

AS LIAR AND THIEF PARKER PILLORIES GOVERNOR SULZER

Former Candidate for Presidency Tells Impeachment Court Sulzer Is Not Fit to Be Chief Executive.

AS APT PUPIL OF SULZER SARECKY IS DESCRIBED

Judge Parker Charges Sulzer Took Money and Swore Falsely, and Then Forced Sarecky to Assume Blame.

Albany, N. Y., October 9.—Fifty thousand words of legal argument, scathing denunciation of Governor William Sulzer on the one side and of his accusers on the other—delivered today by opposing counsel brought a verdict in the trial of the impeached executive one day nearer.

Another day will be similarly occupied tomorrow, at the end of which the high court will go into executive session, it is expected, to determine procedure in deciding the guilt or innocence of the accused. The court probably will then adjourn until Tuesday. There is some talk tonight, however, of taking a vote Saturday.

The procedure to be adopted will include the manner of deciding several constitutional questions, determination of which was reserved until the end of the trial. These include the impeachability of acts committed by the governor before he took office and the question whether the use of campaign contributions without restriction constitutes bribery.

Public Vote on Verdict. These matters, it is likely, will be decided either Saturday or Tuesday in executive session, after which the doors will be thrown open and the public admitted to hear the verdict. Each of the eight articles of impeachment will be voted upon separately, it is expected, and there now being fifty-seven members of the court in attendance, a two-thirds majority to convict. In the event of conviction a vote probably would be taken as to whether the governor should be removed from office and what should be the mode of selecting a successor.

Louis Marshall, for the defense, and Alton B. Parker, for the assembly managers, opened the session of the court today. Marshall made a charge against the governor based on passion and caprice, and Parker denouncing the governor as one whom the "unconscientious" should not have spread upon this record showed as no longer fit to be the chief executive of this state and for whom it was absolutely impossible to retain the confidence of the people.

"The governor," Marshall said, "has said that when he signed the statement of campaign contributions placed before him by his secretary, Louis A. Sarecky, that the statement was untrue.

"The man who read that list and examined it, continued the attorney, 'knew it was not true. It does not help him for the boy, Sarecky, to say he did the best he could. His master, William Sulzer, knew it was a lie.'

Peck, secured by Sarecky several scathing pages of his address to the testimony of Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public works, who swore that Governor Sulzer had asked him to deny under oath that he had given him a $300 note and $400 in cash, and that he had given him a $500 contribution. Marshall declared that his story was a "brazen counterfeit" and accused Peck of having "strong motives for impeaching" because John A. Hennessey, the governor's special investigator, had "united irregularities of a serious nature in Peck's department."

He said that Peck's testimony would enable him to add to the list of the man who had set in motion the investigation which tarred not only the governor but his very liberty.

This evoked a statement from Peck tonight in which he characterized Marshall's attack upon him as "a lie told for pay."

Judge Parker did not finish his address today. He occupied more than two hours this afternoon and dealt only with articles 1, 2 and 8, the money articles of the impeachment charges. He will address the court again tomorrow.

The governor swore falsely to a campaign statement there was no doubt, the attorney said in speaking of article 1. He also charged that for its alleged attempt to shift the blame to the shoulders of Louis A. Sarecky and termed him a "worthless character."

Parker States Sarecky's Money Deals. He read into the record the first complete statement of Sulzer's financial transactions during the campaign. It follows: Contributions not reported, $40,400. Cash paid to broker, $4,000. Contributions delivered to Sulzer, $29,300. Cash deposited by Sulzer in bank, $14,400.

These moneys, as reported by Sulzer, $2,200. The purpose for which each contribution was made was set forth as nearly as possible. The statement showed that $2,000 of the contributions had been designated for use in his campaign.

The evidence is all in," declared Judge Parker at the outset. The case closed and he has no answer to any of the material facts which were presented on the part of the managers, not a word. There is any question whatever that can be made as to the fact, none has appeared to present it. In his discussion of the first article, Judge Parker said he was amazed at the eloquence which Marshall can display in an attempt to uphold so absolutely worthless a character as Sarecky. He demonstrated himself to be white on the witness stand. He said one task placed on the shoulders of Sulzer, honestly signed this statement, that he had nothing to do with its preparation, continuing:

WOODWARD WILL PROBE CONDITIONS IN SIX SCHOOLS

Overcrowding Is Laid to Poor Districting by the Mayor. He Charges Class Favoritism.

TRANSFER OF PUPILS TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Mayor Woodward Vigorously Criticises the School Board for Use Made of the Bond Money.

A probe of the facilities at six schools in the congested district was started by Mayor James G. Woodward yesterday morning, as the result of the Constitution's exposure of conditions at the Highland and Inman Park schools. When he returned to the city hall at 2:30 o'clock, Mayor Woodward made the statement that he believed $50,000 judiciously spent by the school board will alleviate conditions.

He admitted that the schoolroom facilities at the Highland and Inman Park schools were not ideal, but would not criticize the school board for allowing children to be crowded into basement rooms.

"The districting of the Forrest avenue, Boulevard, Inman Park, Highland, Ivy street and Faith schools is the cause of the disorder," Mayor Woodward said. "This can be remedied by the board by arranging new district zones."

Attacks School Board. Mayor Woodward otherwise vigorously criticized the school board. The bond money voted for school purposes has been "recklessly" spent, he said. "The board has the longest hands in the location of schools."

That the new schools built out of the bond funds are worse, from a point of health and sanitation, than the old buildings.

That the board has allowed "class distinction" to stand in the way of a fair and just distribution of pupils to the Forrest avenue and the Boulevard schools.

That because of "class distinction" the Boulevard school is almost deserted, there being room for more than 177 additional students, and that the Forrest avenue school is comfortably filled.

That politicians have allocated the method of districting, which has resulted in the "class distinction" between the south side to the north side.

Mayor Woodward was accompanied on the tour of inspection by Councilman Charles Ashley, of the fourth ward, and Alderman John H. Harwell, of the first ward.

Both agreed with the mayor's conclusions and charges.

Criticizes Districting Methods. Mayor Woodward's most serious charge is directed at the "districting" method which has been in vogue for a number of years.

"It is an outrage to allow such conditions to exist in a civilized community," Mayor Woodward said. "The Boulevard and Forrest avenue school districts adjoin each other. I have examined the district line of the Forrest avenue school extends into the Boulevard district. Instead of making a straight district line, the board has allowed entrance in the Forrest avenue school. This condition is one of the most outrageous that I have ever heard of."

"Let the board of education district the schools fairly. If the parents of children object to their going to school with youngsters of the less fortunate let them establish a private school. The city should be expected to make class distinctions. It isn't fair and it is embarrassing to the poorer class."

If the Boulevard and Forrest avenue schools are properly districted, children can be moved up from neighborhoods where the schools are overcrowded, and the condition relieved.

