DEATH BLOW GIVEN TO MEXIC DEBILION

That Is Boast' Made by Huerta Government—Sweeping Federal Successes Reported in Northern Mexico.

Mexico City, October 5.—Government officials regard the federal successes during the past week as "a death blow" to the organized revolution in the north.

Advices from General Samuel E. Mercede, military governor of the state of Chihuahua, to the department of interior, describes the rebels at the greatest problem faced by the school authorities in the history of Atlanta.

Several thousand men were said to be engaged at Santo Rosalia and fighting had been in progress since Thursday.

General Torreon, with 1,000 men, marching in relief of Torreon, has reached Madera, about 100 miles east of Torreon, but is making slow headway because of the necessity of repairing the railroad.

Conditions at Torreon have greatly improved and it is reported the rebels virtually have abandoned that district.

General Felipe Alvarez is said to be preparing an expedition to Durango, which for months, has been in the undisputed possession of the "rebels."

Rebels, pillaging and burning of ranches and towns, have been reported in the states of Puebla and Morelos. The efforts of the rebels in San Luis Potosi, Coahuila and Durango, have been reported.

MODERN SCHOOL OPENS THIS WEEK

This Will Be Good News to Residents of Inman Park, Edgewood and Highland Districts.

Here's good news for those who live in the Inman Park, Edgewood and Highland school districts according to Superintendent William M. Slaton.

The new school will greatly relieve the congested situation in this section of the city, which has been the greatest problem faced by the school authorities in the history of Atlanta.

SAVANNAH STILL HOPES FOR VANDERBILT RACE

Half of Required Number of Entries Made and Others Are Expected.

Savannah, Ga., October 5.—Hope that the Vanderbilt cup race will be run here this month was revived today when officials of the Savannah Automobile club received a telegram from an automobile concern offering to enter two cars, bringing the total entries to five, half of the required number.

Widening and improving the city-mile race, which connects the North and Baltic seas, between Brunswick and Savannah, will soon be completed. The entry will increase enormously the utility of this waterway and have been planned for the next few years. If the draft of steam vessels could continue to increase, the vessel will further be deepened to accommodate them.

Certain Exquisite Linen Pieces Have Their Prices Greatly Reduced

There come times in this store's year when certain merchandise, be it ever so exquisite, must suffer great price-reductions. It is an arbitrary rule that is apt to be enforced at any time.

When that time does arrive it means a fine opportunity for the buying public. It has arrived in the department of fancy linen pieces

The reason for these reductions is that many of the pieces are soiled on the outer fold, so we will not keep them at regular prices. But they are linens destined to many, many successful trips to the laundry.

The reductions are huge compensation for this one extra trip that will restore their freshness. A timely opportunity if ever one were for housekeepers turning indoors again, fixing up the house, planning the social activities that necessitate just such linens.

There are Madeira, drawn-work and Cluny Cloths and hand-hemstitched and embroidered Linen Bedspreads.

The needlework is exquisite, true, dainty, flawless, in rich, fine patterns, and done on linen of a quality worthy of all the care and patience that the work shows.

Lovers of fine linens will be delighted when they see what these prices stand for.

Table with columns: Madeira Lunch Cloths, Drawn-work Cloths, Linen Spreads. Lists various items and their prices.

Busy Days in the Furniture Store, Made So By—

The arrival of great quantities of that sort of furniture that homekeepers want in their homes. And this is very varied.

It may be as simple as you please, with grace in every line— It may be the most elegant and most richly carved—or the many in-betweens of these extremes.

For the great stocks of this five-story furniture store are gathered with the idea of pleasing many tastes, many good tastes and many purses, and now they have been brought to that point where every homekeeper, planning to refurbish the home or to select a separate piece, ought to see them to make sure of greatest value.

NOT ONE MAN, BUT--ATLANTA.

Since the last municipal election columns of newspaper space have been devoted to world gueswork as to the complexion of the next council upon the basis of a line-up "for Woodward" or "against Woodward."

Combinations innumerable and puzzles galore have been offered bearing upon probable alignments "for" and "against" the mayor.

Not one word as to "for Atlanta" or "against Atlanta." Not the hazard of a guess as to constructive work to which the new council would apply its energies for the upbuilding of the city.

Admittedly, the city faces a crisis in its history. Physically, it is undergoing a second rehabilitation, almost as important as that which followed the wake of Sherman.

From the civic and political standpoint, it is debating changes in government and demanding widespread improvements in public policy.

