The Few Supporters of the Administration Measure at the Boston Convention Are Given Scant Courtesy.

GLASS-OWEN MEASURE IS TERMED SOCIALISTIC

With Only One Dissenting Vote, Bankers Declare the Bill Imposes Unwise Hardships on Banks and Public.

Defenders of Administration Hooted.

The addition of this paragraph as an amendment to the resolutions was proposed at the convention by Charles J. Felt, congressman from New York.

Defenders of Administration Hooted.

Acting President Arthur Reynolds, of Des Moines, in his annual report had criticized the currency bill and urged Congress to amend it.

The Question at Issue.

Don't side-step the issue. The question really at stake in the currency bill is shall the bankers of the United States control the currency of the country or shall the government of the United States control it.

Former Congressman O'Neil shortly afterward presented his amendment to the president and congress.

When the amendments had been considered and voted upon sentence by sentence, they were all carried.

Text of Resolutions.

The resolutions as finally adopted were as follows: "Resolved, That we approve the work of the currency commission and that we ratify and endorse the action of the Chicago conference of the currency committee."

Resolved, That we commend the president, the secretary of the treasury and congress for their efforts to Alleged Sulzer Had Been Told That He Ought to Be Impeached if He Used Wife as Shield.

Sudden Closure Sennation.

The sudden announcement that the case for the defense was closed, which came late in the afternoon session, created a profound sensation in the courtroom.

In preparing for this story as well as that expected from Mrs Sulzer

Two of these witnesses were called before court adjourned today, but Judge Gulien excluded their testimony.

Even Basements Used to Afford Children Education; Must Study by Gas Light in the Inman Park School

Photo by Andrews. Some of the youngsters of the second grade in the Inman Park school who must study many hours each day in a badly ventilated basement room or stay away from school until the city authorities provide some way of caring for them. So poor is the lighting that gas must be used during study hours.

Conditions in the Inman Park school are even worse if possible than those existing in the Highland and other schools.

The B class of the second grade is perhaps more crowded than any of the other rooms. In this room, the dimensions of which are about 25 feet by 30 feet, 49 children are seated, and the congestion is something fearful to contemplate.

Without straining of their eyes. Two long gas pipes, having four jets each, are required to make reasonable study possible and this system will undoubtedly ruin the eyesight of the children in a short time.

When the tenth inning was called in the score book still contained only zeros.

Today the same excellent service which has marked The Constitution's baseball detail to date will again be in force. The game this afternoon will be a most satisfactory manner as it is made will again be given the anxious Atlanta fans in the same old-fashioned manner as it has been.

Somebody has said that enthusiasm was an unappreciable product made out of nothing, unbuyable with much fine gold.

No truer working out of the feeble epigram could possibly have been demonstrated than the enthusiasm of the great crowd which yesterday again besieged the street in front of The Constitution office, howling itself hoarse over one of the most exciting ball games ever played in the confines of this or any other country.

From the time play ball was megaphoned from The Constitution until the final New York win there to nothing the local ball fans lined up to elbow, lived in another world. Lost in an air of utter abandon, the great crowd roared and sang and played themselves seated in Shibe park in the Quaker city, watching eagerly each play as it was actually played.

The Constitution's outline of the game taken directly from the park stands in Philadelphia, were more than graphic. They actually visualized the playing. This was distinctly pointed out when inning after inning the score stayed at nothing to nothing.

Dr. Mann Chosen President of the House of Deputies Over Dr Manning

New York, October 8.—What was looked upon as the first test of voting strength between the high church and the low church factions came late today at the triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church when the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity church, Boston was elected president of the house of deputies. Dr. Mann was candidate for the low church element and defeated the Rev. Dr. W. T. Manning, rector of Trinity church, New York, by the vote of 251 to 212.

MASSACRE FEARED IN CAPTURED CITY

Reported That Mexican Rebels Have Butchered All the Spaniards in Torreon—Few Americans in the Place.

Mexico City, October 8.—With the capture of Torreon by the rebels, rumors became current today of a massacre of Spaniards which if confirmed would approach the horror of the massacre of Chinese in the same city during the Madero revolution.

It is estimated that there are between 60 and 100 Spaniards in the city of Torreon. Refugees who have come from the city declare that it has been a common boast that they would slaughter the Spaniards if they succeeded in capturing the town.

The Spanish minister to Mexico, General Alvarez, has without information, which he has not been able to verify, been greatly concerned. He held a long conference with the American charge, Nelson O'Shannessy, and the latter made an appointment with the Mexican foreign minister to discuss the matter.

Few Americans are left in Torreon. Besides Spaniards there are a number of French and German residents in Torreon. Their diplomatic representatives here are making efforts to learn the state.

The rebels are said to be headed by Francisco Villa, whose reported capture and execution by the federalists recently was later disproved.

Another offer has been made by the authorities here to keep the news of the affair from the public in banking circles the capture of Torreon was credited and caused a jump of twenty points in the exchange.

Another unconfirmed report tonight is that General Tracy Aubert, who with a thousand men left Saltillo three weeks ago to march to the relief of Torreon, has gone over to the rebels.

Officers and Soldiers Executed. Laredo, Texas, October 8.—General Alvarez and his staff and 125 Mexican federal soldiers were executed yesterday in Torreon, Mexico under orders of General Francisco Villa of the Mexican constitutionalist forces, according to information from reliable sources brought here today.

It was learned tonight that the constitutionalists gained the advantage, which resulted in the capture of Torreon, through a ruse. Villa withdrew his forces, a portion of which he started in an apparent retreat toward Santa Rosalia. Believing that the entire rebel army had been put to flight, a large force of federalists was started in pursuit. When the government troops were well on their way, however, the main body of rebels, who were in hiding, slipped into the city and, after a sanguinary battle, gained possession of the town.

So far as can be ascertained, none of the federalists were injured either while the street fighting was in progress or during the reprisals which followed the rebel victory. A constitutionalist command, providing protection for them, especially the Americans,

STORM MAY BREAK UP GAME AT GOTHAM TODAY

There'll be no game in New York today, if a little bunch of weather gods is headed for the North Atlantic coast.

This office doesn't forecast New York weather and it's not the official forecaster, anyway, said W. W. Reid, chief clerk in the local office of the United States weather bureau, Wednesday, but I don't believe from the looks of the weather map that there'll be a game Thursday.

Section Director C. F. von Herrmann was not present at the office at the time and the statement of Mr. Reid was entirely unofficial and simply given as that of an insider with a knowledge of the meaning of the weather map and curves on a government weather map.

Philadelphia, October 8.—Christy Mathewson, master manipulator of the baseball, led the New York Giants to victory at Shibe park today when he shut out the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of the world's series.

Here of a decade of inconceivable world's championship play, the famous veteran rose to the highest pinnacle of his diamond career by an exhibition of all-round play that wung volleys of applause from the 20,000 Athletic supporters who were massed in the stands and bleachers expecting to witness a second triumph for the standard-bearers of the American League.

Box score experts will point to their figures to prove that eleven other Giants were instrumental in winning the second contest of the series but the Philadelphia fans who filed sadly out of the Athletics' ball park spoke only of Mathewson.

For a trifle over two hours and twenty minutes the man whose reputation was built up by thousands of fans after the final game against the Boston Red Sox in the world's series of 1912 turned back the hard-hitting Athletics without a semblance of a break. Then he hit the Sox with the Athletics' only win in the series.

Spurred on by his example, the other Athletics added the more to such the contest, but they were not needed.

Mathewson, "the Master," the end Oldring, Collins and Baker being unable to drive the ball outside the diamond, the Athletics' final inning, although 20,000 adherents pleaded for a hit that might start a winning rally. As a result of Mathewson's prowess the Giants went back to New York tonight in even terms with the Athletics, and the struggle will be renewed at the Polo grounds tomorrow if the weather man so wills, with the two

Statement by Reynolds. When the currency discussion was finished, Acting President Reynolds gave the gavel over to another and made a statement, saying: "This meeting resulted in the most positive action ever taken by the bankers of America on the currency question, first because it is the largest convention ever attended to discuss this question, representing banks of all classes, large and small, throughout the United States. Second, because it was a free forum for the full discussion of the subject and every opportunity was given the bankers to express their views."

"This has been given without desire in any sense to antagonize the administration of the committee of congress, but rather to give them an honest and frank expression of the changes necessary in the proposed bill to make it properly serve the great commercial interests of the country. DRAYLOADS OF WHISKY SEIZED IN ROME CLUBS

Confiscations Made Under Injunctions Issued at Behest of Law Enforcement League.

