CROWD THREATENS DRIVER WHOSE CAR HITS YOUNG LADY

Otto Van Dingelhoeff, Owner of Car, Promises to Have Chauffeur at Station Today—Victim Will Recover.

Threatened with mob violence after he had run down and seriously injured pretty Mary Hughes early last night in front of the Grand theater, the white chauffeur of Otto Van B. Dingelhoeff, of 136 West Peachtree street, was spirited from the rear of the Gresham apartments at 17 West Cain, while policemen stood guard at the entrance.

Miss Hughes was badly injured, it is feared internally. The rear wheels passed over her body and she was dragged several feet. The accident was witnessed by hundreds of pedestrans who crowded the streets at that point on the way home to supper.

The police will arrest the chauffeur. Mr. Dingelhoeff, who was in the car at the time, assured the police that he would produce the man some time today. The police, however, did not obtain the driver's name. He was got away from the scene as quickly as possible.

Going Home to Supper.

Miss Hughes lives in the Gresham apartments, on West Cain street. She is an employee of an afternoon newspaper. As she was going to supper about 6:30 o'clock, she started to cross Pryor street at the junction of Peachtree.

The crowds were thick, and there was also a congestion of vehicles and and trolley cars. As she reached the center of the street, the Dingelhoeff car, a touring machine, came up Pryor street at a goodly pace, eye-witnesses told the police. Miss Hughes was struck and bowled over. As she fell, she rolled beneath the machine.

She screamed. The car was stopped almost instantly, but not before her body had been dragged a few feet. Both shoes flew from her feet and struck the sidewalk, some distance away. Her pocketbook, which she held in her hand, was thrown into the air, falling in the midst of the crowd on the walk.

Her clothing was torn in many places and her hair disheveled. Men picked her up and carried her to a nearby store. The chauffeur, it is said, remained in his car. Mr. Dingelhoeff got out and went to where the girl lay. A crowd gathered quickly.

Thought Girl Dying.

There were mumbled threats. A physician, whose name was not obtained by the police, came along in a touring car, and in it Miss Hughes was carried to her address on West Cain, less than two blocks distant. She was almost unconscious, and, it was thought by many, dying.

George W. Weaver and W. A. Kimsey, of a local typewriter concern, who had witnessed the happening, went over to the machine and talked to the driver. They asked him to step out and accompany them to the girl's home to find out her condition. Mr. Dingelhoeff, the men stated to the police, protested.

Threats from the crowd, which grew louder each moment, impelled both Mr. Dingelhoeff and his driver to go with Weaver and Kimsey to Cain street. The crowd followed. A number of women at the Gresham apartments received the four men and they went into the reception parlor. The police were telephoned on account of the crowd outside.

Spirit Chauffeur Away.

Policemen Milam and Palmer came. Upon surveying the crowd they suggested that it would be best for the chauffeur to steal away from the building. He went through the back door. Miss Hughes and her friends did not insist upon an arrest, and, therefore, Chief Jett stated, none was made at the time.

Weaver and Thomas, however, came to headquarters an hour or so later, insisting that the chauffeur be put under bond. Chief Jett communicated with Dingelhoeff and was told that the man would be produced at headquarters Sunday.

NEW LAND DISCOVERED IN THE FROZEN REGIONS

Arctic Explorer Finds a Body of Land in Arctic as Large as Greenland.

St. Michael, Alaska, October 11.—The Russian government steamers Taimyr and Waygatch, under commander Wilitsky, who have been engaged in Arctic exploration north of Siberia for three years, arrived here today for coal. Captain Wilitsky reports the discovery of a body of land as large as Greenland, extending beyond latitude 81 north and longitude 102 east.

Admiral Peary and other Arctic explorers have believed that a large body of land, almost a continent, existed in the polar regions. The Canadian government had so much faith in the theories of Peary, Stefansson and other explorers that last summer it sent out Viljjalmus Stefansson with the best equipped polar expedition that ever entered the ice.

Three of Stefansson's boats are frozen in the ice pack near Point Barrow, Alaska. Two of these boats carried supplies which were to be landed at depots east of the mouth of the Mackenzie. The third was to explore the mainland and islands already known east of the Mackenzie delta.

Stefansson himself with the whaler Karluk got away safely from Point Barrow and steered for the north, seeking the unknown continent which the Russian explorer which arrived at St. Michael reported having discovered.

Riding Water Wagon Much More Exciting Than in Automobile

Six Well-Known Young Men Taken to the Police Station, But Captain Decided That It Was Big Joke.

Riding the water wagon is quite the proper thing in such prohibition territory as Georgia, but you can't do it and get away with it on the beat of Policeman Paul Brockwell Pearson.

Policeman Pearson works the Peachtree street beat from midnight to 8 a. m., and his route lies from the Aragon hotel to Five Points. At 3 o'clock Saturday morning his ears pricked to the sound of a rapid-fire exhaust coming up the sleepy street.

He looked and beheld a handsome touring car glide to the curb in front of the Piedmont hotel and six men get out. A water wagon was rattling its wet and noisy way directly across the street. The drowsy driver seemed just sleepy enough to wobble his bunglesome wagon in front of the next automobile that passed or squirt water on the next pedestrian.

Charge on Water Wagon.

The sextet who jumped from the touring car that was panting by the curb wore evening toggery and top hats that glistened under the street lamp. They swooped down upon the rattling water wagon, climbed to the top and took possession.

The driver tried to protest, but stopped instantly when his bullet-shaped head struck the pavement, which suffered a severe dent. Then he went to hunt Policeman Pearson, who, from across the street, had witnessed the transaction. The sextet, now riding over a tank of H-2 O instead of gasoline, set up a vest-pocket rebel yell and started the horses careening up the street toward the Aragon hotel.

Policeman Pearson started in pursuit, rapping for assistance as he ran. At the Aragon he climbed upon the water wagon, too. Somebody gave him a love tap and he fell, but was up in a moment and again in pursuit.

By this time Plain Clothes Policemen Green and Cason had arrived. They too, climbed the water wagon. It was too much for the top-hatted and tuxedoed sextet. They clambered down and fled in all manner of directions. Some were captured in the Candler building, some in the Forsyth, some in the Piedmont and some in the basement of the Candler building.

But Not One Escaped.

All, however, were caught.

This time they took another ride. It was to police headquarters. Arrived there, the captain thought the whole affair a huge joke, investigated the affair and learned that the crew were returning home from an Old Guard celebration, and that they would continue the trip without further ceremony or conduct of any unpleasant character.

Also, their names, which were:

Bob Wilson, of the Piedmont hotel; Wingate Battle, 288 East North avenue; John Duncan, 32 Ponce de Leon avenue; Milton Reed, the Aragon hotel; Chauncey Butler, of the Southern Bell Telephone company, and A. W. Hill, of Ponce de Leon avenue.

Policeman Pearson was somewhat peeved because no cases were to be made. He insisted. John Duncan, it was found upon investigation, had driven the wagon. Nobody objected when it was suggested to make a case against him alone, and thereby satisfy the implacable Pearson.

Saturday morning Duncan didn't get up until it was too late for court time. He hurried to headquarters, and found that his case had long ago been called. He was in contempt of court. A fine of $5 was assessed. Recorder Broyles didn't see anything so criminal in riding the water wagon. But it was criminal to be in contempt of court. Therefore, the $5.

AUTO RIDES BARRED TO THIS LITTLE GIRL

Provided he takes his 3-year-old girl on no automobile rides and gives her nothing to eat, Albert S. Gray, a pharmacist who recently parted from his wife, may see the child twice each month. There is a further proviso, however, and that is that the weather must be fair.

For the pleasure the father must pay Mrs. Lena Gray, sister of Alderman James Everett, the sum of $15 per month in allimony. It was claimed by the mother at the hearing Saturday before Judge John T. Pendleton that the child's health was delicate and for this reason the ban was placed on food, automobiles and rainy days. No suit for divorce is pending between the couple.

THREE MEN SHOT IN A PISTOL DUEL IN MACON STREET

WOUNDED MAN CHASED IN DEPARTMENT STORE

G. C. Bolton Fatally Wounded, C. A. Snipes Shot Three Times and G. C. Tittle, Non-Participant, Hit Twice.

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) In a postol duel at Third and Poplar streets this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, in the midst of a crowd of 200 shoppers, George C. Bolton, a sheet metal worker, was fatally wounded and is now in a dying condition; Charles A. Snipes, an ex-fireman and a painter, was wounded three times, and Grover C. Tittle, a non-participant, was shot twice in the arms by flying bullets.

The shooting threw the crowd of shoppers into a panic and they sought shelter in convenient doorways and store entrances. A total of fifteen shots were fired before the police were able to interfere and stop the combat.

Snipes and Tittle, who were together, met Bolton on the Poplar street side of the Dannenburg department store. The latter opened fire on Snipes and emptied his pistol. Snipes returned the fire. Bolton was shot through the forehead and the bowels, and after he had emptied his gun, he turned and ran around the corner into Third street with Snipes in pursuit.

Bolton Shot in Store.

Bolton entered the Dannenburg store with clerks and shoppers alike fleeing in front of him. Just as he entered the store proper from the lobby he sank to floor, but not before Snipes had followed him into the lobby and shot him with the one remaining bullet in his gun.

About this time the police reached the men. Bolton was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance and later Snipes and Tittle were taken there in the police patrol.

Neither of the latter two are fatally hurt. Snipes had one finger of his right hand shot off and, in addition, one bullet passed through the palm of his hand, while another went through his arm. Tittle was shot through both arms. Both are now in jail, while Bolton is in a sinking condition at the hospital.

For a time it was thought another man had participated in the shooting and had escaped during the excitement. Later it developed that a man, thinking a negro had run amuck and shot several white people, had picked up a pistol from the sidewalk and started across the street in pursuit of a negro. When he learned that the negro had nothing to do with it he returned.

The trouble is said to have started several weeks ago when Snipes and Bolton had a cutting scrape, which did not result seriously. When Snipes was taken in charge by a policeman after the shooting, he said: "The other one is in there (pointing into the Dannenberg store). I tried my best to ge him."

SULZER'S STORY LOCKED IN SAFE

Judge Herrick Squelches Governor's Sensational Recital. It May Be Made Public After Verdict of the Court.

Albany, N. Y., October 11.—If Governor Sulzer's so-called "sensational story" which he long has said he wanted to make public, ever is given out, it will be after the verdict of the high court of impeachment is in and his attorneys have withdrawn from his employ.

The manuscript of the story was located today in the office safe of Judge D. Cady Herrick. The judge admitted that he had it. When the case is over, the judge said, he will return the manuscript to the governor. Then Herrick will have withdrawn from Sulzer's employ and responsibility for the publication of the "revelations" will not rest with him.

What Judge Herrick Says.

"After I am through with this case the governor may do as he sees fit with the manuscript," Judge Herrick said. The careful manner in which the governor's counsel have guarded the document since it was indited almost three weeks ago has caused much speculation regarding its contents. That the attorneys consider the publication of it before the verdict has been reached would be detrimental to their case is admitted. In order that the governor, who has not always regarded their orders in respect to remaining silent, could not release the statement, they carried it away from the executive mansion.

A rumor that the governor was ready to make public his story today preceded Judge Herrick's revelation of its whereabouts.

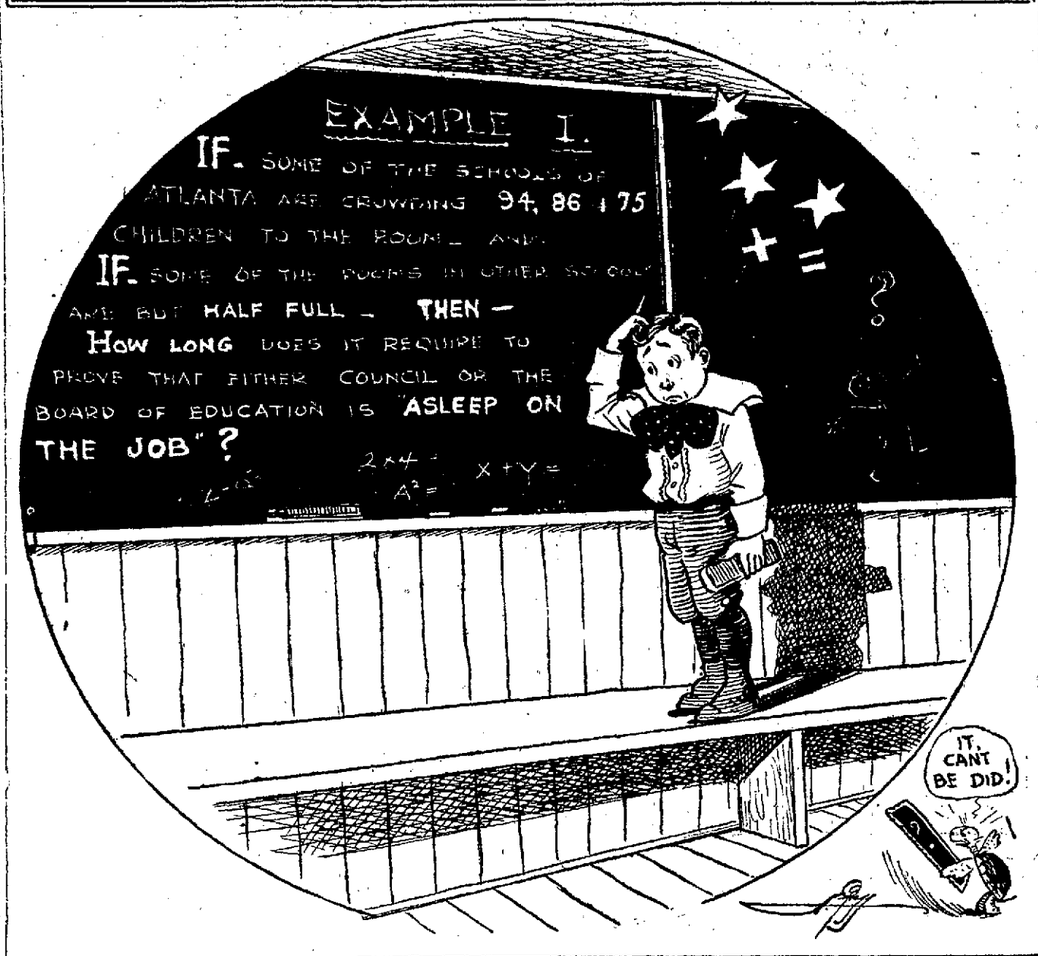

This is the first day since the trial began that the governor has absolutely refused to see any one. Mrs. Sulzer answered most of the calls on the telephone and at the door.

Uncertainty at Capitol.

Pending decision of the high court of impeachment on the question of the guilt or innocence of Governor Sulzer, uncertainty prevailed at the capitol today. With the knowledge that the governor's fate would be announced early next week, department heads and employees not protected by civil service were worrying about the permanency of their tenure of office. They realized that whichever way the impeachment judges decide, some heads are sure to fall.

The legislature also is marking time waiting for the verdict of the high court. The leaders have declared they will keep the legislature in intermittent but not continuous session until after election. If Sulzer is removed they will give the new administration an opportunity to enact into law any policies that may be deemed important. If the governor is not removed the plan is to remain in session so that Governor Sulzer cannot make recess appointments.

Looks Hard, But It Isn't

135 LIVES ARE LOST WHEN SHIP BURNS ON THE HIGH SEAS

Over 500 Passengers Rescued From the Volturno, But Great Storm Made It Impossible to Save All.

S. O. S. CALL ANSWERED BY MANY STEAMERS

But Rescue Ships Found the Burning Vessel Tossed by Fierce Gale Which Prevented Use of Lifeboats.

London, October 11.—Not since the Titanic sank has Europe been so thrilled as by a wireless message today telling of the burning of the steamship Volturno in mid-Atlantic, with a loss, so far as is at present known, of 135 lives and the rescue of 521. The survivors are now aboard a fleet of steamers summoned by the Volturno's call for help, some of which are bound eastward and others westward.

The Volturno sailed from Rotterdam on October 2 for New York. According to the official statement she carried twenty-two first cabin passengers, 538 steerage and a crew numbering 96.

The rescue ships reached the scene of the disaster in plenty of time to save all, but for hours stood by the blazing vessel, impotent because of the storm, to reach the agonized men, women and children crowding the after part of the ship, which was within a stone's throw.

Desperate Efforts of Lifeboats.

All night Thursday the lifeboats made desperate efforts to get alongside the Volturno, but the waves beat them back again and again, and not until the storm abated at daylight Friday did the rescuers succeed in removing the survivors from the doomed ship. Even now only the fringe of one of the most thrilling tales of the sea is available. Exactly how the rescue was effected is not known.

The Volturno was well equipped with boats, sufficient, the agents say, for a thousand people, but the boisterous sea or lack of boat drill, or panic among the passengers, prevented the successful employment of them. The rescue ships were able to lower lifeboats, but apparently most of the boats launched from the Volturno were smashed or upset and the occupants drowned. Two of the boats, crowded with passengers, are reported to have got away from the ship, but a search for them has proved fruitless and they have practically been given up as lost. The occupants of these boats are included in the death roll.

Many Ships Answer S. O. S. Call.

The seamer Carmania, bound from New York for Liverpool, was 78 miles away when the call for help sounded. Captain Barr ordering full steam, in spite of the gale, drove through the seas at 20 knots an hour, and was first of the fleet to reach the burning vessel. The Carmania was followed by La Touraine, Minneapolis, Rappahannock, Czar, Narragansett, Devonian, Kroonland, Grosser Kurfuerst and Seydlitz at various hours throughout the day. But try as they might, the rescuing vessels could get neither line nor lifeboat to the Volturno, the for-

PROBE TO STRIKE DEEP IN COLQUITT CARTER CASE

Attorney General McReynolds Is Not Satisfied With the Former Investigation.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 11.—(Special.) Attorney General McReynolds is not satisfied with the disposition made in the last administration of the case of Colquitt Carter, former clerk of the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia. Further action of a sensational nature may be taken by the department.

"The deeper we go into this case the more remarkable it becomes," said an official of the department of justice this morning.

An investigation into all the facts is being made and the result will be submitted to the attorney general for attention.

Several government officials, some of whom have not yet been named publicly, may be affected by this inquiry, which may consume several weeks longer.

The case has been taken out of the hands of A. Bruce Bielaski, chief of the division of investigation, who supervised the investigation made by J. D. Harris, a special inspector, and Special Attorney Thurman, a grandson of the late Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, has been detailed on the case.

Georgia Members Want Probe.

Members of the Georgia delegation in congress believe that a grievous injustice has been done Mr. Carter and wish it corrected. They so stated in a vigorous communication addressed to the attorney general, demanding that the case be reopened. This document charges fraudulent actions and false statements concerning Carter; a conspiracy to oust him from office, and the brow-beating of witnesses.

Affidavits have been submitted to the attorney general testifying to Mr. Carter's high character, irreproachable integrity and unblemished reputation.

No statement will be made until the investigation is completed.

KING AND QUEEN RUSHED BY A SUFFRAGETTE MOB

London, October 11.—King George and Queen Mary, who attended a command performance at a London music hall tonight, had a narrow escape from being mobbed by suffragettes.

The women, who had gathered in considerable numbers, made a lively dash for the royal carriage on its arrival at the theater, shouting "Women are being tortured in prison!"

They had almost reached the carriage when the police closed around and with defiant shouts of "Votes for women!" were hurled back. The suffragettes were treated roughly by the crowd, but managed to escape arrest.

Jewish Suffragettes Disturb Synagogue

London, October 11.—Jewish suffragettes today interrupted the service at the West End synagogue, Bayswater, by reciting for the first time:

"May God forgive Herbert Samuel and Sir Rufus Isaacs for denying freedom to women. May God forgive Herbert Samuel and Sir Rufus Isaacs for consenting to the torture of women."

The disturbers were ejected from the synagogue. It is understood Mr. Samuel, postmaster general, is a worshiper at the synagogue.

ALL ANIMAL DANCES BARRED IN BOSTON

Boston, October 11.—Hereafter a matron and a policeman must stand guard in every public dance hall in Boston to see that the tango, turkey trot and other dances of a similar character are not attempted and that further regulations promulgated by Mayor Fitzgerald are not violated.

DICTATOR HUERTA DEFENDS HIS RAID ON MEXIC CONGRESS

He Says That the Deputies Had Flouted Him and Were Working to Aid the Opponents of His Regime.

DEPUTIES IN PRISON, BUT NOT YET KILLED

Mexico City, October 11.—President Huerta's defense of his action in causing the arrest of 110 members of the cabinet last night is that the deputies were revolutionists. It is his belief, he states, that they represented the Carranza sentiment in the capital.

In a proclamation, dissolving the chamber, it is frankly stated that the deputies, threat to remove themselves from the capital and hold sessions where they would enjoy the protection which they alleged was denied them here meant that they would transfer their sessions to territory controlled by the rebels.

In spite of the fact, the proclamation continues, that the executive has intervened with good offices, repeatedly, in order to prevent clashes between the chamber and the other branches of the government and has carried prudence and good will to an extreme, by going repeatedly to ask the deputies to reconsider their illegal acts, his tolerance has resulted in nothing further than obtaining additional proof that the body was decidedly of a dissolutionistic and revolutionary character and was "resolved to finish with the executive power by whatever means possible, without caring that the gravest possible consequences were entailed by such conduct."

Huerta Attacks Deputies.

In a separate proclamation addressed to the Mexican people the president declared that the deputies had shown systematic and implacable hostility to each and all of his acts.

"The executive has been able to convince himself," continues the proclamation, "that a majority of the deputies had resolved to deny him all financial assistance in spite of the abnormal conditions through which the country is passing in the grace obligations which it has both at home and abroad."

The chamber of deputies, the president asserted, even overstepped the bounds of common courtesy and decency. He had seen himself alluded to in a way profoundly offensive and calumnious by the committee appointed to investigate hypothetical offenses.

"If the undersigned," the proclamation adds, "saw in the rebellious attitude of the chamber a corrodinate movement amanating from public opinion with leaders capable of taking over the government and conducting the country to days of prosperity, he would gladly abandon power and give it into expert hands. Nothing of the kind is happening. The opposition of the chamber was due to the most conflicting motives and the most divergent aspirations.

"It can be asserted that if tomorrow this body were called upon to designate an executive of the union, there would arise in it one of the most bloody battles over the remains of public power."

Alleged Plans of Deputies.

OSCAR UNDERWOOD MAY LEAVE HOUSE TO FIGHT HOBSON

Clayton's Action in Resigning as Senatorial Appointee to Fill Johnston's Unexpired Term Complicates Situation

NEXT TERM IS INVOLVED IN THE PRESENT VACANCY

Underwood Had Expected to Stay in House Two Years and Contest for the Regular Term.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 11.—(Special.) Representative Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, may be catapulted immediately into the senatorial race in Alabama to succeed to the unexpired term of the late Senator Johnston. Instead of remaining as house leader for another two years.

Developments in the senatorial situation today indicated that unless Mr. Underwood does so he may find that his opponent, Representative Richmond P. Hobson, has captured an advantage through appointment by Governor O'Neal or election by the people for the short term.

Underwood and Short Term.

Mr. Underwood had not expected to contest for the short term senatorship, although his opponent, Representative Richmond P. Hobson, had announced his candidacy for both the unexpired term of Senator Johnston and the six-year term beginning in 1915. Governor Emmet O'Neal had appointed Representative Henry D. Clayton to fill this position, but the senate failed to accept the latter's credentials and would possibly treat any subsequent appointment of the governor in the same way.

Mr. Clayton formally advised President Wilson this morning of his decision to accede to the president's wishes and withdraw from the Alabama senatorship race. He also tendered his resignation as senator to the governor. Governor O'Neal is in Washington and immediately announced that he would make another appointment, maintaining that he has the power to do so under the new constitutional amendment. His contention is that the limitations on executive appointments to fill vacancies do not apply to the "term" of any senator elected before that amendment became operative.

Next Term Is Involved.

The next senatorial term is thus intimately involved in the present vacancy. If Mr. Underwood should be designated by the governor, as is likely, and the senate should seat him, he would have a big advantage in the race for re-election. The same advantage would go to Mr. Hobson if he were successful, and the latter has announced his candidacy for both the long and short term. Mr. Underwood is known to prefer to serve out his present term in the house, but will become a candidate for the senate immediately rather than imperil his chances for election to the full term.

As the present legislature in Alabama is hostile to Governor O'Neal, the governor has refrained from calling it in extra session to authorize him to make an appointment. It is held that the governor may call a popular election without convening the legislature.

Mr. Hobson has been campaigning in Alabama for a year, delivering lectures on the navy and on temperance. He will make an aggressive speech-making campaign. President Wilson's intervention in the fight is thought to have strengthened Mr. Underwood's chances.

Clayton Yields to President.

In making public his letter to President Wilson tonight, Mr. Clayton reiterated the brief statement he made yesterday in acceding to the president's wish that he remain in the house.

"I can do no less than follow the express and repeated wish of the president to remain in the house and continue as chairman of the great judiciary committee, provided, of course, the wishes of the democrats in the third congressional district of Alabama are in harmony with the expressed judgment and desire of the head of the party.

"I have therefore tendered to the governor of Alabama my resigaation of the appointment to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Sena-

Clayton's Letter to Wilson.

Representative Clayton's letter to President Wilson follows

"Dear Mr President Your letter of October 10 was duly delivered by special messenger Of course it gave me great pleasure to know your kind opinion of my past services and the possibilities of usefulness you consider me capable of in the succeeding sessions of congress My work heretofore in this connection with you has been exceedingly pleasant I have been in hearty sympathy with all your patriotic plans and purposes in so far as I have known them

I have consulted with such friends as I could reach and they have agreed with me that I should look upon the wish expressed by you, as the head of the party, as imperative I will therefore give notice of my intention to remain in the house during the present congress and retire from the race for senate from Alabama and submit the matter of my re-election as representative to the loyal democrats of the third congressional district of Alabama

I want to say to you formally what I said to you in person in our conversation at the white house last night that I am very deeply appreciative of and grateful for the great compliment you have paid me in your letter

Sincerely yours,
HENRY D CLAYTON

Statement by Governor O'Neal.

I have not decided what course I will follow as regards filling the vacancy resulting from Senator Johnston's death said Governor O'Neal tonight As the senate has not yet passed on Mr Clayton's credentials its situation is the same as when the vacancy first occurred I have no doubt in my own mind of my right to appoint a temporary successor to Senator Johnston but I will not act in the matter until after returning to Montgomery and consulting with legal advisers There seem to be conflicting opinions in the state as to whether the governor may appoint or whether he must call the legislature into special session before an election can be called Wilson Wants Underwood in House.

Governor O'Neal would give no intimation today as to whom he would select as successor to Mr Clayton for the natural post in case he determined that he would again make an original appointment Suggestions in democratic circles that the appointee might be Representative Oscar Underwood who is a candidate for the long session term beginning in 1915 brought out statements from many democrats that they believed President Wilson has desired Mr Underwood to remain in the house as a support to administration policies at least through the next session of congress

Farmer Won't Oppose Clayton.

Dothan Ala October 11—Bird G Farmer who had announced for the Clayton seat in congress when Mr Clayton decided to run for the senate this evening wrote Mr Clayton a letter in which he withdrew from the race and pledged his support to Clayton After congratulating Mr Clayton on his announced attitude in according to President Wilson's implied suggestion that he remain in the house Mr Farmer says

You can count on my earnest support to help you carry out the wishes of the president and keep you in your present place in the service of the government"

Try to White-Wash Pimples

People Who Attempt to Hide Unsightly Pimples Behind Paint and Powder, Clog Their Pores and Coarsen Their Skin

Pimples are the source of the greatest chagrin and humiliation to the sensitive girl anxious for the admiration that beauty receives And it is only natural that she tries to hide them behind paint and powder

She little realizes however what almost irreparable injury she inflicts on her skin that with the clogging and enlarging of the pores of the skin The impurities in the blood that these pimples have to work out not only cause but on the short sighted basis of "first aid to the injured" she has spoiled whatever beauty was left her

There's No Use Trying, I Can't Hide Pimples With Paint.

If she only knew how easily pimples can be cured with Stuarts Calcium Wafers she would never use cosmetics again just as soon as her blood has been cleansed by the purifying agents of this wonderful medicine all the foul conditions of her skin—pimples blackheads freckles and liver spots—would quickly disappear And the rosy cheeks and rich glowing colors of a healthy natural complexion will be a hundredfold more attractive than any she could possibly get out of a paint box or a powder rag

Stuarts Calcium Wafers flush into the blood convert the impurities that have gathered in the pores into a gaseous form that readily escapes through the pore At the same time they stimulate the pores into throwing off the foul matter that has accumulated about them The result is that the blood and skin are quickly freed of all impurities and restored to a healthy vigorous condition With pure blood a healthy beautiful skin will follow as certainly as day follows night

135 LIVES ARE LOST WHEN STEAMER BURNS

The burning steamer lay in the trough of the sea pounding helplessly with her propellers fouled by the boat's tackle The terrified passengers were huddled together as far as it was possible to get from the flames while throughout the day the officers and crew fought desperately with whatever appliances were at hand to hold the fire in check But night came on and the seas abated only slightly The crew of steamer kept their searchlights playing and waited patiently within the danger zone for the first moment when they might again launch the lifeboats

The hopelessness of the situation was manifested at 3 o'clock in the evening when a great explosion tore away a part of the upper works and flames burst from the engine room It then became a matter of how long the Volturno would stay above the waves

Passengers Dropped Into Sea.

Meanwhile several of the terrified passengers wrapped in life blows dropped over into the sea One of this was Luigi Bocca the Carmania It may be that other found haven with other vessels of the fleet but some undoubtedly were swept away

When day broke the Volturno was still afloat The gale had moderated and the sea had calmed down almost every one of the remaining steamer lifeboats was sent out and into these the women and children were lowered first Several trips were necessary before the survivors were removed to a place of safety

It is pointed out as a remarkable coincidence that the Volturno about four years ago made a notable rescue in a great storm in mid Atlantic of the crew of a French vessel Captain Harrison who then commanded the Volturno was decorated by the French government for his daring act

A Perfect Sight.

It was a terrifying sight to see the passengers and crew of the Carmania as soon as close to them the hundreds of passengers in fighting women and children in horror stricken fear on the decks of the Volturno and yet be unable to help them

Most of the passengers got into the Volturnos lifeboats but a hundred of them had gathered at the after end of the burning vessel whose crew at the same time continued in vain to fight the fire at her forward end

Captain Barr of the Carmania in the meanwhile kept his wireless apparatus at work communicating with all the vessels within the radius of his instruments

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the Grosser Kurfurst and the Seydlitz came in sight and these two were joined later in the afternoon by the Kroonland the Devonian and Rappahannock the Minneapolis of Touraine and the Asian Waves Too High for Boats.

The gale moderated slightly toward night and each of the succoring ships as soon as it was possible for her to do so put out boats from her davits and lowered them to the sea The waves however were so high that although the small craft made some progress in the direction of the Volturno it was impossible for them to get alongside and they returned to their ships in most cases doing this with the greatest difficulty owing to the overwhelming seas and the darkness of the night

The Carmania kept her searchlights going throughout the night throwing their rays across the foaming seas in the quest for possible struggling swimmers or lifeboats from the Volturno

At about 9 o'clock in the evening when the darkness was at its blackest flames burst through amidships of the Volturno from her engine room and coal bunkers As the fire lighted up the sky this was followed by an explosion which sent into the air burning wreckage like a light of rockets The spectacle of the great vessel being consumed by fire with over 500 souls on board of her and surrounded by a fleet of huge lighted hulls crowded with thousands of spectators all anxious but unable to help owing to the mountainous seas was heartbreaking

All That Could Be Done.

All that could be done as the would be helpers were to throw overboard from their vessels dozens of lighted life buoys and stand by in the hope of picking up some of those who had been cast into the sea

At 10 o'clock last night the wireless operator on board the Volturno had to turn over the connection of his instrument to the reserve batteries as the fire had reached the boilers and the engine room and had put the pumps and dynamos out of action

A few minutes later cries for help were heard rising from the water near the Carmania and then a man who proved to be a first cabin passenger of the Volturno wearing a life belt, was located by means of the searchlight a short distance away tossed about by the sea He was rescued but only after one of the sailors of the Carmania had been lowered into the water with a life line which he placed around the waist of the exhausted floating man

Other cries were heard but these gradually died away and no further bodies or swimming people were seen

About midnight a ray of hope came for it was seen that the flames were not making much headway aft of the engine room of the after bulk head of the Volturno

By daybreak the Volturno was still floating with her great human cargo huddled in masses on her poop The sea had moderated considerably and a flotilla of boats gathered round the stern of the Volturno

CABIN PASSENGERS ON ILL-FATED SHIP

New York, October 11—The Uranium Line was without direct information concerning the loss of the steamer Volturno up to 9 o'clock this morning. They stated that according to their information she had on board twenty-five cabin passengers, 278 steerage passengers for New York, and 262 for Halifax and a crew of 93 men They had received from Rotterdam a list of sixteen of the cabin passengers. The list follows

Rubin Reimer, aged 20 Marriana Mrzygod 17, Jossee Farber, 15, John Krug 32, Frieda Krug 39, Hine Friedman, 16 Esther Kaplan 19 Hedwig Lberle 38 Carl Tepper, 45 Hode Tepper 14 Berl Tepper, 14 Emma Tepper, 9 Faike Tepper 8 Leibe epper, 39; Michael Sahfin 47 Armande Antoine 11

All of the above were bound for New York

The Volturno was commanded by Captain Ink who has been five years in the service of the Uranium Line

The Volturno was built by Fairfield & Co at Glasgow in 1906 She was 540 feet long with a 7-foot beam Her gross tonnage was 2 581 net 2 308

On this voyage she carried a cargo of 91 tons consisting of non-combustible chemicals, manufactured cotton goods mineral waters and liquors

When Edward O Thomas, general manager of the lines office here, and Carl G Forman, genral passenger agent reached their desks shortly after 9 o'clock this morning they found the offices were besieged by reporters, but were without any advice whatsoever They sent a cablegram to their general agent at Halifax asking if he had received any word of the disaster, and at 9 30 were waiting for a reply

LIFE-SAVING APPARATUS CARRIED BY STEAMER

New York October 11—The Volturno sailed under an inspection certificate given by the British board of trade and was required only to come up to the British standards in fire protection and life saving apparatus In some particulars it fell short of the American standards

The last inspection here by the United States steamboat inspection bureau was made in December 1912, when the inspectors found the following life-saving equipment

	Total capacity
Fourteen wooden life boats	600
Two collapsible life boats	108
One folding boat Berthon type	51
One ordinary life boat	40
Six life rafts	114
Total	906

The total carrying capacity of the steamer was listed at 1,504 persons including the crew The regulations required that 1,500 life preservers and life belts be carried but at the time of the inspection last December, the United States officers found that only 1,282 were carried and the steamship officials were forced to supply the deficiency in this respect before the Volturno was allowed to sail

Under American standards every steamer of 1,000 tons or over must be equipped with eight hand extinguishers distributed about the ship The Volturno—581 tons—would have been required to carry twenty-three or twenty-eight hand extinguishers The Volturno however, under the British regulations carried no hand extinguishers Her fire protection consisted of three double action steam fire pumps each less than a cubic foot in size two double action hand pumps and only 450 feet of hose

NO NATIVE AMERICANS ON THE BURNED VESSEL

New York October 11—Indications are that there were no native born Americans on the steamship Volturno A nearly complete passenger list received here from Rotterdam showed that practically all on board were immigrants mostly bound for Canada

Of the steerage passengers bound for Halifax 250 were adults 41 children and ten infants Only one cabin passenger was booked for Halifax Of the steerage passengers bound for New York 212 were adults 38 children and three infants The total number of young children and babies aboard was 97

Immigrants on board the Volturno were composed of Russians Dalmatians Poles and a few Germans Most of them were bound for Canada

DICTATOR HUERTA DEFENDS HIS RAID

said that in the opinion of the executive the desire of the obstructionists in congress was first to prevent the elections and failing in that to declare them void for the purpose of keeping General Huerta in power This done they would point out to the United States the imperialistic attitude of Huerta attributing his retention of the presidency to his machinations then purpose being to secure support to the revolutionary cause

The minister of foreign relations called on the diplomatic representatives today and explained at length the attitude of the administration and General Huerta's desire to hold the elections as planned

The deputies are still in prison A report which is current to the effect that some of them had been killed is without foundation The government officials apparently have not made up their minds as to what disposition to make of them

The American charge, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, was besieged today by the wives of the imprisoned deputies More than a dozen of them called at the embassy and implored him to use his influence to obtain the release of their husbands and secure guarantees for their safety President Huerta assured Mr O'Shaughnessy tonight that none of the deputies would be mistreated

A proclamation was issued at midnight calling for new elections of senators and deputies on October 26, which date is coincident with the presidential election

Huerta Makes Himself Dictator.

Provisional President Huerta's coup, whereby he rid himself of congress and constituted himself dictator of Mexico, has left the capital in a state of tense expectancy

Dissolution of congress was not wholly unexpected but the manner of its accomplishment demonstrated the lengths to which the executive was prepared to go to maintain his grasp upon administrative affairs

Senator Dominguez, whose attack on the provisional president in the senate was the starting point of the row, has not come to light Having determined upon his line of conduct he made his will and bade his family good-bye, declaring that he expected to pay for his effort with his life By many the senator is believed to have gone aboard

The unexplained absence from his seat in the senate and the disappearance from his residence of Senator Belizaro Dominguez was what precipitated the heated debate in the chamber of deputies' secret session, which resulted in a warning being conveyed to Provisional President Huerta that unless the deputies were assured of their personal safety they would meet elsewhere than in the capitol

A resolution was adopted informing Huerta that the deputies placed their lives under his specific protection and holding him responsible for any violation of immunity from arrest

Senator Dominguez dropped from sight yesterday after his speech made in the senate early this month attacking the Huerta policies

The only information obtained by the committee appointed to investigate his disappearance was from Senator Dominguez's little son, who said that a policeman had taken his father away from the hotel

Supporting the resolution offered by the Chiapas state delegation Deputy Eduardo Nori declared that with the recent elimination of Dr Aurelliano Urrutia as minister of the interior he had believed there would be an end to such disappearances

Huerta Raises Black Flag of Infamy.

"We have seen" said Nori "that Deputies Gurrion and Rendon died, the latter in such a manner that his remains cannot be found We must take energetic action The executive has raised the black flag of infamy We must raise the red flag of sacrifice and faith"

Deputy Armando Ostos delivered the appeal for the appointment of an investigating committee even at the risk of its life which if it finds Senator Dominguez has perished shall accuse the persons responsible, even if they include the president of the republic"

A committee was appointed to interrogate the governor of the federal district and interior Minister Aldape. It reported that neither official was able to explain the disappearance of Dominguez

The dissolution of the national congress was based upon the alleged usurpation by the deputies and senators of the prerogatives of the chief executive in the matter of Senator Dominguez

Called to Police Chief.

The deputies, who had listened sullenly to the reading by Manuel Garza Aldape the minister of interior of General Huerta's reply moved at its conclusion to refer the president's demand to committee and a motion was put to adjourn Minister Aldape interposed an objection saying that the president required immediate action At this the deputies demurred and persisted in putting the motion to adjourn Thereupon the minister of the interior signalled to Chief of Police Chavez, who was stationed on the balcony

The chief of police came down to the floor of the chamber with 200 police Senor Aldape then read the names of the signers of the resolution and when the names were called the deputies were taken into custody Among the deputies placed under arrest are Rodolfo Reyes a son of the late General Bernardo Reyes and former provisional minister of justice and Jorge Espinol Pozzi provisional minister of public instruction Nearly all the men imprisoned are members of the liberal party

Washington, October 11—Although latest advices to the state department tonight declared the deputies arrested by order of Provisional President Huerta had been released from prison, the dissolution of the Mexican congress and the invasion of the legislative halls by armed troops caused the Washington government practically to lose all hope of seeing a constitutional election held on October 26, or the pacification of the country brought about through the authorities in power at present in Mexico City A crisis is expected in the Mexican capital

Administration officials pointed to President Wilson's reference in his address to congress last August that "the true state of affairs in Mexico soon would be revealed Evidence that the federal troops are disgruntled and on the verge of mutiny because they have not been paid, and the comparatively easy successes of the constitutionalists in capturing such important places as Torreon in north central Mexico, were significantly referred to by Washington officials as revelations of the real situation

Huerta Is Virtually Dictator.

The establishment of a virtual dictatorship by Huerta through the use of military forces is interpreted as likely to have the most far reaching consequences to the Huerta regime It also was held as a vindication of the attitude of the Washington administration that military assumption of power should not be recognized, and there is hope now among high officials that foreign governments which hitherto has recognized the Huerta regime would withdraw their support There was no official pronouncement of policy today, but the American government is quietly preparing for any emergencies that may arise Its advices show the improbability of an election on October 26 not only because of the successes of constitutionalist arms but numerous illegalities in connection with the preliminary arrangements of an election

The dissolution of congress by force is plainly looked upon here as an unconstitutional act

At the cabinet meeting next Tuesday, a full discussion of the situation is expected though Acting Secretary John Bassett Moore briefly talked over the dispatches with President Wilson today

U. S. Battleships in Mexic Waters.

There is a possibility that developments in Mexico may bring about some change in the detail of American battleships in Mexican waters Senor Huerta's pointed declaration recently in his message to congress, that the six months period allowed foreign war vessels in Mexican waters would expire on October 26, and would not be renewed, caused the navy department at that time to order the Rhode Island, Nebraska, New Jersey and Virginia to go to Vera Cruz to relieve the Louisiana, South Carolina, New Hampshire and Michigan

It was in accordance with the right, under ordinary conditions of the Mexican authorities, to limit the time that foreign vessels might remain in their ports Today it was stated at the navy department that the four ships would sail from Hampton Roads on October 27 for Vera Cruz

The American government probably will follow the letter of Huerta's declaration, however, changing the vessel every thirty days as provided by international law Should unexpected developments occur and American lives be endangered, all vessels may be retained by the United States

The Atlanta Constitution,

City.

Gentlemen:-

Wednesday, October first, we inserted an ad. in your paper of Ladies' Trimmed Hats at $4.95, intending to sell 100 of them. Before 11 o'clock 150 were sold- and telegraph orders, mail orders, etc. made 50 more. Our Trimming Department became almost blocked so great were the sales.

One telegram from a city 100 miles from Atlanta ordered two. In one hour they were on their way by express. October 4th we received the following letter:-

"The two hats ordered by wire were received this A. M. by express. Find enclosed the check for the amount of same, $9.95. I appreciate your kindness in shipping them out to me so promptly. It has always been a pleasure for me to deal with your firm."

Which goes to show the value of the Constitution in an advertising way backed up by prompt work of the advertiser. We always make it the first point of our business to be "wide awake" and serve all promptly.

Dear Sir.-

The results from our advertisement which appeared in your paper Friday morning last have been most satisfactory.

Our sales were exceptionally good, especially on the Chifforobe and complete bed outfit. Many customers who responded to this ad bought much merchandise which had not been featured in the ad.

If the results are as great from our ad which appears in your paper Sunday as the results from Friday's ad Monday will be indeed BIG MONDAY AT THE BIG STORE.

Assuring you of our future co-operation, we remain,

Very Respectfully,

Dear Sirs,-

It may be gratifying to you to know that the results I received from the full page advertisement in last Sunday's Constitution, exceeded my greatest expectations.

My North side store, 167 Peachtree street, recently opened, did its largest day's business following the insertion of our opening advertisement in the Constitution.

The South Side store, at 29 West Mitchell street, had more business Monday and Tuesday of this week than we could possibly wait on.

I was surprised at the people that visited these stores who heretofore never had been in either of our stores. The response was most pleasing as there were no prices quoted in the entire page.

I am sending you some follow up copy to begin next Sunday, October 12, advertising our North side store.

Thanking you for the assistance I have received from your Advertisers' Service, I am,

Yours Very Truly,

WHITAKER IS WILLING TO PAY ALIMONY NOW

Homer A. Whitaker, son of J. W. Whitaker, one of the candidates for sheriff, was released from jail yesterday, where he was placed on September 3 for failure to follow the order of the court and pay $45 in back alimony to his wife, Mrs. Eula C. Whitaker.

Young Whitaker, who remained locked up over a month, declared at the time that he would never pay the alimony. He was released Saturday on habeas corpus proceedings, and when through his attorney, Edgar Nealey, he had pleaded that his poverty and the fact that he was in jail kept him from paying the allmony. He promised to pay it as soon as possible.

Fence Barrier in Center of City Ordered Torn Down by Mayor

This fence, at the corner of Alabama and Broad, has been ordered down by Mayor Woodward.

Acting under instructions from Mayor Woodward, the police served notice on the representatives of the A. W. Calhoun estate to tear down the fence barrier erected around the building at the corner of Alabama and Broad streets.

In going over the council papers Saturday morning, Mayor Woodward discovered that the permit did not give authority to extend the fence into the street, but it appears that the contractor built the fence first and went to council for the permit afterward.

Several complaints were made to the mayor about the obstruction, and he made a personal investigation, and was astounded when he saw that the contractor built the fence over the sidewalk to within four feet of the car track. Not only did the fence block off one side of Alabama street but it cut off one side of Broad street.

"It's a shame the way contractors abuse the privileges the city allows them," Mayor Woodward said. "Here is a permit which says that the fence must not extend over the sidewalk, and yet the contractor erects it close to the car track.

