BEACHEY SWOOPS TO SALUTE GIRLS AND DEALS DEATH

Noted Aviator Loses Control and His Aeroplane Kills Miss Ruth Hildreth and Fatally Injures Sister.

GIRLS ON HOUSE TOP WHEN HIT BY AIRSHIP

With the Girls Were Lieutenants Richardson and Bellinger, of the Army Aviation Corps.

Rochester, N. Y., October 7.—Miss Ruth Hildreth, daughter of W. E. Hildreth, of New York city, was killed and her sister, Dorothy Hildreth, was perhaps fatally injured this afternoon in Hammondsport when Lincoln Beachey lost control of a 100 horsepower aeroplane and it swept a number of spectators off a roof from which they were watching the exhibition.

Ruth Hildreth fell upon an automobile. Her skull was fractured. Among those slightly hurt were Lieutenants Richardson and Bellinger, of the United States aviation corps, and Beachey.

The accident occurred near the head of Lake Keuka, where Beachey is said to have planned to execute a somersault in the air. A crowd had gathered for the exhibition.

Beachey Dipped to Salute.

To gain a good view the Misses Hildreth and the navy officers climbed to the top of a small building used as headquarters by naval aviators.

Beachey recognized the party and dipped his machine in salute. They waved. The aeroplane went to the end of the field, turned and came back. When it was over the heads of the Hildreth party the machine was seen to dip. The aeroplane came so close to the party as to sweep all to the ground. The aeroplane careened wildly and plunged to the earth, unseating the aviator and wrecking the machine.

Both Girls Unconscious.

Ruth Hildreth was unconscious when spectators reached her and blood gushing from a gaping wound in her head. Her sister also was unconscious, but Lieutenants Bellinger and Richardson were able to rise. Dorothy Hildreth sustained a broken arm and leg and may have internal injuries. Her condition is said to be critical. Lieutenants Bellinger and Richardson escaped with cuts and bruises that are not serious. Beachey sprained an arm and ankle.

Beachey Lost Control.

Beachey said that as he reached a point directly over the naval building he momentarily lost control of his machine because his foot slipped from one of the controls.

Ruth Hildreth was about twenty years old and her sister is about two years younger. For a number of years they had been visitors at Lake Kenka, where W. E. Hildreth has a summer home.

Hildreth Prominent In New York.

New York, October 7.—W. E. Hildreth, whose daughters were among the ill-fated spectators of Lincoln Beachey in Hammondsport, N. Y., today, was formerly president of the Old Breslin Hotel company. He is now president of a wine company in Urbana, N. Y., where the family has a summer residence. The Hildreth home here is in Flushing, L. I.

OTTLEY IS HONORED BY FELLOW BANKERS

Chosen President of Clearing House Section—Working to Bring Bankers to Atlanta.

Boston, October 7.—Four sectional meetings were held today preliminary to the formal opening of the convention of the American Bankers' association tomorrow. Each of the sections which met today elected officers for the coming year.

The state secretaries' section chose W. J. Henry, of New York, as president, and P. W. Hall, of Iowa, secretary-treasurer.

The savings bank section elected as its new president J. F. Sartor, of Los Angeles.

The new officers of the clearing house section are:

President, J. A. Ottley, Atlanta, Ga.; vice president, A. O. Wilson, St. Louis.

In the trust company section F. H. Goff, of Cleveland, Ohio, was chosen president.

A spirited contest is indicated for the next meeting of the association. Atlanta, Richmond and Atlantic City are seeking the privilege of entertaining the next convention. The friends of Atlanta seem hopeful of winning.

The social side of the convention reached its climax tonight with a grand ball at Symphony hall, attended by more than 2,000 delegates and ladies.

NUMEROUS HOLD-UPS WORRYING THE POLICE

Police headquarters is worried over the prevalence of hold-ups in which women have figured for the past several months. Not less than a dozen highway robberies, in which negro women have assisted, have happened almost in the very heart of the city recently.

As he was on his way home at 178 East Fair street, Marion Smith, a solicitor for The Constitution, was attacked from behind by two negro men at Washington and Mitchell streets, shortly before midnight.

While the men held him securely, two negro women searched his pockets, relieving him of $17 in cash and a valuable stick pin. Policemen Milam and Palmer are investigating.

FORTY THOUSAND FANS SEE GIANTS BEATEN IN OPENER

Giants Used Three Pitchers, But to No Avail—Bender, Cool and Crafty, Pitched the Entire Game.

BAKER AND COLLINS HIT WHEN HITS MEANT RUNS

New York, October 7.—Outhitting and outfielding the New York Giants in the opening game of the world's series, the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the National league representatives at the Polo grounds this afternoon by a score of six runs to four.

So complete was the supremacy of the American league champions in the initial contest that the victory appeared to be but a continuation of the series of 1911, when the Athletics won the title of that year from the Giants by four games out of six. As if to heighten the illustration there were several feature plays that might have been reproduced, so closely did they resemble those of twenty-four months ago.

The game was witnessed by a gathering of spectators that taxed the capacity of the New York club stadium and swelled the coffers of those financially interested to the extent of more than $75,000.

The exact number of fans who paid admission to the stands was 36,291, and the day's receipts amounted to $75,295. These figures, as furnished by the national commission, occasioned surprise, for the attendance fell short by more than 2,000 of that of the first game of 1911, although so far as could be seen there appeared to be just as many persons present as was the case two years ago.

Many Denied Admission.

Certainly the scenes, both inside and outside the baseball arena, equaled those of any preceding world's series, so far as the gathering was concerned. Including those who witnessed the game in official capacity they crossed the 40,000 mark and fully half that number failed to gain access to the park.

So great were the throngs that surrounded the Polo grounds that it was necessary to call out the police reserves and discontinue the elevated railroad service to the ground gates in order that the thousands might not be augmented and sweep beyond the control of the police.

Much as the local contingent of fandom was chagrined at the defeat of the Giants, there was none who could gainsay the right of the Athletics to the fruits of their victory in the opening clash of the 1913 championship. The Mackmen went about their task in a business-like manner, and before two hours had passed demonstrated that for the day at least theirs was the better team.

They outbatted the Giants, driving both Marquard and Crandall from the mound with fusillades of long hits, which quickly accounted for runs. In fielding, too, the standard-bearers of the American league outshone the representatives of the older association.

Each team gathered eleven hits from the delivery of the rival twirlers, but the Athletics' drives were more timely and of greater length. The Giants gathered twelve bases from their eleven hits, while the Athletics' total was twenty. The breaks that occurred in the fielding tested the metle of the Philadelphia club to a greater extent than that o fthe New York players, for with few exceptions the Athletics' chances were harder than those offered the Giants' infield and outfield.

Shafer's Costly Judgment.

It was Centerfielder Shafer's misjudging of Schang's drive to deep center that really paved the way for the Athletics' victory. It was one of the few hard chances offered the Giants' fielders during the game, and when Shafer failed to gauge the flight of the ball, the Athletics seized the opening and took the lead, never to be headed. The Giants started a rally in the fifth inning, which netted three runs, but the Mackmen came back with another in the eighth, and clinched the victory.

It has been said that every world's series develops a hero, and the Athletics lost no time in seeking the laurels in this direction. Eddie Collins played a remarkable game at second base, making four putouts and six assists without a semblance of an error. He also figured with Barry and

Hundreds Gather at Constitution to Hear World Series Detail; Same Excellent Service Will Be Furnished Fans This Afternoon

Just a part of the great throng that heard the game in New York detailed in Atlanta by The Constitution.

"O-O-O-OH, Grandpa—Mr. Baker made a home run."

He was held high on grandpa's shoulder. Grandpa had one free hand. With that disengaged member he ripped off his hat and in a staccato voice gave a "rebel yell" that vibrated down Alabama street like the high pitched note of a great pipe organ.

Massed about the old man and his grandson stood over fifteen hundred ball-mad fans, cheering to the echo The Constitution's detail of the Giant-Athletic game for the championship of the world, on at the Polo grounds in New York city.

Accompanying the old man's high pitched cry came the hoarse notes of wildest cheering poured from the throats of the massed fans, who with straining eyes and craned necks watched The Constitution score board and listened to Dick Jemison, The Constitution's sporting editor, tell of the sensational game, play by play, so soon as it could be put through the thousand miles of air between New York and The Constitution office in Atlanta.

Talk Over the Game.

Long before the hour of the game, the knot of anxious ones talked over the possibilities of the Giants' pitchers winning and debated the slugging ability of the Athletics.

When the first announcement that the game had started was megaphoned, there was a crowd numbering conservatively over 500 standing in Alabama street, their necks stretched, their eyes riveted on the score board whose empty inning spaces were to tell a dramatic story.

As the game progressed the crowd was augmented by autos and more pedestrians. Traffic officers had difficulty in keeping the way street clear.

When New York made her first run in the third, the crowd instantly showed its favoritism. The cheering was feeble. But when the Mack men put three runs on the score board in the fourth, the enthusiasm ran riot.

Again in the fifth, when Philadelphia demonstrated its hitting ability by adding two more runs to the three they had already gathered in, the crowd went wild. Baker's home run was the match to the already smoldering favoritism.

Men of affairs of the city, boys, messengers and in one instance a minister threw hats in the air, yelled until they were hoarse and when they could no longer shout, evidenced their delight by waving handkerchiefs and walking sticks.

Besieged With Calls.

During the game five telephone operators in The Constitution were literally besieged with telephone calls from offices, homes and stores. Hundreds of calls were handled with dispatch and accuracy, the fans receiving news of the game by innings as the game progressed.

Chief W. B. Cummings, of the Atlanta fire department, held a prominent place in the "curb line-up." At the conclusion of the sensational playing he remarked:

"Just as good as being in New York city. I could actually see the plays as they were shouted to the crowd. The Constitution is to be congratulated on its fine series service."

Randolph Churchill, the English journalist and lecturer, who is at present in Atlanta, passed The Constitution office during the height of the excitement. Asked which he considered better, American baseball or English cricket when it came to public enthusiasm, he said:

"I cannot really say. This display of truly American spirit over a pastime, however, is marvelous."

Service Again Today.

The megaphone and score board service will be continued today at The Constitution office. The direct wire service from the playing grounds will keep Atlanta fans in closest possible touch with the actual game, as was evidenced Tuesday when it was proven that The Constitution wire was exactly on time with every other wire service in the city. Some complaint was heard at the offices of the telegraph companies that the plays were slow in coming through, but this was shown to be "wire-trouble" on account of a storm between Washington, D. C. and New Jersey state which affected the "sending" on the wires.

STEPS ARE TAKEN TO LEASE W. & A.

Gunby Jordan Names Number of Subcommittees to Prepare for Meeting to Be Held in November.

The ground work for the actual releasing of the W. & A. railroad was laid last night at a meeting of the subcommittee of the legislative committee for the W. & A., held at the Ansley hotel.

G. Gunby Jordan, of Columbus, Ga.; Hooper Alexander, of Atlanta; Senator J. W. L. Brown, of Cartersville, Ga.; W. A. Wimbish, of Atlanta; Barry Wright, of Rome, Ga., and Ed T. Brown, of this city, were present at a dinner held in the hotel and at its conclusion Mr. Jordan stated that the subcommittee was now ready to appear at the public meeting of the whole committee to be held the third Tuesday in November.

Mr. Jordan, as chairman of the W. & A. committee, gave out the following list of committees, he and Barry Wright, the secretary, being ex-officio members of each committee named:

Committee on Atlanta Terminals—Messrs. Akin and Greene.

Committee on Chattanooga Terminals—Messrs. Tarver and McNeil.

Committee on Double Tracking—Messrs. Fullbright and Cole.

Committee on Form of Lease—Messrs. Callaway and Brown.

Mr. Wright, speaking of the meeting last night, said:

"We, who are here, were named at the last meeting of the legislative committee to get together and lay the ground plan for the actual work of the entire committee and get things in shape for the public meeting to be held in November.

"We asked Messrs. Wimbish, Brown and Alexander to be with us, as all of these gentleme nhave been special counsel for the W. & A. in the past and have a vast store of working knowledge concerning the road which we are glad to avail ourselves of."

During the session of the last legislature a committee was named in both branches of the state assemblage to look into the matter of the releasing of the W. & A. road, whose present lease to the N., C. & St. L. expires on December 27, 1919.

In the senate the following members were named to act on the committee: Messrs. Brown, McNeil and Tarver. In the house the following committee was appointed: Messrs. Wright, Akin, Greene, Cole and Fullbright.

The governor was given the power to appoint two additional members of the committee and he named Messrs. Jordan and Callaway.

STREET CAR LOCKOUT FACED BY KNOXVILLE

Knoxville, Tenn., October 7.—Knoxville has a street railroad lockout, the street railway company having dismissed from its service fifty motormen and conductors who had joined a carmen's union. There has been no interruption of service, and the company claims it has plenty of men. Following a mass meeting of the locked-out men and sympathizers tonight, hundreds of men paraded the streets yelling at the car employees and threatening them in instances. There has been no rioting and no damage of any kind.

WASHINGTON ACCLAIMS STEPHENS' POSTAL POLICY

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 7.—(Special.)—The Atlanta speech of Alexander H. Stephens, general manager of the railway mail service, has captured political Washington without regard to partisan division. The utterances of the new head of the mail service are heralded as the finishing stroke to what remains of the blight of Hitchcockism and the inauguration of a regime of efficiency in keeping with the neglected needs of the service.

Sunday's Constitution carrying the striking address was eagerly read.

The general approval of the speech is a significant and rather astonishing revelation of the manner in which Hitchcockism had cut right and left into the postal service and risen into a national and non-partisan issue.

The policies outlined by General Manager Stephens are unhesitatingly accepted as the official policies of the postmaster general and of the administration generally. It is common knowledge that he went to Atlanta, as the center of the division suffering worst from Hitchcockism, authorized to promulgate the new program and cocked and primed to make it as emphatic as possible.

No More Spies.

Official Washington, being in the storm center, knew better than any other part of the country the peril of the little oligarchy established by the former postmaster. It knew that the postal facilities, the lifeblood of the business of the country, had deteriorated until they were anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent below par. Complaints had been pouring into congressmen of all parties of delayed mails, overworked clerks and universal inefficiency. Those best informed realized toward the end of the reign of Hitchcock that unless relief were speedily forthcoming, the service would become so demoralized that it would require many years for rehabilitation, for the methods of Hitchcock struck at the fundamentals of organization.

As one Georgia congressman put it today: "We are now to have a postal service that will help and not strangle the business interests of this country." Perhaps the feature of the speech most applauded is that which promises the absolute abolition of the spy system. Unless The Constitution's readers were at the hub of things political, they could not realize how the systematized brow-beating and espionage has torn the vitals from the postal service. Talebearing had become an exact science. No man knew when his official head would come under the guillotine. Throughout rank and file ran the disheartening sentiment, "What's the use?"

More "Pep."

Men who knew Stephens and his past performances say confidently that this regime is ended. They say that when he asks his men, in comradely fashion, to put "more pep" in their work, he means just that and that the "pep" will be forthcoming.

Already a new feeling is noticeable. The clerks go about their jobs with head erect and energy to burn. The old apologetic, hang-dog look of the Hitchcock days is gone. They feel they are going to be treated like men and not suspected felons. The whole country will get the benefit in their improved morale and devotion to their tasks.

Praise of Stephens is also generous. He is regarded as a man with the ability and the determination to pull out of a hole the most important branch of the postal service.

HOW THE CONSTITUTION HANDLES ALL THE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES

The Constitution's service on the opening game of the world's series between the Giants and the Athletics, played yesterday, was the most complete, most accurate and most rapid service in Atlanta.

THE MEGAPHONE DETAIL was working in splendid order, and will be in even better shape today, as a little wire trouble throughout the game caused some delays that will not be caused today.

THE PHONE SERVICE worked like a clock. This wonderful organization gave in the neighborhood of 10,000 Atlanta fans the score just as rapidly as the game was played. One person on a test rang up at the end of every ten minutes, and he reported last night that the service was great. "The Constitution does things in a big way and does them right," was his comment.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS furnished an accurate, complete, prompt detail of the game over a special leased wire that ran direct from the Polo Grounds to the second floor of The Constitution building. Their full reports of the game is carried elsewhere on today's sporting page.

IRWIN M. HOWE'S analytical stories of the games, the first of which appears on this page today, should please the most exacting. Mr. Howe is regarded as the greatest baseball statistician of the age, and whatever he says and backs up by figures can be relied on absolutely.

The megaphone detail, the phone service, the full Associated Press reports, Mr. Howe's stories and all other sidelights will be in full blast again today.

Don't forget the time, 1 o'clock. The place—Constitution building, corner Forsyth and Alabama streets. The phone number is Main 5000. Remember the pass word: "What's the score?"

Come out again today—if you cannot come, phone.

FOR SULZER'S SAKE SARECKY SADDLES SELF WITH BLAME

Youth, Who Is Alien, Swears He Concealed Campaign Gifts and Imitated Sulzer's Signature to Deceive Bank.

SULZER WAS WILLING TO BOW TO "BOSSES"

Ryan Swears Sulzer Begged Murphy to Call Off the Prosecution, Promising to Do What Was Right.

Albany, N. Y., October 7.—Governor William Sulzer recently attempted to negotiate a bargain with Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall leader, to have his impeachment trial "called off"—so Allan A. Ryan, son of the New York financier and traction magnate, testified at the trial today.

If Murphy was willing to "get his following to vote that the assembly had no right to impeach him,' the governor, according to Ryan, "was willing to do whatever was right."

The testimony preceded the calling by the defense of Louis A. Sarecky, the governor's campaign secretary, and other witnesses.

Sarecky, a youth of 27, shouldered the blame for the omission of unreported contributions from the governor's campaign statement, confessed he had imitated the governor's signature to deceive a bank, and admitted that he, an alien, born in Russia, and never naturalized, had been promoted from the position of the governor's stenographer to the head of the deportation bureau of the state hospital commission.

To Make Peace With Tammany.

Ryan's story of the governor's alleged effort to make peace with the leader of Tammany Hall was his second recital of an attempt on the part of the governor to obtain political influence to stop the trial. Ryan testified yesterday that Sulzer had asked him to persuade United States Senator Elihu Root to get the New York republican state chairman, William Barnes, Jr., to influence the republican members of the court of impeachment to vote the impeachment trial illegal.

The latter testimony immediately was stricken out by a vote of the court, 32 to 18, but today, on motion of Elon R. Brown, the senate republican leader, the court, in executive session, reconsidered its action and, by a vote of 41

ATLANTA'S SCHOOLS MENACE TO HEALTH OF YOUNG CHILDREN

Despite Conditions, However, City Officials, With Few Exceptions, Are Apathetic Over the Situation.

EQUALIZATION OF TAXES FAVORED BY WOODWARD

Mayor Opposes Bond Issue as Remedy—What Is Atlanta Going to Do to Safeguard Health of Little Ones?

PRAISES CONSTITUTION

Editor Constitution: Your paper deserves the thanks of all people for your article and editorial today on the deplorable state of our schools. I wish to express the appreciation of the Atlanta Teachers' association for your call to action.

In no small town or city in Georgia would such conditions have been endured longer than two days. And yet our people are content to huddle together an average of more than 80 pupils in the first four grades of our school and to permit such a condition to exist for five weeks. Headaches and kindred ills caused by the breathing of foul air have been every-day occurrences in the Highland school.

What is the solution? A combined protest from the people of the city will be of much service. It seems, however, that the welfare of children will never be properly conserved until the suffrage is given to woman—the children's true friend.

But the present emergency admits of no delay. The provisions now being made to meet the present demand are totally inadequate for next year.

In addition to the absolute necessity of at least five new grammar school buildings and two new buildings for negroes in order to properly house the city's children, we are face to face with the problem of high school buildings. No city in our country of half Atlanta's size is tolerating such make-shifts for buildings as our four high schools are now using.

The slogan of Atlanta is "A Half-Million City." Would it not be well for us to prove to the world that we are able and willing to care properly for the present school population before inviting others to make our city their home?

Truly yours,
R. C. LITTLE,
President Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association.
October 7, 1913.

What are you going to do about it?

The city of Atlanta, with a borrowing capacity of $6,804,253,93, is threatened today with a municipal scandal which involves the city educational system, and stands a grim menace to the boast of civic superiority.

In spite of the warning of President Walter R. Daley, of the school board, and the criticism that some of Atlanta's schools are deplorably overcrowded, city officials, with few exceptions, are apathetic in the matter of taking some action by which conditions in a majority of the so-called schools might be remedied.

Mayor James G. Woodward has taken issue with President Daley's suggestion that a bond issue of $2,000,000 or thereabouts is necessary.

Tax Equalization Needed.

"What the city needs is an equalization of taxes," Mayor Woodward contends. "If central real estate is returned for an honest 60 per cent of its actual value, we will have money for the schools and all the multiplying needs of the city. A bond issue of $2,000,000 will only increase the city's indebtedness, and add heavily to the fixed charges without increasing the income

"To care for the sinking fund and interest necessitated by the bond issue would compel a raise in tax assessments If the assessors equalize the assessments on a 60 per cent basis, there'll be no necessity of the bond issue"

President Daley in a statement to council, does not attach the blame to the city fathers He attributes the deplorable conditions at some of the schools to the fact that Atlanta is growing too fast for her schools

On January 1, 1913—not ten months ago—Atlanta's borrowing ability was only $5,361,724 Today it is $6 804,-253 96, or an increase of nearly a million and a half in that brief time Accurately the increase in round figures is $1,442 529 96

Chairman W. G Humphrey, of the finance committee says that on January 1, 1914, Atlanta will be free of indebtedness There will be money, real money, in the treasury at the end of the year, and all the departments taken care of Little for Immediate Future.