Rome, Ga., October 8.—(Special).—Huge drayloads of whisky and beer were taken to the county jail this afternoon and stored in a locked cell, while the mouths of prisoners watered with desire. The liquor was confiscated by Sheriff Dunahoo, under injunctions issued from Floyd superior court against the Central and the Metropolitan clubs, two locker clubs that have been operating for many months. The injunctions were issued at the behest of C. L. Wilkerson, of the Roman Law Enforcement League, for which Senator Wright is attorney.

Judge Cullen held that the introduction of their testimony would "inject new evidence and reopen the case." The closing of the taking of testimony by the defense, which began only yesterday morning, was announced by Attorney Herrick immediately after reading Judge Cullen's refusal to admit into evidence a story of alleged graft involving Duncan Peck, superintendent of public works, who testified early in the trial that Governor Sulzer had asked him to do a campaign contribution.

TARIFF LAW FOUGHT BY FOREIGN NATIONS

The 5 Per Cent Rebate Clause Will Be Repealed Owing to Protests From Abroad.

Washington, October 8.—If the consent of Representative Underwood and other house leaders can be secured tomorrow, a joint resolution will be passed through congress within a few days, repealing that portion of the new tariff law authorizing a five per cent rebate on goods brought to this country in American-owned ships.

Foreign countries, including Germany, France and Spain, which claim that the rebate clause discriminated against the shipping clause, have made strong protests to the state department. It is believed that the regulatory measures probably will be adopted by several countries, if the state department believes it must be.

H. S. BOWDEN ANNOUNCES FOR STATE SCHOOL SUPT.

Blakely, Ga., October 8.—(Special).—Superintendent H. S. Bowden, of the Blakely public schools, announces today that he will be a candidate for state superintendent of schools next year. It is understood that he will be supported by the school board. Professor Bowden's friends over the state were urging him to become a candidate and espouse the cause of the new school book issue, which was raised at the last session of the legislature.

Ham Sulzer has been a good governor and has been discharging the duties of his office faithfully and well. "I don't think you can go into that either," ruled the presiding judge. The exclusion of this testimony constantly placed the cause of the governor's defense on the story of Louis A. Sarecky, the governor's campaign secretary, placed on the stand and continued throughout the morning session and part of the afternoon, a searching cross-examination in an attempt to discredit his story.

UNUSUAL INTEREST SHOWN IN HUNTING

Georgia Law Is Modified in Important Details by the National Act Effective October 1.

As the time draws near for the hunting season, nimrods all over the state are getting their guns and other paraphernalia in readiness, in anticipation of the finest sport they have yet enjoyed. This is to be expected in view of the glowing reports which have come to Game Commissioner Jesse E. Mercer about the plentiful supply of birds.

The season for most game birds will be for two kinds of protected game, quail and wild turkey. The season for quail will be from October 1 to December 31. The season for wild turkey will be from November 1 to January 1. The killing of fox squirrels is prohibited prior to January 1, 1913.

There are a number of things which the hunters will have to watch for under the new law. The modifications made in the Georgia law by the national game law which was promulgated on October 1, 1913, are: 1. It is now illegal to hunt on any land which is not protected by the Georgia law at all, such as field larks, come under the protection of the national law.

The National Law. There are a number of other changes in the law made by the national act. Mercer has announced it to be the policy of his department to enforce "his" Georgia law as well as the national law. "We are living now under a national law as well as a state game law, both in force and effect. It is the duty of every good citizen to aid in the enforcement of the laws of the state as well as the national law. It is the duty of every warden of this department to give the enforcement of the national law as well as the state law.

SENATORS SORE OVER CURRENCY

Democrats Opposed to Glass Bill Resent Criticism—President Wilson Calls on Editor for a Correction.

Washington, October 8.—Attacks on members of the senate banking and currency committee and efforts to force action by the committee on the administration currency bill were severely condemned in an informal executive session of the committee tonight. Senators O'Gorman and Hitchcock, singled out as individual objects of two attacks within the past three days, demanded that the committee take up the matter and for an hour the criticisms were discussed.

Senator O'Gorman said that the meeting resulted in a general expression of good feeling among the members of the committee and an understanding that no further efforts to force the committee to act prematurely would be attempted. The letter of President Wilson published today, repudiating a quoted statement attributed to him, characterizing as "rebels" the democrats opposing the currency measure, was read in the committee and in connection with statements made by members of the committee was accepted as a disclaimer on the part of the white house of an extraordinary effort to force action by the committee.

Floyd County Youth Charged With Murdering J. M. Stewart.

Rome, Ga., October 8.—(Special).—The trial of Nick Carver, charged with the murder of J. M. Stewart, is in progress in Floyd superior court. Evidence has been concluded and arguments begun tomorrow morning. Carver is the 19-year-old youth who slew Stewart on October 16 with an open knife. The trouble took place at a drinking bout on the banks of the Coosa. Carver made brief statements, asserting that he struck Stewart because the latter was about to plunge a knife in the back of Carver's neck. It is expected that the case will go to the jury by noon Thursday.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we eat too much and our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to eliminate. If the kidneys become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble. Kidney weakness and general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like jumpy, headache, backache, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, if you suffer with sick headaches or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather changes, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

Nucleus of Fund Is Offered For Open Air School Rooms

Mrs. J. Wade Conkling, chairman of the open-air school committee for the Monarchs' congress, has in the treasury of the committee $900 which she states she is willing to give as a nucleus for the building of open-air school rooms for the children at present crowded in many grades.

"I believe the suggestion made in The Constitution, that open-air rooms be built on the Highland school to meet the emergency is a good one, and it is the spirit of the committee holding this open-air fund to give it in this direction," said Mrs. Conkling.

The money was secured through the efforts of the teachers and children of the public schools in the sale of the Red Cross seals last year. These sold under the auspices of the Anti-Tuberculosis crusade, show the interest of children in this direction. In Clinton school the school children raised $8,000 through the sale of the seals, and the money there went to build open-air school rooms in the public schools.

Looking for Opportunity?

Young Men Who Listen Can Win Out, For It Is Knocking at the Door Every Day

An Advertisement by Daniel Knowlton

OPPORTUNITY is said to knock but once at the door. Far from it. Opportunity is knocking every day—the trouble is folks aren't listening.

Energetic and capable young men all over the country are seeking and grasping opportunities all the time. The difficulty is to find equality of opportunity. That's a harder proposition.

Nevertheless, equal opportunity for business success awaits in at least one line of manufacturing, and that the fourth largest in the United States—the shoe industry.

It is the every-day things that really count the most. And shoes are among the every-day things.

You put on your shoes in the morning and you take them off at night with not a thought beyond getting your feet covered for the day. You don't think of the making shoes, of the large amount of money employed in the business of shoe manufacturing, or of the millions of pairs of shoes that are made and sold each year in the United States.

This every-dayness of shoes is truly amazing. For examples:

It is estimated that the factory value of this year's product of footwear in the United States will amount to over five hundred million dollars—over half a billion!

The people of this country, it has been figured, spend each day in the shoe stores the sum of $2,732,360.

Statistics show that 21,068 more pairs of shoes are required to supply the people of this country today than yesterday; and 21,068 more will be needed tomorrow; and tomorrow, and tomorrow!

This demand must be met, and will be met, and it will never diminish. Why not, then, be a shoe manufacturer? Surely here is Opportunity knocking.

Elbert Hubbard in a recent issue of The Era said: "Shoe manufacturers are a prosperous people. There is no 'Shoe Trust,' and there can't be, for there are thirteen hundred shoe-factories in the United States, and more are being formed. I know of six shoe-factories in Saint Louis, all started by employees, who have come out of one particular factory and embarked in business on their own account. And they are all making money."

"Today, the boot and shoe industry is the one large business left in the world not run by a so-called Trust, and the United Shoe Machinery company is responsible for that fact."

Monopoly in shoe-making, as Elbert Hubbard says, is out of the question, and for a very simple reason. Because the United Shoe Machinery company leases its machines on exactly the same terms to all manufacturers—whether large or small—competition in shoe-making is more free than in any other large industry, and will remain so. Under this royalty system a shoe manufacturer can start in business with small capital, which he can turn several times each year, making a substantial profit himself on the total volume of his business, at the same time giving the consumer the benefit of the narrow margin of profit on each pair of shoes. There is no other big industry of which this is true.

The wonderful growth of shoe manufacturing in this country in recent years has been made possible through the machinery and services to be obtained from the United Shoe Machinery company. Herein lies both opportunity and equality of opportunity.