"The city code and amendments by ordinance limit the powers of council in the matter of granting permits. I don't believe that council has the right, legally, to issue a permit for an obstruction of the sidewalk. However, it has been done for the benefit of contractors and in the interest of progress. But when a contractor closes in two streets and goes so close to the car track as to make it unsafe for pedestrians, I believe it is time to call a halt."

Mayor Woodward also investigated the permit issued to Contractor Spalding to erect a fence in front of the Smith property on Peachtree between Linden avenue and Merritts, but he found that the contractor moved the fence back to conform with the instructions of the construction department.

Wesley Memorial Fund Has Start of $8,000 Without Solicitation

Before the campaign for raising the Wesley Memorial hospital fund of $200,000 has even started, $8,000 of the amount has been raised and stands to the credit of the fund in the bank.

From unsolicited donations up to yesterday, $2,000 was deposited, and, according to the oringinal offer of Asa G. Candler, he immediately added three times that figure to the account, making the total $8,000.

Active solicitation in the campaign for raising the entire fund, however, is to start this week. Of the $200,000 fund, Asa G. Candler is to give $150,000 on condition that the other $50,000 be raised by general subscription, and he has offered to prorate his donation by giving three times whatever amount, large or small, is raised otherwise.

At a meting of the executive committee Friday, at which ways and means were discussed for the campaign, it was decided that only one lady from each church would be authorized to receive payments for the fund. The plea for subscriptions will not, however, be limited to the Methodist congregations of Atlanta, but will include every denomination, and from promises already received the indications are that the movement will receive widespread support from the people of Atlanta.

2 MACON SALOONISTS FINED FOR CONTEMPT

However, Other Dealers Who Have Been Enjoined Are Continuing to Sell Liquor.

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—In the superior court today Charles Bekakes and W. C. Byrd were each fined $100 on charges of contempt of court for violating a restraining order against the sale of intoxicating liquor.

There were two charges of contempt against each one of the men, one that they had sold intoxicating beer and the other that they sold whisky. It was in the whisky case that they were found guilty and fined, the beer case being dismissed.

A number of near beer saloons which have recently been enjoined by Judge Mathews are going right ahead selling beer as though nothing had happened, despite the warning of Judge Mathews that he would show no mercy if they violated his order. The saloon men are making it a point to see that those who buy their beer stand at the bar and drink it. None is permitted to be taken away in bottles, so that it might be analyzed.

JUDGE SPEER BETTER; BACK FROM HIGHLANDS

Mt. Airy, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Judge Emory Speer and his family have returned from Highlands, N. C. Judge Speer is fast regaining his strength after a severe illness while at Highlands.

Don't allow your horse to go too long without shoeing. You can train the shape of the foot easier by keeping him well shod and prevent trouble arising from shoes remaining on too long.

Service Stripe May Be Given Guardsmen For 3 Years' Service

If a recommendation recently made by Lieutenant Colonel Orville E. Hall, in command of the Fifth regiment of the national guard during Colonel E. E. Pomeroy's leave of absence, to Adjutant General Nash is adopted, the men of the Fifth will be the first, in the national guard to be honored with a service stripe for each three-year enlistment.

A number of the men have served three or more terms of enlistment and the majority of them have served two, and it is thought that the distinction which would go with service stripes would be a great incentive to continued service and also a great inducement to other possible recruits. The plan already has the approval of Adjutant General Nash, and it is hoped to have the war department issue an official order authorizing the stripes within the next few days.

GARBAGE PILES GROW: TYPHOID INCREASES

Chicago, October 11.—Drastic action in the city garbage disposal problem was taken today. Taxpayers of the twenty-sixth ward applied for an injunction to prevent the dumping of refuse in the big clay hole in that ward, and Mayor Harrison declared he would ask the city council to authorize him to begin condemnation proceedings against the Chicago Reduction company, whose plant recently terminated its contract with the city.

The typhoid rate this week increased 4 per cent over last week, and 60 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.

By mixing a little alfalfa seed with the clover and timothy every time one seeds down to grass, it will be possible to soon have the whole farm inoculated with alfalfa bacteria.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF CONSTIPATED, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Best Liver and Bowel Regulator for Mamma, Daddy and Children.

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" tonight and in the morning all the constipation poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for baby. It simply can not injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.

STATE FAIR TO BE A RECORD BREAKER

Agricultural Exhibits and the Special Features Will Be More Elaborate Than Ever Before.

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—With a number of new features arranged for which have never before been seen at the Georgia State fair, the 1913 fair, which will open its gates to the people of Georgia Tuesday, October 21, and continue for the following ten days, gives every promise of breaking all past records, both from an educational and an entertaining point of view.

Thirteen counties have already applied for space for displays of their agricultural products, and the indications are that the competition this year for the cash prizes will be keener than in previous years, when Gid Morris, of Cobb; Mrs. Monk, of Worth, and other regular exhibitors at the fair have had a walkaway with the money. This year has been a good crop year in Georgia, and reports from the county exhibitors are that they will have some surprises to spring this year in the shape of products grown in Georgia.

All of the space in the agricultural hall has been applied for, and Secretary Robert is having a hard time locating a number of the late comers, though he states he will find space for all of them, even if he has to put up some tents.

Canning Clubs' Exhibit.

Probably the most attractive building on the fair grounds this year will by the old music hall. But it will not give forth strains of sweet music this year, but instead pleasant odors of things which arouse the inner man and make him imagine that it is dinner time, will be wafted through the crowd—for it is here that three or four hundred Georgia girls who believe in the "back to the farm" theory will have on display the results of their summer's work in the girls' canning clubs of the state. There will be more than the mere exhibits of what the girls have done. They will give demonstrations in canning fruits and vegetables, showing the latest and best methods disseminating among others the doctrine which has been taught them during the summer by their instructors. There will be twenty-eight counties represented in the displays of the girls' canning clubs, and all will be under the supervision of Miss Mary E. Creswell, of the State College of Agriculture.

Each county having a girls' canning club will send a certain number of the prize winners to the fair as a reward for their work. These young women are to be taken into the homes of Macon women and entertained while here. Already arrangements have been made for about 150 of them, and others are being provided for daily.

In the building with the canning club display will be the exhibits of the boys' corn clubs, which will be in charge of J. Phil Campbell. The State College of Agriculture will also have its agricultural and dairy exhibit in this building, the idea being to assemble the work of the state college under one roof. There will be nothing in the state college building that does not typify the work of that institution.

Fine Poultry Show.

The usual displays of live stock and poultry will be seen at the fair this year, and provision has been made for taking care of fully twice as many head of cattle as were shown at the fair last year. One new building, with a capacity of 100 head, has just been completed.

In the poultry show a number of exhibitors from a distance will have their birds on display. Among these will be a large exhibit of pheasants, and it is stated that the exhibitor will submit a plan for stocking the state of Georgia with these birds without one cent of expense to the state.

From an amusement standpoint the fair this year will be a hummer. Secretary Robert decided it would be best to book his attractions independently this year, and by doing so he has gotten together a choice lot of attractions. Heretofore the fair has signed up one company to supply the attractions, with the result that maybe there were two or three good things, and the rest just thrown in to fill up with.

Auto Polo Games.

Outside of the regular midway attractions this year the fair has arranged for the appearance of Barnum & Bailey circus on October 24, and has signed an entirely new attraction to this part of the country and one that promises thrills aplenty. This is the game of auto polo. The baseball park will be used for this purpose day and night. There will be six machines and ten players to participate in the games, though not all at the same time, some of the machines and players being held in reserve in case of accident, which is nothing unusual. At times during the games the machines are said to attain a speed of 55 miles an hour. All of the players who will be brought are experts.

The International Fireworks company has been engaged to give free nightly displays of fireworks. This company was seen at the Tennessee state fair this year and gave satisfaction and was snapped up by Secretary Robert as a great improvement over other fireworks displays which have been seen at the state fair in years gone by.

The fair visitors this year will have the opportunity of seeing themselves as others see them. Arrangements have been made with a motion picture company to take a series of pictures during the fair including the exhibits, buildings, races and the crowds. There will be a story picture to continue from day to day, the picture man to choose his subjects from the crowd. A novel feature will be that the pictures taken during the morning will be shown on the grounds afternoon and evening.

Fine Horse Racing.

Horse racing is to be a new attraction this year. Already between fifty and sixty horses have been entered for the various events. A large number of these horses are animals which participated in races at the fairs in Memphis, Nashville and Birmingham and come from the latter city to Macon. H. E. F. Jones, of Cartersville, has three good horses entered and there are two good Macon horses in the list: Nellie Gentry, owned by Dan O'Connell, and Puss Irvine, owned by W. E. Youngblood. The feature race is to be the 2:20 trot and a purse of $1,000 has been offered for this event. Other purses average about $400.

T. B. HIGDON MOVES LAW OFFICES INTO NEW HURT BUILDING

T. B. Higdon, one of the most successful of the younger men at the Atlanta bar, has moved his offices to the new Hurt building, where he has suite 1523.

Mr. Higdon is by birth a North Carolinian, and was educated at the state university there, his scholarship being recognized by membership in the Phi Beta Kappa, a national honorary society, admission to which is gained only by scholarship. He practiced law in his native state for two years, but for more than four years has identified himself with the Atlanta bar.

He is secretary of the North Carolina society and of the University of North Carolina Alumni Association of Atlanta, and president of the Georgia Association of Phi Beta Kappa members.

Sharing his new offices will be E. Hilliard.

HOKE SMITH ATTACKED BY JUDGE HUTCHENS

Senator Charged With Discriminating Against Underwood Men in Appointments.

Rome, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Judge G. R. Hutchens, one of north Georgia's leading citizens, has issued a card to the press in which he vigorously attacks the course of Senator Hoke Smith in reference to appointments to federal office in the state, and the discrimination against Underwood men who, he says, have been "spit upon, outlawed and kicked out of the party through the influence and approval of Senator Smith." Judge Hutchens intimates that the people will not forget this when they have an opportunity at the polls to express their preference.

Mr. Hutchens has long been influential in Georgia politics.

Judge Hutchesons' Card.

His article in full is as follows:

"I have watched in a spirit of fairness, the manipulation of Senator Hoke Smith in reference to the appointments to federal office in Georgia by the administration, and I presume that I am not the only man in the state who has noticed the rank partisanship in every instance. He seems to have forgotten that there are many democrats in Georgia who do not approve this course.

"In the presidential primary last year Mr. Underwood carried the state by approximately 15,000 majority, and in the final election the Underwood supporters were very active, and by their diligence succeeded in polling, I believe, the largest majority cast in any national election in years. This was the case, notwithstanding the regular republican organization and Roosevelt progressives were the most active opponents that the democratic organization has had in a long while. However, I am in a position to know that the 15,000 majority against Governor Wilson in the primary was not so much the result of opposition to him as it was opposition to Senator Smith. This most everybody knows.

"Outlawed and Spit Upon."

"Nothwitstanding the loyalty of the Underwood supporters in the final election in giving their support and contributing their money—these thousands of democrats have been spit upon, outlawed and kicked out of the party and denied decognition through the infludenied recognition of Senator Smith.

"He has openly defied the great majority of democrats in this state, and seeks to punish them because they did not toss their cap in the air at sight of him, or shout in ecstacy at the sound of his voice. Very well, these democrats will not decline his challenge, but will engage in the combat soon, and we will have a repetition of the fall which has usually preceded such arrogance and pride as Senator Smith is exercising.

"These democrats, together with thousands of others to whom he refused to submit his candidacy at the time he was elected senator by the legislature, will have a chance to express their preference at the ballot box. They are not cowards and know how to vindicate themselves and resent their disfranchisement and rebuke his dictatorial high-handed policies.

"The people of Georgia will not surrender the democratic party of the state into any one man's hands. This, if it were done, would be a crucifixion of the fundamental principles of democracy which all men know to be government by the people and not by any one man, or by any favored few.

"Yours very truly,

"G. R. HUTCHENS."

NEW PLAN ADVOCATED FOR WEST POINT PLACES

Washington, October 11.—Strong opposition to abatement of the severity of examinations at the military academy is voiced by Superintendent Colonel Townsley in his annual report just made public. He points out that there has been a steady increase in the proportion of applicants appearing for examination, who pass, and also of the number of cadets who graduate from the academy as compared with the number of entrants.

To insure full utilization of the educational advantages of the academy the superintendent suggests a radical change in the method of appointing cadets through senators and representatives. He would throw these desirable places open to the youth of the nation as the result of competitive examinations to be conducted by boards in the various sections of the country and successful candidates would thus be relieved from the necessity of passing entrance examination to the academy.

Superintendent Townsley asserts that only 44 per cent of the officers of the army are West Pointers. This he believes could be corrected if the academy were filled to its capacity for a few years.

HE CONVICTS HIMSELF OF ANOTHER MURDER

Chicago, October 11.—Harry Spencer, slayer of Mrs. Mildred Allison-Rexroat, convicted himself of another murder today. He was taken today in an automobile by Captain Halpin, of the detective bureau, to scenes of his alleged crimes. After pointing out scenes of a few minor crimes Spencer said, "Now drive to Sixtieth and Washington."

Arriving there, Spencer pointed to the ruins of the Ingram flats, 128 of which were destroyed by fire last Februayr.

"I got sore when I couldn't rent a flat in the place, and set fire to the elevator shaft," explained the prisoner.

Confirmation of Spencer's assertion that it was he who murdered Mrs. Annabel Wight was given to the satisfaction of the detectives when Spencer was taken to the house where the woman was fatally beaten with a hammer. Before entering Spencer described the interior accurately and then guided the detectives about the premises. The investigation will be resumed Monday.

TAKES POT SHOTS AT RAILROAD MAN

Shooting Affray on Tuesday at Bremen Is Followed by Further Trouble Friday. Warrant Sworn Out.

Bremen, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Oli Gray, a local freight conductor for the Southern railroad, running between Heflin, Ala., and Atlanta, and Robert Green, of this place, engaged in a shooting affair, Tuesday afternoon in the Southern yards here, the former using a pistol, the latter a shotgun, resulting in Gray receiving a few small shot in the face and hand. Green escaped unhurt.

The trouble, it is alleged, grew out of Gray's too frequent visits to Green's home after having been warned to stay away.

Green, today, took two more shots at Gray as he was pulling out of the freight yards here, but his aim proved bad. A warrant was sworn out for Green, who was later released under bond.

WEEKS' DEATH STILL UNSOLVED MYSTERY; BROTHERS MAY ACT

Valdosta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) The mystery surrounding the death of David Weeks, the young farmer whose body was found floating in a pool of water near the tracks of the Georgia and Florida railroad, six miles south of Valdosta last Sunday, remains unsolved.

It developed today that the stomach of the dead man, which was removed and reported to have been sent to the state chemist in Atlanta, to determine whether he died from poison, as suspected, was never forwarded to the chemist, but reposes instead in a sealed vessel in a safe at the county courthouse. The enforcement of a regime of strict economy and retrenchment by the board of county commissioners, is given as the reason for failing to forward the organs to Atlanta, the commissioners not feeling inclined to "foot" the expense. The brothers of the dead man are satisfied that he was murdered and resent the supposition that he committed suicide. It is probable that Weeks' stomach will be sent away by his brothers for a chemical analysis.

The grand jury will meet in Valdosta on Monday to rendor their verdict, and the general impression is that they will find that Weeks came to his death by his own hand.

SPRINGERS TO OPEN NEW BUILDING SOON

Some day this week Mr. and Mrs. L. Springer will open their new building on Whitehall street near Mitchell. An entire building has been erected for their millinery, fur and women's suits business.

Mr. and Mrs. Springer for twenty-five years have been among the leading business men and women of Atlanta. Mrs. Springer is a leader in benevolent enterprises of women's organizations. She has conducted benefits for prisoners at the federal prison for nine years, giving special attention to Sunday school work at that institution.

Griffin Jews in Atlanta.

Griffin, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The Jews of Griffin are today celebrating Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, their holiest day of the Jewish calendar year. As the Jews of this city have no synagogue here, they are spending the day of celebration in Atlanta, where several of them went last night and early this morning, to carry out the prescribed method of celebrating the day. The local Jewish stores have been closed in honor of the event since sundown yesterday, but will be re-opened late this afternoon.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

OLD FOLKS FIND CROXONE RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Few Doses Relieve Backache and Bladder Disorders.

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism and the many other kidney ailments which so commonly come with declining years need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

Croxone relieves all such disorders because it reaches the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.—(adv.)

HENSLEE CONFERS WITH HUGH DORSEY

Solicitor General Is Now Preparing for Leo M. Frank's Hearing on Retrial Petition.

Valdosta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Juror A. H. Henslee who has been the storm center in the Frank case during the last ten days, and who is so bitterly assailed by the defense in the motion for a new trial, was in the city today in conference with Solicitor Hugh Dorsey, who is here preparing the state's answers to the motion. Mr Henslee was closeted late this afternoon with Messrs Dorsey, E. A. Stephens and Spurlin, the latter official court reporter in this circuit, who was taking depositions from the ex-juror. These depositions it is understood related to the statements regarding the case made by the ex-juror and covered the affidavits against him filed by citizens of Sparta.

Many of the alleged facts in these affidavits are denied outright by Mr Henslee. Previously Mr. Henslee had stated that he was merely making his usual ninety days' trip through this section as representative of a Barnesville buggy company, and had stopped over to transact business for his house and incidentally to visit his brother-in-law, O. W. Franklin, United States commissioner here.

Henslee reiterated his former statements as to his impartial state of mind when he went on the Frand jury, and again claimed that the Sparta citizens and others who had attacked him in their affidavits were mistaken as to the time of the alleged conversations. He said he had not discussed Frank's guilt or innocence until after the trial. He claims that the only statements he made about the case before the trial which could possibly be construed as inimical to Frank, was that the man who would commit such a crime should be hanged, but that he went into the jury box entirely unprejudiced.

Solicitor Dorsey and his assistant, Attorney Stephens, do not hope to complete their answer to the motion for a new trial before next Saturday, and say that it is doubtful if they can be ready by that time. They have been working every day from an early hour in the morning until long after dark. But do not expect to complete their work under the two weeks originally contemplated by the solicitor.

An order postponing, at Solicitor Hugh Dorsey's request, the hearing of the motion for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, was filed yesterday with Deputy Clerk John H. Jones. It was signed by Judge L. S. Roan and set the hearing for next Saturday.

Solicitor Dorsey and E. A. Stephens, his assistant, are still in Valdosta, where they expect to spend the greater part of the week continuing their work on the answer to the petition of the defense.

The solicitor and Mr. Stephens were given an entertainment last week by several prominent Valdosta attorneys. The affair, which was a stag supper, was held at Ocean Grove club, about 15 miles from Valdosta.

CANDIDATES ARE BUSY IN SECOND DISTRICT

Thomasville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Judge Frank Park, candidate for congress from the second district to fill out the unexpired term of Congressman Roddenbery, was a visitor to Thomasville yesterday in the interest of his race. Judge Park did not atttempt to make any speech, but contented himself with meeting his acquaintances here and making a general handshaking canvass of the places of business.

Mr. Lake is very optimistic in regard to his prospects in the race. He is well known over the district and feels confident that his many friends are going to stand by him. Mr. Covington has not yet been to Thomasville, but will doubtless come soon to interview the voters.

There seems general satisfaction here over the decision of the committee to do away with a primary as it is considered of little use, there being only a handful of colored voters registered here, and it is probable that they will not vote.

PARSON FRAMES PLAN FOR OUSTING TIGERS

Milledgeville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—It has been announced that at the Sunday evening service of the Presbyterian church here, the pastor, Dr. D. W. Brannen will use as his subject "Milledgeville's Two Evils, Whisky and Water." Dr. Brannen says he will suggest a thoroughly feasible way of not only breaking up the blind tiger business here and enforcing the prohibition law, but along with this most important matter, he will discuss a plan for getting good water for the city, which owing to the muddy condition of the water is a subject widely discussed.

VERY PAINFUL ECZEMA ON HANDS

So Sore Could Hardly Put Them in Water. Pimples on Arms Itched and Burned Badly. Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Blenville, La.—"I was troubled with eczema in my hands for several years. They would heal a little and then they would get worse than ever again. They were very painful. The eczema got to breaking out on my arms in pimples which itched and burned very badly.

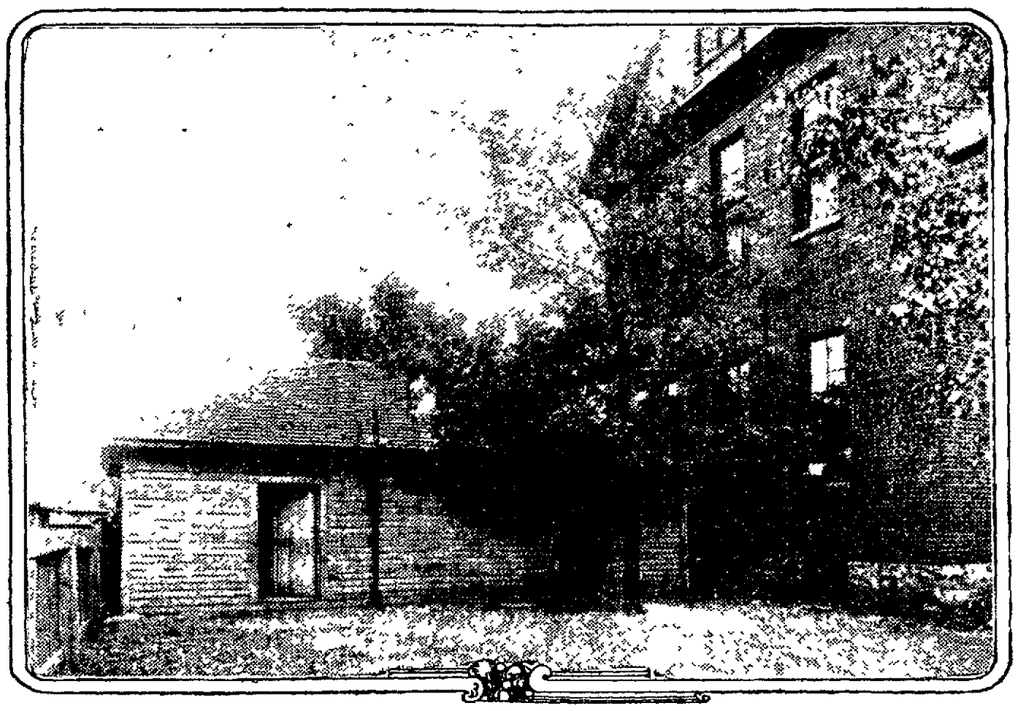

"I used different remedies, also used all kinds of facial creams and ——— on my hands and arms and I did not get any relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I cured my hands and eczema with Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Fannie Mostiller, Oct. 5, 1912.

Mayor Woodward Will Continue Inspection of the Public Schools on Monday Morning

Mayor James G. Woodward will resume his tour of inspection of the public schools Monday morning, according to an announcement he made yesterday.

Before leaving city hall the mayor stated that he was not half through with his probe and he intimated that he will carry his investigation even into the negro schools where, it is charged, barbarous conditions exist.

Unless Mayor Woodward finds conditions worse than in the school he visited Thursday morning, he will not call a special meeting of the school board. His inspection Monday will include the English Avenue school in the fifth ward, where 196 children are crowded in an old wooden building. After his inspection is concluded he will study the district problem with a view of having the board change the districts in order to relieve congestion.

"The only solution I see of the problem is to transfer pupils from the crowded schools to schools where there is plenty of room," he said. "I realize that it will be an inconvenience to some of the children but I don't believe the parents will object in a case like this when the conditions need immediate attention."

Considerable interest is attached to the meeting of the Women's club called by Mrs. Charles J. Haden. The executive committee of the federation will take up the constitution's expose and it is highly probable that resolutions will be sent either to council or the school board.

It was learned Saturday that several parents' clubs will hold meetings during the week for the purpose of discussing the school problems.

Atlanta to See New Models At Her Big Automobile Show Before New York Gets Chance

'Atlanta Always Ahead!'

It refers this time to the Great Southern Automobile show which will be held in the armory auditorium November 11 and the five succeeding days.

At this show Atlanta will see the new models of automobiles and new principles involved in their construction nearly two months before they are seen in the north or the east.

This is another time when Atlanta and Georgia get ahead of New York, for the New York automobile show is not held until January, while every new type of automobile manufactured is brought to Atlanta for exhibition early in November.

With one million dollars worth of new automobiles under the roof of the Auditorium, Atlanta's fourth annual automobile show November 8 to 15 will be set to music this year by Sousa's band.

Here's another one put over on New York. It is the first time in the history of automobile shows in the United States that a band of the magnitude and reputation of that headed by John Philip Sousa has been secured purely for the entertainment of visitors, but the Atlanta committee decided to take a shot at something big and signed a contract to pay Mr. Sousa $7,000 to come here and play twice a day, matinee and night, while the automobile show is in progress. Sousa is to bring fifty-two musicians besides his famous soloists and is to give the same concerts which have attracted so much attention at the big seatern resorts.

A Good Combination.

The combination of the automobile show and Sousa's famous band is one which will, undoubtedly, prove of wide interest. No automobile show in the world has ever yet been given with so expensive a feature, and there is added to this the fact that everything new in the automobile world will be brought here. Every feature will be shown that New York will have at its later show in January, and the visitor to Atlanta in November who may chance to see the New York show in January can well remark 'Oh, we had that down in Georgia two months ago.'"

There are two particular features that will be of special interest in the coming Atlanta show—the increased number of six-cylinder cars and the self-starting devices which have been rapidly perfected, and which may now be applied to almost any make of car.

The "six," many manufacturers claim, is the car of the immediate future, they say it has already come and come to stay. Some of them have gone so far as to stop the manufacture altogether of four-cylinder cars, and are making only sixes. Some are making them, too, at the same and at lower prices than they sold their fours.

There will be shown in the Atlanta auditorium cars of every possible price—from $500 up to $7,500, and, perhaps even higher than that, though when cars get above that figure it is usually and extra trimmings. It is the mean dextra trimmings. It is the medium priced car that the majority of Georgia car owners are most interested in, and these will be shown in by far the largest number.

One interesting opportunity which the show affords to the man who already owns a car as well as the one who expects to buy, is the presence here of mechanics and representatives direct from all the factories through whom can be learned every point and detail any man might want to know about his machine. Hundreds of car owners come here just to learn new points about the cars they are already driving.

Many Tours Planned.

A special feature of the week this year will be a number of automobile tours which will be run to Atlanta from nearby points, as far away as one hundred miles. At this time of the year, the roads are usually in fine shape, and people are generally able to get away for a short time from business.

The good roads question is one that is inseparable from the automobile and the automobile show. The commercial bodies of the state have planned to bring about concerted action next year for wide-spread and effective road improvement, and the preliminary agitation will be made part and parcel of the coming Atlanta automobile show.

The show will be given, as usual, under the auspices of the Atlanta Automobile and Accessory association, and practically the same committee which has been in charge of it for the last two years is making the plans now. This committee is composed of R. N. Reed, chairman, George W. Hanson, J. K. Gewinner, John Toole, C. H. Johnson, George D. McCutcheon, H. A. Price, W. B. McKinstry and Wylie West.

Time Already Here.

The time, which was pointed to a few years ago, when the low and medium-priced automobile and the automobile truck would become necessities instead of the luxuries as they were then regarded has already come. It is a necessity to the business man the merchant, the professional man and the farmer, the farmer as well as the city other man who uses an automobile for business purposes saves time and money by it and under the stress of competition its use is becoming more and more general.

The Atlanta Auditorium is going to be made a thing of beauty for the occasion. The decorations this year will be in blue and white and will in any thing surpass any arrangement that has yet been made of the building. The decorations last year cost $6,000. The railroads will give special rates for the occasion, and it is one of the nicest times of the entire year to visit Atlanta.

Rev. Ivey Called.

Dawson, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Rev. J. A. Ivey, D. D., who resides in Dawson and who, for the past eight years has been pastor of the Baptist church at Leesburg, has been actually called to the pastorate and will doubtless accept, as he has had a successful ministry there and he is held in deservedly high esteem by the entire congregation and the people of Leesburg.

SMALLPOX RAGING IN SPALDING COUNTY

Griffin, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Smallpox continues to rage in the western part of this county. To date some thirty-five cases have been under treatment. County officials have taken the situation in hand and quarantined against that section of the county where the disease is prevalent.

The starting of the epidemic is laid upon a negro from Chattanooga, who visited a negro picnic some weeks ago, while under the fever of the malady, and spread the germs all around. It is expected that still further cases will develop.

NO "ALIAS" ALLOWED TO MRS. PANKHURST

She Will Have Trouble if She Tries to Enter United States Under Assumed Name.

No Alias for Mrs. Pankhurst.

Washington, October 11.—If Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of British militant suffragists, who is en route to this country, should attempt to land under an assumed name she would encounter serious obstacles. Today the report reached the bureau of immigration that Mrs. Pankhurst might adopt an alias in order to enter the United States. Commissioner General Caminetti issued a statement, in which he said:

"We have no authentic information on the subject, and without reference to Mrs. Pankhurst will further state that the bureau and the department deal with people who seek admission at our ports in a frank and open manner and without deception and prefer like treatment from those who wish to enter. We are confronted with much perjury and deception in efforts to gain admission into the United States generally speaking, and when not too rank our officers are often disposed to overlook such instances when they occur with people who lack experience and make showing of having been misled. I am not saying what may happen when it is deliberate and practiced by people who ought to and do know better. In these matters before the bureau, as in every-day life, good faith has its benefits and never fails to command respect and due consideration."

LITTLE BROWN HEN CAUSES HOT FIGHT IN COLUMBUS COURT

Columbus, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) A little brown hen which has been fighting its way through various justice courts in Muscogee county, landed in the big courthouse yesterday afternoon.

The case was that of Ann Bell Y. Haywood Billingsley, an action in trover, and came as the climax of dispossessory warrant hearings in several justice courts. Billingsley, a railroad negro, had the advantage of the traditional nine points of law, for he had actual possession of the disputed property and held it in his arms in the courtroom, stroking his pet affectionately. The chicken was not wholly at ease and frequently interrupted lawyers and witnesses with nervous squawks.

Aunt Bell claimed that the chicken in dispute was one she had bought from a 'country 'oman' and her cloud of witnesses swore stoutly that the chicken in Billingsley's arms was hers. The defendant claimed that the fowl was a game chicken of 'War Horse' breed, and that he bought it for $1, and numerous witnesses sustained his contention. Among the jurors were two or three persons possessed of expert chicken knowledge and they took the position that the fowl was a veritable 'War Horse' so the railroad negro walked out of the courtroom a victor, clasping his precious fowl to his breast.

ANOTHER BRUNSWICK CLUB IS CONVICTED

Brunswick, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Another social club of Brunswick was convicted in the city court yesterday, and while sentence was not passed, it is generally expected that Judge Krauss will impose the same heavy fine of $1,000 when the sentence is passed Monday. The club convicted yesterday was the Oglethorpe club.

During the coming week a half dozen other clubs, as well as stewards of them and others connected with them, will be tried. The last grand jury returned indictments against every social club in Brunswick, some of the charge of not paying a license, others for selling whisky and others for being operated on Sunday. The cases were sent down from the superior court to the city court for trial.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN GRIFFIN CHURCHES

Griffin, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The leading churches of Griffin will make tomorrow a special day in Sunday schools and Baraca classes. An effort will be made to double the membership of the schools in one day's time.

Enthusiasm in the work is at a high tension, and the whole community is thoroughly aroused. Aggressive methods of work, such as have never been seen before, are being employed to stimulate everybody to action. Hundreds of postal cards have been mailed, and the streets are being filled with printed circulars advertising the event. Large banners are hung across main streets with huge letters announcing the home-coming and rally day.

APPETITE WAS POOR

Peruna was advised. Was completely restored.

Suffered Nearly Twelve Years, Peruna was my Relief.

Mr. James P. Bracken, No. 442 W. 43rd St., New York City, N. Y., writes:

"For nearly a dozen years catarrh has bothered me in one form or another. I was troubled with nasal catarrh that had affected my stomach, which troubled me most in the morning. My appetite was poor, and I did not seem to relish my food. Indigestion bothered me at times, also.

"I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month, when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

November Brings Dyspepsia.

November is very liable to bring dyspepsia. People eat too much in November. This is perfectly natural. During the hot weather little food has been required.

Food has two purposes, tissue building and repairing and heat making. The heat making properties of food are not needed so much during the hot weather, hence less food is required. November brings cold weather again and more food is required for heat making purposes. The appetite craves more food, and the result is most people over indulge.

This may bring on a condition of the stomach known as dyspepsia. The stomach is suddenly surprised with extra work in digesting unusual amounts of food. In some cases it is not equal to the emergency.

Peruna is an excellent stomachic. It stimulates the stomach in its natural functions. It acts as a gentle laxative also, and in this way enables the stomach and digestive organs to rise to the emergency of the extra work thrown upon them during the month of November.

A few doses of Peruna during the early days of November would undoubtedly save a great many people from the horrors of dyspepsia. It is an excellent remedy. It should be in every home in order to enable the digestive organs to adjust themselves to the differences of diet between summer and winter.

Catarrh of Head and Stomach.

Mr. Frank Richter, 309 East Second St., Winona, Minn., writes: "As a remedy for catarrh I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach.

"My catarrh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I tried several doctors, but they were unable to cure me. I read of Peruna in the papers and five bottles cured me."

System in Bad Condition.

Mr. Michael Rooney, 26 Fifth St., Watervliet, N. Y., writes:

"If I had known of Peruna years ago I should have been saved much suffering. Under carelessness and exposure in my younger years my system got into a very bad condition before I was aware of it.

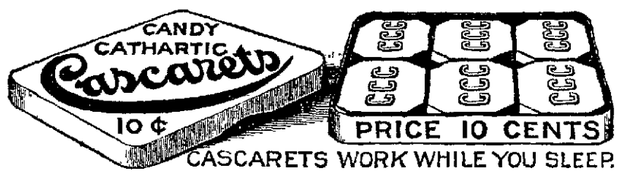

"My friends advised me to try Peruna, for which I am very thankful, as it has cured me in two months."

Men Who Built Cotton Gins Turned Their Attention to New Line.

"The real value of a motor truck can be ascertained only by an exact knowledge of what it will do throughout a term of years, in the actual service of its owner," says E. Van Winkle, president of the Van Winkle Motor Truck company, the only manufacturer of the motor truck in Atlanta and the south. "I was among the first of the business men in Atlanta to buy a motor truck," continued Mr. Van Winkle, "I early saw the great advantages and the possibilities of the motor truck in its relation to modern business. This first truck was more or less an experiment with me. That was some five years ago, you know, but it was not long until Mr. Truck had displaced the services of two mule teams. That truck put an idea into my head; that was to build a thorough efficient and properly balanced motor truck.

"I began immediately to plan this truck, that I had in mind, called into consultation my own engineers and mechanics who had been building machinery, which had been used in all parts of the world, and who had the experience of years in the developing of one of the greatest aids to mankind—the cotton gin. These men knew and I knew that it would take time, effort and money to develop the motor truck, but we knew this and profiting by years of manufacturing experience set to work to build the motor truck. We knew where to purchase the best steel and other materials, and working along the same lines, which we had followed in building the largest business of its kind in the world, we after much discouragement and experimental work, developed and built the first motor truck that was to bear the name of Van Winkle. That was more than three years ago. We pronounced it good then, we pronounce it good today. What the promise was for that first motor truck, purchased by me four or five years ago, has now become a reality in the development of the Van Winkle Truck you see today."

Few people in Atlanta realize that in this city a large manufacturing truck business has been established. The Van Winkle Motor company, manufactures everything from a one-ton truck to a six-ton truck, and the company is selling its product all over the world—a truck that had its beginning and is manufactured right in Atlanta, a genuine home product. These trucks are being built for export and will be sent to every part of the world where the name of Van Winkle is so familiar on account of the famous machinery which bore that name.

Mr. Van Winkle gave up the manufacture of the cotton gin several years ago, but there is probably no name more familiar to the developing of the cotton gin and other machinery used in this well known industry, than the name of Van Winkle. From the time he gave up the manufacturing of the cotton gin he has given his undivided attention to the manufacturing of the truck that so ably bears his name and only hopes that in its manufacture he will have made an article that will become as famous as the name of "the Van Winkle cotton gin."

WITH KISS AS REWARD OFFICER WORKS HARD TO RECOVER JEWELRY

Lecoq, Sherlock Holmes, Craig Kennedy nor John Black never worked harder and more diligently than Policeman Looney Milam is working in an effort to find a barouche which a certain young lady—whose name Milam refuses to divulge—recently lost or had stolen.

There's a reason, as there is to all things.

The young lady has promised a kiss to the finder of her jewel.

Milam is a motorcycle man at headquarters. He answered a telephone call recently. A very pretty voice on the other end told the tale of the missing barouche, which, she believed, she had lost somewhere up town.

She asked the police department to help find it.

"And," she told the policeman, "as concerns a reward, I want that barouche so badly that I'll be willing to—and will—kiss the man who recovers it."

Milam believes he will win the reward.

CHILD BURNS TO DEATH PLAYING BEFORE FIRE

Lyerly, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—While playing in front of an open grate a few days ago, the dress of the small child of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Green, of Summerville, became ignited and the child was so seriously burned that death resulted shortly.

The child was alone at the time and her screams attracted members of the family, but the child was almost roasted alive.

New Gin at Cornelia.

Cornelia, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) The Cornelia Cotton Oil company has just completed the installation of a modern ginning outfit. And for the past few days it has been running on full time and causing cotton to be marketed very freely. It is very probable that the farmers of this section will give cotton more attention in the future since they now have the benefit of proper ginning facilities.

NOTED NOVELIST TALKS OF NEW HEROINE

By Isma Dooly.

"'Peroxide.'

"'Peroxide and Matrimony,' that will be the title of my next story," said Corra Harris, last Tuesday night, as she deliberately evaded the direct question I asked her which was: "Now why do you think the character of 'Joy Mar' (In Search of a Husband) will appeal to the pulpit?"

She had told me it would, in all seriousness, and had mentioned the name of a New York clergyman who had selected the serial each week appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, as a theme for his informal Sunday talks on social reforms.

She had told me, too, with an affectation of pensiveness that she had received letters from three different admirers in different parts of the country, following the first chapters of "In Search of a Husband," when "Joy" was pictured with her halo of blonde hair and slenderness and beauty; but that as "Joy" evolved, Mrs. Harris, acknowledged, these letters which breathed romance and gallantry had ceased.

"Men admire what they most condemn in women," she obstinately continued, coming back to the theme of her next story, when I tried to argue with her about "Joy Mar" and "Alice Archibald."

Men Can't Resist It.

As she held out to the light and regarded with pleasure the plans of the log house she will build, she told me "Men profess to dislike 'corn-tassel' hair, but they can't resist it. They deplore the foolish fashions of women. They require that their wives skin their hair back and be as homely as nature made them, (and nature makes every woman a little homely), but when they go a-courtin' they look for the rose-leaf in the sallow face."

Having delivered herself of this philosophy, she was packing her valise, to return to the valley the next day, having only come to teach architecture to her architects, for a few brief hours.

"The barn was so formal and correct in structure," she complained, "that an old hen never could have fallen out of the loft, fluttering and cackling, and carrying on as hens must when they lay in barns that are real barns."

"A friend of yours has said about 'In Search of a Husband,' that certain statements you have made about women will make the women who read it as resentful as men were when they read 'Eve's Second Husband,'" I here ventured, for I wanted my gifted friend to talk more about her last story.

She looked very thoughtful, almost hurt, for a moment, then said:

"I do not know why I am so often accused of saying unkind things about women and men, for I believe no one loves a woman better than I do, from her smallest sin to her sweetest virtue, and no one respects man more than I do from his smallest virtue to his noblest vice.

Doomed to Be Misunderstood.

"Take the character of 'Joy Mar,' I suppose it is my fault, but this story, you would imply, is doomed to be misunderstood, just as so many misunderstood the 'Recording Angel,' which was written to prove that goodness is a sweet blindness to those imperfections which evil sees, and which sees beyond all imperfections, the glory and the image of the Creator 'in the least of these.'

"As for 'Joy'—it is a fact that she committed the sacrilege of speaking the truth—yet she was better than her truth. This is a sacrilege—it is the tearing off of the altar cloth from the heart of a woman. There is one justification for this—to set forth the temptations of our time for young women in society. The story of 'Joy Mar' is not the ritual of a woman's heart. It is the illuminated text of certain social conditions in our time which render the aims and ambitions of women, so often artificial and ignoble.

"They seek, not husbands, but luxury, idleness and self-indulgence.

You Will Love My Joy.

"But my 'Joy'—you will love her, if you have the heart of a true man or the mercy of a good woman.

"She never could have been bought, not even with a ring and a priest. I knew that, though she did not, and she rises from the test better than innocent—tried, virginal, strong, tender, good.

"If anybody finds anything in this story, that is not true of the men and women in society—not all men and women—then I confess an error. But who has not seen somewhere dramatized in social life the very thing—from the story of 'Joy's' ambitious search, to 'Alice Archibald's' effort to conceal a bad conscience.

"Even I do not know how far Alice transgressed, and that is one of the enigmas of society. My critics will be justified in their censure if this were the only point the story conveys, but it is not.

"The purpose of it is to try out the heart of a woman in the various phases of modern social life, and to prove that after all she is not for sale in matrimony or out of it."

How She Broke Into Big League.

In reference to Mrs. Harris' "breaking into the big league," as it has been called, her having stories in the Saturday Evening Post, Harper's Monthly, Good Housekeeping, and Harper's Weekly, she was most happy in acknowledging the achievement.

"Your story 'On the Installment Plan,' in the August Harper's Magazine, was a real Corra Harris story," I told her.

"And 'The Ideal' in Harper's Weekly, was fine."

"Now, why do you think so?" Mrs. Harris questioned. "That skit is really bad. I felt I might be justly criticized for that, but it is because you are a woman! The judgment of a woman is founded upon the little finger of her emotions. She condemns you because she wants to, not because she ought to. She praises you the same way. The indictment of that story is: 'What women do not know they suspect.' When I told her I liked 'Sabbath Webster' in Good Housekeeping; that it was beautiful and original, her reply was, "And I liked Richard Holderness, the man whose fatherland was Silence.

"I have always had a theory if lovers were stricken dumb they would marry sooner and oftener. It is we who have shamed love and made it evil-minded and self-conscious and sneaking, with our distorted interpretation of it. By nature, love is always honest, above-board and matrimonial. I wrote the story of 'Sabbath Webster' to prove that."

IS MARRIED TO GIRL WHOSE MOTHER HELD HIM UP WITH PISTOL

Savannah, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—With Recorder John E. Schwarz officiating, Miss Carline Bartee and Joel Dickenson, Jr., were married in police court this morning. Dickenson has been in jail for several days on charges preferred by the girl's mother, Mrs. J. E. Johnson. The mother held the young man at the point of a pistol until the police arrived. At that time Dickenson made the statement that he was already married, but since then he has contradicted that statement.

DEMONSTRATION AGENTS WILL AID THE FARMERS

Agriculture in Georgia promises to take on a new meaning if the plans as formulated at the meeting of the demonstration agents of the United States department of agriculture and State College of Agriculture just held at the state capitol receive the co-operation of the planters and are carried into effect.

Forty demonstration agents from north Georgia were in attendance at the meeting which was presided over by Dr. J. Phil Campbell, who is in charge of this work in Georgia, and who has been appointed to this position by the United States department of agriculture and the State College of Agriculture. A similar gathering of demonstrators who are engaged in south Georgia will be held in Macon during the first week of the state fair, where plans for the betterment of agricultural conditions in south Georgia will be worked out.

An effort is being made through these demonstration agents to secure a larger yield per acre of all crops planted in Georgia through the use of commercial fertilizer applied in sufficient quantities to restore to the land the plant food removed each year by the growing crops. Seed selection is receiving especial attention among the demonstrators, for it is their desire to perfect a cotton seed which is not only long in staple, but whose oil contained in the cotton seed is improved, for the planters already recognize that the crop of cotton seed in Georgia each year means millions as well as the lint. In this farm demonstration work the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association of Georgia is taking an active part.

Wood Brothers Bankrupt.

Voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday in the United States court, by Arthur Wood and J. Wallace Wood, trading as Wood Brothers, a firm, grocerymen, at 65 Peachtree street; also by both members of the firm individually. The schedule of assets and liabilities shows obligations aggregating $2,045.45 with stock in trade and fixtures and furniture belonging to the firm amounting to $1,100. Arthur Wood, senior member of the firm, declaring himself a groceryman, writes, in his individual petition for a discharge in bankruptcy, liabilities in the sum of $18,963.62 without any assets, while J. Wallace Wood's petition shows liabilities totaling $1,955.95, with assets figuring $800. A petition for a receiver was filed with the papers.

ROME IS STIRRED BY ATTACK ON OFFICIALS

Rome, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—A sensation was caused here by the violent attack upon the county commissioners and the county attorney, M. B. Eubanks, contained in the presentments of the October grand jury, returned to the court yesterday afternoon.

The scoring was given the officials because of their attitude on the bridge question, they holding that the bridges in the city limits belong to the city of Rome and not to the county of Floyd. The grand jury disagrees with this point of view and asserts that the bridges belong to the county, that the county collects rents from the street car company, and that the county should rebuild the bridges, which are in a bad state of repair. The presentments sarcastically term Colonel Eubanks an "able (?) attorney," and advises him to cease "quibbling over a frivolous technicality." The presentments further accuse the commissioners of "gross neglect" and "willful disregard of duty." The criticisms were not received in kindly spirit by the board and a bitter political fight seems brewing.

