never in the oven.

To chop suet out in small pieces; sprinkle with sifted flour and keep it cool while chopping so it does not get warm and sticky. The foundation for bread puddings is one pint of bread crumbs, one pint of milk, one cup of sugar, well beaten yolks of four eggs, one tablespoonful of butter and grated rind of one lemon.

Dried fruits or any kind of sweetmeats may be added to this and the mixture be steamed, baked or boiled. It is very good if baked early in the day; then cooled and served with cream.

The suet pudding base is one cup each of New Orleans molasses, water and chopped one-half teaspoonful of salt, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, three and a half cups of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and allspice and a pinch of cloves.

Raisins, currants, citron and nuts are usually added to this rich foundation. It is best steamed in small dishes and it will keep as well as any brandy pudding.

JOURNEYING.

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

One of the fascinating things of this life is Traveling. We are all Travelers. The best thing, however, is that most of us are paying our own fare. Many are not, but if you are Journeying on a PAID ticket—paid for by yourself, you are getting something for your money.

Many a man has traveled along, year in and year out, with others paying his fare and making his way comparatively easy and smooth, only to be suddenly shut off and left dizzily alone in the midst of his Journeying—with no one caring to longer pay his fare.

The largest compensation possible to Service is that it is paid for in earnest and willing effort—unassisted.

Another angle to Journeying is noticed where a man not only pays his own fare, but pays the fare of many others. In other words, he is "held up." When such is the case, there is nothing but injustice done all around—Injustice to the man who holds him up, and injustice to the one who is held up. Learn no man. Allow no man to pay YOUR fare.

If I could write a poem it would be All made of joy. Of laughing, sunny days and then, you'd read it and you'd know what 'twas about.

If I could write a story it would be A pretty thing. About plain people just like you and me. And that's a bit Above all million things that have been writ.

If I could write a play it would be One of the best. That scare the world and trouble you and me.

That make us good. By telling us how bad we're said to be.

If I could write a poem or a play Or anything, I'd try to write it in the gladdest way. But what's the use? No one would print it if it did no one abuse.

Honesty. (From Judge.) Teacher—Henry, can you define a hypocrite? Henry—Yessum. It's a kid wot comes to school wld a smile on his face.

No Gentle Joke. (From Judge.) Hemmandhaw—When Beanbrough got married, one of his friends threw an old shoe through the carriage at him and hit him on the head. Shimmerate—Couldn't he find out who owned the shoe? Hemmandhaw—No; it belonged to a horse.

And He Drove On. (From Judge.) "Ray," calls the bright youth to the honest agriculturist, who is working in his garden, why don't you set a hen on your egg plants? "Ma set one on 'em last year," answers the agriculturist, barely looking up. "Did she? Hatch anything?" "Yep. Hatched out that bed o' cocks combs by the fence."

The World's Mysteries

WHERE DID COLUMBUS LAND?

When Columbus first sighted land on the 12th of October, 1492, he had reached, not the mainland of the United States, but one of the islands of the West Indies, and it is generally supposed to have been what we now know as San Salvador. It has never been definitely settled, however, as to just what bit of land Columbus set his foot upon, and it is not likely that the question will ever be cleared beyond a doubt.

Undoubtedly the land discovered was one of the islands of the Bahama group, but as to which one there is a difference of opinion. Humboldt was of the opinion that it was Cat Island, called by the natives Guanahama and by the Spaniards San Salvador.

Some writers have claimed that it was on that beautiful spot where Columbus wished to be buried and where he slept for centuries—the island of Santo Domingo. Other investigators claim that Columbus certainly landed on the Samana or Watling Island. These investigations, pursued chiefly in the explorer's logbook, would seem to indicate that the admiral's landing place was the last-mentioned island, believed to be the true San Salvador.

This is perhaps as near as the world will get to the certain knowledge of the "landfall" of Columbus on the American continent. The following description is the generally credited one of what occurred on that eventful morning of October 12: "When day had fully dawned, Columbus, according to the natives by the general royal banner of Spain, attended by as many of the crew as could be spared from their respective ships, made a landing. With due religious ceremony the royal banner of Spain was raised, the cross planted, all knelt upon the shore, kissed the ground with tears of joy, and those of the crew who had been mutinous, prostrated themselves at the admiral's feet and sought his pardon."

This land Columbus is supposed to have thought was a portion of India, and he accordingly called the natives by the general appellation of Indians. But where was this ground that received the reverence and the embraces of this great explorer and his little band of followers? Elson, who has written in many respects the best short history of the United States, believes it was Watling Island of the Bahama group. If the Watling Island was the one discovered by Columbus, he was no doubt aware that he had not reached the mainland, for this island is only fourteen miles long by six broad and there are many points from which the ocean can be seen from all sides.

This is shown in the fact that Columbus only remained a very short time when, accompanied by seven of the natives, he sailed south in search of the opulent Cipango described in the works of Marco Polo. As he passed to the south he discovered the islands of Concepcion, Exuma, Isla Larga and Cuba. Upon reaching Cuba, Columbus was sure that he had finally reached the fruit of his search, believing it to be Cipango (Japan). Later, however, he came to the conclusion that it was the mainland of India. He gave it the name of Juana in honor of the Spanish queen, Isabella. Columbus discovered Hayti also, which he took for the Ophir of Solomon, and named Hispaniola (Little Spain). J. Winsor, in his "Narrative and Critical History of America," says in the first chapter: "The statement that the island of the Bahamas on which Columbus first landed, and which he called San Salvador, had been asserted to be Watling Island, seems hardly justified.

"The question between Watling Island, San Salvador or Cat Island, Samana or Attwood's Cay, Mariguana, the Grand Turk and the Spanish Main, is a matter of opinion. Winsor says the weight of modern testimony seems to favor Watling Island; but at the same time he thinks it "probable that men will never quite agree which of the Bahamas it was upon which these startled and excited Spaniards stepped. Captain Fox, in J. Fluke, in "The Discoverer of America," chapter 5, says: "All that can be positively asserted of Guanahama is that it was one of the Bahamas; there has been endless discussion as to which one, and the question is not easy to settle. Perhaps the theory of Captain Gustavus Fox, of the United States navy, is on the whole best supported. Captain Fox maintains that the true Guanahama was the little island now known as Samana or Attwood's Cay."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Prose Poet.

PEOPLE ARE GOOD.

"I used to insist that this is the best of all possible worlds," remarked the druggist, "but the more I read the newspapers the more I find that belief slipping. There is so much ingratitude in the world that a man can't shake a stick at it. I was reading a hideous story in the newspaper this morning.

"An old woman in a small Wisconsin town was taken to the poorhouse the other day, and the journey broke her heart. In her better days, when she was able to work and earn money, that woman made a business of adopting children and giving them a chance in life. She reared, three girls, and all of them married well, and live in comfortable homes at this hour. And not one of the three would lift a finger to keep the old woman from the poorhouse. Such a story as that makes a man wonder whether human nature isn't a remnant counter affair."