From this fluid state of public thought and determination, problems literally team.

It ever there was a time when personality, factionalism and juggling should be pushed to the background and the community welfare made paramount, that time is the present.

Council and future councils, the mayor and future mayors are going to find their abilities severely taxed in dealing with numberless public questions.

They will have no time, if they are true to oath, for partisan scheming.

And Atlanta is in no mood to tolerate such philandering.

Let it be ATLANTA, first, last, all the time!

We believe the mayor and the new council possess sufficient patriotism to see the situation in this broad light.

THE GERM IN THE MILK.

Any mother in Atlanta who doubts the connection between impure milk and ailing or dying children can be shown proof by attending the meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Auditorium-Armory.

The meeting will be held under the joint auspices of the state department of agriculture and the milk committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

The Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs is in co-operation. Almost the full expert staff of the department, including Commissioner J. D. Price, State Chemist Stallings, State Veterinarian Bahnsen and Dr. Kenneth N. Atkins, state bacteriologist, will be present and make addresses.

The lectures will be pitched upon a practical plane, as showing the deadliness of impure milk and the ease with which milk can be kept clean and harmless.

Stereopticon slides will illustrate the lectures. Both the commissioner of agriculture and the chamber of commerce wish emphatically to disclaim any intention to injure the dairy interests of Georgia.

Those who through ignorance or inadvertence fail to comply with the regulation will be given a thorough chance to redeem themselves. But both the commissioner and the members of the milk committee believe that the lives and health of the babies and children of Atlanta take right of way over every consideration.

ing at Cutbert, the federation will go officially on record as endorsing the movement. The lectures tomorrow evening have as their theme a subject vital to the welfare of the community. The parents of Atlanta have an especial interest in thoroughly familiarizing themselves with each detail.

JONES' SOUND VIEWS.

Amusing where it is not tiresome has been the epidemic of irresponsible rumors following the recent adoption by the people of Atlanta of the principles of the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

The truth is that not since the adoption of this principle has there been any serious hazard of the recall of a single official of the city. The whole thing is a teacup-tempt.

Far more sound are the views of Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor. In the current issue he indorses heartily these three principles, and then says--

Do not think for one minute that the people--organized labor--who have fought for this great principle for a generation will stand by and see it used as a weapon for the execution of private or political malice.

He is right. That triple-headed principle is in the new charter, or in any fundamental law, simply as a check or as a balance. It may be years before it is invoked in Atlanta. It may never be invoked.

It is ever there, available for purposes of discipline and good government, not to express private feud or to undermine upright officials. If in the future any politician or set of politicians conceive the fallacy that they are bigger than Atlanta, or that they own Atlanta, the people now have a device effective in bringing them summarily back to the right perspective.

It is peculiarly appropriate that Mr. Jones should have celebrated the fifteenth birthday of The Journal of Labor with the expression of views in such entire conformity with the career of that periodical. In congratulating Mr. Jones and his paper, it gives The Constitution pleasure to testify that the man and his policies have been potent forces for conservatism and advancement in Atlanta.

He has a valuable gift of seeing clearly the ultimate value of issues as affecting his people and the city and the interests generally of labor. His diplomacy is of that tactful kind and his logic so convincing that he has come to be known more as the apostle of peace than as one who carries a club. In a sense, he and his paper offer models of the most achieving methods of union labor.

The Constitution wishes for Mr. Jones many profitable anniversaries and a steady increase of the influence he wields so well for constructive ends.

RACIAL INDIGESTION.

Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, and several prominent business men of New Orleans have launched a campaign to deflect foreign immigration to the southern states. This is not the first attempt of a similar nature. Several have proved successful.

Others have developed into dismal fiascos, not only for the immigrants but for the south as well.

Wherever such a plan has run aground it has been due to bad judgment in selecting the sort of immigration needed in this territory. That is what our friends of Louisiana should remember and against which they should guard.

We want and welcome in the south those peoples of Europe who can assimilate our customs, sympathize with and abide by our institutions and become imbedded into our citizenry.

We do not want the kind that will show dangerous or seditious European doctrines, or who as soon as they reach this country become intoxicated with the new liberty to which they are unaccustomed and run amuck, intellectually and morally.

The Constitution, while receptive to the right sort of foreign immigration, has held that, all things being equal, the south was in a position to profit by domestic immigration.

Yearly it is computed that 75,000 robust American farmers hike over the line into Canada, lured by new and cheap lands. They can secure here virtually the same advantages, with the superior advantage of living under an established order, among their own people, with plenty of educational, religious and social facilities.