DEMOCRATS ARE SORE ON G. O. P. LEADER MANN

With Nothing to Do, Mann Insists That All Democrats Stay on the Job.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 11.—Democratic members of the house are in a blue funk tonight over the action of Representative Mann, the republican leader, in insisting that a quorum be maintained every day for the transaction of business.

They think he is very "unclubby." His action means there can be no three days' recess, as Mr. Mann has declined to enter into an agreement with Representative Underwood for a suspension of business.

If enough democrats go home to give the republicans a majority, they may pass a resolution directing the sergeant-at-arms to arrest the absentees and bring them back.

Representative Charles F. Crisp, who has not missed a day's attendance this session, except when attending Representative Reddenberry's funeral, said today that Representative Mann's action was unreasonable and inconsistent. Now when there is nothing to do but wait for the senate to act on the currency bill, Mr. Mann demands that all members remain in Washington; yet, during the busy part of the session, Mr. Mann was absent himself.

THEIR JEWEL HAULS WERE WORTH $225,000

Two Janitors Arrested for Stealing Gems of Mrs. Rumsey and Mrs. Hanan.

New York, October 11.—With the arraignment of two men here today the police asserted that they had solved the mystery of the theft of $225,000 worth of jewels last July from the home of Mrs. Charles Carey Rumsey, a daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, and Mrs. John H. Hanan, at Narragansett Pier, R. I.

James Stewart and Wiley Mason, janitors, each with a police record, were held in $5,000 bail each on charges that they were implicated in the theft. They pleaded not guilty, and will be given an examination next Tuesday morning.

Detectives base their allegations upon a story given them, they allege, by Herbert R. Tinkham, one time counsel for Mason. According to the detectives' affidavit, Tinkham asserted that Mason showed him a box of jewels which Mason claimed were those stolen from the Rumsey and Hanan homes, and were worth $300,000.

Teach Your Child How to be Healthy

We cannot all start life with the advantages of money, but every child born is entitled to the heritage of good health. Through unfortunate ignorance or carelessness in the feeding of a baby its tiny stomach may become damaged. The disorder spreads to the bowels and before the mother realizes it the two chief organs on which the infant's comfort and health depend are causing it great suffering. If the condition is allowed to continue grave ailments often result.

There is, however, no occasion for alarm, and the sensible thing to do—but it should be done instantly—is to give the baby a small dose of a mild laxative-tonic. In the opinion of a great many people, among them such well-known persons as the parents of Bertha Lee Woodard, 3 years old, of Moultrie, Ga., the proper remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. I. N. Woodard says that little Bertha was troubled with constipation for over a year, and that after trying several different kinds of remedies she found her relief in Syrup Pepsin. It is a mild, pleasant-tasting laxative, which every person likes, does not gripe nor cramp, and contains that most excellent of all digestants, pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is especially intended for infants, children, women, old people and all others to whom harsh cathartics, salt waters, pills, etc., are distressing. In fact, in the common disorders of life, such as constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, and the various other disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels nothing is more suitable than this mild laxative-tonic, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

BERTHA LEE WOODARD.

Three generations of people are using it today, and thousands of families keep it constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the size bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Appetite Ho! Ho! 'Tis a Great Joy

Appetite is very largely a series of signals from the stomach. When one has a rousing appetite at the sight or smell of food the stomach through its connection with the mind of man is asked whether the food seen or smelled would be welcome.

The stomach if healthy says yes and at once our mouths water and we are hungry from desire—keenly, ravenously hungry. If the stomach be sick then we have no appetite and are actually nauseated.

Waiter—"How's your appetite today, sir?"

Appetite makes the glands of the mouth open and saliva flows very freely—hence the term "Mouth Water." This is the first digestive juice. It has an important office to perform, as all starchy foods are partially digested by it because one of its ingredients, ptyalin, is almost an instant digestive of starch. This process reduces the starch in foods to sugar.

The appetite causing a free flow of saliva aids the stomach by its ability to mix the food eaten with mouth juices which enables it to more readily do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into the mouth like food, are eaten, then dissolved and fluidized by the saliva. This mass then goes into the stomach and there quickly readjusts the stomach juices so that in a short time food is not offensive and man's appetite comes speedily back to him and he is hungry in a healthy, normal way.

By all means use a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet the very moment you feel a loss of hunger. The quick return of appetite to you will convince you quickly that your stomach has been out of order and that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were the means of restoring its normally healthy condition.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and no matter where you may be you can always obtain a box anywhere for 50 cents.

Athletics Are Again World's Champions

Plank Masters the Giants In Final Game of Series Allowing But Two Hits

New York, October 11.—The Philadelphia Athletics won the baseball championship of the world for 1913 at the Polo grounds this afternoon by defeating the New York Giants, 3 to 1, in the fifth and deciding game of the series

With the score of games standing three to one in their favor, the American league representatives went in to clinch the series, and, before the masterly playing of the Mackmen, the National leaguers had absolutely no chance.

Connie Mack, anxious to finish the struggle on the final day of the week, sent Eddie Plank, his veteran southpaw, to the mound, and John McGraw, his back to the wall, called on Christy Mathewson to check the victorious rush of the Athletics and thus gain for his team a breathing spell

Both old masters of curve and break responded nobly to the call of their managers and clubs, but the Giants, unable to help Mathewson by even mediocre batting, fell victims to the vicious hitting, fast fielding combination which has again raised the standard of the American league over that of the national organization

The victory was a personal triumph for Plank, but the downfall of the Giants carried no odium for Mathewson, who, besides pitching an excellent game with but two days of rest since his victory of Wednesday, made one of the two hits scored against his rival in the box

Matty Faltered a Trifle.

Mathewson did not respond as promptly to the demands made upon him as did Plank, and lacking that wonderful offensive and defensive support which the Athletics accorded to their twirler, faltered just enough in the opening innings of the game to give the Mackmen a lead that the Giants were powerless to overcome

As was the case in all the games of the series except yesterday's, the top half of the Philadelphia club batting order hit heavily when hits meant runs. Mathewson faced a determined club-swinging aggregation from the first moment he stepped into the box, and before he could get his muscles and curves working smoothly the game had been won

Eddie Murphy the first batter to stand at the plate, drove Mathewson's initial pitch through short for a single Oldring attempted to sacrifice, but forced Murphy at second Collins came through with a single to right, putting Oldring on third Burns caught Baker's line fly, but the throw to the plate was too high for even the towering McLean and Oldring slid across with the first run, while McLean was still in the air.

Not satisfied with this, the Athletics gathered in two more runs in the third. Murphy again opened the inning with a single through short Oldring followed with a smash at Doyle, who fumbled and the batter was safe, while Murphy scampered to second. Collins sacrificed the runners along a base each Baker dribbled a Cincinnati base hit at Merkle, who tried for the batter and then for Murphy at the plate, missing both as a consequence

McInnis then scored Oldring from third with a sacrifice fly to Burns, and the Athletics' run-making was at an end.

Giants' Lone Score.

The Giants' lone run came in the fifth session, and was due to a peculiar break in the game that the home fans thought had marked the fall of the Athletics wonderful defense After Burns had flied to McInnis, the veteran Plank temporarily lost control of the ball, walking Shafer On a hit and run play, Murray raised a high fly to the center of the diamond. Plank moved but a few steps to get himself for the catch, and as Shafer had already reached second, a double play appeared assured.

Baker upset the whole infield by rushing over from third and trying to take the ball from Plank He jostled the pitcher just enough to make him drop the ball, and both runners were safe, while Plank was charged with an error because the ball touched his outstretched hand

Some 36,000 fans now were rooting in real earnest, and as is almost invariably the case after such a mix-up in baseball, a base hit followed Larry McLean was the Giant to deliver the hit to left center and Shafer made the trip from second to home in record time With two on and but one out, the fans felt sure that the Giants' luck was focusing and they raised a roar of vocal encouragement that could be heard for blocks

If the Athletics' infield heard it they did not permit the bedlam to interfere with baseball. Merkle drove a humming grounder at Collins, who snapped it up and tossed to Barry, forcing McLean at second Without a moment's hesitation, Barry flashed the ball to McInnis and Merkle was out by a step It was one of the $100,000 infield's double plays that cut down opponents at critical periods of a game and it spelled the finish of the Giants as world series contenders then and there.

Plank the Hero.

From that point on Plank and the players back of him were never in trouble. The two-run lead grew more formidable as the game progressed and many of the fans began to leave the park at the end of the seventh inning But for Baker's over-eagerness, Plank would have been credited with pitching a one-hit, no-run game, but when the last Giant was out, Plank, elated with his success, did not bother to quibble about such little details. It was enough for him that he had won

Plank could well afford to be magnanimous, for he proved to be the pitching hero of the championship series, and may decide before another baseball season rolls around to retire on his honors. During the five games just completed, Plank has pitched two games, losing the second of the series to Mathewson by a 3 to 0 score, although his club threw away an excellent chance for victory in the ninth inning of that battle by poor base line coaching

When the two veteran twirlers faced each other for the second time today, the pitching stood Plank, 7 hits for 3 runs, Mathewson, 8 hits and no runs Tonight the figures read Plank, 9 hits and 4 runs, Mathewson, 14 hits for 3 runs

It is a peculiar coincidence that when this pair of twirlers were just slipping past the salad days of their long league career, they were called upon to face each other in just such a series of games and the result was just as close

When the Athletics and Giants faced each other in the initial game of the world's championship battle of 1905, the batteries were Mathewson and Bresnahan for New York and Plank and Schreckengost for Philadelphia. Mathewson's record shows that he allowed four hits and no runs, while Plank gave ten hits for three runs. In the fourth game Plank faced McGinnity and gave the "iron man" another hard battle, losing 1 to 0, with four hits against McGinnity's five.

It is a wonderful testimonial to the ability of Plank and Mathewson that eight years later, when almost all of their teammates of 'those days are gone and forgotten they should still be the heroes of the biggest type of baseball battle.

Real Pitching.

The real merit of their box work in the closing game of the series today is shown by the fact that the Giants got but two hits off Plank, while the Athletics collected six from Mathewson, five of which came in the first three innings In only two innings did the Giants perch safely on first, and even the rank and file of the champions of all champions had difficulty in hitting Mathewson with any consistency Aside from Schang, three of the four men in the upper section of the Athletics' batting order were the only ones successfully to solve the delivery of "Big Six" Eddie Murphy made two hits in his first two times at bat, Collins made one and Baker two

Both veterans were steady, having both control and speed, and but one batter from each team received a pass to first at their expense The play was confined chiefly to the infield, each first baseman getting fourteen put-outs The Athletic outfielders made eight put-outs and the Giants' six

It was also a day of triumph for Manager Connie Mack, and the American league. The Athletics' victory over the Giants in the 1913 world's series marked Mack's third elevation to the title of manager of a universal championship team and the fourth consecutive victory of an American league team, over the standard bearers of the National league Including the present series the junior league has won six out of the ten championship contests with the senior organization, which began in 1903

The Athletics' victory was also pleasing to Connie Mack and his players since it gave them the rubber with Joe Cantillon and the Giants in the third meeting of the two teams. In 1905 the Giants won four games to one In 1911 the Athletics took four out of six and repeated with four out of five this season

Matty vs. Plank.

This series may mark the passing of Plank, for he has desired to drop out of the game for several years and has only continued at the personal solicitation of Manager Mack Plank was born at Gettysburg in 1875, and entered Gettysburg college in 1900

Even in those days he felt the pitching prowess of Christy Mathewson, for during the time he was the leading twirler of his 'varsity team Gettysburg met the Bucknell college nine on the diamond The tall, lanky youth in the box for the visitors was Mathewson and after a remarkable pitching duel from a college standpoint, Plank and his teammates were defeated 3 to 0

Plank has never shown any desire to wander "far from his own fireside," and today owns two large farms near Gettysburg, Pa., his birthplace, and spends all his spare time there He has wearied of the diamond strife and is anxious to settle down. If Mack can persuade him to return to Shibe Park and don a playing uniform next spring it will be but another example of the wonderful hold that the tall leader has over his players, according to the Athletics, who carried Plank off the Polo Grounds field on their shoulders late this afternoon.

It certainly will not be due to any financial inducements that Mack can offer, for Plank, in company with the other forty-nine players who participated in the series this week will divide $135,163.89 between them on the basis of sixty per cent to the winners and forty per cent to the losers.

The stockholders of each of the two clubs will also have $79,109 50 to divide as a result of their players' drawing powers during the world's series. The national commission received $32,598 for overseeing the five game contest, the entire gate receipts amounting to $325 980 coming from the pockets of 151 000 fans who paid to witness the play The profits of the ticket speculaters are not available at this time

What Players Get.

The players share of the receipts ceased with Friday's game, so they were not financially interested in to-day's attendance, which totalled 36,652 for gross receipts of $75,676.50.

Immediately after the close of to-day's game thousands of fans swarmed down from the bleachers and stands and rushed to the Athletics' bench, where John McGraw was already congratulating Connie Mack Despite the fact that the great majority were Giant adherents, they bestowed plenty of praise upon the Mackmen. Players after player was patted, and assured that the best team won It was with difficulty that they finally broke their way through the throng and reached the club house.

The Giants, too, came in for hearty cheers as they raced across the field, assuring them that although defeated they had by no means lost the support of their followers.

Game in Detail.

Christy Mathewson, the Giants' only hope to stop the onrushing Athletics, was wildly cheered as he strode slowly to the pitching box. "Hold them, Matty," yelled the fans.

Eddie Murphy, who failed to get a hit off the veteran pitcher in the tenining battle in Philadelphia on Wednesday, connected with the first ball pitched and drove it to the right of Fletcher, who made a gallant effort to stab it, but succeeded in only batting it down. Murphy crossing first base before the shortstop could get the sphere Oldring attempted to sacrifice, laying a bunt down in front of Mathewson, who threw Murphy out at second, Fletcher taking the throw. Mathewson's first offering to Collins was a ball and the next served was driven to right field for a single, Oldring sprinting to third.

Despite this inauspicious opening for the Giants, the great crowd gave Mathewson an encouraging cheer. Things looked bad with "Home Run" Baker up, and mighty hard did he try to make trouble for New York. Finally there was a resounding crack of the bat and the hearts of the Giants' rooters stopped for an instant. Instead of the ball coursing its way toward Baker's right field stand it shot into left field for a long sacrifice fly to Burns, Oldring scoring.

Burns made a mighty heave to the home base to get Oldring and threw the ball over Catcher McLean's head, Collins went to second on the error The inning ended when McInnis sent a grounder to Herzog, who blocked Collins and threw to Doyle, who touched out the Athletics' second baseman between second and third

The Athletic rooters in the stands, and there were many of them, cheered the Philadelphia team as they took the field behind the veteran, Plank Herzog, the first man up, let two bad balls pass, and then Plank got two strikes on him Herzog went out on a long fly to Murphy. Doyle was an easy out, Barry to McInnis, on a fast fielding play. Fletcher started the New York fans cheering as he belted the ball for what looked like extra bases, but it fell into the hands of Oldring in deep left field.

Strunk opened the Athletics' second inning with a drive at Doyle and was thrown out Barry sent a high fly to Murray. Then Schang, the young catcher, facing the great Mathewson for the first time, shot a single at the turned Murphy was legging for the could not field it and the ball rolled toward Fletcher. Schang reaching first safely. He was left there as Plank flied out to Herzog

As the Giants came to bat Manager McGraw called Umpire Klem's attention to the way Plank lifted his foot in pitching and the arbiter went out to the pitching box and watched Plank throw four balls to Schang. Klem was evidently satisfied that Plank was pitching legally, as the matter ended there. Burns, the first batter up, grounded to Baker and was out at first. Shafer raised a high foul to McInnis, who made a great catch close to the grandstand Murray hit a slow grounder to Plank and was retired

Athletics Score Again.

The Athletics made the runs that gave them the world's championship in the third inning Murphy opened hostilities by slamming the ball to left field for his second single Oldring hit a fast grounder at Doyle, who, in his apparent eagerness to complete a double play, fumbled the ball and both runners were safe Murphy and Oldring moved along on Collins' sacrifice, Merkle fielding the ball and touching him out on the line Mathewson then faced another ticklish situation With runners on third and second, he did not waver Baker, however, got to him and smashed the ball down the right field line to Merkle.

The latter fanned to throw to the plate to catch Murphy coming in, but when the latter slowed up and started to go back, Merkle turned to get Baker, but the heavy-hitter was too close to first for Merkle to get him, and when the first baseman again turned Murphy wah legging for the plate and slid into the home base under Merkle's throw to McLean with the Athletics' second run. Baker was given credit for a Cincinnati base hit, the only one of the kind made in the series

Oldring moved to third base on the play and scored the Athletics' last run on a long sacrifice fly by McInnis to Burns. Strunk ended the inning by grounding out, Doyle to Merkle

The three-run lead, with Plank pitching almost unhittable ball, looked big to the Giant rooters, but they again cheered their team as the players came to the bench Their stay at home, however was very brief McLean walloped a long fly to Oldring. Merkle shot a liner directly into Collins' waiting hands and Mathewson, given a warm hand by the crowd, as he came to bat, grounded out, Barry to McInnis.

The Athletics' scoring machine stopped running with the beginning of the fourth inning Barry was quickly put out, Fletcher to Merkle Schang picked out one of Mathewson's good ones and lifted it out to Murray, Fletcher took care of Plank's little fly in short centerfield.

For New York in the fourth inning Herzog could not see Plank's crossfire ball sizzle across the plate and was out on three strikes in a row. Doyle connected with the ball but it bounded out to McInnis, who retired the Giants' second baseman unassisted. Fletcher flied to Strunk.

In the fifth inning Murphy went out, Doyle to to Merkle and Oldring grounded out the same way. Collins lifted a fly to Shafer.

Giants' Only Score.

The Giants' only activity in the game was in the fifth inning when they got their first hit and only run

By P. W. Hammond.

In a match which was not decided until the 36th hole, Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, both former champions of the world, defeated Stewart Maiden and Willie Mann, local professionals, by one up at the East Lake course Saturday The invaders will play the McKenzie brothers a 36-hole match over the Brookhaven course today

The best round of the day was turned in by Maiden in the afternoon, who had a score of 71 Vardon, who played the most consistent golf, returned a card of 72 for both rounds

Three down in the morning round, Maiden and Mann turned the tables on the Britishers in the afternoon, when, at the turn, the local men had the visitors one down. Threes in succession three times, by Vardon and Ray, however, proved too much of a lead for the locals to overcome entirely

To Willie Mann goes the credit for keeping the Britishers from running away with the morning match, and to Maiden goes the credit of winning back five holes in the afternoon Mann played a consistent game throughout, while Maiden, who was off in the first round, came back strongly in the second

Ray's screeching drives and lofty niblick approaches excited the wonder of the large gallery that followed the match no less than the mastery of the game displayed by Vardon, whose shots were almost monotonously perfect.

Locals Nervous.

Starting out nervously, the two local professionals lost the first two holes to the Englishmen, Mann and Maiden needing fours on the first and fives on the second, while their opponents took a stroke less in each instance. Ray displayed his ability with the niblick by dropping the ball on the first green from the tee, and his terrific driving power on the second hole, where he was able to reach the green after his tee shot with a pretty niblick. Vardon's machine-like play was marvelous to watch.

The locals won back a hole on the third, where their opponents found the bunker guarding the green. Threes sufficed the locals after Mann just missed a long put for a two. Vardon took four and Ray five.

Ray got a smashing drive on the long fourth, but all holed out in four, although Mann had to make a pretty out from a trap to do it

The Englishmen were again two up when Vardon found the cup in three on the fifth hole, his drive being practically on the green, a distance of 265 yards. The others took fours.

Mann held the invaders even on the sixth and seventh, being the only man to get fours on both holes. Maiden took fives. Mann held the Englishmen on the eighth as well, his drive being almost as long as Ray's, and his ball finding the cup in four with Vardon's Maiden was still nervous and topped his drive badly

All did the ninth in fours. Ray, Maiden and Mann got pretty drives over the trees on the elbow hole, but Vardon hooked his. The local professionals were two down at the turn.

At the Turn.

Fours were enough for all on the tenth, Ray just missing a long put for a three.

Vardon was straight down the course with an iron on the eleventh, while the others found trouble, Mann going out of bounds and Ray and Maiden finding the trap to the right of the green Ray got out prettily with a niblick and matched Vardon's three, Maiden and Mann took fives. This made the visitors three up

All got long drives on the 420-yard twelfth, and after remarkable iron shots secured fours.

On the thirteenth Ray smashed his ball a tremendous distance beyond and to the right of the bunker. It was one of the most remarkable shots of the match Mann, however, was nearest after second shots had been played, and came near holing a three. All took fours

Maiden held the visitors on the fourteenth, just missing a put for a three. Mann took five.

Ray pulled his drive into the rough against a tree on the fifteenth and picked up Mann halved with Vardon with a four

Ray and Vardon got tremendous drives on the long sixteenth. Maiden topped his ball, but made up for it on his third which was on the green. All were down in fives.

Maiden missed a very short put on the seventeenth, but Mann got a five with the two Englishmen A drenching rain fell at this time, and players and spectators hugged trees and haystacks for twenty minutes

Both visitors were hole high on the 500-yard eighteenth with a drive and an iron Mann dubbed twice and picked up, but Maiden was there with a brassie and halved the hole with Vardon in four. Ray took five. The locals were three down.

Afternoon Round.

Maiden started his remarkable "come back" in the afternoon by getting a two on the first, sinking a long put. The others took three apiece. The local professionals were two down.

Mann's four matched Vardon's on the second. Ray's niblick hooked to the fence and he took five, as did Maiden.

Mann had a put for a two on the third, but missed it and all took threes, after pretty iron shots from the tee.

Ray's drive on the fourth was a wonder, but the rest were not far away. Vardon's second with an iron was so close that he used a putter for the third. Mann was with him in fours, however Ray and Maiden were down in fives, the latter just missing a four.

Maiden sank a three on the fifth after a good drive and a beautiful approach. Mann just missed a three and took fours with the Englishmen. Maiden's hole and the locals one down.

Mann saved the seventh with a remarkable second shot after being outdriven by the Britishers. Maiden took five and the rest fours.

Maiden evened the match on the eighth by getting four while the rest took fives. Although outdriven, he arrived by means of a good iron and sank his put after one approach shot.

Locals Turn One Up.

Maiden then won the ninth and the locals turned one up. Ray made a screamer of a drive here, over the trees and just a toss from the hole. Vardon drove out of bounds and picked up. Maiden's approach was a feature of the match and left him near enough to sink the next one.

The invaders got away screaming drives on the tenth, but all were four in the cup. Maiden found the trap on the eleventh, but Mann secured a three with the Britishers.

On the twelfth Ray was again nearly to the bunker with Vardon not far behind. The latter made a beautiful iron and just missed a three on this 420-yard hole. All were down in fours.

The tide now turned against Maiden and Mann, for Vardon won the next two holes with a couple of threes and Ray the following, also with a three, leaving the locals two down at the end of the fifteenth. It was just a case of a perfect drive, a perfect iron and a perfect put on the part of one of the Britishers.

On the sixteenth Maiden came back again with a four, the others being unable to do better than fives. This left the match one down and two to go.

The four drives were on a line on the seventeenth and the approaches were not far apart. Maiden almost saved the match by sinking a three, but had to halve the hole in four with Vardon and Mann, Ray taking five.

Maiden was nearly hole high on the long eighteenth with his second, a brassie, but Vardon and Ray were there also with iron shots. Vardon sank a four, halving the hole with Maiden, and winning the match for the invaders by one up.

YELLOW JACKETS TIRE PILING UP TOUCHDOWNS

TO PICK OUT TECH STARS IS A DIFFICULT TASK

Score 71 to 6—Patten's Knee Would Not Stand Strain. Cushman, Montague and Preas Make Long Gains.

By W. G. Foster.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 11.—(Special.)—Although constantly pressed by Coach Heisman to let the Chattanooga eleven have the ball, and with substitutes constantly sent in so that it was hard to tell just who was playing, the Yellow Jackets swept up Chamberlain field with the locals this afternoon to the tune of 71 to 6.

The first part of the game saw a big surprise. The light Chattanoogans, after Preas kicked one placement goal from the 35-yard line, jumped into their heavier opponents and marched across the field, to a clearly earned touchdown. The surprise was so great that for a moment the Tech team had a severe case of rattles.

Tech Wakes Up.

Then they woke up.

Woodworth, the crack little quarter of the Chattanooga team, was carried off the field with a broken nose and other injuries. The local athletes slumped at once. The Tech warriors assumed an irresistible stride and made touchdown after touchdown until scorers found difficulty in keeping up with the total.

The Chattanooga eleven lost to Sewanee by 28 to 0, and it had expected to hold Tech to the same count, or in that vicinity.

It would be impossible to pick the stars of the Tech squad, everybody joining in the ground gaining save center and guards. The chief lesson of the game was the superb condition of the Jackets. They played their hardest game and though in possession of the ball all the time, only one man—Patton—showed any ill effects from the gruelling

The Baylor star lasted but the first minute. He was run one time and his injured knee was jerked. He tried it for another play but was obliged to limp out. Thereafter Coach Heisman shifted his backfield continually and everybody carried the ball.

Cushman Stars.

Cushman made several spectacular runs before his "home folks." Johnston, by instructions, was not given the ball frequently, but was able to buck it over whenever it got close to the goal line Backing up the line, Johnston was a terror

Montague was next in the stellar roles, carrying the ball for many yards every time he was called on. Thomason, Fielder, Cook, Alexander and others advanced the ball.

On defense, Cushman hurled many Moccasin players to earth. A slight weakness was discovered somewhere on the left side of the Tech defense for most of the home team's early gains.

Preas' kicking was a feature. The big end was kept in for three periods of the four. He booted one beauty field goal from the 35-yard line, narrowly missed another, kicked six goals out of eight after touchdowns and made extensive gains the few times he was called on He kicked three kick-offs over the line and never failed to boot it fifty yards.

For the home team, Dexheimer, the former Sewanee halfback, made many pretty dashes at the start. Big Hampton, supposed to be a star, tried to handle the Tech team "stright up" and couldn't get away with it. The local line never stood a show with Tech's heavy forwards.

Surprise of Game.

A fumble gave the ball to Tech soon after the kick-off and after a few plays, Chattanooga held, whereupon Preas booted a field goal, Cook holding the ball. Then came the surprise, Hampton returned the kick-off 20 yards, the Chattanoogan backfield hurried across the field without interruption to a touchdown. One 30-yard run by Dexheimer and a forward pass to Sutherland were the only variations from straight gains, Dexheimer finally making the touchdown on a buck.

After the ensuing kick-off came the injury to Woodworth. A few minutes later, Cushman intercepted a punt and ran 50 yards to a touchdown after which the Jackets commenced "to romp."

Then Jackets Romped.

Description of the remainder of the game is time wasted The Jackets probably would have advanced faster, but Heisman ordered that nothing but straight football be attempted. Not one forward pass was tried, no double passes or other special plays. Three more touchdowns were made before the end of the first half, at which time the score was 50 to 6. Thomason's 25-yard run, Cook's 20 and two by Montague, one for 35 and another for 20 were the salient points.

In the second half, there were many long runs. Fielder making three for 20 yards and one for 50 yards, Cushman two for 20, McDonald another for 30 yards, and others

Referee Wahoo taxed Tech heavily in the last half, firing Montague out for alleged slugging and assessing a 40-yard penalty—half the distance to the goal line.

VIRGINIA ELEVEN WILL BE STRONGER

Seven Veterans Back—Line Will Average 198 Pounds, Back Field 170—Team Assuming Shape.

By W. R. Pate.

Charlottesville, Va., October 11.—(Special.)—The prospects for a winning football team at the University of Virginia this year are exceptionally promising and coaches, players and students alike are quite optimistic over the outlook.

Besides the wealth of promising material afforded by the scrubs of last year and by the new men there are seven of last year's "V men" back. With these seven as a foundation and with fifty other prospectives to draw from Coach Warren hopes to build up a winning team.

The return of Carter (captain), Gooch, Maiden and Mayer, who gave such notable accounts of themselves in the Vanderbilt and North Carolina games last year is especially encouraging.

New Stars.

Notable among the new men is Word, star halfback of the Richmond Blues for the past two years, and one of the best all-round athletes in Richmond. He, however, is somewhat lighter than the other members of the team and it is doubtful whether he will make a place for himself on the team or not.

In the third quarter of the Virginia-Randolph Macon game when he was substituted for Ray, Virginia's right half, he at once proceeded to distinguish himself by carrying the ball across the line for two touchdowns.

Besides him, there is Oscar Randolph, the famous quarterback, who left Virginia in 1907, and returned only this year. Randolph was at the time of his former stay at the university one of the surest tacklers in the game and from appearances he has lost none of his skill during his absence. Were it not for the fact that he is somewhat lighter than the other men (he weighs only 132 pounds) he would be sure of a position on the team. As it is he is pushing Halfback Ray for his position and he may yet win over him.

Of last year's scrubs there are Brown and Gillette, who have virtually "cinched" their places on the team. Both of theb are going strong this year and Gillette especially is doing himself proud. Brown is filling the place left vacant by the departure of ex-Captain Wood, who has played the circuit of four years, allowed at Virginia. The indications are that Brown will fill the position even better than his predecessor did.

Developed Ends.

At the beginning of the season it seemed that the ineligibles for the team played everywhere except at the ends. No one at all could be gotten to hold down that position and for some time it was feared that the weakness of the team would lie just in those points.

But as in every case there is always some one who rises to meet the occasion and the heroes in this case were White, left end, Virginia's star shortstop last spring, and Gillette, right end, of the scrubs, mentioned above.

These two men have developed so speedily and wonderfully that they have become fixtures on the team and now instead of being the weakest position the ends are now about the strongest on the team.

On the whole the team is going very fast for this period of the season. This fact is showing graphically by the big scores which Virginia has rolled up in the two games already played, viz.: Virginia 40, Randolph Macon college 0, and Virginia 54, University of South Carolina 0, as against 1910 against the South Carolinians last year.

The line is unusually strong and when in form is almost irresistible. Exclusive of the two ends the average weight of the line is 198 pounds, including the ends, the average is 185 pounds.

Two Strong Tackles.

Captain Carter, right guard, who was said to have been of all-American calibre last year, taken with Left Tackle Maiden, forms an impassible bulwark. Both are fast on their feet, despite the fact that each weighs something more than 200 pounds.

Redus, left guard, and Woodrolk, right tackle, also stars of last year's team, with their 180 pounds of weight each, are showing up better this year than ever before.

In fact, the line has only three new men in it, while White, left end; Gillette, right end, and Brown, center, and these all play like veterans. Priddy is showing up well at center for the scrubs, too, and in case of need, is able to substitute excellently for Brown.

As for the back field all except Right Half Ray are veterans from last year. Bobby Gooch is fast becoming distinguished as a broken field runner and Buck Mayer follows a close second. In the Randolph Macon and South Carolina games they both several times broke through the opposing line for long gains.

Mayer and Ray are developing into star line players and in the games already played Virginia broke Caroline's line to pieces numbers of times and plowed their way through. The average weight of the back field is 170 pounds, and Trainer Lannigan expressed the opinion of all when he stated in an interview last Monday "Virginia's back field this year is the best I have ever seen here."

Team Looks Good.

In fact, on carefully looking the team over not a single weak spot is to be found. No one player stands preeminent, and all work together like a machine. The team as a whole averages 180 pounds and there is not an ounce of superfluous flesh in it. Unfortunately Virginia is sadly in need of a star drop-kicker; however, Murphy, a Florida boy, and White of the varsity show promise of developing into fair kickers.

The coaches have been giving the teams regular scrimmages until the past week, when they have been going through with long signal drills. The varsity showed up in the defensive by no means as well against the scrubs as against South Carolina. Priddy at center; Sparr at left end, and Johnson, left tackle, are doing fine work for the scrubs and the scrubs made almost as good a showing as the varsity. Such scrimmages as these furnish excellent preparation for the match games which are soon to follow.

TECH SCRUBS WIN OVER G. M. A. TEAM

By Hal Reynolds.

The Tech scrubs came out victorious over the eleven from Georgia Military academy yesterday afternoon on Grant field, rolling up a score of 36 to their opponents 7.

The cadets sprang somewhat of a surprise on the college team by putting up a much better article of ball than they were thought capable of, as they not only gave the scrubs a hard game, but outplayed them in the third quarter, making many nice gains and a large number of first downs.

The scrubs started scoring a few minutes after play began by ramming their opponents' line, Gardner being sent over for the touchdown after the ball had been brought to the 5-yard line by the other members of the backfield.

G. M. A. chose to receive after Gardner's score. They returned the kickoff for 20 yards and then, on two great runs by Kendall and Smith, the ball was carried to the scrubs' 5-yard line. After being repulsed for three downs by the strong work of the opposing linemen, the latter weakened and Davis wiggled over for the cadets the only score of the day. Smith kicked the goal.

The shining light for the scrubs was Hayes, at right half. This boy put up a strong game, both on the offense and defense, putting up some of the prettiest work ever witnessed on Grant field. In the second quarter he pulled down Smith from behind on the 5-yard line, saving his team a touchdown. He also got away to several nice runs for good gains.

Morrison also played a strong article of ball, being especially effective on the offense.

For G. M. A., Smith played the best game. Bennett was the only man who could pierce the scrub line with any degree of consistency, nearly always making the distance when intrusted with the ball on the fourth down. Smith got away with several punts for good distances.

FOOTBALL GAMES

South.

Vanderbilt 48, Central Kentucky 0.

Nashville, Tenn., October 11.—Relying solely on straight football, Vanderbilt easily defeated the Central of Kentucky team this afternoon by a score of 48 to 0. The Commodors made seven touchdowns, kicking three goals, while Boenech added 3 points by a neat drop kick from the 20-yard line. Vanderbilt's line did not show the expected strength, and the visitors gained it repeatedly. Central tried seven forward passes, being successful on two of them, while Vanderbilt did not attempt the play. Sikes's brilliant run of 60 yards for a touchdown after receiving a punt was the most sensational feature of the day, while Boenech also skirted the opposing ends time and again for long gains. A lineup of reserves was used by Vanderbilt after the first quarter.

South Carolina 27, Wake Forest 0.

Columbia, S. C., October 11.—Speedy and sweeping end runs by Von Keinitz and Heyward won today's game for the University of South Carolina over Wake Forest college by a score of 27 to 10. The North Carolina team ran most of its plays from a wing-shift formation. Savage did the best work for Wake Forest.

L. S. A. 26, S. I. 0.

Lafayette, La., October 11.—Louisiana State university only piled up 26 points against the Southwestern Industrial institute eleven today in a game marked by repeated fumbles and numerous penalties, a majority of which were against L. S. U. Louisiana did not score until the second period, and repeated in the next two.

Washington and Lee 19, St. Johns 0.

Lexington, Va., October 11.—(Special.)—Checking St. Johns' forward passing proclivities, Washington and Lee won easily, 19 to 0. The battle was featured by the open playing of both elevens, and the forward pass was used exclusively. Friend and Barker scored touchdowns, while Donahue drop-kicked two field goals. Several brilliant broken-field runs were recorded, but over fifteen forward passes were completed.

Tulane 13, Jefferson 0.

New Orleans, October 11.—Tulane narrowly escaped a scoreless tie in the first game of the season with Jefferson college today, a 50-yard penalty for slugging practically giving them the first touchdown in the first period and a fumble of a pass in the last quarter sending Tulane across the line again with a 13 to 0 score for them.

Tech High 7; Rome A. C. 6.

Rome, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Despite the fact that Rome Athletic club greatly outweighed them, the Tech High school, Atlanta lads, copped a gridiron victory here this afternoon under a summer sun by the score of 7 to 6. Teams surged up and down in center of field until third quarter when Jim Parks carried ball 80 yards to touchdown and Colcord kicked goal. In last quarter Hardin made touchdown for Rome, but missed goal. Covington, of Georgia, Quigg and Betts, of Davidson, and Cochran, of Clemson, were in line up for Rome, but failed to show their quondam form

L. G. I. 40; Lanier High 0.

Locust Grove, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Locust Grove institute today was returned the victor in the football against Lanier High school. The score was 40 to 0. The game was slow, neither team showing much spirit until the second half when Locust Grove institute began to score almost at will. Lanier, while playing gamely, was too light to stop the line bucks and end runs of Locust Grove. Dupree, of Locust Grove, played spectacularly. His kicking being a feature. Woodruff, Sims, Harkins and Witcher also did splendid work. Referee Cason. Umpire Davis. Headlinesman Gray.

Ala. Preds 78; 4th Aggies 0.

Anniston, Ala., October 11.—(Special.) Reinforced by the presence of Lamar Boykin better organized and with a fine team work, the Alabama Presbyterian college Preds, who were slaughtered by Georgia last Saturday, got a sweet revenge by defeating the fourth district agricultural school today, by a score of 78 to 0. Tuskegee made fourth down only a few times and were always on the defensive, never threatening the goal of the Preps. The visitors won the toss and kicked to the Preds. Boykin went over after three minutes of play and scored five times thereafter. Stevenson went over twice on long forward passes, Leach, Green, Flowers and Nathan making the other scores. Goal was kicked four times. Archibald and Parker played good defensive ball, Edwards and Peace were the mainstays of the visitors.

Princeton 28; Bucknell 6.

Princeton, N. J., October 11.—Using a maze of forward passes, usually successful, but in one instance good for forty yards and a touchdown, Bucknell crossed the Princeton goal line this afternoon for the first time this season. Topham failed to kick the goal. The final score was Princeton 28; Bucknell 6.

Princeton had no difficulty in plowing through the visitors' line for three touchdowns to which Streit added another on a 60-yard run, H. A. H. Baker kicking four goals from the touchdowns. The manipulation of line formations by the Tigers with Streit carrying the ball most of the time, was the feature of the game. When the visitors found the Tiger line impregnable for line formation they returned to the forward pass and attempted it for 90 per cent of their plays.

East.

Yale 27; LaFayette 0.

New Haven, Conn., October 11.—The Yale eleven struck what the coaches call its real gait this afternoon and defeated LaFayette 27 to 0 in a drizzling rain. A fumble and a penalty, each time when the ball was on the visitors' one-yard line, prevented Yale from making two more touchdowns.

Today's game showed the blue eleven strong at quarterback. Besides running the team well Cornich starred individually with long runs through broken fields.

LaFayette had two chances to score, once in the second period on a drop kick from the 32-yard line which missed its mark by inches and once on a drop kick from the 40-yard line. The latter play was smothered. Line rushes failed for LaFayette, but forward passes were successful, netting them a total of 70 yards.

Army 29; Rutgers 0.

West Point, October 11.—The Army defeated Rutgers easily today, 29 to 0. The visitors never got inside the Army's 25-yard line and their mass plays attack was torn to pieces by the army's splendid defense.

The entire scrub team of the army was ssent in to play two of the quarters, which were of ten minutes each.

Penn 20; Swarthmore 0.

Philadelphia, October 11.—The University of Pennsylvania got revenge today for the 6 to 3 defeat administered by Swarthmore last year, trouncing the visitors on Franklin Field this afternoon 20 to 0. Two touchdowns, a goal from the field and one from placement, marked the scoring power of Coach Brooke's machine which swept their opponents off their feet in their last two periods. Straight football was resorted to by both teams during most of the game, neither eleven being able to work the forward pass with much success.

Cambridge, Mass., October 11.—Harvard's football team was played to a standstill for three periods today by an eleven from Williams, but in the closing moments of the play the Crimson scoring machine got into action and made three touchdowns. The final score was, Harvard 23; Williams 3.

Brickley scored three Harvard points in the second period on an easy field goal on the 18-yard line and Walker of Williams, evened up matters in the third period with a placement goal from the 25-yard mark. Like Williams field goal of last year, the score was made possible by three brilliantly executed forward passes. With the count three to three at the opening of the fourth period, Coach Haughton called leading Crimson players back into the game and Brickley, Bradlee and Rollins scored touchdowns in succession.

Ithaca, N. Y., October 11.—Carlisle barely won from Cornell today by a score of 7 to 0. Three times Cornell had the ball on the Indians' 5-yard line, but lacked the necessary punch to carry it over. The Red and White outplayed the redskins continuously except in the first period, when the visitors made their only score.

West.

Michigan 14, Mount Union 0.

Ann Arbor, Mich., October 11.—Showing only flashes of predicted form, Michigan was held to a 14 to 0 football score by the light game of the Mount Union eleven today. All of Michigan's scoring came in the second quarter, when Catlett, Benton and Hughitt penetrated the stubborn defense of the visitors.

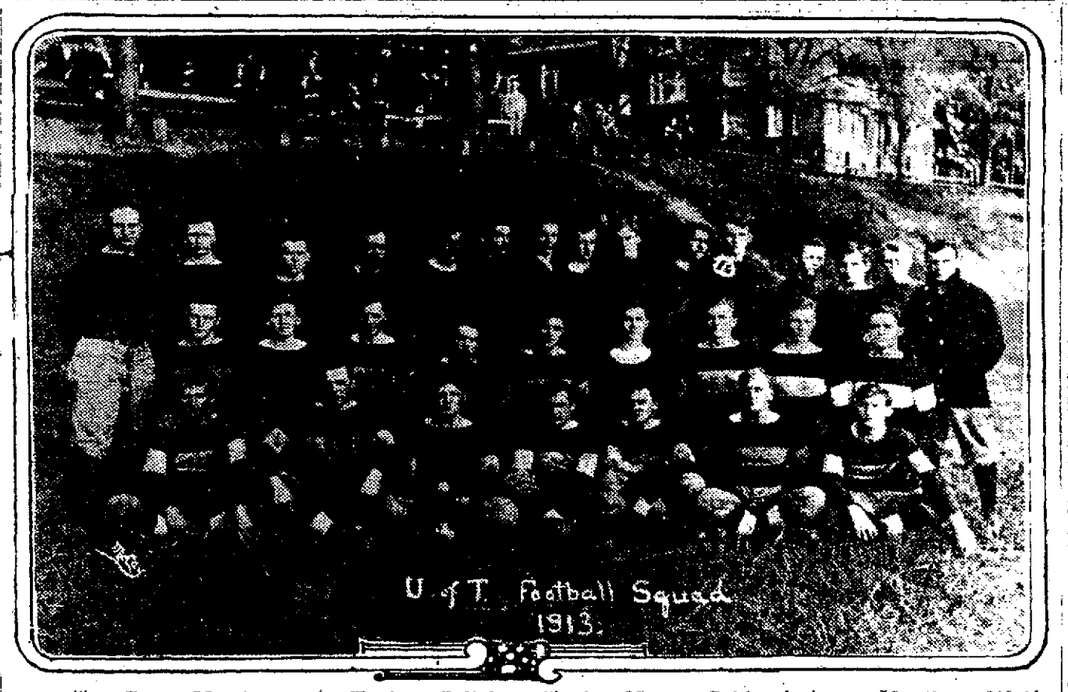

Ohio State 14, Western Reserve 8.

Columbus, Ohio, October 11.—Playing on a soggy field, Ohio State today defeated Western Reserve, 14 to 8. Reserve players put up a stubborn defense throughout the contest.

Purdue 34, Northwestern 0.

Lafayette, Ind., October 11.—Purdue overwhelmed Northwestern on Stuart Field this afternoon, winning a one-sided game by a score of 34 to 0. It was Purdue's game from the outset, the visitors being unable stop Purdue's plunging half backs.

Tennessee's 1913 Football Squad

By Lester Barnes.

Knoxville, Tenn., October 11.—(Special.)—After nearly a month of regular practice members of the University of Tennessee football squad are rounding into shape, and present indications are that the team will be stronger this year than was the team of 1908, which came very near defeating Vanderbilt for the championship of the south.

Nine members of the 1912 team are back in school this year, but the jobs of all of them are by no means cinched, for there is a lot of very promising new material on hand, and there is a hard fight for all positions on the team, except tackle, which will be played by Captain Hayley and "Big" Kelly.

At present also it seems as though Rainey, a youth from the Columbia Military Institute, has cinched a berth for himself at quarter as long as he remains uninjured. This youngster appears to be the find of the year and should make one of the best quarters in the south. He is of stocky build, weighing 155 pounds, is a deadly tackler, a good open-field runner and can also zig-zag his way through a broken field extremely well and handles punts like a veteran.

It has been several years since Tennessee had a quarterback, but if Rainey continues as he has been going the Volunteers should be well fortified in that particular this year.

Line Coach on Hand.

Tennessee now has, what it never had before, a special coach for the linemen—"Bob" Harris, a graduate of Chicago university, having been secured for that position a few days ago. Harris was a member of the championship Chicago team of 1908, and also played at Chicago in 1906 and 1907. He was an all-western lineman and considered by Coach Stagg one of the best forwards ever developed at Chicago.

Since coming to Tennessee as assistant to Coach Clevenger, Harris has been able to work wonders with the Volunteer forwards and has them fighting as they have not done in recent years. A very aggressive player himself, he has imparted a lot of his aggressiveness to his charges. With Harris devoting his time to the forwards and Coach Clevenger superintending the work of the backfield men and the ends, the Tennessee team has been making rapid progress and at this time looks as though it would be one off the best in the history of the university.

Veterans Who Are Back.

Members of last year's team who are back in school are Captain Hayley and Kelly, tackles; Kerr, guard; McLean, center; Carroll and McClure, ends; Dawson and Thomason, halves, and Lindsay, fullback. The latter played at half much of the time last year but has been working at full recently since Fender, of the 1912 team, failed to return to school.