Conditions Can Be Remedied. Schoolroom conditions at the Inman Park school took up considerable of the attention of Mayor Woodward. The chief complaint of the teachers was that the room was poorly lighted, and

Preachers Not Doing Their Duty in Prevention of Divorce, Declares Judge W. D. Ellis

Some sixty divorces have been ground out during the four days of this week that have been devoted to undefended divorce cases. Something like 400 are granted each year in Fulton county and the number seems to be growing as fast, or faster, than the population of the wonderful city.

Judge Ellis had been asked by The Constitution for the cause of the alarming increase. The judge is no drinker, he does not favor the use or sale of intoxicants, at least, he has never been known to express himself that way, but he apparently regards

EATONTON BEING SWEEP BY A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Flames Break Out After Midnight in the Business Section—Loss Will Be More Than $150,000.

Eatonton, Ga., October 10.—Fire early today threatened the complete destruction of the business section of Eatonton. At 2 o'clock this morning three of the largest stores here had been destroyed and the flames were threatening a hardware store where there was a large amount of ammunition.

The local fire department was unable to check the conflagration and the falling of electric wires had interfered with the department's efforts. The origin of the fire had not been determined.

It was estimated that the loss would reach $150,000. At 2:30 the hardware store was destroyed. A panic was caused by the explosion of the ammunition in the store, but no one was injured.

Macon and Milledgeville have been wired for aid and it is reported that a special train has been made up at Macon to send fire apparatus. Five stores have been destroyed and the loss will exceed $200,000.

WILSON TO TOUCH OFF CANAL BLAST

He Will Press Key at White House and Release Current That Explodes Dynamite Under Gamboa Dike.

Washington, October 9.—Pressing a key at the white house at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon eastern time, President Wilson will release an electric current that will travel overland and water and under sea to the Panama canal to explode dynamite and destroy Gamboa dike.

This is the last, great physical obstruction to the opening of water communication between the two oceans, although the wreckage of the dike and two earth slides, one at Cucaracha and another at Gold Hill, must be cut through before the canal actually can be opened.

Destruction of Gamboa dike will be celebrated not only at the white house but all along the Pacific coast. Originally it had been intended to set off the charge at 3 o'clock in the morning, but President Wilson granted the request for a change to accommodate points in the necessary time belt.

When the electric current started by President Wilson traverses the land wires to Galveston and passes beneath the Gulf of Mexico by cable to the wreckage of the dike, engineers expect the spark to explode the thousand charges of dynamite which have been buried in the 300 feet of dike which at present stands between Gatun Lake and the famous Panama canal.

All Ready for Blast. Panama, October 9.—Preparations are completed for the destruction of the Gamboa dike which separates the waters of Gatun lake from the Chagres cut. All the necessary changes have been made in the cables so that the electric spark which President Wilson will transmit by pressing a key at the white house at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon may operate the switch controlling the canal zone every one who can be spared from work will journey to the scene. The danger zone will be guarded by a strong garrison of police.

Fourteen units of the Atlantic dredging fleet, which he came to Atlanta through Gatun locks today on his way to the Gamboa dike and will begin operations as soon as the barrier is shattered. The lockage took two hours and a half, some time being lost through maneuvering the massive position. The lock mechanism worked perfectly.

Wagon on his face. The top of his head is now as brown as the well tanned skin of a tropical sailor. Hawthorne has not been a communicative man since he came to Atlanta—he cannot well talk through the prison walls. Yet that he will go down from the Atlanta prison to a relative position on The New York American is would not deny, neither would he affirm when given an opportunity to have the question put to him. He has a son who has long been connected with The New York American.

HAWTHORNE WILL GET $10,000 JOB

Noted Federal Prisoner Will Be Given His Freedom on October 15—Accepts Place on New York Paper.

From the Atlanta federal prison into a $10,000-a-year job on The New York American, Julian Hawthorne, author, son of Nathaniel Hawthorne, will move October 15, carrying in his pocket a discharge from prison signed by Warden Morton along with the other belongings, according to a statement from authentic sources.

A little less than a year ago, less forty days given for good behavior, Julian Hawthorne, 42, of Morton, was sent to the Atlanta penitentiary under one-year sentences from the federal courts in New York, where they had been tried and convicted on indictments charging them with violating the postal laws. In passing sentence upon Hawthorne and Morton the judge provided that the sentences should date from the day of arrest, November 25, 1912, and when they were received by Warden Moyer that date was set down as the initial day of their service. Counting the terms from that date and deducting time allowed for good behavior the sentences expire Wednesday of next week.

Following the rules of the national government to protect its wards in every manner possible, the warden, none of the prison officials or employees will give out even the slightest information touching the coming freedom of Hawthorne and Morton further than to admit that the term of imprisonment will end Wednesday next by reason of "good time" deduction.

Both Are Silent. Both Hawthorne and Morton are decidedly against any publicity of their coming release, and with the knowledge of the prison officials are exerting every means within their command to leave the prison and get out of the city without recognition by even their closest friends.

Midnight Wednesday ends the terms of Hawthorne and Morton are serving, but it is discretionary with the warden at what hour on that day he will bid them parting ways. The two men, as early as the breakfast hour, or before, for that matter.

Both Hawthorne and Morton are in excellent condition physically, what neither has lost a whit of his mental capacity since coming to Atlanta. A story was recently printed that Hawthorne had said he intended making his return to New York on foot, but Hawthorne denies this ever even contemplated a pedestrian task of that size.

PARSON PLEADS GUILTY IN WHITE SLAVE CASE

Bristol, Va.—Tenn., October 9.—Rev. Joseph Owens, Baptist preacher, today pleaded guilty in the federal court at Abingdon, Va., to taking a woman from Virginia into West Virginia for immoral purposes in violation of the Mann white slave law, and was sentenced to one year and one day in the federal prison at Monroeville, W. Va. He is now serving a term in the state prison for the same offense, he skipped with a fellow-minister's wife.

EDDIE COLLINS AGAIN STAR ON THE OFFENSE

Bush, One of Mack's Youngsters, Hurlled Great Game. Schang Came Thro' With a Circuit Smash Into Right Field Stands—Giants Were Outclassed.

New York, October 9.—A new star blazed forth in the world's series baseball firmament today when Leslie Bush pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a victory over the New York Giants in the third game of the championship struggle by a score of 8 to 2.

Bush was materially aided in his rush to a pedestal in the baseball hall of fame by a strange batting of his team-mates, but the major portion of the glory was accorded by both fans and players to the youngster who startled the diamond veterans with his speed and control in his debut in a world's series.

While his pitching was not as spectacular as that of the veterans, Mathewson and Plank, yesterday, his bowler's victory in past world's series titles him to a niche alongside Hugh Bendis, of the Boston Red Sox, and "Babe" Adams, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who performed similar feats of twirling in past world's series.

So effective was Bush's pitching that the Giants secured but five hits, and three of these were of the scratch variety. Only three of the twenty-seven batters tried to get on base. The Athletics were made outside the infield and there were innings on a stretch when the Giants never drove the ball out of the diamond.

Light under the most favorable circumstances. To his hard hitting team-mates tore into Tesreau with a fusillade of raps in the first two innings that netted five runs and relieved the youngster of the strain of pitching with the margin of safety narrow or entirely missing. This was particularly true of the four Athletics on Connie Mack's batting list.