This company equips factories with the best shoe machinery made, at a low and uniform rental—absolute impartiality is the rule, no preference is shown. The average royalty paid by a shoe manufacturer for the use of all machines furnished by the company in the manufacture of all kinds of shoes is less than two and two-thirds cents per pair of shoes—less than one one-hundredth of the total manufacturing cost. The royalty paid for the use of all the company's principal machines in making the most expensive Goodyear welt shoes is only five and a quarter cents per pair—a little more than a car fare. On Goodyear turn, McKay, standard screw, and loose nailed shoes (and these lower grades comprise two-thirds of the shoes made in the United States), the royalties average less than one and one-third cents per pair—less than what you pay for a postage stamp or a yeast cake. This is all that the United Shoe Machinery company receives for manufacturing its machines, for installing them in factories, for their use by manufacturers, for keeping them in order through its expert service system, and for instructing operatives when required.

All this has a significance, a meaning very much all its own.

It means that a shoe manufacturer does not have to tie up thousands of dollars in the purchase of machinery; it means that he can devote his time and energy exclusively to the making of shoes and selling them; it means that the youngest and smallest manufacturer obtains shoe machinery on the same terms as his largest and richest competitors; it means freedom of competition in the shoe industry and the growth of the small manufacturer.

Many a shoe manufacturer today, among the thirteen hundred who are doing business in thirty-four different states of the union, acknowledges that his start in business and success as a manufacturer are largely due to these conditions.

And these conditions mean also that any lively manufacturing city or town (and there are many in every state), can add the manufacture of shoes to its successful industries, and that enterprising young men with only modest financial resources have equality of opportunity as manufacturers of shoes.

Yes, it's the every-day things that count, and shoes are very much every-day merchandise. There's money in making shoes, more shoes must be made every day, and Opportunity with a big O is knocking for those who will listen.

CHIEF WILL FIGHT TRAFFIC BLOCKERS

Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Presidents Honored by the Governor.

The announcement of the appointment of the members of the Georgia Training School for Girls, more commonly known as the wayward girls' home, was made by Governor Slaton yesterday. The names of the appointees and the terms for which they will serve are as follows:

Rev. M. Ashby Jones, D. D., of Augusta, for term ending June 30, 1915.

Mr. H. C. Carter, of Cartersville, for term ending June 30, 1915.

Wilmer L. Moore, of Atlanta, for term ending June 30, 1916.

Mrs. Z. L. Fitzpatrick, of Madison, for term ending June 30, 1916.

Judge William H. Smith, of Waynesboro, for term ending June 30, 1915.

A bond of $500 each will be required of each member of the board. The first meeting of the board will be held at the capitol October 15.

The last general assembly appropriated $20,000 to secure a home for the first school and for maintenance for a year. The board of managers will decide on a location for the home.

Chamber of Commerce Honored.

By the appointment of Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, attention is drawn to the fact that quite a number of the members of the Atlanta Chamber have been highly honored by the governor.

Colonel Fred J. Faxon, one of them, is chief of staff, Asa D. Candler another, is a member of the staff; a third, Robert P. Maddox, has been appointed a member of the state board of health; while a fourth, Sam J. Smith, wife of a fourth, is one of the board of lady visitors to the Georgia Normal and Industrial school at Milledgeville.

War on persons who pile lumber and debris on the street and otherwise place obstacles in the way of traffic was declared by Police Chief James L. Beavers yesterday afternoon, following a conference he had with Councilman Orville H. Hall, chairman of the street committee of council.

When the officers of the evening watch assembled at a police headquarters for duty at 4 o'clock, the afternoon Chief Beavers caused an order to be read which instructs the men of the detachment to remove all obstacles from the street after being served with notice.

Will Carry Out Order.

"I propose to see that the order is carried out," Chief Beavers said after the reading of the order. "I agree with Councilman Hall that traffic troubles are caused chiefly by persons who pile lumber and other obstructions on the street. Councilman Hall prohibits it in several places in the very heart of the city where traffic is blocked by piles of lumber in the street. He has given men on several beats orders to inform the persons responsible for the condition to remove their obstructions from the street after being served with notice."

Councilman Hall is preparing a fight in council against the contractors and builders to erect barriers on the street and afterwards making application. In most cases the permits have been granted in the interim between council meetings chiefly on the plea of the contractors or builders that the work was absolutely necessary and urgent.

Go Before Council.

"I don't see any reason why contractors cannot go before council and get their permits," Chief Beavers contends. "I don't think it is necessary to place the burden of granting permits on any committee. Council is the proper body to issue such permits. To hear some of the fellows who ask for permits for the erection of barriers to believe that they worked out their building schemes before breakfast in the morning and that they were not granted before luncheon progress will be retarded. The truth of the matter is it is easy to get a permit under the present system, and almost any excuse will serve its purpose."

Members of council are just becoming alarmed over the congested conditions on some of the most frequently traveled streets in the city.

For weeks Beach street has been obstructed by barriers in front of the Wincoff hotel and the Potts building. Barely had the barriers moved away when a permit was granted to Contractor Spalding to close in the street between Land and Bly street at the intersection of the H. H. Smith property.

Barriers Still Up.

In Forsyth street the barriers are still up in front of the Hotel building, and farther south on Forsyth street a barrier has been erected in front of the site of the Greenfield building. Whitehall street between Alabama and Mitchell has been obstructed for weeks and in Hunter street the barrier is still up around the courthouse.

For weeks a barrier has been erected on both corners of Alabama and Broad streets through Broad street there have been, until recently, piles of lumber and debris.

Chief Beavers stated Wednesday that his orders to the men on the streets are to keep the sidewalks clear in the center of the city and do all they can to keep traffic moving swiftly.

CAMPAIGN ON VICE SECURES BIG CHURCH GATHERING FOR CITY

Atlanta's crusade on vice was largely responsible for the choosing of Atlanta for the 1914 convention of the Disciples of Christ, according to Dr. O. B. Reicher, who returned from the convention held in Toronto last week.

Wherever they turned, Dr. Bricker and the other Georgia delegates were continually asked about the vice war, how it started, at whose instigation and about the success had been met in Atlanta.

"I feel confident in stating," said Dr. Bricker, "that among the Christian people of America the vice crusade waged in Atlanta has done more in the way of constructive advertising for this city than any other event in its history. The Toronto convention has proven this in an unexpected and highly interesting manner. It is our belief that this vice crusade has attracted the eyes of the entire nation."

REVIVAL BREAKS UP IN HAIL OF BULLETS

Dalton, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—A vicious fight in which brass knuckles, knives and pistols figured, occurred during services at Center Hill, in Murray county, according to information which has reached here.

Very little information can be received.

The fight is said to have followed a quarrel between the two congregations. Services were under way. One struck the other with knuckles, a gun was drawn and the firing began. With bullets flying eyes were put out, the minister and congregation made haste to leave, jumping out of windows and through the doors, the building being soon emptied.

Following the unfortunate affair, the church members got together and decided to discontinue the meeting, which had been scheduled to last for several days this week.

No one was seriously injured, none of the bullets taking effect, and up to the present no arrests have been made.

WILL OF A. H. HODGSON ADMITTED TO PROBATE

Athens, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—The will of the late A. H. Hodgson was this week probated. He leaves a tenth to the Hodgeson Memorial fund and his brothers having practiced giving a tenth to worthy causes for years. A grant of $100,000 to the Industrial school, the Deatur Orphans' home and a rescue home for fallen women, when she was an institution is established. The remainder, except a donation of $2,500 to his church, the First Methodist here, goes to his wife and children. His estate is variously estimated from $400,000 to $600,000.

PAUL REESE SPENDS HOUR IN PRISON CELL

While He Is Having Unique Experience Ad Men Inspect Federal Prison.

The Ad's Men club of Atlanta visited the federal penitentiary late yesterday afternoon as the guests of Warden Moyer.

Several weeks ago the warden of the penitentiary invited the local association of ad-writers to inspect the great federal prison here, and at a dinner at the Ansley hotel, the invitation was accepted officially and the date of the visit set for yesterday.

Following luncheon at the Ansley, the ad-men were driven in automobiles to the prison, where they were greeted by Warden Moyer, who, in turn, introduced the visitors to Deputy Warden Hawke.

Following prison guards, the guests were taken on a complete tour of the great institution. Some of the members of the party who had lived in Atlanta for many years, had never been inside of the doors of the government strong house, and expressed themselves as being surprised that such a great institution should be at the very doors of the city, and so few of its citizens were aware of its presence or meaning.

The ad-men saw the prisoners at work in the stone yard, gardens and engine houses. They were allowed to inspect the cell tiers and, as they passed out of the west set of cells, they found that Paul P. Reese was missing from the party. Deputy Hawke smiled, but said he couldn't possibly explain the absence—just then.