Among the most promising new men are Rainey, quarter; Meek, a 200-pounder, trying for a position at guard; M. Vowell, a 185-pound tackle; G. Vowell, Chandler and Callahan, halves; Aston and Sorrells, ends. Two players on the second team of last year who have been showing up extremely well this season are Bayer and Taylor, linemen.

With Bayer at center, Kerr and Meek in the guard positions, and Kelly and Hayley at tackle, the line will average 198 pounds, while the average is about 2 pounds less with McLean, of last year's team, at the pivotal point.

When the forwards are playing as noted above, and Carroll and McLure or Aston on the ends; Rainey at quarter, and Dawson, Thomason and Lindsay in the backfield, the team will average nearly 175 pounds, and is fast also. The playing of Chandler and Callahan in the backfield does not affect the average at all, scarcely.

The Two Big Games.

The coaches, members of the team and its followers generally are particularly anxious to make a good showing against the Sewanee team at Chattanooga October 18, and Vanderbilt at Nashville, November 8, and the candidates are being trained with this fact in view. Thus far only two games have been played this season and they were against small college teams, but in the first the Volunteers defeated Carson-Newman 58 to 0, and in the second won from the Athens department of the University of Chattanooga, 95 to 0.

BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL HAS EASY VICTORY

By Carl Taylor.

Piling up the huge score of 58 to 0, the Boys' High school eleven triumphed over the boys from Donald Fraser school Saturday afternoon.

The game was fast and full of brilliant plays by both teams. The Donald Fraser lads showed some excellent material for the making of a good team, but lacked the practice that is necessary to a good football team. Especially weak was the team's line. Time afte rtimeit the high school boys would buck the line for large gains that could have easily been held down with a little more practice by Donald Fraser's line.

Despite this, the playing of Van Valkenburg, Watter, Phillips and Weaver was good. The playing and line bucking of Phillips was excellent; he would hit the line for good gains with practically no interference whatsoever. The end run for 25 yards by Van Valkenburg was brilliant.

For high school, the whole team played well and showed the result of the good coaching that Coach Wood has been putting them through for the past two weeks. Inman, Olmstead, Cook and Johnston were the individual stars of the afternoon. Inman and Knox got away with two good runs, both of them resulting in touchdowns. He was the life of the team and his encouragement to the team helped them wonderfully.

Sid Johnson was the only player hurt during the struggle, and while he had to be carried home in an automobile, his injury was not considered dangerous.

Both teams played good, clean ball and neither side was penalized a single time by the referee.

CLEMSON BEATEN BY THIN RED LINE

Tuscaloosa, Ala., October 11.—(Special.)—Although outweighed about ten pounds to the man, Alabama defeated Clemson by a score of 20 to 0.

The superior team work of the Crimson, coupled with their old-time fighting spirit, overcame the wearers of the Orange and Purple and the game was never in doubt from the start. While the game proved that the "thin red line" is going to be a factor to be reckoned with in the S. I. A. A., still no surplus amount of strength was displayed on the part of the wears of the Crimson.

Alabama resorted throughout to straight football, and was forced to punt only a very few times during the progress of the game.

As usual, the distinct star of the game was Captain Vandegraff. He not only made two of the three touchdowns credited to the Crimson, but he proved a tower on defense, tackling man after man for a loss.

Long also proved his worth by his great line plunging and also by his punting. Vandegraff played a great game in the line, as also did Burks. The spirit displayed during and after the game by the Alabama students was the best ever seen on the campus.

Alabama at last seems to be waking up to the fact that organized rooting is an efficient factor in the winning of athletic contests. The snake dance pulled off between the halves was soo strong.

Supporters of the crimson and white feel a great deal more optimistic over the prospects for the game next Saturday with Georgia. Clemson fought gamely, but lacked the vim and dash that characterized the "thin red line."

At no time was Alabama's goal in serious danger, although the game was fast and furiously fought from start to finish. In view of the showing made today by Alabama, the game with Georgia should prove very exciting to the supporters of both teams.

ENGLISH WOMEN GOLF STARS SHOW AN EDGE

Wilmington, Del., October 11.—Great Britain gained a narrow victory over the United States in a woman's team match today, preliminary to the women's national golf tournament, which begins Monday on the Wilmington Country club links. The British-Canadian team took four matches to three for the Americans. The result practically hinged upon the contest between Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, formerly woman's champion of England, and Miss Lillian Hyde, of New York, the former winning, 1 up.

Miss Muriel Dodd, English and Canadian champion, played a good game against Miss Margaret Curtis, of Boston, and won easily, 5 up and 4 to play. Of the other five matches, Great Britain won two and the United States three.

CICOTTE TWIRLS SOX TO VICTORY

He Also Drives in the Runs That Even Up the Count in the Series With Evers' Cubs.

Chicago, October 11.—Eddie Cicotte today pitched himself into a lot of holes, pitched himself out of most of them and then batted the White Sox to a 5 to 2 victory that made the city championship series even, with two games for each team.

George Pierce resisted a steady bombardment in the fifth and looked like a winner until the American leaguers combined their efforts in a vicious onslaught in the seventh, when he retired.

It was the last game in which the players participate in the receipts, and they will divide "sixty-forty" the sum of $35,324.

Today's figures are: Attendance, 32,707; receipts, $21,769; commission's share, $2,180; players' share, $11,755; each club, $5,817.

The total amount the teams will divide is $36,324. Each man of the winning team will receive $908 and each man of the losing team $605. The Cubs have 24 men, and the White Sox 23 eligible to receive prize money.

G-R-I-T: MERCER UNIVERSITY'S 1913 FOOTBALL TEAM WILL HAVE PEP, SPEED AND NERVE A-PLENTY

BY DICK JEMISON.

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) The title of "the best little team in the south" will pass into other hands this season.

Last year, it was Georgia Tech that held that honor and carried the title through a successful season, which, though dotted here and there with defeats, was considered one of the best seasons a Tech team ever had.

This year the Mercer university team will have the title and, from the present outlook, gives every evidence of keeping up the splendid compliment the title implies.

These three attributes, which are necessary in all football teams, will be the prime factors in the make-up of the Mercer university football eleven of 1913.

Got Bad Breaks.

In grit, the Mercer team is overrunning. Their coach only recently declared that he believed his team would fight to the last drop of the hat in every game they play during the coming season.

This will be the first and foremost quality of the Mercer team. Glory be to them that it is so.

Take a glance at the gloomy outlook that greeted Mercer football fans at the start of the football practice a month ago, and one marvels at the spirit and fight that the team is showing in every workout and has shown in the games played to date.

In the first place, several of the veterans of last year's team were lost by various causes and those who were counted on as sure to return, decided not to at the last hour—Blow No. 1.

The first day of football practice but fifteen men, only four more than a regular football team, showed up on the field, and at no time during the entire season to date has Coach Hardage had more than twenty-five candidates on the field.—Blow No. 2.

The men who have shown up for practice are not only inexperienced, but are light. In other words, the coach might have worried with only twenty-five men had the material been enough. At Mercer it is not only a lack of quality, but quantity as well.

Add to this bad break the fact that several of the players, who are considered regulars and for whom there are no capable substitutes if they are injured, have been out of the game from time to time with injuries and one can readily see why the outlook is far from rosy.

Determined Spirit.

Instead of breaking the spirit of Coach Hardage the players and the student body, the three are working as a unit. As if by mutual understanding, they have realized that Mercer must make the best of her resources as they found them.

A sort of back-to-back, up-against-the-wall fight has caused every one connected with the team to ooze out spirit, pep and fight. A last ditch grapple, a desire to die with their boots on as it were.

Macon fans are a unit in declaring that the gloomy outlook has produced just the opposite effect on the Mercer team. Instead of being discouraged, they are as one man fighting the fight of their lives and this spirit is going to bring them through a season of success despite what the critics may be as every one loves a game man, and the Mercer team is game.

Lewie W. Hardage, probably the greatest half back that southern football has ever seen, is engaging in his first year as a coach. Known as a fighter when playing himself, Hardage has infused this fight into his men and they show no signs of quitting.

Can you imagine yourself in the place of a coach who, when he issues the call for candidates for the football team, finds only fifteen men answering the call? Could you smile in the face of such an obstacle?

Lewie Hardage did, then gritted his teeth and went to work. His spirit permeated his men. He has them all with him and no matter who Mercer plays or what the score may be, the other team will know that it has had a fight.

Lack of Weight Hurts.

The lack of weight, especially in the line, hurts the Baptists' chances more than anything else. Hardage has a bunch of willing, earnest players, who play football for all they are worth, but lined up against heavier teams they are at a disadvantage, at once noticed, even by the most casual observer.

The backfield is speedy and gets under way fast. Hardage was an adept at fast starting when playing and he has taught his backfield to play this game. If there was a little more weight in the line, permitting the backfield to get away faster, Mercer would give every team an even harder tussle than they are sure to do with their great spirit.

The backfield will only average 145 pounds to the man, light even for a prep school team. These lightweights will not be able to stand the wear and tear of a hard-fought game against heavier opponents. But what is a source of worry to their coach is that, as is sure to happen playing against heavier teams, one of the light stars will be injured. Hardage then has no one to put into their places without weakening the strength and smoothness with which the plays are pulled off.

The team as a whole will show an average weight of only 158 pounds to the man, which is one pound to the man lighter than the game little Tech team of last season.

The Strong Points.

After riding on the Gloom Special, this far along, let's transfer to the Joy Limited and ride on it for a brief spell. There are some bright spots to the Mercer team.

The team is possessed of three stars, men who will show up splendidly in every game that the eleven plays this year. Their individual efforts will give every team that the Baptists play something to think about after the game is over.

Captain Mills, who is holding down one of the guard positions, is one of the best linemen that Mercer ever boasted of, and this season the added burdens of leading a fighting eleven seems to have increased rather than diminished his effectiveness in the line.

Mills is playing a smashing game on the defense. He gets into every play started on the line and the opposing guards have found him one of the toughest men they have ever played.

By electing Mills captain, the Mercer boys conferred an honor that was signally due a hard working lineman, a day in and day out consistent player, who has endeared himself to every Mercer fan.

The other side of the line also finds a bulwark of strength playing left tackle in "Big Boy" Forrester, to many Macon football fans the peer of any tackle that have ever been in action.

Forrester is one of the rangy kind of tackles, with a wonderful head for sizing up plays before they are started, a demon in bringing down the runner when he gets them and a hard man for the opposition to box.

With Forrester and Mills in the line, Mercer has two stars after whom the other players try to pattern their play. Both of these fellows are veterans.

The Offensive Star.

Every team has its offensive star. Cochran, the fastest man on the squad, is Mercer's offensive star. His strong suit is in circling the ends and, despite his lightweight, he has frequently made large gains around the wings without any aid.

Cochran has been dubbed "Skipper" by his team-mates. They give him this nickname by reason of his speed and his uncanny ability to elude would-be tacklers with a skip—entirely his own peculiar style of dodging.

On a team that could furnish him better interference Cochran would prove one of the real stars of the present football season.

Cochran's running mate, John Westmoreland, an Atlanta boy, is at present on the shelf for repairs from injuries sustained in the game with Auburn and was unable to play in yesterday's game with Howard at Birmingham.

Westmoreland has been assigned the difficult task of returning punts for the Orange and Black and in this capacity he shines. His judgment in receiving the twisting spirals on the run without a fumble makes him a very valuable man to play back on the defense.

Westmoreland is also a good tackler and has frequently brought down the man when he eluded the rest of the team. It was on one of these plays that he was hurt in the Auburn game.

Westmoreland was originally an end but lack of backfield material, coupled with his speed, caused Coach Hardage to shift him to the backfield this year.

Other Backfield Men.

Mercer had a wealth of good ends to start off the season with, in fact the majority of the few candidates out for positions on the team were wing men.

Irwin's failure to return to school caused a shift in plans at Mercer, and Sams, who played a grand game both offensively and defensively at end last season, was shifted to the quarterback position.

Although new to the position, Sams has been playing an excellent game and has been showing good judgment in the kind of plays he calls under all conditions. All Mercer fans ask is that Sams plays as good a quarterback as he did an end.

Two men are battling for the fullback position, Lee, a new man, and Parker, who graduated from the scrubs, both are light but good line plungers for their weight.

Parker will probably be given the choice by reason of the greater experience. He is probably the most effective and fiercest tackler on the whole squad.

Sammons and Newton, the two star halfbacks on the Locust Grove institute eleven last season, will be the sub backfield men, and although lacking in experience, they show up well when substituted for the regulars.

Other Line Men.

Holman, who made his "M" last season, is back in school this year and is as different a player as black is when compared with white.

Holman lacked aggressiveness last season and this caused his work to suffer and at times some criticisms to be heaped upon his head. But he has absorbed the fighting spirit that prevails throughout the entire lineup and his entire game is showing a wonderful improvement.

Holman is an accurate snapper back and it is his accuracy in this respect that enables the fleet, light back field to get into motion so fast as the fumbling feature of all football games has been practically elimited.

On the left side of Holman will be found Levi, who was on the scrubs last season, being ineligible by reason of having played at the University of Georgia the year before. Levi carries the necessary weight.

The Ends.

Hughuley who played guard last season and in that position showed some of the fiercest tackling during Mercer's season, has with the graduation of the ends to the back field, been shifted to the wing position by Coach Hardage.

Hughuley is a big fellow with plenty of speed and a hard man for the opposing end and tackle to box when a play is started around his wing. Although new to the position he has taken to it like a duck does to water and promises to show even better at end than he did at guard.

Hertwig, who will look after the other end position, has been on the scrubs for the past two seasons, where he has learned a lot of football. He has put on a lot of weight since he first came to school, but he is a trifle light even now.

Hertwig is an adept on the receiving end of the forward pass, the play that Mercer must rely on a lot in her games this year, in addition to other tricks.

Hertwig's defensive play could be improved somewhat, but he is learning fast and Coach Hardage believes he will show up splendidly before the season closes.

Ledbetter, a new man, shows promise and will be the first sud end.

Summing Up.

Summing up the outlook of the Mercer team during the present season, we find that Coach Hardage has a gritty, scrappy bunch that will be in the thick of every game until the last whistle is blown.

The game crowd of football players fighting to uphold the honor of their alma mater, but who buy reason of their lightweight and the lack of good substitutes will find the going mighty hard.

But they are going at the thing in the right manner. Every one pulls for a game man in every line of endeavor. Mercer will, if the team maintains its gameness until the end of the season, earn a host of friends, regardless of the score of the games.

The Old Time Fan Talks Of World's Series Games

By Charles A. Lamar.

The world's series started off with considerable glee, not to say eclat, and the Philadelphia outfit had the Majors heroes walking on their ankles in the first conflict. It is a significant fact that both the attendance and the enthusiasm fell far below that of 1912. And so it goes. The player-historians hammered the baseball populace with wooden clubs weeks before the smaller tint event, so that all hands became dizzy, while spading for wind. The world's series dates are always an epoch for the player-reporters in snowing the pen and inking the welkin ring in an octave of pipes like a flock of hyenas. Suffice to say all of them spelled the same old line of chatter. It was up to them to deliver the merchandise and they worked like truck horses on the job and the whole outfit got in wrong and was flagged at the post. 'Tough luck, all around.' Yes.

Player-Writers' Bunk.

In speculative dope and oracular baseball bunk the player-historians' stuff was a loo-loo and demonstrated that the difference between snagging 'em out of the circumambient, chopping 'em over the infield and belting 'em to the tall and uncut is wider than the Gulf of Mexico. But the player-scribes have captured and caged that commodity known as four-flushing. Ah ha! in fact, boo-hoo. What? Well, poo-pooh!

Take the first game in New York and analyze it without bias or prejudice and what's the answer? Well gents, the Giants were outplayed and really outclassed from start to finish. Both the infield and outfields 'blew' in the pinches and the feracious attack and superb defense of the Athletics ripped the "Giant" combination from stem to stern and put it on the blink right from the getaway.

Yet, McGraw said they were 'lucky.' And Reuben, the Gem, announced in a burst of cock-sureness that he would beat the clan of Mack to a white foam.

That the law of chance had Baker hanging on the ropes, so far as repeating with a homer off him was concerned. That sounded good all right, but the dope sprung a leak also a coincidence that caught the "Rube" between the eyes and dislocated his bean. Baker did repeat and there was nothing to it but the pickle tar for Reuben.

The laws of chance and co-incidences are sometimes dangerous propositions to monkey with, particularly when Frankiln Baker is handy with a bludgeon. It is not often that a guy gets his block knocked off with the law of chance and a co-incidence, but Mr. Marquard became suddenly conscious that trailing the Athletics was no longer interesting to him.

He faded from the landscape like a snow ball in a rolling mill. Such are the penalties of fame.

Boost for Matty.

The game in Philadelphia was a hummer all the way. Notwithstanding the brilliant work of Plank, it affords the writer infinite pleasure to say that Mathewson's exhibition of brains, skill and courage in the crisis has never been equaled in the annals of baseball. It was marvelous, and that's all there is to it. Another man without Matty's superb courage, even with equal skill, could not have come through in a year. Without Mathewson, the gang from Coogan's Bluff couldn't win a pennant in a decade.

Matty's masterly pitching and his resounding clout in the tenth, whiffed the Athletics to the hog train and soaked up the thrills in the Philadelphia fans like a force pump working overtime in a swimming pool. Of course the close play on Strunk at the plate when Connolly called him safe and Plank's inability to put the blocks to McLean who singled and who, when Plank is "right," would have looked like a man without arms, were powerful factors in New York's victory. But never mind, boys, Matty was the "works," after all.

Some of the baseball writers and nearly all the player-dopesters are panning Connie Mack for not taking Plank out and shoving in pinch hinglers and so on, and so forth. And maybe they are right. But I have an abiding faith they will have the time of their lives in getting anything, or even anywhere in a gabfest on baseball with the tall and taciturn Cornelius McGillicuddy. He's the guy who uses his own judgment, keeps his own dope sheets and doesn't care a tinker's dam for the favorable or unfavorable opinions of all the player-literateurs in the universe.

Collins and Baker.

Collins and Baker have joined the tribe and it may be said in passing that they took to it like it was real work. Collins, however made one good point. He said that the rabid New Yorkers were yelling their heads off about the probable inability of the Athletics to hit McGraw's string of pitchers. He came back as follows: Well admitting the force of that argument, who told those guys that the Giants could slaughter Bush, Shawkey and Houck?" Well, they didn't tell Bush, did they? What?

The truth is, that brilliant youngster had them trimmed to a whisper all the way. It was a grand triumph and confirms the unerring judgment of that prince of baseball wizards, Connie Mack.

And the wind it blew
The hail it hailed
And the snow it snew

"Ah," said the woodcock,
And the way he flew;
And the next day—
Well, the Giants blew

The big noise in baseball is the unexpected, better known as trouble in bunches. I should worry, and win world's series on paper, with player-dopesters to keep the books.

HARLEM TOMMY TO MEET M'FARLAND

Lightweights Will Meet at Garden at Welterweight Limit—Ritchie Is in New York for Cross Bout.

BY JAMES J. CORBETT,

New York, October 11.—(Special.)—The Giants and Athletics have been hogging about all the space usually alloted to sporting events in the local dailies the past week, but boxing enthusiasts have not forgotten that a very interesting welterweight match is on the cards for next Friday night at Madison Square Garden. The pair who will furnish the entertainment claim to be legitimate lightweights, although I understand the weight agreed upon for the coming bout has been set at 140 ringside. If they don't qualify as out and out welters at that figure I don't know how to classify them.

Oh, yes, I have forgotten to name the principals. They are the celebrated Packey McFarland and the hardly less famous "Harlem Tommy" Murphy of this city. At 140 pounds, I should judge that Packey will be able to set a very lively pace for the local man. And while Murphy will also no doubt be benefitted by the additional poundage I hardly think him fast enough to make much headway against the greater skill of his rival.

For all that it should be an interesting set-to. McFarland is as clever as they come in the boxing line and what he don't know about the game of hit, stop and get away is hardly worth telling. Murphy is and always has been more of a plodder, hard working and always trying, willing to give and take at all stages. I fancy, though that in this case he will do more 'taking' than 'giving.'

I don't know whether McFarland intends to stick to the welterweight division in the future or not. Last time I talked with him he was not so sure that he cared to stay in the game any longer—unless of course he got a chance to box for the lightweight title. But the Murphy match makes it look as if he had reconsidered and had decided to box whenever there is a chance to get a good purse for his trouble. And any time Packey elects to box in this city he is sure of drawing a big crowd, no matter who is opponent may be. Gothamites like to see the real things in the boxing line and Mac surely gives the crowd an artistic treat every time he starts.

Ritchie in Gotham.

Willie Ritchie, chaperoned by Manager Harry Foley, has been among us the past ten days or so. Willie lost no time upon his arrival in signing to appear at a prominent vaudeville house, which indicates that in dropping Billy Nolan for Foley the champion has lost nothing in a business way.

Willie was rather peeved at the stories in circulation that he ran out of the match with Freddy Welsh because he was afraid of the British champion. He says it was simply a matter of business with him and that when the promoters balked at putting up the money guaranteed he called everything off. Willie said that had the bout gone through as originally scheduled on Labor day it would have drawn big, but that the promoters were afraid they had booked a loser after a postponement had been made necessary through Welsh's accident. Willie says he is out for money and is satisfied to let the other fellows have the glory. But as for being afraid of Welsh, that's different.

"I was not afraid of Welsh when I was a novice," Willie told me the other day, "and I held him pretty even then. So now that I have had the benefit of two years' more experience, during which time I won the lightweight title from Wolgast it is hardly likely I would be afraid to take a chance with the same man today, is it? I am willing to box Welsh at any time over any distance. All that he will have to do is to get some reliable promoter to make me a suitable offer and the match is on."

"How about a match with Packey McFarland?" I asked the champion.

"I have read several of your articles in which you have been urging a match between Packey and myself," replied the champion. "And want to tell you that I am not the one who has balked at the match. If McFarland wants to meet me, though, he will have to make 135 pounds ringside. That's the greatest concession I will make him. I am not going to risk my reputation by boxing welterweights. At least not welters of the caliber of Packey McFarland. I am a legitimate lightweight, and won the title at 133. Still if Packey is as anxious to box me as he professes to be, I will stretch a point and let him come in at 135. I can make that figure without any great effort and could hardly afford to let such a good man come in any heavier."

Willie said that after the Cross match he expects to return to San Francisco to box Tommy Murphy at Jim Coffeotle's club, but that while on the ground here he is ready to talk business with any one. Willie says he don't care who he boxes. He will leave the selection of his opponents to the promoters. Give him the money and he's not particular.

FLETCHER FINED $100 FOR CURSING UMPIRE

Virginia 53, Hampden Sydney 0.

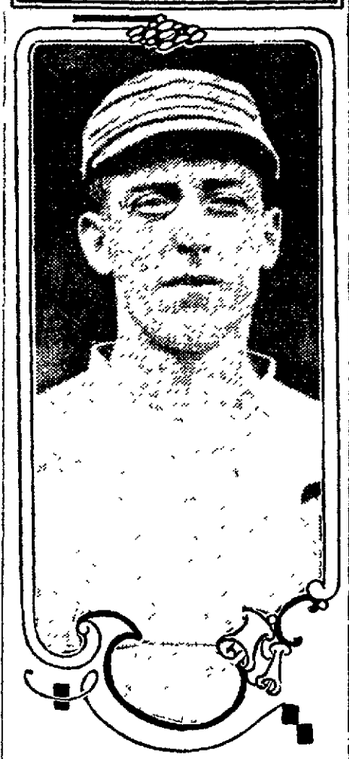

Charlottesville, Va., October 11—The University fo Virginia today defeated Hampden Sydney college by a score of 53 to 0 in the last game of the preliminary season Eight touchdowns were made, five of these being converted into goals by Captain Carter. The gridiron was a quagmire in spots, but it did not stop the fine work of the Virginia eleven. The varsity was slow in starting, only one touchdown being scored in the first quarter. Three followed in quick succession, however, in the secon, all being made by Mayer, who gave a wonderful exhibition of line plunging.

TWIRLED GREAT BALL

EDDIE PLANK,
Connie Mack's wonderful veteran left-hander, who twirled the greatest game of his career on Saturday when he beat the Giants, allowing but two hits.

PLANK MASTERS GIANTS IN THE FINAL GAME

through an excusable error by Plank Burns sent a hot liner into the hands of McInnis, which he held Plank had difficulty in getting the ball over the plate for Shafer and as a result the Giants' centerfielder was the first of the New York team to see first base, getting a pass Murray here lifted a high fly to the infield Barry and Baker ran in to get it but Barry stopped to let Baker make the catch.

Plank barely moved from the box and was set for the catch as Baker dashed into him also endeavoring to get the ball As a result of the mix-up Plank dropped the ball and Murray was safe on first and Shafer on second. Had either Baker or Plank held the ball a double play would have been completed, ending the inning, as Shafer was speeding past second when the error was made, with one out and two on the bases things began to look dangerous for the Athletics as Larry McLean came to the bat

The tall catcher had been hitting consistently and the crowd went into a frenzy when he lashed a screeching single to left field, scoring Shafer Murray went to second Merkle, who helped put the Giants into the game again in Philadelphia on Friday by his home run drive hit into a double play forcing McLean at second, Collins to Barry and being thrown out at first by the Philadelphia shortstop.

Baker opened the Athletics' fifth inning with a smoking single to right field He moved to second on young McInnis' sacrifice, McLean to Doyle Baker went to third on Strunk's out, Doyle to Merkle and Barry ended the inning by sending a grounder down to Fletcher who had to make a long throw to first Mathewson in the sixth, singled to right and the rooters looked for a batting rally. It was the only time in the game that Plank failed to get the first man up He changed his style of delivering the ball and took his time in shooting it up. Herzog smashed a grounder at Barry who threw to Collins, forcing Mathewson and Herzog was doubled up at first It was a fast double play. Doyle flied out to Murphy. Shank struck in the Athletics' seventh inning Plank sent a grounder to Doyle and as the latter fielded the ball cleanly did not waste his energy running to first Murphy drew a base on balls, the only pass that Mathewson gave, but was left on first as Oldring sent up a high foul that McLean gathered in near the New York players' bench.

Quick to End.

Quick work was made of the Giants when they came up Fletcher drove a fly out to Strunk Burns went out Barry to McInnis, and Shafer did the same thing

In the eighth, Collins was an easy victim, Doyle to Merkle Baker chopped a grounder at Mathewson who threw him out McInnis drove a grounder at Fletcher who had to play deep to get it and the runner went out at first

Plank continued to pitch unbeatable ball backed up superbly by his teammates Murray went out on a grounder, Baker to McInnis McLean raised a fly to Oldring and Merkle was thrown out by Barry

In the ninth inning Strunk drove a high fly to Shafer, Barry hit a grounder at Herzog and was thrown out and Schang, the last Athletic batter to step to the plate in the world's series, struck out

Manager McGraw sent Crandall in to bat for Mathewson in the Giants' half of the inning The crowd evidently thought it of no use, as the vast throng began to move out of the grounds. Crandall went out Collins to McInnis Herzog flied to Barry Plank pitched carefully to Captain Doyle who lifted a fly to Murphy and with the out another world's championship went to the Philadelphia Athletics.

ATHLETICS GIVE PRAISE TO THEIR OPPONENTS

New York, October 11.—Connie Mack's Athletics were a happy lot of ball players as they left for Philadelphia tonight after having been given a demonstrative send-off by a big crowd of enthusiasts at the station. Many of the team members were hoisted to the shoulders of admirers and carried to the gate leading to the train, while the joyous fans of Philadelphia persuasion shouted themselves hoarse and raised a big uproar with a wealth of noise-making equipment

This celebration followed another almost equally noisy when the champions reached their hotel from the Polo grounds Several hundred enthusiasts almost mobbed the players as they alighted from their automobiles They were pounded on the back by such fans as could reach them on their way into the hotel, and they were cheered both individually and as a team

All the Mackmen were generous in their praise of the Giants Captain 'Danny' Murphy voiced the general sentiment

The Giants played clean ball and were the best of opponents, he said, and Frank Baker added

"We've done it again, and I hope to repeat next year, but we could not find more sportsmanlike opponents than the Giants'

Mack Is Honored.

East Brookfield Mass., October 11—The two Brookfields, the birthplace of Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, champions of the world, celebrated today's victory by Philadelphia with redfire, parades and bell-ringing Headed by a drum corps, a crowd of men and boys marched over muddy roads from Brookfield to East Brookfield to the house where Mack was born. No members of the family were there, but the present tenants of the house had anticipated the coming of the celebrators, and had red fire burning on the lawn All the street railway cars running between the two towns burned red lights Church bells were rung and a big bonfire was lighted

JAKE DAUBERT HORNS INTO BATTING LEAD

A new batting champ horned into the monopoly on the hitting honors in the National league when Jake Daubert grabbed off a percentage of .359 during the season just closed.

SPECIAL AUTOMOBILE WATCH NOW BEING MADE BY WALTHAM

The Waltham Watch company Waltham, Mass., have been manufacturing an 8-day timepiece, specially designed for automobiles, the past two years during which time several manufacturers have adopted them as regular equipment

The Waltham is the only timepiece on the market "built to keep time on an automobile," and owing to the universal satisfaction, the demand has been so great as to cause the Waltham company to create an automobile timepiece department

Mr E L Vail widely known throughout the automobile industry as having been associated with C F. Splitdorf for a number of years, and until recently sales manager of the Hoffecker speedometer company, has become associated with the Waltham Watch company, and will specialize on Waltham automobile time pieces in the future. They have about fourteen different models at present

By Dick Jemison.

J. Franklin Baker, of Trappe, Md., is the greatest player that ever carried a mace to the platter in a world's series game.

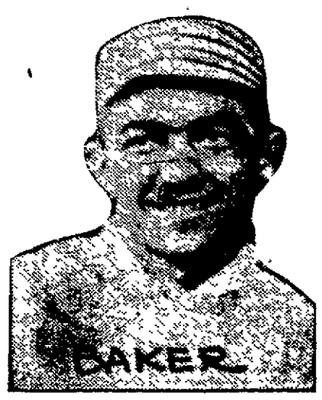

When he touched Mathewson for two safe clouts in three times at bat Saturday, Baker ran his total of hits up to nine for the third time in three world's series.

Baker hit for a .450 average in the series just closed, getting 9 hits in 20 times at bat Against the Cubs in 1910, Baker got 9 hits in 22 times at bat, an average of .409. In 1911 against the Giants, Baker got 9 blows in 24 tmies at bat, an average of .376.

In three world's series, in sixteen games played, Baker was credited with 27 hits in 66 times at bat and tallied 15 runs, a grand world's series average of .409 for three years.

Eddie Collins, the speedy second baseman of the Athletics, is Baker's closest rival for world's series hitting honors for more than one series of games.

Collins got 9 blows in 21 times at bat in the Cubs' series of 1910, 6 hits in 21 times at bat in the Giants' series in 1911, and 8 blows in 19 times at bat in the present series, giving him 23 hits in 61 times at bat in sixteen world's series games, a grand world' sseries average of .377.

All Around Class of Mackmen Told Says Irwin M. Howe

BY IRWIN M. HOWE,
Official Statistician, American League.

New York, October 11—(Special)—Another world's series has passed into history and another American league triumph recorded The battle was won more easily than most of the critics anticipated. Injuries have seriously handicapped the losers, but no one who makes any pretense of being fair minded can claim that the New York team as a whole is equal to the Athletics.

The difference is not as great as it seems now, but there is not a department of the game, barring catching, in which the Mackmen do not excel and they had the best of it even there, in this series because of the disabling of Meyers

The supposed superiority in pitching strength has been shown to be a myth, the difference in batting was conceded before the games began and in fielding there is no comparison. This last is one point that is settled beyond cavil.

The McGraw system of doing all the thinking has also had a hard wallop Three times now he has gone down to defeat before teams that combine team work machine play, with the ability and permission to act on individual initiative if occasion arose.

If Wednesday was a day of triumph for Mathewson, no less was this greatest victory ever achieved by Plank. Of course, he has pitched numberless games where his task was much more difficult and where he used a great deal more "stuff" than was necessary today, but in 1910 and 1911 Bender was given the honor of cinching the flag.

In view of the splendid showing he made against Mathewson in the second game his assignment today not only is an eloquent testimonial from Manager Mack but a convincing reply to those vociferous dopesters who had been asserting that the old man was through. Today he was certainly the huskiest looking "has been" that ever won a world's flag.

There was only one critical instant in the game, that was right after Plank had muffed Murray's pop fly. Up to that moment New York had not made a hit and no player had reached first until Shafer received his pass. The Murray hit was a little fly and with a sure double play in his hands the old boy dropped the ball.

McLean followed with the first hit of the game, scoring Shafer, and with only one out there was some nusgiving among Athletic rooters. The next two men were easily disposed of, however, closing the inning and after Mathewson had made a hit in the next round no one else reached first.

If Plank decides to retire from the game with today's effort the two games twirled this week will be remembered as a fitting climax to the long and honorable career of the best southpaw ever seen in the American league

100-Mile Motorcycle Race at Motordrome on Monday

The heavy shower of the early afternoon Saturday put an end to the program for the local motordrome that afternoon and the complete program goes over until Monday night

The motordrome is now under new management, Lou Castro, the comedian-ball player, having charge. It is his intention to run one night and one afternoon meet a week and give the fans the best races that can possibly be staged on a board track.

For tomorrow night the card scheduled for Saturday will be raced This card will be featured by a 100-mile race, the longest race that has ever been run on a board track.

The wear and tear on the machines and the strain under which the riders contest in such a distance race is more than the casual observer would imagine To eliminate some of this wear, tear and strain and to keep the average speed keyed up to the highest notch, the race will be run by teams instead of individuals.

Flickenstein and Swartz: Richards and Lewis, Bruggerman and Renel and Luther and Glenn are the four teams that will endeavor to make four hundred circuits of the board track.

In addition to the 100-mile race there will be the usual two heats of the motordrome purse and the two mile finals. This card ought to attract a great crowd as it is the classiest motorcycle card ever staged on any track.

FATTED CALF AWAITS RETURN OF COLE CAR

Engineer Test Crew of Company Will Soon Conclude Very Remarkable Trip.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 11.—(Special)—It will be a happy trio that returns to this city when the engineer test car of the Cole Motor Car company completes its work There will be a fatted calf and all sorts of welcomes awaiting the intrepid voyagers when the conclude one of the most remarkable trips ever made

Just now Chief Engineer Crawford, Chief Tester Pettijohn and Field Advertising Manager Bradfield are in the wilds of Wyoming They are shaping their course as nearly direct to Indianapolis as possible They have been out since July 12 on the double transcontinental test trip with the Cole "Six" C They have been away from home so long that the absence is beginning to pall on them Letters received recently indicate the home-sick spirit of the "explorers"

Chief Engineer Crawford candidly declares that he is getting disgusted with the trip Since the weeks spent in testing the Cole "Six" in the mountains and sand of the Pacific northwest, Crawford has found no roads equal to the ones he "played" on for nearly a month He states without reservation that he never expects to find the garden spots for testing that confronted him on all sides in Oregon, Washington, British Columbia and Idaho. Even Montana, he writes, did not come up to the standard set farther west

"It looks very much as if we have finished our "testing" so far as actual good can be accomplished," wrote the chief engineer in his last report to President Cole "I have despaired of finding any roads like we encountered in the Pacific northwest The mountain highways east of Idaho and Montana are nothing like the ones we found before

"We have tested the standardized car for more than 7,000 miles Our work has been under the most adverse conditions at times Our testing has been equal to 100,000 miles of ordinary touring We will never be able to give the car as grueling tests as it already has been subjected to"

AUTO PURCHASING AGENT MUST BE A SPECIALIST

Between the engineer who designs an automobile, and the manufacturing genius who builds it, there intervenes a step which while never of a spectacular sort, is nevertheless of mighty importance determing to a great extent, the price at which the car can be profitably sold

This step is the purchase of material To the man under whose direction this task is performed, the automobile-buying public owes a large share of the increasing value that is being put into the popular-priced American automobile

The purchasing agent is a specialist in values of materials. He knows the reputation of every large maker of materials, and the capacity of his plant He is a veteran student of human nature—wary, resourceful and shrewd

An example of scientific buying ability is Chester J Reynolds, through whose department the Studebaker corporation buys annually many millions of dollars' worth of supplies, varying in value from the pencil of a stenographer to the most costly automobile materials and equipment

Mr Reynolds experience dates back 26 years to his first job in the purchasing department at the Studebaker plant in South Bend His transfer to the several years ago and implied a change automobile plants in Detroit occurred in detail only

C W. HULBERT

C W. Hulbert, city sales manager of the Studebake corporation, Atlanta, Ga., has only recently come to Atlanta from Denver, Colo., where, for years, he helped along with Mr. Beerman, southern district manager, to make the Studebaker one of the most talked-of cars in the western city and state Mr Hulbert can recite some very interesting history of the auto game, having been interested in it from almost the first day of its beginning. Mr. Hulbert also likes Atlanta, and says it is the same as getting back home. He is a southerner by birth, having been born in Alabama.

Remarkable Decrease in Upkeep Cost During Past Few Years

"The most important improvement in motor cars during the last five years is the remarkable decrease in the cost of upkeep," says W. C. Mahoney, manager Cartercar branch, Atlanta.

"The motor car is seldom considered an expense these days," said Mr Mahoney, "and if the owner will use only ordinary caution in choosing his car he will have very little upkeep for the service which he will receive

"Only a few years ago, about the only thing you heard as an excuse for people not buying cars was that they couldn't afford to keep them They didn't care so much about the first cost, but they considered the after expense. Now, however, we never hear such a statement, and the purchaser knows that he can buy a car and take it out on the road and expect to get continual service, throughout the entire year. We are continually getting letters from Cartercar owners who have driven their cars for one or two years, they say, without even making an adjustment

"This may seem like an exaggeration to some who are not familiar with motor cars, but other manufacturers, I am certain, have found the same thing to be true"

"Just think how carefully the present-day motor car is made Vibration is reduced to a minimum, bearings are perfect, carburetors are more efficient and dependable and the motors and transmissions are strong and absolutely reliable under the most trying conditions

"Perhaps we hear more about low upkeep than most manufacturers because the Cartercar is equipped with a gearless transmission, which cannot possibly cause trouble But any leading car today is a good car—you might say, a perfect car—that is a delight for the owner to drive"

Law and Life.

(From Rough Notes)

Forty suicides ten murders and 130 accidental deaths forming the record of deaths from external causes in Indiana during a single month, tell the tale of nonenforcement of law in a state, in which the governing classes are fast losing the respect and confidence of the honest portion of the governed.

RECIPES.

Ginger Cake.

Beat two eggs until light add one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, three-fourths cupful of sour cream, the grated rind of half lemon, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one of cinnamon, one of ginger and finally add two cupfuls of flour mixed and sifted with one and one-half teaspoonfuls soda Bake in gem pans and frost when cold.

SHIPMENT OF PAIGE CARS SENT TO CADIZ

Machines Will Be Used for Taxicab Service Between Two Big Towns.

It is quite generally known that European automobile manufacturers have in their experimental laboratories several American-made cars, used for the purpose of patterns in making a car for export to the United States. This is made necessary because of the fact that road conditions in this country are so far inferior to those in Europe that cars manufactured for use there would be unable to stand up under the harsh treatment received at the hands of the average rural highway in this country.

This statement, often controverted by Europeans, is conclusively proven by a large shipment of Paige cars to Cadiz province in Spain, where automobile service has been established between Jerez de la Frontera and Arcos.

Arcos is situated upon a rocky eminence in a part of the country almost isolated because of the lack of railroads, and so called almost impassable public highways

The distance between these two cities, a journey of between 18 and 20 miles, has previously been covered by ungainly and uncomfortable horse-drawn barriges or wagons. To make the trip has previously consumed about five hours, which seemed more like ten because of the slow moving vehicles and uncomfortable jolts. Now, however, the distance is easily covered with comfort and dispatch, requiring only about one hour and a quarter to negotiate the roads

While these roads are not worse than many in our own country, nevertheless to the Spaniard they were impossible until the American showed him how to once more put Arcos, a city of 10,000 people, on the map, carry their mail and give them a twice daily connections with the outside world.

The fares for this journey range between 80 cents and $1.08, which, it generally known in this country, should cause all taxicab company officials to bow their heads with shame

Plain Ginger Snaps.

Two cups molasses one of lard, tablespoon each soda and ginger and flour to roll being careful not to make it too stiff. Tablespoon grated orange peel is a nice addition Cut with small cutter. Some add teaspoon black pepper.

Graham Waffles—Soak one cake yeast in one-fourth cup water Take one and one-half pints white flour and one pint graham flour one-half teaspoonful salt, mix all with one quart warm water, as for bread. Let stand over night In the morning add one-half teaspoonful soda dissolved in one cup of sour milk. Have waffle irons hot and grease each time before using.

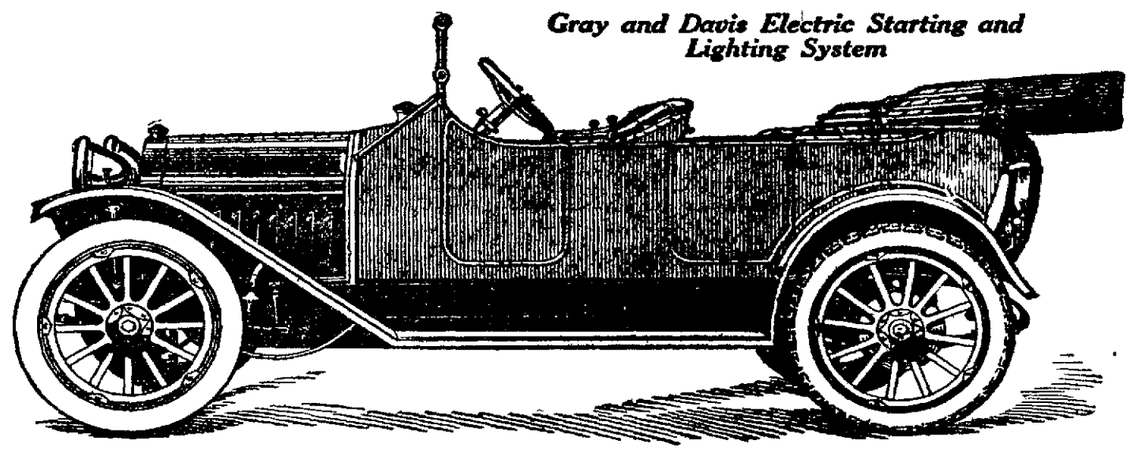

Waffles Par Excellence—Ten cups flour, one cup sweet milk two eggs, one tablespoonful melted butter, two teaspoonfuls baking powder and a half teaspoonful salt. Mix well and bake on hot irons—Mrs. Regella Turner in October Farmer's Wife.

PAIGE 36-$1275

Gray and Davis Electric Starting and Lighting System

FOR the past season, the Paige "36" at $1275 has been recognized by everybody as such extra value that it has had no competition.

Manufacturers and dealers with cars selling at similar prices have declared the Paige "36" "a gift" at the price. They haven't even hoped to compete with it. They have been content to get their share of the business that we couldn't handle.

The equipment of the Paige "36" is universally acknowledged to be of a character and completeness only found on the highest priced cars. But bear this in mind—it is the Paige car itself, not its equipment, that has demanded the consideration of the trade and public alike and that is responsible for its overwhelming popularity. Clothes don't make the man and neither does equipment make a motor car. It is the superior design, the unusual mechanical features, the power and flexibility of the wonderful Paige motor, the quality of materials and workmanship, and the splendid construction of the Paige "36" throughout that have kept the thousands of Paige owners, in all parts of the world, enthusiastic over their cars and made every one of them a Paige "booster." No amount of equipment could possibly accomplish this if the car itself was not right. When you come to look at the Paige car, if you are not an automobile expert bring one with you. You can judge the equipment yourself, but let him judge the Paige construction. He will tell you that entirely aside from the equipment, no other car has ever been produced at anywhere near the price that will give you as much in fine construction, size, power, economy, comfort and style as the Paige. These are the qualities on which it will pay you well to judge your motor car.

It is hard to realize that the price of the Paige "36" is only $1275. A really big, roomy car; 116-inch wheel base; left side drive and center control, a powerful, quiet 4x5-inch Paige motor; unit power plant; silent chain drive for cam shaft, pump and generator; deep tilted 10-inch cushions and a score of other features of design and construction which place this car beyond competition. As for equipment, in every detail, from starter to tail-lamp, it is all of the highest class.

Last year a lot of big men in the trade said we couldn't afford to sell the Paige "36" for $1275, and that we wouldn't continue that price. After three or four months the same big men in the trade—alarmed at our sweeping supremacy—said, "They're making a strong play for popularity now, but watch out for their 1914 price."

Well the 1914 price is $1275, just the same. Not a dollar added in cost to you, but look at the added equipment: Electric Horn, Jiffy Curtains, Combined Rain-Vision and Ventilating Windshield, Non-Skid Tires in the rear, and Ventilated Hood.

All of this is added on for 1914 and the price remains the same. If the Paige "36" has been sensational value this year—and for every car delivered there have been many purchasers waiting—what a value it is for the coming year! No other car approaches it in value at the price, and you would have to pay four or five hundred dollars more to find more value in any car.

This isn't "advertising talk." It is just the plain old-fashioned unvarnished truth and almost anybody that knows automobiles will tell you so.

Production has been increasing steadily in the factory and we are able to take care of more purchasers all the time now. The plant is working day and night. Deliveries of the 1914 models are being made as promptly as could be expected in the case of a success like the Paige "36." Our immense new factory is under construction and our removal to it will still further facilitate Paige production.