"Before a man makes up his mind to condemn the human race because of such a story," said the village patriarch, "he should be sure that the story is true. It is a notorious fact that unreliable stories do get into the public prints now and then, notwithstanding the sleepless vigilance of the editors. I have no doubt that there is some foundation for the story, but if all the facts were known it might prove an alibi. There must have been something wrong with that unfortunate old woman if the three refused to help her out. It may be that she made galley slaves of them when they were under her roof, or perhaps upon it they had every defect, but the story would be spoiled if it were printed. We must have some regard for art, and not spoil a good story by digging up unpleasant details reflecting upon the heroine.

"When I was a boy I was short of parents, and an old farmer named Puffer took me into his home, and said he'd give me a chance to become president of the United States. I stayed with that man four years, and I think he must have mistook me for a steer, the way he worked me. I had to get up every night, and I was in the morning all right all day long, and at night, and all I drew was my board and clothes, and no self respecting youth would wish to be found dead in such clothes as I had to wear. I earned at such $5 a day during those four years, and never saw any money except a half dollar on the Fourth of July. At that time I had a horse, and my heel had been on my neck long enough, and one night I wrapped my belongings in a handkerchief and ran away.

"Many years afterwards, when I was prosperous and had a gold watch and chain, I went back to the old homestead, and the welcome I got had icicles on it. It was in the hottest part of the summer, but I encountered a frost every way I turned. My base ingratitude to the kind old farmer had become a local tradition, and everybody predicted that I would end my miserable life on the wallows. The teachers in the schools and the preachers in their pulpits had used me as a text for their sermons, and everybody wondered that I had the gall to show my beaming countenance in that neighborhood. I had a good defense, but nobody would listen to it. I had my place as a monster of hideous men, and to this day my name is a hissing and a byword in that community.

"Thus we see how easy it is to hurl denunciations which are undeserved. As a matter of fact, every story reflecting upon the hearts of the people should be thoroughly investigated before being passed along. For the people are all right, my friends. They are not ingrates in the world, but where you find one of that breed you will find a hundred men who will peel the shirts off their backs to help neighbors in distress. Go out and break a leg and see how sympathetic people will gather around and scrape with each other for a chance to do something for your relief. Set fire to your house, and when you are shouting for aid, the same notes how your neighbors come along with offers of assistance.

"I have been in this world a long, long time, and the more I live the more I feel that the people are all wool and three yards of good cloth. I don't mean the people of the politicians. I mean the folks of the people. We meet on the street every day. Most of them have their own worries, but they're always willing to dig up to help others."

Where the Big Potatoes Grow. (From The Lavonia Times.) Walter Maret had had far gone ahead of the record in the section growing a potato weighing 12 pounds. The monster is of an oblong shape and in two pieces. The potato was so large that Mr. Maret had to cut it into two pieces to get it out of the ground. Mr. Maret is now using the hole the potato came out of for a well.

FOOTBALL.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Strawn"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) Football, which becomes epidemic in September of each year, is a perpetual contest between the rules committee and the corner, with the former at present several laps in the lead.

Football is a concerted endeavor on the part of eleven impetuous young men to tunnel through eleven other stubborn and strong-minded youths, with the object of carrying a ball of leather to a goal line of forty yards. The ball is carried by means of feet or aeroplane in much less time and at far less expense, but this would not be sport. Sport consists of doing an easy thing in the most difficult manner possible—which is why golfers play their game with the aid of a caddy instead of a messenger boy.

When eleven husky young men try to go through a place occupied by eleven other husky young men something has to give way. In the case of football it is usually a collarbone, through the ribs and flutia are also great sufferers. When football has progressed to a perfection which necessitated the delaying of the game after each play in order to piece the players together, the census authorities interfered and this rules committee came to the rescue.

Football in its new demure form is played by a referee and umpire, with the assistance of the revised rules, neatly bound in eleven volumes, at $1 per volume or $3 for full leather. The new game is as interesting as parchess. The player takes the ball and runs it through five man for four yards. The officials then bring it back ten yards on account of rule 22, series B. Another player then carries it forward 35 yards. The officials take it back 40 yards and give it to the opposition. The opposition then trips on its own feet, falls down in a heap, loses the ball, busts a garter and is awarded 25 yards by rule 678, ring twice. The opposition then kicks goal, for which it loses the ball and ten yards, and receives a warning.

This so heartens the other side that it fumbles the ball ten yards back of the line and is given 20 yards by the referee on the ground that the left guard kicked an opponent while brushing past him. The attacking side now makes 10 yards more by sitting on the ball and yelling for help, and 10 yards more if the referee passes the ball over the fullback's head. Victory is awarded 25 yards by rule 678, ring twice. The opposition then kicks goal, for which it loses the ball and ten yards, and receives a warning.

"The ball could be sent by parcel post in much less time, and far less expense, but this would not be sport."

7 points, the quarterback is ejected from the field, the business manager is conditioned in history B and the game is declared a draw on points.

Football is still inspiring to watch and is now a safe game, except as regards the officials, who must be men of great endurance and education. Too much time is now taken out to allow the umpire to keep his books and recover his wind, and the referees by allowing the officials to play while the players, who are in better physical condition anyway, do their work.

Anniversary Dinner of Colonel and Mrs. Lowry

A happy occasion at the Driving club last evening, and one unique, was the surprise party at which Mrs. Robert J. Lowry entertained in celebration of the fifty first anniversary of her marriage. Colonel Lowry had expected to dine quietly with a small party of friends but Mrs. Lowry arranged a dinner party of sixteen guests, and during the white and gold brocade gown she wore on the occasion of her golden wedding received her guests at the Driving club at 8 o'clock, each couple as they came by a new surprise to Colonel Lowry. She wore the pearls with which he presented her on her wedding day, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and violets.

The decorations were symbolic of the occasion and as well expressed a welcome note to the friends in the company who have but recently returned from their summer trips. On the surface of the round table around which the guests were assembled were autumn leaves, which, in their pig-tones of red and gold, bespoke the after glow of lives which have grown from youth into happy maturity while the yellow chrysanthemums claimed their right as the November flower in the center of the table was a mound of flowers and foliage, on the summit of which was a miniature touring car bearing from the mountains home-coming friends. The base was a miniature lake, upon which were pleasure boats, homeward bound. At each place were tiny music baskets containing delicious bonbons, covered with little fringed napkins, and souvenirs in miniature boats and automobiles, all suggesting echoes of summer pleasures.

Makes Face Young--Tightens Love Ties

(Article on Woman's Sphere)

A fearful expression wrinkled face and a faded complexion do more to drive the male members from home than is commonly supposed. It was one of the greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and elegant when my dear ones were with me. But I have overcome all that, have changed my mental attitude and I now find it second nature to look cheerful. The party to this, and a remarkable treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has so improved I look fifteen years younger than before.

A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saskite in a half-pint witch hazel, proved a wonderful wrinkle-chaser. I still use this occasionally. To renovate my complexion I purchased an ounce of ordinary medicated wax at my druggist's and began using this up, a marvelous transformation had taken place. It was like removing an unattractive mask, revealing a new face, a beautiful complexion of distinctive delicacy, clear, white and velvety. I merely applied the wax like cold cream before retiring, washing it off morning and evening. My treatment sufficed—(Adv.)