First Four Hit. Murphy, Oldring, Collins and Baker between them made nine of the twelve hits recorded for the Philadelphia club, and these nine hits scored seven runs. The eighth run was a terrific home run by Schang into the far end of the right field stand.

In contrast to this vigorous assault on the offerings of Tesreau and Clandall were the five hits scattered through nine innings that marked the Giants' efforts with the bat. Not a single National League representative scored two hits and Shaffer's double was the only one good for more than one base.

The Athletics' latest twirling star, who will not be twenty years of age until November 27, did not get a home run but his delivery had entirely too much speed and break for the Giants to grow familiar with it during their first introduction to the Brainard, Minn., hurler.

Bush was just wild enough to keep the New York batters guessing and his quick changes of pace and delivery made an added handicap to the Giants when at the plate. He walked four batters and hit a fifth, but each time he faltered his nerve and the brilliant fielding of his team-mates soon led him back to safety.

The victory of Bush, who hails from the same town as "Chief" Bender, was exceedingly popular with the Athletic players and the club adherents. It

Woodward Not to Blame.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

It is charged, the facts being universally admitted—
That in the Inman Park school congestion is such that three grades, containing in the aggregate 171 children, are crowded into a dark and damp basement, where teaching is done by gaslight. Toilets are in close proximity to these children. A sewer, six feet distant, fouls the air they must breathe.

That in the Highland school congestion is such that in the first grade, containing mere babes, 84 children are crowded; in the second grade, containing children but a year older, 72 are crowded; in the third grade, with an average age of nine years, 94 children are crowded. Each day a large number of these children of tender years are taken sick from exposure to these deplorable conditions and have to be sent home.

That conditions here represented are illustrative of conditions that prevail in several other schools in the system.

That under such conditions hundreds of lives are daily menaced, and the scholarship of the entire system threatened.

With the exposure of these facts there has gone up a community-wide demand for remedy.

On top of this situation the cry has risen in several quarters, and in several communications printed by The Constitution:

That the trouble with the whole system is not lack of floor capacity, but mismanagement in the distribution of children among the schools. It is claimed that whereas several schools are crowded beyond the sanitary and hygienic danger line, other schools, sometimes within ten minutes' walk of the congested schools, are only a trifle over half filled!

The Constitution calls on the board of education, the mayor and the city council for an answer to this indictment, which, if sustained, charges nothing less serious than CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

The Constitution, in behalf of the mothers of this city, the city generally, calls for an immediate and unflinching probe that shall establish the truth or falsity of the indictment.

IF FRAIL LITTLE TOTS IN THE INMAN PARK, THE HIGHLAND AND OTHER SCHOOLS HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO FACE DEATH AND DISEASE BECAUSE THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, COUNCIL OR ANYBODY ELSE HAS BEEN ASLEEP, THAT FACT NEEDS URGENTLY TO BE ESTABLISHED.

The Constitution is unwilling to admit that any board or that council itself has been so criminally remiss as to place the lives of little children in the scale against a little personal exertion and ingenuity.

But the crisis does not permit theorizing, condonation or uncertainty.

It calls for action, action at once! Whether the conditions charged are due to LACK OF ROOM or to INEXCUSABLE INDOLENCE IN THE APPORTIONMENT OF ROOM, the remedy must be immediately forthcoming if lives, health, scholarship are not to pay the forfeit.

The duty of the mayor and the council, the superintendent and the board of education, is plain.

Not one of these factors can afford to rest content until their INDIVIDUAL SKIRTS ARE CLEARED FROM THE UGLY IMPLICATION. In any event, not one can afford to rest until the known and admitted conditions are remedied.

What are the FACTS?

ATLANTA'S HUMAN DRY DOCK.

J. Wallace Hoyt is an Atlanta business man of proved success and practicality. He is not a sentimentalist and he does not approve or condemn upon shallow generalities. He digs for his conclusions. That is why his communication, published on this page, in which he regrets the criticism that has been leveled against the Associated Charities and explains its dollars and cents worth to the city, carries weight.

The Constitution has consistently believed that those who discounted the work of this organization spoke out of ignorance or of imperfect investigation. We have been unable to see how anyone familiar with its methods and procedure could jeopardize the welfare of the entire city by attacks upon either. Mr. Hoyt looks upon the matter from a new angle. He shows that the Charities is able, each week, to enlist free of all charge the expert services of many of the most prominent men of affairs, physicians, etc., of this city. As members of committees they personally devote several hours of their time to the complicated details of the organization. As none of these men are in the habit of buying metaphorical gold bricks, their hard-earned and practical testimony is conclusive.

The Associated Charities is a machine for dispensing constructive philanthropy. In the last analysis, it is a dry dock where human derelicts are refitted and strengthened for the ocean of life. For instance, Mr. Hoyt says that today upon the south side of the city alone the Charities have supervision of 300 cases. It is fair to assume that the total for the city will reach 600 cases. In a large proportion of these cases the human derelicts were originally in such plight as to become either charges upon the community or go to pieces upon the first shoal of disease or poverty they scraped against.

Now, the charity of the old days would have pitched a dollar or a ton of coal to each of these derelicts and forgotten them. In time they would have been shipwreck and the community would have paid the salvage bills. The charity of today recognizes that it takes about as long to cure a case of poverty as it does tuberculosis. You can't blast out the habits of a lifetime or change the adverse environment of an entire family with the dose of one quarter. So the charity of today takes its time, uses science, employs infinite patience and as a rule cures these cases of poverty, as it does of actual disease, and many times of vice.

Of the 600 cases now under treatment it is probable at least 125 will be permanently restored to productive citizenship. The whole assets of Atlanta's banks spent in maudlin fashion couldn't accomplish what the pitiful sum available to the Associated Charities accomplishes. That takes an organization of trained, sacrificing and veteran experts. The Associated Charities asks a few dollars from rich Atlanta that it may save rich Atlanta hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. To be stultified in responding to that plea is almost criminal indifference to the city's welfare.

IN BEHALF OF GEORGIA.

Within a few days the newly organized Georgia State Chamber of Commerce will begin its active campaign for membership and for funds. The chamber, in both respects should be instantaneously, unstinted and representative. The organization has for its purposes the promotion of the health, the wealth and the development of each one of the more than two million inhabitants of this state. That broad platform ought to insure that its appeal will meet immediate and state-wide answers.

A movement of this nature can no more accomplish its objects without money than a carpenter can work without tools. The assuring of a sufficient income is the first consideration. Until that has been taken care of, all other efforts may as well be suspended. It takes money, money contributed regularly and in ample proportions, to materialize the sort of publicity and encourage the sort of development the chamber purposes giving Georgia. An organization of identical character in Texas has now reached its sixth year and has an operating annual income of $50,000. At the outset, Georgia should not undertake to do business with a cent less. We may boast as we will about the wonderfully superior advantages of this state. But it takes money and organization to capitalize those advantages. And that is what the Georgia Chamber of Commerce is setting out to do.