Above all things else, the Paige "36" deserves consideration first just as a car. But consider its equipment, too. Regular equipment includes the Gray & Davis electric starting and lighting system, Bosch magneto, rain-vision and ventilating windshield, genuine mohair top (tan lined) and boot, electric horn, Stewart revolving dial speedometer, 34 x 4-inch non-skid tires in rear, 12-inch electric headlights of parabolic design in black enamel and nickel, 5-inch electric side lights, flush in dash, crystal cut lens, 3-inch electric ruby light at rear, adjustable foot rest, nickel robe rail, demountable rims with extra rim, Jiffy curtains, extra tire irons, pump, jack, tools, tire repair outfit, etc., complete.

The 1914 season will be a distinctive Paige triumph. Keep that in mind. Just as the 1913 season has been a Paige triumph. Because in the Paige "36" and the Paige "25" the public finds extra value which no other car can give.

Electric Starting and Lighting System, $75 extra

From this date we will equip the Paige "25" with an electric starting and lighting system for $75 extra. The car is designed to take the equipment, and it will be added at request. Present owners can also have this system installed on their cars. Dealers will furnish prices and details. Think of this car, with electric starting and lighting for only $1025. Wheel base, 110 inches; 32x3½ inch tires; sturdy, silent motor, 3¾x4 inches; unit power plant; cork insert multiple disc clutch; wide doors; roomy body.

Previous models of the Paige "25" laid the foundation for the high reputation of the Paige Car. For the past two years, especially, the "25" has been recognized as a splendid, reliable car at a low price. And all this time we have worked steadily on refinements and minor improvements many of which are found in this year's model.

Equipment of Paige "25" is very complete, including genuine mohair top, side curtains and top boot; ventilating windshield, built into body; speedometer; two black enamel and nickel gas headlights, three black enamel and nickel sidelights and tail light; demountable rims, one extra; non-skid tires in rear; robe rail; linoleum covered running boards; tire irons; horn, pump, jack, tools and tire repair outfit. Five-passenger touring car, equipped complete as above, $950.

KEROSENE BURNER FOR NEW HENDERSON MODEL

Will Be Made to Meet Demand for Car That Will Operate on Cheaper Fuel.

Indianapolis, October 11.—(Special.) Recent meetings of the Henderson Motor Car company interests developed the fact that a low-priced car with the Henderson name plate and kerosene burner is to be the latest Indianapolis innovation.

The remarkable success of the Henderson car in the Indiana manufacturers' tour to the Pacific coast is hastening the announcement of the low-priced Henderson. In that tour, Ray Harroun drove a Henderson the entire distance, using only every-day coal oil for fuel, and making the record of less than 3¢ per passenger for fuel from Indianapolis to Los Angeles—a distance of over 4,000 miles.

The ever-increasing cost of gasoline is causing automobile owners throughout the country to demand a cheaper fuel. Gasoline prices average from 20 to 22 cents per gallon; coal oil or kerosene is obtainable at 8 or 9 cents. It has also been proven that kerosene is not only locomotive, but lubricative. It oils the motor as well as runs it, thus affecting a saving in oil consumption. There is a positive demand for low-priced cars that will operate on cheap fuel, and the low-priced Henderson seems to answer that demand to the letter.

Three prominent Indianapolis men, Messrs. Franklin Vonnegut, Arthur R. Baxter and A. R. Smith, have been elected as members of the board of directors of the Henderson Motor Car company, they representing new interests, controlling approximately $200,000 of the company's additional operating capital. The new Henderson interests are a credit to the company, and the additional capital will permit the Hendersons to carry out their trade extension policy in a vigorous way, also allow the factory to operate on a more satisfactory basis.

OLDFIELD HAS KEPT MILE RECORD—AND FIRESTONE TIRES

Throbbing around a 1-mile dirt track in a few seconds less than a minute, Barney Oldfield using Henry Ford's 999 car, in the spring of 1903, earned the admiration of Indianapolis, and a purse posted by Carl Fisher, Tom Taggart, then mayor of the Hoosier capital, and others. Incidentally he set a world's record. Ten years later in Bakersfield, Cal., Oldfield negotiated a mile on a dirt road in 46.4 seconds, the lowest time yet made.

Detroit, the seat of the automobile industry, had seen many speed exhibitions and Michigan had a mile record all its own. September 21, Oldfield using the same sadly worn Firestone tires he had relied upon in Bakersfield, cut the Michigan mark just a little lower, and did a mile in 48.8 seconds.

Barney began his racing career in 1902, keeping to dirt roads and heating all comers. Since then, he has consistently held the mile record. Several times he has been beaten but always came back. It was Bob Burman's record which he lowered in Bakersfield, Burman used Firestone tires when he made it.

A Christy front drive—300-horse power now is being used by Oldfield. Because of the weight of the front axle, a Barney is needed to handle the steering apparatus. This car is painted vermillion, but showing through in white is the acknowledgment, "My Only Life Insurance: Firestone Tires."

Oldfield's home is in Los Angeles and most of his exhibitions are given in the west. Occasionally, he comes east however. Last year in Cleveland he set a new record on a 2-mile dirt track.

Until about six years ago, Barney used all makes of tires, then he put on the Firestone brand and since then has never ridden on any other kind.

Dean of the auto race track, Oldfield probably has received more publicity than any president, and has earned it fairly. No automobile race, either in competition or against time, is complete without a demonstration of his daring driving.

KANSAS CITY-ST. LOUIS RECORD BY CADILLAC

The automobile record, elapsed time considered, between Kansas City and St. Louis, has been officially fixed at 11 hours 8 minutes, this record having been made by two St. Louis mechanics, driving a 1909 Cadillac car, owned by one of them.

Exactly one week before that the first official record between St. Louis and Kansas City was made by another car, its elapsed time being 12 hours 55 minutes. Both runs were officially checked in and out of Kansas City and St. Louis and great care taken to verity records.

The Cadillac car is owned by Harry Wissler, who was accompanied by Erwin Stelzer as relief driver. They started from St. Louis Sunday morning, August 31, at 3 o'clock. At Kansas City they were checked out by W. P. M. Stevens, representative of the American Automobile club, at 5 a. m. Tuesday, and away they went for St. Louis.

When they arrived at Fulton they found Sheriff Sheley there armed with a telegram from Columbia, the majesty of the law and ad warrant for their arrest for speeding through Columbia. They were taken to court at once and fined $28.40. Then they induced the sheriff to give them a certificate showing the time lost and to officially start them again for St. Louis.

They arrived at the St. Louis line at 8 minutes after 6, making their elapsed time 13 hours 8 minutes. Under the general practice, the delay caused by their arrest of exactly two hours, being classed as "an act of providence," although they did not so term it, is deducted, so that their elapsed time is 11h ours 8 minutes, which reduces the former record by 1 hour and 47 minutes.

IS DELIGHTED WITH WILLYS UTILITY TRUCK

"My Willys Utility truck is paying me a handsome return for the money invested, and I use it only two hours a day," writes a dairy farmer in the middle west to the Willys-Overland company, of Toledo, manufacturers of the new three-quarter-ton motor vehicle. "I figure that in the saving in sleep alone, my discarding the team I formerly used to haul milk to the station and installing the truck, has proved a very profitable venture.

"My farm is located five miles from the nearest railway, an interurban line, the terminus of which is in Detroit. Before I purchased the Willys Utility truck I lost a great deal of sleep and of time which could otherwise be profitably employed in working on the farm, simply because my team could not travel rapidly. We were forced to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning in order that the milking could be done and the milk attended to in time to make the five-mile trip and catch the milk car which passes this particular station at 7:30 a. m. Since the truck has been in use we get nearly two hours' more sleep and still get to work on the farm at the regular time.

"As a promoter of health, wealth and happiness, insofar as plenty of sleep has a bearing on these conditions, the truck is a winner. I would not attempt to do without it any more than I would consider trying to raise a crop of corn without planting seed."

Amusing Experiences Told By Guide at Ford Co. Plant

Detroit, Mich., Otcober 11.—(Special.)—"Yes," said James, a guide at the Ford plant, "we have some amusing experiences. People have no idea of the extent of the plant before they take a trip through it and many of them have but little idea of what they have seen after they have gone through.

"And the comparisons they make are a big laugh. They are always trying to size up something by the size of something they are familiar with.

"A big farmer was going through one day and when he passed the gear-cutting machines with the streams of soft soup playing on the metal to cool it, he said:

"Then they get funny ideas of what they are going to see. I was taking a party of women through one day and one asked me where the slaughter house was. That was a new one and I stuttered, I guess, in asking her what she meant.

"'Why,' says she, 'I read a piece in the paper about the thousands of cows that are killed every year to furnish the leather for the upholstery and I wanted to see the slaughter houses.'

"One of the funniest was a bunch of Englishmen that were here. I was telling all about the enormous quantities of material used. I told him that the screws used in all the 185,000 cars made this year if put end to end would stretch from here to Cleveland and stick out away over Ohio.

"'But you cawn't do it, y'know,' said one of the Britishers.

"'Can't do what?' says I.

"'Stretch those blooming screws from Detroit to Cleveland,' he answered, 'because you couldn't attach them together and they would interfere with navigation.'

"Can you beat that? Well, those are only samples of what we get every day.

"And some of the people who go through here can't seem to understand things at all. Not long ago when it was announced that we were making a car a minute I was towing a crowd of business men through. They were evidently here for some convention. When we got to the assembling floor one of them, a hard-headed old chap who acted all the time as though he was from the heart of Missouri, pulled out his watch and began to carefully follow the labors of an assembly crew. When the car that was being set up was run out on the loading platform he snapped his watch shut, waved his hand and said disdainfully:

"'I knew it was a fake.'

"'This building a car every minute,' he answered. 'I have timed these men here and it took eleven minutes to put that car together.'

"They all kind of fell for it for a minute and looked at me reproachfully as though I had picked their pockets or something.

"'But,' says I, 'you don't seem to have grasped the point. Look at all the other crews who are lining out a car every eleven minutes. The Ford company doesn't say that it builds a car every minute. That is impossible, of course.'

"Say, that old guy who thought he was so wise was tamed in a second and there wasn't a peep out of him during the rest of the trip.

"The worst thing we go against, though, is the amateur investigators who want to put their fingers into everything. Most of the people who make the trip through the plant are content to watch and let it go at that. But there are always those who want to pick up parts about the same time a workman does and to stick their hands into machines.

"And, say, everyone thinks this job is a snap, but I tell you that it ain't. I've often thought I'd get one of those watch speedometers to see how far I travel in a day. I have guessed it at about 10 miles. And when they get the new additions done the trip through the plant will be about twice as long. It will surely be some place when they get the other buildings up, and guiding a party through will be like taking them through the Grand canyon, so far as distance covered goes."

MOTOR TRUCK NOW ECONOMIC NECESSITY; HURTFUL AGITATION

"The agitation against motor trucks is a serious thing," says C. W. Martin, manager motor truck tire department, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio.

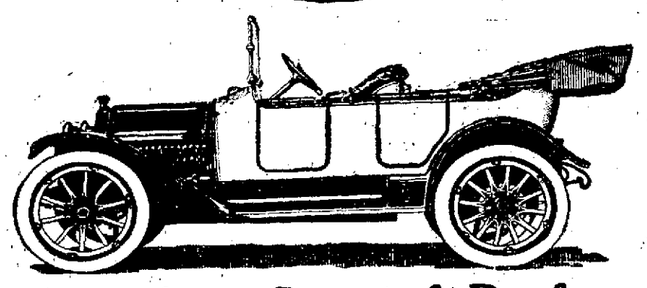

"The Massachusetts legislators showed good judgment when they refused to increase the registration fee of motor trucks.

"When bills were submitted for that purpose in Massachusetts they were killed by the legislature, which deemed it unwise to further tax business. Massachusetts has excellent roads and is also a leader in legislation on motor topics. This should be reason enough for other states to stop and consider before drastic measures that would hinder the already wonderful and unparalleled growth of the motor truck are passed.

"If they had allowed this bill to be passed, it would have established a precedent that would have possibly resulted in the registration fees being increased each year or perhaps every other year. The eventual result would work hardship on the industry through the fact that prospective truck owners would hesitate before purchasing if a heavy fee was added to the initial cost.

"The motor truck has become an economic necessity, and the result of increasing the upkeep cost of motor trucks would indirectly work hardship on society."

Cartercar

You Are Sure of Perfect Service If You Own a Cartercar!

A CAR that will travel all roads as they come—that has nothing to cause trouble—and that is easily driven—these are the features of the Cartercar that make perfect service an absolute necessity.

This is the car with the gearless transmission—the ten or twelve complicated gears of the ordinary gear car being replaced by a simple two unit transmission.

So you can see that this—the weakest point of the gear car—is made the strongest point of the Cartercar.

No matter how hard you drive a Cartercar—over what hilly, sandy or muddy roads you travel—there is nothing to give away, to cause trouble the next time you are in a tight place.

You simply cannot appreciate the value of these points until you get out on the road. Until you drive a Cartercar you cannot understand how one car can be so much more efficient, so much more reliable than other cars.

Unlimited speeds—economy of power—easy control—and far greater wear from tires because of the elimination of jerks and jars—these are exclusive features that are making Cartercar popularity so great everywhere.

And we ask you to let us prove these statements. Come in and see for yourself—the Cartercar will talk for itself—and it will back up everything we claim for it. We want reliable agents—some good territory open. Phone or call.

Why the Price is Lower

HERE we present a few concise cold factory facts, so that you can get a faint idea of what 50,000 cars a year means, and how it makes possible minimum economy. Read carefully. Then draw your own conclusions.

We are the second largest consumers of aluminum in the world—not in the automobile industry—but in the world. We use 18,000 pounds a day or 5,400,000 pounds a year.

This year we will use 20,000 tons of steel.

One of our recent monthly averages on incoming freight alone was over 85 carloads a day, or a total of 5,100,000 pounds of incoming daily freight.

On outgoing freight we never fall below 35 carloads a day and often go as high as 60 carloads a day. This year our outgoing freight will approximate 270,000,000 pounds.

We print our American catalogue in 1,000,000 lots. In addition to that is our German, Italian, French, Spanish and Portuguese editions which are run in 300,000 to 500,000 lots. Then there are huge special editions for South Africa, Canada, Australia, India, etc.

We receive over 1200 pieces of first-class mail matter each day. We send out over 2000 pieces of first-class mail matter each day. On an average we handle over 20,000 pieces each week. To say nothing of the fourth class matter and Parcel Post.

It is almost customary for us to mail a solid ton of catalogues and literature every day.

We operate the largest drop forge plant in the industry—which means that we can make parts for $3 (shop cost) for which other manufacturers must pay $9.

We have over $3,000,000.00 worth of automatic machinery—which means that we can cut production costs, on machined parts, 50%.

This year we have contracted for 200,000 tires, 250,000 lamps, 100,000 fenders, 200,000 wheels, and 200,000 rims—and these are only some of the trimmings.

Some figures!

Yes—but they show the immensity of this institution. And it's immensity that makes for economy—for maximum production results in minimum costs and you save the difference.

It is magnificently finished in dark Brewster green, trimmed in polished nickel and aluminum, running boards and wheels to match—but the price is lower.

Never before such value for such price!

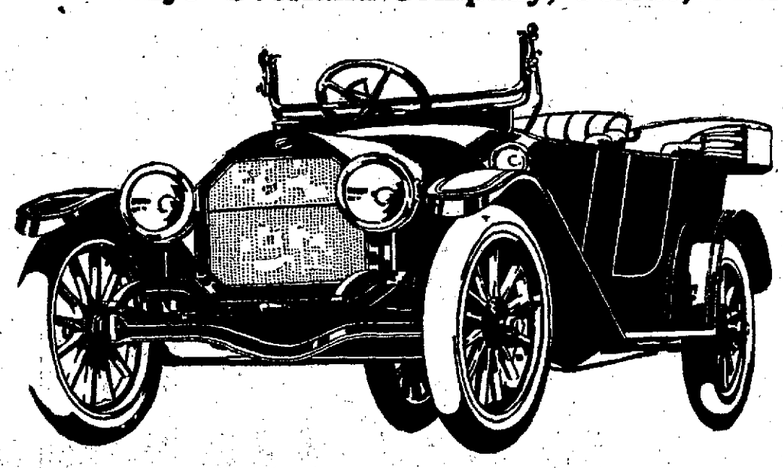

No need to hesitate any longer. See the nearest Overland dealer. Get your Overland quick and save money.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES ARE MADE BY KEEFERS

Mrs. Keefer Admits Swearing and Smoking at Divorce Hearing and Alimony Is Denied.

The alimony suit brought by Mrs. Grace Macy Keefer against David H. Keefer, both well known in Atlanta, brought many sensational allegations on both sides at the hearing Saturday morning before Judge George L. Bell.

Mrs. Keefer admitted frankly to the court that she drank, smoked cigarettes and swore, and defended herself on the swearing by saying that there was nothing in the Bible that prohibited swearing at a person as long as nothing was sworn by.

The woman also, through her son, Jack Macy, aged 18, accused Keefer of appearing in an indecent garb before Elinor Macy, his 16-year-old stepdaughter. Keefer denied this and alleged that Mrs. Keefer had used indecent terms on one occasion in regard to this when there was no occasion for her language or charge.

The Keefers were reputed to have great wealth. On the stand Saturday Keefer said he had assigned his interest in his grandmother's $100,000 estate in Connecticut and had received $45,000 for it, with which he paid his debts. Mrs. Keefer told that of equity in a Piedmont avenue apartment house amounts to $19,500, and that she has not enough money to pay interest on her debts.

Alimony Is Denied.

Judge Bell denied the temporary alimony and attorneys' fees.

"I wash my hands of the whole affair and leave the matter as it stands," he declared at the conclusion of the case. He had previously referred to the affair as a "mess."

At times during the hearing Mrs. Keefer became excited and Victor Smith, her attorney, more than once asked her to restrain herself. Keefer declared to the court that his wife's relatives had once talked of committing her to an insane asylum in New York. This, however, was ruled out as immaterial to the alimony in question.

Keefer Denies Cursing.

Keefer declared that he had never cursed in the presence of his wife, and also that he had never treated her other than respectfully and decently. As he was declaring this the wife sat with both eyes stretched to their fullest extent, and her mouth open. She laughed when he finished speaking.

Keefer said there had been a similar suit in the New York courts. The couple were married in 1906. They had been living here for several years. Attorney Paul Etheridge took the stand for Keefer and gave him a splendid character.

Check the Symptoms of Lung Trouble

One of the many reasons why Lung Trouble is so difficult to fight is because the disease is often of a very flattering nature. The patient may look well but in reality is fast losing strength by continued night sweats, fever and cough. These symptoms should be checked as quickly as possible. Eckman's Alterative is beneficial in checking fever and night sweats and it has brought about many complete recoveries. Read this case —

305 W 36th St New York.

"Gentlemen —I am writing you this testimonial that others may know what your Alterative has done for me. Since I was a very young woman I was a sufferer from Bronchitis. I tried doctor after doctor, getting little or no benefit. Finally night sweats, weak spells and I lost rapidly in weight and my doctor told me if they were not checked I would have Lung Trouble. Miss Mary Kerhanor, who is a friend of mine, recovered after taking your Alterative and insisted that I try it. I am now, after two years, entirely well and strong and healthy."

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds, and in upbuilding the system. DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much, also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

HOWARD CALLED HOME BY MOTHER'S ILLNESS

Congressman William Schley Howard is at his home in Decatur, where he has come to be near his mother, who is very ill at her home in Oakhurst. Mr. Howard arrived in Atlanta last Thursday and his stay is indefinite, being dependent upon the condition of his mother and the action of the United States senate on the currency bill.

Mr. Howard stated last night that while his mother has improved a great deal since his arrival, he does not expect to go back to Washington immediately unless the house is called upon to concur in the currency bill.

"I do not expect the senate to make a single change in the currency bill," said Congressman Howard Saturday night. "Some of the bankers appear not to be altogether satisfied with the bill, but in the main I believe it is an excellent measure and that it will meet the approval and needs of the country at large. The house, under the caucus rule, can do nothing until it hears from the senate on the currency bill, and is, therefore, at a standstill. For that reason my presence in Washington just now is not at all urgent."

Mrs. Howard's sickness is due to old age and a protracted period of ill-health. She is reported as being in no immediate danger.

WEATHERHOLT PIANO STORE TO CLOSE OUT BUSINESS IN ATLANTA

To all piano circles received a distinct surprise Saturday when the announcement was made that the Weatherholt Piano company at 72 North Broad street, were going to close out their stock and that their lease and entire fixtures and equipment were for sale.

Saturday Mr. Weatherholt would not say whether or not the company was in financial difficulties or what was the reason for going out of business was. The Weatherholt Piano company was established in Atlanta a little over a year ago, and apparently was in a fair way of being one of the established piano businesses of Atlanta when this unexpected announcement was made.

Mr. Weatherholt will personally conduct the sale to dispose of the entire stock of player-pianos, organs and pianos. It is said to be one of the biggest piano stocks in Atlanta, and embraces many different makes.

REGRET BUSCH'S DEATH.

Telegram Received in Atlanta by James F. Lynch.

The death of Adolphus Busch president of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company, which occurred in Sergenschwalbach, Germany, last Friday, has caused universal sorrow among the employees of the company in the numerous branches throughout the country. Mr. Busch was a man of wide philanthropy, interested in all charitable work and the generous policy he had at all times pursued with his employees and business associates had greatly endeared him to them.

The following telegram from the main office of the company in St. Louis was received by James F. Lynch, local representative:

"It is with deep regret we inform you of the death of our beloved president, Adolphus Busch, which occurred Friday in Sergenschwalbach, Germany. We feel that you mourn with us our great loss."

PLANS BEING MADE FOR ST. ANDREW CONVENTION

Atlanta delegates returned home Saturday from the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in New York, and are already laying plans for the entertainment of the convention in Atlanta next October.

The organization which is composed of the laymen of the Episcopal church has something like 20,000 members. The registered delegates at the New York meeting amounted to 2,560 and that number or even more are expected to come to Atlanta.

The Brotherhood is divided into "Seniors" and "Juniors," as it contains both men and boys among its members.

The delegates representing and working for Atlanta on the convention floor in New York were C. M. Barnwell, Dr. Harold Jordan, and Rev. Russell K. Smith, of Atlanta, and Rev. C. K. Weller, formerly of Atlanta, but now located in Anniston, Ala.

VERDICT FOR J. L. RILEY AGAINST ROYAL ARCANUM

The father of J. L. and R. E. Riley died several years ago, leaving a Royal Arcanum policy made payable to R. E. Riley, who in due course collected it. J. L. Riley brought suit against the company for one-half of the amount of the policy. R. E. Riley contested on the ground that his father had specifically made the policy to him and with the understanding that it was to be applied accordingly.

The jury, however, rendered a verdict in J. L. Riley's behalf, not against R. E. Riley, as has been published, but against the company.

COLD WEATHER HEADED TOWARDS GATE CITY

"Cold weather is headed this way," warned the weather man on Saturday, and before the sun had entirely disappeared from beyond Atlanta's skyline a dash of cold wind had arrived, bringing with it a wintry effect.

Showers are due to come during the early part of Sunday and before that time the drop in the thermometer is not scheduled to arrive. It will be shortly after the noon hour that the temperature should begin to fall. The cold spell will not last long, however, if the weather authorities have the correct "dope." It is due to be much warmer by Monday or Tuesday, and after that the same mild weather should prevail.

During the temporary coolness the mercury is not due to drop below about 55 degrees and then it should climb back to the eighties.

CLAYTON BOOSTS CREEK DRAINAGE

Thinks That Splendid Results of Peachtree Creek Work Should Be Object Lesson for Government.

The removal of obstructions from the bed of Peachtree creek to prevent a "backflow" of water into the new $200,000 sewage disposal plant has increased the efficiency of the plant more than $10,000, according to an estimate of Chief R. M. Clayton, of the construction department.

In clearing the creek Chief Clayton saw beyond the improvement of the sewage plant. He believes that the county, state or federal government should include the proper care of small streams in the drainage laws.

"If all the creeks and small streams in the country are cleared and kept free of obstructions, farm lands will increase millions in value," Chief Clayton says.

Data bearing on the subject of creek drainage in Georgia is being gathered by Chief Clayton to be embodied in a communication he contemplates sending to the Fulton county delegation in the legislature, and he is going to make an effort to have the general assembly enact a general law which will give the county commissioners authority to deepen all creek streams and assess the property owners.

The work can be done for $500 a mile, or 2 cents a foot.

Object Lesson for Government.

"The clearing of the channel of Peachtree Creek for the betterment of the conditions around the sewage disposal plants," says Chief Clayton, "is an object lesson of which the government should take advantage.

"The result of this work means also the redemption of all the bottom lands along the line of the creek. The work we have done has lowered the channel of the creek from three to five feet, giving the stream a good velocity and reducing the frequency of the overflow which now occurs with about every rain, and which has converted what was once good, tillable land into swamps.

"My observation from an examination of quite a number of streams in different sections of the state is that this condition exists with practically all the streams in the country, and it occurs to me that by concerted action on the part of the adjacent owners all this land can be restored to its original fertility and add thousands of acres to the farming interests of this country.

"The creeks are all filled with the accumulation of centuries, and the removal of the obstructions will lower the channels so that the overflows which now occur with almost every rain will be reduced to such an extent that the land can all be cultivated. It is useless to say that the creek bottoms are the most productive lands in the country. Our experience on the Peachtree creek work shows that the cost is approximately $500 a mile, which means a cost of two cents per foot, which is very insignificant when the value of the land reclaimed is taken into consideration.

Concerted Action Necessary.

"Without concerted action on the part of the land owners this work will be impossible, as the clearing of the obstructions through one farm will produce no results unless the obstructions are removed below. To overcome this difficulty, I say get a general law authorizing the county commissioners to have this work done and authority given to assess the cost not exceeding a certain amount per foot, against the adjacent land owners. As shown above the increased value of the land will pay a large dividend on the cost.

"I offer these suggestions for what they are worth and am satisfied that the day is not far distant when the problem will be satisfactorily solved with great good resulting to the state."

Chief Clayton is preparing a map showing the route of the creek from the sewage plant to the Chattahoochee river. He is also gathering data with the view of submitting his idea to the Fulton delegation in the legislature.

TELEGRAM TO TELL PARENTS OF BRIDE OF MARRIAGE HERE

When telegrams reach the Gaines family at Elberton, they will contain the first news of the marriage Saturday of Miss Rose Gaines, one of that city's fairest girls, to Mr. W. J. Webb, of Blackstone, Va., which took place at the Hotel Ansley in what has been dubbed "Honeymoon Hall," otherwise known as Parlor E.

Webb and Miss Gaines have known each other about six months. Webb is a traveling salesman, and reaches Atlanta about once every three months. On a previous trip he made Miss Gaines acquaintance, and the acquaintance soon ripened into love.

Saturday Rev. J. G. Patton, of Decatur, was hurriedly called and Webb and Miss Gaines were married.

Miss Gaines has been in Atlanta on a visit to Mrs. Charles Love, of the Hotel Ansley.

Messages were sent to the Gaines family late Saturday afternoon. The happy couple are now awaiting parental sanction.

ASK COURT TO AMEND CHARTER OF EMORY

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., October 11.—(Special)—The trustees of Emory college, through their attorneys, H. D. W. Palmer and L. W. Branch, have petitioned the superior court of Newton county, in which county the college is located, to grant an amendment to the charter of the college.

Heretofore the board of trustees has been a self-perpetuating body. That is to say, the annual conferences to which the college belongs—the North Georgia, the South Georgia and the Florida—have had no voice in the election or confirmation of trustees.

The petitioners desire the charter to be amended as to conform the same to the laws of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, with reference to the confirmation of trustees, adopted by the general conference held in Asheville, N. C., in May, 1910.

Confirmation by Conferences.

The petitioners desire that under the charter so amended all the trustees of the college, however elected, shall be confirmed by the annual conference, in which said trustee shall reside, at the session of the conference next succeeding the election of said trustees, and that no trustee hereafter elected shall exercise any of the functions of his office until the confirmation of his election by the annual conference. If the conference should fail to confirm his election, then the trustees will have to elect another, and no person shall be a trustee of the college until his election shall have been confirmed as provided in the amended charter.

The petitioners also desire that the amended charter shall provide that all trustees of Emory college now holding office and hereafter elected and confirmed shall hold their office as such trustees until their successors shall have been elected and confirmed as provided by the amended charter.

Would Prevent Wrangle.

It is gratifying to all those who are interested in Emory to know that her trustees have taken the initiative in this matter, and that Georgia Methodism is to be spared the wrangle and the humiliation that the Randolph-Macon and the Vanderbilt controversies in regard to church ownership have brought about in other sections of the south.

If this amendment should apply to the trustees elected at the last commencement, three Methodist conferences will doubtless confirm the election of Hon. Thomas Whipple Connally, alumni trustee, one of the most loyal sons of Emory and a staunch Baptist.

In addition to being unique in the history of this Methodist institution, such a confirmation will indicate the growing spirit of liberality in educational and denominational affairs in Georgia.

CLAIM THAT WALKER WILL NOT BE OPPOSED

Brunswick Ga., October 11.—(Special)—While there has been more or less talk over the eleventh district as to opposition against Congressman Randall Walker, it is the general belief among Mr. Walker's friends in this city that he will be returned next year without opposition.

Names of a half dozen well known men in various sections of the district have been mentioned as possible candidates, but when election time rolls around it is thought that Mr. Walker will be the only candidate.

Rushing Cornelia Sewers.

Cornelia, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) The Georgia Engineering and Construction company, of Clayton, Ga., who have the contract for building the local waterworks and sewer system, are pushing the work as fastly as possible, already the pipe lines have been placed and much of the work on the reservoir has also been done. It is only a question of a short time till Cornelia will have one of the best water and sewer systems in the state.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready to use tonic costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores known as Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wishing to keep faded hair is not sinful we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell because it does it so naturally and so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair has disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

COMMERCE COURT GOES, BUT JUDGES ARE SAVED

Fight on Court Waged Two Years—Champ Clark Rules Himself Out of Auto.

Washington, October 11.—The United States commerce court, created in 1910 to have exclusive jurisdiction over appeals from decisions of the Interstate Commerce commission will go out of existence December 31, if President Wilson signs the deficiency appropriation bill as it repassed the house today. The positions of its judges, however, were finally saved when the house accepted the senate's amendment continuing the present judges as additional circuit judges of the United States.

The fight against the commerce court which has raged for two years, ended with the agreement of the house to continue the extra judges in office until they resign or retire. Previously the house had voted the judges out of office, as well as having abolished the court itself. The senate's amendment was accepted today because of the belief that the deficiency bill would be indefinitely held up by the senate if the house insisted on legislating the present commerce court judges out of office.

Speaker Clark during debate on the measure, ruled himself out of a $7,000 automobile without a visible tremor. James R. Mann, the republican leader, proposed to tack the automobile appropriation as an amendment to a similar provision the senate had made for Vice-President Marshall. The speaker would not recognize the propriety of the amendment, however, and in the end Vice-President Marshall lost his new machine also.

Democrats were primed for the fight on the proposal to give the vice president a new car, but Mr. Mann got the floor first with his motion to increase the $7,000 appropriation to $14,000 and include the speaker as one of the beneficiaries.

"I make a point of order against that amendment," said Chairman Fitzgerald, of the appropriations committee a democrat.

"The chair sustains the point of order," said Speaker Clark without hesitation and the house voted out the vice presidential perquisite.

The house accepted some of the amendments of the senate, but rejected others from which the senate will have to recede. Under the leadership of Majority Leader Underwood and Representative Gillette republican, the house agreed to the proposed $400,000 appropriation, to be used as part payment toi a $700,000 Red Cross building in Washington to be known as a memorial to northern and southern women of the civil war.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM SWEEPS WISCONSIN

La Crosse, Wis., October 11.—One known dead, many persons injured, many thousand dollars of damage done to buildings, much live stock killed, wires prostrated, train schedule disordered and one train blown off the track are results in western Wisconsin of a storm late yesterday.

Walter Spangler, aged 27, was struck by lightning near New Amsterdam, Wis., and killed. Many persons suffered broken arms and other injuries but all those thus far heard from will recover. A freight train was blown off the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul track near New Lisbon, delaying traffic for hours. Factory buildings at Tomah, La Crosse and Onalaska were unroffed. Miles of tobacco sheds, with their valuable contents, southeast of Virequa, were destroyed.

RULES ARE ANNOUNCED FOR SAMPLE BAGGAGE

Washington, October 11.—Sample baggage, carried for display may be checked by a passenger over a railroad, but such samples may not be sold or distributed at any point to which they have been checked as baggage according to a ruling made today by the interstate commerce commission.

Such articles the commission holds may lawfully be distributed or sold at any point to which they have been shipped as mail, freight or express and they may lawfully be so shipped from a point to which they have been checked as baggage for use as samples or for display.

COTTON TRADE DISPUTE LIKELY TO BE SETTLED

Manchester, Eng., October 11.—The prospects of a settlement being reached in the cotton trade dispute without a stoppage if the whole industry were regarded as much improved this afternoon by the action of the executive committee of the Amalgamted Operative Cotton Spinners.

They decided to call a meeting of delegates October 18 with the object of exerting the pressure necessary with a view of putting an end to the strike at the Beehive mill. The men there struck against the advice of the trade union owing to their objection to the personality of one of their overseers.

Orr Named by McReynolds.

Washington, October 11.—James W. Orr of Atchison, Kans., has been appointed by Attorney General McReynolds a special attorney to prosecute the government's pending anti-trust suit to compel the Southern Pacific to give up its ownership of the Central Pacific. Mr. Orr will begin work immediately.

LIE GIVEN TO BARTLETT, BUT AT ONCE WITHDRAWN

Georgian Forces Representative Mondell to Retract the Offensive Word.

Washington, October 11.—The house had a moment of excitement today when the unparliamentary word "lie" figured in the debate. Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, said that the position taken by Representative Bartlett of Georgia, as to commerce court legislation "gave the lie to his protestations."

Mr. Bartlett jumped to his feet with a demand that Mr. Mondell withdraw the word lie.

"Oh, I am not excited!" shouted Mr. Bartlett to his colleagues, who gathered about him. "I don't intend to break any rules of the house."

Mr. Mondell admitted that his choice of words had been unfortunate, but insisted that Mr. Bartlett's attitude did not accord with his statement in regard to certain legislation. Mr. Bartlett accepted this form of criticism, and the incident was closed.

HANDSOME SILVER SERVICE GIVEN TO HON. W. G. BRANTLEY

Brunswick, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—In the presence of a large number of his Brunswick and Glynn county friends, Hon. W. G. Brantley, of this city, who, for eighteen years represented the eleventh district in congress, was tonight presented with a beautiful silver service, the gift being presented to Mr. Brantley as a testimonial to the great work which he accomplished for his district and his country while a member of the national congress.

The presentation occurred in the assembly room of the city hall, which was comfortably packed with friends and admirers of the former congressman. The meeting was presided over by Dr. D. D. Atkinson, chairman of the committee which started the fund and purchased the silver service, and the presentation speech was made by Judge Joseph W. Bennet, a former law partner of Mr. Brantley.

In accepting the gift, Mr. Brantley made an eloquent address, thanging the people for the honor they had bestowed upon him. He stated that it was with sincere regret that he saw fit to decline a tenth nomination, but that he had been honored long enough by the people of the eleventh district, having been returned to congress for nine consecutive terms without having opposition from the ranks of his party a single time.

Mr. Brantley, who is temporarily residing in Washington, where he is representing various railroads, is spending a few days in the city on business and will visit other cities of his old district before returning to Washington.

SON-IN-LAW IS HANDLED BY KAISER OF GERMANY

Berlin, October 11.—All contentions regarding the accession of Prince Ernest August of Cumberland to the throne of Brunswick have been settled by personal correspondence between Emperor William and the young prince, according to The Mittag Zeitung. The newspaper says that the emperor demanded and obtained from his son-in-law the declaration which was necessary before Prince Ernest August could accede to the throne—a definite renunciation of his pretentions to the throne of Hanover.

WOMAN AND HER LOVER FOUND DEAD IN WOODS

Brattleboro, Vt., October 11.—Searchers today found the bodies of Mrs. Walter Nichols and Irving Wrisley in the woods on the Nichols farm in West Guilford. Both had been shot to death, apparently by the man. The body of the woman's husband, Walter Nichols, sexton of the Baptist church, was discovered in the highway near his home yesterday. He had been killed by a blow on the head.

Nichols was 27 years old and his wife 20. They lived alone last spring, when Wrisley was employed by them. He was 29 years old. According to the mother of Nichols, Wrisley formed an attachment for his employer's wife. The latter was the daughter of Luther Moore of Mechanisburg, Va.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION FAVORED BY PATTERSON

Nashville, Tenn., October 11.—On the eve of the renewal of the effort to pass the prohibition law enforcement bills in the Tennessee legislature, M. R. Patterson, over whose veto as governor prohibition became a law, in a speech at Murfreesboro today, advocated the interdiction of the manufacture and sale of liquor by United States constitutional amendment. He declared he was glad of his inconsistency, that he had come to see that the trouble was not with the prohibition law, not altogether with its non-enforcement, but with "the accursed thing itself."

BIG SUBDIVISION PLANNED BY WADE

Cornelia, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Colonel I. C. Wade, who owns considerable real estate near this place, is planning a sub-division of Park View Heights into city lots, which will be sold at auction in the near future.

This property has been kept intact by the owner with a view to making a residential section when certain city improvements were made. Waterworks and sewers are now being placed by the city, making the property very desirable for home sites.

72,000 TOBACCO USERS WANT SMOKING CARS

New York, October 11.—Seventy-two thousand users of tobacco today petitioned the public service commission to order the elevated and surface car lines in New York city to operate smoking cars or cars containing smoking compartments. Under a recent ruling of the commission, smoking is permitted only on open cars on the surface lines, which have been removed at the approach of cold weather.

DOCTOR HORSEWHIPPED BY MILITANT WOMEN

White Way for Brunswick.

Brunswick, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The Brunswick White Way association was formally organized at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. The meeting was largely attended and the business men of the city went into the association determined to have a white way by Christmas. Dr. E. C. Bruce was elected president of the association, J. G. Weatherly, secretary, and the following were elected as a board of trustees: W. H. Wood, C. H. Leavy, B. F. Mann, A. J. Gordon and E. C. Bruce.

Nine-Foot Rattler Killed.

COVINGTON ADDRESSES TIFT COUNTY VOTERS

Tifton, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Judge W. A. Covington, candidate for congress, addressed an audience of 200 voters in the Tift county courtroom this afternoon. He was introduced by Hon. R. C. Ellis, and, although he only spoke forty-five minutes, his speech was a vote-winning one, and his audience very appreciative.

He outlined his platform along the lines of his address to the voters last week, and said he proposed to conduct his campaign on a high plane. He did not know anything concerning either of his opponents but what was good and if he did know, he would not tell it.

Roosevelt Is Welcomed.

Bridgetown, Barbados, October 11.—An enthusiastic welcome was given to Theodore Roosevelt when he arrived here yesterday on his way to South America. Colonel Roosevelt paid a glowing tribute to the work of the Barbadian laborers on the Panama canal.

Spring Street to Be Transformed Into Boulevard Which Will Traverse City in Straight Line

The picture on the right shows the course (as indicated by the dotted lines) of the proposed Cone street viaduct, which is planned to extend from the foot of Cone street to Madison avenue, carrying the Spring street through-boulevard scheme to the south side and to West End. This view was made from the top of the Ward-Truitt company's building.

A number of prominent real estate men and property owners are now planning to make of Spring street one of the finest boulevards in the city and an ideal outlet for north and southbound traffic.

The plans, as they have outlined them, mean extensive improvements and alterations which will take a considerable outlay of money and a good deal of time.

They do not contemplate getting into the work this year, but are laying their plans thoroughly so that everything may be arranged to have this work done certainly next year.

The main features of the plan include the regrading of the entire street, an extension of the present street from Fourteenth street to Peachtree street at Brookwood, the removal of the southeast corner of Spring street and Carnegie way and the construction of a viaduct from the foot of Cone street across the railroad to Madison avenue.

This is a pretty good-sized order, but leading men of the city not only believe that it will be done, but that it inevitably must be done.

Traverse Entire City.

Spring street is the only thoroughfare in the city which could be extended so as to traverse entirely the city in northerly and southerly directions, which are the prevailing directions of the greatest amount and the heaviest of the traffic with, of course, the exception of Peachtree street, the congestion of whose traffic at present is the main motive behind the proposed improvement of Spring street.

The proposition is to make of Spring street a smoothly paved boulevard with a uniform grade of something less than 5 per cent and without street car lines, as a sister-street to Peachtree.

In the office of Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of the city construction department, are profile drawings and estimates of the necessary cuts and fills incident to the proposed improvement.

The profile in Captain Clayton's office is only tentative. It calls, however, for the following cuts and fills in the present street from Marietta street to Fourteenth street:

An average fill of 10 feet at West Peachtree place, Baltimore place and Hunnicutt street, and a 6-foot cut from Emmett to Twelfth street.

These will be the main regrading features of the present street. The profile then calls for the opening of the street from Fourteenth street to Peachtree at Brookwood, involving cuts and fills of from 15 to 20 feet.

These alterations made in the grade of the street and a smooth pavement laid, this street would be an ideal thoroughfare.

The next step in the improvement of the street, as planned, is the cutting off of the southeast corner of Spring street and Carnegie way, so as to form a plaza at the intersection of these two streets. This plaza will be of sufficient width to afford entrances to Spring street going north from both the southern end of Spring street and from Cone street.

This plaza is designed for several purposes, one being to allow a ready entrance from Cone street, at the foot of which it is planned to construct the viaduct, leading to south side and West End. Another is to afford an equally easy and inviting approach from Peachtree street down Carnegie way.

It is understood that the property owners whose land would be affected by the cutting off of this corner are entirely agreeable to this scheme. There is, however, the matter of a strip of land about 10x100 feet in the rear of the governor's mansion, belonging to the state, which will call for a special act of the legislature before it can be used. A bill or resolution will be introduced at the next session of the legislature asking that the city be allowed to cut this strip. To cut this strip will not only greatly enhance the value of the state's property by reason of the improvement it will afford to the street, but will actually increase the frontage of the state's property on the street, wherefore little trouble is anticipated on this core.

Paved With Concrete.

While no sort of pavement has been named that may be used on this street in event of the execution of the present plans, concrete has been suggested. John D. Babbage stated on Saturday that, as representative of the Associated Cement Manufacturers, he stands ready to offer to the city the material for a mile of concrete paving on Spring street, and the services of an expert engineer to put it down at absolutely no cost to the city except the labor. This liberal proposition Mr. Babbage stated the concrete men are willing to make for the sake of introducing concrete paving into the south and demonstrating its durability.

For the construction of a viaduct southward across the railroad tracks, there are two proposed plans, one for a viaduct starting at the foot of Spring street and leading to the Terminal station plaza, and the other leading from the foot of Cone street to Madison avenue.

While a year or more ago the Spring street viaduct was being talked, the Cone street plan now seems to have grown in favor.

The Cone street plan is deemed better because of the fact that it will connect directly with Madison avenue, a good thoroughfare leading straight to lower Whitehall street and West End through Peters street and also because of the fact such a viaduct would be a matter of a thousand feet shorter than a viaduct from the foot of Spring street.

With the proposed viaduct at the foot of Cone street the great importance of the widening of Spring street at Carnegie way in order to allow an entrance from Cone street becomes at once obvious.

The execution of these plans would mean for Atlanta a ready solution for the traffic problem throughout the entire length of the city from north to south.

"The Spring street plans," says J. H. Ewing, one of the main promoters of the scheme, "need but one auxiliary improvement to make the business center of the city ideal in regard to traffic facilities. This other need is the widening of Peachtree street at Ellis street or 'the neck of the bottle,' as it is called. The widening of course, would include cutting away of the grade at Ellis. The removal of that grade is just what that entire section needs.

"When that grade is cut away all the following streets will be placed on a uniform level:

LAST WEEK'S ACTIVITY BEST IN SIX MONTHS

Nearly $1,000,000 Worth of Property Changed Hands, the Agents Say.

A review of the activities of the last week of the real estate market shows more large sales or exchanges than any week in the last six months and leaves a mighty good outlook for the ensuing weeks until the Christmas holidays.

The total value of the property which has changed hands during the last week, as announced by the various agencies, approximates $1,000,000, the actual figures being in excess of $900,000.

The largest and most surprising sale of the week was the purchase of the James home on Peachtree street by Messrs. Babbage & Harvey for a consideration of $80,000 or a record rate of $1,600 per foot for the block between Baker street and Porter place. This was the second sale announced in this block in the week and the third of the month.

The other sale announced in this block last week was that of a vacant lot for $30,000. Another interesting sale was that of Nos. 261 Edgewood avenue for $21,800. There were also two trades announced, one of an Ivy and Baker street corner valued at $29,000, and the other of a Ponce de Leon avenue and Myrtle street corner valued at $22,000. A Marietta street lot valued at $6,000 was given in part payment in each of these trades.

Several other interesting trades are brewing and should be ready for announcement this week.

There has been perhaps no more puzzling strip of real estate developed in recent years around Atlanta than that in Atkins park, fronting on Ponce de Leon avenue for about 1,000 feet. This strip is very narrow and lies between Ponce de Leon and St. Augustine place in the park. The question in the minds of many who have seen this strip has been, How in the world can that property be utilized without injuring the property around it?