Still, city officials cannot see much in the future for Atlanta's school children, who are forced to study in improvised and, it is said, insanitary and crowded "schoolrooms"

The city will have oodles of money according to the finance sheet The revised budget shows an increase of $251 000 over the city's income in 1912 Of this increase $190 000 is represented in real estate and personalty gains for the year. Assessments against the Georgia railroad amount to $2,000,000, which means $25,000 in tax money to be dumped into the treasury A survey of other roads will net the city about $35 000 in tax money. The above $60,000 comes from a source from which the city has never realized a penny heretofore

It, alone, is sufficient to erect one of the many school houses for which parents, teachers and children have been pleading for months

Mayor Woodward has placed himself on record as opposing a bond issue He takes the position that the city should conserve its borrowing strength for a greater emergency—calamity

President Daley takes the position that a bond issue is the only solution and suggests that council ask the people for authority to issue bonds in the sum of $2,000 000

Members of council do not look with favor on a bond issue A small majority don't believe the people will vote for an issue

What are you going to do about it?

Tax Rate Is $1.25.

Atlanta's tax rate is $1 25 to take care of all departments including the support of school property which is worth a little more than $2 000 000

Picked at random Memphis a smaller city than Atlanta is shown possessing only $1,981,350 worth of school property

Memphis, with a tax rate of $1 58, boasts of a school system which compares favorably with cities of twice her size Taxable values in the Bluff City are not as great as in Atlanta The answer is—Memphis like every other city in the United States jealously guards the public school children Memphis has been operating under the commission government system for sometime, and the schools and other public facilities have been improved because there is no trouble in placing responsibility where it belongs.

Mayor Woodward admits that Atlanta's schools have not received a full quota of the share of the tax money On the other hand, he denies that council or the finance committee has been niggardly in the matter of apportioning the money to the schools The mayor is rather inclined to the opinion that if the money appropriated for school purposes had been judiciously handled the conditions in the schools complained of would not be so bad.

Money Given to Schools.

The records of Comptroller Goldsmith show that in 1913 the finance committee gave the schools $541,848-17 for all purposes, and $11 000 for a repair fund Chief Clerk Graham West stated Tuesday that there is still $7 200 to the credit of the repair fund

The finance committee increased the school apportionment of 1913 exactly $35 512 07 over the previous year

The city spent $113,947 38 out of the bond money last year

There is a balance of $17,029 10 bond balance on hand available for school purposes

Said a member of council

'The trouble with Atlanta's school system lies in the methods of districting Everybody knows that politics play a strong part in the placing of our public schools Instead of criticising council for the conditions let the school board start redistricting the city

Investigate the Walker street school, which was recently rebuilt at a cost of about $4 000 I am informed on reliable authority that this splendid school is not largely attended Investigate the Ashby street school You'll find there an eighth grade school with eighty or ninety students and I can state from my own knowledge gained by investigation and observation that one of the schools in the fourth ward is overcrowded and another is almost depopulated

Not Laid Out Properly.

'The trouble with our schools is that the districts are not laid out properly Children living in Decatur street and Lucile avenue are forced to attend one school and children on North Boulevard attend another It is in my opinion due to class prejudice And the school board allows this condition to exist rather than offend certain parents It's not right If the board is anxious to get at the root of the evil let it start at the root

Recently there was considerable talk about utilizing the Walker street school by transferring either Tech High school or the English Commercial school to the building.

Politics interfered with the plans of those who were interested in the movement.

One Solution.

One solution discussed favorably among the members of council and citizens anent the school situation was the suggestion that the city instead of taxing itself one-third of the cost of paving issue a ten-year bond for all street paving This would relieve the city of its pro rata of street paving and the money now applied for street paving could revert to the schools A ten-year bond at 6 per cent would not be a burden to property owners who would have ten years in which to pay for paving

Briefly a paving assessment of $150 against a property owner could be paid up in ten years at the rate of $15 a year

"The only possible solution of the congested school question is to have council pass an ordinance providing for a special election on the issuance of bonds for school purposes," said President Daley when asked by The Constitution regarding the condition existing in the Highland school "What amount of bonds should be issued I am not prepared to say, but I think that $2 000 000 would be about right This would erect several new buildings, which are badly needed, and would also put all of the schools in proper condition to take care of the greatly increased attendance

Council Not to Blame.

"I do not think that council is to blame for the present condition in the Highland and other schools Although it is a fact that we have repeatedly asked for more money, the council could not give us money that they did not have on hand

'I feel sure that when some of the children in the Inman Park Highland and Edgewood schools, which are crowded more than others, are moved into the new Moreland school we shall be able to handle the situation in regard to the white schools of the city

'With the schools for negroes, that is another matter All of the negro schools are overcrowded, and it will be all but impossible to handle all who will apply during the present school year

If the citizens and taxpayers of Atlanta want better school facilities let them demand that council take the proposition before the people on a bond election and then we shall see who is to blame for the present conditions'

Mayor Opposes Bond Issue.

Mayor Woodward said

My reasons for believing that a $2 000,000 bond issue will not carry is that the amount is too great A good eight-grade school can be built for $50 000 and with $2 000 000 forty such schools could be erected—four to each ward There is no need for this number Assuming that the lots for the schools will cost $8,000 to $10,000 each, thirty-two schools could be provided for with $2 000 000

By adjusting the assessments on central real estate so that no property owner will pay a lower rate than his neighbor the city could build one of two new schools every year, as the demand increases and have money to take care of the increase in the number of teachers

In the last analysis the bond issue proposition resolves itself into a question of tax assessments, for if bonds are passed, more taxes must be collected to pay for them I am opposed to the city going the limit of its borrowing ability because I believe there should be a good margin of borrowing power in the event the city faces an emergency Its a plain business proposition If a business house doing business on a capital of $10,000 increases its capital to $100 000 it leaves a broad margin to meet the increased indebtedness

Van Dyke Favors Issue.

Chairman Arthur H Van Dyke of the school committee of council is in favor of a bond issue to take care of the schools

The time to talk has passed he said Let the city government act now before it is too late We cannot afford at this day to let our schools be the everlasting disgrace of this city We are getting too much adverse publicity now

Steve R Johnston a former chairman of the school committee of council and a keen student of Atlanta's education system has the following interesting comment to make in a communication to The Constitution

Steve Johnston's Suggestion.

Editor Constitution Permit me as an humble citizen and taxpayer to thank you for the splendid editorial in yesterday's issue, entitled 'Atlanta's Worst Scandal Having served on the board of education four years as chairman of committee on schools, from the general council, I believe that I can truthfully say that the half has never been told' We have some building used for schools today that are a disgrace to any civilized community, and the wonder is that the death rate has not been larger

'I have given this school question a great deal of study and today it is our most serious problem We have provided comfortable quarters for the worthless negroes and whites at the stockade Provision has been made for the disposition of our sewage We have the finest, purest water our crematory is about to start again (?) so I am told Good work is being done on our streets, but not half enough and when we appear before the finance committee of the general council and ask for an appropriation sufficient to run the schools in the most economical manner, we are given less than 75 per cent of what we needed

'I do not attach any blame to the finance committee of the general council I believe these gentlemen are doing the best they can with the money they have on hand, but this does not solve the problem The 26 000 children in our city are entitled to an education and they should have it A large percentage of children attending the public schools are the children of our wage-earners, and to pack them in the schools like 'sardines in a box is nothing short of outrageous, and should be stopped I believe it can be done by levying a special tax for schools of a few mills Let the board of education disburse these funds for the benefit of the schools I do not believe that there is a taxpayer in Atlanta who has the interest of the school children at heart who would not gladly pay this extra tax. Respectfully,

"STEVE R JOHNSTON."

Conditions Fearful.

Superintendent Slaton says:

"There is no doubt but that the condition existing in the Highland school is something fearful, but conditions are even worse, if possible, in the Inman Park schoolhouse

"In the Inman Park school 171 children sat in the basement today with the poorest ventilation and sanitary conditions imaginable Within six feet of where these poor children are seated a huge sewer runs filled with noxious gases which permeate the atmosphere in the basement rooms

'These rooms are several feet below the level of the ground and little, if any daylight penetrates to these cavernous classrooms

"The children are compelled to work under artificial light which will, at their tender age, eventually ruin their eyesight

"Something should be done, and at once to remedy this terrible situation

'We have repeatedly asked council to help us out with more money Last January, realizing that there would be a large increase in school attendance this year, we asked council for enough money to lease another school building and improve some of the old ones We asked again and again, and this is the result

"Many persons have been here today to demand better accommodations for their children What can I do when we have not the funds with which to better the conditions?

Children Not Learning.

'My little son was one of the children sent home sick from Highland school Monday, and he was accomplished nothing during the five weeks of school this fall for the reason that he has no desk has to sit in a poor light and is huddled in a corner of the room between two other little boys the same age," was one of the first messages which came to The Constitution yesterday, bearing upon the story published of the dreadful conditions which exist in the public schools of Atlanta

The mother who called to express her appreciation that at last public sentiment was being aroused, declared that her children, three of them, had begun to show the bad effects of the school room in which they were crowded.

"Beside the heat and stuffiness of the room," she explained, "the children can learn nothing. The teacher cannot concentrate long enough upon the subject of a lesson to get them interested.

"When they come home in the afternoon I have not the heart to mention books to them, for I realize they need air, the consequence being that the teacher's work in the school room is not being followed up in the home

"My children, for two years, have slept in an open air sleeping apartment, and I am a great believer in fresh air for growing children It is very disheartening to a mother to send her children from a very healthy environment in the morning into a school room which is not only over crowded, but which has poor equipment at best for the comfort of children."

Too Many Children.

"The plan of sixty children to one teacher is fifty years behind the time, anyway' was the observation of another sensible woman "I consider that the dimension sof the room as quoted in The Constitution yesterday was inadequate for the sixty children for whom desks are provided There never was a room large enough for sixty individual children to be taught in, unless it were large enough for the children to be divided into four corners of a room large enough to afford the four groups each having a teacher

'The very plan of the sixty children and one teacher is a travesty on progress, and it is nothing short of barbarous that for four weeks any teacher has been subjected to, the management of ninety-four even with the assistance of the principal

"While a principal is helping the one teacher out with the ninety-four what is becoming of the rest of the school' Who is helping the teacher who has eighty four in her room and the one who has seventy three to look after"

'The Highland school has been crowded ever since it was built' said another mother, "and I cannot see why the people in this section of the city should be so treated It is almost entirely a residence portion, the homes are new and well constructed and ornamental but there will be many of us who will feel like moving away unless there are school facilities for our children My little daughter has been five weeks sitting against a dirty blackboard, and I have notified the teacher unless she has a desk this week I will withdraw her from school'

"There will be a decrease in the value of real estate in Inman Park, unless better school facilities in that section are provided,' declared a prominent business woman

"During the past summer we have lost the sales of three residences in Inman Park to persons who wished to buy, but would not do so on account of the school facilities or rather the lack of school facilities Among those who were deterred from buying homes in Inman Park on account of the schools are a representative of a large corporation who has two children to send to school, and who is now paying $60 a month rent a widow with one son who purchased a home for $5 000 near an excellent school and another man connected with one of the educational institutions of the city who has children whom he wishes to educate in healthful school rooms These belong to the class of persons who purchase homes worth from $4,500 to $7,000, and are as desirable a class of citizens as can be found

"One of the most advantageous things to be done for the property owners in Inman Park and the children who live there—and who would like to live there—is the erection of a commodious schoolhouse in the heart of Inman Park in order that the children will not have to depend on these buildings already overcrowded near the edge of the park I am sure that when the people of this vicinity really realize this need and demand an accessible school building, and one not overcrowded, they will get it.'

Rooms Next to Toilets.

"Basement rooms under any circumstances should never be used for school roms They cannot be ventilated or lighted as they should be and to put children in basement rooms opposite to toilets, is an insult to the taxpayers of that section of the city Little children take poisons into their systems, which result in typhoid and similar infectious diseases The present condition in the Edgewood Avenue school is a disgrace' This communication comes from a mother whose children attend the Edgewood Avenue school

The mothers of the fifth ward, in which the Davis Street school is situated have organized for the betterment of conditions and the children of the school for over a year have worked courageously for the enlargement and better equipment of their schools, and for the improvement of the streets immediately in that vicinity

Are the appeals of the good people of this section of the city to be ignored?

While the conditions exist as today in many of the schools it would be better to close them The teachers can not teach under the circumstances the children can not learn under the circumstances, and the danger of an outbreak of fire despite frequent fire drills or the danger of an outbreak of contagious diseases, combine to make the situation most alarming

Pending the time when something definite and far reaching can be done through the arousing of public sentiment in the direction of the entire public school sentiment something must be done at once to meet the present emergency

There must be provision made for the comfortable location of the children of school age who look to their education as their main chance in life

Want Open Air Rooms.

Many of the mothers communicating with this office yesterday urge the building of the open air school rooms as the temporary relief, this suggestion being made especially urgent by a mother in the Highland school district

Mrs Chas I Haden, president of the City Federation of Women's Organizations, Mrs A P Coles, president of the Atlanta Woman's Clubs, are among the women of the city who are deeply interested in the betterment of conditions in the school at large, but it is evident now that a crusade for better schools must be widespread; must be expressed especially by the very mothers whose children attend the schools in which the suffering children are

In those cities where the public school buildings are community centers, the parents organize for the specific purpose of looking after the schools and these organizations have proved the strongest factors in civic development. They have helped to take the school out of politics and until that is done here, the children will be huddled together as the prosperous farmer does not herd his cattle now

Another triumph by the W W Kimball Co. the world's largest manufacturers of Player Pianos New features of construction in case design at a price that challenges competition.

This new style Player Piano is made by the world's largest manufacturers of pianos—by the largest number of skilled workmen, and marketed direct through this Branch Store, eliminating the intermediate profits of the jobber, dealer and agent, and consequently at a material saving in price to the byer Our unlimited facilities for manufacturing naturally reduces the cost of production, which means greater Player value for less money This is the reason why we are able to ofefr you such a remarkable Player Piano at such a remarkable price.. .. .. $460

A Standard Kimball Player action, built in a genuine Kimball piano, at a price without parallel in the annals of piano purchasing. A $700 value—as compared to prices asked by dealers and agents. We could reduce the cost of manufacture, gloss over the short-comings, and sell for less money, but we won't; because our reputation is involved. We could charge more, but we couldn't give you a Player Piano with better qualities of tone, greater durability, or increased facilities of expression. It is true that we have more expensive instruments but the difference comes largely in the case.

The Kimball Player is the very embodiment of new life and happiness. It helps to entertain your friends, and is always ready to respond to the musical tastes of eevry member of your family. No home is hardly complete without a Kimball Player.

MILK IN ATLANTA BAD, SAYS EXPERT

Startling Condition Revealed at Meeting Held Under the Auspices of the State Department of Agriculture.

That milk sold in Atlanta not only does not comply with the legal limit of 100,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter—or about one-fourth of a spoonful—but, except in the rarest instances, could not even get into New York city, where the prohibitive limit is 500 000 bacteria to the centimeter was shown last night at the milk meeting held in Taf hall under the auspices of the state department of agriculture and in which the chamber of commerce milk committee co-operated

Official tests of milk sold at soda fountains and in cafes showed in the vast majority of cases more than 2,000,000 and often more than 3,000,000 bacteria, which may or may not be disease-producing to the cubic centimeter.

In addition to these figures photographic stereopticon views of dairies were shown that were nauseating for the layman to look upon, to say nothing of the perils which the eye of the scientist might see Wilmer Moore Presides.

Wilmer L Moore, president of the chamber of commerce presided over the meeting and introduced the following speakers

J D Price, state commissioner of agriculture, Dr E R Stallings, state chemist, Dr Kenneth M Atkins, state bacteriologist, Dr. Peter F Bahnsen, state veterinarian

The meeting was attended by some three or four hundred people The nurses of Atlanta were out in a large body, occupying the entire first three rows of seats The Federation of Women s Clubs and the Mothers' Congress were also largely represented. Besides these, many of the leading citizens of the city were present, all of whom took a deep interest in the lectures and the stereopticon views

Commissioner Price was the first speaker and explained that the movement now on foot was a state-wide campaign, which has shown its immediate activity in Fulton county, where the majority of the tests so far have been made. While Commissioner Price stated that the milk-producing and marketing conditions in Atlanta are far from desirable he said also that he believed that if the dairymen and consumers of milk here would follow the directions of the state department of agriculture experts and that of the milk committee of the chamber of commerce, who have been making a very thorough study of the milk situation, Atlanta s milk will be comparatively pure within a period of thirty days.

Not Getting Good Milk.

Dr R E Stallings state chemist, stated that his department has examined between two and three hundred samples of milk which inspectors have secured in and around Atlanta from producers and dealers and summed up the result of his work with the following statement

The conclusion that I draw is that Atlanta is not, on the whole, getting good milk I may state however that much improvement has taken place and we find that the dairymen are taking advantage of the suggestions offered them by the department of agriculture"

It was Dr Kenneth N Atkins state bacteriologist, however, who made the most astounding revelations of the meeting

Dr Atkins stated that he had made tests of 241 representative examples of milk produced and sold in and around Atlanta

His first test exhibited was that of dirt found in milk

These tests were obtained by filtering milk through cotton In nine exhibits made in his lecture six showed the cotton highly discolored by the dirt strained from the milk one slightly discolored and two practically clean.

His most startling figures were of the bacteriological test By way of introduction, he stated that while many bacteria were not disease producing except when swallowed in large numbers, there are often others contained in milk which are very dangerous, being capable of producing typhoid fever, tuberculosis and other diseases.

The city ordinance on this subject in Atlanta, he stated, require that milk shall not contain more than 100,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter, which is about one-fourth of a teaspoonful

Results of Tests.

Bearing in mind that prosecutions for the violation of this ordinance within the last year, as was emphasized by Mr Moore, have been next to nothing, Dr Atkins showed the following results of his tests

Examination of 241 samples showed an average count of 1,325,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter

Of these samples 46 showed a count of under 100,000

A test of 102 samples taken from all producers, near and far, shipping into Atlanta, showed an average count of 420 000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter

Of these samples 37 showed counts of 100 000 bacteria or less

Sixty samples from producers in Atlanta, or within a few miles of the city, showed an average count of 297,000

Thirty samples taken from wagons or at the dairies showed an average count of 165 000

Seventy five samples taken from milk depot in the city of Atlanta showed an average of 1 575 000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter

Thirty-five samples taken from downtown cafes showed an average count of 2 034,000

Twenty-three samples from soda fountains showed an average count of 2 116,000

Six samples from the largest hotels in the city showed an average count of 410 000 The lowest from the hotels was 270,000

Insanitary Conditions.

Dr Atkins then showed why these extraordinary conditions of milk exist by photographic exposures of insanitary conditions of some of Atlanta s dairies Some of these pictures were repulsive in the extreme

These pictures showed milk cans and pails sitting open-side-up and uncovered on dirty back porches and in back yards, in some instances only a few feet from manure piles Pictures of open milk cans sitting in cow stables were shown Other pictures showed filthy milk houses with screen doors propped wide open flies, lots hanging around the interior and other insanitary conditions

Dr Atkins stated that in many instances the milk vessels were literally covered with flies when the inspector called and in one instance chickens were actually roosting on the open tops of the milk cans

Dirt Everywhere.

Other instances he called attention to were of milk being poured into bottles sitting on top of city garbage cans on street corners milk depot men measuring the depth of milk in cans by sticking dirty arms to the bottom of the cans milk being brought to the city in clean new cases and kept in old dirty ones at the dairy dairies in the country where actually there was no water supply for washing the bottles and other utensils and other equally insanitary conditions too numerous to mention

Dr Atkins claimed that climatic conditions in Atlanta are more largely responsible for a low infant death rate that are pure milk conditions

Dr Peter Bahnsen, state veterinarian closed the meeting by speaking of the necessity of dairymen keeping good stock and keeping sanitary stables, milking rooms and milkhouses.

His statement that personal precaution and not an outlay of hundreds of dollars for model milk-producing outfits brought a storm of applause from a large number of dairymen who attended the lectures

Dr Bahnsen said that good milk was a matter entirely for individuals and divided these individuals into three classes:

The cow, the producer and the consumer Upon personal cleanly habits of these three factors says he depends the purity of Atlanta s milk

Woman Berates Policemen for Interrupting Her Sobs.

It was midnight Baker street slept soundly Suddenly the air was filled with feminine screams of distress The neighborhood was aroused Somebody telephoned police headquarters

There's a murder out here. Hurry, quick!"

Policemen Gorman and Evans, who answered the call, found a big crowd gathered in front of 39 West Baker, fearing the worst.

In a bedroom in the house they found a woman who gave her name as Mrs M E Bailey sitting under a light holding a tear-splattered photograph and sobbing violently

Gorman and Evans began plying questions Quickly they learned that she was grieving over the death several months ago in Chattanooga of her fiance, of which she had heard only last night She berated the motorcycle men for disturbing her tears ordered them from her home and then reported them to Chief E L Jett at headquarters

I have a perfect right, she said over the telephone "to grieve over such a loss as the death of my intended husband, and such a thing as police interference is absolutely uncalled for I shall make further protest—I shall—and it's also none of the neighbors business"

PROFESSORS OUSTED BY "TRUSTOCRATS"

Charged That Teachers Who Espouse People's Cause Are Driven From Positions.