One hour later, when the party had seen the entire prison plant, Deputy Hawke went into the west cells and liberated Reese, who had been purposefully locked up during a demonstration of the unit locking system of the cells and left "behind the bars" while the party went ahead.

Those who took the trip to the penitentiary were as follows:

Paul P. Reese, A. M. Beatty, J. M.

Beasley, Thomas A. Rattliff, Irving Hoytlin, Joseph W. Hill, W. R. Jetser, Henry W. Grady, Paul Wesley, William J. Davis, W. D. Howard, J. W. Gibson, W. B. Bean, D. R. Bootes, H. M. Niswanner, J. C. Stantford, William F. Parkhurst, N. F. Wolfe, Julian Boehm, L. B. Magid, Thurston Hatcher, W. Hull Griffin, H. G. Hastings, John D. Kearney, J. M. Oiler, A. A. Manning, J. Cassett, W. A. Towne, O. C. Long, W. Mac Jones, E. H. Goodhart, George J. Auer, Jack Lewis, Howard Geldert, and Kendall Weisger.

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Uneda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

Estelle Mershon

20 E. 46th St., New York

Many Smart Hats of Paris Origin

Fact is, few days pass now that we could not make the same announcement. Hats are constantly coming in now from Estelle Mershon.

It is a thing to marvel at, that so many hats can be so distinctive and charming. The genius of the Paris milliners is wonderful! And perhaps no city in America, outside of New York, has better reason to know this than Atlanta.

And Atlanta has about the same reason as New York. One of the smartest "little shops" of the metropolis furnishes Atlanta with Paris styles as quickly as ocean greyhounds and fast express can whirl them to us.

These lately arrived hats—Their beauty and distinction is that of line more than anything else.

It is not so difficult to find rich colors and fine materials, but it is the artist's touch that molds these materials of exquisite colors and combinations into beautiful hats.

And there is where Estelle Mershon hats differ, the curve of a brim, the angle of a feather, the unexpected placing of a flower—these are the points that make the hat a success, and yet they have nothing to do with prices.

Will you see these that have just arrived?

By Almost Every Express Now New Suits Are Arriving

The suit buyer is in New York right now. His presence there is reflected by the splendid suits that are surging into the second floor these days.

Novelties! Styles coined as lately as two weeks ago and all stamped with the distinction that only the stalwarts in the suit making business seem able to effect.

Styles Atlanta women will like, will wear; more numerous and varied than can be told of in an advertisement.

Indeed, there is pleasure in store for the woman who, still having a suit to buy, visits Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s right now.

THE LITTLE CHILDREN CALL!

Councilmen, department heads, school officials, politicians all admit the crisis in the condition of the Atlanta public schools.

The trouble is no one is so far taking the INITIATIVE. It is like a crowd standing on a river bank and seeing little children going down for the last time, bemoaning the fact but not making the slightest intelligent effort at rescue.

This fatal indecision must end, and end NOW, not next year. The politicians are at their old game of dodging responsibility. City officials, as of old, parley, quibble, split hairs over what shall be done and get nowhere.

Meanwhile conditions in the schools grow worse. Children in one school, as testified by the superintendent, are, 171 in number, being "educated" in a basement within six feet of a huge sewer discharging poisonous gases. In other schools tots of the kindergarten age, too frail to resist disease, are packed almost to suffocation in small rooms and being sent home four and five and ten a day from sickness. All schools are overcrowded. None of the scholars can study properly in this unhygienic environment. Winter with its aggravation of this situation is just around the corner.

The politicians are gyrating futilely. Who will come to the rescue and COMPEL ACTION?

The best hope at this moment lies in the WOMEN OF ATLANTA—the mothers and the wives.

In commending the campaign of The Constitution, the president, R. C. Little, of the Public School Teachers' association, says:

"What is the solution? A combined protest from the people of this city will be of much service. It seems to me that the welfare of the children will be properly considered only when the suffering is given to woman—the children's true friend."

Whatever may come of woman's suffrage, it is a hopeless weapon in this EMERGENCY. Women are no less the "children's true friend" from the fact that they are not yet enfranchised. The women of Atlanta were not enraptured when their organized force put through the $3,000,000 bond issue that saved the schools from utter dilapidation and that safeguarded the health of the entire community by securing for Atlanta the best sanitary and sewage disposal plant in the whole country.

The organized women of Atlanta exhibited patriotism in that crisis of the highest possible constructive type.

Here is a crisis not a whit less grave! The lives and the health of thousands of the little sons and daughters of the mothers of this city, mothers of wealth and mothers of poverty, are at stake.

The proper mental equipping of all the children of this city is at stake.

Do the mothers of this city intend to stand by and see their children menaced by the factional quibbling of members of the city government?

A few years ago they wielded the weapon of organization with signal effect when the lives of the entire community were in jeopardy.

The Constitution calls upon them in this moment of danger to SUMMON EVERY ONE OF THEIR NUMBER, THE HIGHEST AND THE HUMBLEST, BACK TO THE FLAG. THE CHILDREN FOR WHOM THEY HAVE MADE AND ARE MAKING INFINITE SACRIFICES ARE IN PERIL. THE EFFORTS THEY ARE PUTTING FORTH TO GIVE THESE CHILDREN A LIFE EQUIPMENT ARE BEING NULLIFIED.

Here is an imperative task that makes appeal to the womanhood of the city.

The little children are calling! The men of the city quarrel or are sleeping.

WHAT WILL THE WOMEN OF THE CITY DO ABOUT IT?

MR. OTTLEY HONORED.

The election of John K. Ottley, of Atlanta, as reported in yesterday's Constitution, to the presidency of the clearing house section of the American Bankers' association, confers a signal distinction not only upon Mr. Ottley, but as well upon the southern states.

The clearing house section is the most important of the subdivisions of the bankers' organization. Its activities deal with practically every bank in the country. The influence of the clearing house idea permeates every artery of American finance and has a material bearing on the international money relations of this country. When it is remembered that the clearing house plan is of comparatively recent origin, and that its full possibilities are yet to be worked out, the importance of Mr. Ottley's assignment is quickly realized.

Personally, Mr. Ottley is ideally equipped for the task. He has made a special study of clearing house organization and machinery, and is considered an authority of national standing.

INEXCUSABLE.

It appears The Constitution dealt with the smallest part of the evil when it protested against city officials giving free license to contractors to obstruct the city's streets practically at will. It develops that it is the custom for contractors engaged in dismantling, excavation or building to erect street barriers and then to ask permission afterward. It is probable that Atlanta is the only city of size in the country that tolerates this practice. In other cities it is the custom to require of contractors, irrespective of the kind of work in which they are engaged, not only to keep off the street, but to keep off the sidewalk also. Where building operations extend over the sidewalk the contractor is required to erect an arch so that there may be no interruption to passage of pedestrians.

In Atlanta the streets appear to be bitheily and without restriction turned over to contractors. Even when they are wholly unobstructed the streets of this city are all too narrow to accommodate the expanding volume of traffic. Traffic-congestion is one of the gravest problems facing the student of municipal affairs. Yet this condition is aggravated right and left by the unwritten law that gives to contractors the privilege of further narrowing streets almost at will. The danger, inconvenience and expense of the custom are self-evident.

Council cannot afford to delay action in remedying this intolerable condition. It must, in the first place, rescind its own offense of establishing a precedent by allowing special privileges in this direction to one of its own members. It cannot very well remedy the condition at large, as long as it is guilty of such flagrant discrimination. There should then be forthcoming an ordinance requiring that when a contractor desires to fence in part of a street or a sidewalk, he should gain official permission to do so and that then his intentions shall be duly advertised that the city and all persons affected may be protected. Those who desire to close or semi-close a public thoroughfare should go before council itself. Diverting traffic is too serious a matter to be treated lightly.

The experience of all other up-to-date cities has shown that regulations of this nature do not penalize growth, or place heavy cost on the contractors. It is time for Atlanta to shake her slipshod methods in this, as in other respects, and get in line with twentieth century methods.

A $50,000,000 "MELON."

During the opening business year the farmers, the merchants, the people generally of Georgia will cut a $50,000,000 "melon." Melon is a mild word in this connection. For the figures we give represent, approximately, Georgia's estimated increase in revenue this year over the revenue from her cotton crop last year. "Velvet" is perhaps a more accurate term than melon. The authority for these figures is J. G. Anderson, of Rock Hill, S. C., whose estimates have for several years rung the bell's eye. Elsewhere on this page he presents proof of his statements.