In the era that is now opening before the south and the nation, Georgia can gain incalculable wealth and development, if Georgia is on the job. But the state cannot hope to compete with other states, even poorer in resources, unless she has the machinery with which to bring these resources before civilization. To that end, and to the end of waking civic enthusiasm, educational spirit and industrial initiative in each county, the chamber is to address its efforts.

What helps one man in Georgia helps the whole state, and vice versa. In the matter of development, modern processes are so intertwined that the humblest and the highest member of society feels the stimulating and depressing influence. The organization's canvass for funds and for membership should be met by every Georgia business man, every clerk, doctor, lawyer, farmer, educator and follower of other callings. Corporations, whether of railroad, industrial or commercial nature, should respond, since they prosper only as the state and its people prosper.

What is intended is to build a mighty engine for universal development. The organization is fortunate in having as its directing spirits such men as C. J. Haden, of Atlanta, the president, and Charles J. McKinney, acting manager-secretary, both of whom are ideally equipped for the task.

Mrs. Pankhurst's lectures are limited, so there isn't as much trouble in store for us as the pessimists predicted.

Senator Yardaman is against the project of a bridge across the Potomac. He knows that congressmen that are wild to get away won't mind swimming it.

It's the real spectacular season, with golden autumn authors in green hats.

It ought to be a willing congress—with such a fine opportunity to give an equivalent for the cash.

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. STANTON

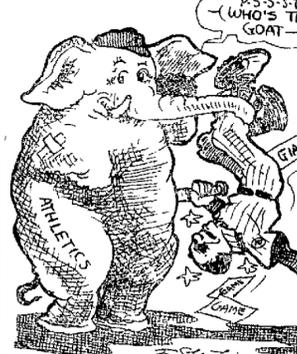

Song of the Season.
I.
Now doth the "Autumn Author" score,
While myriads pause and look;
The "Summer Author" is no more—
He's buried with his book.
For him no Autumn winds will sing
A dirge, nor cease their way to wing—
No resurrection till the spring;
For him they gat the "hook!"

II.
Full soon the autumn Author'll pass
The long-desired goal—
His face fade from Life's looking-glass,
The curtain downward roll;
Then, hark! the "Winter Author" here
He comes to read his title clear!
Heaven grant he stands the wear and tear,
And bless his shivering soul!

Watch Your Prosperity.
"You've got to watch Prosperity—you've got to conserve it, so to speak," says the Billville Banner, "for there's such a thing as celebrating prosperity out of town. If a man strikes a gold mine and spends his time dancing and cutting up generally on a hill-top, pretty soon he'll have a hole in the ground with nuthin' in it. Prosperity comes from hittin' hard licks, and it takes hard licks to keep it. A day at the picnic is all right for restin-up purposes, but you don't want the fiddler to get all the money."

It All Happened Yesterday.

The Hedgers.
One good excuse gone forever—
They settled the tariff—'tis true!
But now there's the currency problem—
Can't move till they settle that, too!
"Can't settle that bill"—that's the usual speech.
"Till we know just how far the new currency 'll reach!"
And when the last issue is settled
And trouble has silenced his drums,
"Don't cumber our necks with 'em," they'll say,
"Then there'll be such long peace on this battered old ball
They won't want to worry a fellow at all!"

The Professor Comes Handy.

The original Pleasant Valley correspondent of the Kansas City Star says of the new schoolmaster:
"Our present schoolmaster is even more bald than Professor Simon J. Simpleton, who taught last year. His resemblance to the globe is startling. In fact when little Simon Simpleton, who had not been paying much attention to the lesson, was called on the other day to trace the course of the Mississippi river, he arose awkwardly and, in his confusion, traced the course of the large blue vein which runs down the back of the professor's head."

Rebuked.

"Crowdin' on forever,
In the lowgrounds you abide,
And the glad old earth a-rollin'
To reach the rosy side!"

An Authority on Satan.

"His name never 'it knowned Satan ter bother a man dat didn't commence wid him first. Ez a rule Satan hez got his ban's track er de ez much ez he kin do ter keep track er de big folks, an' he don't fool wid de small fry unless dey comes pesterin' of him. Of co'se, he can't stan' fer dat."

A Text By The Way.

"If you like trouble well enough to keep a chair for it at your fireside," says the philosopher, "that's your affair, and a merry world will wish you joy of it, but note this: It never stays long where it isn't wanted; the heart that sings because the song is there to sing makes the worries of life take the road to Nowhere."

His Titles.

He wants to read his titles clear
To mansions now in view;
Says he: "When I am safe up there
Where none want a crown to wear,
I'll be confid' spot just anywhere—
A shadfy snuff'll do."

Nobody Noticed It.

"The paper was three days late last week," says a rural editor, "but as most of the folks were out of town and three-fourths of the country people had gone a-huntin' it didn't matter. There wasn't any news to speak of nobow."

The Sum of It.

"How long has he been in congress?"
"I dunno. All I do know is that he don't know any better."

The Unfailing Grouch.

"We sure thought that when prosperity come boundin' in an' he saw it dancin' an' cuttin' high jinks all 'round him, he'd cheer up an' look on the brighter side, but thar he sits, in sackcloth an' ashes, a-moanin' an' a-moanin'! It won't last till I die! It ain't here till judgment blows!"

Didn't Want 'em to Rush It.

They tell this on a Missouri man, who was to have been married in a neighboring town the other day, and missed his train. He rushed to the telegraph office and wired: "Don't have wedding until I get there—missed train"

A Reminiscence Birthday.

"The paper will be 'twenty years old to-morrow," says a Georgia exchange, "which will be the exact age of many accounts due us. However, we'll be under a system of hope which is still in good running order."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Prose Poet

ANOTHER TRAGEDY.

"I am introducing the finest line of flavoring extracts ever offered the women of America," said the elderly stranger. "The extracts you buy at the store are made of benzine and formaldehyde and usually have fatal results, but these pure fruit extracts are compounded by an eminent scientist, and are endorsed by Edward Bok and Mrs. Bonkurst. Just give them one trial, madam."

"If I gave them one trial they'd be sure to be convicted and sentenced to death," exclaimed Mrs. Curfew, "but I haven't time to be experimenting with flavoring extracts for my many children and my little girl are coming to spend the afternoon, and when said little girl is in the house I just have to stand by the telephone in readiness to call up the doctor or the Red Cross society. And I must say that I am surprised to see a man of your years wandering over the country pestering women with your flavoring extracts. You ought to be at home getting your house order for the great changes, for you can't expect to live much longer, as I see quite plainly that you are a man of dissipated habits."

"You are wasting your time standing here with your nose full of bottles for I could never be induced to buy flavoring extracts of an agent. I fell into the snare of the fowler once, and I think I have sense enough to profit by experience. Twenty years I have been buying my flavoring extracts and spices and such things of Mr. Griggins, the grocer, and I must say they always gave me satisfaction. I don't indorse Mr. Griggins personally because I know he treated his daughter. Said daughter eloped with a clerk in the store, and when they returned and begged the stern parent's forgiveness, said stern parent kicked the husband down a flight of stairs, and he never dared to darken his door again, and he has never spoken to her from that day to this. I think Mr. Griggins has been inhuman in this respect, but it must be admitted that his flavoring extracts were first-class."