The main dining room of the club was converted into a ballroom decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, and after dinner dancing was enjoyed. Colonel and Mrs. Lowry presided at the head of the old Virginia reel and the quiet steps of the minuet. They were equal to the occasion of the more modern dances, and the evening was one full of joy for them and their friends.

Beautiful Event at Woodbine For Miss Rawson and Mr. Smith

As a brilliant conclusion of the series of entertainments which have been given to Miss Sara Rawson and Mr. Marlon Smith previous to their marriage, the buffet supper and reception at which Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel entertained last evening at their home, Woodbine, on Peachtree road. The assembling of the guests was after the shears were cut, and those besides the bridal party included the relatives of Miss Rawson and Mr. Smith, and out-of-town guests to the wedding.

Receiving with Colonel and Mrs. Peel and a host of honor were Mrs. Charles Richardson, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. William H. Kiser, of Washington and Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout the hallway with its wood work of old ivory and deep rose shades having decorations of American beauty roses. Palms and house plants were to be seen on all sides, and chrysanthemums were lavishly used. The dining room, where from a table circular in shape the sweets of the repast were served, the decorations were in chrysanthemums, madras among the old silver ornaments, and the silver candlesticks holding tapers shaded in yellow.

There was music and dancing after supper, and the occasion was a notably happy one.

Mrs. Peel wore a handsome toilet in pearl-colored brocade satin, with trimmings of point d'Alencon lace. Miss Rawson wore a black and white coral-colored satin, with trimmings of lace and chiffon. Mrs. Tilt wore coral-colored satin, with trimmings of black and white. Mrs. Kiser wore a black satin gown, with tunic and corsetage trimmings of gold net and lace. Mrs. Kiser wore a flesh-colored chignon gown, trimmed in lace and French flowers.

The wedding of Miss Rawson and Mr. Smith takes place this evening. Among those who will entertain them on their return from their wedding trip will be Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore.

C., Mrs. William Tilt of New York, Mrs. Howell Jackson, Mrs. Wellborn Hill, Mrs. Edilton Deane, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. William Kiser, Mrs. Frank Imman, Mrs. J. K. Orr and Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore.

Bacon-Passalaigne.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Bally Bacon and Mr. Theodore Passalaigne, Jr. of Charleston, was a beautiful event last night, solemnized at the First Methodist church. Afterwards the bride's mother, Mrs. Laura Ellis Bacon, gave a small reception at the Georgian Terrace.

Miss Ruby Bacon, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Miss Beatrice Passalaigne and Miss Geneva Edmondson were bridesmaids. Mr. Edward P. Passalaigne was best man. Mr. Roland Walsh and Mr. Horace Brewer, of Gainesville, were groomsmen. Messrs. Ellis Ferry and R. L. York were ushers.

Rev. H. M. DuBose was the officiating minister, and Mrs. Charles Browder, of Sweetwater, Tenn., at the organ, played appropriate selections. The church was handsomely decorated in palms and yellow chrysanthemums, and the yellow of the flowers was repeated in effective detail of the wedding plans.

The bride was a charming picture in her wedding gown of white crepe charmeuse, with court train. The corsage was draped with pearl and lace embroidered with white ribbon. Her sleeves were of tulle. The bridal veil was adorned with orange blossoms and the quiet way of bride roses showered with valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore yellow charmeuse embroidered in pearls and carmine white chrysanthemums, and the bridesmaids wore white charmeuse, their bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Bacon was gowned in black chiffon cloth, and Mrs. W. A. Edmondson, an aunt of the bride, wore black charmeuse. Mrs. Passalaigne, the bride's mother, was gowned in black satin and chiffon.

An intimate company of fifty guests were entertained at a reception, which was held in the palm dining room at the Georgian Terrace. Handsome palms converted the attractive apartment into a garden of foliage, and a buffet table at one end, against a background of palms, was picturesque in its color and in a basket of chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Bacon was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. James Lawton, Mrs. James H. Bennett, Mrs. William Dobbin and Miss Pulling. The orchestra in the mezzanine gallery, overlooking the dining room, consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Passalaigne west on their wedding trip, and they will make their home at the Georgian Terrace. He is prominent in social and business life.

Miss Wooley's Pictures. Have you ever looked out from a tenth story window at the city buildings and seen, through the purple haze, the sunlight strike upon a white wall here and there, and turn it to a pearl? Have you seen a house when it was not a house, but a glowing bit of color, or noticed the purple and gold of the autumn trees in Piedmont park? Have you seen that rift between two rocky promontories which is an Atlanta street, and the reflection of the afternoon sun on the Candler building?

These are the things Mrs. Wooley has painted. In two or three studies of Atlanta distances and in one of Torrey de Leon Avenue at dusk, she shows a new perspective of color, texture and her portrayal of Atlanta skyscrapers is not only gay, but true. Mrs. Wooley has studied Chicago and Paris, and besides is fresh from the scenes of the newest adventures in the summer art classes of the "Old" Por. For the fact that she is a fellow townsman, and for the work itself, her exhibition today at the "Old" store should be a center of interest. All the pictures are scenes found about Atlanta.

To Visitors. Mrs. Walter Howard will entertain at 5 o'clock, on Monday in compliment to Mrs. Albert Heyward and Mrs. Homer Gage, who are visiting Mrs. John K. Ottley. The guests will include a number of the friends of Mrs. Heyward during her former residence here.

Afternoon Tea. Mrs. Victor R. Smith will entertain at afternoon tea on Tuesday at her home on Cascade avenue, in West End.

Mrs. Daisy M. Downing Marries Mr. John Toole

John F. Toole, southern district manager for the Locomobile Company of America, with headquarters in Atlanta, was married late Monday afternoon to Mrs. Daisy M. Downing, of San Francisco. Mrs. Downing came to Atlanta three weeks ago and has been visiting Mr. Toole's mother at 22 Bonaventure street.

Mr. Toole declared last night, when seen at the automobile show, that his wedding had been planned months ago, long before the date for Atlanta's million-dollar show had been set. "My marriage has absolutely no connection with this show," he declared. "I have known Mrs. Downing for some time. We became engaged when I was the Steamers car representative in San Francisco, and it was arranged before I left the coast that Mrs. Toole should come here during November and we would be married."

"The auto show has made it impossible for us to have a honeymoon trip, but I am hoping that as soon as the show is over we can get away to New York or Cuba for a short time."

Mrs. Toole last night received the congratulations of the hundreds of visitors to the Locomobile display at the Auditorium.

King-Patton. Rome, Ga., November 11.—(Special.) A most beautiful ceremonial was the marriage this evening of Miss Ava Patton, daughter of Mr. A. J. Patton, at the suburban home of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. S. King, on the Sumnerville pike.