Mr. Anderson reasons along the identical lines taken by The Constitution in forecasting for Georgia a year of prosperity unapproached by any other southern state, and probably unequalled in the history of this state. He divides the cotton belt into eastern and western zone, as did The Constitution. He shows that depreciation of cotton condition in the western zone will mold prices high and stable; that normal conditions in the eastern zone will reap for that region the benefit of high prices.

In his estimates Mr. Anderson gives to Georgia an income increase over last year nearly twice the increase of any state in the eastern zone, nearly a third of the increase for the total belt. His estimates are based on 14c cotton, already a fact. He expects that they will subsequently have to be altered to include 15c cotton.

The careful and conservative methods by which Mr. Anderson arrives at his conclusions puts to rest the absurd overstatements of the crop, recently circulated by designing bear operators. They assure for the south a year of wonderful prosperity. They assure for Georgia the lion's share of this prosperity, more particularly as the expense of raising the Georgia crop now coming to market is about 25 per cent less than in the past ten years.

With gold, bright-shining in your royal looks!

Songs of the freside, voice

O, shelf of books!

The ripened sheaves of

Lit sometimes with a glimmer

Where Life its joy denies:
And Mirth, with laughter

Here is no critic's scorn; love only looks

White notes of the wind-blown night rise

My books my friends,
A benediction on their leaves descends,
Riches of poverty—what joys ye bring!
Even sorrow learns to sing!

The Man Behind the Wirework.

"My son," said the Old Philosopher, "I noticed a look of envy in your eyes this morning while you stood and watched the man behind the wirework fingering all that money, with piles of crisp and shiny yellowbacks before him; you envied him—there was no mistake about that; he seemed to be handling it out pretty freely, too—as though he had so much he was glad to get rid of it, but you may have noticed that he wasn't giving himself any of it, and that his personal pockets didn't jingle as he stopped to take out a bill to pay for his millionaires who are bravely struggling to die poor, for he isn't in their class; though he makes other folks happy they go their ways and forget all about him—till next payday; then they line up again, and he hands it out to 'em, and they never even say 'thank you.' Had you been around at closing time you would have seen him fumbling in his pockets for that nickel for carfare, and when he found it he turned it over and over, flipped it once or twice, then dropped it thoughtfully back, dusted his old brown hat with his palm, then hit the grit for home, and he'd be out at the back porch in a twinkling. You ought not to envy him any more; he might catch you at it, and he has troubles enough, Lord knows! Try to fill his place for one week and no trust company in town would give you even a limited guarantee against spending the balance of your days in a lunatic asylum!"

The For That!

"If everything goes well Jim Swaggerty may find matrimony, but the chances are against everything going well. They always are in such cases. Somebody is pretty sure to fall sick, making the costly presence of the sawbones necessary, or the gasoline stove will explode and set fire to the motor, or a batch of poor relations will come for a good long visit. Then I wish one of you fellows would call upon Mr. Swaggerty and explain to him that the expenses of a married man are no greater than those of a single man. He may stand without hitching while you are doing it, but I doubt it."

Not a New Disease.

A Kansas man is worried because he has a gas meter "with the clicks," and the Kansas City Star quotes a letter from him: "Gas Company, Dear Sir: What the matter of my meter you inspector was there a few days ago. It has the clicks. It clicks 2 to 5 times then 3 quick clicks some times then stops less than 1-2 minutes then go at it as stated above."

Literary Troubles.

"I've heard of it," replied the author, "and I'm making all the amends possible."

A Regular World-Paper.

"We want to make this paper," says The Adams Exchange, "not the history of this town and county alone, but the roles of the state and, incidentally, of the entire United States—bar none; in fact, we are not going too far when we say it is 'a world-voice'—the unbound, unbuyable organ of humanity, which it hopes to lift to even greater heights than it has yet attained. But, brethren, a cold winter is coming on, and we need wood, and prices are so high that they are short on groceries. In a word, brethren, we're feeling mighty low!"

A Story of the Moment

By WALT HASON.
The Famous Foe Post

ON LITTLE MONEY

"And so Jim Swaggerty and Mabel Cribbage had gone and got married," remarked the assessor, "with them the best luck in the world, but I don't see how they're going to keep the wolf from the door. Jim earns only $12 a week, and that doesn't go far in these stirring times, when the high cost of living is a talk of the town."
"They'll get along all right," said the druggist. "It doesn't cost a married man any more to live than it does a bachelor. And Mabel Cribbage is a mighty good manager."

"A woman may be the best manager in the United States," observed the village par-trick, "but she hasn't a thing to do with a vapid eye, and leading him to believe that L.E. done something wise and creditable in getting married on $12 a week, and of course they talked the same way before he took the fastest train. If they were honest they'd have told him that a man getting married on such a stipend should be in jail."
"That talk about matrimony being as cheap as single blessedness is all flappoodle, and such a theory won't stand examination under any circumstances, and, besides, the wooden limbs, has to have shoes every once in a while, and those shoes cost real money; no matter how ethereal a bride may seem, she acts like a human being, and usually prefers expensive grub; she often betrays an ungodly interest in the picture show, and the parlour doesn't grow on the tree. As a rule the husband has to buy all these things, or at least pay for them, and meanwhile he is wearing 'at shoes and clothes himself, and his inner works demand refreshments. How can a man double his expense for the necessities of life and still have as much money as before?"

"As a bachelor Jim Swaggerty could indulge in a few recreations. On Saturday evening, after paying all his bills, he could indulge in riotous living to some extent. He could go to the moving picture show, or something like that. Once in a while he could go to a real theater, and see Miss Barrymore in 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room.' But now that he is married all such innocent dissipations will have to be cut out. When he goes to the picture show, his wife, who might sell him over to his wife, and she'll count it all up, and stack it up in neat little piles, and then begin to cry, saying that she lacks seventy-five cents of having enough to buy herself a green shirtwaist she had been counting on since last Saturday." And she'd go home and tell the money she'd lost her, he would out wasting his money on car fare and nasty cigars, and other luxuries, and hand all his change over to her. Then Jim will begin to sulk and wish he hadn't been in such a hurried hurry about getting married, and he'll sit at the back porch in gloomy grandeur, and think of the halcyon days when his money was his own, to do as he pleased with.

"In such a manner does domestic infelicity take root and grow, my friends. There is nothing more disgusting, at any stage of a man's career, than to see him sitting dubiously disquieted when he is newly married. Then, if ever, a man wants to throw money at the birds and convince his charming bride that he's a prince in disguise. And if he has to get down to counting nickels and cheese-parings so his wife can buy a new tortoise-shell comb or a whole lot of other things of the window, and bride and groom look at each other in a severe tone of voice, as though asking why in thunder they were such fools."

"If everything goes well Jim Swaggerty may find matrimony, but the chances are against everything going well. They always are in such cases. Somebody is pretty sure to fall sick, making the costly presence of the sawbones necessary, or the gasoline stove will explode and set fire to the motor, or a batch of poor relations will come for a good long visit. Then I wish one of you fellows would call upon Mr. Swaggerty and explain to him that the expenses of a married man are no greater than those of a single man. He may stand without hitching while you are doing it, but I doubt it."

SOLOMON.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slawh"

Solomon, whose other name has not survived the wear and tear of time, was the son of David, king of Israel, and was born with a golden spoon, incriminated with jewels, and a crowd of what are called "poor relations" will come for a good long visit. Then I wish one of you fellows would call upon Mr. Swaggerty and explain to him that the expenses of a married man are no greater than those of a single man. He may stand without hitching while you are doing it, but I doubt it."

The World's Mysteries

WHO WAS MERIMEE'S "INCOGNITA?"

Among the most interesting of the literary letters of the world are those by Prosper Merimee, the French writer. These letters were written between the years 1842 and 1870, and it has always been a mystery to whom they were addressed. They were addressed to "Incognita."

As regards the identity of the "Incognita" and the manner in which the publication of these letters was received in Paris, it is enough to quote the opening paragraphs from a paper suggested by them which appeared in the London "Quarterly Review" for January, 1874. The writer says: "No literary event since the war has excited anything like such a sensation in Paris as the publication of the Letters to a Une Inconnue."

"Even politics became a second consideration for the hour, and Academicians or Deputies of opposite parties might be seen eagerly accosting each other in the chamber of the street to inquire who this fascinating and mysterious unknown could be. The statement in the 'Revue Deux Mondes' that she was an English woman, moving in brilliant society, was not supported by evidence; and M. Blanchard, the painter from which the publisher received the manuscripts, died most provokingly, at the very commencement of the inquiry, and made no sign."