"Last spring an agent came to the door just when I was going to make a cake for a supper at our church. I have always contended that no woman can beat me making a cake, and I have never sold a cake since you talked about cakes, anywhere in this community, lowland or highland, far or near, you'd be sure to hear of Mrs. Curfew. Of course I made special efforts whenever I was baking, and I bought two or three bottles of his extracts and used them, and on the occasion referred to it was determined to do my best, for some distinguished people, including the bishop, were going to honor the supper with their attendance."

"Just at the last moment I found I was short some flavoring extracts, and it was then that the agent came to the door. For once I looked upon an agent as a dispensation of providence, and I bought two or three bottles of his extracts without asking a question, and then went ahead and made my cakes, and they looked beautiful."

"The church supper was largely attended. All the best of the city were there. The dusky season the cakes were passed around, and I watched the people help themselves to my masterpiece, especially the bishop, for of course one naturally wishes to please the bishop. I was in fine spirits, and I have been explaining ever since, and the church women pretend to sympathize with me, but when they gave a supper two weeks ago they didn't ask me to contribute a cake, and they wouldn't have otherise said. So you make yourself scarce, mister, and don't ever mention flavoring extracts in my presence again."

A CALL FOR HELP FOR WORTHY CHARITY

Editor Constitution. Will you kindly allow me space in your columns to call the attention of the public to our 140 dependent children at the Georgia Industrial Home? For fourteen years our institution has been doing a great service to our state and to society in general by taking care of many children who would otherwise have been neglected and developed into criminals or worse. The Georgia Industrial Home, known by many as Mumford Home, is probably doing the greatest work along its peculiar line than any other institution in the home and we feel that we have splendid work accomplished we have earned and deserve the sympathy and help of all charitably disposed people.

Next Saturday, October 11, is work day for men and all the good city women have their organized forces at work and will no doubt reap a great harvest. Some of these homes will receive as the result of work day at least twenty thousand dollars. We rejoice with them that this is true—but we feel that the cry of forty children, just as worthy as any and possibly more unfortunate, since we take the most destitute cases?

We have no organization to aid us and we hope the public will take this contribution. We are doing a great work and as this work is supported entirely by voluntary charity it makes it extremely difficult. We have just been through three of the hardest years financially in the history of the home and we feel that our state-wide, almost every section of the state being represented by one or more children.

This is our only means of calling the people's attention to this great work—and we feel that the cry of forty children and dependent children will be heard from one end of the state, to the other, and a liberal response will be made.

Let every one realize that our work is worthy, dependent, and needs help.

"You Can't Lose Jim!"

I read your editorial and think it mighty fine. So let me take a text of it and write a little rhyme.

For Jim's about the slickest guy that ever skid the pike
And seems to have those qualities that coun-cil members like.

For every time he slips a cog and somehow
He slips right out of trouble by some hook or crook of luck.

He seems to have the right of way on every city,
And drives his wagon trains along and never does retreat.

O, no you can't lose Jim—he seatters dust
With every breeze
He knows his colleagues true will say "Now, Jim, do as you please."

For it was he who once was such a bold and gallant flirt
That he could change Atlanta's laws and drive her streets with dirt.

And now he puts a fence across the street
And we squeeze through,
But Jim's all right, he has the "pull," so makes the public see.

CHARITY THAT MAKES MEN INSTEAD OF CHRONIC BEGGARS

Editor Constitution: I have noticed with interest some criticisms of the Associated Charities during the past few weeks. It is true that there are some who are paid for their services, but it seems to be overlooked entirely that a number of persons of Atlanta meet in committee once a week and discuss the more difficult cases on which the district agents of the Associated Charities desire advice.

For instance, I happen to be secretary of a committee that meets each Friday afternoon. This committee is composed of three physicians, two ministers, a number of business men and several ladies, representing a number of churches of the city.

It is needless to say that the service of this committee is voluntary and those who attend are more and more impressed with the intelligent and sympathetic way the very large number of cases in this city needing assistance and advice are handled. The life problems presented are most puzzling. Charity may consist in giving a person a few moments time and a dollar, but such help is temporary. Most persons needing assistance require it for a considerable period of time and it may cover: Help of the doctor, medicine, payment of rent, the securing of employment, clothing, arranging for the care of children and it frequently involves the separation or maintaining the family as a united whole.

BASEMENT SCHOOLS CRIMINAL SAYS WELL KNOWN SPECIALIST

Editor Constitution: Your recent editorials and Mrs. Conkling's letter on the school question deserves the respectful attention of every citizen.

The basement schools should be closed at once.

The emergency of no space ought never to have arisen. Anything like reasonable anticipation would have prevented it, but now that it is here, it can be met much more readily than seems to be supposed. We do not need enclosed buildings for good schools. The best of all arrangements is a good roof with adjustable protection from the side of bad weather, and all sides wide open whenever possible, which is most of the time. This with a good floor in clean air is the best school space and far better than that offered by Atlanta's most expensive and recent school buildings. There is no need of heating. Even in the severe climate of 800 miles north of here, there are schools that are firely open and unheated. The children can be warmly clothed and that will be enough. They will like it and be better in every way. The idea of this will contravene the ideas of many men who say they have done that way and the children will get cold if sitting out of doors. As a matter of fact, this has been tried and is no longer an experiment.

The children do thrive. The sickly ones get well and the well ones have better and quicker learning capacity. People do not realize how much energy a child uses in studying his lesson and in doing his school work, nor do men know how much air, with its cleansing and restorative properties is needed by the active child. He should have air and light from all sides if possible, and there is not the least danger from draughts if the space is entirely open.

I have been in many school rooms in this city shortly after the children have departed, and in the modern ones, such as Hill street and Fair street, as well as the old ones, such as Boulevard and Ira, there has invariably been the same heavy odor that can be described only as that of the caged animal.

Now that we have to do something at once, why not erect a roof with only the necessary uprights to support it, put in a good floor, set up the desks and send the kids there with warm clothes and hoods and let them breathe as they please.

It is ignorance, criminal ignorance, to send any of them to a basement school, and these rooms with light and wind on only one side are not much better, no matter how high they are.

Sincerely, RICHARD R. DALY, M. D. October 9, 1913.

WELL KNOWN ATLANTA LADY RESENTS SCHOOL SITUATION

Editor Constitution: Just a few words on this school question:

If those in authority would get together and at once have four open air rooms to top Highland school building, our children, who have been so unexpectedly and so unwillingly thrust out of that school, would soon be back in a modern up-to-date school. That the present Highland school is located in the right place is proven by its crowded condition—and this also shows it is where another full graded school should be built.

If the present holdings of the city are not large enough there are vacant lots on every side which can be bought. We do not feel we have been fairly treated in this school shake-up, and if any one will take time to inspect the old dilapidated building on Moreland avenue, where our children are now forced to attend school, they will readily understand, and no doubt would join us in asking for better conditions.

The World's Mysteries

WHAT BECAME OF HENRY B. WENTWORTH?