This happy consummation in two prominent families whose names have been linked with the earliest history of Rome, is of more than passing interest over many states. At 7:30 to the strains of Mendelssohn's march the bridal party grouped about an improvised altar of ferns and palms in the handsome parlor and Rev. W. L. Walker, pastor of the First Baptist church, read the marriage rites.

Miss Gladys Willingham, maid of honor, Misses Nell Wright, Mary Stewart of Chattahoochee, Sophie Hughes and Corbie May Dean were the bride's attendants. Mr. Will Patton, of Columbus, best man, and Messrs. Sam King, Louis and Graham Wright, Charles Graves, Addison Knowles and Osmond Willingham waited upon the groom. A reception followed the ceremony and at a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Patton started on their train for Montgomery, where they go to attend the Dexter-Maddox wedding Wednesday.

Noted Visitors. Miss Margel Gluck and Miss Root, two noted artists to appear at the Auditorium concert, arrived yesterday with John Philip Sousa, and the party are at the Georgian Terrace.

MEETINGS. The Twentieth Century Coterie will meet with Mrs. R. M. Gann, 397 Lee street on Thursday afternoon, November 14, at 5 o'clock. The West End Study Class meets this morning at 10:30 with Mrs. Hubert Culbertson.

SOCIAL ITEMS. Mrs. C. F. Lazenby and Miss Marie Lazenby, of Thompson, Ga., are in the city, having come to attend the Mitcham-Lazenby wedding last evening.

Miss Harrie Stockell has returned to Athens. Mrs. Lucian Hill is improving at St. Joseph's infirmary where she has been for several months. The wedding of Miss Ray Alexander Cohen and Mr. Emanuel Levy, of Dalton, was held at the Georgian Terrace.

YOUNG COUPLE WED AT CONVENTION OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Macon, Ga., November 11.—(Special.) While the session of the state convention of the Christian church was in progress this afternoon, the organist began playing a wedding march and down the aisle marched a young couple. Before the audience realized what was happening they reached the altar, where they were met by Rev. John H. Wood, secretary of the convention. Not until then did the audience realize they were about to witness a wedding ceremony.

In a few minutes the minister had said the necessary words, and shaking hands with the couple, dismissed them, but instead of leaving the church they took their seats toward the front and the business of the convention proceeded. They were Miss Jessie Mae Osborn, of Watkinsville, and Robert Nicholson, of Fort Valley, both delegates to the convention. Mr. Nicholson is a graduate of the law school of the University of Georgia and is practicing at Fort Valley.

BIG DIAMOND PENDANT FOR JESSIE WILSON

Members of Congress Select a Dazzling Present for the White House Bride. Washington, November 11.—A pendant made up of one canary diamond weighing 6 1/2 carats surrounded by eighty-five smaller diamonds arranged in a pear shape and attached to a neck chain in which smaller diamonds are set, will be the gift of the house of representatives to Miss Jessie Wilson when she marries Francis B. Sayre in the white house on November 25. The members of the house contributed more than $200 for the gift.

Republican Leader Mann, chairman of the committee to select the present, in a statement today, explained that the committee studied many suggestions and designs, and had the advice of a jewelry expert, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, daughter of the speaker.

Mann Talks of Gifts. "Many beautiful pieces and sets of silverware were suggested," said Mr. Mann, "but the committee finally determined to select something with more of an individual and special character than the conventional tea and coffee service, with its accompanying silver pieces—something which the lady will learn to love more and more with time—an ornament for personal use which will give constant pleasure to the owner—a thing of rare and singular beauty—their ostentatious nor glaringly ornate."

"As the love and respect of the whole American people for the young bridegroom through her entire life, this unique reminder of that love will always be cherished with affectionate interest and by the lapse of years."

The gift will be in a jewelry box with the following inscription: "Presented to Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson by the members of the United States house of representatives as a token of affectionate interest and regard on her marriage, November 25, 1913."

When Senator Martine's clerical force reached his office today they found a waiting line of well-dressed, sage-eyed men who appeared to be prospective office-seekers. Some of them bewildered, a clerk opened the office door and the waiting line passed each card inscribed, "Mr. So and So, representing such and such, Jewellers."

Wedding Cake Is Baked. New York, November 11.—Miss Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was baked today. The first layer of the cake is four inches thick and twenty-two inches across. When ready for the knife, the cake will weigh 155 pounds and will be cut into 100 individual portions. One ounce of the cake will cost about 35 cents and will contain ingredients in 2,000 dainty white boxes, tied with satin ribbon, the cake will be distributed to the guests in the usual manner under one's pillow to dream upon.

Over the body of the cake will be placed a thick white icing scroll work. "Then," to quote the artist who is making it, "there will be a decorative initial of the bride and bridegroom, done in silver. And then there will be hills of the valley in white sugar on the sides."

GOVERNOR AND WIFE WILL TODAY ATTEND FAIR IN SPALDING. Griffin, Ga., November 11.—Despite the very inclement weather of yesterday and today, the Griffin-Spalding county fair, which opened Monday morning, is enjoying a splendid attendance and a high degree of enthusiasm.

The most notable day of the fair week will be tomorrow, when a holiday will be declared by the business men of the city and then Governor Slaton and his party will visit the city and fair.

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of Governor and Mrs. Slaton during their stay here. The executive party will arrive here at 2 o'clock, and will be met at the station by a reception committee of citizens, both ladies and gentlemen.

The reception committee to greet the governor's party will consist of the following named persons: Judge W. H. Beck, chairman, Hon. C. M. Gresham, president of the fair association, Mayor J. H. Smith, J. W. Gresham and W. B. Royter, president and secretary of the Griffin Board of Trade, M. F. Carson, Douglas Boyd, J. J. Flynn, J. A. Morrow, Mrs. R. Daniels, Mrs. W. E. H. Sorey, Mrs. W. H. Beck and Mrs. Douglas Boyd.

The governor's party will return to Atlanta in the evening.

Three Reasons Why POSTUM Instead of Coffee

A Food Drink Postum made of choice whole wheat, roasted, with a small portion of New Orleans molasses, contains the nutritive elements of the grain, and is wholesome and nourishing. (Coffee has no food value whatever.)

Has Fine Flavour Postum has a dark, seal brown color, which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added. It has a delightful aroma, and a rich, snappy flavour quite similar to that of Old Dutch Java.

Free From Drugs Postum is absolutely free from any drug. Coffee contains caffeine, a poisonous drug—about 2 1/2 grains to the cup. It often causes biliousness, headaches, heart agitation, nervousness, sleeplessness, and other ills. Postum, being pure and free from caffeine or any other drug, may be used freely by young and old.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum must be boiled to bring out the flavour and food value. Instant Postum is a soluble powder. Made instantly by stirring a spoonful in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added. If coffee don't agree, try POSTUM.

EMPIRE LEAGUE IS NOW GEORGIA STATE LEAGUE

Name Changed at Meeting of Directors—J. J. Kalmon Is Elected President.

Cordale, Ga., November 11.—At the annual meeting of the directors of the Empire State League, held here tonight, J. J. Kalmon, of Americus, was elected president; James Sinclair, of Waycross, vice president. The president was given authority to name the secretary-treasurer.