"Some intimate friends of Merimee, rendered incredulous by self-love at not having been admitted to his confidence, insisted that there was no secret to tell; their hypothesis being that the 'Incognita' was a myth and the letters a mere fancy. On the other hand, some petty details of actual life had been interwoven to keep up the mystification. With the evidence before us as we write, we incline to the belief that the lady was French by birth, and during the early years of the correspondence in the position of 'dame de compagnie' in an aristocratic household."

Madame M—de E— M—. It appears from one of them that she inherited a fortune in 1843, and she has been constantly identified with a single lady residing in Paris with two nieces, and a character for pen-dantry fastened on her, on the strength of the Greek which she learned from Mme— M—.

The mystery which surrounds these "Letters to an Incognita," their freshness, their epigrammatic brilliancy, their keen and flashing wit, the careless boldness with which they dash off the portraits of the leading men and women of the day, in English as well as in French society, make them well worth the while of any one fond of such literature to read.

Merimee was born in Paris in 1803 and he died in Cannes on September 23, 1870. The last of his letters to his Incognita was written on the day of his death. He first appeared before the public in 1825, as the translator from the Spanish of several dramas, and they were followed later by notes on travels and by "Columbia," a novel which was published in 1841.

As regards the appearance of the author of this brilliant series of letters, it is only necessary to quote some passages from the "Stade" with which the distinguished author Henri Taine professed these "Letters to an Incognita." He writes: "I frequently met Merimee in society—a tall, erect, pale man, who, excepting his smile, had very much the appearance of an Englishman; at least he possessed that cold, distant air that in advanced years repels all familiarity."

Merimee stated that he was an amateur, passing from one subject to another, as fancy or occasion prompted, giving himself up to no science and using his talent for the illustration of no theory. He possessed a remarkable lingual gift and acquired languages up to a ripe age, becoming a philologist toward the end of his life, and he traveled frequently in all parts of Europe, studying the manners not only of good company, but of bad.

COTTON EXPERT GIVES GEORGIA ONE-THIRD OF "VELVET" FROM CROP OF WHOLE BELT

The current cotton crop will be no larger than the 1902 crop, at least 1,000,000 short of world demand.

The whole cotton belt will receive from the crop over $450,000,000, of which Georgia will receive nearly one-third, or $150,000,000.

These figures on an assumption of 14-cent cotton, already a fact.

The prophecy of 15-cent cotton, based on recent conditions, may give these figures all along the line a big boost, but will not alter relative proportions or Georgia's supremacy.

The foregoing paragraphs contain the substance of the estimate and forecast of J. G. Anderson, president of the Rock Hill Buggy company, of Rock Hill, S. C., both estimate and forecast being founded on methods which have won for Mr. Anderson's prophecies for several successive years a reputation for accuracy. Mr. Anderson explained in the following letter to the editor the situation how he has for this and previous years arrived at his conclusion:

"Editor Constitution: I am enclosing our annual estimate of the cotton crop for your information. I notice that you are very much interested in the subject. The estimate that Georgia is in a fair way for prosperity. Our figures show that you will receive $45,000,000 more for the cotton crop than you did last year. These figures are conservative and that if anything the estimate is too low."

"We have been getting out these estimates based on the government report of September 25th, for several years, and have never missed it very far yet. I am satisfied that the crop will not exceed 13,500,000 bales and that that amount is fully 1,000,000 short of consumption."

"Rock Hill, S. C., October 8, 1913."
J. G. ANDERSON,
President of Rock Hill Buggy Co.

The Two Cotton Zones.

For purposes of convenience, Mr. Anderson has divided the cotton belt into two zones, the eastern and the western. These correspond in essentials with the classification of The Constitution, in which was demonstrated that the western zone showed a depreciation sufficient to hold prices to a high and stable level, while the normal condition of the eastern zone would enable that region to reap the benefit of these prices.

Here are the tables of states, acreages and prices comparative as between 1912 and 1913, together with Mr. Anderson's sources of information and forecast methods employed for the past several years:

The Whole Belt.

"The following estimate is based on the condition in the eastern belt as compared with the same time last year, according to government reports, the other data furnished by Messrs. R. L. Hatfield & Co., members of the New York Cotton Exchange."

"It will be seen at a glance (and these figures are substantially correct) that all indications point to a recession of 1903 when prices went over 15 cents."

"Deficit."

"You will notice that we have made a sub-total for the seven cotton states of most interest to us and our customers. This is our yearly prognostication which in the past has been received by our friends with unusual interest. The information is valuable because the figures are absolutely authentic and the result derived therefrom almost infallible."

"The number of bales estimated for the present crop is based on the government condition on September 25th, plus an increase in acreage of 2 to 2 1/2 per cent. For instance, the condition of the crop in South Carolina on September 25, 1912, was 68. The actual crop produced was 1,260,000 bales. The condition of the crop this year (on September 25) was 71, and if it turns out as the last one did, and in all probability it will, it will mean an increase of 1 1/2 per cent increase in acreage, the present crop will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,334,000 bales. In a like manner the same can be made for the other states. The total crop will be 13,863,000 bales or there abouts, something like 1,000,000 bales or more short."

"It might be said by some interested in these figures that 11 cents is too low an estimate for last year's crop, it may or may not be, but granting that it is, it is equally true, or more so, that 14 cents is a better judgment by considering the conditions throughout the cotton belt. An area throughout Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas has suffered from one of the most severe droughts in recent years. This means a moderate cotton crop. The world consumed practically 14,000,000 bales the past season. There is but little stock of manufactured goods in this country, therefore the world is expected to buy below requirements, something like 1,000,000 bales or more short."

$50,000,000 in Georgia.

These facts and figures speak for themselves. They mean that this year there will be turned loose in Georgia for cotton a sum

MAYOR TO PROBE SCHOOL CONDITIONS

Woodward Will Look Closely Into Matter of Apportionment of Children by District Lines.

The Constitution's expose of the menace of crowding children into improvised class rooms in the Highland school and the declaration of President Walter B. Daley, of the school board, that $2,000,000 to be raised by a bond issue, is the only solution of the problem which faces Atlanta's educational system, has aroused interest. Mayor James G. Woodward has taken official cognizance of the situation. He made the announcement Wednesday that he will send a "warm message" to the school board when it meets.

"I don't think conditions are half as bad as President Daley or Superintendent Slaton pictures them to be," Mayor Woodward said. "There is no doubt but that Atlanta's school system has plenty of room for improvement; but I think the trouble lies in the administration of the school business."

Advocates Redistricting.

Mayor Woodward says that approximately $54,000 spent in remodeling some of the old schools will redistricting the city. His scheme is to place each school in circular zones—draw a half mile circle around each school.

Members of council have begun to realize the immediate danger, and quite a number are making personal investigations. They probably will be asked at the next meeting to appoint a committee of ten members to make an actual investigation. Such an investigation would take in the entire city and would be asked to appear and give such information as will aid in the adjustment of the conditions.

Will Be Prepared to Act.

"When I take my seat in council I'll be prepared to act," he said. "I can't do anything until I have a voice in council. If conditions are in need of improvement then I can do something."

Jesse M. Lee, councilman-elect from the fifth ward, also stated that he will be making an investigation, and that when he takes his seat in council he will join in a movement to place Atlanta's school system on a more practical basis. He is in favor of better schools, he said. "Schools should be the first thought of the city, and they should be kept better schools at any price. We owe it to the children."

Other members of the new council, while not strictly in favor of a bond issue to relieve the congested conditions in some of the schools, are in favor of either creating a special tax for school purposes, or greatly increasing the annual apportionment for school improvement.

Increase of Pupils.

V. H. Krieshaber, in a letter praising the Constitution's attitude for bettering conditions in some of the schools, called attention to the increase in the number of pupils every year, and points out that the city should provide at least four schools every year to take care of all the children.

Offering a suggestion as a solution of the problem, he said that the city should create an independent tax for the benefit of the school board, free of any supervision or control by council, and be done in all the large cities throughout the country, and is successful. Atlanta is far behind in the construction of new buildings, and in addition the city has not profited by the experience of other cities by not erecting fire-proof buildings. He believes that a special act of the legislature giving the school board authority to disburse funds raised by a special tax will put and end to Atlanta's school troubles.

Conditions a Disgrace.

Despite stories that Atlanta's schools are not overcrowded, President Daley declares with emphasis that conditions in at least three schools—the Highland school, Inman Park and Edgewood—are a disgrace to the city and should not be tolerated. He insists that the situation is such as to make it necessary for immediate action. Superintendent W. M. Slaton takes the same position.

GIVE VARIED REASONS AS DIVORCE CAUSES

Husband Married Her to Collect Her Wages, Says One Woman Petitioner.