The civil war brought out many mysterious disappearances, but one of the most singular of them all was that of Harvey H. Wentworth, a New Hampshire farmer lad, who went away on a furlough one day in July, 1862, and was never heard from thereafter. Every means possible was taken to discover his whereabouts. Naturally there were a great many cowards who deserted their army either through fear or dissatisfaction, but everything went to show that this was not the case with young Wentworth, and for that reason unusual efforts were made to discover what had become of him.

In a little cemetery at Suncook, N. H., stands a monument which was erected by the admiring friends of the young man, upon which is engraved "Mysteriously disappeared from the knowledge of men, at Washington, D. C., in July 1862."

Early in July of 1862 a new regiment of volunteers was mustered into the service in Suncook, which was known as the Nineteenth New Hampshire Volunteers. One of the most enthusiastic in its ranks was young Wentworth, a private in Company D. The regiment was started at once for Washington and camped upon the Virginia side of the Aqueduct bridge.

Wentworth, at the time, was a sturdy chap of 20 years. He was a farmer boy, an exceptionally good habits, as well as unusually intelligent and enterprising. While in camp on July 21 Wentworth requested a furlough to cross the bridge to see the sights of Washington. It was granted to him and he departed from his comrades, and after that was never again heard from. At the time that was never again heard from, next roll-call he was marked "not present," and after several more roll-calls appended to his name was "mysteriously disappeared."

No one ever believed that Wentworth had deserted. He was not built that way, and besides every circumstance connected with the case pointed away from such a probability. A special court of inquiry was called, and after sifting every particle of evidence they could obtain, reported that Wentworth "disappeared from mortal ken, but in view of his character and antecedents we clear him from the charge of desertion and recorded as without stain."

This opinion generally was based upon the fact that Wentworth had never been known to complain of the life of a soldier. In fact, he had been too short a time in the service to tire of it, and especially so as he was treated with the greatest kind of consideration, his cousin being the captain of the company of which he was a member. Besides, in his company there was no one more enthusiastic to reach the front and to see something of real war.

When he left camp he was full of youthful enthusiasm over the prospects of seeing the sights of Washington. Everything pointed in fact that he had never left Washington. Sentries were posted at every highway and byway out of the city, as well as along its leading thoroughfares, and no one could get by them without having his pass recorded. The records of these guards showed that the missing youth had presented his pass on entering the western limits of the city, and they indicated his progress along Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol. After that all trace of him was lost.

The thorough investigation which followed his unaccountable disappearance showed that he was last seen on the brow of Capitol Hill, contemplating the western panorama of the city spread below him. About him masons and stonemasons at work upon an extension to the capitol were sweating under the merciless midsummer sun. Below him was a labyrinth of partly-covered excavations for the sub-basement of the new extension.

What could have become of him? Was it possible that while exploring these labyrinthine mazes he was overcome by heat or by escaping gas and so fell into some dark abyss where he was walled up and entombed by unwilling masons? This has been regarded as a likely explanation of his disappearance; for all evidence pointed to the fact that he vanished within the capitol grounds.

Had he deserted he would have eventually reached New Hampshire, for he had a good home, and was fond of his parents, and he would no doubt have let them hear from him. Anxiously over the fate of the promising young life, thus abruptly and strangely snuffed out caused the premature death of his parents shortly after his disappearance, and the only mark to his memory is the monument in the little New Hampshire churchyard.

BURDENS. By George Matthew Adams

It is not for anyone to trot Idly or Easily through this World. Each must needs carry his "Baggage"—his Burden. And to him who gladly, willingly and unflinchingly should denude his Burden, there comes a sense of Ownership and Leadership. To all others comes the feeling of Servitude and Tenancy.

Your Worth is measured largely by what you are able to carry—by the size of your Burden.

The more you do, the more you want to do, and the greater the Results you secure from the work of your Brain and Hands, the greater will be the Responsibilities that you will be called upon to carry. But Burden and Care uphold and Strengthen, if you but carry them in Fortitude and in-stance of Smiles. To "Tramps" alone are Burdens distasteful and annoying.

The healthiest and hardest horse is the Work horse. Likewise, the Strongest Man is the one with the Biggest Burden on his back.

As you walk into each new day, walk into it with a steady Confidence, shrinking not a bit as you step up to the Burden after Burden, for the day may have ready for you Glory in the Knotty Problems, the Difficult Tasks, the seemingly Impossible and the things pushed on to your life desk by the Shifters. Pick them all up—and erectly carry them to their destination.

But remember for him who carries Much, cheerfully, there accumulates Ease and Strength.

ROTATION URGED TO ENRICH LAND

Farm Demonstration Workers, in Three Days' Session, Discuss Plans to Improve Agriculture.

Special stress was laid on the importance of crop rotation at the first day's meeting of the north Georgia agents of the Farmers' Co-operative Demonstration work, which began a three days' session in the chamber of the state senate at the capitol yesterday.

The demonstration work is under the direction of the United States department of agriculture and the State College of Agriculture, with State Agent J. Phil Campbell, of Athens, in charge. There are twenty-three agents in the northern district doing work in twenty-seven counties.

H. E. Savelly, of Washington, D. C., general field agent in this territory, made an interesting talk on southern crops for three and four-year rotations in Georgia. The rotations which he suggested, of which there are quite a number, will be pursued in the demonstration work in Georgia.

Plant Oats and Clover. Another feature upon which stress was laid is to push the planting of oats and clover in rotation with corn. This fall, not only is the planting of more foodstuffs urged in order to prepare the farmers for the advent of the boll weevil, but also in order to enable them to be independent of other markets.

Then it was shown by a number of examples, cited by the demonstrators themselves, that the productive power of the land had been greatly increased by crop diversification. In some instances trebled, and that crop rotation was the only means that would save the land from impoverishment.

In order to bring the work that is being done by the college in connection with the United States department of agriculture as near to the farmer as possible, State Agent Campbell urged upon the demonstrators the importance of holding "old school" in every community in the counties in which they are working. He believes that more can be achieved by this direct method of instruction in improving the productiveness of the land and the conditions of farm life than by any other means.

To Work With Teachers. It was also urged that the demonstrators secure the co-operation of the school teachers in the districts in which they were working and to get them to interest the children in improved methods of farming. In this connection Professor M. L. Duggan, one of the state supervisors of the department of education, made a strong talk on the co-operation of the demonstrators with the rural schools.

Dr. M. F. Jarnigan, head of the department of animal husbandry of the State College of Agriculture, made a talk on the means of getting better live stock, and the best methods of the kinds suited to this location. He suggested that farmers club together to buy high-bred males of the desired breeds and cross with their stock.

The greater part of the morning session was given up to reports from local agents as to the work done during the week. The last two days' sessions will be occupied with discussions of the work to be done, and outlining the methods to be used in the work during the coming year.

6 ALLEGED MOONSHINERS UNDER HEAVY BONDS

Rome, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Determined to break up a strong gang of moonshiners, revenue officers have been securing the mountainous portions of Walker and Chattooga counties, and as a result of their activities numerous arrests have been made this week. The government men were spurred to activity by the burning of J. H. Flority's house and barn and the wrecking of his sawmill on Lookout mountain a few nights ago.