We hope to see the newly organized Georgia Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Commercial Congress and the Southern Settlement and Development organization work energetically along these lines.

Numbers, with regard to immigration, is desirable. But we do not want numbers at the expense of what might be called economic or social indigestion.

A Story of the Moment

FAKE FREEDOM. "They call this a free country," said the retired merchant, gloomily, "but it isn't anything of the kind. The sun sets, and his last beam falls on a slave, or words to that effect. The precious boon of freedom is a theory, not a condition, and our fathers bled and died in vain. I have a great partiality for a straw hat. It is the only kind of a lid that feels comfortable on my dome all of the year round, and if the constitution of the United States amounted to three whoops I could do so."

"But the palladium of our liberties doesn't palliate worth a cent, and I can wear a straw hat only a few months in the year. If I appear on the streets in early spring with my favorite hat, the blacker encompass me around about, and knock the lid down over my ears, and I have to pry it off with a screw-driver. If I loom up in the fall with a straw hat, the same alecks come after me, whooping in demonic glee, and bend the hat from my head. I wish to remind them of Yorktown and Valley Forge, and of the priceless boon of which you have heard. They simply won't stand it to see a man wearing a straw hat, yet I have no doubt those same alecks regard this as a land of freedom."

"I can sympathize with you from start to finish," complained the hotelkeeper. "I've long been convinced that freedom on her mountain height is selling gold night, but instead of tearing the azure from his audience of course, a man has to choose his audience when voting such sentiments, or some patriot is likely to rise and half sole his head. If we don't have freedom in small things, then we don't have freedom at all. Now, you consider ole Quackenbush. Of course, he has his faults, but take him by the collar, he is a good citizen. He pays his taxes and on the Fourth of July he covers the front of his house with star-spangled banners."

"The other day he came in here fairly beaming, and told me he had bought a phonograph, and his lights were filled with merriment. I never saw a man more enthusiastic than he was. He said he had one record particular that filled his bosom with delight, and he played it over and over and over and he was so glad, but every time I'd let him get tired of it. He talked me him about his phonograph, and when he departed I wished him many happy returns of the day."

"The next morning he came in again, the picture of gloom. He had his head wrapped up in a flannelled poultice and he seemed to be suffering from a white while he explained. On the preceding evening he was playing his favorite record on the phonograph when a shower of bricks and bottles and such bric-a-brac came through the window. Two or three hit him on the head, but the rest struck the phonograph and reduced it to a wreck. Quackenbush argued that those bricks and things didn't come in of their own volition. He felt morally certain that they were thrown by some disgruntled party, and wanted somebody arrested, but the police wouldn't do a thing. The chief just grinned at him and told him that if he played the same record hour after hour he got just what was coming to him."

"I can sympathize with you from start to finish," complained the hotelkeeper. "I've long been convinced that freedom on her mountain height is selling gold night, but instead of tearing the azure from his audience of course, a man has to choose his audience when voting such sentiments, or some patriot is likely to rise and half sole his head. If we don't have freedom in small things, then we don't have freedom at all. Now, you consider ole Quackenbush. Of course, he has his faults, but take him by the collar, he is a good citizen. He pays his taxes and on the Fourth of July he covers the front of his house with star-spangled banners."

The World's Mysteries

In spite of the many shortcomings that have been ascribed to King Henry IV, of Lancaster, to his credit must be placed that of a most forgiving father. The king was subject to severe fits and they were of frequent occurrence during the last years of his life. They were so severe that an attempt was made to force him to resign the crown, or at least to give up the regency to the Prince of Wales.

It seems clear, from the English Rolls of Parliament, that the king resented this interference, and the prince, shrinking from an open conflict with his father, retired for a time from public life. But there was evidence of a break between father and son, and Henry, having paid off the prince's arrears of salary as a councillor, he discharged him from further attendance, and Thomas, the king's second son, who had adhered to his father's side, was made Duke of Clarence.

Later there was a reconciliation between father and son when the Prince of Wales was accused of embezzling sums of money intended for the Calais garrison. He sought out his father and the charges were disproved. It would appear that King Henry had many reasons to accuse his eldest son of a lack of parental respect, but he seemed always willing to forgive and forget.