To build residences facing on Ponce de Leon avenue would put the back yards on St. Augustine place and run that entire street as a place of residence. On the other hand to have the residences face on St. Augustine place would make an ugly row of back yards on Ponce de Leon.

W. F. Plane, who has become manager of the park and its sale for the owner, Dr. J. W. Grove of St. Louis, has solved the problem by the construction of a row of twin houses on this strip. These residences will front on Ponce de Leon and on St. Augustine with adjoining back porches between them. Each will have a private court and garage on either side of the back porche.

Mr. Plane's architect has just completed plans for four of these twin houses, which will be built at once at a cost of $7,000 each. The materials in these residences will be rustic stone, brick and tile. Grading will start Monday for the erection of these houses.

Mr. Plane says that this is but the beginning of the development of this property. He plans to build thirty such houses.

In last Sunday's issue of The Constitution there appeared a story about Grove park. Atkins park is the name which should have been used for the property. Grove park is however the name by which the property was formerly known.

Golf Acts as Great Stimulus To Enhancement of Realty

All work and no play has for years been recognized as a bad policy for the promotion of business, but in no other one particular is this old adage more aptly illustrated perhaps than in the relation that the game of golf bears to the enhancement of real estate and an active realty market.

There are in Atlanta four golf courses and the mere mention of the location of these courses is sufficient to call to mind at once four desirable and highly valuable residence sections whose rapid enhancement and great activity are very remarkable.

Golf and Real Estate.

This remarkable relationship between golf and the real estate market is emphasized anew in the fact that the Ansley Park course is now nearly complete. The section in which this new course is located has seen a great deal of activity during the comparatively dull summer months. To reduce the percentage of enhancement of a section by the construction of a golf course to concrete figures is of course hardly possible, but it is sufficient to note that in the neighborhood of East Lake, Brookhaven club, Druid Hills and Ansley Park residence lots have very materially increased in their value.

This experience has been shared by every city in the country where golf courses have been built.

Within a radius of thirty miles of New York, for instance, there are 71 golf courses. This is what The New York Herald has to say on their effect upon real estate:

"Golf in connection with automobiling, yachting, tennis, beach life, sea and still water bathing, canoeing and indeed all of the many other diversions and attractions of life in the country has today a tight grip on the mind of the cultivated or adopted man. Every developer of suburban real estate knows this to be so and makes the most of all such opportunities he has to offer in connection with the property to be sold.

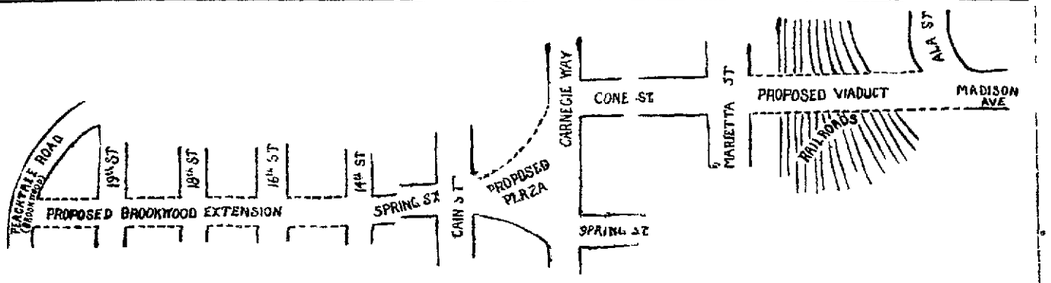

Aids Development.

In this manner many a developer owes much of his good fortune to the location of an attractive golf course in close proximity to his development or close at hand in the general vicinity. And so the search for a 'sporty' link frequently has diverted the mind of man from his business cares long enough for him to have considered the desirability of a country home for his family and self with the not uncommon result that the city property has lost a desirable resident to the profit of one of its environs.

Many of these courses are occupied under leases having either a short or a long period of years to run, but at any rate having to expire some time, and usually just when the membership is at its height and the surrounding country largely built up with new houses, thereby adding to the value of the grounds and consequently to the rental demanded as an incentive to a renewal of the lease. Just another instance of unearned increment, but credited on the books of the owner and not of the leaseholder who has created it.

"Others of the prominent clubs however have bought the land occupied by their links, and this is the trend today. This is the case with the Glenwood Golf club (eighteen holes), at Glenwood near Roslyn, R. I., which bought a large tract recently at Bells Ferry, also the Dean Alvord company, is the developers of this superb country colony organized the Belle Terre Country club with an eighteen-hole course and the clubhouse now is being enlarged to twice times its former capacity.

How Spring Street Is to Relieve Traffic

In the center of the diagram is the proposed plaza at Spring and Carnegie way. The dotted line here shows where the cut will be made on the northeast corner.

The manner in which Cone and Spring streets will be connected and how a splendid approach to Spring street from the business section of the city down Carnegie way will be formed are shown in the diagram of the plaza proposition.

GOULD AND PASCO SUBDIVISION joins the beautiful suburb of ALTOLOMA, just beyond Decatur and lies on the east side of the Georgia railroad and the Stone Mountain electric car line. This property has been subdivided into broad and deep lots many times the size of the ordinary lot, where you can have plenty of room for the cow, the chickens and the garden. The saving in your living expenses done to say nothing of the freedom from the many impure and poisonous foods will more than provide the small weekly payments required on your lots. This property lies directly in line of rapid advancement and offers one of the very best investments in the city of Atlanta. I can refer you to more than one hundred satisfied purchasers in ALTOLOMA who will readily verify these statements.

ONE DOLLAR A WEEK
NO INTEREST—NO TAXES

DR. C. W. GOULD AND JOHN G. PASCO, owners of this property, have authorized me to sell these lots upon my own terms. I shall, therefore, give you the opportunity of purchasing the same upon the easy terms of ONE DOLLAR A WEEK. Considering the location of this property, its railroad and street car facilities and the fact that these lots are many times the size of the ordinary city lot the above terms are the most liberal ever offered the public of the city of Atlanta.

ALTOLOMA SPECIAL

THE GEORGIA Railroad has provided special Altoloma coaches, which will leave the old Union station promptly at 3:25 p. m. Our automobiles will return you to the Decatur street cars, thus enabling you to reach your homes in ample time for early supper.

Yale Inconsistency Surprise Of Present Football Season; Penn and Cornell Show Form

By EDWARD R. BUSHNELL.

Philadelphia, October 11.—The football season would be abnormal if it did not have its inconsistencies. One of the hardest things for the critics to explain is the curious brand of football which has been played by Yale this season. The Elis ought to be playing top-notch game. They began their preliminary practice on September 1, nearly two weeks in advance of any of their rivals. They opened the season with a splendid 21-0 triumph over Wesleyan, but at the end of five solid weeks of work they almost went on the rocks when Maine held them to a score of 0-0.

This peculiar result is hard to explain. One week before the Maine team had been swamped by Harvard by the score of 34-0. For most of the week preceding the Maine game the Yale eleven was experimenting with a new attack brought from Minneapolis by Tom Shevlin, who had already guaranteed its effectiveness. There was good reason for Yale to trust the judgment of Shevlin.

Three years ago he came to the Elis' help when they looked to be beyond help. At that time the Elis were being butted about by the minor college elevens. Ssevlin, who had been helping Dr. H. L. Williams coach at the University of Minnesota, saw there a tackles shift play which he thought was the best thing since the invention of tackles back. He took the first train for New Haven, and although it was then a week before the championship game with Princeton, the Eli coaches took the new play as the last resort.

By diligent work right up to the day of the game the formation was mastered and with it an otherwise weak Yale eleven outplayed and defeated a better Princeton team. Using the same play Yale a week later played Harvard a 0-0 tie.

Reports from New Haven were to the effect that the new play Shevlin taught the Elis last week was a variation of the old tackles shift and would be just as effective. It had been doing much execution against the scrubs, but when it was tried against the University of Maine it fell flat. The men from Maine held Yale for downs repeatedly. The play proved to be so great a failure that the Yale coaches announced after the game that it would be abandoned entirely and a new style of attacke employed

These facts furnish a new insight into Yale's coaching situation. They indicate an uncertain policy which if pursued will surely reduce the effectiveness of the Yale attack It is rather surprising in view of the ability which Howard Jones has shown as a coach on previous occasions.

In 1909 he was at the head of the Yale coaching staff and gradually developed a team which was at its best in the Princeton and Harvard games, and was in fact the best team Yale ever had. How much of its strength was due to the ability of the men and how much to the coaching has always been a matter of conjecture. Yale, however, has not been disgraced and there is still ample time for Jones to build up an attack which will bring the Elis out of the rut. But just now, and especially when they consider the disasters of the last few years, a good many Yale graduates, not to mention the undergraduates, are a bit worried.

Penn's Novel Attack.

Because it was the biggest game of the week there were a good many football critics present at the Pennsylvania-Lafayette game last Saturday to see what they could pick up in the way of new football. If they were at all observant they saw more up-to-date football in a single game than was displayed in a whole season on the eastern gridiron last year. Pennsylvania beat a team which was its equal physically and greatly its superior in experience, solely by the employment of daring modern football The forward pass which George Brooke taught his men and with which they overcame Lafayette was brilliant in conception and execution.

This attack was built around one man, Fullback Minds. Not since the days of Houser, the famous Carlisle Indian, fullback of four or five years ago, has the writer seen any man who could shoot the forward pass with as much direction and for such great distance as Minds. He throws the pigskin just as he would a baseball. The ball goes straight and true to its mark, rarely ever turning on its axis. His passes vary from 20 to 40 yards. Thirteen times did Minds hurl the forward pass against Lafayette. Seven times it settled into the arms of the man for whom it was intended. The six times it failed were due to fumbling or interference, never to the inaccuracy of the thrower.

The formation from which Pennsylvania made this play is a brand-new contribution to football and marked a distinct advance in the effort to make this play consistently effective. Possibly some team will develop a defense to break it up, but Lafayette was helpless and bewildered. When the play started it had four possibilities, an end run, a line plunge, a punt or a forward pass. As a rule the forward pass was long delayed, the ball criss crossing in the back field until it was finally returned to Minds, stationed for back and with loads of time to get the play off. This delay also made it possible for him to have three or four men down the field, any one of them eligible to receive the pass. With so much latitude and such a wonderfully accurate man to make the pass it was no wonder that the play succeeded as often as it did.

Another feature of Pennsylvania's attack was the clever manner in which Minds executed the running punts. In neither of the previous games had he shown ability to kick an unusual distance. Consequently Coach Brooke took advantage of the rule permitting one to kick the ball at any point back of the line of scrimmage. Instead of going back for a long kick Minds usually started on an end run and punted the ball while in motion. He is learning to place his kicks well and in this way was able to outkick Lafayette. This is the same play which Harlan, the former Princeton halfback, worked so effectively against Yale.

Harvard Fears Over-Confidence.

Football prospects at Harvard are so bright that Coach Haughton and his assistants fear nothing quite so much as over-confidence Individually the team looks to be stronger than the 1912 championship eleven, but more than once a great team has lost its most important battle through conceit Evidently the coaches have observed a tendency on the part of the players that the Yale game has already been won, because right now they seem to fear this more than they do the Yale eleven or the possibility of injuries The Harvard Bulletin, the alumni organ of the university, has already taken the student body and players to task for showing such an overconfident spirit and has warned them that a continuation of it will increase the likelihood of disaster.

But if the Crimson eleven is properly handled and the men do not become spoiled by victory this ought to be the greatest Harvard team in history Logan has already made good at quarterback and promises to be an even better man than Gardiner, who played the position last year. Likewise Mahan gets better in every game and gives promise of being a better ground gainer than ex-Captain Wendell himself Mahan is an unusually good line plunger, but in addition he has developed wonderful speed.

Last year Brickley was considered the fastest man in the Harvard back field and he was very fast indeed, but Mahan can outstrip even him. What makes Mahan all the more useful to the team is the fact that his punting is just as good as anything that Felton ever did He gets the same height and distance to his kicks, and in addition is a great drop kicker After Brickley, who had scored a field goal against Bates was taken out of the game last week Mahan was also given a chance for a goal from field and lifted the ball over the bars from the 40-yard line

Hardwick, who at the beginning of the season was in trouble with the faculty on account of his studies, has made himself eligible He demonstrated in last week's games that he is an even better line plunger than he was last year, and since he was always a great defensive back, it does look though the Harvard back field was an even stronger combination than that of 1912.

On October 25 Harvard will have a most severe test, when it plays Pennsylvania State college. This latter team takes the place of Norwich, whose team was obliged to disband on account of the death of a player. Whether or not State college is as powerful as last year remains to be seen, but 1912 this eleven went through the season without a defeat and beat such powerful teams as Cornell, Pennsylvania and the Navy. All of these games it won on merits.

The Quakers this year have lost Very, an All-American end, and Maithe, the old full back. But they still have Miller, one of the best quarterbacks of the year, and a line which for weight and experience ought to be almost a match for the Crimson. The team is coached by W M. Hollenback, the former Pennsylvania fullback and captain. Hollenback has shown wonderful versatility as a coach and his team ought to test Harvard to the limit It ought to be just the sort of game the Crimson needs, because this eleven has not yet had any serious opposition.

Cornell Getting Together.

The ease with which Cornell beat Oberlin on Saturday indicates that the team has shown great improvement within the week. Though how strong it will be when pitted against the opponents it will meet during November is still a problem. Sharpe has been handicapped by the loss of veteran material through ineligibility and the necessity of constructing an almost entirely new back field There seems to be a great deal of individual strength among the back field players, but it has not yet shown any unusual team work by which is meant a consistently strong attack and an equally good defense One seems to be obtained at the expense of the other, but this was to have been expected under the circumstances. Dr Sharpe is working along the right lines and he will yet develop a team of which Cornell will be proud.

One of the best things about the Oberlin game was the splendid individual work of Quarterback Barrett. The youngster has a great future before him and if he escapes injury he ought to develop into one of the best back field men of the year. Apparently he is to be the man upon whom Sharpe will rely to do the drop kicking because he scored one such field goal against Oberlin

Princeton and Dartmouth won their last week's games with big scores. The Tigers ran wild against Fordham, though the Crimson coaches would like to know just how much of this was due to their own strength and how much to Fordham's weakness. The latter team was not at its best on account of the loss of two veterans. At the same time there was more precision to Princeton's attack than it had shown previously. In particular the new men in the back field all showed up to advantage.

Dartmouth's strength was due to a wonderfully fast back field The Hanover men must be pretty strong this year because the Colby team which they fairly smothered had beaten Brown the week before and really expected to beat Dartmouth. Ghee and Llewellyn, who alternated at quarterback, did quite as well as ex-Captain Glaze, while Curtis looks like a find in the back field.

A new truck company in the making will include many members of the trade whose connections with companies in existence today make them prominent, and other men of prominence not now actively connected with manufacturing, but who were prominent in the past. A well-known motor truck manufacturing concern is to be taken over. This company is now a going concern, and a pronounced success. The deal when closed will mean the placing upon the market of trucks of many sizes designed by men who know the business thoroughly, and an extension of the line at present manufactured. This deal has been brewing for many months, and is about to be consummated.

W. F. DENNARD.

W F Dennard, the oldest city employee, who some time since advertised for a wife in The Constitution, is about to make his fifth matrimonial leap. Four times now has Dennard assayed to aid Dan Cupid's match making game. He expects to make his fifth venture successful.

Out of forty-five answers received to his plea for "a good wife who could cook," Dennard chose one—he carefully conceals the lady's name—and will today make her his bride.

The bride-to-be is somewhere in the neighborhood of 40 years old, lives at Conyers, this state, and is an old friend of Dennard's, so he says. The bride's great grandfather performed the ceremony when Dennard was first married, some forty odd years ago. Hence the acquaintanceship.

Wants a Good Cook.

"All I want is someone to share my home with me and cook me something fit to eat," said Dennard Saturday, as he smilingly unfolded his latest romance.

"I'm getting on in years. There ain't much life left in me, but there's a heap of appetite," he ruminated. "So Sunday I'm going to meet this here widow lady and take her over to Pastor Jones' home in Walker street and get married."

To prove that he wasn't jesting about the matter as his friends have charged, Dennard pulled out his marriage license.

"My boy has consented to me marrying again," he said, though at first he was mightily set against it. You see he sort of thought 'bout times ought to be enough. But when I hinted of the good things we'd get to eat from now on that sort of changed him 'round. We have been living sort of poor like for the past year or so, having to cook our own food, and it has got on all our nerves.

"Now don't you go and make fun of me or this here marriage. I'm in dead earnest. You would be too if you saw your old age sort o' creeping down the road on an empty stomach."

Blessing, He Believes.

Dennard concluded his little homily on matrimony by the assertion that, despite the calling down he had received from his superiors for advertising for a wife, despite the trouble he had had during the past fortnight in looking over the applicants which, he said, were of all ages and conditions, despite all the obstacles he had overcome in getting a mate, he was satisfied that his marriage today would prove a blessing to himself, his unmarried boy, his seven great-grandchildren and his twenty-seven grandchildren.

Fans Praise Fine Service Given Them by Constitution During Great World Series

If any ball fan—male and female—in the city of Atlanta failed to avail themselves of The Constitution's world series detail, that fan must have been deaf, dumb and blind.

For the five days of the greatest display of the great American sport, it is roughly estimated that over 35,000 people in the city either called the Constitution on the telephone or at one time stood in Alabama street in front of The Constitution office watching and hearing the returns from either Shibe Park or the Polo Grounds as they were ticked direct from the parks to the office of The Constitution.

Every day the fans congregated in front of the Constitution's building in Alabama street and lined the thoroughfare from curb to curb during the hours of 1 to 3 while the games were on.

Telephone Operators Busy.

At the same time five telephone operators in The Constitution office were constantly engaged in answering the myriad calls sent in all seeking the score. The Constitution switchboard was turned over to the public for the entire series and from this source alone the number of those keeping tab on the game by innings over the phone totaled well into the thousands.

On all sides Saturday, after Philadelphia had proven her claim to the world's championship was heard praise for The Constitution baseball detail. As one fan expressed it: "It couldn't have been better." There was no complicated mechanism of a mechanical board to watch—nothing save the simple blackboard device showing the score by innings and the graphic megaphone account of the game as it was run off, play by play.

During the five days that the series was on the crowd which gathered daily in front of The Constitution office was hectic in favor of the Athletics winning. Their approval of the ball played by the Philadelphia team was always evidenced by the loudest applause while New York received but scant support.

Fans Come Early.

Saturday, the last day of the series, the fans lined up long before the hour for the actual starting of play. Men came bearing campstools and boxes and made themselves comfortable, just outside of the line of traffic, until the word was shouted that the last big struggle was on.

Although attendance figures may have fallen off in the cities where the games were in progress, the interest in the world's series here did not flag. In fact the crowds which availed themselves of The Constitution's efforts to give a quick and satisfactory report on the big games increased daily until Saturday the largest crowd of the week stood elbow to elbow and yelled as the Athletics nailed the championship pennant to their mast.

:: THE GOSSIPERS ::

That Henry Walters and Grace Brown were in love with each other when they married there could be no sort of doubt. The whole village of Davisburg would have sworn to it.

What brought the clouds after a few months? Isn't it odd that lovers have no philosophy about them? They do not look for the chance as time passes. There will be no cross words or falling off in the demonstrations of affection.

Behold them. Here smashes his thumb with the hammer one day, and he goes home thinking what a fool he was to hit his thumb instead of the nail. He found his wife in bed with a headache.

She was vexed about it. Why hadn't the ailment come to someone else? Why wasn't Henry home to put a wet cloth on her forehead and utter words of sympathy?

"You are an awfully careless man, sir," said she, as he entered the house holding his bruised and bleeding thumb.

If you hadn't got your feet wet or something you wouldn't have a headache," was the reply.

Then were the first cross words and quite enough, each one was rather glad of it as it was a chance from the honeymoon program.

Grace told the whole village that Henry loved pieces.

Henry told the whole village that her cooking made him ill and that her temper had become so Satanic that he was really afraid to sleep in the house.

It was more exciting than a dog fight for a time and then talk that a boom in real estate would follow. Then the affair began to wear, folks, and there was talk that the law ought to be invoked.

Such a dog-and-cat couple ought to be made to get a divorce. Such a bickering must lead to murder after awhile.

It was Deacon Fraser who suggested a remedy. He was a good man, though the remedy he brought forward was rather heroic for a churchman.

An anonymous letter was received by the quarreling couple. It was to the effect that if they did not at once cease their bickering or apply for a divorce, something very unpleasant would happen to them.

"You can see what you have done," said the husband after reading his letter.

And you can see what you have done," was retorted.

There was less quarreling for a week, and then it broke out again. Then came a second anonymous letter.

The committee of good order will soon wait on you," was the threat. This is the second last warning. It will come prepared to deal with your conduct as it deserves."

As a matter of fact neither was alarmed. It was a village where law and order reigned. The minister and two or three others might call in the evening and read husband and wife a lecture on the sin of quarreling and endeavor to patch up matters, but there would be nothing beyond that.

And their talk will do no good with me!" said the husband.

Nor with me either, unless you are to be taken to an insane asylum!" answered the wife.

An hour after midnight one night nine men, wrapped in sheets and having pillow cases drawn over their heads, walked abroad in the village streets.

The nine paused in front of a cottage. Its inmates were snoring in peace.

The nine passed through the gate and drew up in line before the door. Then one of their number knocked and then rang the bell. After a minutes a half-dressed man opened the door to ask:

"What is you and what do you want?"

This is the committee of order. We sent you a warning and you did not heed it."

"What's it to you?" asked the wife, as the man grinned.

They have come for us."

Humph! I'm sorry I have been mean to you."

I was loving you all the time I was quarreling with you."

Same here."

We will give you one minute to remove the things you've from outside."

Oh, Henry, it will just kill me to have our sin and feather ever known," the wife.

And think of their finding you!"

Henry!"

Time up," came the voice of Captain Jon, said the nine ghosts in chorus.

Henry seized a hardwood chair and smashed it on the uncarpeted floor and handing one leg of it to his wife he seized another and both dashed out of the door.

Crack! Smash! Crack! The nine ghosts had not anticipated and prepared themselves for resistance, and the attack came with great suddenness. Three or four went down like cow sheds in a cyclone, and the others made their retreat in tremendous haste. None escaped without at least one good whack. The wife used her chair leg with the vigor the husband did his.

"What do you think," shouted Mrs Hastings next morning as she burst in upon the neighbor, Mrs. Drew.

"Somebody's cow dead?"

"No, sir. The Walters have made up!"

"It can't be!"

But they have. I was in there ten minutes ago and she was sitting on his knee, and they were so busy calling each other darling and dear that the burning of the breakfast was all burning up and the coffee pot was boiling over."

The statement not only turned out to be true, but it was proven that it was the last quarrel to be made up. And yet the gossips were not happy. They said:

Isn't it simply disgraceful the way Henry Walters and his wife love each other? Really, they ought to be something done about it."

A Quick Bargain.

It happened on the seventh floor of an office building in Boston. An office boy had succumbed to the call of the summer, the ball field and the swimmin hole. The boss was accordingly distracted being compelled to answer the phone and all the incidentals usually attended to by the delinquent young man. A little bootblack came in, an Italian born in this country. The boss turned in his chair. "How would you like to work here?" he asked suddenly, looking the youngster over. For answer the boy looked out the window, saw there was nobody below, and sent the blacking box and its contents hurling below to the alley off Milk street. "What do you want done?" he asked, and everything was settled.

Of the 6,572,000 school children in Prussia, 3,815,000 are in Protestant schools, 2,783,000 in Roman Catholic schools and the comparatively small number of 368,566 in the non-sectarian schools.

The London Chamber of Commerce is urging the government to establish a national seed testing station, as seeds must be sent to the continent for testing as to purity and germinating qualities.

MOOSE TO HAVE HOME IN SILVEY BUILDING

Two Floors Will Be Occupied by This Organization for a Clubhouse.

According to announcement made Saturday by National Director Horace C. Alford, of the Loyal Order of Moose, the local lodge has taken over the Silvey building just below Five Points and will occupy two floors as a club house.

The rebuilding of the structure will entail an expenditure of over $10,000, while the furnishings will cost about $15,000 according to the architect plans which have already been approved.

The building will be ready for the occupancy of the Moose on December 1, at which time the national officers will attend and take part in elaborate dedicatory exercises.

The lodge membership is growing by leaps and bounds. The local lodge was formed in 1911 and was the 523d of its kind then in the country. Since the arrival of the national director in this city the enrollment has increased something over 1,000 and it is still growing. It is the intention of the local officers and the national director to keep up the membership campaign until the enrollment reaches 2,000.

"Our order is the third largest benevolent organization in the world," said Alford Saturday. "In Philadelphia, New York and other large cities we have a marvelous membership. We are taking only the best class of men into our fraternity and every application received passes under close scrutiny before it is accepted."

"Among the prominent members of our order who take an active part in its work is Vice President Marshall whose recent speech at the dedication of "Moosheart," the home for widows and children of members of the Moose order, at Auroro, Ill., has been reprinted in all sorts of fraternal papers as a masterpiece on the brotherhood of man."

The local officers of the Moose are C. H. Lehman, dictator; J. W. Williams, secretary and treasurer, and T. J. McGuire, prelate.

13 PERSONS KILLED AT FALL OF TORREON

Mexico City, October 11.—The number of Spaniards who lost their lives when Torreon was taken from the federal troops by the rebels has dwindled to nine instead of the sixty or seventy at first reported. A Mexican who asserts that he was in Torreon when the rebels entered arrived here today and says that altogether only thirteen persons were killed—nine Spaniards and four Mexicans. They were shot for failing to deliver money and goods demanded by the rebels as "loans."

The same messenger declares that the rebels entered Torreon in good order and at the outset there was no looting. They were commanded by Generals Villa, Pereyra, Tomas Urbina and Panfilo Natera. General Natera, who appeared to be in chief command, took steps to protect property, but demanded certain funds and provisions from the residents.

The federal generals, Pravo, Munguia and Escudero, who were at Torreon, arrived here today under arrest to answer for the evacuation of Torreon. It was rumored today that Mazatlan had been taken by the rebels.

FEDERALS AMBUSHED AND BEATEN BY REBELS

Eagle Pass, Texas, October 11.—Seemingly reliable but unconfirmed reports from Las Vacas, Mexico, today asserted constitutionalists defeated federals in a battle near that town yesterday. The number of dead and wounded was not given. The federals were said to have been ambushed. Federals at Piedras Negras denied knowledge of any defeat.

Efforts were began today to learn the fate of G. W. Newman, of Eagle Pass, who went to Mapimi, Durango, a few weeks ago with supplies for a party of Americans in distress. Rumors have reached here through federal couriers that Newman was killed when he refused to surrender his provisions to Mexicans.

Mrs. Martha E. Small.

Mrs. Martha L. Small, aged 40 years, died at her residence, 91 McAfee street, Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. She is survived by her husband, A. T. Small, one son, A. T. Small, Jr., three sisters, Mrs. Mabel Aldrich, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. W. E. Neilson, of San Francisco, Mrs. Sarah Shaffer, of Atlanta, and one brother, T. D. Haggerman, of Washington, D. C. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Silk Came From Persia.

(From The Kansas City Star.)

Wrought silk was brought from Persia to Greece in 325 B. C., it was known in Rome at the time of Tiberius when the senate prohibited the use of plate of massive gold and forbade men to debase themselves by wearing silk. It only women. Heliogabalus is said to have worn a garment of silk in 220 A. D. Silk was at first of the same value with gold, weight for weight, and was believed to grow on trees. Silkworms were brought from India to Europe in the middle of the sixth century. Charlemagne sent offering of century. Charlemagne sent offering of manufactures, encouraged by Roger king of Sicily, at Palermo, when the Sicilians not only bred the silkworms but spun and wove the silk. The manufactur spread into Italy and Spain, and also into the south of France a little before the reign of Francis I., about 1510, and Henry propagated mulberry trees and silkworms throughout the kingdom about 1600. To England silk manufactures were known by some woman of the nobility at a ball at Kenilworth castle in 1.5[illegible].

Rostand's New Play.

(From The Le Cri de Paris.)

The new work of Edmond Rostand will be called "La Derniere Nuit de Don Juan" (the last night of Don Juan). The author of Cyrano de Bergerac has placed this last night at Venice and this new work he hopes to finish before November. This author, however, is the interpreter M. Le Bargy, are perfect accord to the least details. Nevertheless to make sure the poet has requested M. Le Bargy to pass some days at Venice in order to acquaint himself with the frame in which the action is passed. The amusing part of this little story is that M. Rostand has himself been in Venice.

Kirkwood Improvements.

The great improvements, especially in the way of street construction, that have been made recently in Kirkwood are emphasized by an election which has been called there on October 15 on the question of $50,000 bond issue for the purpose of paving streets and putting in other improvements.

This bond issue includes the paving of West Boulevard drive, the connecting link between Moreland avenue and East Lake. In event of the passage of the bond issue it will be of great benefit not only to Kirkwood citizens, but to Atlantans as well since the paving of West Boulevard drive will make a shorter automobile route from the city to East Lake and will do much to relieve the automobile traffic on Peachtree and Ponce de Leon. It will also eliminate the present dangerous grade at Oakhurst, where a number of accidents have occurred. C. Bailey and other citizens are behind the improvement movement. It is expected that the execution of these plans would bring about a marked advance in the value of Kirkwood real estate.

Pretty College Romance Brought To Light By Wedding Announcement

Demorest, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—A pretty college romance has just been brought to light here following the sudden announcement of the marriage of pretty Miss Myrtle Lee Brown to Miguel Pascual, a wealthy Cuban. Both Miss Brown and Pascual have been students at Demorest college, and number among their acquaintances the entire student body.

Months ago young Pascual, the son of a millionaire Cuban, first saw dainty Miss Brown. Following the custom of his country, where it is unbecoming for a suitor to speak to the young lady of his heart before he confers with her parents, young Pascual called upon the nearest relatives of Miss Brown, whom he could find and expressed his intentions.

His suit was not met with enthusiasm nor was it met with coldness. He was informed that he had better seek the consent of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the parents of the girl. They, however, were not in the city.

Miss Brown was all but s[illegible] when she learned that young Pascual had spoken to her relatives instead of courting her as is American, and at first she did not respond. For month Pascual kept up an incessant attack upon Miss Brown's heart, until last week they eloped. They were married and have returned here, where they are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

SAYS STARVING WIFE DROVE HIM TO THEFT

W. J. Hearld Tells Police He Has Been Hunting Work in Vain for Weeks.

"I have been in Atlanta without work for two weeks, and I have a starving wife and child in Jacksonville, Fla.," was the explanation given to the police Saturday night by W. J. Hearld, a neatly dressed young white man, when taken to the stationhouse charged with snatching the purse of an unknown woman on Whitehall street, near the corner of Mitchell, about 9 o'clock.

Hearld snatched the purse in full view of a number of late shoppers, among whom was W. P. Morris, secretary to Chief Beavers, who promptly placed the man under arrest. During the confusion the woman, who was handsomely gowned, recovered her purse and disappeared in the crowd.

Hearld was charged with suspicion and his story will be investigated. He will be given a hearing in the recorder's court Monday morning.

FELIX DIAZ IS WARNED TO KEEP OUT OF MEXICO

Mexico City, October 11.—Influenced by the developments in the capital, the friends of Felix Diaz have cabled him at Havana not to come to Mexico.

Child Welfare.

Little work done by the public at large for children until the women of the country organized a mother's congress for the purpose.

Since then, child welfare, playgrounds and other associations for the care and protection of children have become national institutions. Branches of these organizations are being started in many states and we ought to have the mmultiplied many times.

Every community needs to consider the welfare of its children as a distinct problem in the social, the vocational and the religious activities of its society as well as in the education especially provided in the schools.

People are waking up to this need of our children for healthy bodies and sound minds, and are providing for diseased children, open air wards in many of the hospitals of our large cities. Jefferson hospital in New York has spent $16,000 on a roof garden for children where there are playgrounds and rooms enclosed in glass for their use. Other hospitals send their convalescent children to the sea shore to recuperate.

Minnesota claims the only large hospital for indigent crippled and disabled children, at Lake Phalen, where they have the advantage of fresh air and special care.

The baby health contest carried on in many parts of the country this year is another indication of the growing desire for a sturdy race of boys and girls. We shall need strong men and women in body and mind to guide our country in the future.

MEAT SHORTAGE UP TO FARMERS

They Can Increase Supply, According to Government Experts--More Cattle Must Be Raised on the Farms.

Washington, October 11.—Shortage of meat in the United States and the way to increase the supply are discussed by experts in the department of agriculture in a special bulletin issued today to the farmers of the country. That there is a decided meat shortage is explained by James M. Pickens, of the bureau of animal industry, while George M. Rommell, chief of the animal-husbandry division, urges maintenance and increase in the meat supply by revival of beef cattle raising in the corn belt, its extension in the eastern states and increasing the production of beef cattle and hogs in the south.

"The high cost of meat is a serious reality," says Mr. Pickens, "and it is now obvious that the rise in prices in recent years is the natural result of actual shortage in production. The condition is reflected in the per capita consumption of meat in the United States which is estimated to have fallen off 10 pounds in four years, or from 162 pounds in 1909 to 152 pounds in the fiscal year 1913. It is evident that the country is facing an era of short production of meat, and that some constructive means must be adopted if the American appetite for this class of food is to be supplied."

Cattle Production Way Off.

The bulletin points out that in the last six years the number of beef cattle in the country apparently has fallen off over 20 per cent, while the population has increased. Department estimates show the number of beef cattle in the country on January 1, 1907, was 51,566,000, and at the beginning of the present year only 36,030,000, while the number of dairy cows remained practically stationary.

The salughter of beef, it is set forth, has fallen off approximately 780,000,000 pounds from 1910 to 1912. Meanwhile the country's export trade has greatly fallen off, and Mr. Pickens offers little hope for imports from Argentina and Australia because of their great drain by European markets. Argentina, he asserts, already is drawing on its live stock reserve.

The department makes the assertion that the farms of this country have almost unlimited possibilities for live stock production, and that all the meat needed could be furnished if the farmers could be shown how to produce it and how to get a ready market.

How to Increase Meat Output.

Mr. Rommell, of the animal husbandry division, declared that the output of meat on the average farm can be increased by the prevention of waste, use of more economical methods and increase of production through better breeding methods. He asserts that the nation's meat supply can be increased by:

Revival of beef cattle raising in the corn belt and its extension in the eastern states, where success depends upon the utilization of pastures and cheap roughage, the use of dual purpose cows on dairy farms, saving the calves for feeders; raising sheep more extensively in the corn belt and eastern states, increasing hog production on the irrigated farms of the west; increasing production on beef cattle and hogs in the south, the only section of the United States where cattle can still be raised, fed and sold at a profit of from 5 to 6 cents per pound.

Sad Death of a Young Farmer Hero

LOVE PETTIT,

The Boy "Corn and Cattle" Hero. From photographic snap-shot of the brave little fellow taken as, with his father, he was making his daily cattle round-up.

Oak Hill, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Of vital interest to the captains of industry in Georgia, no less than to the farmers and the sons of farmers, is the career of Love Pettit, the little Gordon county "corn and cattle" hero, brought to a close at the age of 13 years by typhoid fever. Love, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Pettit, was an architype of the new type of farm boy upon which the state must depend for its future destiny. At the tender age of 10 years he was a convert to the cause of scientific agriculture, and in his methods and success he is a prophecy of the farm boy and the Georgia farmer of the future. Of importance to the student is the fact that the boy's well-rounded character forecasts the type of citizen who will in the next few years transform Georgia soil into a veritable gold mine.

Love was a member of the Gilmer County Corn club, and he made a specialty of corn and cattle. He seemed born to the farm and to farm life. The lure of the city and the idle diversions of many country boys never appealed to him. He had a wizard knowledge of farm machinery and ability to operate it. It is a safe assertion that few adult farmers in Georgia could compete with him in this respect.

In 1912, at the age of 12 years, he won a prize on his acre of corn. With his prize money, added to other money he had earned, he bought cattle, which he tended himself and in which he took intense pride. His acre of corn for 1913 bids fair to treble his accomplishments for the year preceding. The boy knew the meaning of soil values, the use of fertilizers, and the efficacy of the most scrupulous care in cultivation.

With it all, he was just—a boy. He loved normal play, though it never interfered with his ambitions. He was not morose or a "blue stocking" as are so many achieving and precocious youngsters. He was the friend of every "kid" in the neighborhood, and an immense favorite with the adults. Thoughtful old farmers of Gilmer who watched his career are sure he was an embodied prophecy of the kind of farmer Georgia will evolve in the next generation.

Philippine Officials Resign.

Manila, October 11.—Colonel H. B. McCoy, deputy collector of customs at Manila, and Charles H. Sleeper, director of the bureau of lands in the Philippines, resigned today, and Manuel Tinio was appointed to the bureau of lands. This appointment is regarded as implying the adoption of a new attitude toward the friar land question.

Big Eagle Killed.

Lyerly, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—A large bald eagle, measuring 5 feet and 6 inches from tip to tip of its wings, was killed in the Broomtown settlement, in the western part of the county, a few days ago by Ben Hutchens. The eagle was the largest seen in this part of the country in years, and attracted quite a bit of attention.

JACK COOMBS JUBILANT OVER HIS CLUB'S VICTORY

Jack Coombs, Athletic pitcher and hero of two world's series contests, who has been prevented from playing all season, was jubilant tonight over the victory. He received the details at the University hospital.

He is suffering from typhoid of the spine. His doctors announced today that Coombs' recovery would be complete, and that he probably would be as good a baseball player as ever.

NEGROES SLASH VICTIM, THEN TAKE HIS MONEY

J. W. Sinclair Tells Police of Daring Hold-Up on Armstrong Street.

With a dangerous knife wound in his throat and many minor cuts and bruises, J. W. Sinclair, of 20 Fulton terrace, staggered into police headquarters about 12 o'clock Saturday night and gasped out a story of brutal assault and robbery. As far as his disconnected story could be pieced together by the police before he fainted from loss of blood while waiting for the Grady ambulance, the assault took place as follows:

Sinclair was walking out Armstrong street, when upon reaching the intersection of Butler street three negroes stepped out and demanded his money. Before he could answer two of the men grasped him by the arms, holding him powerless, while the third whipped out a long knife and slashed him about the neck and shoulders. When he was so badly injured that further resistance was impossible, he was released, after the negroes had searched his clothing, obtaining about $10. They then turned and ran down Butler street toward Decatur.

Sinclair was able to reach the police station, but fainted a short time after arriving there. When taken to Grady hospital it was found that while his wounds are serious, he will recover unless complications set in.

WYNDHAM TO LECTURE ON PANAMA CANAL WORK

A. W. Wyndham, noted civil engineer, until recently actively engaged for the past twenty-five years on the actual construction work of the Panama canal, will deliver a lecture in Wesley Memorial church Tuesday night of this week on the "Great Ditch." On Tuesday afternoon he will speak especially for the school children of the city, the talk beginning at 3 o'clock, in plenty of time to allow the students in the schools a chance to hear his interesting discourse.

An interesting section of Wyndham's talk is that which he illustrates with 150 specially prepared colored slides of the work on the Panama canal. These stereopticon views were obtained by Wyndham when he was in the canal zone, and are authentic and exclusive. A small admission will be charged for the afternoon lecture on Tuesday to allow the school children a chance to hear the interesting talk.

PRESIDENT COMMUTES SENTENCE OF MURDERER

Washington, October 11.—President Wilson exercised executive clemency today in three cases, lightening the fines imposed on three St. Louis men for violation of the rivers and harbors act, commuting the sentence of a murderer now in the Atalnta penitentiary and remitting a fine of $1,000 imposed upon a convicted counterfeiter from Nevada. In the St. Louis case the fine of $2,500 on Gilbourne Blouck was cut to $1,000 and those of $1,500 and $1,000 on R. H Schultz and William Erby, respectively, were changed to $500 each. All three men were convicted of obstructing the levee in St. Louis.

The life sentence passed upon John Reeves for the murder of his wife and brother-in-law and a cattle raiser, who boasted of his relations with the wife, was commuted to ten years. Reeves was convicted in 1903, and with commutation for good behavior will be released shortly.

E. Peter White, who has served practically all of a five-year sentence in the Leavenworth penitentiary for counterfeiting, was relieved of a $1,000 fine imposed at the time of conviction.

COPPEGE IS BEATEN AND ROBBED OF MONEY

Richard Coppege, said by the police to be the leader of a band of young toughs making their headquarters in the vicinity of Trinity avenue and Pryor street, was badly beaten and robbed of $18 in the rear of the First Christian church Saturday night about 10 o'clock. Robert Starnes and J. E. Jordan, two young white men said to be members of his alleged gang, were arrested on suspicion of having robbed their leader.

In response to a telephone message which stated that Coppege was lying in the rear of the church, Call Officer Milam and Bailiff "Boots" Rogers hurried to the spot, and after making an investigation, considered themselves justified in arresting eight men found loafing about the corner. Six of this number were released upon reaching the stationhouse. Starnes and Jordan will be given a hearing before Recorder Broyles Monday morning.

AFTER SELLING COTTON HE WAS SHOT TO DEATH

William H. Underwood, Prominent Alabama Planter, Is Murdered Near Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., October 11.—William H. Underwood, a prominent planter of this county, residing at Strata, was assassinated during the night, his body being found this morning partly buried in the sand of the Norman Bridge road. One hand and part of his head had been blown off by a charge of buckshot. His clothes had been rifled and everything of value except his watch had been stolen.

Underwood spent Friday in Montgomery, where he sold cotton, for which he received $191, and the knowledge of the fact of this sale is believed to have caused his death. Underwood had left $150 of this money with a brother-in-law in this city because of the lateness of the hour when he started home.

FATHER SUES DOCTOR FOR $20,000 DAMAGES

Claiming ignorance, carelessness and negligence on the part of the physician which it is said has ruined the health of an 18-months-old child, suit was brought yesterday in city court for $20,000 against Dr. R. E. Stone by John Henry Howell in the name of the child, Johnnie Stone Howell. Failure to perform a slight operation following the birth of the child is given as the cause for the condition in which his father alleges him to be.

The suit states that the child will be a hopeless invalid during life and accuses the physician of not keeping up with his profession. The suit was filed for the Howells by Attorneys Felder, Anderson, Coburne & Whitman and Carl Hutcheson.

Partridges Plentiful.

Dawson, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Partridges are unusually plentiful and are said to be quite tame this season in this county. In the prosperous and thickly settled portion of Dawson, recently found a covey of these birds in his garden and another covey was seen in an alley between Main and Stonewall streets, in the heart of the city.

REVIEWS OF THE WEEK IN AMERICAN MARKETS

New Orleans, October 11.—The cotton market was subjected to much selling pressure this week, chiefly from liquidating longs, and prices steadily showed a downward trend, except for awhile on the closing session, when the market felt the influence of the cold wave threatening the cotton region.

The net results of the week's trading were a decline of 53 to 68 points. The high prices were made on Monday and the low prices on Saturday. At the highest the leading months were 7 points up to 7 points down, compared with the close of last week; at the lowest they were 55 to 71 points under last week's close. The range was 61 to 64 points.

Better weather conditions in the cotton region and an over-bought future market were the main influences at work. Bears had the advantage and added a considerable volume of short selling to the offerings. At the lowest, prices were nearly a cent a pound down from the high levels of the season, reached a few days ago. The decline was generally called a natural reaction after a long continued advance, and it was not until the end of the week that bulls made any serious attempt to check the downward movement.

At the end of the week, the market had a better undertone, and bulls claimed that it had been cleaned of a large part of its long interest. Less rain fell this week than for some time past, and temperatures were high at the week-end, however, the cold wave sweeping down from the northwest seemed to promise a radical change in the temperatures, and perhaps frost.

The statistics of the week were bullish, chiefly because of the large mill takings. For the week, takings of American cotton were put by Hester at 303,000 bales, against 198,000 this week last year, and 289,009 this week two years ago. They caused much bullish comment.

In the spot department, prices lost 7-16c, middling closing at 13 9-16, against 14c last week and 10 7-8 this week last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 1,799 bales, against 3,271 last week and 3,005 this week last year; sales to arrive amounted to 7,645 bales, against 6,288 and 9,150.

New York, October 11.—Uncertain outlook for trade, the money situation and governmental relations to business entered as factors in forming the prevailing sentiment in the securities market this week. The unfavorable deductions drawn were reflected in the stocks' downward movement.

Of trade prospects, conditions in the steel and iron industry were most influential. Doubt as to the effect of the new tariff rates explained the halt in buying orders. Consumers hoped for lower prices and held back. The extent to which imports will compete is conjectural with the trade contraction setting in through Germany as a complication. The United States Steel corporation's unfilled thonnage on orders for September 30 showed a decrease for the ninth consecutive month. There were reports of price cutting by independent producers.

The decrease in supplies of refined copper and the reduction of the world's stocks to a figure marking extraordinary statistical strength did not prevent a fall in the price of the metal, both here and abroad. Future demand is not relied upon as sufficient to take up the scanty supplies. The stress laid on railroad buying as a necessary element in sustaining both steel and copper threw into prominence the poor statements of net earnings of the great railroad systems.

The crop influence was alleviated, to some extent by the week's events. The government report increased the estimate of the yield of corn for the month. Cotton prospects were improved; the weather conditions were said to be favorable for planting of winter wheat.

Poor railroad earnings drew attention to the contest of the railroads for higher freight rates and against wage advances to eastern trainmen.