Washington October 7—George H Shibley, director of the bureau of political research, before the senate banking committee today, renewed his charge that the 'trustocrats" had driven college professors who 'espouse the cause of the people' from their positions Senator Weeks demanded that Shibley name professors who had been thus treated

'Professor Edward W Bemis, of Chicago university replied Shibley, 'was discharged because he attacked the Chicago Gas trust John R Cummons of Syracuse was discharged for voting for William Jennings Bryan James Allen Smith of Marietta, Ohio, was driven from his place The present president of the United States had a narrow escape because he advocated the short ballot But he continued in the service of the people and has now triumphed'

FOR SULZER'S SAKE SARECKY TAKES BLAME

to 14, decided to admit the testimony and open the door for the remainder of the young financier's story

Nicoll for Go-Between.

Ryan took the stand immediately after the secret session He said that Sulzer had asked him to obtain the offices of DeLancey Nicoll attorney for the elder Ryan, as a go-between" in the proposed negotiations with the Tammany leader This request the governr made the witness said, on the same day that he asked him to intercede with Senator Root a week before the impeachment trial began and in the governor s New York office

The governor said according to the witness that he controlled ten democratic votes in the court of impeachment As in the case of the governor's request that he see Senator Root, Ryan said he made no effort to see Mr Nicoll

Ryan did, however, make an effort of his own, he said, to "sound the republican sentiment' This he did, he testified, through a 'friend' s

It appeared from his testimony that this friend had seen Chairman Barnes and obtained from him a statement that the republican organization would do nothing

The governor's counsel made no attempt to cross-examine the witness, who gave his testimony with apparent reluctance William Travers Jerome, personal counsel of the witness, sat at the counsel table while the examination was being conducted

Sarecky Testifies for Sulzer.

Sarecky, much heralded as the governor's star witness took the stand amid a craning of necks and a buzz of interest He spoke in a high, piping voice and his answers came almost uniformly without hesitation.

"We received either from Tammany Hall or from the secretary of state," began Sarecky, "a blank form in which a statement was to be made out of receipts and expenditures of campaign funds

'The question came up as to whether the committee of the governor's friends of which I was treasurer, had the right to file a statement inasmuch as it had neglected or someone had neglected on behalf of the committee, to file with the secretary of state a notice to the effect that such a committee had been formed So someone suggested that I take the matter up with Mr Sulzer I went into his room and told him of the quandary we were in and he said 'Well, make up the statement anyway it does not matter very much who signs it as long as we comply with the spirit of the law So I went outside and then worked on the statement for about a day and a half brought it in to Mr Sulzer and he signed it"

"Who if anyone, assisted you in preparing it?" asked Attorney Hinman

"I think Mr Horgan was the one who helped me get it up He brought an adding machine from his office and he and I worked on it and finally got it up'

Says Sulzer Didn't Aid.

The witness referred to Matthew T Horgan who he said formerly had been employed in the governor s New York office and who later became secretary of the Frawley investigating committee which unearthed much of the preliminary evidence on which the impeachment articles were based

"Did William Sulzer have anything whatever to do in the work of preparing that statement?"

'No, sir,' Sarecky declared emphatically

"What was Mr Sulzer doing when you took the completed statement to him for his signature?"

"I think he was going through some of his correspondence I said, 'Here congressman is the statement which I got up' I had the first page folded over back and showed him where he was to sign He turned it back and said 'Is this all right?' I said, 'This is as accurate as I could get it,' and he signed it"

"Did he read any part of the statement or examine it?"

"He could not have read it carefully because he did not hold it over a minute or two at the most—just long enough for him to sign his name"

"Why did you leave out any moneys?"

"Because I did not have any record before me at the time I made up the statement to cover the items I omitted I used part of the money that I deposited to my own account in settling a suit out west that had been brought against Mr. Sulzer during the campaign'

Didn't Confer With Sulzer.

"Where was Sulzer when you did that?"

"I cannot recollect just where he was"

"Did you confer with him before you did that?"

'I did not"

"For what other purpose had moneys deposited by you in this bank account been used—moneys which do not appear in this campaign statement?"

"I cannot recollect now just for what purpose I did use them, but I know I used some for purposes which were not campaign purposes"

Sarecky testified that Alfred J Wolff, the commissioner of deeds who had acknowledged the Sulzer signature, had not read the oath to the governor or even seen him sign it. When Wolff was a witness for the assembly managers he testified he had read the subscriber's oath to Sulzer and had personally witnessed the governor s signature.

Sarecky also contradicted the testimony of Cornelius N Pinckney, a New York lawyer, witness for the managers, who said that the governor had told him that he did not propose to report Pinckney's $200 gift The governor said, according to Pinckney, "I don't intend to account for this kind of gifts"

Sarecky said today that he heard all the conversation between Pinckney and the governor and that the governor made no such statement.

On direct examination Sarecky also told of having been employed by the governor for the past eleven years, first as office assistant, then as stenographer and then as Sulzer's New York secretary.

Sarecky Signed Sulzer's Name.

Attorney Hinman questioned Sarecky closely concerning a letter signed "William Sulzer," which was sent to Webb Floyd, the president of the Mutual Alliance Trust company, where Sarecky had his account. The letter purported to authorize Sarecky to sign Sulzer's checks and permit their deposit in Sarecky's account.

The witness admitted he signed the letter while Sulzer was up state on a campaign tour

"Now when you received word from the Mutual Alliance Trust company that they wanted some authority from Congressman Sulzer for you to indorse his name did you communicate with Governor Sulzer?" he was asked on cross-examination by Attorney Stanchfield.

"No, sir, I did not."

"You put on the face of this letter 'en route' so that if they noticed in the newspapers that he was out of the city they would see by this letter that it came from him wherever he might be?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you did all this knowing from this bank that they wanted from the governor authority in you to indorse these checks?"

"Yes, sir"

"In other words, you presented to that bank a deliberate forgery, didn't you?"

The governor's counsel came to Sarecky's rescue with an objection, which Presiding Judge Cullen sustained.

To Deceive the Bank.

"That was my intention when I gave it to him" was Sarecky's reply to a question by Judge Cullen if his intention had not been to deceive the bank

Sarecky's testimony that he had been promoted to his position in the deportation bureau of the state hospital commission was elicited by Attorney Stanchfield in support of the charge by the prosecution that the governor obtained the promotion as a bribe to Sarecky to prevent him from testifying before the Frawley committee.

"Were you the superior of two physicians in that bureau?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"Temporarily I was," said the witness, who was then excused until tomorrow.

Sarecky was preceded on the stand by Lieutenant Commander L M. Josephthal, a New Yor kbanker, who told of how he came to take over the Sulzer account of about $26,000 from the brokerage firm of Harris & Fuller

He said that last July, while he was attending the battle of Gettysburg celebration, in his capacity of naval aide on Governor Sulzer s staff, he had a talk with the governor's wife

"Mrs Sulzer informed me," he said, "that she owned certain stocks on which her husband had borrowed money, and I interrupted her and stated that I would rather discuss this matter with her husband."

Said Wife Owned Stocks.

That same evening, Mr Josephthal continued, William Sulzer requested him to take up an account at Harris & Fuller s

'He said the stocks were owned by his wife, and he had borrowed money on them." Mr Josephthal said 'I then asked him the name of the securities He informed me there were 1,500 shares of Big Four common and 200 shares of Smelters common. I asked him how much he owed on the account He stated about $27,000 I figured an equity of $7,000 in that account and afterwards took it over"

Josephthal testified that "not a cent of the money he advanced for the Sulzer account had been repaid.

The witness said he did not remember in whose name the stock stood when he received it, but that it was mond, a Philadelphia minister, who last

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look, Mother! If Tongue Is Coated Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of 'California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs' because it is perfectly harmless, children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle Beware of counterfeits sold here Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company" Refuse any other kind with contempt

WHAT'S TO BE DONE ABOUT IT?

What is the city council going to do about the life-and-death problem of the congested schools of Atlanta?

The Constitution has told the story unsparingly. The report published was simply a verification of the countless protests that have poured into this office from the parents of the city.

The naked facts in the case are these:

In one school three grades of young children are being taught in a damp basement in close proximity to toilets.

In another school, the three youngest grades, the first grade composed of children just out of the nursery, are crowded into small rooms, one containing 94, another 80 and another 72. Sickness from this condition is frequent.

In the negro schools, or many of them, the situation is alarming. The sick negro is a menace to the white child.

In the English-Commercial high school 700 young women are herded in an insufficient, illy-ventilated, insanitary and unsafe building.

In most of the schools congestion is the rule.

These conditions mean that the lives and the health of the children of the city are menaced even now. They mean the menace will grow more perilous from day to day.

They mean also that thousands of children are compelled to study under conditions which make it certain they will not gain the value for which their parents are paying. The mental efficiency of the Atlantan of tomorrow is at stake.

It is up to council! Up to council not next month or next year, but NOW!

There are just two ways:

1. An extra tax levy, or
2. A bond issue.

Life and death are in the scale.

What will council do about it?

YOU CAN'T LOSE JIM!

In the slang of the day, "you have to hand it" to Alderman James W. Maddox, whose business is contracting. You can't lose Jim! Stake your last dollar on that. He's cute as Br'er Rabbit and never has to use an alarm clock to rise early in the morning. We cheerfully doff our hat to him.

Still green in the public memory are Alderman Jim's hypnotic exploits over the body of which he is a member with regard to sprinkling dirt on the streets. As we have intimated, Jim's business is excavating. His wagons are many. Brimming with mud and red dirt they used to and, we assume, still do, generously litter the streets over which they rumble. Property owners and citizens generally protested. They called attention to the ordinance penalizing the very practice of which careless contractors were guilty. Twice the city recorder sternly lectured Jim. Then Jim spread his Svengali-fingers before his fellow councilmen. They saw his pitiable plight, this one lone councilman against an embattled city. Out of the kindness of their hearts they repealed that dirt ordinance. "Hang the rest of the city so long as the pocket of one of our members is in jeopardy," they reasoned.

And here's Alderman Jim in Exhibit No. 2. Council the other day voted to let a contractor extend a fence five feet from the curb toward the car tracks on Peachtree street, between Merritts and Linden, where he was putting up a building. Councilman Boynton had offered an amendment and the street committee had indorsed it, prohibiting any closing of the street at all. It was argued, and rightly, that the street was too narrow and the traffic too dense, to permit of even one foot of it being segregated to private use. The matter looked as good as settled. But they'd forgotten Jim. It happened that Jim had the contract to excavate that particular lot. Once again council saw the private interests of one of its members menaced and once again council came to the rescue and authorized the five-foot closing of a very narrow and traffic-choked thoroughfare. "To hell with the public!" Wasn't Jim's interest at stake?

We don't blame Jim. Any man who can "get by" with this sort of thing has our fervent admiration. It's the city that has a right to complain and to hold council responsible. If it is a fixed law that the private interests of councilmen take right of way over the public welfare, we ought to know it. The voters would then know what to do.

Practically every city in the country prohibits private contractors to close an inch of the sidewalk. Is metropolitan Atlanta to be the "jay" exception, and, at that, for the benefit of its public servants?

Meanwhile, don't forget to—"hand it to Jim." It's going to be fascinating to watch what next hoop he'll induce an humble and obedient council to jump through.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

That the leaders of all parties and sentiment generally in Washington hails a new regime in the railway mail service is indicated in a dispatch from our Washington correspondent published in another column, referring to the Atlanta address of the new general superintendent of the railway mail service, Mr. Stephens.

Official Washington, knowing Mr. Stephens well, approves his expressions with every indication of relief in the full confidence that he will forthwith put them into tangible policies. As a congressman interviewed by Mr. Corrigan puts it, "we will now have a postal service that will help and not strangle the business of this country." That aptly phrases the situation. For under the persecution of employees, the curtailing of facilities and the ruthlessness of the so-called "economy" of the former postmaster general, the service was fast approaching annihilation. General Manager Stephens flays the spy-system, ridicules the "economy" that is the worst kind of waste, and appeals to the honor and manhood of his men.

It should not be long before the old-time efficiency of the system is restored, under the persistent application of this policy. And since Washington accepts Mr. Stephens' utterances as reflecting the program of the department, all doubt should be permanently removed. Had the Wilson administration done nothing more than to start the work of rescuing the postal service from sure disintegration it would have completely justified itself.

WHICH?

In an interview recently published in The Constitution W. H. White, Jr., of Atlanta, showed with entire clearness the menace and the opportunity that confront Georgia in the approach of an American beef famine. He had just returned from attendance at the sessions of the American Meat Packers' association. The dominant keynote there was the increasing scarcity of cattle and the constantly expressed hope that the south offered the way out of what seems now an impasse.

Mr. White shows that Georgia, of all southern states, is better equipped for stepping into the breach. His personal experience as president of the White Provision company, near Atlanta, has demonstrated that fact.

If Georgia revives the cattle industry—and the process will not be a tedious or an expensive one—she can add to her money-assets an income producer second only to cotton.

If Georgia fails to take advantage of the pressing opportunity it is extremely probable, as Mr. White warns, that western capital will come in here, buy up lands and skim the cream of the cattle industry.

Which is it to be?

Plucking the reward for ourselves?

Letting others walk away with it?

The answer is with the farmers and capitalists of Georgia.

The public is reasonable, after all. No one would criticise Secretary Bryan for having a date at the world's series.

It is said Tennessee dreads an extra session of its legislature, but what's the odds? More people go armed than the law allows.

A Baltimore scientist has 80,000,000,000 germs—and still lives.

Anyway, it has been anything but a spectacular congress, on photographic dress parade.

There was a time when any country explored by the Colonel demanded to get on the map in red letters.

If the High Cost would be reasonable it could settle the currency problem in a jiffy.

That income tax look is half the battle where a man isn't pretty well known.

Plenty of good government jobs yet to be filled, but there are more patriots to the minute than there are offices to the mile.

John Lind has learned the lesson of not talking one's self into the limelight at the wrong time.

No matter how the tariff hustles it will never make things drop as fast as you can catch.

So many have solved the currency problem for themselves, why should they want congress to hurry and disappoint them?

When the old man was runnin' fer office
An' they cried: "Now, the tariff explain,"
He'd say right away:
"It's the wrong time o' day,
My friends, I must catch the next train!"

He'd sure disapp'int 'em—twuz allus that way,
Though he talked about other things three times a day!

II.

An' now that the tariff is settled
An' they tell him they can't understand,
He says: "It's so plain that I'll catch the next train—
It's a blessin' all over the land!"
Is it any old wonder they's folks still to doubt it
When the old man himself, don't know nuthin' about it?

A Visit to Congress.

"Our representative got us a seat where we could hear a debate in congress," says the editor of the Whitsett Courier, "and there we sat for two mortal hours; but though there were six in our party, when we went out we were no whit wiser than we were when we went in. The only thing that was illuminating about it was a flashlight picture some photographer made of a senator."

"The old man's been a-readin' up on 'Science,' here of late," she said, "an' says he's jes' found out what it is to be good-eddicated, but I tell him that of a gorilla was his fur off gran'daddy he deceived me that night when he asked me to marry him, comin' from the old mill, in the moonlight, when the w'ip-perwills wuz singin' an' the stars winked, as ef they knowed I was a-goin' to say 'Yes.'

"My, my, but it seems a fur ways back now! I remember it was the time when they was a singin'-school, an' he'd been a takin' me to it like he wanted to learn singin' his-self, but he never seen a note on the blackboard, or the singin'-man p'intin' at 'em, an' tellin' us how to make 'em hit the shingles, or drap to the lowgroun'—I say, he never seen one note fer lookin' into my eyes, which he said was as gray as his hair was gittin' cause I kep' him a-guessin'—like I done the other boys. "North and South."

The Living Age has this lyric, on "North and South," by Edward Storer:

The North bends o'er the South
His frosty mouth.
Within each other's eyes
A vision of far skies.
"All, all my snowy monuments I give to thee
For one full hour of thy rich Italy."
"Take all the vines and sunshine I love best
For one rapt instant on thy rugged breast."

A Tribute to the "Doc."

Now and then the doctor reaps a kind word, like a flower in the thorny way of life. And here is one, from the Chandler Tribune:

"The doctor is a good fellow. His living depends upon our getting sick, yet he cheerfully tells us how to keep well. We call him up at 3 a. m., tell him the baby has the colic, and if he doesn't do a tango for our place immediately, we hold it against him all our lives. After he has worked with the little fellow the rest of the night and a part of the day and has gone home and pursued the even tenor of his way for a couple of months and then he happens to mention to us that we owe him a couple or three dollars, we go up in the air and ask him how in the dickens he expects us to pay him before fall? In the fall—some fall—we swap him a runty calf or make him 'take it out in trade.' He spends his whole life trying to find out what is the matter with us and how to cure us, and we know more in a minute than he would in a thousand years, and we tell him so—at least we tell the neighbors so. If a patient gets well we attribute it to his vigorous constitution, if he fails to recover we put a dent in the doctor's reputation. All of which the doctor seems to consider only a part of his business, and serenely goes about trying to keep us out of the churchyard and himself out of the poorhouse."

A Message to Joy.

Joy is over and 'round you—
Day, and dark o' the night;
Send him a wireless message.
He'll come like a flash o' light!

He'll fly through the misty shadows,

At the signal cry of the hearts that sigh
He'll fly to save your soul.

On Time.

"Though Trouble has thousands of places to go in this wide world," says the Old Philosopher, "ever notice that he's always there on time? And if he takes you by surprise, it's only by way of variety—he needs a change, just like folks; and if it was his business to deal in pleasant surprises perhaps he'd oblige you—but it isn't; he sticks to his text, but you don't profit by his sermons."

"Talk about genius not being 'recognized,'" says a Georgia editor, "We once treated an author to a haircut—even though he didn't have quite enough to stuff a mattress."

CHARACTER THE BASIS OF GOOD GOVERNMENT

(W. D. Hillis, in Brooklyn Eagle.)

If men are right in the springs of character, any form of government will succeed. Then the poorest kind of ruler cannot much hurt either the people or the country. In heaven all love all, all serve all; the least are great, and the kings stoop to bear burdens. In that ideal realm, absolutism would succeed, or the limited monarchy would succeed, or the republic, or no government at all, because the Ten Commandments would all be obeyed, since goodness is both first nature and second nature. Contrariwise, if your individuals are all bad every conceivable form of government would fail. Witness France: Within a single century she tried every known form of government. In her anger over centuries of misrule, she beheaded her king and queen. Then she paused, elevated the leading orator and agitator of Paris into the position of absolutism, and government by the strongest failed. Then she tried anarchy, and let every man do as he pleased, and because she had not transformed her individuals into righteous men, every man went out to wreak vengeance upon his enemies, until these avengers piled up corpses like cordwood in every French village. Later, she tried a "man on horseback," and Napoleon rode the people down with armed regiments. Instead of "liberty, equality, and fraternity," the soldiers substituted "infantry, cavalry, and artillery," and the land became a waste. Still, not having learned the impossibility of building a marble structure out of mud bricks, she tried democracy, and the republic broke down on the return of Napoleon the Third. What did France need? Feudalism failed, the rule of the aristocratic few failed. Anarchy failed, Napoleon failed, the emperor failed, and France, who had once stretched her scepter out over one hundred and fifty millions of people in three continents, has lost her possessions in North America, in South America, in the islands of the sea, in Africa, in Italy, while her own population is steadily waning. So the premier of the French government exclaims in the parliament of Paris, "What France needs is thirty millions of Christians." Certainly, and with thirty millions of Christians any form of government will be successful. Any kind of taxation will support the rulers if all are honest, any laws as to temperance will do when all hate drunkenness. We are told that fifty thousand new laws were proposed in congress and the various state legislatures last winter. Our country is out upon one orgy of law-making. But everybody understands that the people of this country already know a hundred times more than they are willing to do. What this country needs is a revival of interest in the old-fashioned, every-day virtues, an honest earning of one's living, a contentment with the temperament and the gifts received from our fathers, and a determination to play a man's part, to keep sweet, and to live at peace with one's conscience and record. The old-fashioned flowers mentioned by Shakespeare, and dear to the Pilgrim Fathers—the rose, the violet, the columbine—outlast the new orchids. The old plain virtues of our fathers and mothers, who were pure gold through and through, who did justice and loved mercy and walked humbly with God, are the fundamental virtues. The everlasting simplicities will make states great when the land is filled with good men and true women who do God's work in Christ's way, in the spirit of peace and good will.

FAULT FINDERS

By George Matthew Adams

About the most useless occupation in the world is Fault Finding. Who ever heard of a Happy Fault Winder? If you Find Fault with Conditions that is not going to change the conditions; if you Find Fault with the kind of Weather God Almighty presents, that is not going to change the Weather, if you Find Fault with your Job, that is not going to select and place before you a different Job.

The only time Fault Finding is justifiable is when you Find Fault with your own Faults so as to self correct them.

The chronic Fault Finder is not only valueless but a nuisance. No one wants him around and everyone is depressed by his presence. He is usually an Idler. He is a polite sort of a Criminal, though allowed "at large." Fault Finding always comes from within the one who Finds Fault, though he always insists that outside conditions cause the trouble.

If People and Things were all Flawless—if Conditions were always perfect—all incentive for Growth would be lacking.

When you feel like Finding Fault with Somebody or Something, stop for a moment—and Think! There is sure to be something wrong around your own yard. Find out what it is. Then—the cause for your Fault Finding being removed, you immediately hand in your name as an Applicant for membership in The Optimist's Club. And nobody will "Blackball" you.

Cancer and Scarlet Fever.

(From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

Dr. John B. Murphy, chief of staff of Mercy hospital and a surgeon of world-wide reputation, returns to Chicago from the sessions in London of the International Congress of Medicine with the announcement of scientific discoveries in respect to cancer and scarlet fever that are of great importance to all mankind.