There are many instances to prove that the prince coveted the throne, but the most marked of these is the story as told by Monstrelet in his "Chroniques," of the attempt of the prince to steal his father's crown. Upon one occasion, when the king was visited by a severe fit, the Prince of Wales entered his apartment, and, seeing the father lying senseless, he concluded he was also lifeless. Thereupon he bore away his father's crown, which he found by the bedside, without remarking the attendants or making an effort to relieve the king's condition. Henry, recovering himself soon after, missed his crown and anxiously inquired for it. The prince hastened to restore the diadem, which he said he had only removed as a consequence of his father no longer capable of wearing it. It is related that he excused himself so well that the king not only forgave him, but blessed him.

PACKERS TURN TO GEORGIA IN BEEF FAMINE CRISIS. The capitalists and the farmers of Georgia ought to have sat down with me at the recent deliberations of the American Meat Packers' association in Chicago. They would have had sweep from their minds the last doubt as to the nearness of a meat famine in this country, the keen anxiety of the packing interests and the hopefulness of the south and the realization to Georgia. The threatened beef shortage, unless it is averted, will strike every dinner table and every pocketbook in the nation.

Conditions Desperate. "From the address of President Bischoff on down," said Mr. White, "the keynote of the convention was pitched to the imminent beef famine in this country and means to avert it. President Bischoff showed what the Constitution has repeatedly contended. That is, the beef industry in this state shows unmistakable symptoms of a genuine revival. He talked yesterday regarding the result of his observations in Chicago and the door of opportunity he saw there opened to this state."

RELIEF TO TRAFFIC CALLS FOR ACTION

Improvement of Spring Street Will Be of Great Aid in Putting End to the Present Congestion.

The congested condition of Peachtree street, from the business center of the city nearly out to the city limits, is attracting the attention of both citizens and officials, and it is now apparent to all cognizant with the situation that something must be done, and done very soon, to afford relief to traffic.

CONVASSA PROPERTY OWNERS

Realizing the necessity of making a start by the first of January, 1914, those who are interested in the improvement of the city are making a canvass among property holders. To the contrary, A. G. Rhodes, owner of a large tract under construction at Peachtree Road, has given the city a right-of-way easement for the extension of Peachtree street into Peachtree road, thus opening a direct straight boulevard from Brookwood to the city.

ADVANTAGES OF EXTENSION

Chief of Construction Clayton suggests that the city construct a new way into Carnegie way by taking off the street corner, and Spring street could then be extended to Brookwood.

IMPORTANT RATE CASES WILL SOON BE DECIDED

U. S. Supreme Court Will Shortly Pass on Atlanta-Nashville Dispute.

Washington, October 5.—Rate decisions of high importance are expected from the supreme court on first decision day, October 22, although the court itself has given no indications of its intentions. Justice Hughes is expected to clear up the so-called rate cases by upholding the interstate rates on the Kentucky rate case, involving rates on distillery supplies, from Ohio river cities to distillery centers in Kentucky. It also involves the validity of the McCord act, enabling the state railroad commission to fix reasonable rates on interstate business. The railroads contend that proper appeal from the commission's decisions is not allowed in the law.

ATLANTA-NASHVILLE CASE

The court is expected to decide the Louisville and Nashville v. Atlantic Coast Line case. This case involves a bitter contest between Nashville, on one hand, and Atlanta and other southeastern cities on the other, because Nashville shippers were allowed to load grain from the northwest, keeping it in Nashville six months and reship on a through rate, while such a privilege was not accorded shippers in other cities. The railroad defended the practice on the ground that it was necessary to meet competition on the Chicago route.

THE GEORGIA HEADLIGHTS CASE

The court has had under consideration during the summer and soon may decide a number of cases involving the validity of state laws. The Atlantic Coast Line railroad wants the Georgia law requiring headlights of certain power declared unconstitutional. National bank stockholders are seeking to annul the New York law which allows New York city officials to tax shares of national bank stock owned by deducting the indebtedness of the stock owners.

LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE

Southern Railway Inaugurates Bulletin Service for Farmers.

As a part of its work for the upbuilding of the live stock industry in the southeast, the live stock department of the Southern railway periodically issues a bulletin telling of stock for sale or exchange and of stock dealers. The bulletin is compiled from information furnished by stock owners, and copies are mailed to over 1,000 farmers and dealers. Through this bulletin a large number of sales have been made, and many farmers have been enabled to get stock of just the type they desired. Instead of sending good stock to the slaughter house, many owners have, through this bulletin, been enabled to effect an exchange of their stock for a more useful one to the life of a good animal.