Government activities were taken into account in the suit to divorce Southern Pacific and Central Pacific, and in the progress of the banking and currency bill.

Money markets showed the autumn forces of depletion still at work, with higher interest rates resulting both here and abroad. Customs payments on imports released from bond by the new tariff law made a drain on the New York market. Requisitions on London's gold supply held that money market firm. A fresh flood of new capital issues there and on the continent awakened misgivings.

Iron and Steel.

New York, October 11.—The volume of business in rolled products was disappointing to the stee lmills this week and the tendency of prices was downward. In as far the effect of the new tariff has been to curtail business, and consumers, anticipating lower prices, remained out of the market. On the other hand, foreign competition in the home markets has been almost negligible to date, and there has been no occasion for the mills to reduce prices further, but in the last six weeks steel billets have receded $4 per ton, steel sheets even more, and tin plate $2 per ton, or 10 cents per base box.

Wire products have not changed essentially except in the south, where local mills have shaded prices $1 per ton. The new tariff schedule gives foreign wire nails, plain wire and galvanized barbed fence wire an advantage of $3 per ton on the Atlantic seaboard, but the advantage disappears as freight rates to the interior are encountered. Any readjustment of prices here will require months to establish.

In the meantime, home manufacturers are well fortified with specifications on contracts and, as a whole, rolling mill schedules are well in hand for the rest of the year. Some special lines, however, are suffering and output of sheets and tin plate is being reduced.

Last week the railroads placed orders for nearly 50,000 tons of rails, including 30,000 for the Great Northern, 5,000 for the Chicago Great Western and 6,000 for the Jersey Central. Bridge contracts were placed by the New Haven, Boston and Albany, Michigan Central, Toledo and Ohio, Central, and Pittsburg and Lake Erie. Steel building orders, outside of railroads, called for 12,000 tons steel shapes.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 11.—Cotton goods were quietan with some easing noted in wide print cloth yarn goods. Few sales were made. Dress goods of a staple character were being sold fairly well for spring delivery. Linens were active, burlaps less so. Underwear and hosiery continued in good demand.

Business During Week All Over the Country

New York, October 11.—(Special.)—The stock market has been further weakened the last week by heavy liquidation of Union Pacific stock, much of it representing sales by Europeans. Holders of shares of the road, who bought it at the time that the large extra dividend was being talked about, have grown tired of holding and have liquidated all of this speculatively-bought stock in the last five or six days because of the absence of news regarding the talked-of disbursements which were later called off. Weakness in Union Pacific has been reflected by many other stocks. Prices are now an average of about $2.50 a share below what they were two weeks ago, and about $4 a share below the high of September. As compared with a year ago, the average price of leading stocks is about $16 a share down. At this time last year, a bull movement was in full swing, while there have been three weeks of weakness in a row now. There are many conditions which are so favorable at the present time that it is hard to understand the weakness of stocks. New financing has been successfully consummated here, while the investment demand for standard securities is still strong. Nothing now has developed in speculative circles, but the probable explanation of the matter is that there is no real cause for weakness now save the professional traders are bearish because of the small interest which the public has taken in stocks for the last few months. It is said that leading traders wish to work prices down to a level where outsiders will buy. In a few cases, where earnings are reported poor, or as in steel, where the tariff effects are feared, there has been a little reason for recent declines, but as many standard securities paying dividends regularly and showing continued good earnings have suffered, too, the explanation does not for the long period of declining values include any real bad news to account. Political developments are blamed by some traders for present conditions in stocks, but as practically everything companied of was known about when prices were going up a month ago, this explanation did not hit the market that has been seen recently.

As a result of heavier withdrawals of funds from New York for the interior than had been expected, loaning rates are higher than they were a week ago, although there has not been much of a demand for loans. On call loans, rates crossed 4 per cent for the first time in several months. The outlook is for a poorer condition among the banks here during the next few weeks than had been anticipated. A few weeks ago it was confidently asserted by bankers that there would be enough money for crop moving, aiding in the $50,000,000 to be placed by the government with country banks, so that rates would probably not go up above the low average of the last few months. It was also asserted by bankers familiar with foreign exchange conditions that the chances were very slim that gold could be brought here from Europe. Nothing has developed yet to show that there are immediate prospects of gold importations, although exchange rates have declined close to levels where such transactions might be made. While money conditions are not nearly as easy as they were a month ago nothing approaching a stringency is in sight at the present time.

Conditions Under the Tariff.

Financial interests have been busy discussing the prospects of domestic industries under the lower tariff, and while nothing has developed to change the beliefs of those who think that benefits will accrue nor those who expect disaster, it is believed generally that time alone will solve the problem. Alarming stories are being told of foreign preparations to unload large quantities of materials on which the tariff has been lowered here. On the other hand, many members of the industries most affected seem hopeful that there will not be any disastrous results from the lowered protection rates.

The most important new financing of the week just closing was the sale of $10,000,000 six months 5½ per cent notes of subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

The proceeds of the sale of $30,000,000 Interborough Rapid Transit company bonds, which have been sold to the public, will go toward paying off part of the principal of $35,000,000 bonds of the company which mature on November 1.

Soon after the announcement that the department of justice would soon bring a civil suit, under the Sherman law, against the New York, New Haven and Hartford system, the directors of that road appointed seven committees to look into the various questions on which objections have been made by government committees in recent years. Most of the work of the committees of the road will be to ascertain ways of following the suggestions of reform made by the interstate commerce commission. As a result of this internal reform, if it is accomplished, it is believed that Attorney General Wickersham may order the suit against the road discontinued.

The annual report of the Northern Pacific railroad for the fiscal year to June 30 last, showed $21,563,518 available for dividends on the $248,000,000 capital stock, equal to 8.69 per cent on that issue as compared with 7.99 per cent earned last year. After dividends there was $3,433,618 added to surplus, an increase of $1,149,703 over last year's surplus.

The results of the parcels post are shown in the annual report of the United States Express company, which showed that there was $252,038 available for dividends, a further decrease from last year, which in turn, showed a big drop in earnings from the year before. No dividends were paid in the past fiscal year, whereas dividends paid the year before were responsible for a deficit of $366,000.

Increase of Stockholders.

A compilation of the number of stockholders in leading corporations in this country shows that is twenty-five having a total capitalization close to $200,000,000, there are 26,800 stockholders, or nearly triple the number there were in the same corporations twelve years ago.

The annual report of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway for the past fiscal year showed that earnings fell off to 5.25 per cent on the $62,792,600 common stock as compared with 6.31 per cent the year before. Gross income was $35,035,728, an increase of $800,000 over the previous year.

The statistical position of copper metal has been further strengthened through the falling off in the American visible supply to 29,793,094 pounds. This is a little over one week's consumption at the present rate. These figures were revealed in the report of the Copper Producers' association for the stocks on hand October 1. A decrease of 8,520,943 pounds in stock was shown for the month of September, with consumption that much heavier than production. Metal prices are firm in the case of copper, with the leading producers expecting advances in the near future to above the present level of 17 cents a pound. A number of producers are lending every effort to prevent a runaway market, but it is feared that there will be such seen unless buyers place light orders for a long period. It is thought more desirable to keep prices as close to present levels, which allow a very large profit on the metal, than to have copper go to 20 cents a pound or over, which could be accomplished in a short time if the larger sellers wanted it. A high level like that, however, invites sharp drops, and so sellers do not want to see it at present. It is expected that the dividend rates on several large copper companies' stocks, including Anaconda and Amalgamated Copper company's, will be advanced in the next few months if copper prices hold up and the extremely strong statistical position of the metal is held.

Reports of Railroads.

The annual report of the St. Louis Southwestern railway showed earnings equal to 5.45 per cent on the common stock as compared with 3.8 per cent the year before. No dividends were paid on this class of stock. There was a small addition to surplus this year, making that sum $4,873,539.

The Union Pacific management issued a statement that the plan for an extra disbursement had been abandoned for the present.

The government report of condition of grain showed an indicated yield of 2,373,000,000 bushels of corn, an increase of 22,000,000 bushels over September condition. Wheat indications are for 753,233,000 total crop, which is higher than ever before for one year. Oats condition indicates a yield of 1,122,139,000 bushels.

The ending of the United States Motor company underwirting syndicate showed that a very large part of the $35,000,000 stock of the defunct corporation was not represented in the reorganization of the concern into the Maxwell Motor company. The shares which did participate had to pay $24 each about a year ago. The underwriters, according to report, had to take over 80 per cent of the new stock under reorganization.

Weakness continues the rule in the steel market, with the further decreases in unfilled tonnage besides that shown for September the outlook for the present month. Consumers have not been heavy buyers for many weeks, principally on account of the tariff changes, and prices for steel products are working lower. Many of the smaller steel companies have cut their prices $2 to $3 a ton since the first of the present month on a number of products. The smaller companies have had better importunate business than the United States Steel corporation, though the little concerns, too, have been suffering from reductions in unfilled tonnage in recent months. As a result of the falling off in the total business on the books of various concerns, they have been forced to slacken production a little. The present output is at a rate about 10 per cent smaller on the daily average than for the daily average of the first seven months of 1913. In the steel market various companies are making different prices at present on nearly all products, with a failing to follow the general trend toward lower quotations. One of the brightest spots in the steel outlook is that the railroads of the country have large needs to cover in both rails and equipment, and heavy orders are looked for during the next few weeks, especially on rails. Orders for over 500,000 tons of rails are now pending, with indications that they will be closed within the next week or two, and that other inquiries and orders will follow them.

Grain and Cotton.

The rush of wheat and corn to market with the heavy movement from the farms exceeding all predictions, has resulted in further easing of prices during the week just closing, especially for corn. In corn, for the first time in many weeks, there has been a two-sided market, with shorts showing more courage than they have had in months. Reports on corn show that there has not been any further deterioration of note in the condition in recent weeks, while the outlook that the total wheat crop will be the largest on record for a single year by a good margine has not changed.

The cotton crop reports of the past week since the publication of the government figures of 64.1 as the condition on September 25 have been conflicting. According to most of them, there has been a further deterioration in cotton in the belt as a whole. On the other hand, Habersham King reports that figures compiled by him indicate a crop of 15,750,000 bales, which is far in excess of the usual opinion as to the probable size of the crop. As a result of this and other bearish opinions which have been spread in the speculative market here, selling has been heavy during the last week, and declines have been large. Prices worked to about 1 cent a pound below the recent high at the low of last few days. Liverpool also has been a heavy seller. Cotton goods manufacturers were liberal buyers on the declines, giving the market support at times. As cotton goods prices are now based on a level of 14-cent cotton, manufacturers thought the opportune a good one on which to buy. In spite of the fact that ready ear was given to the report of prospects for a 15,750,000-bale crop, the general average estimate here among the leading traders is for a crop of around 13,500,000 bales.

SELLING CAUSED COTTON TO LOSE

Market Opened Firm 9 to 14 Points Up--Realizing Set In and Wall Street Selling Made an Easy Close.

New York, October 11.—After an early advance on the strong cables, reassuring Manchester news and fears of bad weather in the southwest, the cotton market weakened under renewed liquidation, reports of increased offerings from the eastern belt and an unfavorable view of Wall street conditions. The close was easy at an advance of 3 points on October, but generally 2 to 12 points net lower.

There was quite a rush of buying orders at the opening and first prices were 9 to 14 points higher. This was in line with the showing of the Liverpool market and it looked as if many of yesterday's late sellers were covering on private cables from Liverpool, indicating that the threatened lockout of mill employees in Manchester would not amount to any serious disturbance. There was also a good deal of anxiety over weather conditions, owing to the prospect for lower temperatures, indicating frost for parts of Oklahoma and Texas. These features, however, failed to inspire any general buying, and the market was weak in the late trading. The unsettled situation in Wall street was accompanied by considerable Wall street selling, and there also was some selling here by one of the spot interests, accompanied by reports that southeastern spot holders were offering cotton more freely.

Closing prices were the lowest of the day. General business was probably restricted to some extent by holiday considerations, and there was doubtless a good deal of evening up for over Sunday and Monday.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, October 11.—The cotton market closed for the week nervous and unsettled on aggressive short selling, reports of weakness in the spot division and some little hedge selling against holdings of actual cotton. In the early hours the market had a firm undertone and showed a strong tendency to advance on the cold wave in the northwest, which threatened to bring frost to the cotton belt over Sunday. The heavy selling developed when the market seemed about to pass under bull control.

On the opening, the tone was steady and prices were 10 to 15 points up. Cables were much higher than due and the weather map was featured by a pronounced cold wave. Liverpool appeared to be up on the late mill takings for the week and the prospects of cold weather in the south. Shorts were heavy, buyers for awhile and buying for long account was moderately heavy, although this class of buying was restricted by the fact that the American markets will be closed Monday in observance of Columbus day.

At the highest, the trading months were 14 to 19 points up. Heavy selling commenced at this level and continued until nearly noon. The advance was quickly lost and the most active months were sent 8 to 1 points under yesterday's last quotations. The close was quiet at a net loss of 1 to 5 points.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, October 11.—During the past week the spot basis in the south has been easier and, with the freer offering of spot cotton, hedge selling has increased and under this influence the local market has declined about 80 points. While the weather has been more or less unsettled in the southwest and unfavorable crop reports from that section continue the rule conditions elsewhere in the belt have been satisfactory and consequently estimates in regard to the final outturn have shown a tendency to increase in size. While the demand for dry goods in this country is very good, European advices as to the state of trade are not at all favorable and say that spinners cannot make money at prevailing prices for cotton. However, this may be 14 cents at this time of year undoubtedly discounted all bullish news, especially as there has been heavy speculative buying of both spots and futures.

New York, October 11.—(Special.)—The cotton market showed decided weakness today. It looked as if things were in order for a good advance, the cables were strong and, on Liverpool, the market should have opened 20 points up. There were predictions of frost in the Panhandle and, with the American markets closed until Tuesday, it looked as if shorts might become nervous. The opposite happened. The market opened 10 to 12 up and showed no strength during the last quarter of one hour, the big longs let go cotton and the close was easy at a net decline of 2 to 5 points. Both New York and New Orleans will be closed Monday.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, October 11.—Cables this morning were sharply higher than due, owing to another cold rainstorm in the southwest and fears that frost might appear over the week-end. Private dispatches stated that the fears expressed in the decline here yesterday of a general lockout in Lancashire were ridiculed and that an adjustment of the labor difficulty was expected. Here the market made a very disappointing showing. Opening up some 11 points in partial response to the cables, the volume of hedge selling from the eastern belts was too great for a quiet Saturday market, prices easing off steadily, finally closing under 13 cents, owing to speculative selling as well as hedges and the execution at the close of a number of selling orders from Liverpool on arbitrage, since that market had expected higher prices here in response to their firmness. Below 13 cents, the same trade demand appeared which has been a feature through the week and more contracts were withdrawn from the market again today. Technically the market is now short and should any bad weather develop the effects of the recent heavy buying by the trade will be felt.

The New York and New Orleans exchanges will be closed on Monday for the Columbus day holiday.

WHEAT BEARS HAD MARKET CONTROL

Close Was Nervous and 5-8 to 7-8 Cent Down—Corn Declined 7-8 to 1 Cent, and Oats Also Closed Off.

Chicago, October 11.—Well directed pressure on the selling side today broke the price of wheat. There was no good support. The market closed nervous, ⅝@¾ to ⅞ off. Corn finished ⅞ to ⅞ at 1c down, oats at a decline of ½ to ½@⅝, and provisions irregular, varying from 12½ loss to an advance of 2½.

Notwithstanding that cables were firm, the bears captured control of wheat almost at the outset and managed throughout the session to prevent any important rally. Brokers for a well-known speculator were conspicuous in the selling, but many of the larger houses joined in the raid on prices. Wheat longs had to contend with the fact that receipts here this week were larger than the shipments, the first showing of the sort in some time. Besides Winnipeg arrivals were about equal to last week and far in excess of a year ago, with stocks piling up at Duluth and Minneapolis, despite a falling off in the movement from first hands.

Accumulating supplies and the slowness of spring call furnished incentive for the bears in corn. Notice was also taken not the increasing extent of imports from Argentina. Active trading took place on the downward range, many of yesterday's buyers selling out and elevator people taking a lively part on the bear side.

Oats sagged because of the setback suffered by other grains. Buying power was limited to resting orders in the hands of commission men.

FIGHTING SOLONS CALLED TOGETHER

Tennessee Legislators Meet Monday for Third Session of Year—Anti-Liquor Bill Causing the Trouble.

Nashville, Tenn., October 11.—When the Tennessee legislature convenes in special session on Monday, it will be the third time this year that the members of that body have gathered in the legislative halls of the capitol. Incidentally it will be the first time in thirty years that two special sessions of the general assembly have been held within a twelvemonth.

Interest in the deliberations of the coming session is especially keen on account of the fact that a determined fight is expected on the so-called "law enforcement bills" intended to make more effective the present prohibition law. Through the efforts of "regular" democrats a vote upon these measures at the special session which closed September 27, was prevented.

In addition to considering the "law enforcement bills" the special session will be called upon to consider the proposed amendment to the refunding act and a bill making an appropriation covering the expense of the session. It has been estimated that from three days to a week will be required to dispose of the business which Governor Hooper has called upon the legislature to transact. It also is calculated that the minimum cost of the special session will total $10,000, raising the total legislative expense of the year to approximately $150,000.

Quorum Was Broken.

The regular session of the Tennessee legislature opened January 6 last. After remaining in session until February 21 a recess was taken to March 17. Desiring to break a quorum on April 1 house fusionists went to Middlesboro, Ky., and stayed away until the seventy-five days for which legislators draw pay expired. Meantime members of the "regular" democratic faction kept the session alive until August 23, thus establishing a longevity record for Tennessee's legislative body.

Efforts of the "regular" democrats to effect certain changes in the state election laws precipitated the extended fight in the regular session, because of these efforts the fusionists attempted to break the quorum by leaving the state. Friends of the proposed election law amendments daily met in the house, attempting to defeat the fusion filibuster by counting the absentees as "not voting." The amendments to the election laws, as passed at this time, now are before the state supreme court, the "regular" democrats having won in the court of chancery.

Quorum Was Restored.

Not until June was the quorum restored, and then for only three days. Not until the absolute need of refunding legislation was impressed upon them did the absent fusionists consent to return to the capitol. It was at that time that a number of "additional" sergeants-at-arms were appointed, the doors of the legislative halls closed and an attempt made to repeal the election law amendments. This plan, however, failed and the long session closed.

Feeling ran high at the first special session, which was called by Governor Hooper chiefly in order to secure passage of the "law enforcement bills." Charges were made by both factions that "armed guards" were introduced into the halls of the capitol, and that efforts were made at intimidation. While none of these charges were substantiated, they had the effect of bringing about a mutual agreement whereby all but members of the legislature were excluded from the capitol. No similar trouble at the coming special session is anticipated.

Governor Hooper Talks.

Governor Hooper, discussing the coming session tonight said:

"A majority of the legislature recently was prevented by six fusionists from passing the 'law enforcement bills' which will enable the people to abate the saloons as a nuisance. When it appeared that friends of law enforcement resented efforts of certain city officials of this state to intimidate by sending armed guards to the capitol, lurid newspaper accounts were sent broadcast, to the effect that advocates of law enforcement were trying by 'gun play' to force the passage of the bills."

The governor said that the approaching special session would have an opportunity "to restore the majesty of the law in the cities of Tennessee or face the rising tide of public indignation."

Tennessee's liquor laws have formed the political storm-center since 1877, when the historic "4-mile law," which prohibited the sale of intoxicants within 4 miles of any school house except in incorporated towns licensing such sale, was enacted.

Women employed in the textile industry in Germany are in a majority over the men, there being 400,000 females as against 371,000 men. In the clothing industry the women outnumber the men with 228,000 to 97,000 men.

HIGH EPISCOPALIANS OFFER OLIVE BRANCH

Resolution to Please Low Churchmen Proposed in Regard to Changing Title of Church.

New York, October 11.—An unexpected move by the high church party of the Protestant Episcopal church in the agitation to have the denominational title changed to the American Catholic church was made today at the continued session of the house of deputies at the triennial convention of the church.

A resolution was offered which, if adopted, will make it necessary for a two-thirds, instead of a majority, vote to decide on a change in name. The effect of this resolution will be more lengthy deliberation of the suggestion fow a new title, but in any event the change, if one be made, cannot be accomplished under the canons until the next triennial assembly.

Dr. Manning Offered Resolution.

The offering of the resolution, which calls for a constitutional amendment, came as a double surprise, in as much as it was offered by Dr. W. T. Manning, rector of Trinity church, of this city, who, as the high church candidate for president, was defeated early this week by Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity church, of Boston. Dr. Mann was the low church nominee.

Dr. Manning said that the matter of changing the church's name or of changing the title page of the standard book of common prayer, so as to include the name "Holy Catholic church," as has been requested in a resolution offered, was of so much importance that it should not be left to a mere majority vote to decide. Dr. Manning's resolution was referred to the committee on constitutional amendments and will come up again next week.

Effort to Heal Breach.

The resolution, coming from a high churchman of Dr. Manning's prominence, at the present convention, was the chief topic of interest today.

It was interpreted in some quarters as an effort to heal any breach that might exist between high church and low church.

A resolution was offered by the Rev. James E. Freeman, of Minneapolis, that a commission of bishops, presbyters and laymen be appointed to cooperate with other religious bodies in a movement to improve the system of moral and ethical training in the public schools of the country.

The house of bishops held an executive session today, and again took up the question of admitting the public to their deliberations in future. This question will be decided Monday.

The address was delivered by Rev. John E. White, D.D., chairman of the executive committee, who also presided. Rev. A. V. Pickern acted as secretary; Rev. B. P. Robertson, D. D., Rev. J. W. Butts and Rev. E. H. Peacock acting as presbytery. This church is the result of a tent meeting conducted during the past two weeks by Rev. A. V. Pickern and Rev. E. H. S. A. The address will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

(Milton O. Nelson in the October Farmer's Wife.)

A fertile farm is an opportunity, even though it is so thered under a mortgage. If the mortgage is an honestly written one, then at least half of the farm's value is still in the farm, and one-half of fertile farm is better than half a township of some land you can find in your Uncle Sam's domain. A mortgage on a farm is like the pigweeds in my orchard. I was saying something this morning derogatory to the character of these weeds, when my orchard man said: "My godness, I can show you country in this state where they can't raise pigweeds. Pigwoods are considered the best sign of rich land." So I owuld say a mortgage isn't the worst thing to find on a farm. I know land that couldn't raise the revenue stamp on a mortgage. Farming a mortgaged farm beats farming a fairy table in six colors.

To plan a farming campaign that will chip out the mortgage may not be as interesting just now as planning what we will buy with the proceeds of our pecan grove or fig ranch two thousand miles away. But at the other end it may be a good deal more interesting than hunting for a day laborer's job when the age of stiff back and aching arms is upon a man with rent and doctoh's bills due. Good, tangible dirt is better stuff on which to build a castle than a stack of illustrated pamphlets a mile high and a yard wide.

Just before freezing winter weather comes the rhubarb bed should be given an hour's attention. Take up the old roots, divide the bunches that have matted together and re-set, being sure that the soil is well mellowed and enriched by the addition of plenty of well-rotted stable manure. When the plants are re-set, unless the bed is to be enlargde, there will be a goodly number left over and these should be laid aside for winter plants. Winter rhubarnb is not difficult to raise and more than repays for the care given it. Fill two barrels half full of rich garden soil to which a liberal quantity of well-rotted manure has been added. Set three or four rhubarb roots in each barrel and place in a warm cellar. The barrels may be filled after they are in place, as they are then easier to handle. Water sparingly for the first three or four weeks, then when the snow lies white outside, shove them from the dark corner in which they were first placed to a position under a window. Water freely with warm water and watch the crisp stalks shoot up. When stalks are about six inches high cut and cook as in the spring.

Ginger Drop Cakes.

Three eggs, one cup each lard, molasses and brown sugar, one large tablespoon ginger and one tablespoon soda dissolved in a cup of boiling water. Five cups unsifted flour. Drop tablespoons of this mixture into a slightly greased dripping pan, about three inches apart.—The Farmer's Wife for October.

Waffles.

Corn Waffles—One cup corn meal, one and one-half ucps flour, two well beaten eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt, one scant teaspoonful soda dissolved in one and one-half cups sour milk. Have irons wedd greased and hot and bake quickly.

ON LANDLORDISM LLOYD-GEORGE WARS

British Chancellor of the Exchequer Says People Must Have Land--Present System Called "Ghastly Failure."

London, October 11.—The campaign to "free British land from landlordism and get the people back on it, was opened today at Bedford by Chancellor Lloyd-George. Extraordinary precautions had been taken against militant suffragettes.

"Landlordism is the greatest monopoly in this land and the people are trusting in the government to put forth its strong right hand to lift them from the mire," said Lloyd-George.

The authority of the sovereign is not comparable to that of the landlord over his subjects. He could make and maintain a wilderness and he has legal authority to do more than even a foreign enemy could impose on the country after a conquest. In Ireland millions have been driven away from the land by legal process."

Ghastly Failure of Present System.

Lloyd George proceeded to tell of "ghastly failure" of the land system of Great Britain. "The percentage of cultivated land here is lower than in any other country of Europe," he said. "This state of affairs is due to the fatuous and unbusiness-like methods of the landlords.

"The agricultural laborers of the British Isles receive lower pay and work longer hours than any others. It is a scandal that 90 per cent of the farm laborers of this country are in receipt of a scale of living lower than that of the poorhouse. The entire wages of the farm laborers of England and Wales amount only to $125,000,000 a year, whereas the parson and the landlord get $185,000,000 out of the land.

"Much as I love the parson, I would pay the laborer first. It is no wonder that scores of thousands are fleeing across the seas from such a land of mean bondage."

The chancellor, in unfolding the government's scheme for the improvement of the land system, pointed out that the financial aid of the state would have to be invoked in order to deal firmly, thoroughly and drastically with the monopoly.

Landowners v. Laborers.

"The country must choose," he continued, "between the power of the landowners and the prosperity of the laborers. It is no use tinkering. All the conditions of the monopoly must be recast and put on a fair business footing before considering the purchase of the land, which might involve an enormous endowment to the present owners and burden the community with a debt which it would take a long time to liquidate.

"The game preserves in the British Isles must be reduced by two-third. The laborer must have land enough to provide himself and his family with garden produce and the prospect of ultimately attaining a small farm. Experts must be provided to instruct the cultivator, facilities given him to market his product cheaply and an end put to the system by which certain railroads give undue preference to foreign produce.

"The system of rating must be changed, and greater facilities given to the state to acquire land on terms fair to the community as well as to the owner. Powerful aid from the state both by legislation, administration and finance will be evoked to carry out all these purposes and to put them into effective operation."

EXAMINE ORGANS FOR POISON TRACE

Body of Mrs. Carey Barron, of Milner, Exhumed, and Chemists Are Employed on the Case.

It will be at least four days before Dr. Edgar Everhart, chemist, will be table to determine whether or not poison is present in the organs of Mrs. Carey Barron, of Milner, whose husband is charged with murdering her.

The body was exhumed Friday afternoon. The stomach, heart, kidneys and other parts are in Dr. Everhart's laboratory, where tests will be made upon them at once. All are in a perfect state of preservation, although the body had been beneath ground for a week.

The parts were brought to Atlanta by Dr. Huckaby and T. H. Maddox, of Milner, who performed the autopsy. A message giving the history of Mrs. Barron's death was sent by the coroner of Henry county.

Dr. Everhart stated to a Constitution reporter Friday night that it would require four days at the earliest to make the analysis. In case poison is detected before that time, Milner authorities will be notified immediatly.

Dr. Huckaby and Mr. Maddox, who came to Atlanta through the country in an automobile, left shortly after turning over the organs to the chemist.

Body Is Exhumed.

Barnesville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—A weird scene was enacted at the little country cemetery at Liberty Hill Friday night when, by the moonlight, the body of Mrs. Cary Barron was exhumed by the coroner of Pike county and a number of physicians for the purpose of making an examination with a view of finding out whether the little woman died from poison as is now charged by her father, W. E. S. Mann, a highly respected and well-to-do citizen of Milner.

Dr. C. H. Willis, of Barnesville, one of the physicians present, stated that conditions were such that it was deemed advisable to remove the stomach and kidneys from her body and send to Atlanta for a chemical and pathological examination, and the coroner forwarded them to Atlanta this morning with these instructions.

Sensational rumors have been coming thick and fast regarding this very unusual case during the past two days. Mrs. Barron died Saturday night, was buried Monday and Tuesday Dr. Barron, her husband, was married again. It is said that he threatened last year on more than one occasion to poison his wife, often fearfully mistreating her. He is the son of Dr. J. F. M. Barron, a practicing physician of Milner, who is one of the mosts respected citizens of Pike county.

There is much interest in the case and much feeling has been aroused among the friends of the two families.

Active Work Is Planned By Goods Roads Department

The department of good roads is one of the strongest departments of the National Congress of Mothers The Georgia branch of this organization is planning active work in line with this department, which is conducted by Logan Waller Page, chairman of country life department

Miss Luna Bigelow one of Mr Page's assistants, urges that each state make a study of the condition of their unorganized rural districts with reference to the condition of roads and their relation to rural conditions, that pictures be taken to illustrate reports of studies, and to send such reports to Mr Page.

After a state has worked on rural problems through the country life department for two years it is suggested that it make a new study for comparison and that if townspeople would educate town children on their dependence on rural conditions this would create in them a sense of their responsibility to help improve country roads

The advantages of improved roads have been carefully computed and estimated in dollars an cents, and so enormous have they been thus demonstarted to be, that they present a convincing argument of the necessity for road improvement But there are other elements of advantage which more urgently recommend the improvement of our roads Advantages which deserve far more serious consideration than any financial advantage which may accrue, and which can not be measured according to any monetary standard but must be looked for in the elevation of our citizenship and the moral and intellectual advancement of our people

Most of our cities and towns have good streets and driveways which facilitate business and recreation and bring the schools and churches within easy reach of all Contrast the lot of the country child on his way to school in the winter with that of his city cousin with only a few blocks of paved street to walk

The country child must leave home an hour or more before school opens in order to be there on time The roads are wet and muddy almost all of the long and cold winter months so when he reached the schoolhouse which is often improperly ventilated and poorly heated, his feet are cold and wet, and his body so chilled that he is unfit for study or recreation This produces a lowered condition of resistance to the attacks of pneumonia and other diseases and cause broken and irregular attendance, and create an aversion for school

Parents sometimes keep their children at home, rather than have them subjected to such conditions on the theory that the injurious effects upon the body from such exposure will be greater than the beneficial effects upon the mind

In many parts of the country the roads are impassable for pedestrians at certain seasons of the year, which makes it necessary for children living near railroads to walk to school over the tracks and trestles Many accidents occur every year in various parts of the United States on this account. Only last year two children were killed in Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, while making their way to school over railroad tracks

North Avenue School Club Holds Enthusiastic Meeting

The Parent-Teacher association of the North avenue school held its first meeting of this session in the seventh grade room at 3 30 p m on Friday, October 3 About sixty mothers were present and joined enthusiastically in the program and in planning the year's work

As agreed upon by our council the first grade work was the subject for discussion Miss Daisy Richards told the mothers to ask questions, and all entered into this heartily, and were much interested as well as benefited by getting definite information from Miss Richards regarding the assistance she wished the mothers to give the children at home

Our principal, Miss Ella Smiley, also gave a splendid talk on lunches emphasizing, first the necessity of the school lunch, second the importance of mothers preparing these lunches at home and not trusting the children to buy their own lunches at grocery stores. Miss Smiley commented on the value of this parents association in connection with this school saying she could feel the good effect it was having throughout the school This was especially gratifying to each mother as North avenue is one of the youngest of the Parent-Teacher associations, being organized in February of last year

After Miss Smiley's talk our president Mrs George Haugh gave an outline of the work proposed for the year and urged each mother to do her part in bettering conditions in that school and in bringing about that close cooperation that should exist between teacher and parent

The president also announced the following standing committees

Program Committee Mrs J G Tomlinson chairman, Mrs Mark Palmour Mrs W P Lambright

The officers of the association are President Mrs George Haugh vice president, Mrs Mark Palmour secretary Mrs Walter Dobbins treasurer Mrs W D Harwell

Regular meetings will be held at the school on the first Friday afternoon of each month These meetings are open to the public and any one interested is cordially invited to meet with us

CITIZENS OF ROME SHOW INTEREST IN OPEN AIR SCHOOLS

We are all delighted to learn through the papers of Rome's special activity on behalf of fresh air schools We understand that the work has been begun by public spirited citizens and will be carried forward by the board of education Fortunately the Rome correspondent is mistaken in the statement that Rome has the first fresh air school in the south St Louis has set us a good example in this regard They have three well equipped and efficiently conducted fresh air schools

The day of speculation in regard to fresh air and fresh air schools is past The efficacy of this movement has been proven in Chicago, Philadelphia New York, New Orleans, St Louis and, in fact, most of our progressive cities

If fresh air and sunshine is good and necessary for normal children how infinitely more necessary it is for our sub-normal children to enjoy the benefits of at least air and light while they are fitting themselves, through our free educational system, to cope with life Is it not as essential to have our boys and girls complete their years of public school work strong in body and ready to fight the battles of life, as it is to have them receive the credits which will pass them into higher schools of education or perhaps to take the responsibilities of their own livelihood and as in many cases, to assume the upkeep of others dependent upon them? Of over 14 000 children in Atlanta's public schools examined in the year 1912-13 it was found that 7 098 or 48 7 per cent are physically defective In view of this fact can there be any question that physical conditions either at home or in the schools perhaps in both, should be investigated with a view to correction?

The present agitation in regard to our public school conditions is timely and we feel confident that before the year is out open air class rooms will have been established and all new buildings planned for the future will be equipped with modern open air facilities for our anaemic and sub-normal children

Chairman of the Open Air School Committee

A Parallel Case.

(From The National Monthly)

It was at old Trinity in Randolph county, north Carolina, some years ago The class in civil engineering was progressing with a drag that was not pleasing to the old professor, who was inclined to be sarcastic and throw out a good many remarks to the chagrin of the boys Finally he met his match in a quick-witted youth, who had been criticised by the professor along with the rest The boy's lesson was not perfect by any means, and the professor said to him "When George Washington was your age he was a surveyor"

The boy came back at the professor with apologies for speaking "And when George Washington was your age he was president of the United States."

PROPERTY IMPROVED BY MODERN HIGHWAY

Columbus Ga, October 11—(Special)—The good effect of improved highways was illustrated by an incident in the city court of Columbus this week when during the trial of a case for damages the value of Muscogee county farm lands before and after the building of good roads was incidentally shown

The owner of a large farm a few miles north of the city was willing to sell and offered to sell at $5 per acre He was not able to get his price and held on to his property Then the county built a thoroughly modern highway through that section, improving the old road Afterwards he was offered $50 an acre for the farm and sold at that figure

Raw Fooders.

(From The Indianapolis News)

The agricultural department of the national government has to do with many cranks not the least obnoxious among these being the raw foodists One of these cited as an example forces upon public attention his investigations with rabbits some of which fed on cooked food exclusively did not thrive Whereupon he offered the conclusion that human beings—who are not by any means rabbits—should confine themselves to raw food The New York Medical Record which calls raw food faddism most illogical inconsistent and dangerous to health says

Not only is the fact ignored that civilized man for ages has cooked the greater part of his food and that his palate and his digestion will accept only a few raw things but the danger in raw foods of infection with pathogenic micro organisms and infestation with intestinal parasites is never mentioned probably because unknown to these faddists Another assertion made by them—for of course like most diet cranks they abhor meat eating corpse eating as they call it—is that meat is filled with bacteria But it is tiresome to catalogue the absurdities of these diet cranks who pick up a few isolated facts or bizarre notions and attempt to base on them a system of living adapted to all sorts and conditions of men The agricultural department does well to warn the people against all these fantastic diet systems"

African Animals.

Some idea of the vast numbers of animals that Africa used to support can be gained from a passage in W Scully's reminiscences It was Mr Scully's good fortune in 1892 to witness the last great trek of springbucks from east to west on the Bushmanland desert—a trek on a scale such as no man will ever see again The increase of population and the distribution of arms have almost exterminated once innumerable host He says We stood on an eminence some twenty feet high far out on the plains and seen the absolutely level surface as wide as the eye could reach covered with resting and feeding springbucks while from over the eastern horizon the rising columns of dust told of real hosts advancing Lightning's Effect.

Some people seem to me more likely to be struck by lightning than others Father Bosco of Turin was struck three times on different occasions Mrs Hall an American woman who was working in the field was killed in the year 1840 was struck again in the same spot in 1855 The great Mithridates was reputed to have been struck in the forehead while a child and to have had his sword fused by lightning as he slept with it by his side in later life.

Cuthbert Completes Arrangements For Annual State Convention

The plans for the annual meeting of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs are completed, and a meeting of unusual pleasure and benefit will be held. It is hoped that every club in the state will be represented by at least one delegate.

The value of these annual conferences to the individual is not a subject for argument. This value is expressed in terms of achievement. The program gives a notable example of the work being done.

Too much praise can hardly be given to the officers who make results possible, and the annual meeting affords the best opportunity for the contagion of enthusiasm that is sure to spread from close contact with those who have been so thoroughly inoculated with the spirit of service.

The energy of the federation radiating, as it does, to the remotest corners of the state through its rapid multiplication of clubs, has made these meetings necessary in order that closer relations may be established with each other and uniform standards adopted.

Clubs Working Together.

Nearly all the clubs are now working along closely related lines with the common object of service, and they have a distinct field for effort in the stimulation of a public consciousness to state needs and how to meet them. In entering into the larger life of the state, the clubs should learn that they cannot stand alone.

Power of the Clubs.

As a unifying agency for social betterment they have the power to initiate movements to educate public sentiment, to provide leadership and to inspire and inform those who can bring things to pass.

For these reasons the representative body will be the largest and the work accomplished the best at Cuthbert of that at any previous convention.

Letter from Mrs. Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick has sent a letter to each club urging that delegates be elected promptly and names sent to Mrs. A. H. Mackey, Cuthbert. All should arrive on the afternoon of Tuesday the 28th. Cuthbert is preparing for 250 delegates. Credential cards have been amply provided. It only remains for the delegates to be prompt and appreciative of Cuthbert's courtesy in affording this opportunity. Remember, "Club life tends to develop in each individual all the perfection of which the number is susceptible.

NEW HEAD WRITES OF PROGRESS MADE AT TALLULAH SCHOOL

The progress of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school is exemplified by the high standard of efficiency demanded of its teachers.

The patrons of this school have been fortunate in securing as principal Miss Louise Hemingway, as assistants, Misses Annie and Ruth Thornton.

Tallulah's many friends will be glad to read the following letter, which is the first to come from the new principal:

Bide a Wee Cottage, Tallulah Falls Industrial School, October 2, 1913.—Dear Club Women of Georgia: Would you care to know of the opening of your school here at Tallulah Falls?

Misses Kate and Ruth Thornton and I came up a week ago and found that Miss Blackshear and the Misses Moss had come before us to set our home in order for our reception.

We found both the home and the school fresh and clean except for the dust incident to a three months' closing of the houses.

Miss Blackshear kindly went over with me the plans for building a sceptic for the school and we are expecting to have it completed soon.

New Department Added.

A new department has been added in the shape of a cow to furnish milk to the domestic science department. The two big boys, Carlin West and Royce Hubbard, have given us many a hearty laugh with their remarks about the cow.

After due consideration the assembled family decided to christen our home and the name, Bide a Wee, was selected. The boys are to build a picturesque rock walk from the "street" to Bide a Wee, so that those climbing the hill may do so with less fatigue and inconvenience.

Invitations Sent Out.

A cordial invitation was sent to all patrons and friends of the school to be present at the opening and when, at 8:30, October 1, the bell was rung, there were quite a number here. Some came to bring their children, while others, who had no children in school, came out of interest in and love for the work.

One mother brought a little son to enter him the day before, and their pleasure and surprise at finding so beautiful a school, so well equipped here in the mountains would have made your hearts glad.

After a short chapel exercise in the large primary room the classes were marched to their respective rooms for classification. When this was finished we reassembled in the primary room, had the pupils sing a song and then the principal told briefly what the aim and hope of the school was, discussed matters of interest to home and school and told the parents that this year report cards will be sent them that each may know what his children are doing.

During this talk Miss Ruth Thornton and several little girls were preparing tea and wafers to be served to the mothers. The pupils were served to wafers and then dismissed, until the following day. There was an enrollment of forty-two pupils and we are expecting others a little later.

With much pleasure in this work and sincere hope for its success, sincerely yours,

LOUISE HEMINGWAY,

REGISTERED NURSES' CLUB GROWING FAST

On the afternoon of February 27 a few registered nurses of Atlanta met at the home of Mrs. Charles Hodges for the purpose of organizing a Registered Nurses club, the principal object of this organization being to conduct our own registry.

On August 1 we opened our club rooms and registry at 240 Courtland street with a membership of 25. Only registered nurses are eligible to membership in the club, but graduate and practical nurses fulfilling the requirements can belong to the registry. Nurses will be registered under three heads, R. N. nurses, graduate nurses and practical nurses.

Our regular quarterly meeting was held on October 8, and at this time we had as members of the registry fifty R. N. nurses, eight graduate nurses and two practical nurses. Up to date we have had more calls than we have had nurses to send out.

Much of our success and inspiration has come through the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs.

The Health Forward Movement

The Health Movement has become a factor in national affairs, state and municipal politics, and in many volunteer organizations. In order to make possible a collection of health knowledge, laws for reporting vital statistics must be enacted and enforced. Statistics should be the basis of the great preventive campaign which characterizes the present social betterment movement.

The chief of the bureau of the census says: "As for the registration of births, a measure which is so supremely important for the knowledge of infant mortality, for the protection of infant life, and for securing the legal rights of children, not a single state in the union nor a single city of any considerable size makes positive claim that it registers as many as nine births out of every ten that occur.

The total number of births must be known before one can make computation of infant mortality which will be comparable with the rates given in the vital statistics of all civilized nations except the United States.

But the health forward movement is on, and is attracting the attention not only of club women, but of people everywhere.

Conservation of the public health is the slogan—prevention of disease is the watchword. Dr. McClure of the Michigan state board of health says: "We are fertilizing the public sentiment to a point where it will appreciate the tremendous importance of sanitary living, and this public sentiment is responding to the fertility by enforcing sanitary laws, correcting environments and framing regulation. Splendid reports are coming in from all over the country of Health Day proclamations, Health Days in school, and all manner of plans to emphasize the fact that the great majority are being aroused to the question of good sanitation."

"Who'll give his health for a million in gold?
Don't all speak at once. See the million I hold?
What is wanted is health—rugged, cheery and strong.
(No aches, no ills will be taken along.)
Have all heard by bid of a million outright?
Give me your health, and I'll give you my might!
A million is bid!
Who of health would be rid?

"Then who'll say he's poor, if he'll not sell outright
His health for a million of gold, or his sight?
'Tis a test of their value we're putting you to,
And we see that you're holding them priceless, these two—
They're life's precious jewels, your health and your sight,
A million is bid!

Club Women Well Represented At Milk Supply Meeting

Atlanta's club women were well represented at the meeting to discuss the milk supply of the state, held at the Auditorium October 8.

There were many trained nurses and members of other organizations present, showing the wide interest already aroused in this vital subject. The movement to obtain better milk is state-wide in its scope, as Mr. Price explained.

But the low standard can be corrected if the dairymen and consumers will follow the suggestions of the department of agriculture. After stating that the city ordinance of Atlanta allows a maximum of only 100,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter, Dr. Atkins reported the following results of his bacteriological investigation: Two hundred and forty-one samples showed an average count of 1,325,000 bacteria. Of these only forty-six showed count under 100,000.

Twenty-three samples from soda fountains showed an average count of 3,316,000.

Photographs Exhibited.

Dr. Atkins exhibited photographs showing why these conditions exist. Some of the pictures showed screened doors propped open, milk cans standing uncovered near manure heaps, dirty cloths in milk houses, milkmen plunging their dirty arms into milk vessels to ascertain depth of milk, chickens roosting on milk cows.

At the annual meeting in Cuthbert, Mrs. C. M. Morgan will tell "How Women Can Help Their Dairymen Produce a Better and Cleaner Quality of Milk." This should be followed by a statement of the work the state department of agriculture is doing, and then the clubs should be urged to form milk committees to take up this work in their counties.

GRIFFIN CLUB ASKS AID OF ATLANTA CITY FEDERATION

Second in importance only to the state federation are the many city federations being formed everywhere.

The Atlanta City Federation has developed wisely because it has had splendid women at its head. Under the present well-beloved, faithful leader the fruits of the federation spirit are everywhere felt. Calls for assistance and direction come to Mrs. Haden from cities all over Georgia. The secretary of the Griffin board of trade writes:

"Mrs. Charles Haden, President: Dear Madam—The writer, on behalf of the Griffin and Spalding county board of trade, and the citizenship of Griffin generally, is very desirous of establishing city beautiful work in the public schools of our city and educating the future citizens to a better knowledge of city beautification than the present generation.

"To this end we take the liberty of applying to you for any literature you may have on the subject, or an outline of what instruction you propose to use through the teachers in the schools of your city. Any assistance or direction you are willing to give us will be highly appreciated.

"W. B. ROYSTER, Secretary."

BOARD IS APPOINTED FOR GIRLS' HOME

The recent general assembly appropriated $20,000 to erect and maintain a home for wayward girls until next year, when, it is hoped, further provision will be made. In accordance with the provision of the bill Governor Slaton has appointed the members of the board of managers of this home and the terms which they will serve as follows:

Rev. M. Ashby Jones, D. D., Augusta, until June 30, 1915.