The dread cancer problem has so far baffled medical science. This problem was easily the most important subject discussed at the congress. While the discovery relates to cancer in mice and has nothing to do with human beings except by analogy, it is sensational in that cancer immunity has been obtained for the first time on record. "This," says Dr. Murphy, "leads to great hope of the solution of the cancer problem in human beings."

That scarlet fever can be rendered non-contagious by the use of oil of eucalyptus as an unguent is the second discovery. While this discovery is possibly of less importance than the other, it is complete in itself, ready for immediate use and within the reach of all.

Scarlet fever is a dangerous disease, both directly and indirectly. It frequently causes death and even more frequently leaves its victim to suffer permanent physical and even mental defects. It is exceedingly contagious and every case is a public danger. While it is believed to be of bacterial origin, its germ has never been isolated.

Oil of eucalyptus is a mild germicide, easily obtained and comparatively inexpensive. If its use is found by experience to destroy the contagion of scarlet fever, the importance of the discovery is evident. For scarlet fever can thus be practically stamped out by prevention, and its epidemics, with their toll of human life and their dangerous after effects, will be a thing of the past. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" will prove literally true in this case.

Medicine is not an exact science, as mankind knows to its cost, but its scientific researches are adding vastly to man's dominion over all created things.

Can't Supply the Demand.

(From The Sandersville Progress.)

There is always a big demand for poultry and eggs, and in some communities of the south considerable attention is given to this line of business. In some sections of Tennessee where cotton cannot be profitably raised on account of the short seasons the farmers are giving their attention to poultry with good results. Several hundred carloads are annually shipped from one town, and the demand is always greater than the supply.

The World's Mysteries

WHO DESIGNED OUR NATIONAL SEAL?

Like so many things connected with the early history of our country, time and again an effort has been made to discover who designed our national seal or from whence its origin. The Great Seal of the United States, of which only the obverse was ever cut, was adopted by an act of congress of June 20, 1782. A seal in accordance with this act was soon after cut in brass, and the earliest known impression therefrom is on a commission dated September 16, 1782, giving General Washington full power to negotiate exchanges of prisoners.

There is no record of the cutting of this seal and it is impossible to say by whom it was cut, but it was probably done in Philadelphia. In this seal the eagle was slim and very sketchily drawn, the shield was long and narrow and with a straight upper line, the olive branch was without fruits and the border was foliated. The seal remained in use for forty-nine years.

The history of the seal is recorded in the Journals of Congress from the resolution of July 4, 1776. After the reading of the Declaration of Independence, it is stated, that "Dr. Franklin, Mr. J. Adams and Mr. Jefferson be a committee to prepare a device for a seal of the United States of North America." This committee first reported on August 10, 1776, a very ornate design, but it was not accepted. Nothing further was done for several years. On March 25, 1779, a new committee was appointed and their report, a few months later, was sent to a new committee. In 1782, William Barton submitted a design, which was also pronounced unsatisfactory. Then Charles Thomson, the secretary of congress, submitted a design, and later Barton presented one improving on Thomson's.

Was it an Englishman who suggested the design? This question is asked, for the reason that in a letter written in 1818 by Thomas Barritt, an eminent antiquarian of Manchester, England, to his son in this country, he said: "My friend, Sir John Prestwich, Bart, told me he was the person who suggested the idea of a coat of arms for the American states to Ambassador John Adams, which they have seen fit to put on their moneys."

Sir John Prestwich was a distinguished English antiquarian and a friend of the American revolution. He enjoyed an acquaintance with John Adams when the latter was on his foreign mission in 1779, and they conversed on the subject of the seal. It appears that Sir John made certain suggestions for a design.

It cannot be found that Prestwich did more than make a few rambling suggestions which may have been submitted by Adams to Charles Thomson, who incorporated them in his own and Barton's designs. Sir John, of course, knew nothing of the designs of Thomson and Barton, and his statement of being its designer after the seal was adopted was made in ignorance of the fact that the essentials of his suggestion were already before congress.

That Prestwich's suggestions influenced the final result even in the slightest degree possible, seems improbable.

The different features of the seal had been in common use in America.

In the North Carolina paper currency of 1775 appears a bundle of thirteen arrows; in the Maryland currency of the same year a hand grasping an olive branch with thirteen leaves; on a fifty-dollar bill issued in 1778 is an unfinished pyramid with the motto "Perennis;" in the Massachusetts copper penny of 1776 are thirteen stars, surrounding an eagle; the flag had the thirteen stripes, and so had the seal of the board of admiralty adopted May 4, 1780. So that the seal of the United States was a combination of all these, with no one particular person to be credited completely with their arranging, but the biggest share is probably to be given to Charles Thomson.

The present seal now in use was recut in 1903 in Philadelphia by direction of John Hay, secretary of state, as the seal then being use was becoming worn with age. The States, the design never having been materially changed from the cutting of the first great seal in 1782.

STARTLING FIGURES ON THE POULTRY INDUSTRY

BY MARTIN V. CALVIN.

I question whether one hundred readers of The Constitution have anything approaching a fair conception of the value of the poultry industry of the United States and of this state. Everybody has a general knowledge of the fact that poultry abounds to some extent throughout the whole country, but the belief is that the work is in the nature of an aside—so comparatively insignificant that it can not be regarded as an industry of the union or of the state.

Poultry publications and poultry exhibitions have created the impression that the work of poultry raising is accomplished by professionals. That is not the purpose of those publications and exhibitions—not at all; their object is to direct attention to the possibilities of the work.

It is, of course, conceded that on every farm there are a few chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese and guineas. The belief is that in the aggregate they do not amount to much.

I remember that a few years ago I made inquiry of a man who traveled a portion of South Carolina, near the city of Augusta, buying chickens to be sold in the city. He had in his wagon eighty chickens—fryers, broilers and hens. He informed me that it had taken him two days, traveling eight miles a day and going from farm to farm, to collect the chickens. His purchases ranged in number from three to twelve birds. The territory he traveled was comparatively thickly settled.

This will give you an idea as to the seeming scarcity of poultry on the farms. This is the basis of the general belief as to the insignificance of poultry raising as an industry.

And yet it is a fact that 95 per cent of the poultry and poultry products of the United States are to be found on farms.

The poultry industry is, without exaggeration, at once a surprise, and, in a large measure, the hope of the country and the state.

Take the country at large, and consider the results developed in 1912.

The value of poultry and poultry products, on farms that year, in the United States, amounted to the princely sum of $570,000,000.

1.—That amount equalled three-fifths the value of the cotton crop proper.

2.—That amount exceeded the farm value of the wheat crop by $14,720,000.

3.—That amount exceeded the value of the oat crop by $127,531,000.

4.—That amount was more than ten times the value of the wool crop.

5.—That amount equalled two-thirds the value of the hay crop.

6.—That amount exceeded the value of the Irish potato crop by $357,450,000.

7.—That amount exceeded the value of the swine of the entire country by $46,672,000.

8.—That amount exceeded in value all the mules of the country by $44,343,000.

9.—That amount equalled quite 70 per cent of the value of all the milk cows of the country.

10.—That amount equalled quite 73 per cent of the farm value of all the "other cattle" of the country.

What a surprise to the average reader! Poultry raising is certainly entitled to be proclaimed to be "an infant industry."

Glance at poultry and poultry products in Georgia—1912.

The value of those two items amounted to $8,464,000.

1.—That amount exceeded in farm value the oat crop of the state by $3,543,000.

2.—That amount exceeded the value of the dairy products of the state, excluding that used at home, by $1,542,000.

4.—That amount equalled quite 75 per cent of the value of all the milk cows in the state.

5.—That amount exceeded in farm value all the "other cattle" of the state by $1,127,000.

6.—That amount was more than 60 per cent of the farm value of all the swine of the state.

Incredible! Yes—seemingly so. Your viewpoint permits the exclamation, but there are the grad-grind facts. They suggest that it will pay handsomely to give more and closer attention to poultry raising and poultry products than we have been bestowing on them.

Six Crops in a Year.

(From The Tifton Gazette.)

Mr. J. H. McHargue, of Crosland, has raised six crops on one acre of land this year, and all of the crops were good ones.

He first sowed the acre in oats, which were harvested in the spring, and the land was planted in corn. The corn rows were 7 feet apart, and between each row of corn he planted a row of cotton. The corn has been gathered, and the yield was sixty bushels. He has already picked 600 pounds of cotton, and thinks he is certain to get a bale.

Sixty bushels of corn and a bale of cotton to the acre after a crop of oats is pretty good, but Mr. McHargue has three more crops coming to him. When the land was plowed last, he planted groundpeas, and they promise a good yield. The acre is near his house, and Mr. McHargue's turkeys and chickens have grazed on it, and he has a fine crop of them almost ripe.

A crop of oats, a crop of corn, a crop of cotton, a crop of peanuts, a crop of chickens and a crop of turkeys from the same land is what he considers growing some crops on south Georgia soil.

SEASICKNESS

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Seasickness is a lost and dizzy condition of the human stomach caused by a wabbly foundation underneath it.

Scientists claim that seasickness is a great mystery but its production is really very simple. When the owner of a stomach which is in perfect running order steps on board a vessel and begins careering over the bounding billows his stomach does its best to accompany him.

As everyone knows, however, this is a difficult task because the stomach cannot see where its owner is going. The motion of a passenger on shipboard is up and down, right and left, sideways before and behind, slantwise in all directions and reverse at full speed. The stomach keeps up with this motion for a short time but soon falls a little behind. Before long it is going while its owner is coming and rising while he is falling. This confuses it still farther and presently it gets to going around and around. The end is now near. The stomach becomes dizzy, tips over and the owner attaches himself to the rail of the vessel like a drowned dishrag and loses all interest in politics, the stock market and life itself.

Seasickness is not fatal but several degrees worse. It consists of a general curdling of the circulation accompanied by explosions in the head, a decay of the mental faculties and a volcanic condition of the digestive apparatus. After the stomach has continued to exert itself after the manner of a strong man putting the shot for a few hours its owner would cheerfully trade it for a porcupine and would wear the latter in his midst with comparative comfort. The sufferings of human beings who have been compelled to remain inactive while their stomachs conducted entire field meets and Olympic programs within them have been equal to the horrors of the inquisition. No one takes the trouble to pity these poor victims, however. In fact, seasickness is a subject for jest and merriment and the transatlantic passenger who drags himself on deck to retail his last few choked and splutterv words receives the cruel haha and is led back to bed by the deck steward who moreover insults him by offering him soup.

This is because seasickness is very seldom fatal. In fact, it leaves no scars and is easily cured without drugs or knife. No matter how severe the disease may be, if the captain will stop the ship and have it held perfectly still the patient will at once recover and demand a ten course dinner. The fact that this is never done is a sad commentary on the heartlessness of seafaring men.

"Loses all interest in politics, the market and life itself."

The interior of the country is full of people who have paid several hundred dollars for the privilege of being horribly seasick. Stranger yet, it is still more congested with people who envy these victims and have saved from $9 to $37 50 towards the same end. Next to appendicitis, seasickness is the most fashionable disease on earth, and those who have pity to spare had better expend it on railroad presidents and other more deserving cases.

Swearing an Accomplishment.

(From The London Chronicle.)

Swearing was at one time regarded as an indispensable accomplishment in a gentleman. Evelyn Ashley once told Sir Algernon West that on his father becoming Lord Shaftesbury Lady Caroline Neeld, his sister, said to him in all seriousness: "Now that you have come into the title you must learn to swear. Your father always did, and gained great respect by it in the county." Those were the days when the Archbishop of Canterbury, calling upon Lord Melbourne to discuss some business, said: "Now, my lord, it will save time if before we begin we assume that everybody and everything is damned."

Will Sell Papers, But—

(From The Pembroke Enterprise.)

Evelyn Thaw's story of her life will no doubt sell thousands of papers, but we don't believe the country will be any better off after reading it.

ATLANTA "BOOSTERS" CHEERED BY KNOXVILLE

Exposition Officials Give Visitors Warm Welcome--Atlantans Say Exposition Is Great.

Knoxville, Tenn, October 7—(Special)—This was Atlanta day at the National Conservative exposition, and more than two kundred "boosters' from the Georgia metropolis assisted in the celebration The delegation from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce arrived in the city at 7 o'clock this morning having made the trip in a special train appropriately placarded, so as to show that the passengers were from The City" of the South

Upon their arrival in the city the Atlantans were met at the station by representatives of the exposition company and other Knoxvilleans, and were escorted to the handsome club home of the Knoxville Aerie of Eagles which was headquarters for the delegation while its members were not at the exposition grounds. A little before noon a score or more automobiles assembled in front of the Eagles' home, and the visitors were taken for a ride to points of interest in and around the city and then to the exposition grounds at about 1 30 o clock

Drum Corps in Evidence.

No formal exercises were held on the grounds during the afternoon but with the drum corps of the Atlanta Aerie of Eagles, thirty-five strong, in the van, the delegation marched through the grounds, visiting all the buildings and taking in all of the exhibits possible The visitors were the guests of the exposition management

Atlanta, of Course ' badges worn by the Georgians sufficed and the wearers were given the freedom of the midway and shown every possible courtesy

John E Freeman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce was a deadhead of the visiting delegation Mr Freeman and other members of the party were loud in their praise of the exposition, declaring that it was the best they had ever seen and was just as good in fact as if Atlanta had given it than which nothing more laudatory could be said

The visitors also admitted that next to Atlanta the best city in the world Knoxville was the best in the south

Magnitude of Exposition.

They were delighted and also surprised by the magnitude and excellence of the exposition was the opinion expressed by the visitors On the grounds the delegation attracted much attention and its members saw to it that everyone knew from what city they hailed At night the Georgians visited the night horse show of the exposition and at 9 o'clock were the guests of honor at an elaborate banquet tendered by Knoxville Aerie of Eagles in its home

This banquet was one of the most pretentious and enjoyable functions of the kind held since the exposition opened

Shortly before midnight the Atlantans boarded their special train, which left for Atlanta early Wednesday morning

Work of Valuing Railways of South to Be Done From the Tennessee City

Washington, October 7—The interstate commerce commission announced today that division headquarters for the work of physical valuation of railways would be located at Washington, Chicago Kansas City Mo, Chattanooga, Tenn, and San Francisco

In a statement the commission said, 'These cities were selected as the most logical and economical points for the headquarters but as the work progresses there is every probability that additional offices will be located in other cities especially in the western and southwestern districts which, while having no more railroad mileage, covers much larger territory than the other districts '

BOILERMAKER LEAPS INTO LIQUID FIRE AND SAVES PLANT

Brunswick Ga October 7—(Special) Puttins, on a pair of rubber boots and rushing into a fire which was burning in liquid tanks John McIntyre, a boilermaker at the plant of the Yaryan Naval Stores company, proved himself a hero Sunday night when that mammoth plant was on fire When he had completed the work and rushed from the flames he was cheered by the three or four hundred people who were at the fire and who had watched his perilous work

When it was discovered that the fire was burning in the large tanks it was realized that in order to check the flames the fluid tank valves would have to be shut off McIntyre volunteered to perform the act and as the huge crowd looked on in amazement and as four streams of water played about him he opened the valves accomplishing the act without serious injury

What Is Home Without an Appetite?

Many a Miserable Dyspeptic Can Quickly Enjoy a Good Appetite Using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is nothing so deplorable as a home where at every meal one member of the family sits in silence eating a special diet while others are partaking of the regular food

Not only does this condition become almost unbearable to the dyspeptic, but it throws anything but a joyous spirit over the rest of the family

The Child—"Please eat some nice chicken, papa."
The Father—"No, Buster, daddy don't feel like eating."

The presence of dishes before him that a stomach sufferer cannot eat, makes him sick at his stomach and he is actually doing himself an injury when he eats at such a table

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet taken after each meal will excite appetite and in a short time one will find the sight of food becoming less and less repugnant until after a few meals one will take courage enough to join with the family in the regular fare

As soon as this is done and there follows no evil effects then by continuing the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you will soon be restored to your normal, healthy and vigorous appetite

One of the real pleasures of eating is the joy of smelling and seeing food These qualities are essential to the normal digestion, for they excite the flow of saliva in the mouth, and the gastric juices in the stomach and thus make ready the digestive apparatus for the food when it is eaten

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain ingredients that every system needs. Weakened fluids of nature used in digestion are quickly restored to their normal proportion, and in a short time are so evenly balanced that the system can manufacture its own pepsin and hydrochloric acid as it should.

Go to your druggist today and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price, 50 cents.

NO PRIMARY FOR RACE IN SECOND DISTRICT

Park, Covington and Luke All Hustling for Votes to Succeed Roddenbery.

Albany, Ga, October 7—(Special)—The democratic executive committee of the Second congressional district met here today and decided not to order a primary, but to leave the race a free-for-all affair

Governor Slaton has ordered the election held November 5 and it was decided the time was too short in which to have a primary A primary will, however, be held before the regular election next year

The congressional race seems to have narrowed down to Judge Frank Park, of the Albany circuit Hon W A Covington, of Moultrie and Mayor Roscoe Luke, of Thomasville, all of whom are busily engaged in hustling for votes It is not believed there will be any other entries

For the next two years the couple will make their home in Atlanta, where Dr Pascual is taking a medical course It is said that they had no thought of eloping when they left here for Cornelia where Dr Pascual was to take a train for Atlanta They were accompanied by Miss Hazel Hunt, cousin of the bride While the bride's parents were known to be opposed to the match, it is understood that all will be forgiven

CAMPAIGN ON VICE SECURES BIG CHURCH GATHERING FOR CITY

Atlanta's crusade on vice was largely responsible for the choosing of Atlanta for the 1914 convention of the Disciples of Christ, according to Dr. L O Bricker, who returned Tuesday from the convention held in Toronto last week

Wherever they turned Dr Bricker and the other Georgia delegates were continually asked about the vice war, how it started, at whose instigation and about what success had been met in fighting the evil

'I feel confident in stating, said Dr Bricker, 'that among the Christian people of America the vice crusade staged in Atlanta has done more in the way of constructive advertising for the city than any other event in its history The Toronto convention has proven this in an unexpected and highly satisfactory way, for it is probable that we would never have won the naming of Atlanta for the 1914 meeting place if it hadn't been for the fact that the vice crusade has attracted the eyes of the entire nation."

SAVANNAH COUPLE WED AFTER RECORDER'S TRIAL

Savannah, Ga., October 7—(Special) In the recorder's court this morning Joel A Dickinson proved to the satisfaction of Recorder John E Schwartz that he hasn't a wife in Pensacola, Fla., and expressed a willingness to marry Miss Celine Bartee, a 15-year-old girl Dickinson's detention by the police came as a result of the row raised by the mother of the young girl yesterday morning

The mother's name is Mrs J E Johnson, and yesterday morning she phoned the police that she had Dickinson in her home and was detaining him at the point of a revolver until he consented to marry her daughter She insisted that the police go to the scene accompanied by a minister The minister was found, but when he got to the house there was no license The ordinary's office was willing to issue one but somebody said that Dickinson had a wife in Pensacola, so the authorities locked him up until there could be an investigation This morning it was decided that if Dickinson married he wouldn't commit bigamy, and so that knot was tied Now everybody seems content.

MACON WOMAN WELL FROM MERCURY POISON

Macon, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—That bichloride of mercury is not always fatal, as in the case of the late B Sanders Walker, has been demonstrated through the recovery of Mrs George Barksdale 108 Arlington street, who swallowed three mercureal tablets with suicidal intent two weeks ago At first all hope of saving her life was given up, but the doctors continued to work on the patient and their efforts were rewarded when the patient began to rally a few days later Yesterday Mrs Barksdale left the hospital completely recovered.

The treatment used in her case was the same as that employed by the doctors attending B Sanders Walker, and the only explanation that doctors can give is that Mrs. Barksdale received treatment in time to keep the poison from getting in its deadly work, while in Mr Walker's case it got all through his system before he received medical attention.

Shoes and Character

[Elbert Hubbard in The Fra]

An Advertisement

THERE are four primal necessities in life—only four These are food, clothing, shelter—love Shoes and hats are a part of our clothing Also they are secondary sexual manifestations, said Herbert Spencer Spencer was a bachelor, and he knew And as women's shoes get more beautiful, skirts grow narrow and short.

Spiritless, dejected, whipped out men advertise to the world their mental condition by their shoes Hope, courage, animation, ambition, are mirrored in your shoes Your feet feature the facts Shoes are a tell tale

Once there were people in America who never wore shoes Now we all do—a part of the time, at least Americans are the best shod people on earth

Our consumption of shoes is two hundred seventy millions pairs a year—three pairs to a person Twenty-five years ago it was two pairs a year per person We are getting more particular Also, as the years have passed our shoes have been bettered in style and quality Most of us even us common folks, have different shoes for different occasions Its better for our feet, and better for our heads, as it lifts our self-respect. When you change your shoes you change your mind.

Shoe manufacturers are a prosperous people There is no "Shoe Trust" and there can't be, for there are thirteen hundred shoe factories in the United States, and more are being formed. I know of six shoe factories in St Louis, all started by employes, who have come out of one particular factory and embarked in business on their own account. And they are all making money.

Monopoly is out of the question in the shoe business, for the simple reason that any one who wants to start a shoe factory is not obliged to buy an outfit of costly machinery He can lease shoe making machinery and get it on exactly the same terms that the biggest factories can

If every shoe factory had to buy or manufacture its own machinery and thus keep abreast of the times, it would require such a vast capital and also such a corps of inventors, that of necessity the business would be concentrated in the hands of a few Instead of thirteen hundred factories, there would be thirteen, and if there were only thirteen they would get together and we would have a Shoe Trust. As it is, we haven't.