MACON FARMER, SHOT BY HIS SON, IS DEAD

Macon, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—T. Greene Knight, the Hiram district farmer who was shot through the shoulder yesterday by his 18-year-old son, L. Knight, died this morning. He regained consciousness only once from the time of shooting until his death. No arrests are likely to be made as the mother and other members of the family who were eyewitnesses, give evidence that the boy was justifiable. The young man is prostrated over his act.

Barbarous Conditions Exist In Negro Schools of Atlanta

By Izma Dooty.

As many as 1,000 negro children of school age are wandering around the streets of Atlanta today because there is no room in the public schools for them.

As many as 5,000 negro children have only three hours a day schooling, because of the double grading system whereby one-half of the children who can get seats go to school in the morning and the other half in the afternoon.

The same teacher who teaches sixty children in the morning until 12 o'clock teaches sixty more, and teaches until 4 in the afternoon. How can she do it?

In the Pittsburg school for negroes the other day—the school composed of three old shack buildings—a fire broke out in the annex. There was the usual drill, the firemen came and put out the fire and all was over before the principal of the school knew about it. How could this happen?

In one of the schools there are no desks in the classrooms, and the rough benches are used by them. Many of the children bring seats for themselves and their classmates together, breathing not only the air of the heated room, but that of insanitary toilet seats.

TESTIMONY OF GIRL GIVES WIFE FREEDOM

Two Pretty Women on Stand Attract Attention During Divorce Grind.

A pair of big brown eyes that seemed to melt at times and make the heart of man beat faster, attracted the attention of scores of lawyers, jurymen and courthouse attaches in the divorce suit Wednesday. The owner of the eyes was a young woman of 24 who looked as though she might be hardly out of her teens. She avoided the looks that just would drift toward her from time to time, and while she was the prettiest woman in the room, she seemed to avoid attention, rather than court it.

Finally she was called to the stand as a witness. "I knew that woman couldn't be going for a divorce," remarked a crusty looking old lawyer. "No man would ever fall out with her," he added. "The young woman told a humiliating story of going into the bedroom of Mrs. Adele Wheeler and finding another man in the room. Through her testimony Fred Wheeler got a divorce."

On Wednesday Judge W. D. Ellis called the case of "Nash v. Nash" and the little woman took the stand. She was asking for her own divorce. She gave her name as Mrs. Nettie Nash and said that in 1905 she married Albert T. Nash, then about 28 years of age. She was 16 at the time.

Crucially, addiction to morphine and alcohol, on the part of her husband, she named as her reason for asking legal separation.

It was the second verdict and the husband, now living in Birmingham, sought through Sheriff C. W. Mangum and several other witnesses to show that he had good character and ought to have his disabilities removed.

The jury evidently thought that he would not. The wife was given a final decree and allowed to remarry. The husband was refused this right.

Girl Brides Ask Freedom. While a jury before Judge W. D. Ellis in the superior court gave the first verdict to Mrs. Bertha Dickenson Harper, child-bride, attorneys for Mrs. Grace E. Nash, of 18 West Chestnut street, were filing with the clerk a petition asking that another girl who married at the age of 16, be freed from the bonds of matrimony.

Robert A. Harper, husband of the young woman to whom the first verdict was granted, told of how he had married her in 1908 against the wishes of her parents, and finally, at their solicitation, had left her.

Mrs. Nash declared in her petition, which will be heard at the next term of court, that John Joseph Nash, whom she says she married on July 27 of this year, reached the climax of ill-treatment when, on October 3, he beat her with a plank. Nash, who is said to earn $20 a month, has offered to pay a $300 no exeat bond for his appearance to answer the suit for alimony and divorce.

At this time when the Constitution is making such a powerful plea for better school conditions, it is especially to emphasize the conditions of the negro schools. It is instinctive and perhaps inevitable that the public school first of the welfare of the white children, and yet when we consider that the negroes are dependent for all they get from the government in which they have no share, is it not evident that the responsibility upon the city and the state for the negroes is quite as great as the responsibility for the welfare of the white children?

BATSON TO LAUNCH HYDRO-AEROPLANE WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Savannah, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) The Batson hydro-aeroplane will be launched from the aerodrome on Dutch Island, within the next two weeks.

This authentic statement was made this morning by the inventor, Captain Matthew A. Batson.

It was learned from the same source that the name of the air and water navigator and the personnel of the crew will be elected probably at the last moment. After carefully considering the names "Savannah" and "Georgia" both have practically been discarded, the exact name being withheld until the finishing touches have been made and the vessel ready for the initial plunge into the river.

Equipped with a full wireless service, Captain Batson this morning declared that communication with the airship either on the water or in the air would be possible at all times at the factory, and to this end a very powerful radio wireless plant is soon to be installed on the top of the aerodrome. The inventor does not, for a while, however, believe that there will be any necessity for sending out an "S. O. S." call for assistance.

THURMOND ATTACKS HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW IN DIVORCE COURT

Declaring that his wife has forced his two little girls to smut his name with the charge of moral perversion, as he said his mother-in-law had once smutted the name of one of her five husbands, through his child's evidence, L. C. Thurmond told of his family troubles in divorce court.

Thurmond claims that his wife and mother-in-law sought to rid themselves of him and to escape to Texas with his money while he was in jail. He lays the greater part of the blame on the mother-in-law. He declared that she had had five husbands, four of them supposed to be living, and one dead under mysterious circumstances.

That she had shot husband No. 5, and afterwards made up with him was another charge Thurmond directed at his wife's mother. The man also said that he did not believe his mother-in-law had been legally divorced from all of her spouses he alleges she has had.

Attorney Frank L. Haralson brought into court the indictments returned against Thurmond on the children's evidence, and showed that they had all been nolle prossed. The indictments were returned in St. Louis. Thurmond got his first verdict from Mrs. Nellie P. Thurmond.

GIANTS FAIL TO SHAKE CONNIE'S BUSH

Bush has entered the world's series hall of fame along with Babe Adams—a new comer, practically unknown, but known the world over in one day.

Athletics' Bats Rain Hits In Third Game of Series; Bush Holds Giants Safely

has been known for some time that he had great possibilities as a pitcher but until he stood today's test his status was simply that of any big league player.

"Bullet Joe" Bush, as he has been nicknamed, because of his great speed, broke into the baseball as a member of an amateur team in his home town.

The old master did more than was expected of him yesterday, but Tesreau was the man who really made the Athletics victorious.

Has Baker's Habit

WALTER SCHANG.

The Athletics' sensational young catcher, who poked out one of the famous Baker drives in the game with the Giants Thursday.

Wilson taking Schang's high foul, and Bush raising a fly to Doyle.

The New Yorkers were quickly killed off in their half of the sixth, a double figure in the retirement and a side.

Doyle's Double Play. Crandall, who had been warning up, relieved Tesreau at this stage.

The visitors failed to count in the third inning, going out easily and being hit for three runs.