As the grind of divorce cases dragged out in superior court yesterday, disgruntled spouses, seeking legal separation, gave more varied reasons for their plea than probably on any other day during the week. One woman told the jury that her husband had hired her out as a farm hand. It seemed that instead of desiring a wife he wanted someone whose wages he could collect weekly. Another stated that her husband had shot her four times and is now in the penitentiary. A man said that while he lay sick his wife would make engagements with other men over the telephone in his presence.

The entire gamut of infidelities in married life was run through before Judge W. D. Ellis, who made each of the petitioners give specific and real reasons for their plea for divorce. Some of the women plaintiffs wept as they talked and others spoke as though their sufferings were every day occurrences. The ludicrous element of the cases was prominent. "Didn't you ever get up at night," told one wife whose husband had left him. "I don't know why my husband had left him. He seemed to acquire a sense of his own importance as the judge and jurymen gave attention to his recital."

Mrs. Dora Jablonski, in her suit against Henry F. Jablonski, told of the shooting affray and declared that her husband had been guilty and was now serving four years for the offense. She got her verdict. Mrs. H. Wheeler, suing Mrs. Adelle Wheeler, told of the dates his wife made with other men, and also, through a woman witness, accused her of infidelity. Mrs. Irene Evans, formerly Miss Williams, told of how she had listened while on a camping trip to the tale of love by a man, who, she said, had shortly afterwards deserted her. She cried continuously as she talked. The address of the man, a little girl, Mary Frances, is now in her custody. She says that her husband is now in Los Angeles. At her second hearing she will ask the custody of the child.

Mrs. Lulu M. Fisher told of her marriage in New Jersey to Harry Fisher and declared that he lived with her only two days and then deserted her. She got a first verdict. She said that she was in a rooming house and had a little girl, Katrine Fisher, who is now being cared for by her husband's parents. The address of the husband is given as 19 North Olden avenue, Trenton, N. J. The wife is working here.

LIMBS ARE SEVERED FROM PECAN TREES BY STRANGE INSECT

Macon, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—Pecan growers in Macon and throughout south and middle Georgia are somewhat worried by the discovery that in some places a certain mysterious insect is boring into the pecan trees, for it is feared that the insect multiplies very rapidly and will be a deadly blow to the pecan industry in this section of the state, where there are hundreds of big groves.

Dr. J. W. Walker, of Macon, who has two or three groves near Macon, has had several trees ruined this fall by the insect, and yesterday, capturing one of them in a net, he sent the specimen to Lee Worsham, state entomologist, asking that an examination be made.

Dr. Walker at first thought some mischievous persons had been cutting the limbs from the pecan trees, but later, an investigation showed that the work was that of an insect, which appeared to have unusually sharp teeth. The trees were cut yesterday, capturing one of them in a net, he sent the specimen to Lee Worsham, state entomologist, asking that an examination be made.

RAOUL FOUNDATION STARTS ACTIVE WORK

The trustees of the W. G. Raoul Foundation are taking active steps to carry out the purposes of the founder. Dixon Van Blarcom, of New York, representing the National Tuberculosis association, is now in the city and actively co-operating with the trustees in the organization of the work.

The foundation has been appointed state agent for Georgia for the sale of Red Cross seal stamps for the year of 1913, and Bernard Suttler, who has been appointed by the trustees as state chairman for the year, is now arranging for a vigorous prosecution of this work.

Mr. Van Blarcom's visit to Georgia is much appreciated by the trustees, as he has large experience in this work, and his coming evidences the cordial co-operation of the national association which is doing such splendid work.

The trustees of the foundation, Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, Major R. J. Guinn, Joseph A. McCord, John K. Otley and T. Glenn, are all keenly interested and giving generously of their time toward placing Georgia in the front rank of those states which are working for conservation of human health.

HOPKINS TO DIRECT AGRICULTURAL WORK

Noted Expert Will Head Department of Southern Development Organization.

Baltimore, Md., October 8.—(Special.)—According to an announcement made by officials of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, Professor Cyril G. Hopkins, known in the country over as "the soil builder," has accepted the appointment of director of agriculture for the organization, effective November 1.

Dr. Hopkins is head professor of agronomy and chemistry in the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, and has been granted a year's leave of absence in order to take charge of and organize the agricultural work of the Southern Settlement and Development organization.

CYRIL G. HOPKINS

work of the Southern Settlement and Development organization. He is regarded as one of the greatest living authorities on soil. He is a member of the American Chemical society, was vice president of the Association of Agricultural Chemists, and for years has been a contributor to various scientific journals and has written a large number of bulletins on soil investigation, chemistry and agronomy.

Both President Washfield and General Manager Maize expressed themselves today as being delighted at Professor Hopkins' decision to give a year's time to the very important duties of the position tendered him, this being one of the main branches of work outlined by the organization in its two books, "The Story of the Soil" and "Soil Fertility and Permanent Agriculture," were written for the non-scientific farmer. The book "Soil Fertility and Permanent Agriculture" is recognized as the greatest work of its kind ever printed. Farmers who are prone to look upon "book farming" as impracticable will be interested to know that Dr. Hopkins thought a farm in southern Illinois (in that section of the prairie state known as "Egypt"), which had been abandoned since 1860, and was now a scrubby place, or less, and was covered with a scant growth of red soil, poverty struck and weedy, it was worth about $100 per acre, and was about as run-down a proposition as a man ever tackled.

JUDGE TO GRANT DORSEY'S REQUEST

Frank Hearing Will Be Postponed Until the Solicitor Is Ready to Make Answer to Petition.

Judge L. S. Roan stated last night when informed by The Constitution of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey's desire to postpone the hearing for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, that he would grant the postponement without causing the solicitor to appear in person Saturday morning and request the delay. Attorney Luther Z. Rosser, counsel for the convicted man, stated that he would be willing, he believed, for the solicitor to have more time if he needed it. The various statements make it certain now that the hearing will not come off this Saturday.

"It was understood at the postponement last Saturday that Mr. Dorsey was to have a reasonable time in which to prepare his answer," said Judge Roan. "and at present I see no reason why I should not postpone the case, should he request it of me."

The defense is not resting its case even now, and it is reported that another one of the Frank jury will be attacked in sensational affidavits, alleging that the third juror was biased before the case went to trial.

Can't Discuss Matter Now.

"I can't discuss the matter now," said Attorney Rosser. "We may, of course, bring other affidavits, but whether or not we are going to file additional ones I can't say now."

Mr. Rosser appeared perfectly confident over the outcome of the hearing and from his manner of talking about the case gives the impression that he believes he will have no trouble in securing a new trial, and that without taking the case to the supreme court.

Solicitor Dorsey and his assistant, E. A. Stephens, who have been in Valdosta since last Sunday, are said to be devoting practically their entire time to preparing an answer to the 115 reasons cited by the defense for a new trial. In the meantime the Fulton superior court is without a solicitor and the grand jury, which was expected to meet this week, will not be called together until later, possibly after the disposition by the superior court of the Frank motion.

Story From Valdosta.

The story from Valdosta follows: Valdosta, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—The state will not be ready with its answers to the motion for a new trial in the case of Leo M. Frank, set for present Saturday in Atlanta, until Hugh M. Dorsey and his assistant, E. A. Stephens, who are now busily engaged in this city in revising the evidence and the grounds for a new trial, stated tonight that it will be impossible for them to go over the voluminous evidence by Saturday.

They have been putting in long hours this week on the work but so far have checked over only a small portion of the testimony. Messrs. Dorsey and Stephens came to Valdosta to escape the natural interruptions of the work which would have been encountered in Atlanta, and have been able to make much greater progress thereby. They are occupying the offices of Judge W. E. Thomas in the county courthouse while the latter is out of the city where they have every facility for their work including access to the judge's library.

Mr. Dorsey tonight informing Judge L. S. Roan of his inability to be ready for the hearing on Saturday and unless the judge requires his personal appearance in Atlanta on that day, it is probable that he and Mr. Stephens will remain here until they have completed the state's answers. Mr. Dorsey declines to discuss the case further than relates to his work in preparing for the hearing.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well-Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Hollywood, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman who darkens their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home, to a half pint of water add 1/2 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost.

Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieve itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."—Adv.

to Collins and was out amid the cheers of the crowd. Captain Doyle drove a fly to Strunk in center-field and Fletcher caught the inning by failing a victim to strikes.

The home rosters cheered Eddie Murphy as he faced the old rival Mathewson. His first pitch, unusual for him in a world's series game, was a ball, but the second was a strike and Mathewson swung slow grounder to Doyle.

The Athletics did not trouble Mathewson in the second inning as much as they did in the first. Strunk shot a grounder to Doyle, who put the ball cleanly this time and tossed the fast centerfielder out by inches.