The directors decided to change the name of the league from the Empire State to the Georgia State League.

Prior to the election of Mr. Kalmon, J. B. Jemison, of Thomasville, brother of Dick Jemison, sporting editor of the Constitution, was unanimously elected, but for business reasons declined to accept.

Reports showed the league to be in a good condition financially.

Various amendments to the constitution, opening date and other league matters will come up at the January meeting, the place of same to be announced subsequently.

The salary limit was raised from $1,000 to $1,200, the full limit allowed class D leagues by the national commission.

The session continued for three hours, and various details were taken under discussion.

A resolution was passed thanking President Groover for the able manner in which he conducted the league during its initial session and expressing regret at his retirement.

TITLE PREP GAME. Impossible to Dope Winner Here Next Saturday.

To try to dope out the winner in the game between Riverside and Georgia Military academy here next Saturday morning is practically impossible.

G. M. A. rules as the favorite, but they will only win after the hardest kind of fight, and the latest dope on the game does not give them much of a margin.

For instance, G. M. A. defeated the Georgia freshmen 39 to 19, while Riverside defeated them 22 to 0.

Figure it out for yourself. It looks like the G. M. A. bunch has a little better scoring machine than Riverside, but the defensive tactics of the latter appear to be the better.

To our way of thinking, it is an even proposition any way that you look at it.

Jim Preas Barred By S. I. A. A. Nance, Johnson and Alexander Will Also Be Among Missing

The executive committee of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association has at last taken action on the case of Jim Preas, the former Blenheim and Riverside athlete, accused of accepting a scholarship at Bingham for athletic service alone.

They have barred him from further participation in athletics at Tech. This means that he will not be able to play in his accustomed place at left tackle for the Jackets when they face their old rivals, Georgia, next Saturday.

It means more than this. It means that his career as an athlete has been quashed as effectively as if he had died. Preas is all of this, and may bide his time suffering the humiliation of being debarred for something that was done a few years ago, when but a mere boy, and without any criminal intent, and that is now being held against him, where there are probably many others who are more guilty—but who have not been caught.

As if the Auburn defeat and the barring of Preas were not enough to bear, Dame Fortune seems to have turned her back on the Yellow Jackets again this season.

Talley Johnson, the strongest defensive man that the Jackets possess, will not be in shape to play against the Red and Black. His dislocated shoulder has not answered as rapidly to treatment as it should. He may be in shape to play against Clemson on Turkey day, but not against Georgia.

Alexander, who was the first sub-tackle of the Jackets and who was injured the week previous, will also be kept out of the fray with a dislocated shoulder.

Nance, the giant tackle, is also horsed combat. The string of bolts on the back of his neck have developed into carbuncles and are giving him such excruciating pain that to attempt to play him would be a crime.

Fatten was reported sick in bed with fever Tuesday. His exact condition is not known. Even if he does play Saturday he will be so shy on signal practice that it may hinder the smoothness of the backfield work.

Georgia Changes Her Line-Up For Game With Yellow Jackets Secret Practice Being Held

Athens, Ga., November 11.—(Special.) The University of Georgia football squad is down to its hardest work of the season getting ready for the game with their old-time rivals—Georgia Tech—at Atlanta next Saturday.

Coaches Cunningham, Ketrone and Peacock are being assisted by several former Georgia stars in getting the Red and Black eleven keyed up to its highest pitch for the coming game.

Secret practice behind closed gates is the order of the day. Coach Cunningham has barred even the student body from the practices and a picket guard has been placed around Sanford field to prevent any spying.

Powell and Henderson are the only men on the squad who are not in tip-top shape, and they will be in as good shape as the rest of the eleven when the Georgia special pulls out for Atlanta Friday night.

Powell's charley horse is worrying him a trifle, while Henderson has not fully recovered from the blow over the kidneys sustained in the Virginia game at Atlanta.

An eleventh hour switch has been made in the Georgia line. McKinnon has been assigned to the guard position held down alternately by Thrash and Shields this far. Conyers, however, is running McKinnon a close race for the berth.

In McKinnon, the Red and Black has developed a star punter and a man who can be relied upon to reel off punts after punts after an average that should please the heart of the most critical coach. He and Henderson will look after the kicking for the Red and Black squad.

Smith at End.

Smith's playing in the Clemson game has earned him the right end berth and Conklin, rated by many as the best defensive end in the south, will be at the other wing and in tip-top condition.

Henderson and Turner will hold down the tackle positions, with Malone, shifted back to guard with the return of Henderson to the line-up. Delapierre will be at center.

Paddock will call signals for the Red and Black, with McWhorter and Carey running mates at the halves and Powell at fullback.

Broyles, Conyers, Thrash and Purcell will be the sub linemen, Crump, Hutchcock and Owens the sub ends, and Thompson, Logan, Dorsey and Sidbury the sub backfield men.

There are others on the squad who will be carried to Atlanta, but these men will have the call in playing in the game if the occasion demands.

A holiday has been granted by the faculty, and the student body, accompanied by some 1,000 Athens football fans, will journey to Atlanta on a special train of fifteen cars to cheer for the Red and Black. Another big party will go over in automobiles.

Figures Prove Grant Field Facilities Ample For Game; 5,304 Seats; Erecting Others

By Dick Jemison.

Under my signature in Tuesday morning's Constitution I advocated the playing of the Tech-Georgia football game at Ponce de Leon park on the idea that it was the logical and most convenient place to play this great battle.

Since then some matters have come to my attention, and I have been furnished with some additional information that makes me, in all justice to the Georgia Tech, slum at best, and the football fans of Atlanta, flop right over on the other side and state that I believe that Grant Field is the logical and best place.

The game will be played there or not at all. You can't have it both ways. There is no more chance of the game being played at Ponce de Leon park than there is of the federal prison or at Griffin, Ga.

Accommodations Ample.

The accommodations at Grant Field are ample. The only advantage in favor of Ponce de Leon park is the improved street car facilities. In all other phases of the argument, the scale lies with Grant Field.

Professor W. N. Randle, athletic director at Tech, received a day letter from Mr. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia yesterday afternoon, in which the latter insisted that the game be played on a neutral ground in the state of Georgia.

Mr. Randle, in a night letter to Professor Sanford last night, took exception to Professor Sanford's statement that the game be played on a neutral ground. He refers to subsequent conversation regarding the matter.

Review of Case.

Reviewing the case: All football contracts in the S. I. A. A. are made by Georgia and Tech are members, are arranged at the winter or annual meeting of that association, or tentatively.

Returning from the New Orleans meeting last winter, Professor Randle and Professor Morris and it was practically settled then, that the game be played at Grant field, a vacant lot at Ponce de Leon park, as it is the only available neutral ground in Atlanta.

Professor Randle, in a night letter to Professor Sanford last night, took exception to Professor Sanford's statement that the game be played on a neutral ground. He refers to subsequent conversation regarding the matter.

Actually Seats 5,304.

To get down to brass tacks, here is the actual seating capacity of Grant field. There are 2,908 seats on the west side, of concrete stands. On the east side there are 2,406 seats, or a total of 5,304 seats.