CITY OF BRUNSWICK LEVIES ON STEAMERS

Brunswick, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) Whether or not steamboat companies are liable for a municipal tax is an important question that the courts of Georgia will have to decide shortly as the result of an appeal from the city of Brunswick yesterday, when the city levied upon three passenger steamers, owned by the Georgia Steamship company and the Brunswick and Darien Steamboat company, and prepared a legal advertisement calling for payment of the three steamers by the marshal in November. Before the notices were published, the city was stopped by attorneys representing the steamer lines.

MRS. MARTHA HUDSON DIED SUNDAY MORNING

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Clay Hudson, aged 85, of Conyers, Ga., who died Sunday morning, will be held at 10 o'clock today at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. C. Summers, in Conyers. Interment will be in the Conyers cemetery.

APPEAL BY BUDDHISTS TO WOODROW WILSON

Tokio, October 5.—Buddhists in a mass meeting today in the Hongwanji temple adopted a resolution in which they appealed to President Woodrow Wilson bearing on Japanese-American relations. The message was as follows: "For the sake of universal peace and the progress of humanity, we in paying homage to the president earnestly wish for the development of a friendship between the United States and Japan, based on liberty and justice with the exclusion of religious and racial prejudice. Three thousand Buddhists were present. M. Oishi, leader of the progressive party, was the only one who was unable to obtain fundamental solution of the California land question. He urged determination by the United States to back up the authorities.

J. Stoddard Johnston Dead.

St. Louis, Mo., October 5.—J. Stoddard Johnston, 80 years old, former associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, died late last night at the home of his son, Harris H. Johnston, in Clayton, Mo. Death was due to pneumonia. Johnston was a member of the Democratic party in 1875 but was elected to the Kentucky legislature in 1876 and secretary of state from 1876 to 1879. For twenty years he was democratic state chairman of Kentucky.

Governor Tells Children Sunday School Lessons Have Aided Him in Work

Before nearly 750 members of the Second Baptist church Sunday school Governor John M. Slaton yesterday reviewed in a brief address his experiences during twenty-seven years of office. He has always been a devoted Sunday school attendant. I started in the active work of teaching Sunday school when I was a young man, and I have kept it up all these years. I find that the lessons and the scriptures which were read to me in the Sunday school have always remained in my mind, and have aided me when in reflection I have sat down to study out problems that came to me for solution.

DEFICIT OF $4,127,632 FOR NEW HAVEN ROAD

New York, October 5.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad during the year ended June 30, 1913, spent $4,127,632 more than it received, according to a report made public today by Howard Elliott, the new head of the system, explaining this deficit and stating what has been done and what is in prospect to meet the adverse criticism of which the railroad lately has been the target.

ENTOMBED FOR 8 DAYS, TOSHESKY FEELS GOOD

Centralla, Pa., October 5.—Thomas Tosesky, the miner who was liberated after being entombed for eight days, felt so good this morning that he will attend next year on the Continental mine, after he gets out of the hospital. He was buried at Mount Carmel and joined in a general prayer which was offered on account of the rescue. The father of the miner was crowded to his capacity and those who could not gain admittance to the building stood with bowed heads around the altar and offered up thanks for the miner's safe deliverance from behind the wall of coal.

FOUR MILITARY CAMPS FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

Washington, October 5.—Encouraged by the success of the two student military camps held at Gettysburg, Pa., and Monterey, Cal., the war department has decided to have four more next year. The camps have not been selected, but they will be located in centers easily accessible to college students. One camp will be in northern New York, probably on Lake Champlain; another at the northern center of the third in the Virginia mountains or perhaps farther south, and the fourth on the central Pacific coast, probably Monterey.

Memorial to Roddenbery

Thomasville, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—The members of the local Women's Christian Temperance union at a meeting held at the residence of the late late Congressman S. A. Roddenbery decided to erect a monument to his memory. The monument, if decided, would be in the shape of a drinking fountain, to be placed on one of the principal streets of the city. Committees were appointed to arrange for the necessary funds, etc., and to arrange for the erection of this memorial.

WEATHER IS DOMINANT IN THE COTTON MARKET

More Rain in Texas Will Have Bullish Effect—Estimates on Size of the Yield.

New Orleans, La., October 5.—Because of the crop situation in Texas, the cotton market probably will be much of a weather affair this week. The Texas crop has suffered severe damage from the excessive rains, and more rain in that section would have a very bullish effect on prices. Clear weather, unless it became too cold, probably would induce a recovery upward. Texas will be watched more closely than any other state in the cotton region this week.