Mathewson moved up to third on the play, and Herzog took second on Athletics' infield play in to get the runner, but they did not have time to do the trick as Doyle cut across the plate after having three balls and two strikes.

New York rosters jubilated for Fletcher when he caught the ball in the fourth inning, but he responded by smothering the ball to first, getting the ball top and throwing it back over the plate.

The Athletics half of the fourth inning hit Mathewson and his catcher at first. Baker brought the fans to their feet by driving a hot single to right off Doyle, who was playing as if he shot past him on the ball, but only deducted the ball. Baker went to second on Melnitz's out, Doyle to first.

May Hurl for Giants

AL DEPINAREE.

The Giants' young star, whom many hope as an equal choice with Shawkey to twirl today's game for the Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The best that Larry McLean could do when he came to bat in the third inning for New York was to pop up a fly to Barry. Snodgrass shot a single into left field and the crowd got its first glimpse of the ball.

One of the best catches of the day was made by Burns, who ran in and got Strunk's short fly almost off the ground.

With the eighth inning beginning and both pitchers going as well as they could, it looked like extra innings. A line must stretch over the ball park, giving the two pitchers a little more advantage over the batters.

The ninth inning opened with Doyle pitched out to Strunk, neither brought cheers for the Giants' supporters by hitting to centerfield for a base.

The memorable tenth inning saw victory go to the Giants. McLean pitched it with a single to right center. Grant was ordered to run for McLean and he pitched the ball out to Doyle.

Mathewson held Philadelphia safe in the latter's half of the inning. O'Leary went out, Herzog to White, Collins struck out and Doyle pitched out.

Matty's Courage Enabled Giants To Tie Series

"Old Master" Supreme in Crisis—Howe Thinks the Giants' Chances Better Than Mackmen at This Stage.

By IRWIN M. HOWE. (Official Statisticians, American League.) Philadelphia, Pa., October 8.—(Special.)—Great is his wing, great all his powers of endurance and recuperation, great his brain and greater than all else in the unfolding courage of Christy Mathewson.

By using all the resources at his command and offsetting with every ounce of strength, he stilled off the American league sluggers for nine long innings, in spite of rotten and rotten spots. Then, in the tenth round, he eluded the winning hit off the delivery of aged Ed Plank, who snuffed the bat for the second time.

The error was the second offense for Doyle, and it seemed, for a moment, that he was to achieve the same degree of fame that has been won by unsetting "The Old Master," the blunder seemed to give him added strength.

With the score even, Mack will be obliged to take a chance with one of his young pitchers against Tressau or Doherty. If the former is as good as his friends maintain, the American league champions are in for a repetition of their triumph.

THOUGH BADLY CRIPPLED, GIANTS RETURN JUBILANT. New York, October 8.—New York's baseball heroes, conquerors over the Athletics for the day at least, arrived here from Philadelphia early this evening and ran into a misty rain and a welcoming delegation of several hundred fans.

The Giants went to their homes to rest for tomorrow's game. Here we are, said Manager McGraw, "but we look badly battered," nodding toward Merkle and Doherty.

Five Wins in Seven Games, Matty's Count With Macks; Fourth Shut Out Wednesday

Mathewson's shut-out victory over the Athletics Wednesday recalls the season of 1905 when the big right hander of the Giants smothered the Athletics with white in three consecutive games.

In all, Mathewson has faced the Athletics seven times. Five times he has been returned victorious, errors in one game in the 1911 series, when he was beaten out 3 to 2 in the eleventh inning, caused that loss, the Giants making six holes behind himself.

against the Mackmen, Mathewson has worked in fifty-nine innings. In that time the Athletics have been able to score only a total of 3 runs and 43 hits off his delivery, an average of one 1-7 run to the game and 6 1-7 hits to the game.

By a strange coincidence, the first game that Mathewson pitched against the Athletics was on October 9, 1905, and the score was 3 to 0 in his favor. And as was the case Wednesday, Plank was the opposing twirler, the only pitcher who pitched in that game did not go into extra innings.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I BEG to announce to my FRIENDS—THE PUBLIC—and my FORMER PATRONS that I have contracted with Dr. C. W. Gould and Jno. G. Pasco for the sale of their property, which joins the new suburb of ALTOLOMA, on the Stone Mountain Car Line side. This property is being subdivided into large, comfortable lots, especially desirable to those wanting to get away from the dirt and noise of the city, where they can raise their own chickens and enjoy the luxury of their own garden. Many of these lots will have running spring water the year round, none of which will be farther from the car line than many of you are living today. These lots will be sold upon the same small weekly or monthly payments which have characterized my former sales. Watch Sunday Constitution for the opening, which will take place Sunday afternoon. Special train will leave old Union Station, over the Georgia Railroad, at 3:25 p. m.

AT THE THEATERS.

"North of 53."

(At the Atlanta.)
By Ned McIntosh.
"The Odyssey of the Arctic" would be a very fitting title for the wonderful series of twelve moving picture films which are being shown at the Atlanta theater under the title "North of 53" for truly nothing more grand, impressive or heroic in its proportions has been presented on the screen in Atlanta than this show. The films, which are presented by Beverly B. Dobbis, show very convincingly the hardships and perils of the Arctic. Sidney Davies, who, according to the program, lectures to the audience, really does not lecture at all, but is really more enjoyable, virtually holds a conversation with his audience about the wonderful pictures on the screen. A good sized house sat spellbound through twelve reels at the Atlanta theater last night and never stirred a peg. The picture flickered on the screen, which is saying quite a lot for moving pictures being exhibited to the Atlanta theater audience. Leaving Seattle, the films take you to a very realistic Alaska. Here the inside picture of a village of Eskimo is shown. The Eskimo is with its fussy Eskimo, from the thundering mining camp with its monstrous machinery turning out vast quantities of gold bars. One of the Eskimos is shown in a small boat on the water, with a dog sledging with a single Eskimo and a dog sledging with a single Eskimo. One of the Eskimos is shown in a small boat on the water, with a dog sledging with a single Eskimo and a dog sledging with a single Eskimo. These pictures are a liberal education. They will be shown matinee and night for the rest of this week at the Atlanta.

Woman Is Nearly Scalped When Tresses Are Caught In Frightened Cow's Horns

Rome, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—The luxuriant tresses of Mrs. Connor, of Fifth avenue, near Chestnut street, were caught in the horns of a frightened cow yesterday. Mrs. Connor had washed her hair and was drying it with a towel when she stepped into a field. She was nearly scalped when the cow's horns caught her hair. The incident occurred in the vicinity of the farm of the late Mrs. Connor. The cow was frightened by the sight of the woman and its horns caught her hair. The woman was rescued by her husband. The incident was reported by the local press.

HUSBAND WHO CLAIMS MARTIN WRONGED HIM IS SUED FOR SLANDER

Cordele, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—A suit for damages in the sum of $20,000 was filed yesterday in superior court of Dooly county in favor of W. T. Martin against T. W. Britt, a wealthy planter of that county, for alleged slander. According to Martin's petition for suit, Britt on several occasions in and in the presence of citizens of the community, accused him of intimacy with Mrs. Britt. These alleged false accusations, claims Martin, have done to the character of the people of the entire community, and as a result he has been shunned and has been embarrassed by former friends. The language claimed to have been used by Britt in making these accusations is vulgar and obscene to be used in print. Martin is 38 years of age and unmarried. He was employed by Britt on his farm and during his employment there he made his home with the Britt family. Martin is the son of the late W. T. Martin, who was one of the kind on record in Dooly county in the month of November term of the court and will be in order for trial at the following session.

Success and Shoemaking.

The making of shoes is the fourth largest manufacturing business in this country. It keeps a lot of people bustling to supply each year three pairs of shoes for every man, woman and child in the cities and towns of the United States. And more bustling will be necessary each succeeding year, for the nation of ours is rapidly growing and the demand for footwear is likewise increasing with each rising of the sun. There is much that is interesting about your footwear and much that is interesting about its manufacture. It is the every-day thing which are full of importance when you stop to notice them. There is great opportunity for success in shoe manufacturing, and some of the reasons are set forth in an informing article in another part of this issue entitled "Looking for Opportunity."

The Better Way

Wise buyers of printing have awakened to the fact that they usually get what they pay for. If they get a cheap price they are pretty sure to get cheap quality, and the job is likely to be skimped in one or more important directions. The first consideration should be not so much of price as of prestige; not of saving, but getting service; not how cheap, but how good. Herein we excel. We give you the service, the quality and we have the prestige, which is the result of twenty-three years of honest effort to give customers quality printing at a reasonable profit. You make no mistake by "teing up" with us and becoming a regular customer.