The National League champions got into the run column in the fifth, Murray drew a base on balls, the first in the game.

Connie Mack was his usual reticent self at the station, answering their questions laconically.

Demaree Stands Between the Giants and Their Third World's Series Disaster, Says Famous Statistician.

BY IRWIN M. HOWE, (Official Statistician American League.)

New York, October 9. (Special.) The second victory of the American league champions over New York was too easy to be interesting.

The Ozark hunter was figured in this column to be a fairly easy proposition for the big Marks, and he was predictably soft.

The result today makes New York an exacted team, and Demaree alone stands between the Giants and a third world series disaster.

This young man, however, will almost certainly make a good showing, and will not be in line for demerit if he falls to stop the four that top the Mack batting order.

ANNOUNCEMENT I BEG to announce to my FRIENDS—THE PUBLIC—and my FORMER PATRONS that I have contracted with Dr. C. W. Gould and Jno. G. Pasco for the sale of their property, which joins the new suburb of ALTOLOMA, on the Stone Mountain Car Line side.

This property is being subdivided into large, comfortable lots, especially desirable to those wanting to get away from the dirt and noise of the city, where they can raise their own chickens and enjoy the luxury of their own garden. Many of these lots will have running spring water the year round, none of which will be farther from the car line than many of you are living today.

These lots will be sold upon the same small weekly or monthly payments which have characterized my former sales. Watch Sunday Constitution for the opening, which will take place Sunday afternoon. Special train will leave Old Union Station, over the Georgia Railroad, at 3:25 p. m.

USE THE CONSTITUTION'S WANT ADS FOR RESULTS

Burroughs Heads Fertilizer Men Norfolk, Va., October 9.—The National Fertilizers' Association, in session at Old Point Comfort, elected the following officers: President, Charles F. Burroughs, of Philadelphia.

Georgia Must Advertise Wealth of Her Acres

By F. M. Patton. Having just returned from an extended trip in the middle west in the interest of my company, which is sales agent for the J. A. J. Henderson subdivision of farms at Ocala, Ga., I noticed a situation which should be of interest to Georgians and the south generally.

In the north and middle west, good farm lands are so high in price that unless the farmers of the younger generation are fortunate enough to inherit lands, it is a long and uphill job for them to accumulate as hired hands, or tenant farmers, sufficient to acquire a satisfactory acreage of good lands and thousands of them are constantly seeking goods, but cheap lands elsewhere.

Goals to Newcastles. A queer situation is that in one part of that section a constant stream of farmers are moving to another part because while lands in their section are for the most part unobtainable, in the other for $100 to $150. This movement is because of two reasons mainly, first, that they can get the same acreage of practically the same quality and pocket a difference of from $50 to $100 per acre, and secondly, and because the new acreage will produce the same crops that they are in the habit of planting. They do not know that these same crops can be produced most anywhere in the south and that land equal in quality and yield per acre can be purchased in the south for a quarter, or eighth, of what they pay for it if they consider the south at all it is as a land sizzling under Fifteen-Cent Cotton. The farmers have attempted several organizations for the purpose of holding the price of cotton up year after year, each of which has been a failure. This is not intended for a trade against the southern farmer. They have been sold these things in almost every newspaper, and experts in the employ of the state, shown it by experiment farms, but it is useless. They have been told these things in almost every newspaper, and experts in the employ of the state, shown it by experiment farms, but it is useless. They have been told these things in almost every newspaper, and experts in the employ of the state, shown it by experiment farms, but it is useless.

through the finest agricultural sections of the north and west in the height of the growing season this year and the finest crops of corn, sorghum and oats, showing the highest quality and the largest yield have been right here in our own state of Georgia, and we have gotten two crops against their one where two crops have been planted.

We Must Show Them. Now what we want to do is to show these thousands of people living in these overcrowded agricultural sections, where the price of lands is beyond reason, what we have got. If we can do this, we can fill our states with farmers of the highest class, industrious, honest and law-abiding, and when we succeed the state will bloom like a garden.

It is rather peculiar that the principal land companies exploiting southern lands are pushing propositions which call for the cultivation of specific crops, such as oranges, grapefruit, truck, celery, etc., and those not operating along such lines are exploiting their lands in various ways, such as to be some fascination about such projects which catches the northern farmer.

No company seems to be exploiting southern lands by showing what can be done in planting wheat, oats, hay, etc. Our own company seems to be the only one in the field; at least I have not learned of any other. As stated in the beginning of this article, the northerner and westerner farmers out of the one in the north asked me if we were not shy on rain, and how much fertilizer we used, showing that they had gained their impressions of the state of Georgia from the descriptions of lands 500 miles from here exploited by various parties. I think it is not because it is natural for a man living in the north to think that the south is a matter of fact, but because they are not used to the fact that every southern girl has big black eyes and black tresses, and that we get out under the magnolias every night and play a guitar and warble southern love songs (most of which, by the way, are composed by northerners who wouldn't know a magnolia from a bay tree), and when we do not do that, lynching niggers to pass the time away.

What We Should Do. Looks like the whole state ought to get together on a newspaper and other advertisements, distribution of literature, etc., show the country that we can raise two crops to their one; that we can match them on all, and beat them on some, in the yield per acre of all the crops that make up the agricultural backbone of the country, that is to say, corn, wheat, oats, hay and stock of various kinds, and the agricultural backbone of the country, that is to say, corn, wheat, oats, hay and stock of various kinds, and the agricultural backbone of the country, that is to say, corn, wheat, oats, hay and stock of various kinds.

$1 & $1.25 Silk Stockings

One of our best dealers has favored us with over four hundred pairs of his regular $1 and $1.25 silk stockings to sell at 73c.

If you will examine these stockings carefully, as we have done, you will pronounce them the best values you have ever seen at 73c.

We say this with full knowledge of the other good sales we've held in the past. The stockings are "Run of the Mill" grade, which means they have not been examined for defects. But we've examined them, and most of them are perfect. They will never do anyone any harm.

The stockings are made of a pure thread silk in the rich, crumpled quality. Full, extra plump weight. Full fashioned, finely finished with high spliced heel and lisle sole, toes and deep garter tops. Black only.

25c to 50c Stamped Goods, 19c

Another of those popular stamped goods sales. To keep a clean, fresh stock of stamped goods, we frequently dispose of our odds and ends at one little price. Prudent women are quick to share. For tomorrow we have:

—50c art linen white centerpieces, 22 and 24 inches.
—25c white linens, 36 inch centerpieces, 18x54 inch scarfs.
—25c to 50c stamped waists, lawns, voiles and crepe voiles.
—Royal Society Package Goods, including 75c shirt holders and 50c tie racks and collar bags. Choice

25c to 50c Stamped Goods, 10c

Pillow Tops—If complete, these would sell for 25c to 50c. We have only the tops. Various in burlap, denim, cream and natural linen. Stamped and tinted.
Royal Society Package Goods—Discontinued patterns, formerly 35c, 35c and 40c. Include telephone and shading pads, laundry lists, work bags and fancy bags. Complete with threads to work, the threads in many instances worth more than 10c.