With the last report on condition of the season out of the way and the growing season practically over, the crop will from now on guess more and more on the size of the yield this season. From now on crop estimates will come fast and fast, and they will have much to do with the course of prices. As the situation now stands the trader is decidedly inclined to reduce estimates.

BANKERS GATHERING FOR BOSTON MEETING

Boston, October 5.—It is the attitude of the nation's bankers as a whole toward the proposed reform in the currency system is expected to be made clear during the thirty-ninth annual convention of the American Bankers' association which opens here tomorrow.

The currency commission of the association has prepared a comprehensive report on the proposed legislation, which is to be presented to the convention Wednesday by the chairman of the committee, A. Barton Hepburn, of New York. The committee has endeavored to advise the members of the association by the 14,000 banks represented by the association, but discussing a debate are invited, and leading bankers will express their opinions on the committee's findings.

FAREWELL SERVICES GIVEN FOR REV. LONG

CENTENNIAL OBSERVED AT ANTIOCH CHURCH

Athens, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—Today at Antioch church, Stephens, Oglethorpe county, occurred the centennial celebration of the institution. Two thousand and more people were in attendance. The sermon was preached by Dr. E. D. Gray, of Atlanta, in the afternoon sermon by Rev. W. M. Cotte, for 13 years the pastor there, and the exercises were presided over by Rev. J. D. Bell, who is pastor and son of a pastor of the church, moderator of the association and president of the state convention to which it belongs. The late Dr. P. H. Mall, chancellor of the university for many years, was pastor for thirty-six years of this old church—and of the church for more than forty years. When he died his son, John P. Mall, being a practicing lawyer, was called not to the pastorate, but actually to the ministry.

SPECIAL CARS BRING AGNES SCOTT GIRLS TO HEAR DR. OGDEN

Several hundred young men and women students of Atlanta, including 120 Agnes Scott girls, had this question put squarely up to them Sunday night by Dr. Dunbar Ogden, at a special "student service" held in the Central Wesleyan church. "Shadows—A Sermon on Personal Intuition," was Dr. Ogden's subject, and his sermon was a personal appeal to the young men and women to so build their lives that their shadows shall be for good.

"Now is the critical time in all our careers when your characters are being formed—when the question is being decided as to what kind of a shadow your life shall cast," Dr. Ogden said. "There are two kinds of shadows cast by human lives—some like the shadows of great rocks of the desert, under which weary souls may find rest and inspiration, and some like the dark, pestilential shadows of rocks that kill the vegetation and saplings that try to grow under them. Which kind of a shadow is yours?"

The 120 Agnes Scott girls who heard the sermon came from Decatur in two great cars which also took them home afterwards. There were many Tech boys in the audience, as well as a large number of young men students from the medical colleges of the city.

CURRENCY REFORM GOES TO THE FRONT

With Tariff Out of the Way, Democratic Leaders Will Center Efforts on Money Legislation.

Washington, October 5.—Political Washington, relieved of the long drawn out consideration of the tariff, will focus its attention this week on the second of the democratic reform measures—banking and currency legislation.

Divided on Banking Reform. While there was unanimity of principle on tariff revision widely divergent views are held by democratic senators on banking reform.

To Decrease Cost of Living. President Wilson believes a general discussion of the currency bill and any improvement that the senate banking committee can reach the floor of the senate before the middle of November.

increase in the cost of living that will be felt by the rank and file of the country is not dependent alone on tariff revision but upon a prompt reform of the nation's monetary system as well as careful amendment of the anti-trust laws.

None of the administration leaders entertain the slightest idea that the tariff will have any adverse effect on the other hand in pushing forward the currency program they have pointed out that an elastic financial system is essential to the success of the program.

As soon as the December session opens the administration will begin to consider the currency bill and the program. There is no intention at the white house to draft the administration measure until after the session.

At the white house there is a confidence that the bill will be passed this session or at least before the first of the year.

PASTOR DRAWS LESSON FROM BASEBALL FIELD

Muggsy McGraw's Lecture Used as Text for Sermon by Dr. Lincoln McConnell.

On first thought, from religion to baseball would appear a far cry, but the manner in which Dr. Lincoln McConnell delivered the two subjects in his sermon last night proved very interesting and instructive indeed.

Dr. McConnell's address was entitled "Winning the Pennant," and was of especial interest to young men.

Dr. McConnell's sermon was delivered in part, as follows: "I had the pleasure some months ago of hearing McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, deliver an address in Pittsburgh.