The other items, other arguments or other reasons why the game should be played at Ponce de Leon field instead of Grant field, are all in vain. The situation is being raised by either side regarding those, so we will also drop them.

But the seating capacity shows this: There are 6,000 seats at Ponce de Leon, 2,000 of these are in the bleachers and 4,000 are available for a football game. The main grandstand, which is the part at the west end of the field, and the third base grandstand for the baseball games, are also impracticable as they do not run parallel with the field.

Thus, at a maximum, the available parallel seats at Ponce de Leon will be only about 4,000 and some of these are located in the boxes on the field level and when the crowds get around the fence on the side lines these are not available.

Against this proposition Tech offers now 5,304 seats, all parallel with the field and all furnishing a clear, unobstructed view of the entire playing field. These seats are located right in the center of the boxes on the field level and when the crowds get around the fence on the side lines these are not available.

To Build More Seats.

Quoting from Mr. Randle's night letter to Mr. Sanford, the following interesting information is gleaned:

"However, to meet your contention beyond all question, we are now having ground work on a total capacity on Saturday will exceed the total of Ponce de Leon, including the bleachers.

Point No. 1 for Tech and Grant field. At other points that there are more side line facilities for fans to stand. At all Georgia-Tech games there are as many fans standing on the side lines and sitting in automobiles parked along the side lines as there are in the stands.

Ponce de Leon offers one side line. Tech offers one and a half side lines and one end. Ponce de Leon's ends cannot be used.

After being convinced that Tech has been done a grave injustice, as I, along with many others, have underestimated the seating capacity of the retraction in Tuesday's Constitution, and state it as my opinion, as given to the Freshmen, that the above facts, that the facilities at Grant field surpass the facilities at Ponce de Leon.

NEGROES WILL PLAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Friday afternoon, November 21, Plisk university, of Nashville, will play Morehouse college, of this city, formerly Atlanta Baptist college, a game of football on Morehouse college campus.

This game will decide the championship of the south among negro colleges. Morehouse defeated Plisk in Nashville last year and brought the title to Atlanta.

Plisk can't afford to be depended on to turn out a good team, and it is expected that the game will be thrilling and hard fought, as both teams are in good condition.

Changed Line-Ups Give Georgia Team Heavier Eleven

The Georgia eleven will be considerably heavier than the Yellow Jackets when the two teams race one another on Saturday.

There was not much difference in the two teams some time ago, but changes in line-ups necessitated by the injuries of some of the players have reduced the Tech average, until there is now a marked difference.

Neither coach expects certain as to how his eleven will line up, but they give the tentative line-ups as follows:

The Line-Ups.

Georgia—Conklin, left end (156); Henderson, left tackle (202); McKinnon, left guard (173); Delapierre, center (177); Malone, right guard (172); Malone, right tackle (170); Turner, right tackle (180); Smith, right end (149); Paddock, quarterback (165); Carey, left halfback (160); Whorrie, right halfback (185); Powell, fullback (170).

Note—These weights are with the uniforms on and were made by The Constitution's sporting editor.

From these line-ups the following figures are gleaned:

The Averages.

Georgia will weigh, from tackle to end, 1,224 pounds, an average of 132.5 pounds to the man in Georgia's favor.

Georgia will weigh, from end to end, 1,224 pounds, an average of 132.5 pounds to the man in Georgia's favor.

Georgia will weigh, in the back field, 672 pounds, an average of 168 pounds to the man in Georgia's favor.

Tech will weigh 852 pounds, an average of 106.5 pounds to the man in Georgia's favor.

garding those, so we will also drop them.

But the seating capacity shows this: There are 6,000 seats at Ponce de Leon, 2,000 of these are in the bleachers and 4,000 are available for a football game. The main grandstand, which is the part at the west end of the field, and the third base grandstand for the baseball games, are also impracticable as they do not run parallel with the field.

Thus, at a maximum, the available parallel seats at Ponce de Leon will be only about 4,000 and some of these are located in the boxes on the field level and when the crowds get around the fence on the side lines these are not available.

Against this proposition Tech offers now 5,304 seats, all parallel with the field and all furnishing a clear, unobstructed view of the entire playing field. These seats are located right in the center of the boxes on the field level and when the crowds get around the fence on the side lines these are not available.

To Build More Seats.

Quoting from Mr. Randle's night letter to Mr. Sanford, the following interesting information is gleaned:

"However, to meet your contention beyond all question, we are now having ground work on a total capacity on Saturday will exceed the total of Ponce de Leon, including the bleachers.

As to Neutral Ground.

Quoting from Mr. Randle's night letter regarding the neutral ground proposition, he says:

"There is no necessity for playing on a neutral ground. Each side has ample grounds. We are perfectly willing to alternate the annual game between Grant field and Ponce de Leon. It would be wise to play this year at Grant field, as the advertising and tickets are already placed for that field and we would probably find it impossible to secure reduced rates to Athens at this late date.

To back her contention that the football fans of the city will attend the game played at Grant field, the Tech athletic authorities are willing to show their records to prove that at all games played at Grant field the number here has been a larger attendance than at the game at Ponce de Leon in previous years.

The receipts of the Auburn and Sewanee games. The receipts of the Auburn game exceeded by $200 the receipts of the Sewanee game. The receipts of the Auburn game exceeded any of the Auburn games in the past.

Another point is that only twice since Tech and Georgia have been meeting have the number of persons at the maximum seating capacity now at Grant field, without allowing for the added seats for the game, been reached.

Taking everything into consideration, the game should be played at Grant field. It's the best place, after all. A two blocks' walk from the street car line matters not, if one can get a seat with a clear view of the game. Grant field affords this opportunity.

TEN EYCK TO COACH ALL YALE CREWS

New York, November 11.—James A. Ten Eyck, the veteran rowing coach, now at Syracuse, will be engaged to coach the Yale crews next spring, according to reports in sporting circles here.

A meeting of the Yale rowing committee will be held in this city within a few days and it is expected that a radical change in the Yale navy will be announced, including the engagement of Ten Eyck. Yale's experience during the past few seasons with the English system of rowing has been deemed generally a failure.

JUNIORS KEEP LEAD IN EMORY BATTLES

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., November 11 (Special).—The Juniors remain in the lead on Emory's football standing, which is:

Teams	P. W. L. Pts.
Juniors	5 2 1 160
Seniors	5 3 1 150
Sophomores	5 1 3 250
Freshmen	0 4 4 0

The Seniors secured a win over the Freshmen this afternoon by the score of 6 to 0, while the Juniors scored a victory over the Sophomores to the total of 13 and 0.

Saxon carried the ball over for the Seniors in the first game for the only touchdown of the season, after a series of line bucks down the field. The Freshmen played their best defensive game of the season, but were way off on handling the ball on the offensive as innumerable fumbles kept them from gaining.

The second game was fought throughout with the bright light. Stokes, when he recovered a fumble and went 70 yards for a Junior touchdown. The Freshmen scored a victory by Porter, the Junior full, was the best seen on Weber field in many moons. The Freshmen scored a victory by Porter and kept the Sophomores off. Porter kicked goal after the touchdown.