Today, the boot and shoe industry is the one large business left in the world not run by a so-called Trust, and the United Shoe Machinery company is responsible for that fact

A few days ago I was in Boston, and I just took a couple of days off to find out who the United Shoe Machinery company is, what they are, and what they are doing The general offices of the concern are in Boston, but their factories are at Beverly, Massachusetts, twenty miles out, near where President Taft made his summer home The salt water comes right up to the doors

We have heard about the increased cost to the consumer by reason of the so-called "Machinery Trust ' I suppose the average person, if asked what amount the owner of leased shoe machinery would receive on a pair of shoes, would say, "O, about forty or fifty cents "

The real fact is that it takes fifty-eight different machines to make a single shoe, and in cases where the entire fifty-eight machines are leased by the manufacturer of shoes the owner of the machines receives a royalty running up sometimes to five and one-half cents a pair Where fewer machines are used it runs as low as half a cent a pair, and the average for most shoes is one and one-third cents a pair

If this entire cost were wiped out it would not make one cent's worth of difference to the wearer in the price for a pair of shoes'

Let it be known that the United Shoe Machinery company do not make shoes They simply manufacture machinery that is used by shoe manufacturers They make upwards of three hundred varieties of machines Different styles, weights and kinds of shoes require different machinery There are babies' shoes, children's shoes, women's shoes, men's shoes, shoes for business, shoes for society, shoes for indoors and shoes for outdoors Some people wear one kind of shoe in the morning, another in the afternoon, and a different shoe in the evening.

Most of the principal machines made by the United Shoe Machinery company are leased to the manufacturers although a great majority of the machines they make can be bought if the user so desires

Practically all of the shoe factories in America lease their machinery. This custom has come down for the past forty years The reason is that so many different kinds of machines are needed in making a shoe, and new inventions and improvements are happening every day Factories would not run the risk of putting in a new invention, especially in view of the fact that the machine might have to be replaced any day with something better, cheaper and more effective

Things we don't know anything about, we are not aware of Ninety-five per cent of manufacturers today very much prefer to lease a machine rather than to purchase it outright. Because a machine leased by the user doesn't have to be "scrapped" This dread nightmare of an obsolete machine carried on the inventory has made many a good man turn gray before his time

The business of the United Shoe Machinery company is one of the best examples of successful co operation in America Inasmuch as most of the machinery is leased and pays a return only when used, it is self-evident that the machinery must be of a kind that will give a satisfactory service

The United Shoe Machinery company employ a force of more than five hundred traveling machinists, who are constantly inspecting the installed machinery and seeing that it is kept in perfect condition. Idle machinery, like idle men, yields no income

The United Shoe Machinery company keep constantly in their employ a force of about a hundred highly skilled inventors, who are constantly working on new ideas, or perfecting old ones No machine is ever made good enough It must be made better

There are no secrets around the United Shoe Machinery company's works You see the inventors, the chemists, the workers in the laboratory, and the thousand of hearty, happy people in these wonderful concrete buildings, seventy-five per cent of the walls being glass—the sunlight flooding everything—and in some of the buildings ninety per cent is glass

These great works give employment to upward of five thousand people, and no mill in Massachusetts or in the United States pays an equal wage, the average weekly pay envelope being $15 70.

I have visited many factories, stores, mills shops, all over the United States and in England, France, Scotland, Italy and Germany, but never have I seen a big factory managed with the same superb attention to hygienic and sanitary conditions.

In way of factory equipment and so-called factory betterments no institution in America surpasses this, but all of the betterment work is quite incidental and is a matter of course without fuss, frivol and flummery

Viewed from any and every possible standpoint the United Shoe Machinery company has made the world its debtor Consumers, employes, inventors, producers of raw stock, stockholders, management—all have prospered, because a great service has been rendered Business, nowadays, is based on reciprocity, mutuality, cooperation. The United Shoe Machinery company is a splendid example of all three It has made its wonderful success by making it possible for the consumer to buy today for three dollars a better shoe than could be bought a quarter century ago for five dollars

And, after all, is not the test of the worth of a corporation the service it gives to the people?

SOCIETY

To Wedding Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Jones entertained at buffet supper at their home last night after the rehearsal for the wedding of their son, Mr. Harrison Jones, and Miss Kathryn Gordon, which takes place tonight. The company was composed of the wedding party, including the ushers and their wives and the out-of-town guests, and a delightful hospitality was extended them.

The house palms and ferns were the bases for an artistic decoration. Pink roses were used in the drawing room, the red of a profusion of salvia made glowing effect in the reception hall, and in the library were jardinieres of goldernod.

The dining room decoration was in white and green. The table centerpiece was a basket of bride roses and swansonia tied with green tulle, and the white and green combination was carried out in detail. The guests were seated for supper at small tables in all the rooms, and the occasion throughout was one of elegant appointment.

Mrs. Jones was gowned in French blue charmeuse draped with black chiffon. Miss Lula Dean Jones wore a becoming white gown of chiffon with embroidered border of pink roses. Mrs. Bolling Jones was gowned in white satin and lace. Miss Gordon wore old rose brocade trimed with old lace, and its girdle was of French chiffon in variegated colors.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mrs. George Munroe, of Quincy, Fla.; Mrs. William H. Crawford and Miss Nouna Illges, of Columbus, who are visiting Miss Gordon; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benning Crawford, of Columbus, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Willet; Mr and Mrs. W. C. Saunders, of Roanoke, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Jones, and Mr. Frank Foley, of Columbus, the guest of Mr. Harrison Jones.

Miss Nash's Tea.

Miss Lyda Nash was hostess at a pretty tea yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Howard Meador on Ponce de Leon avenue in compliment to her guests, Miss Mary Agnes O'Donnell and Miss Celeste Villiere, of New Orleans.

The reception floor was thrown together and beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, dahlias in shades of pink and pink cosmos.

A tall silver vase filled with Killarney roses was the centerpiece of the tea table in the dining room and the silver candlesticks had pink and crystal shades.

The mints, cakes and other details of decoration were pink. Mrs Stuart Stringfellow poured tea and Miss Sarah Lee Evans served chocolate.

Miss Nash was lovely in a gown of white satin charmeuse with tunic of blue chiffon embroidered in seed pearls. Miss O'Donnell's gown was of white chantilly lace trimmed in rhinestones and Miss Villiere wore white chiffon. Mrs. Mary Howard Meador wore a gown of white charmeuse combined with lace. Assisting in entertaining were Miss Laura Cowles, Miss Alice May Freeman, Miss Marion Goldsmith, Miss Mary Hines, Miss Mildred Duncan, Miss Margaret Duncan, Miss Elise Brown, Miss Elizabeth Hargroves and Mrs. Benjamin Craig.

Alumnae Club.

The Atlanta Kindergarten Alumnae club met at the Kindergarten Normal school for its annual business meeting on Friday, October 3. The following officers were elected President, Miss Eva Richardson; vice president, Miss Susie Sandiford; secretary, Miss May La Fontain; treasurer, Miss Jennie Dargan; press correspondent, Miss Wilder. There are sixteen young ladies in training at the normal school and they surprised the Alumnae club with autumn souvenirs.

For Miss Andrews.

Miss Martha Lawshe entertained informally at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home on West Peachtree street for Miss Sadye Andrews, a bride-elect. There were eight guests.

To Fall Brides.

Mrs. Bolling Jones will entertain at luncheon on the 18th in compliment to Miss Kathryn Gordon, her guests to include recent brides and brides-elect.

Suffrage League to Meet.

An interesting program will be given at the meeting of the Woman's Suffrage league on Wednesday, October 8, at 3 p. m., in Carnegie library.

Mr. Jesse E. Mercer, state commissioner of fish and game, will make an address in response to an invitation from the president, Mrs. H. A. Smith.

Miss Aurelia Roach will give an account of the big suffrage mass meeting in Bow street, London, which she attended.

Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie will tell "Why I Am a Suffragist." Mrs. Frances S. Whiteside and Mrs. E. A. McCarthy will give brief talks full of valuable information.

Every one interested is cordially invited to attend.

For Miss Booth.

Among those who will entertain for Miss Claire Booth before her marriage to Dr. William Lambert Nance, of Fort Valley, on October 22, will be Miss Mary Anderson, who entertained Friday afternoon. Miss Christine Melson gives a box party at the Forsyth Saturday afternoon. Miss Elizabeth Ramey a box party Monday afternoon; Mrs B T Booth entertains Wednesday, the 15th Mrs. Evan McConnell entertains the bridal party at a luncheon on Thursday, the 16th; Miss Mamie Morris entertains Friday; Miss Annie Lou Jenkins gives a tea on the afternoon of Saturday, the 18th, and Mrs. L. D Lowe entertains at a box party the following Monday.

D. A. R. Restaurant.

Dinner and lunch will be served Wednesday, October 8, from 12 to 3 o'clock, at the "House That Jack Built," junction of Forsyth and Peachtree streets, by the following ladies of the D. A. R. who hope to see there all their friends: Mrs. E. S. Gay, Mrs. Walter G. Cooper, Mrs. Herbert C. Chapman, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. Frank G. Lake, Mrs. J. W. McArthur, Miss Carrie Stanton, Mrs. James L. Anderson, Mrs. W. W. Springer, Mrs. I. S. Mitchell, Sr., Mrs. W. A. Neal, Mrs. Joseph Allen, Mrs. R. V. Conncrat, Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Miss Martha Morel, Mrs. Thomas A. Murray, Mrs. W. S. Coleman, Miss Helen Prescott, Mrs. C. J. Steutsman, Mrs. W. W. Martin and Mrs. William F. Williams, chairman.

Will Not Visit Atlanta.

The officers of the Woman Suffrage league of Atlanta, who have extended an invitation to Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, of England, to visit Atlanta, are disappointed that the brevity of that lady's visit to this country will prevent her coming south. Bearing upon the subject the Atlanta league has received the following letters from Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York, and Miss Joan Wickham, Mrs. Pankhurst's representative:

Mrs. Belmont writes:

"Mrs. J. B. Gardner, Secretary Woman's Suffrage League, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Mrs. Gardner: I am in receipt of your letter of September 25 and am very glad to hear equal suffrage is making so much advance in Atlanta. I have spoken with Miss Joan Wickham, Mrs. Pankhurst's representative, about Mrs. Pankhurst visting your city and Miss Wickham says she is sorry Mrs. Pankhurst will not be able to visit Atlanta, on account of her visit in this country being so short.

"With my best wishes for the success of your suffrage work in Georgia, believe me, Sincerely yours,

"ALVA E. BELMONT."

(Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.)

"Miss J. B. Gardner, Secretary Woman's Suffrage League, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Mrs Gardner: Your inquiries of Mrs Pankhurst have been passed over to me. It is with much regret that I have to tell you I cannot possibly arrange for Mrs. Pankhurst to come as far south as Georgia. If only she had the time on her hands she would, I know, be delighted to pay you a visit.

"Thanking you very much for your letter, I am, Very sincerely,

"JOAN WICKHAM."

For Class Members.

A delightful occasion was the dinner party given by Mr. Thomas W. Baxter last evening at his home on Fourth street for the resident members of the Class of 1869 of the University of Georgia. The decorations of the handsomely appointed table were carried out in the Georgia colors of red and black. The centerpiece was a plateau of salvia and the candleshades were red.

The class members present were Hon. H. H. Cabaniss, Hon. W. H. Fish, chief justice of the supreme court of Georgia; Judge W. R. Hammond, Hon. B. H. Hill, chief judge of the Georgia court of appeals; Mr. Samuel Barnett, Mr. J. P. White, Mr. Thomas W. Baxter. Besides the class members, Hon. Joseph H. Lumpkin, chief associate justice of the supreme court; Mr. A. H. Alfriend and Mr. R. A. Hemphill, who are old friends and associates of the class, were also guests.

Afternoon Bridge Party.

Miss Emma Wallace entertained at five tatles of bridge Monday afternoon at her home in compliment to her guest, Miss Elizabeth Drummond, of Savannah.

PANAMA EXPOSITION WANTS GA. BUILDING

President Haden, of State Chamber, to Look Into Feasibility of Raising Fund.

President Charles J. Haden, of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, has received a letter from George Hough Perry, division director of the Panama exposition, with reference to a Georgia building at the big fair to be held in San Francisco in 1915. In his letter Mr. Perry says:

"We sincerely hope that some movement may be started in Georgia to bring about its participation in the exposition. So far twenty-seven states have arranged to take part, and legislative appropriations ranging from $35,000 in North Dakota to $700,000 in New York have been made. Other legislatures will appropriate, and in most of those states where legislatures failed to appropriate, movements have started to raise funds by other means. These movements are gaining great headway. They are purely voluntary, but we lend to them the assistance of our field men.

"Were a committee from Georgia to visit San Francisco and investigate the matter we are quite satisfied that they would report back that the exposition, which will be held here in 1915, will surpass in every way any international exposition ever held. This presents an opportunity to exploit the resources to a world audience such as could not otherwise be obtained except at a cost that would be entirely prohibitive."

Under the constitution of Georgia, the legislature cannot appropriate funds for this purpose, but President Haden announces that he will immediately have a conference with Frank G. Hoge, Georgia commissioner for the exposition, in order to discuss the inauguration of a movement for Georgia's representation at the exposition.

ENGAGED TO ONE MAN, GIRL MARRIES ANOTHER

Judge Edgar H. Orr quietly married Miss Jessie Brock to John H. Gwinn, Monday morning, while her frantic fiance, who also held a marriage license, dashed about the city with detectives searching for the girl whom he had arranged to marry at almost the same hour.

The disappointed lover, Durand F. Bagwell, of 25 Chapel street, worked in the same establishment with Miss Brock—now Mrs. Gwinn, although scheduled to have been Mrs. Bagwell—the Benjamin-Osborne pharmacy. She was cashier.

For some time there had been heated rivalry between Bagwell and Gwinn. Bagwell obtained his license early Monday morning. The marriage was planned for that afternoon. Shortly before noon Miss Brock stepped from her desk at the cashier's window, said goodby to young Bagwell, and, declaring she would be back shortly, stepped out and a little later met Gwinn.

Bagwell had dire suspicions. Something told him the couple would go to Decatur. Hiring a taxi, he went to police headquarters and enlisted a squad of detectives, who drove with him to that town.

They weren't there. Then he sought the ordinary's office. There he found that Gwinn had obtained the license, and later he learned of the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Gwinn apparently have gone on their honeymoon. They could not be located Tuesday.

AUTO TAGS FOR 1914 ORDERED BY PHIL COOK

The secretary of state has just put in an order for 25,000 new automobile tags to be placed on sale on January 1, when the $5 per year license tax goes into effect in place of the $2 tax per machine now in force.

The background of the tags will be a dove gray and the letters black, a combination of colors now in vogue in most of the states. Aside from the change in color, these new tags will carry the figures 1914 under the letters "Ga." They will have to be renewed each year.

The law provides that the money raised by this tax, which will probably be over $100,000, is to be apportioned among the counties of the state according to their mileage of public roads. Fulton county, which will pay approximately one-fourth of the tax, will be benefited less than $1,000 by it, according to a declaration made by Secretary Phil Cook.

Cordele Store Robbed.

Cordele, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—A large quantity of cigars and smoking tobacco, valued at over $150, was stolen from the warehouse of the People's Grocery company last night, and a young man who is a relative of one of the owners of the concern is under suspicion as being the person who committed the theft. The goods have been located by the police in possession of a Greek restaurant keeper, who claims that he purchased them from the young man who is suspicioned.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY, DECLARES FORECASTER

Fair weather is still on the program for today. The weather authorities see no particular change from the delightful conditions of several days past, when the temperature has hung around 80 degrees about 3 o'clock each day, and has not got below 54 at night.

On Tuesday the high-water mark for the official thermometer was 80 degrees, as on the previous day. The lowest point reached was 60 degrees. Not even the thought of motorcycle races announced for Tuesday night could aid the weather man in scaring up a raincloud, and for once he let a racing date slip by without hurling forth a rain to break it up.

SOCIETY

Orchestra Season Opens With a Large Attendance

It is a hopeful sign for the best interest of music in Atlanta when a symphony concert fills a theater. And the Philharmonic orchestra at the Atlanta yesterday was the attraction which achieved it.

Not only did the orchestra draw the big audience, but its work was the theme of very hearty congratulations to the members of the Atlanta Musical association, especially from those present for the first time who were initiated into the broad meaning of the orchestra and its broader possibilities, as foreshadowed by the character of yesterday's performance.

Mortimer Wilson, conductor, with the handicap of what had to be scant rehearsal, had done well, and the orchestra, handling creditably the difficult first half of the program, warmed up to delightful accomplishment in the latter half.

Beethoven is not gracious to the infrequent devotee, and the musicians approached him gingerly in the Sonata in D Major, No. 2, but immediately afterwards they played the Edward Elgar march, "Pomp and Circumstance," with the assurance of meeting a contemporary. "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, they had to repeat, and Grieg's "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen," they made a faithful tone picture. In "An Album Leaf," by Wagner, was secured the best unity of the orchestra as an interpreter, the best results in depicting the real character of a composition.

Prelude to the "Meistersingers" and entrance of the guests from Wartburg, "Tannhaeuser," was the introduction and close, and the overture to the "Magic Flute" rounded out the program.

The orchestra has, of course, the faults to be expected of an organization where economy must be an important concern. But already in the beginning of its season, its worth is a pre-eminent fact. Already it has demonstrated that it can please and teach, and that the material is there to be matured for a much completer pleasure, a more adequate instrument of culture, while the size of the audience of yesterday indicated that Atlanta people are growing in realization of what the orchestra is and can be.

LOUISE DOOLY.

Mrs. Harris Goes Home.

Mrs. Corra Harris, whose recent story, "In Search of a Husband," published serially in The Saturday Evening Post, will appear in book form, October 23, spent yesterday in the city in conference with her architects, Mr. W. L. Stoddart and Mr. F. Kiefler. She will begin within a few days the building of her house in the valley near Pine Log, Ga., where she has chosen to live for the last two years.

She has a short story in the October number of Good Housekeeping entitled "Sabbath Webster," another entitled, "The Ideal," in last week's Harper's Weekly, while her story in Harper's Magazine of August entitled, "On the Installment Plan," is considered one of the cleverest of the short stories she is writing.

REBELS ROUTED FROM CAPITAL

Huerta's Men Capture Piedras Negras Without Firing Shot—Thousands of Mexicans Flee to United States.

Piedras Negras, Mexico, October 7.—Without firing a shot federal soldiers took possession of Piedras Negras, erstwhile provisional capital of the constitutionalists, late today, culminating the victorious march of the government army under General Maas through the state of Coahuila, the home of Venustiano Carranza, revolutionary commander-in-chief.

With the exception of four stragglers, who were cut down by federal cavalry while attempting to escape across the border, all of the constitutionalist troops in Piedras Negras marched away with the approach of the government army. They were not pursued, the victorious troops contenting themselves with a search of the city for rebels who might be in hiding. Tonight the city is policed by troops and so far there has been no looting.

While the city was being evacuated and before the federals took possession panic prevailed among the residents who made a rush for the international bridge.

As an Act of Mercy.

As an act of mercy to the terror-stricken women and children the quarantine established by the city of Eagle Pass, because of the prelence of smallpox here and in the surrounding country, was partially raised and several thousand were permitted to cross the boundary and were marched under guard of United States troops to quarantine camps outside Eagle Pass.

Tonight reports as to the status of the revolutionary movement are conflicting. Some dispatches indicate that the rebel army is badly scattered and broken in spirit, while others are that the different bands are still intact and marching toward a common point to reform and renew the campaign. Monclova and Cuatro Cienegas, in the central part of the state of Coahuila, are still under rebel rule, it is understood, while private advices received at Laredo, Texas, tonight report that the important city of Torreon, in the southern part of the state, has been taken by the constitutionalists.

United States military authorities at Eagle Pass will make immediate representations to General Maas urging that measures be taken to insure the protection of life and property here until the reorganization of the municipal government. For the time being no one is permitted to cross the international bridge from Eagle Pass into Mexico.

AT THE THEATERS

"North of 53."

(At the Atlanta.)

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the first matinee performance of the engagement of "North of 53," at the Atlanta, will be given. "North of 53" means the country where cold prevails, where the stories of great mines come from—the country of one's imagination. Alaska is pictured as never before. Dog trains are shown; blizzards are made actual realities and life at 40 degrees below zero is shown as it is actually lived. With the pictures is a most interesting lecture by Mr. Sidney Davis, whose life among the cold, Eskimos and inhabitants of the great north region sounds like a fairy story. Matinees and night performances will be given Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There is just enough real variety in the bill on at the Forsyth this week to make people interested. Hugh Herbert, a young character comedian, who hides his youth by a skillful use of grease, paint and wigs, is the star of one of the cleverest sketch productions that the Forsyth has tendered the seekers of amusement. The playlet is from the pen of a gifted writer—Aaron Hoffman. It deals with a heart interest topic, and it wins. There are lots of other interesting features on the bill. There is a bit of nearly everything that has helped you to pass an evening or an afternoon. The bill has been selected with considerable care; there is a blend of the good things that make vaudeville worth while; that's why the theater is crowded at all performances and advance sales that assure capacity the rest of the week.

"Last Days of Pompeii."

(At the Grand.)

George Kline's photo drama production of Bulwer Lytton's idyllic love story, "The Last Days of Pompeii," is one of the most alluring and beautiful achievements of the age in the new realm of photography. The subject is full of opportunities for glorious pictures and none have been missed. Made in Italy, it bears the perceptible impress of the true artistic spirit that so thoroughly characterizes the Italian producer. All the main episodes of Bulwer's story are reproduced with marked fidelity, and the spectator is pictorially introduced once again to Nydia, the blind flower girl; Glaucus, the handsome Greek; Ione, the beautiful Athenian; Apecides, her brother; Arbaces, the wicked Egyptian priest of Isis, and nemesis of the lovers, Stratonica and others. "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be the attraction at the Grand for six nights, with matinees twice daily at 2 and 8 p. m., and the two evening performances at 7:30 and 9 p. m.

"One Day."

(At the Lyric.)

The thousands who have read "One Day," Eleanor Glynn's sequel to "Three Weeks," are taking this opportunity to witness Cecil Spencer's dramatization of the famous story this week at the Lyric. Much can be said of the work of Victor Sutherland in the part of the Crown Prince of Sardalia. His acting is most effective throughout. His handsome face and personality fit the character to perfection and he shows to great advantage as Paul, the lover, who loves with all his strength. Fay Cusick, as Opal, also gives a remarkable impersonation of the character she plays. Matinees will be given on Thursday and Saturday.

"The Messenger Boy."

(At the Bijou.)

In offering "The Messenger Boy" for the seventh week's attraction, Jewell Kelley bids fair to eclipse any former successes of this popular organization at the Bijou. Packed from pit to doma at every performance, the most enthusiastic crowds of the season are applauding the show and voting it the best play of the company's repertory. In the roles of Grit, the newsboy, and Two-Penny, Eddie Black and Earl Higley are making the biggest kind of a hit, and Miss Rose Morris is delighting her many friends with her attractive portrayal of Roxie. Jewell Kelley, Edgar Darrel, Marie Claire and the other inemers of the company have congenial roles. "The Messenger Boy" will doubtless do a splendid business during the week. Matinees daily at 2:30 and night shows at 8:30 o'clock.

"The Jolly Widow."

(At the Columbia.)

Large crowds continue at the Columbia Burlesque theater, where "The Jolly Widow," featuring Miss Bee Darling, is the attraction. The show is one of the cleverest ever offered in Atlanta. Its scope for brisk comedy situations is great, and the chorus composed of twenty beautiful young women has ample opportunities. Several song numbers have caught the popular fancy of the theatergoers, and frequent encorse are the rule at matinees and night.

PARENTS FINALLY YIELD TO PERSISTENT LOVERS

After two unsuccessful attempts in which parental objection figured effectively, Miss Montine Doolittle, one of the most attractive young girls of Bogart, Ga., and John H. Wood, chief clerk of the Majestic hotel, were married last night at the home of the bride in Bogart.

Parental objection had been overcome. The wedding was a social event, and the bride and groom caught an early train for Atlanta, in which place they will make their future home. The former attempts were planned for Atlanta, but were thwarted by watchful parents, who each time prevented the prospective bride from boarding the intended train.

NAME COMMITTEE ON TRAFFIC LAWS

Many Needed Reforms Will Be Considered at Meeting to Be Held Next Thursday Afternoon.

The joint committee, composed of members of the chamber of commerce and of the city council to make an investigation into the congested conditions of streets in the business center, was appointed yesterday.

Mayor James G. Woodward appointed Alderman John S. Candler and Councilmen A. R. Colcord and W. G. Humphrey to represent the city government, and President Wilmer Moore announced the appointment of Messrs. John W. Grant, Forrest Adair and William H. Kiser on behalf of the chamber.

The committee will hold its first meeting Thursday afternoon for the purpose of organizing. It was suggested that Judge Candler, because of his legal ability, be made chairman of the committee. The committee will be forced to change its plans because of the fact that Judge Candler is in New York and is not expected to return shortly to Atlanta.

Mayor Receives Complaints.

Mayor Woodward has received, within the past three days, a number of complaints of obstructions on some of the principal streets of the city. The attention of the city officials has been called most recently to the high fence in front of the building at the corner of Broad and Alabama streets.

"Traffic on all the prominent streets in Atlanta will be congested just as long as the city allows contractors to tear up the streets and place obstructions in the path of vehicles," Mayor Woodward said. "I have fought time and again against the abuse of the privileges the city extends to contractors to facilitate public improvements, but I cannot hope to do anything until council acts with me."

Chairman Orvile H. Hall, of the street committee, sounds a warning when he declares that unless council adopts traffic regulations conditions will revert from bad to worse. Following the determination of the street committee to keep the streets and sidewalks reasonably clear of obstructions, Chairman Hall made the be taken up by gasoline tanks, air announcement that in the future the committee will not allow the use of sidewalks in the business center to pumps, or other impediments.

Granted Some Permits.

"The committee has granted a few permits because it did not care to be placed in the light of discriminating against one in favor of another," he said. "The committee realizes just as well as any citizen that something must be done to relieve traffic conditions, and figures that the best start will be in the direction of clearing the sidewalks."

Fire Chief Cummings and Police Chief Beavers say that they will co-operate with the committee in an effort to regulate traffic.

"Just because of the lack of regulations Atlanta permits wagons and automobiles to park in the business center and block traffic," Chief Cummings comments. "Such a condition as prevails on Marietta street would not be tolerated in any other city in the United States. There are other streets just as bad. I have sought to have the condition remedied, but my appeal has been futile. Some day Atlanta will have a big fire in the day time, and the fire department will be hampered by the traffic. Perhaps then it will be too late to remedy an evil which should be taken in hand immediately."

Chief Beavers has instructed his crossing men and members of the traffic squad to divert traffic from Peachtree street west as much as possible, and has given similar instructions as to Whitehall street.

Lives Are Jeopardized.

"Lives of pedestrians along Peachtree and Whitehall are jeopardized every minute in the day because of the congested conditions," Chief Beavers declares. "Pryor street is almost as bad, in fact, I expect any minute to hear of a horrible accident. My men have instructions to be on the alert at all times, but it is impossible to have men on duty at every corner to keep traffic moving. I'll be glad when the committee formulates a set of regulations to guide my men."

Councilman George Boynton, of the sixth ward, has taken a position against allowing the obstruction of Peachtree street. He declares that he will oppose any more permits to allow contractors to use any part of the street on any thoroughfare upon which there is heavy traffic during the day.

BARTOW COUNTY FAIR PLEASES GOVERNOR

Enthusiastic Over Agricultural Exhibits and Enterprise Shown by People.

On his return from Cartersville yesterday, where he had gone to open the Bartow county fair, Governor Slaton expressed himself enthusiastically over the progress shown by the county and the enterprise displayed by the managers of the fair.

"I was most agreeably surprised at the character of the exhibits shown," he said. "They would have done credit to a much larger territory, and they clearly showed that Bartow county is still a leader in agriculture, as well as being possessed of other valuable resources.

"I do not know when I have seen a finer lot of men or ore pretty women in a crowd together. And they seemed prosperous and happy, too. There was a most interesting exhibit of the work done by the wives and daughters of the farmers in canning and preserving."

The Bartow county fair is attracting unusual attention from statehouse officials. C. Murphey Candler, chairman of the railroad commission, left for Cartersville last night, and will make an address at the fair today.

HE HAD TO ENTERTAIN GUESTS IN THE KITCHEN

Emil Schneegas opened the eyes of the divorce jury before Judge W. D. Ellis yesterday in superior court when he said that his wife, Mrs. Laura Schneegas, had forced him to take off his shoes before coming into the house and had named the kitchen as the only place in which he might entertain such friends as he might invite to share the hospitality of the home.

Schneegas got his total divorce and as it is said that he has secured a marriage license, it is believed that he has started again on the matrimonial voyage.

The Schneegas divorce suit was one of a comparatively few that were granted Tuesday. Judge Ellis announced at the beginning of the week that there had to be some reason besides the lack of defense on the part of the defendant to make a verdict legal and the members of the jury took the cue and have been slow in giving separations.

CIRCUIT COURT JUDGES CALL ON GOV. SLATON

It is not often that the governor receives at one time three more distinguished visitors than called upon him just before he left his office yesterday afternoon. They were Judges Don E. Pardee, David B. Shelby and Rufus E. Foster, of the fifth circuit court of appeals of the United States.

They simply called to pay their respects to the chief executive of the state on the occasion of their opening a regular term of court. Judge Foster is a district judge from Louisiana, who is sitting in the place of Judge Andrew P. McCormick, of Dallas, Texas, who is prevented from attending by illness.

Long Litigation Settled.

In the United States district court, Judge Newman presiding, a consent decree was yesterday directed in the equity ditigation, long pending, between the Good Roads Construction company and Hall county, wherein titles to road building machinery have been in question, in the decree Judge Newman named G. P. Chartres, of Gainesville, to make public sale of the machinery in front of the Hall county courthouse in Gainesville after the sale shall have been legall advertised in The Constitution and The Gainesville Eagle.

Wilson Names Billings.

Washington, October 7.—President Wilson today sent to the senate the nomination of Edward K. Billings to be collector of customs at Boston, Mass. The nomination had been vigorously opposed by organization democrats of Massachusetts, on the ground that Mr. Billings had not been an active democrat.

FROM KITCHEN TO DINING ROOM

Seemed a Long Way to This Lady, as She Had to Sit Down Between Rooms.

Madison Heights, Va.—Mrs. M E. Veste, of this town; says: "I hardly know how to express myself in speaking of the great good that Cardui, the woman's tonic, did me.

I was almost dead last July when I commenced taking Cardui. I was weak and nervous; without any appetite, and even without courage. I could hardly walk from the dining room to the kitchen without sitting down, and I had about given up all hope.

And then, I saw Cardui advertised in a paper, and I said it was the very thing I needed. So, I got a bottle, and it relieved me in less time than a week. When I had taken three bottles, I felt like a new person.

Please publish this letter so that other people may see how Cardui helped me after I was almost dead."

Cardui goes to the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the nervous ailments of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

WOODWARD WINS TILT WITH THE PARK BOARD

Blocks Erection of $10,000 Refreshment Stand That Carried Moral Obligation.

That $10,000 refreshment stand which the park board planned to erect at Grant park will not be erected this year.

Mayor Woodward went before the park board Tuesday afternoon and informed the board that he had been notified that it was intended to start work on the refreshment stand this year and apply $2,500 of the fund on hand this year for the purpose and carry over $8,000 to be paid on the project next year.

"It's against the law," he informed the board. "You have got to spend only $2,500 on the stand or wait until next year and spend the entire $10,000 on it."

Mayor Is Riled.

The board did not relish the mayor's attitude and President J. O. Cochran curtly informed his honor that the board would do as it saw fit, or words to that effect. The mayor replied with considerable heat:

"You'll follow the law or I'll notify the contractors who bid on the work that not a cent will I pay or authorize to be paid. It's a moral obligation and it can't be done."

And the board followed the law, rejecting all the bids offered on the work. On another motion it was voted to spend the $2,500 in the building of a public comfort station in Grant park.

Uncle Remus Home.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson asked the park board to take charge of the Uncle Remus Memorial home, care for the grounds and keep the place in condition. Mayor Woodward asked if it was the intention of the association to deed the property to the city, explaining that if such was included in the proposal the city could legally assume the obligation of caretaker. Mrs. Wilson declared that that feature was not considered, whereupon the board referred the matter to Manager Carey with authority to him to act.

The board adopted a resolution indorsing the national playground movement.

COSTLY SILVER SERVICE TO BE GIVEN BRANTLEY

Brunswick, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Former Congressman William G. Brantley, of the eleventh district, who retired on March 4, last; after serving his district so faithfully for sixteen years, will, on Saturday night, be presented with a very handsome and costly silver service, which is to be presented to him by the people of Brunswick and Glynn county as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by the people of his home county. Though now residing in Washington, Mr. Brantley is still a resident of Brunswick and will continue to make this city his home.

The beautiful silver service to be presented to him Saturday night was purchased with funds raised by public subscription, no citizens being permitted to contribute more than one dollar.

Successful Revival.

A successful revival is being held at the Mt. Vernon Methodist church at Inman Yards. This meeting began a week ago last Sunday and interest has steadily increased at each service. Under the powerful preaching of Rev. John Yarbrough, of Jefferson, many have been converted and a number have joined the church. Rev. Charles A. Bass, the pastor of the church, has assisted Rev. Yarbrough in these services and much of the good that is being accomplished among the citizens of Inman Yards, of whom the greater part are railroad employees, is due to the untiring and faithful service of Brother Bass among the railroad men in the past.

Judge Newman Busy.

Out of nine charges for violations of the internal revenue law brought before Judge Newman of the United States court yesterday there were three convictions and six acquittals. A six months' jail sentence was the heaviest penalty imposed. So far the federal grand jury organized Monday with Thomas B. Paine as foreman has made no returns. With two or three exceptions all the papers entrusted to the grand jury for investigation have to do with violations of internal revenue laws and the postal laws.

Being a Giant supporter, we wish someone would kidnap this Baker before today's game. As a third baseman, he is some home run hitter.

Baker's Big Bat Again Rings True

Edited By DICK JEMISON

Forty Thousand Fans See Athletics Defeat Giants; "Home Run" Baker Repeats

McInnis in the lone double play of the game, which stopped short a Giant rally in the seventh inning and caused McGraw to jump up and down with rage and disappointment.

Collins, however, had no monopoly on the hero's glory for John Franklin Baker and Chief Bender did yeoman work that entitled them to recognition greater than the average participant in the game.

Baker made history repeat itself when he drove a home run hit into the grandstand back of right field, scoring Collins from second ahead of him. The situation and hits were much the same as in the second game of the 1911 series, when Baker lifted the ball over the fence on a Marquard offering and paved the way for an Athletic victory.

Bender Tightened.

To Bender goes the credit for outpitching both Marquard and Crandall, and showing skill and nerve in several trying places when the Giants appeared about to break through his delivery and take the lead.

The tall Indian had both speed and "break" on his ball, and tightened up when hits meant ruins in a manner that fully merited Connie Mack's confidence.

By outlasting both Marquard and Crandall he gave the Athletics the edge of tomorrow's game, since McGraw must use either Mathewson or Demaree or come back with Tesreau, while the leader of the Athletics has Plank, Shawkey and Brown all available for the first game at Shibe park.

While the game, considered as a whole, seldom touched the high spots of sensational playing, the scenes incidental to the gathering of the spectators were worthy of reproduction by the brush of a great artist.

The flocking of the fans began at midnight Monday, and as the hours of darkness slipped away and dawn changed into the gray light of a sunless day, the waiting lines grew from hundreds to thousands until, when the gates were opened at 9 o'clock, there was fully 5,000 of the faithful in the first rush for the choice seats in the unreserved sections of stands and bleachers.

From that hour on all New York appeared to be migrating to Harlem, and the crowds focused upon the Polo grounds until at 1 o'colek every seat had been sold and still the waves of fans beat upon the fences and entrances of the park until the management was obliged to call upon the city authorities for help in holding the disappointed thousands in check.

Stands Animated Scene.

Once the gates rolled back, the stands took on a scene of animation that was startling, so quick was the transformation form tiers of wooden seats to rows of bobbing humanity. The spectators poured into the various stands and bleachers in steady streams, rolling in from dozens of entrances in long black lines that grew in volume as the hands of the great clock over the bleachers crept around toward the hour when the umpire shold call that magic signal, "Play ball."

Long before noon, the lower sections of the grandstands were filled and the vast stretches of bleachers bore testimony to the popularity of baseball. As the noon hour struck the last of the 32 seats was sold and before another sixty minutes had passed, standing room alone remained.

An hour or so before the game began, the little gate in the centerfield fence opened and the Giants and Athletics trooped forth to the accompaniment of a burst of cheering that could be heard for blocks. There was little ceremony in this entrance of the actors of the day and soon the Athletics were in the midst of batting practice.

Photographers scurried about the field, like flocks of blackbirds, "snapping" players singly and in groups. In the upper stands the holders of the $3 reserve coupons filed in gradually and filled the entire horseshoe of 8,000 seats, while flags and pennants flapped in the northeast breeze and a leaden gray sky enclosed the park and its waiting thousands.

In marked contrast to the scenes of previous years the great gathering was noticeably undemonstrative. The Athletics appeared to have almost as many supporters present as the Giants and their appearance and every succeeding brilliant play elicited as much applause as did those of the home team. The same conditions prevailed all through the game.

The cow bells and horns of former years were not in evidence and the taunts of rabid fans were few and far between. The game was witnessed and appreciated in a sane manner and winner and loser alike reaped the just reward of their efforts.

Game in Detail.

Eddie Murphy, playing in his first world's series, faced Marquard, when Umpire Klem called "Play ball." The left-handed pitcher following Mathewson's usual custom of grooving the first ball, let go a pitch that Murphy caught on the end of his bat and sent it to Murray for an easy catch. Oldring started the Athletic "rooters" shouting when he slashed a single to right field. Marquard, believing that Oldring would try to steal second, kept him close to the bag and finally by a lightning throw caught the Philadelphia base runner napping, Merkle making the out. Oldring protested against Umpire Egan's decision but it availed him nothing. On the next ball pitched Collins shot a clean base hit to center but he was left at first when Baker flied out to Burns.

When New York came to bat there was much cheering but the shouts of the Giants' supporters did not last long. Shafer, the first to face the Chippewa Indian, sent up a fly to Murphy in right field and Doyle flied out to Strunk. Fletcher sent a grounder past shortstop. On the first ball pitched Fletcher tried to steal but Schang's beautiful throw to Collins beat him and the side was out.

The American league champions went out in order in the second inning. McInnis, some of whose Massachusetts friends cheered him as he came to bat, was out Herzog to Merkle. Strunk, usually a weak hitter against left-handed pitching, struck out, and Barry was the third out on a grounder, Fletcher to Merkle.

New York got one man on base in its half of the second but he did not go beyond first base. Burns struck out after Bender had pitched him three bad balls. McInnis unassisted took care of Herzog's grounder. Murray shot a single along the left-field foul line and might have gotten a two-bagger had not Oldring by good sprinting and a fast throw kept him from stretching his hit.

The Indian pitcher seemed to put on more speed when New York's redskin catcher came to bat. Meyers, however, got to his brother Indian but the ball shot up in the air and into Oldring's hands.

Connie Mack's young catcher opened the Athletics' third by flying out to Burns. Bender sent a lazy grounder to Fletcher and the Chief was out at first. Murphy sent a single to center but was forced by Oldring, Fletcher making the out unassisted.

Giants Break the Ice.

The Giants broke the ice in the third inning when Bender was touched up for two hits. Merkle brought cheers from the stand by sending a slow bounder to Shortstop Barry, who could not get up to it quick enough to handle it cleanly and make the out. It was a scratch single for Merkle. Marquard sacrificed, putting Merkle on second. He was held on the middle bag while Shafer was caught out by Strunk, but he sprinted home a minute later when Doyle shot a smoking single to right-field. The New York "rooters" shouted wildly for Fletcher to bring Doyle home, but he was not equal to the occasion. He tried hard but sent up a long fly to Murphy.

New York's having the "edge" on Philadelphia put the crowd in good humor. The Athletics simply gritted their teeth and went after Marquard. They shelled the outer works of the Giants, and when the smoke blew away three runs were across the plate. Collins opened up on the left-hander with a terrific drive over Shafer's head. The ball rolled through the center field stands, and Collins drew up at third amid the plaudits of the Athletic rooters. Baker drove a hard one at Doyle, which the latter could not handle in time to get him at first and Collins raced home for the first run for Philadelphia. McInnis sacrificed, Marquard to Merkle, and Baker took second. Strunk sent a little grounder to Marquard, who headed off Baker at third, Herzog taking the throw. Then Barry, the lightest hitter of the Athletics' infield, ripped a two-base hit down the left field foul line, which placed Strunk on third.

Schang's Triple.

Both of them scored on Schang's tremendous three-base drive to deep center field. It appeared as if Shafer had misjudged the ball. He started in, then stopped, and the ball struck the fingers of his left hand and rolled on toward the center field stand. The Philadelphia players threw sweaters and bats in the air and otherwise showed their pleasure in drawing two runs ahead of their old rivals. Bender ended the inning by going out, Marquard to Merkle.

New York opened its fourth inning auspiciously. Burns slamming a double down the left field line, but he was run down when Bender stopped Herzog's grounder. Bender threw to Baker, who tossed the ball to Collins and the latter shot it back to Baker, who touched Burns out near second base. Herzog, in the meantime, had sprinted to second, where he was left as Murray struck out and Meyers sent a high fly to Oldring.

The fifth inning brought more fame to "Home Run" Baker. Both Murphy and Oldring were thrown out at first by Marquard, who got their easy grounders. Collins worked Marquard for the first base on balls in the game, and promptly stole second. With two out and Collins on second, exactly the same situation as obtained in Philadelphia two years ago when Baker hit Marquard for a home run presented itself.

Baker Poles Home.

The crowd was quiet as the wonderful long distance hitter stepped to the plate. He let two balls go by him and then opened up his shoulders as the next one came down. There was a crack of the bat and the ball sailed high and far, dropping in the right field stand for the circuit. Collins waited for Baker to reach the plate and slapped the Athletic batsman on the back as the Philadelphia partisans yelled themselves almost hoarse. McInnis sent a pop fly to Fletcher.

It looked all over for New York, but Bender's one bad inning came in the fifth. Merkle singled to center. McCormick, batting for Marquard, made good by driving a base hit to centerfield, Merkle taking second. Shafer went out, Collins to McInnis, both runners moving up on the play. Doyle here shot a grounder to Barry, who made a poor throw to first, and the runner was safe as Merkle crossed the plate with the Giants' second run. A moment later McCormick, who had gone down to third on the play on Doyle, came home when Fletcher singled to right field. Doyle moved up to third on Fletcher's hit and scored New York's fourth run of the game while Baker was throwing Fletcher out at second on Burns' grounder, Collins making the out. Herzog sent a high fly to Collins.