In the last half, with only a few more seconds to play, Demmond, a Junior half, intercepted a Sophomore and raced down the field for a touchdown. On a kick-out the ball was dropped.

The first games of Emory's inter-class season will come Monday, when the Seniors and Juniors will play. Should the Seniors win they will be tied with the Juniors for the pennant. The Freshmen will play the Juniors over the Sophs, they will be on even terms with their opponents for the title.

The present season is said to be the best from the view of good football played in the South. The teams have been more evenly balanced, and the largest score piled up this season was by the Juniors over the Freshmen by a score of 20 to 0.

STAGE BOOKING OFFICES FACE $3,000,000 SUIT

United Concern Alleged to Be Trust—Vaudeville Business Controlled.

New York, November 11.—The United Booking Offices of America, promoters of theatrical enterprises, are made defendants in a Sherman law anti-trust suit for $3,000,000 damages filed today in the federal court by H. E. Marinelli, limited, of New York, London and Paris.

named as defendants. The Marinelli concern, engaged in hiring vaudeville performers, alleges that its business has been destroyed by the defendants, who are charged with controlling the vaudeville business in this country and with blacklisting performers and theaters in the Keith and Orpheum circuits. Estimated damage to the Marinelli concern is placed at $1,000,000 and under the provisions of the Sherman law triple compensation therefor is asked. The break in relations between plaintiff and defendant, it is alleged, dates from August 1, last, when the Keith and Orpheum circuits discontinued their long standing practice of engaging some of their players through Marinelli and agreed to engage players only through the United Booking and Central Vaudeville companies.

BAD DAY FOR SLAYERS IN COURT'S DECISIONS

The Highest Tribunal Rules Against Four, Gives One New Chance for Life.

It was a severe day for slayers seeking a new trial in the supreme court yesterday. Out of five cases in which opinions were handed down, a new trial was granted in only one of them.

This was the case of Dorsey Relford, which came up from Liberty county. The accused was placed on trial for his life and an attorney was appointed to defend him. The attorney was given only ten minutes in which to confer with his client before the case went to trial. This the court held was an insufficient time and did not give the accused a chance to prepare his defense. The trial court should have granted a new trial and the case was, accordingly, reversed.

PRESIDENT OF CHAMBER MAY SERVE ONE YEAR

The proposition to make the term of the president of the chamber of commerce a one-year term instead of two years will be taken up before the directors of the chamber of commerce at their meeting at 3 o'clock today. The directors will also receive the report of the milk committee, of which S. A. Vlaszka is chairman, and will appoint a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing term.

President Wilmer L. Moore, whose term of office expires with the close of the present year, is decidedly in favor of having the chief officer serve only one year, believing that a two-year term is too much to ask of a business man. Other members are also said to be in favor of the change.

The new officers will probably begin their terms in the new offices in the Chamber of Commerce building, the remodeled structure on North Pryor street is expected to be completed enough for the chamber to move into its offices by January 1.

and supervision of the work which will be done by a number of sub-committees each headed by a chairman, each of which will have charge of a specific branch of it. Thus the campaign has been inaugurated this year with better organization than ever before, as it is anticipated that there is a great deal more work to be done.

"We have set our aim high this year," said Mr. Duffy, "and that is to sell 1,000,000 Red Cross Christmas seals in Atlanta between now and Christmas, though they were not last year."

mas. Georgia is expected to take 2,000,000 of them this year, and we want to place half of these in Atlanta, including College Park, East Point, Hapeville and Chattahoochee, which this year are in the Atlanta territory, though they were not last year.

PERRY WINS HIS SUIT AGAINST SHOE FACTORY

The suit of George H. Perry, which has been pending in the superior court since July 1912 and which was referred to Alton Richardson as auditor, and in which the auditor awarded the Plaintiff a judgment of $1,500, was finally settled in the superior court Tuesday afternoon, after having been on trial for five days. The jury brought in a verdict in favor of Perry, the plaintiff, sustaining virtually every contention and awarding him damages of $1,500.

Mr. Perry was represented in the litigation by John B. McClelland, who made one of the best addresses for his client, in the opinion of all who heard it, ever delivered in a civil case. The verdict is one that will be regarded with much interest by the shoe trade in general, as many questions difficult of solution were permanently settled by the decision.

Walter R. McElreath was attorney for the defendant.

FIRST BRIDAL COUPLE COME TO WINECOFF

Last night was the third time that the bridal chamber at the Hotel Winecoff was occupied for the first time by a bridal couple.

However, on the authority of Frank Harrell, lessee of the hotel, it was stated that J. R. Jordan and wife, of Anniston, Ala., were at the Peachtree hotel last night and that they were the first bona fide bride and groom to stop at the Winecoff.

The two other couples who had had the honor of being the first bridal couples were found to have been married, in one case, two months, and in the other, three months, and they registered at the hotel.

Evans Returns November 20.

General R. K. Evans, commander of the department of the coast, will return to Atlanta November 20 with his wife and son. The date of their return was announced Tuesday in a personal letter to friends in Atlanta.

Mr. Mahoney Says:

"I can teach an implement dealer—a hardware man—or an automobile agent, how to make money selling Cartercars. If we had some machines to offer, I would not be so sure about it."

"But with the Cartercar a man can go out and make money selling them because they are simple in construction. People are quick to recognize the simplicity of the Cartercar."

"Of course, they have to be shown that the principle is right. That, however, is not hard. Take a prospect out for a ride and the machine will do the rest."

"I can tell you of scores of dealers who have been selling Cartercars year after year for two, four, six, yes, eight years. The cars must be right and the dealers making money or they would have quit."

"Let's have a personal talk at the Show."

Special Exhibit This Week---Experts Will Show How to Cut Fuel Bills 66%

HERE is another astounding motor car advance offered you in the New 1914 Henderson—the solution of the "high cost of fuel" problem by the kerosene-consuming carburetor, invented by Ray Harroun, the renowned automobile engineer and winner of the famous 500-mile race. This remarkable invention can be fitted to the New Henderson if you desire. It will also burn gasoline. The week of November 10th, Mr. C. P. Henderson, President of the Henderson Motor Car Company, will attend the Atlanta Automobile Show.

The kerosene-burning Henderson is on exhibition at the Show, and can also be inspected at the salesroom of the Atlanta Auto Sales Company, 227 Peachtree Street. Interested parties will have this opportunity to receive demonstrations of the mechanical perfection, the proven efficiency and amazing economy of the New Henderson. It is unique in automobile advancement.

Remember, gasoline costs 20c to 25c a gallon. Kerosene is only 8c or 9c a gallon. You can use your New Henderson approximately 10,000 miles a year on less than $50 for fuel.

HENDERSON

Across Continent for $26

No carburetor made ever had a more grilling test than this new burner of kerosene. It worked efficiently and constantly for 3,600 miles—from Indianapolis to San Francisco—on a Henderson, averaging 16 miles per gallon. Another make, about the size of the Henderson, averaged 13 miles per gallon, running on gasoline and the gasoline at double the cost of the coal oil.