Pitcher Crandall relieved Marquard in the sixth and easily disposed of the Philadelphians. Strunk flied to Shafer and Barry did likewise. Schang went out on a fly to Burns. Crandall was cheered as he walked to the bench.

New York also went one in one, two, three order in its half of the sixth. Murray was out, Collins to McInnis, and Meyers was thrown out by Bender. With two out and the count 2 and 2 for Merkle, the latter made a half swing at a low and wild pitch. Schang dropped the ball, picked it up, touched Merkle and then rolled the ball to the pitcher's box. Merkle went to first base and, seeing the ball roll past the pitcher's box, started for second. Collins got the ball, relayed it to Innis and, as Merkle tried to get back to first, McInnis touched him with the ball. Merkle was declared out by Egan, ending the inning.

It appears that Umpire Klem had given Merkle his base on balls instead of a strikeout, of which Schang was not aware, and Merkle was trying to take advantage of the confusion and rolling ball to take second base.

Crandall again had the Athletics tied up in the seventh inning. Bender struck out, Murphy was an easy out, Doyle to Merkle, and Oldring sent a fly to Shafer.

Speedy Double Play.

Things looked rosy for New York in the seventh, but their fine chance to score was killed by a lightning double play in which Barry and Collins were the master workmen. Crandall was out, Barry to McInnis. Shafer drove a single to center field and flashed to third base when Doyle hit to right field for a single. Collins called Barry over to second base and consulted a moment. They evidently were expecting the New Yorkers to try some fine base running.

Whatever New York's intentions were in that regard, they were spoiled when Fletcher hit an ugly fast ball to Barry. He got it cleanly, tossed it to Collins, who made a rifle shot throw to McInnis and the inning was over. This sterling defense of the Philadelphia infield provoked applause from the "rooters" of the Giants, even though it killed New York's opportunity to tie the score.

The eighth inning saw the end of Crandall. Collins beat out an infield hit, Doyle failing to cover first. Baker then came up and hit a sharp single to left field, Collins taking third.

McInnis shot a two-base hit into left field, Collins coming home with the sixth and last run of the game, and Baker going to third. With one run in, two on bases and no one out, Tesreau relieved Crandall. Tesreau immediately put his spit ball into action and Strunk struck out on three pitched balls.

Baker, McInnis and Barry then tried the hit-and-run. Tesreau appeared to be wise to the play and pitched the ball high. Both runners were caught between the bases and New York, of course, tried for the nearest man to the plate, Baker. They got him as he slid to the home base, the play being Meyers to Doyle to Meyers. Barry flied to Doyle.

Bender now was pitching good ball and, although New York got a man on base in the eighth, he could not advance. Burns went out, Baker to McInnis; Herzog was thrown out at first by Collins, and Murray hit a bounder over Baker's head, giving him first. Meyers sent a long fly to Strunk.

In Philadelphia's final turn at bat Schang was thrown out at first by Herzog and Tesreau took care of Bender's slow grounder, throwing him out at first. Eddie Murphy drew a base on balls and the inning closed when he tried to steal second and was out, Meyers to Doyle.

The crowd started to move out when New York came to bat. Merkle grounded out, Barry to McInnis; McLean, pinch hitting for Tesreau, sent a pop fly to Barry and the game was over when Shafer struck out.

No Work in Philly.

Philadelphia, October 7.—Business was practically suspended in the center of this city today while the game between the Athletics and Giants was in progress in New York. Crowds surrounded score boards in front of the newspaper offices and at other points where the results of the game were given play by play. More than 10,000 spectators watched an electric score board from the city hall plaza, while others viewed the games in theaters, nearly all of which had arranged to show the game on screens as quickly as a play was made.

Signs and superstitions were numerous among the good-natured crowd. When a load of empty barrels, which long has been with many of the Athletics rooters pressaged victory for their favorites, went past the throng on city hall plaza hats were doffed and a great cheer went up. The next play displayed was Baker's home run, scoring Collins ahead of him. The crowd went wild and there were many expressions of "I told you so."

Every score was the signal for an outburst of cheering, accompanied by the tooting of countless automobile horns, which made the conductors' trials in the court rooms almost an impossibility. At the end of the ninth inning the cheers of the assembled fans appeared to shake the surrounding buildings. Many women were in the throngs following the plays with the same interest as their male companions.

There was very little betting here, the crowds appearing not to want to take their eyes off the score boards long enough to lay a wager.

Pitcher Jack Coombs, hero of two previous world's series, and the only player eligible to participate in the series not at the Polo grounds, received a report of the game by telephone at his bedside in the University hospital. His wife and Mrs. Ira Thomas were at Shibe park and told him each play as it was flashed on the score board there. Coombs, who is suffering from twisted muscles, is stretched out in bed with a 38-pound weight attached to his feet.

Athletics Arrive.

The arrival of Baker, McInnis and other Athletic players who live near the grounds, tonight, broke up the line of four or five hundred fans who had gathered outside of Shibe park to await the sale of bleacher seats tomorrow. Although some of those in the line had been in position since 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the temptation to get a close view of their heroes caused them to leave their places as the players, suitcases in hand, walked briskly past the park shortly after 10 o'clock.

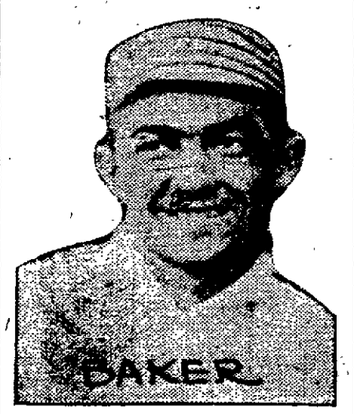
Many of those in line have traveled long distances to see a world's series game, but lack the funds to secure reserved seats at the advance prices. A drizzling rain, which began falling shortly before midnight, did not deter them from resuming their stand outside the gates in the hope that the weather will clear, and they will get front seats.

Both teams arrived in this city tonight. The Giants at once went to the hotel, where they are quartered, while the Athletic players went to their homes.

Connie Mack refused to make any statement other than to say: "Everything went very nicely. No, I won't make any prophecy."

Ticket agencies in the various hotels tonight are offering $3 seats for $8, and $2 seats for $4.50. They appear to be well supplied. Outside scalpers are offering sets of three seats—one for each game—for $15.

AT OLD TRICKS



Athletics' great third baseman, who continued his wonderful hitting in world's series games by duplicating his home run tricks in the first game of the series.

SAID RUBE.

Said a lanky Lefthander called Rube:
"I'll shoot the whole bunch up the tube!"
But he dodged the base hits
And they made him throw fits—
This lanky Lefthander, called Rube!

Home Run Baker Greatest Hitter In Title Games

Athletics' Third Baseman Has Batted at .420 Clip in Twelve Games—Three Homers to Credit.

J. Franklin Baker, third baseman extraordinary and slugger of note, is the greatest hitter that ever stepped up to the plate in a world's series game.

If Baker hit as well during a regular season as he has done during three world's series in which he has participated, Tyrus Raymond Cobb would not have been the leading batsman of the American league for the past seven years.

In twelve games in three world's series, including yesterday's game in which he secured three hits, Baker has hammered the horsehide, pummeled the pellet, batted the ball or whatever you care to call it, for 21 safe raps.

These 21 safe blows have been registered in 50 trips to the platter, a grand average of .420. Five of his hits have been of the two-ply order and three circuit drives, either into the stands or over them.

In these games, Baker has tallied 14 runs, which is also away above the average as far as tallying runs by world's series players is concerned.

In the series against the Cubs in 1910 in which five games were played and the series against the Giants in 1911 in which six games were played, aker had one hitless day in each series, but he compiled nine safe blows in four games in the Cubs' series and the same number in five games in the Giants' series.

Mr. Baker is the greatest dope upsetter in the universe.

JACKSON'S DOUBLE WINS FOR NAPS IN THE ELEVENTH

Cleveland, Ohio, October 7.—Cleveland again defeated the Pittsburg Nationals today 2 to 1 in an eleven inning today 2 to 1. Gregg, Cleveland's star southpaw, opposed Robinson, Pittsburg's best left-hander and honors were about even. Gregg's first base on balls helped Pittsburg to their only run and Robinson's base on balls allowed Cleveland to score the deciding tally.

In the fourth, Dolan walked, took second on Vlox's grounder and scored on Wagner's single to center.

In the sixth Jackson reached first on Vlox's fumble and scored on Lajoie's single which Carey allowed to get past him.

In the eleventh Leibold got a base on balls. Chapman sacrificed him to second and he scored a moment later on Jackson's double.

Only about 3,200 were present. Hans Wagner, who failed to get a hit yesterday, got two singles today, while Lajoie, his rival for seniority, got but one. Tomorrow's game will be played at Pittsburg.

Cubs-Sox, Rain.

Chicago, October 7.—Stock of the Chicago Americans took a jump today with the postponement of the first game of the city championship series. News that Ed Walsh would be able to take part in the series was followed by statements that Schultz, the Nationals' slugging outfielder, would not take part. Thousands of persons were dissapointed today when rain fell hard enough to flood the west side grounds.

WON THE OPENER

The crafty Indian hurler of the Athletics, who, although he allowed eleven hits, kept them so well scattered that his teammates got by.

RECEIPTS LARGER THAN 1912 OPENER

The receipts and attendance of the opening game between the Athletics and the Giants yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds were larger than the opening day of the Red Sox-Giants series in 1912.

Yesterday there were 36,291 persons at the park. In 1912 there were 35,730 persons, a margin of 561 persons in favor of this year.

Tuesday there was $75,255 paid admissions at the Polo Grounds. At the Red Sox-Giants series of 1912 there was $75,127 at the gate, a difference of $128 in favor of the present series.

The crowd at Philadelphia today should compare just as favorably as the crowd the second day of the series of 1912 at Boston.

MERKLE IS WORRIED BY SPRAINED ANKLE

Philadelphia, October 7.—There is serious doubt in the Giants' camp tonight as to whether Fred Merkle, the Giants' first baseman, will be able to take his place on the initial bag in tomorrow's game. Merkle sprained his ankle in the mix-up at first base in the sixth inning today and aggravated the injury by playing out the remainder of the game. He had considerable difficulty in getting to the club house after the game and when he removed his shoe it was found that the ankle was badly swollen.

Coming over on the train to this city the ankle was packed in ice bags and placed upon a cushioned rest.

When the team arrived at the Hotel Majestic local physicians were called in to examine Merkle's ankle, which was badly swollen and discolored by this time. They recommended that the player rest for several days before attempting to re-enter the game. The suggestion put another problem to Manager McGraw and it was not known at an early hour this morning who the manager of the Giants would select to play first base in case Merkle is not available.

The strained tendon in Snodgrass' leg has apparently put him out of the series, and McGraw may have to use one of his substitute pitchers or infield recruits. Wiltse, Crandall, Grant or Wilson are the quartet from which Merkle's substitute would be selected, although none of these players is the equal of the Giants' regular first sacker, and the presence of any one of them at first would weaken the entire New York infield.

ATHLETICS JUST LUCKY, ACCORDING TO M'GRAW

Philadelphia, Pa., October 7.—Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, upon his arrival here late tonight with his team, declared that he was not discouraged by today's defeat, and that the Athletics "were lucky to win."

"Bender was only fair today," said the little manager. "We hit him hard, and the boys are not in the least discouraged by their defeat. They are anxious to go on the field again tomorrow and fight."

McGraw said that if the weather is clear he would use Mathewson in the second game of the series. Further than that he would not discuss his probable pitching selection.

COUNTRY CLUBS TO EXCHANGE INVITES

The members of the Capital City Country club and the Atlanta Athletic club, at East Lake, have exchanged invitations for the golf classic that will be played here Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the two famous Englishmen, will play 36 holes at East Lake with Stewart Maiden and Willie Mann as their opponents.

On Sunday they will play 36 holes at Brookhaven with Scoity McKenzie and H. H. Barker as their opponents.

The members of the two clubs have exchanged invitations for these two days.

Vardon and Ray Defeat Sargent and Corkran on Chevy Chase Golf Course

Baltimore, October 7.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, British golfers, defeated B. Warren Corkran, local amateur champion, and George D. Sargent, professional of the Chevy Chase club, Washington, in a 36-hole best ball foursome, 6 up and 5 to play, at the Baltimore Country club today. The Britons clinched the match at the thirteenth hole in the afternoon play.

The morning round resulted 5 up for Vardon and Ray, whose play throughout the day was phenomenal, over a course with which neither was acquainted. Vardon equaled the course record in the afternoon round.

DIRECTORS' DAY TODAY AT DENT'S PARLORS

Elliott Dent, the Crackers' big right-hander, who is running a baseball detail in the convention hall of the Kimball house, was very well pleased with the results of the first day's business, which was beyond his expectations.

Today will be known as "Directors' day" at the parlors. The officers of the local ball club will be the honor guests. Thursday will be "Red Head" ay. The first ten red-headed men will be admitted free. The loyal rooters, ths fans who rooted the Crackers to a pennant, will be on hand Friday.

Dent was cheered by the fans present and complimented on his fine detail.

FAMILIAR FACES GREET KING AT HIS DETAIL

The fans who have attended baseball details in Atlanta for years were out in force at Caller King's world's series detail at 9 Viaduct place.

"Caller" was in his best tune, and the crowd was a unit in declaring after the game that he is like wine—improves with old age. They complimented him on the excellent detail that he gave.

Fully 500 fans heard the pioneer caller in action, and they were repaid for their attendance.

Connie Mack's "Big Four" Rout Giants With Deadly Attack and Great Defense

BY IRWIN M. HOWE.
(Official Statistician American League.)

New York, October 7.—(Special.)—One more convincing exhibition of matchless skill by the Athletic infield, those wonder workers of baseball, defeated New York today.

The first game of this, the tenth, series between American and National league teams for the championship of the world was started promptly on time. An enthusiastic crowd filled every inch of the vast inclosure an hour before play began. Lowering clouds that barely cleared the top of Coogan's bluff made the day very dark.

Taking advantage of the conditions, Manager McGraw sent Rube Marquard to the hill in hopes that, aided by the dusk that covered the field, the speed of the southpaw would stop the Philadelphia team. Mack made the prophecies of the experts good by delegating to Indian Bender the task of deceiving the Giants' sluggers.

The chief's stock in trade, his well known grin, his equally well worn glove and unparalleled nerve—this was not much to depend on in such a crisis, but Bender had confidence in his backers and they justified his faith.

With but little speed and a poor excuse for a curve, he worked the corners, always getting tthe ball over in a pinch, and left the rest to the men behind. The dazzling four were practically the team for Philadelphia.

In attack and on defense Eddie Collins was first with three runs, as many hits, a stolen base and two sparkling plays a-field.

Baker was second with bread winning singles in the fourth and eighth rounds and a home run to his favorite spot, the right field, in the fifth. Barry and McInnis both contributed doubles that helped.

In the fifth frame where the Giants staged their second attack Collins, by a wonderful forward run and scoop, stole a hit from Shafer. Two men were on the bags at that time, and Eddie's play helped materially to save the Indian, who had let down for a few minutes and was being mauled plenty.

The seventh inning gave the setting for the great play of the game. With one man out, Shafer and Doyle singled, the former going to third on Larry's wallop. Fletcher then drove the ball well to the right of Barry, who leaped, speared the ball and shot it to Collins, forcing Doyle. By a lightning pivot the little second baseman avoided Doyle and relayed the ball to first in time to nip Fletcher and complete a double play.

This was the Giants' last stand, and the typical Athletic stunt brilliantly executed in the crucial moment was the feature of the day.

TEXAS TEX CLEANS UP AT MOTORDROME

Clean out in front at times and again being so pushed that he won a length—but won—"Tex" Richards got away with all the races last night at the Motordrome and incidentally attached himself permanently to a very handsome cup which Bill Stoddard recently offered as the prize for the southern championship.

It was benefit night for the mother of Jack McNeil and a fair sized crowd was out. Everything was donated but the lights, and a state law prohibits that. The proceeds will go to Scotland to aid the mother of the popular young rider who met death while doing some dare-devil stunts during practice recently.

Richardson won the Motordroma purse and the Sweepstakes handily, but the free for all, where the distance was ten miles, Luther and Bruggerman pushed him to the last lap. That proved as pretty a race as has ever been seen in local circles. During the entire grind until the last lap "Tex" was riding abreast and just above Bruggerman, with Luther scarce a motor's distance behind. The winner made it in seven minutes and forty-four seconds with the other two at his heels.

The summary of the races is as follows:

MOTORDROME PURSE.
(Heats, 1 Mile; Final, 2 Miles.)

First Heat—Richards, first; Lewis, second. Time, 46 seconds.

Second Heat—Glenn, first; Graves, second. Time, 44 seconds.

ELECTROSCOPE GIVES LOCAL FANS A TREAT

Hugh Cardoza gave about 1,000 Atlanta fans a treat at the Grand theater yesterday when he introduced the electrascope, the last word in electrical baseball details.

Every fan present voted the new board as one of the most pleasing and entertaining details they have ever witnessed. The electrascope will be working again this afternoon. All those who were present Tuesday have signified their intention of returning.

Dahlonega 39, Clarkesville 0.

Dahlonega, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) By the one-sided score of 59 to 0, the North Georgia Agricultural college eleven defeated the Clarkesville football team on the college athletic field this afternoon. It was Dahlonega's first game of the season and the form which the players showed promises a successful year on the gridiron.

The N. G. A. C. backfield circled Clarkesville's end almost at will, while the losers were unable to register a single yard in this respect.

Gaston, Davis, Tanner, Herrington, Nicholson and Holland played well for Dahlonega. Captain Neville did the best work for Clarkesville.

Much credit is due Coach Woodruff for Dahlonega's splendid showing. He has proven himself a capable coach and he is working hard and earnestly to turn out a winning team.

Player Decisions.

Auburn, N. Y., October 7.—Decisions were handed down today by the national board of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. Among the claims allowed were Harry Glenn against Nashville, George Weeder against Norfolk.

Among the claims disallowed were W. B. Caldwell against Maysville, Ky.; R. L. Stevenson against New Orleans; J. H. Reynolds against Beaumont; Ward Clemens against Jackson, Miss.; W. O. Bridges against Clarksville, Tenn.

STIFF SCRIMMAGE FOR TECH ELEVEN

By Hal Reynolds.

Coach Heisman put his Tech eleven through the first of three stiff scrimmages yesterday afternoon in preparation for the game with the University of Chattanooga, in Chattanooga, Saturday afternoon.

Scrimmages will be held again this afternoon and on Thursday, with a long signal drill the order for Friday just before leaving for Lookoutville.

The players caught hold of the new signals in surprise form in Tuesday's work-out, and with all the varsity men divided equally into two elevens the scrimmage was on until dark.

Patten, Cook, McDonald and Smith composed the varsity back field, and this quartet surprised the student body by the smooth precision with which it worked. This will probably be the back field in the Chattanooga game.

A line on Patten's ability could not be gained Tuesday, as the speedy back favored his injured knee.

ROTARY CLUB FUND AMOUNTS TO $2,097.03

It Is Expected That the Amount Will Be $2,500 by To-night.

The Rotary club in charge of the Associated Charities' $3,000 fund has collected $2,097.03 to date. Additional promises of cash were forthcoming Tuesday. With these promises added to what is actually in hand, the managers of the fund see $2,500 by tonight. That amount leaves $500 still to be collected.

At a luncheon of the Rotary club members Tuesday noon the actual cash on hand was reported, but owing to the absence of Ivan Allen, in charge of the work, who is out of the city, the actual status of the fund could not be ascertained, other than the total amount collected.

Mr. Allen will return to the city today and late this afternoon the last struggle will be made to gather in the needed cash.

The fund of $3,000 is to be turned over to the associated charities at its regular monthly meeting, thirty members of the Rotary club having pledged themselves to each raise $100, thus assuring the charity organization of permanency and further activity in this city.

Subscriptions reported at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club follows.

FRANK HEARING WILL HE HELD ON SATURDAY

Generally Believed That Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey Will Announce Ready Then.

That Solicitor Hugh M Dorsey, now studying the case in Valdosta, will announce "ready" when the hearing for a new trial for Leo M Frank is called Saturday before Judge L. S. Roan, is the belief among courthouse attaches.

When the solicitor and his assistant, E. A. Stephens, left Saturday for Valdosta, both made it appear that the week was to be devoted to the case and from their remarks, the belief became general that they believed that by devoting all their time to the case they could get ready.

The solicitor realizes that the criminal business of superior court is hanging back on the Frank case and knowing that the jail is crowded with prisoners who are costing the county about $600 per month for food, he is anxious to finish the Frank case and get to his routine work

No new affidavits have been made public by the defense and the greater part of the fight appears to be over the attacks on Jurors A. H. Hensiee and Marcus Johenning.

On Tuesday the Sparta men who accused Henslee of expressing bias before the trial reiterated their claim. They are John M. Holmes, S. M. Johnson and Shi Gray. Henslee continued to claim that he made remarks about his belief in Frank's guilt only after the case was over. He also declares he is going to have Julius Lehman indicted, claiming that Lehman tried to make him out a perjurer.

Wants to Find Confederate Captain Who Marched Thro' Carlisle, Penn., in 1863

The story of The Constitution's success in locating the children of Colonel S Z Ruff, and returning to them the papers taken from their father's dead body on the battlefield of Knoxville, has attracted wide attention

From Carlisle, Pa., comes a request to locate a confederate soldier with a name something like this 'Captain S D Hazlett," who was said to be an Atlanta man, and who marched through Pennsylvania to Gettysburg with General Ewell in 1863 The letter reads as follows

"Editor Constitution I have just read in the local newspaper of a union veteran having traced through you the children of a confederate officer who was killed at Knoxville, Tenn., in the civil war During the late reunion at Gettysburg I tried to trace or gain some knowledge of a Georgia captain who was with General Ewell's corps, Rhodes' division when they occupied this, my home town, at the time of that invasion I have never heard if he were living or dead, but fully believed the latter.

"I had his full address, company, etc., but in the passing of the years it has been lost. As far as I can recall it, this is his address' Captain S D. Hazlett, Atlanta, Ga. Can you get for me any information as to whether he is living or dead? Respectfully yours,

"C. A. M'DONALD,

RED MEN ARE SUED BY MEMBER'S WIDOW

Suit against the grand sachem, the keeper of the wampum and the other six or seven hundred of the Comanchee tribe of Red Men was entered in the city court yesterday by Mrs. A. J Grubb, of 1508 DeKalb avenue, and her children, seeking $600 worth of wampum as a death benefit, which is alleged to be due them as a result of the death of the husband and father, Andrew J Grubb, a contractor

The suit alleges that Mr Grubb died August 14, a member in good standing of the tribe, and that the death benefit has not been paid. Mrs. Grubb asked service against Sam Dunlap, sachem, and George B Beauchamp, keeper of the wampum. She declared that the tribe was not incorporated and that she did not know the names of the other members.

Through their attorneys, the two officers acknowledged service. The heirs filing joint suit with the widow are W A, C. K and A J. Grubb, Jr., and Mrs Cornelia Pierce.

MUST PAY FOR GUANO NOT PROPERLY BRANDED

In the case of the Arlington Oil and Guano company against Swann, the state court of appeals decided yesterday that where the state law as to inspection and analysis is complied with, a guano note can be collected, even though the fertilizer does not come up to the grade marked on the bag. Only the price of the actual grade sold can be collected, however, and the note will be shaved down to comply with the price at which that grade would have been sold.

Swann had bought 400 sacks of fertilizer, branded high grade, the price of which would have been $21 per ton The analysis showed that it was of a lower grade and should have been sold at $19.78 per ton.

COTTON DROPPED 21 TO 25 POINTS

Easier Southern Spot Markets and Better Weather Map Factors in Decline—Spot Cotton Closed Quiet.

New York, October 7.—The cotton market was generally weak and unsettled today, owing to reports of easier southern spot markets, rather a better weather map than expected as to temperatures in the southwest and a tendency to revise recent small estimates of the crop. December contracts sold off to 13 39 and the market closed barely steady at a net loss of from 21 to 25 points.

Lower Liverpool cables, attributed to increased offerings of actual and a less active trade demand, combined with the failure of early weather advices to show any trace of the frosts that had been privately predicted yesterday, caused an active selling movement at the opening. First prices were easy at a decline of 12 to 21 points, with active months selling 19 to 21 net lower right after the call.

A really of 8 or 9 points followed on the western belt forecast for unsettled and cooler weather and reports that spinners were good buyers around the opening figures, but the market soon eased off again, under continued liquidation of realizing, southern and foreign selling. After showing a net loss of from 24 to 29 points, prices again stiffened up on renewed covering and reports of rain sin the southwest. There was no aggressive support, however, and the market eased again in the late trading, on reports of lower southern spot markets and a private crop estimate placing the yield at 14,550,000 bales including linters, providing that frost comes at an average date.

Closing prices showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest on January and March, but were generally at the lowest point of the day.

Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands, 13.90; gulf, 14.15, sales, 375 bales.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, October 7.—More liberal selling of spot cotton on the part of the south and on a cheaper basis brought about increased hedge selling both here and in Liverpool today and the decline created by this character of selling was followed by liquidation for account of speculative holders. The pressure put upon the market lowered prives about twenty points before the demand became equal to offerings, but below thirteen and a quarter cents for January trade interests and shorts bought freely.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, October 7.—Europe has become very bearish on cotton, they feeling certain that the movement of the crop will carry prices to a lower level and having missed the advance they think the injury to the crop has been overestimated. It is this belief which causes Liverpool to open lower than due each morning and brings about resulting declines here. Today was no exception to the foreign lead and the decline abroad caused the liquidation of several lines of long cotton which, in turn, unsettled this market, closing it near the lowest point, some 25 points lower than yesterday. The offerings were largely absorbed by spinners' brokers. Crop accounts from the southwest are again bad, further rains being reported by telegrams from Texas, but the selling was too heavy for the market to withstand.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 7.—Cotton seed oil was active, closing 6 to 11 points net lower. Liquidation was quite general, the result of cheaper crude offerings and the big decline in cotton and lard. Sales 20,800 barrels.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, October 7.—The bulls seem to have lost their aggressiveness and a large short line is being built up by people who believe that the government condition reports have led to a general disposition to underestimate the crop. The market opened 14 to 20 points down today and closed barely steady at a net decline of 25 points. Liverpool is due to come 4 to 5½ points down.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 7.—Domestic cotton good markets held steady today. Knitting yarns were higher. Light orders have been placed for imported men's wear for spring. Silks and ribbons were in less active demand.

London Stock Market.

London, October 7.—Money was in good demand and discount rates were steady today.

The continent is making inquiries for gold, but it is believed the Bank of England will get the bulk of the $4,000,000 new gold arriving this week.

The rally in Americans, Canadian-Pacific and Copper stocks had better support from the continent caused general cheerfulness at the stock exchange, but weakness was still apparently in shipping shares and Brazilian securities, while consols lost an eighth owing to the early issue of a $17,500,000 4 per cent new Zealand loan.

American securities opened steady and a fraction higher. The rise advanced during the early trading when Canadian-Pacific was an active leader. Later New York support sustained the improvement and made the closing steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, October 7.—The cotton market was under considerable selling pressure today and, while in the early part of the session the tonew as steady, easing developed in the afternoon and the close was at practically the lowest of the day, at a loss of a full dollar a bale, compared with yesterday's close. Better weather conditions over the belt was given as one of the main reasons for selling that led to the decline. Short sellers were aggressive, but the market also felt the weight of liquidation from the long side. A falling of fin the spot demand was claimed by the bears one of their contentions was that October spot commitments were small.

The market opened steady at a decline of 10 to 15 points on poor cables and fairly good weather map. From the time of the opening reports of a smaller spot demand were circulated. Fear that the cotton region would experience a cold wave in the next day or two kept the market steady for awhile after the call.

At the lowest in the early trading prices were 13 to 16 points down. This was followed by a reaction upward of about 10 points, but later the market gave way again under increased selling and the decline was widened to 18 to 19 points. Another 10-point reaction followed on profittaking by scalping shorts.

In the afternoon the market was dull and easy, selling at the lowest, 21 to 23 points under the final quotations of yesterday. The close was quoted easy at a net loss for the day of 20 to 23 points.

WHEAT ADVANCED ON GOOD DEMAND

Market Closed With Wheat Prices Up 3-8 to 1-2 Cent. Corn and Oats Higher. Provisions Lower.

Chicago, October 7.—Improved demand for hard winter grades for export and milling had much influence today in rallying the wheat market. Closing prices were firm 3-8@1-2 to 1-2 above last night. Corn finished 1-4 to 5-8@3-4 up, and oats with a gain of 1-8@1-4 to 1-4, but provisions 12 1-2 to 37 1-2 cents down.

Active call for United States hard winter wheat developed quite unexpectedly, both here and southwest. The grain, which is unusually heavy and dry, seemed to be meeting with special favor in Europe, rivalling Canadian spring wheat. Sales here of the hard winter variet ytoday commanded the best premiums of the season up to the present. Assertions that receipts northwest would continue to diminish helped lift wheat prices. The arrivals there today were only two-thirds those of a year ago. A big increase of the world's available supply, however, counted in favor of the bears and there also were advices of beneficial rains in Argentina. Spasmodic weakness from such causes disappeared entirely in the last hour, chiefly on account of better export and milling demand.

Corn, after suffering a sharp break, had a strong upturn. Rain that was said to be damaging forage in Kansas and elsewhere was responsible for the bulgs. There were reports, too, that Argentine corn received at New York was in poor condition. The early setback in prices came mainly through aggressive short selling on the part of pit traders.

In the oats crowd, local speculators who hammered values early paid later for their courage. A bullish estimate of the French crop had considerable effect.

Provisions gave way under liquidating sales, especially of lard. It was not until after many stop loss orders had been executed and the grain markets had begun to rally, that the big packers took a hand in furnishing support.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All News of Real Estate and Building.

Considerable interest among realty men seems to be centering in the traffic situation.

Following the suggestion of W. P. Walthall, of the Forrest & George Adair agency, to enforce the present laws on traffic regulations and utilize the side streets and alley spaces for automobile garages, as published in The Constitution last Sunday morning, a number of realty men have talked to him on the subject, with the result that the matter will probably come up for discussion before the next meeting of the Atlanta Real Estate board, which will be in the Ansley hotel, October 17.

The mayor has appointed a special traffic committee from council, and President Wilmer L. Moore, of the chamber of commerce, has appointed a similar committee from the chamber. These committees will meet within a few days to discuss means whereby the traffic situation may be relieved.

Thirteen New Families Coming.

It become known on Tuesday that the Fairbanks-Morse company, of Chicago, for whom J. R. Smith is now erecting a building on Whitehall street, will bring with it about thirteen new families to Atlanta.

Board Sends Out Letters.

The Atlanta Real Estate board, through the new executive secretary, B. M. Asbill, is now sending out letters to realty men in all parts of the south with a view to the organization of a southern association of real estate exchanges.

President Harris G. White, of the Atlanta Real Estate board, states that he is receiving considerable encouragement in regard to both this and the organization of a state association.

Peachtree Street Lease.

J. H. Falks has leased from the Sanders Loan and Investment company No. 170 Peachtree street, a storeroom 25x150, opposite the Aragon hotel, for a consideration which is withheld. Mr. Falks will open a cafeteria in this place and will spend about $9,000 improving it.

The lease was handled by the George P. Moore Real Estate agency and James F. Hickey, secretary of the Sanders Loan and Investment company.

Real Estate Sales.

Sales announcements for Tuesday were encouraging.

The M. C. Kiser agency has sold for W. M. Nichols to Miss A. K. Kelso No. 221 Courtland street, a two-story dwelling on a lot 50x117, for a consideration of $10,000, Miss Kelso giving in part payment No. 97 Hurt street, a two-story residence on a lot 69x125, valued at $7,750.

R. L. Turman, of the Turman, Black & Calhoun agency, has sold for E. G. Ottley to a client, a two-story residence on Spring street, adjoining the south west corner of Third street, for a consideration of $6,500, and has also sold the corner itself for G. A. Martin to a client for $4,000.

New Firm Opens Office.

The Harllee Realty company, a new real estate firm, has opened offices at 330 Equitable building. This firm is composed of Messrs. P. J. and Marion Harllee and E. L. Moss, all of whom are experience real estate men.

Mr. Moss has been in the real estate business for a number of years. He and P. J. Harllee have recently been connected with the firm of Tribble & Harllee. Before his connection with Tribble & Harllee, P. J. Harllee had charge of the office of the Whittier Mills company. His brother, Marion Harllee, has been connected with the Chattahoochee Brick company.

P. J. Harllee is head of the new firm, and Mr. Moss is sales manager. The firm will do a general real estate and building business.

Loans in Fine Shape.

Frank J. Parsons, vice president of the United States Mortgage and Trust company, one of the largest loan concerns in the country, and Robert S. Morris have just spent several days in Atlanta inspecting the company's real estate loans in this city. The company has something like 200 loans here, amounting to nearly $1,000,000, made through the company's local representative, W. B. Smith. Mr. Parsons expressed himself as highly pleased with the loans and the great progress that Atlanta is making.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the Superior Court of said county

The petition of John M Slaton, J M Stephens, Walter M Rich, Clark Howell Charles H Black, Joseph A McCord, Frank M Inman, Robert F Maddox, Phinizy Calhoun, Sinclair Jacobs, James S Floyd and E V Carter, who are all of said Fulton county, Ga., except J M Stephens, who is of DeKalb county, Ga, respectfully shows

1 That they desire, for themselves, their associates and successors, to be incorporated and made a body politic as a benevolent institution, under the name and style of

The Crippled Children's Hospital of Georgia.

2 The term for which petitioners ask to be incorporated is twenty years, with privilege of renewal at the expiration of that period

3 The location and principal office of said corporation shall be in said County of Fulton and State of Georgia

4 Said corporation has no capital stock and is not organized for pecuniary gain but is purely benevolent in character.

5 Petitioners desire to purchase and hold such real estate as may be necessary for the conduct of its business, and to sell, hypothecate or otherwise encumber by mortgage, lien, security deed or otherwise the same for the purposes of the corporation

6 The sole purpose of the proposed corporation is to relieve and, care for and protect crippled children in all cases where in the judgment of said corporation such child or children can be aided and cared for by the institution, to such extent and in such ways and by the use of such means as the institution may deem advisable

7 Petitioners pray the right and authority to receive donations by gift or will, to receive and hold funds assets and property of every kind and to purchase own, hold, sell, lease, rent and otherwise deal in real estate and personal property for the purposes of carrying out the object of said corporation and to do all such acts and things as are necessary or proper for the legitimate execution of the objects and purposes of said corporation

8 Petitioners pray that an order be passed incorporating them under the name and style aforesaid, with all the powers and privileges above set out, and with all such other powers, privileges immunities and rights as are common to or necessary to corporations of this character and as are allowed corporations of similar character under the laws of Georgia

ANNOUNCEMENT

I BEG to announce to my FRIENDS—THE PUBLIC—and my FORMER PATRONS that I have contracted with Dr. C. W. Gould and Jno. G. Pasco for the sale of their property, which joins the new suburb of ALTOLOMA, on the Stone Mountain Car Line side. This property is being subdivided into large, comfortable lots, especially desirable to those wanting to get away from the dirt and noise of the city, where they can raise their own chickens and enjoy the luxury of their own garden. Many of these lots will have running spring water the year round, none of which will be farther from the car line than many of you are living today. These lots will be sold upon the same small weekly or monthly payments which have characterized my former sales. Watch Sunday Constitution for the opening, which will take place Sunday afternoon. Special train will leave old Union Station, over the Georgia Railroad, at 3:25 p. m.

DEFICIENCY BILL IS SIDETRACKED

Minority Leader Mann Diverts Attention of Solons by Referring to World's Series Score.

Washington, October 7—Declaring the house democrats had slumped woefully in their legislative batting averages and in their interest in the administration game since they passed the currency bill up to the senate, Minority Leader Mann today prevented the reference to conference of the urgent deficiency bill and turned the system of the house into an arena for world's series baseball returns When the deficiency bill was reported from the senate the minority leader made a point of no quorum

Representative Fitzgerald chairman of the appropriations committee urged him to withdraw the point, so the bill might be sent to conference Mr Mann insisted A call of the house showed 162 present 53 short of a quorum The sergeant-at-arms was instructed to send for absentees Speaker Pro Tem Sherley signing warrants for their arrest

This done, the house settled down for a long wait as it was known there were few more members in the city When, after three hours, only six absentees had reported, Representative Foster, of Illinois who had been of the mind to keep in session all night, moved to adjourn until tomorrow

Mr. Mann Has Floor.

At 3 o clock with a quorum still lacking and the minority leader rising 'to make a parliamentary inquiry" asked 'The hour of 2 o clock having arrived I wish to ask if the chair has made arrangements to inform the house of the progress of the ball game in New York?"

That is not a parliamentary inquiry' the chair replied, while everybody on the floor cheered

Several vain attempts were made to adjourn the democrats refusing to second motions In the meantime the ball game had been in progress for several innings and some one sent the first returns to Mr Mann

A parliamentary inquiry, Mr Chairman," said the minority leader, rising

'State it," said the speaker

'Would it be proper to announce that the score is now 3 to 1 in favor of Philadelphia 'n the fourth inning?

"Out of order" said the chair as a messenger ran up to the minority leader with another bulletin

Mann Ruled Out of Order.

"That being out of order,' said Mr Mann rising to another parliamentary inquiry, 'I would ask if it would be in order to announce that Baker, of Philadelphia, has just knocked a home run and that the score now is 5 to 1 in favor of the Athletics?"

'That is not a parliamentary inquiry" announced the chairman

And so it went until the sixth inning, when Mr Mann announced the score without addressing the chair and adjournment was taken

Administration leaders tonight were dispatching telegrams to absent members in neighboring states urging them to hasten to Washington by noon tomorrow and were exerting every possible effort to keep members now here from leaving until the deficiency bill can be disposed of

The sergeant-at-arms hopes to have enough members back to make a quorum by Thursday at the latest

ALL SPIELERS MUST STAY INSIDE STORE, SAYS CHIEF BEAVERS

If you want to auction nowadays, you've got to do your auctioneering on the inside If you want to spiel, you've got to do likewise No more of this exterior announcing of your wares to the passing throng of the streets It's got to be done within, not without

Chief Beavers has said so And in saying so, he has said that the penalty for violation shall arrest and arraignment before the recorder

Tuesday afternoon he issued an order prohibiting spieling of any character on the streets, store fronts or city limits His order followed numerous complaints against spieling

WITH 30,558 BALES SAVANNAH MAKES NEW COTTON RECORD

Savannah, Ga., October 7—(Special) With a total of 30,558 bales, Savannah this morning established a new record for daily cotton receipts The totals in the greatest cotton years in the history of the port are considerably under today's receipts

The movement of the staple is now in heavy volume The port since September 1 has received 418,231 bales, whereas for the same period last year only 211,704 bales had found their way to this center of distribution

ELKS' DANCE TONIGHT MINUS TROT OR TANGO

Contrary to a report which has got out, the dance which will be held tonight at the Elks lodge rooms on East Ellis street will be minus the turkey trot and the tango and the other newfangled dances in which society in its parlors and drawing rooms is wont to trip The new-fangled dances are strictly "tabooed" at the Elks dances, and this one will be no exception.

The committee in charge of the dance is composed of R. T Cheshire, H. L Cardoza, Walter Hinchcliffe, H R Eichberg and Edwin Adler. The dance will begin at 8 o'clock and ladies accompanied by their escorts will be admitted free

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH IN FORTIFIED HILLS

A new Baptist church in Fortified Hills will be organized Thursday night following the series of tent meetings held recently on the lots in that suburb donated some time ago by Dr. E W Grove, of St Louis

The speakers at the organizaion of the new congregation will be Rev Dr John White, Rev. Charles Daniel and Rev B P Robertson.

Many persons residing in the vicinity of Fortified Hills have signified their intention of joining the new religious body

Moonshine Days Over.

Declaring that the day of the "successful moonshiner" was over on account of the perfected internal revenue forces, John Ingram, of Blairsville, Ga., self-confessed "blockader," arrived in Atlanta yesterday to appear before the federal grand jury now in session. Ingram brought with him testimonials from Blairsville people of prominence stating that since his release from jail here and his return home he has been a model citizen. He expected to use this paper when his own case comes to trial on October 15.

Dixie Society Meets.

An enthusiastic meeting of the "Befo' de Wah Dixie' society was held last night in the Central Baptist church, Dr R. D Hawkins, of the Hapeville Baptist Orphanage, presiding. Dr. A. W. Lamar addressed the audience telling of his intended lecture trip through the north in the interest of the society and also explaining the publication of the society's book of customs before the war in the south, which will be on sale some time near Christmas.

WILSON AND CABINET ASKED TO ATTEND AUGUSTA ROADS MEET

Augusta, Ga., October 7—(Special) President Wilson and his cabinet will be invited to attend the Georgia-Carolina Good Roads congress, to be held in Augusta November 6 and 7. This was unanimously decided at a meeting held this evening of a joint committee from the Merchants and Manufacturers' association and the Georgia-Carolina Fair association and Judge William F. Eve, president of the Georgia-Carolina Good Roads congress

A letter will be forwarded at once to the president and his cabinet extending them a cordial invitation and asking the indorsement of their presence for the movement for better highways throughout the two states, in both of which President Wilson has lived About 1,500 visitors are expected to attend the roads congress, for which extensive preparations are being made.

Pike Court Convenes.

Zebulon, Ga., October 7—(Special)—The fall term of Pike superior court began its two weeks' session here today with Judge Daniel presiding and Solicitor E M. Owen looking after the state's interest.

The grand jury was organized by making R Y. Beckham foreman. At the hour of adjournment this evening they returned ten true bills into court

The dockets, both civic and criminal, are full and it may require an adjourned term to clear them

News Makes the World Go'Round

Before the days of newspapers there were many ways of informing the public of current events of importance The town crier would go about, announcing the happenings of the day. Here and there at fixed places bulletins told the news. And in other crude and cumbersome ways people learned what was going on in the world.

Then came the newspaper and through a long process of development we have it as it is today, much changed in form since those earlier days, but with the same particular function of informing the public mind.

It is because of this service rendered that the newspaper is so valuable to advertisers. For advertising is, first and always, news. And the best way to impart news to the public is to use the newspaper upon which the public depends for its information.

This newspaper would lose much of its value and attractiveness to readers if all of the bright and informing advertising news were omitted.

Is it not so?

REFORMS PROPOSED BY COTTON EXCHANGE

New York, October 7—That the New York cotton exchange is considering some action with reference to the grades and contract methods which figured so prominently in recently proposed legislation at Washington was made apparent today through the publication of resolutions passed by the board of managers on October 2.

The resolutions provide for the appointment of a committee of seven by the president to consider the question of changing the existing type standards, the question of making such changes in the contract as the committee might deem advisable, and to inquire into the condition of trading in this market and report back to the board at a special meeting not later than October 20. The committee was also empowered to call witnesses.