The Big Thing—the interesting fact to automobile purchasers and dealers is this:

The kerosene consumed on this long tour cost only $26! There were four passengers in the kerosene-driven Henderson. Divide that into $26. You have a fuel cost of less than $7 a passenger. The figure marks a new upkeep record.

Harroun drove this new Henderson. The carburetor worked as well in the mountains with their rarified atmosphere and in the stretch of desert sands as on the level middle state roads.

The Henderson is the "year-ahead car." This carburetor is one of these advanced features. Leading cars next year will burn kerosene as well as gasoline. You can get this economy value on the New Henderson, right now.

Other Big Henderson Values

Because rigid tests proved that wire wheels increased tire mileage amazingly, we use them on the New Henderson. If you drive this car your tire expense will be 35 to 50 per cent less. The increased resiliency gives wonderful easy riding qualities. It is an accepted fact that wire wheels are more durable than wooden ones. Wire wheels are optional on the Henderson.

Added to this you will find the following logical and proven advancements in the New Henderson:

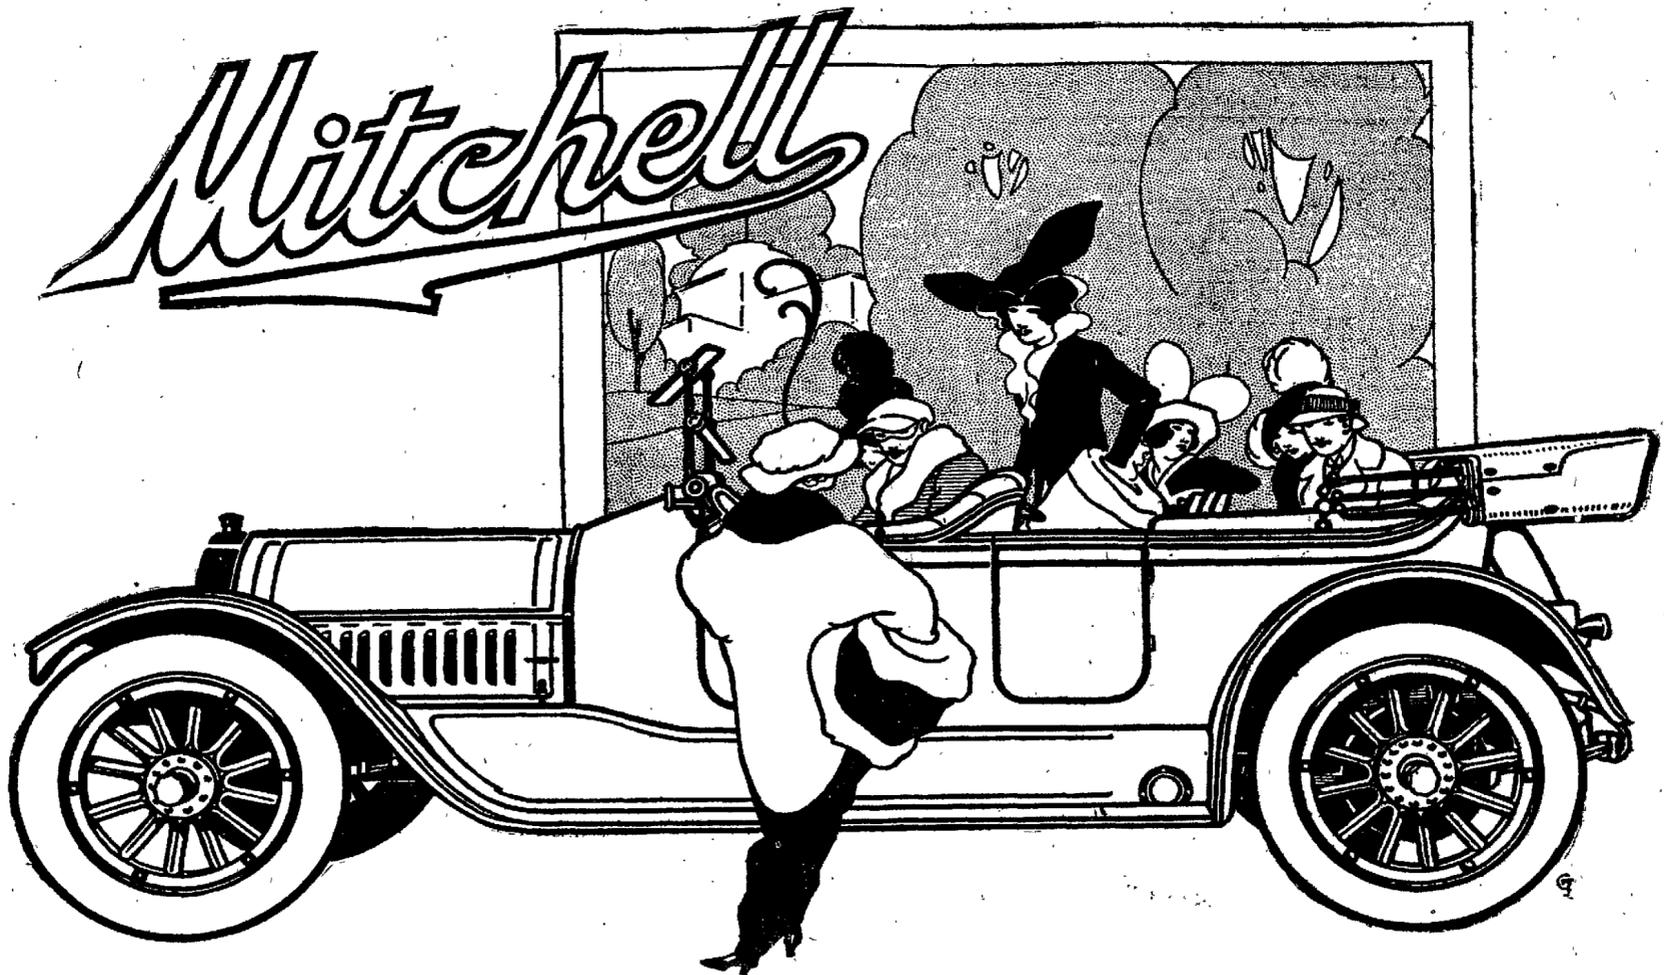

Left hand drive, center seat control—convenient at the driver's right hand—the dustproof enclosed motor, electric self-starting system, the Stutz rear system, cowl dash, cowl gasoline tank, oversize tires, electric lights and a score of refinement features.

The Hendersons also have a light touring car at $1,585 and the Henderson Six at $2,285.

Atlanta Auto Sales Co., 227 Peachtree Street

The 1914 Henderson, equipped with this tested kerosene carburetor, is going to attract every one interested in automobiles and in solving the fuel upkeep problem. Mr. Henderson will be in Atlanta the week of November 10 only. Prospective automobile purchasers and dealers interested in the Henderson complete line or the kerosene carburetor are most cordially invited.