Mrs. W. H. Felton, Cartersville, until June 30, 1915.

Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Atlanta, until June 30, 1915.

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Thomasville, until June 30, 1916.

Each member of the board is required to give bond of $500.

The governor has called a meeting of the board on October 25 to organize and arrange plans for beginning work. It has not yet been decided where the home will be located.

RECLAMATION PROGRAM IS PROPOSED BY LANE

Says Government Could Profitably Spend Hundred Million on Arid Lands West of Missouri.

Washington, October 11.—"The government could expend profitably in ten years one hundred millions of dollars in the reclamation of arid, semi-arid and swamp lands located in that part of the country west of the Missouri river," said Secretary Lane, of the interior, on returning from his extended trip through the west.

"The lands once reclaimed could be divided into farms of from 30 to 60 acres, every one of which would be taken up promptly," Mr. Lane added. "This land practically necessarily must be reclaimed by the government because private reclamation projects generally have proved failures, except on small tracts.

"It is my purpose to report to the congress extensive irrigation and drainage projects, if it be possible to devise a practicable way of raising the money to carry them forward. It should be our endeavor to turn the eye of the nation upon this arid land. Irrigated, it would be as fertile as any land that lies outdoors and on it enough meat and croops could be raised to supply the entire country."

The secretary issued a statement late today defining his visits to all of the great reclamation projects to obtain first-hand information about conditions and needs.

"I am convinced," he said, "that it will be necessary to extend the time in which the settlers on the projects now have to pay for their lands. Ten years—the time fixed by existing laws is too short a period for the average farmer to get fairly on his feet.

"Personally I am in favor of extending the paying period to about 20 years, with a free period of four or five years during which it would be necessary for the settlers to make no payments.

"I find the entire west elated over the action of congress with respect to the tariff and eager in the hope that the new currency bill will be promptly made into law. The farmers and the business men regard the currency bill as of far more vital importance than any other proposed legislation.

"Throughout the west business conditions generally are good. I do not find the best sugar and wool growers hopeless by any means. I talked to many of them and found them, broadly speaking, more interested in currency legislation than in the tariff law.

"I believe that much of the dissatisfaction with the interior department could be abated by cutting out the red tape, and I propose to devote time and attention to do that very thing."

Historic Program for October

1. The golden days of October remind us that 421 years ago this month, that vast portion of the earth's surface known as the United States was entirely unknown to the other parts of the world.

What nation claims that explorations had been made on this continent A. D. 1000?

2. If such exploration had been made all traces of them had perished, and to whom belongs the glory of discovering the western hemisphere?

3. Where did Columbus land, how was he dressed, and in whose name did he take possession of the country?

4. By what right do nations acquire territory?

5. Christopher Columbus married Felipe Monis de Pelestrello, daughter of an Italian gentleman who had acquired fame as a navigator, and in this way Columbus came in possession of papers which increased and intensified his strong passion for nautical life and adventure. Why did he not receive aid from his own country for his explorations?

6. To discover a new continent was no part of his enterprise, but for what reason was he so anxious to discover a western route to India?

7. Observations of the earth's shadow on the moon during eclipses, and other considerations made him believe the world was round.

Driftwood from the west sometimes floated on the coast of Maderia, also dead bodies of two men of unknown race. What conclusion did Columbus draw from these facts?

8. Why did he call the aborigines Indians?

9. What event of his voyage made him change his course from northwest to southwest?

10. Had he landed on what is now known as Virginia, and claimed by right of discovery North America for Spain, what effect would it have had on the world's history?

11. The claim of Great Britain to establish colonies in North America to the exclusion of others, was founded by right of priority of discovery, which by general consent of nations is regarded as good and valid. What was the name of the man in the employ of Great Britain who reached North America fourteen months before Columbus landed on the main land of South America?

12. Of what country was he a native?

13. Amerigo Vespucci, or Americus Vespucis, a Florentine scholar and navigator, soon after Columbus' wonderful discoveries set out on a new voyage of explorations, he made more extensive discoveries and landed on the coast of South America 1497, several months before Christopher Columbus. He published an account of his discoveries, his delineation of the coast, inlets and islands so exact in detail, and his descriptions so charmingly written, they were published in several languages of Europe and used by subsequent navigators.

Does the world owe greater gratitude to Columbus or to Vespucci?

14. Would the native inhabitants of any country have yielded their country to another race with less cruelty than did the Indians of North America?

Answers.

1. The navigators claim that Lief, son of Eric of Norway, fitted out a ship A. D. 1000, visited his father in Greenland, and proceeded southward, and discovered what is now New Foundland, and advanced as far south in his explorations as the coast of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

3. One of the Bahamas, called by the natives Gu-an-ahani or Cat Island, to which Columbus gave the name of San Salvador. The landing took place on the morning of October 12, 1492, was accompanied with every demonstrtion of gratitude and joy. Columbus richly dressed in a scarlet uniform, and bearing the royal standard of Spain, was the first to press his foot upon the new earth, of which he took possession, for and in the name of Ferdinand and Isabella, sovereigns of Aragon and Castille. Then kneeling he kissed the earth and gave thanks to God for His goodness. In the meantime the natives stood around filled with amazement and awe, at the formidable appearance of these strange and wonderful men, whom they supposed to have descended from the sun.

4. By right of discovery, conquest and purchase.

5. Columbus failed of aid and of sympathy in his own country not because the Italians were less enlightened and progressive; but because of the isolated hostile state of the political powers in the Italian peninsula.

6. Because India had been and was a store house of wealth for the world.

7. That he would find by sailing west, land beyand the western sea.

8. Because he believed he had found a part of India hitherto unknown.

9. Flocks of strange birds were observed flying from that direction.

10. The country would have been lost to Anglo Saxon civilization and religious liberty.

11. John Cabot in the service of Henry VII, King of England accompanied by his son Sebastian.

12. Venice, Italy.

Chairman Historic Program Committee.

Mrs. S. W. Foster Writes of Meeting of National Officers

It was my pleasure to represent Georgia September 30, 3 p. m., at Continental hall, on the occasion of planting ivy at the base of the columns of the thirteen original states. The ivy planted constituted thirteen sprigs taken from the tomb of George Washington and presented to the Daughters of the American Revolution by the Mount Vernon Ladies' association of the union through the vice regent of Virginia, Mrs. Emma Ball.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, chaplain.

The president general, Mrs. William Cummings Story, made an appropriate address, then introduced the regents of the thirteen original states, who responded for their various states. Address by Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth, founder. Music by Engineers' band. The program was completed by each regent, with small spade in hand, planting the ivy at the base of column representing her state.

The executive board met October 1, 10:30 a. m. The registrar general presented about fourteen hundred names for membership, sixty were from Georgia. Increase in membership in Georgia, from October, 1912, to October, 1913, 493; chapters organized, 7; total number of chapters, 54.

In the treasurer general's report she read a recommendation from Mrs. Matthew T. Scott and Mrs. Dinwiddie that the amount, $862.10, left over from the Caroline Scott Harrison fund, be given to Martha Berry school, recommendations unanimously adopted.

Chapter regents are requested to send list of their officers elected at their last election to Mrs. H. L. Mann, vice president general, also to report without delay resignations and deaths to Treasurer General Mrs. Joseph E. Ransdall. Registrars are requested to send application papers, with money, direct to treasurer general.

The president general announced she would hold board meetings monthly instead of quarterly. Congress will convene April 26.

D. A. R. FLAG FIRST THROUGH CANAL

The first flag to fly through the Panama canal will be the flag of the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented to the daughters at the time of their organization by the distinguished Dr. McDowell. Colonel Goethals has extended to this great patriotic body the appropriate courtesy, and the flag will be fittingly escorted.

The announcement comes through Mrs. William Lawson Peel, vice president general from Georgia, who is now in Washington, at the meeting of the national board.

The Choir Came Back.

(From The Brooklyn Eagle.)

It looked like a duel between the parson and the choir and at the end of the ninth inning the score seemed to be in favor of the singers.

It was at the morning service and the minister, sitting in the pulpit with a dignified expression, listened to the singing of the usual anthem. Then he arose and announced in a loud, clear voice:

"My text will be 'Now, when the uproar had ceased.'"

For a moment the members of the choir looked as if the had been fed on persimmons instead of peaches and then they got together, and in the softest kind of whispers began to talk it over. As a result of the subdued conference a slight change was made in the musical program and when the sermon had ended and the organ pealed forth the choir sang:

"Now it is high time to awake after sleep."

Wilmington, N. C., October 11.—Considerable damage has been done to shipping in this vicinity by a storm which late Friday was central off the Carolinas. The disturbance, while of far less intensity than that which swept the South Atlantic coast a few days ago, was sufficient to cause heavy seas and send coastwise vessels hurrying to port for protection.

The revenue cutter Seminole today picked up the four-masted schooner John Twohy, abandoned at sea, and attempted to tow her to Cape Fear harbor. The schooner struck on the shoals, however, and could not be floated. Late today the schooner Dorothy Bell, Darien, Ga., to New York, lumber laden, entered Cape Fear harbor leaking badly and tonight is anchored at Southport. The schooner Greenleaf Johnson, Wilmington to New York, was reported ashore on the Shallotte, N. C., bar and in danger of destruction. A tug from Wilmington went to her aid tonight.

Moral Dancing of Young Girls.

In telling of how a young girl courts danger, Zola Norris in the October Farmer's Wife says:

Any one studying the relationship of the young boys and girls of today cannot fail to note the amazing degree of familiarity which exists between them. Boys and girls are "pals," as this youth put it, in the broadest sense of the word. Consequently among youths the feminine sex is losing its distinction, is losing the respect which it should inspire. Chaperons have almost become the exception rather than the rule, and the result is a deterioration in our young people of the sense of good form, fine manners and respect of person (necessary to the upbuilding of character.

There are those who attribute this state of affairs to the intermingling of the sexes in our public schools, but compared to other contributory causes the influence of our system of co-education is almost negative.

We must look to the home environment of the girl for the real cause, for it is in the home alone that restraint can be exercised with complete authority. That this restraint is not evident in many homes is largely due to the erroneous idea some parents have as to what constitutes personal liberty and their willing belief in the level headedness of their children.

Care Should Be Exercised In Preparing Credential Slips

Attention! Daughters of Georgia!

Last Sunday you had the pleasure of reading your president's very full and comprehensive letter. Today let me call your special attention to some items in that letter.

Have your credential and home slips accurately filled out and mail as soon as possible, exactly according to instructions printed on each one.

Do not fail to send your properly filled in report blanks by your delegate, or if no delegate send to Mrs. Lamar at or before the convention or they will not appear in the year book. Chairmen of all standing or special committees in the divisions must hand in their written reports to the recording secretary at the convention or they will be excluded from the year book. Every report that you take the trouble to have typewritten means less expense and trouble to your secretary, as well as insures a more nearly perfect printer's job.

Only fifteen chapters in the division have sent in a list of new officers, who should have been elected in May. In order that the list in Moultrie Year Book shall be correct, please send in this list to me at once.

LUCY OVERSTREET.
Recording Secretary, Georgia Division U. D. C.

Miss Siemens has a number of friends in Atlanta who will be glad of this opportunity of hearing her again.

High Class Entertainment Offered by Theaters This Week

"The Grain of Dust."

(At the Atlanta.)

The mere announcement that James K. Hackett will appear at a local playhouse has always aroused and stimulated an interest to see this popular actor that is not surpassed by any of the stage celebrities of the day. He is sure to attract many Friday and Saturday when he comes to the Atlanta.

In "The Grain of Dust" he has a play that is skillfully constructed and always sustains an undivided attention and interest. The natural strength and vigor that Mr. Hackett possesses and imparts to the character of Frederick Norman makes it stand out as one of the most distinctive successes of the actor-manager's brilliant career.

A slight outline of the play indicates its possibilities. Frederick Norman is a young New York lawyer, who has rapidly risen to the head of his profession in those things dealing with corporations and combinations. He knows how to draw a plan that will take millions from the public and deposit them safely—and legally—in the coffers of the "trusts" and interests. Being a young and handsome bachelor, he is naturally the catch of the social circle in which he moves and so he is engaged to Josephine Burroughs, a belle of the season, although the date of the wedding is not definitely announced.

The father of his fiancee, Isaac Burroughs, is a power in the world of finance, and to the firm of which Norman is connected looks after his legal affairs. In the office of Norman there is a seductive little typewriter, Dorothy Holroyd by name, that he proceeds to fall in love with. Dorothy doesn't love Norman and tells him so. Yet for the love of the typewriter Norman breaks with Josephine, resigns from the law firm and starts to take upon himself the burden of a war with Isaac Burroughs for the mastery of certain corporations. In the meantime he marries Dorothy and in a few months is pursued by the demon of ill-luck until he is in his last dollar. Then, to crown it all, Dorothy leaves him. At this point success returns to him and through a legal battle with Burroughs he regains a former position in the financial world. It is said that Mr. Hackett's portrayal of the character of Frederick Norman is a masterpiece in its finest conceptions, and is another addition to his long list of positively artistic successes. In the disguised and mysterious caste that Mr. Hackett has associated with himself are such well known players as Beatrice Beckley, David K. Higgins and Roland Buckstone.

Keith Vaudeville.

Nina Morris and Company, presenting Albert Cowles' intensely dramatic playlet, "The Yellow Peril," will be the headline feature for the Forsyth this week. Miss Morris will be remembered by the theatergoers because of her splendid work in the legitimate theaters in support of James K. Hackett, Margaret Illington and others. She has created something of a sensation in vaudeville, and her sketch has been indorsed as one of unusual quality even for modern vaudeville. The story deals with the adventures of a Japanese secret service agent, who is engineering a plot to blow up Uncle Sam's battleship. Miss Morris is a United States secret service agent who checkmates the efforts of the Yellow men at every move but without the melodramatic incidents that the plot of the playlet would suggest. The sketch will be produced in magnificent fashion with every detail and effect necessary to make the act what it should be.

Another splendid feature will be the appearance of George Felix, assisted by the Barry girls. George Felix is one of the very best character comedians in vaudeville. He is original, and his productions in vaudeville have always been of the highest quality. The Misses Barry are younger sisters of Lydia Barry, who recently appeared at the Forsyth, and possess equally as entertaining talents as their elder sister. In the sketch "The Boy Next Door," the star and the pretty girls will have ample opportunity to show their cleverness.

The feature extraordinary for this bill will be Herzog's Eight Russian Stallions, the celebrated equine novelty. These horses are from a famous European circus family, and have been tutored with great skill. They execute dances and drills with an excellence that holds attention, and some of their stunts are just a little short of marvellous.

Louis J. Winsck and Josephine Poole presenting "No Trespassing," a novel comedy, promises to be a most inviting addition to the bill. The songs and stories that this duo will introduce are of an irresistible quality, and are used as dressing to a little story that promises to enlist attention.

Carl and Lotty, a pretty girl and a dashing young man, who are expert European dancers, will present the newest ideas from the foreign music halls in eccentric dancing.

Burley and Burley. The Dude and the Scott, have a decided note of quaintness and individuality that promises to be very acceptable in Atlanta. They are surely unique in their particular work, while their singing talking and dancing will add to the merit of the program.

"Last Days of Pompeii."

(At the Grand.)

"The Last Days of Pompeii," George Kleine's latest biggest and best photo-drama will be at The Grand for all of this week, starting with a matinee tomorrow. In this mammoth production, Mr. Kleine has surpassed even his own previous efforts which stand without a peer in the world of photographic art. In "The Last Days of Pompeii," the plot of Lord Bulwer Lytton's famous novel is closely adhered to all of the principal incidents being visualized and the many characters being handled by actors and actresses of international repute. In the wonderful arena scenes, over three thousand people are used and the gladiatorial conflicts, both between men and men against wild beasts, are thrilling and realistic in the extreme. The mighty climax comes, of course, with the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius and the awful cataclysm of 79 A. D. so graphically painted by the master hand of Lord Lytton, is here presented in its actuality. Mr. Kleine was fortunate indeed in securing pictures of a real eruption and with this tremendous background, he has, with a keen sense of proportion, so handled his subject, that the harmonious whole is a triumph that for a long time will stand alone, preeminent amongst any rivals that may arise to challenge its supremacy. Two performances will be given each afternoon and evening, beginning at 2, 4, 7 and 9 o'clock respectively.

Lyric Dark.

The policy of giving the patrons of the Lyric only the very best at popular prices has insured this theater a remarkable clientele and rather than give an inferior attraction the management has decided to close the theater during the coming week. This is brought about by the forced cancellation of the Deep Purple company which was scheduled to play this week at the Lyric, but which was forced to abandon its southern tour on account of the serious illness of several members of the company. It was found impossible to secure another high-class attraction to take its place and this explains why the Lyric will remain dark the coming week. The announcement that is being made of the appearance of the talented actress, Miss Eugenie Blair, the week of October 20 in the great French drama, Madam X, will be received with pleasurable anticipation by patrons of this house. Miss Blair has scored the hit of her dramatic career in this play and its presentation at Lyric prices should draw immense audiences to the Carnegie Way theater. The sale of seats for this engagement will begin Monday morning at the Lyric box office, where reservations may be made for the week's engagement. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"The Lights of Gotham."

It is safe to say that no stock company that has ever appeared in Atlanta has so firmly established itself in the hearts of theatergoers as the Jewell Kelley company, which will begin its eighth week of successful operation tomorrow afternoon at the Bijou theater. With each succeeding play the company has become more popular, until today it is recognized as the most popular organization that has ever appeared in stock in this city. The seventh week which closed Saturday night drew splendid audiences, and better pleased crowds have seldom gathered within the four walls of an Atlanta playhouse. It is with pride that the management of the Bijou announces for the eighth week a big scenic melodrama entitled "The Lights of Gotham," showing famous scenes of the Bowery and in the fashionable parts of New York city. The story is full of sensational incidents showing the workings of a gang of crooks, and teaches a wholesome moral lesson, in that crime always gets its just deserts, and reward is always the portion of those who live an upright and conscientious life.

Splendid parts have been given Eddie Black, Jewell Kelley, Rose Morris and the other favorites of the company and a remarkably clever show is assured. The scenic investiture will be especially elaborate. Great preparations have been going on the entire week in the scenic studio of the company, where Rep Logle has been diligently at work painting the several scenes for this production. Monday night will be ladies' free night, and each lady will be admitted free when accompanied by an escort holding a paid thirty-cent ticket purchased before 6 o'clock Monday. Matinees daily at 2.30 and night performances at 8.30.

In response to the increasing demand for the best there is in burlesque, the management of the Columbia theater announces "High Life in a Cabaret" as the attraction for the week beginning Monday matinee at 3 o'clock. Strictly speaking, "High Life in a Cabaret" was written for burlesque, and to say that it has served its purpose is to put it mildly. It comes to Atlanta for the first time, after having enjoyed unprecedented success at the Columbia burlesque theater in New York. There are two acts and three scenes, which are just enough to furnish the background for hundreds of hilariously funny situations and cleverly executed chorus numbers. To the credit of the White Way Burlesque company, which presents "High Life in a Cabaret" next week, let it be said that every member of the capable cast has grasped every opportunity offered, and as the result, the production, as gauged from the rehearsals, eclipses anything offered here. Nine big musical numbers in themselves are worth hearing. The chorus has been largely augmented, and, with new and dazzling costumes, will be one of the features. Every number is highly seasoned and spicy.

Included in the three big vaudeville acts which form the olio is Eddie Worrel, known as the greatest dancer in vaudeville. Worrel is one of the few dancers that have succeeded in bringing the weird and fantastic dances of the Bowery and New York's east side to the stage. His act is said to be the most novel and unique offered. He will be assisted by the pick of the White Way beauty chorus. Not included in the vaudeville bill but as a sort of side attraction, will be Miss Bee Darling, the most beautiful and shapely woman in burlesque. She will appear in several song numbers. Mlle. Lanier, Babe Shepard and others will round out the show.

Well Acquainted.

(New York American.)

There was a change of curates in the parish, and shortly after one of the prominent men of the congregation asked this chauffeur:

"How do you like the new curate, Barney?"

"Middlin'," replied Barney; "but he can't come up to the old one. 'Twas himself could tell yeall about the bad place Shure, to hear him describin' it, you'd think he was born, bred and reared there."

The Turk Blames It on God.

(W. Y. Morgan in The Hutchinson News.)

Constantinople—The Turk is the only real gentleman in Europe, measured by the standard that a gentleman is a man who won't work and doesn't work. The Turk will fight, he will endure, he will fast, he will die, but he will not work. He does not get the idea at all. For generations back he has been a soldier and a governor of conquered people who provided him with means of support, for he killed them or they killed him. There was no word in the dictionary of his life which meant hard labor or wise management. His wants were simple, a wife or two, more if he could afford them, bread, tobacco and time to think. His education consisted in learning to read the Koran and in discussing philosophical questions. As a governor of the conquered he failed because he had no executive ability, no foresight, no common sense. His only idea was to get all he could out of the taxpayers now and let the future take care of itself. He built no roads, he developed no mines, he invented no process or machine.

He merely enjoyed the life that was before him, considered all other people beneath his notice and rested assured that in the sweet bye and bye he would be in heaven with houris to comfort him in the million of years to come. If he lost a fight—it did not matter, it was only fate. If Bulgaria won her independence—fate. If Italy took Tripoli—fate. He fought to the finish, but did not worry about his losses and right now when his country is apparently going to smash and the high cost of living has reduced the ordinary Turk to small victuals and only one wife, he calmly puts all the responsibility on his god and sits and meditates as he did when everything was coming his way. Like the Christian, he believes that "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," but unlike the Christian he accepts what happens as being the will of God and therefore to be accepted by his people.

Home of Uncle Remus Will Be As Carnegie Library Branch

On Saturday afternoon, October 18, at 3 o'clock, the board of trustees of Carnegie library will open the third branch library at the home of Uncle Remus in West End.

When a petition was presented to the board signed by hundreds of citizens of West End asking for a branch library in West End, the ladies of Uncle Remus Memorial association offered free use of one of the rooms in the Harris home for library purposes, and plans were begun for opening a branch there. As there are more than six hundred children attending the West End schools it can be readily seen that a library will be of great benefit in the neighborhood.

A feature of the work of this branch will be the establishment of an Uncle Remus story hour for every Saturday afternoon, when all of the Uncle Remus tales of Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox, and all the critters will be told to the little folk, and a general invitation is extened to the public to attend the opening exercises, as well as to come to the Saturday afternoon stories.

Following the formal opening of the library the ladies of the Uncle Remus Memorial association will serve tea, and visitors will be welcomed into the memorial home.

Address, Colonel F. J. Paxon, chairman advisory board.

Checking Registration Lists.

Valdosta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) The county registrars who are now going over the tax books and registration lists preparing a correct list for the special election for clerk of superior court, which will be held on the 21st instant, find that a great many voters who registered for the elections in 1912 have not paid their taxes this year and will not be entitled to vote in the special election unless they pay up. There are three candidates for the unexpired position of the late clerk, R. B. Myddleton, deceased. They are B. G. Lastinger, Cam U. Young and S. S. Myddleton.

Commerce Court Saved.

Washington, October 11.—The positions of the judges of the commerce court were saved today when the house accepted the senate amendment to the urgent deficiency bill abolishing the court after December 31, but continuing all the present judges as additional United States circuit judges.

Andersonville Store Robbed.

New Building at Bremen.

Bremen, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Dutt will be broken Monday for a large two-story building in Bremen to be used by Suggs, Gray & Parrish as a sales stable, handling horses and mules in car load lots. The building will be completed by November 15.

Poultry Notes.

(H. A. Nourse in October Farmer's Wife.)

All roosts should be back near the north wall of the building so that the fowls will not be hit by drafts from the open windows in front.

Don't keep turkeys, ducks or geese in the hen house. Give them separate quarters and both they and the hens will do much better. Turkeys in particular must be kept by themselves.

Plenty of cracked corn and beef scraps will make the cockelers (young roosters) fat for market, even if they are on free range. It is not necessary to shut them up for fattening crates or dark pens to obtain good results.

For the turkeys to roost in, build a shed at least 12 feet wide, open to the front. They can roost in that all winter and it is a good plant to have a curtain of cloth or burlap to let down in bad weather to keep out rain, snow and wind.

A Novel Enterprise.

(Kendall Perry in the October Farmer's Wife.)

One enterprising young girl has solved the problem of wage-earning without leaving home, and without any outlay of capital save her own patience and ingenuity.

She lives in a town of 3,000 inhabitants, and announced her willingness to care for young children at 10 cents an hour. They were to be brought to her, and called for. She was to care for and amuse them while their mothers were absent on shopping expeditions, clubs, visits to dressmakers—or even for the rest of over-taxed mothers.

She amuses them, or teaches them little songs—lets them sleep if very small, has proved herself nurse, caretaker, governess, all in one, and many a care-filled mother has taken a fresh lease of life for one blessed afternoon's respite. The dimes are gladly given to our kind little caretaker who has made a place for her kindly efforts in a busy wide-awake town.

Stenographers, dressmakers, milliners, saleslades, reporters, music teachers, every avenue crowded, but the one our little friend marked out for herself.

The Political Rights of Women

MRS. MARY L. McLENDON, Editor

President Georgia Woman's Suffrage Association

A cable from Rome states that the Italian minister of justice is preparing a measure to give women municipal rights on an equality with men. The details of the measure are not stated. These will be explained in the minister's forthcoming electoral address, and it is expected that the bill will be introduced into the chamber in November.

We find this statement in The Woman's Journal, which is edited by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, the daughter of Lucy Stone, one of the pioneers who stood for woman's rights when it meant persecution of various kinds and degrees.

The women of Italy will be able to help themselves when they have municipal suffrage, but what about the women of Georgia? In reading the splendid article by Miss Isma Dooly, published in last Tuesday's Constitution, the thought came to me that such a state of affairs could not have existed at the Highland school if the mothers had municipal suffrage in Atlanta. The tax-paying women of Atlanta have been paying over 75 per cent of the taxes since 1895, and they, at least, should have a voice in disposing of that much of the money which goes into the city's treasury. Taxation without representation is tyranny in 1913 as our forefathers declared it to be in 1776—only 137 years ago. Still that fundamental principle does not seem to apply to the tax-paying women of this state today. What's the matter with our men, anyhow? Not a woman on the boards of education, and only one state office—state librarian—can be filled by a woman. What a sham!

Woman Suffrage in Denmark.

Premier Zahle, the Danish prime minister, has introduced a bill to grant the women of that country the parliamentary vote. The constitutional reform bill not only establishes woman suffrage, but other measures of great interest to men and women. The premier said the municipal elections in which women have taken part have shown that they generally vote as their husbands do. Now, some folks bring that up as an argument against granting the ballot to the women of Georgia, while others contend that the women will vote against their husband's candidate, and therefore there will be no end of family rows. If a Catholic and a Baptist, and a Methodist and a Uuniversalist can live together all their lives and raise large families in credit and honor, it is not impossible for a progressive democrat and a republican woman and man to live in peace and harmony.

Improved Conditions in Oregon.

The industrial welfare commission of Oregon established by the last legislature, has adopted a ruling, just made public, which will become a law on November 23, fixing a minimum wage of $9.25 a week for adult women clerks who are not apprentices. This law will define eight hours and twenty minutes as the maximum day's work, and fifty hours as the maximum for a week, and make 6 p. m. the latest hour at which any woman may be employed on any day of the year in a mercantile establishment. This order will eliminate Saturday night shopping in such establishments. The women of Oregon were enfranchised in November, 1912. It is only a blind man who can now say that it was a bad thing for Oregon.

No doubt some of the department store proprietors were opposed to it, just as some of those who own factories in Georgia, object to a child labor bill. And that reminds us that the Federation of Labor stands solidly against children working in factories, and it also Indorses Woman Suffrage.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, at its annual convention, has voted not merely to indorse woman suffrage, as it had previously done, but to make the measure its own and work for it. The resolution was introduced by the telephone operators and members of the Boston Woman's Trade Union league. The Georgia Federation of Labor has indorsed the movement to enfranchise women at several state conventions.

To answer the many questions propounded to me in the vain effort to prove that women will not vote when they have the opportunity I offer the following:

Registration of California Women.

A circular letter addressed to the fifty-eight county clerks and registrars of California by a member of the College Equal Suffrage league of northern California has enabled the College Equal Suffrage league to obtain the exact number of women registered in thirty-seven of the counties of California. These counties are more than three-fifths of the total number of counties in the state and contain 84 per cent of the state's total population, including all the larger urban districts.

The bulletin of the thirteenth census of the United States, that of 1910, does not give the number of women of 21 years of age and over in California but the number is on file in Washington. Using the arithmetical method (used to compute population between census years) we find that in 1912 there were about 613,626 women entitled to register in California. Of this number averaging the thirty-seven counties, over 70.4 per cent of the women registered during 1912 as against an average of 82.2 per cent of men.

For the women, four counties show a registration of between 90 and 100 per cent.

Five counties show a registration of between 50 and 60 per cent.

Two counties show a registration of between 40 and 50 per cent.

These counties are not of any one kind. The greatest proportion of women are registered in two mountain mining districts and two farming districts, one of which is Contra Costa county, which is very near the thickly settled urban district of Oakland and Alameda. The lowest proportion of women is registered in Yolo, Mono and Imperial counties, the first and last being farming districts, the second a very sparsely settled grazing and mining district.

Percentage of Votes Cast.

Although no separate records have been kept as to the number of women and men who vote, it was possible to approximate the number. In November, 1910, California had an election for governor and owing to the new progressive movement which was very strong in the state and the candidacy of a strong progressive leader the election aroused a great deal of interest and brought out an unusually large vote. It is not unfair to the male voter of the state to take the percentages of this election as typical of the number of men going to the polls at a general election. To this is added the natural increase resulting from the increase of population in two years. The total amount so obtained was subtracted from the total vote of men and women cast at the general presidential election of October, 1912, and gives us the estimated vote of the women at the election.

The results of our calculation showed that about 251,847 women voted at this election (Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan puts the figure at 313,883). This is an average for the thirty-seven counties, taken at random, of 41.3 per cent of the registered women voting. The proportions were as follows:

In two counties over 90 per cent of those registered voted.

In one county over 80 per cent of those registered voted.

In seven counties over 70 per cent of those registered voted.

In eight counties over 60 per cent of those registered voted.

In thirteen counties over 50 per cent of the women registered voted.

In three counties over 40 per cent of the women registered voted.

In two counties over 30 per cent of the women registered voted.

In one county over 20 per cent of the women registered voted.

In various local elections where there was great public interest the percentages of women voting are much higher than these given.

Registration Increasing.

In San Francisco one of the large dailies, never favorable to suffrage, announces that the number of women registered is increasing more rapidly than that of the men, the number now being between one-third and one-half of the total registration. As in Berkeley, the most respectable residence district, show the highest comparative registration of women as in the Thirty-first district where 6,807 men were registered up to August 2, 1913, and 6,141 women, as compared with the Twenty-first—not a desirable residence district—where 7,032 males are registered and but 1,366 females. This puts the balance of power into the hands of the most intelligent and conscientious women in the city, with the great advantage seen in the defeat of the race track amendment, the failure to return Eddie Wolf to the senate and the recall of Police Judge Weller.

Now, what do you think of that? Those California women voters put to shame the nearly 5,000 registered voters of Atlanta who did not cast their ballots when the last mayor was elected because they did not want to do their duty. Why not try municipal suffrage for women in Atlanta? The situation cannot be worsted and the chances are it might be bettered.

There is another thing "they say" about women voting which the majority of anti-suffragists claim to be a "sockdologer" and that is that Voting Is Unlady-Like!

Women can gamble like men, but nobody these days considers it "unlady-like." They bet on horse races and deal in cotton futures, just like men, and do not lose their position in good society. They go away from home to do those things and leave the children, if they have any, to the tender mercies of servants, but that is not considered "unlady-like." And they dance the turkey trot and the tango, I am told, but that is "O. K.," the line is drawn on writing a few words on a slip of paper and depositing it in a box to express one's opinion as to who shall make laws to govern us all, and for officers to execute those laws. This will take about the sixteenth part of the time generally devoted to a game of bridge, now so very fashionable.

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, superintendent of the reformatory for women at Bedford, N. Y., recently addressed the pupils of Mrs. Catt's suffrage school. One of the questions asked was: "But, Miss Davis, what do you think of allowing women like those at Bedford to vote?" In reply Miss Davis said that after Sylvia Pankhurst spoke at the reformatory she herself made inquiries as to the effect of the speech and found that every girl, except one, was against woman suffrage "because it was unlady-like." Dr. Davis also reported the findings of careful investigations which went to show that the inmates of Bedford reformatory are no different from the women of the underworld who have escaped incarceration. The majority of both are subnormal mentally and physically in consequence of poor heredity, poor environment or both.

W. C. T. U. Working for Suffrage.

The Maine Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of which Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens is president, as she is also president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at its recent annual meeting resolved "That as the highest development of manhood and womanhood and the protection of childhood demand the enfranchisement of woman, we will hopefully augment our efforts to obtain the right of citizenship."

At the state convention of North Dakota Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held at Lisbon last week, a number of superintendents spoke on "How My Department Can Help in the Suffrage Campaign." Others told "How Suffrage Will Help the Work of My Department."

Those women are not afraid to mention suffrage in state conventions, "for fear it will hurt our temperance work," as some of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union women profess to believe in Georgia. A constitutional amendment is pending in Dakota and perhaps that is the reason they fear not.

Catholic Women Are Interested.

Members of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association, in Newark, N. J., are taking much interest in the suffrage lecture to be given by Gertrude O'Reilly, of Dublin, at St. Joseph's hall on the evening of October 13. Mrs. Maria L. Quinn, president of the organization in New Jersey, will sit upon the platform, Miss O'Reilly, who is an authority on Irish folklore, will wear the ancient Irish costume. The Atlanta Equal Suffrage association has several members who are devout Catholics, and they are second to none in their loyalty to the cause of woman suffrage, Cardinal Gibbons to the contrary notwithstanding.

What Jane Addams Says.

Miss Addams spoke of the weak-mindedness of vicious boys and girls and reported that since women had obtained the ballot in Illinois, a new institution was to be erected for the custody of this class. She said: "For years we have been trying to get policewomen in Chicago. We had the Los Angeles policewoman there to talk; we tried every argument, it was no use. But directly after our July victory the mayor appointed ten policewomen." She also declares "Women are more respected."

"The position of our woman superintendent of schools, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, is much stronger since our victory. It is rather a bitter pill for the politicians that a woman should have a $10,000 a year position, but now that she is a voter it seems different. Everywhere we have more respect. A woman I know who has much to do at the city hall tells me that she feels a distinct change in the atmosphere. Before July the men there were polite; now they are cordial."

Miss Addams went on to tell at that great suffrage meeting in New York what Illinois women hope to accomplish in the way of improving the city and protecting the boys and girls through the use of the vote. "We intend to increase the number of our parks and to have more play zones in our city, and altogether to have the streets more human, more friendly, something more than thoroughfares for traffic. We can do these things with the vote."

How like that great woman Frances E. Willard, who aspired to "make the world more home-like." And Jane Addams is first vice president of the National American Woman Suffrage association. We are proud of her.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had at Hotaling's Newsstands, Broadway and Forty-second street (Times building corner), Thirty-eighth street and Broadway and Twenty-ninth street and Broadway.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents.

WHERE APATHY IS CRIMINAL.

During the past week, The Constitution has gotten at the vitals of a sordid, pitiful and homicidal condition, threatening our public schools. In exposing the congestion in some of the city's schools, it exposed the threat to the life and health of many helpless little children. That is the most flagrant and inexcusable form of municipal abuse. Pillage and misgovernment are sorry enough. Robbing children of life and a future square deal is worse.

There is no guarantee that had The Constitution's not torn off the lid these unsavory conditions would not have continued indefinitely, and would have blossomed into disease and possibly epidemics. Until The Constitution sounded warning no authoritative steps had been taken to take these tots off the crater of a volcano.

Out of all the lather and quibbling and dodging of the past weeks, and out of all the efforts to minimize the situation, these axiomatic conditions stand out with a clearness that challenges refutation:

1. In some of the schools children of tender years are crowded into dark and damp basements, nearby being sewers discharging stench and murderous gas in their faces.

2. In one school, children ranging from six to nine years of age are crowded, ninety-four, eighty-four, seventy-two to the room. Sickness from vitiated air and suffocation forces many of them to go home daily.

3. Conditions in other schools are approximately the same.

4. Most of the trouble rises from "gerrymandering" school districts. In other words, that several schools are suffering from deadly congestion, while many more have vacant seats a-plenty in each grade. The legitimate territory of one school is frequently cut into by the district of another. As a result, the one school has been jammed and the other half-filled.

Whether council or the board of education or other parties are to blame, we do not undertake to say.

We do say that persons in authority have been in a profound slumber while the health of little children has been threatened—not to speak of their loss from the inefficiency of the system.

In full possession of the facts, of which the entire community is cognizant—

FURTHER APATHY IS CRIMINAL!

The women of Atlanta, the wives and the mothers of the imperilled children, are on the job.

Mrs. Haden, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, has called a meeting of the executive committee tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the clubhouse.

Their interest is the heart interest, the interest of mother, the interest of wife, not only for their own children but for the children of every mother in the city.

To the city authorities, The Constitution says:

There will be no let-up in this campaign until every school in the city is made healthy for every child, until the menace of inefficiency is taken from the school system generally.

THE TIDE TURNS SOUTH.

The setting in of a movement The Constitution believes will become historic, the turning of the tide of immigration from west to south instead of from west to Canada, is described in a story published elsewhere today. The foundation of what is really a careful analytical study of the superiority of south over the west, is an interview with Albert Herkowitz, editor of "The American Jewish Review," published formerly in Oklahoma but now in Atlanta.

Mr. Herkowitz shows that he personally inspected many fields, Denver, Kansas City, and other centers of so-called "lands of promise." In all of them, there were tangible drawbacks. Atlanta and Georgia offered the one city and the one state where every prospect was of a stimulating nature. He turned his business venture in this direction.

Mr. Herkowitz relates what is common knowledge, tha tthe dissatisfied farmers of the middle and the far west have ceased crossing the frontier into Canada and are hiking southward. The superior fertility of southern soil, the more advantageous climate and the fact that we have already an established civilization in sympathy with American ideals, is weighing to put an end to the annual Canadian hegira.

After much study, Mr. Herkowitz picks Georgia as the banner state in the south from the point of view of promise. "Georgia is at the apex of prosperity," he says, verifying The Constitution's reiterated forecasts of the conditions growing out of the state's peculiar cotton supremacy this year. He looks for this state to increasingly prove the refuge for western farmers who have money to invest, and that under their influence the cattle industry and corn growing will develop into superior assets.

There is room enouh in Georgia and to spare for all comers of the class Mr. Herkowitz mentions. Each sturdy American settler means a maker of dividends. Collectively, they signify an indefinite enhancement of the state's aggregate wealth.

A NEW RAILROAD ERA.

With the selection by the interstate commerce commission of the strategic points in the country from which it will direct the physical valuation of railways, that stupendous task may be said to have been fairly launched. Up to the present, time has largely been occupied in preliminary work, the employment of experts and the general estimate of the situation to the end that the commission might intelligently get its bearings.

The physical valuation of the railways of the United States really opens up a new era in the railway world of America. The process itself is the climax to years of agitation for such regulation of the carriers as would be just, both to them and to the public. When valuation was first proposed, the railways fought it as strenuously as they did the extension of the powers of the interstate commerce commission. Later, they have acquiesced in the new regime, inclining to the hope that in the end the whole truth about the situation will help rather than harm them.

It is certain that things cannot go on indefinitely at the present pace with the railroads. Inheriting the consequences of the reckless game of finance most of them used to play, they now find themselves with inadequate facilities to care for the rapidly expanding traffic of the country. What is worse, they experience the utmost difficulty in financing loans for improvements and extensions. When they apply to the interstate commerce commission and to the several state commissions for authority to increase rates, they are met with a reluctant attitude. On top of this, they are forced to increase wages and to pay a higher price for equipment.

Obviously, it does no good to throw up to the railroads the sins of the past except with a view of forestalling a recurrence. What they need now is money to standardize their facilities, and if their facilities are not standardized the business of the whole country must suffer. It is evident that the physical valuation of all the systems in the United States will paev the way to an entire and, we hope, a permanently amicable readjustment between the railroads and the people. Anyone in the slightest degree in touch with existing conditions knows that such a readjustment is sadly needed, not alone in the interests of the carriers, but almost equally in the interests of the public.

FAITH.

> Life is a cold and narrow vale between the barren peaks of two eternities. We cry aloud but the only answer is the echo of our cry. But in the night of death hope sees a star, and listening, love hears the rustle of a wing.

We have been hearing much of recent months and weeks about immortality, for and against, from such men as Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the British Society for the Advancement of Science; Thomas Edison, the inventor; the leaders of various ecclesiastical "insurgent" movements in most of the denominations, and the ubiquitous "new thought." Less of the latter, however, than ever. Folk tire easily of unconvincing twaddle, especially when it seeks to set dynamite to the convictions handed down through the centuries and circulating through the blood.

In his day Ingersoll was regarded, and sometimes damned, as the arch-agnostic. The religion of our day would find room for him. Religion today, stripped of ultra-Calvinism, asks mainly faith and hope. And if faith and hope do not speak boldly in the concluding sentence above quoted, a sentence spoken in the face of death, we have no patience with a quibble to the contrary.

Here and there the pessimist drones of empty church pews. He chants a miserere about the age of commercialism that is smothering things of the spirit. He points to the inroads of vice and crime. Materialism has us by the throat, he wails.

It is not so. One of the marvelous achievements of the twentieth century, greater than the wireless, is that religion has lain down with common sense, that religion stirs vitally in the heart of the student, the well-balanced brain of the captain of industry, the weary toiler in the factory, even the men who, heedless, chases the lotus of pleasure.

Do you doubt it? We do not know about vacant church pews. We do know that the real religion, the code of Jesus Christ, is more powerful and prevalent today than at any time since Golgotha. The millionaire is more pitiful toward the man in the street. That is the spirit of the Galilean. The society woman leaves her machine to succor the scarlet woman. That is the spirit of the Galilean. We take better care of our bodies, the tenements of the soul. That is the spirit of the Galilean. We war more potently on vice and against mawkish concealment. That is Christ's spirit. We strive to enforce more rigidly a finer code of ethics in business and social life. Christ's life was given to that endeavor.

Why are we doing these things? From fear? No. From self-interest? No. Out of meddlesome activity? No. Why, then?

Because, we believe, of faith. "Hope sees a star," sees it through the murk of the dollar and the gloom of self. "Listening love hears the rustle of a wing," above the strident voices of the twentieth century and the enchantments of commercialism. We have watched them try to test faith in a crucible, and the common sense of the twentieth century is coming to see that such a feat is as impossible as the analysis of a mother's love. Some of us have followed the chill trail blazed by the skeptic, and turned back rejoicing to the warm fireside of faith. Many of us have seen how pitifully futile is icy logic when death beckons and disease and woe sit at our elbows. We want something kindlier, something more sustaining. Most of us, unconsciously, recall the sublime childhood faith in the mother. We know that was the surest guide of all life's emotions. We are returning to that guide.

Thus it is that faith and religion have become reconciled with materialism and business in the twentieth century. We speak much of what the century has done. It has done nothing more notable than this silent, almost unconscious, swinging to normal of the faith of a world that thinks, and is not afraid of the effect of thought upon its faith.

FARMERS AND CREDIT RISKS.

Joseph Chapman, chairman of the committee on agriculture and financial development for the American Bankers' association, prophesied that the approaching beef famine would drive porterhouse steak to $1 a pound, or where it would be beyond the reach of the working man, and declared that the remedy lay in the bankers "making the farmer a better credit risk."

The Constitution has been preaching that doctrine for Georgia and the south for the past twenty-five years, and with additional emphasis for the past three years. It is singular that the epigram of Mr. Chapman applies more pertinently to Georgia and to the south than to any other state or section. It is a matter of common knowledge that state and southern bankers, ever since the war, have restricted credit almost wholly to the cultivation of cotton.

The result has been disastrous, and twofold. It has, by placing no check upon the production of cotton, caused farmers often to work to their undoing by planting cotton, to use the homespun expression, "in fence corners and graveyards." The result has been a bumper crop and, frequently, low or indifferent prices. The other effect, by barring feedstuffs and cattle from the credit list, has been to discourage the raising at home of the state's food supply, caused it to send millions annually out of the section for essentials that could be produced here, placed a mortgage upon cotton before it went into the ground and paralyzed a big sourse of revenue which would otherwise have accrued with the revival of the cattle industry.

Of late, there has, particularly in Georgia, been a realization of the fact that this policy worked against our own interests, and a turning to more sensible methods. Bankers are beginning to see that it is wise to include cattle and corn in the list of credit eligibles. And they are also, to apply Mr. Chapman's theory more intensely, seeing that they have a dollars and cents interest in so improving the condition of the farmer that he will be a first-class credit risk in any direction.

The magnificent opportunity opened to Georgia by the threatened beef famine gives the state a specific interest in applying the principles of which we have spoken. And considering that the farmer and the conditions under which he works is the most powerful factor in the national problem of the cost of living, the widespread adoption of Mr. Chapman's advise is soon to be not a matter of philanthropy, but literally of self-preservation.

They say the Colonel is after the g. o. p. elephant; but there are not enough progressive party workers to raise a circus tent over it.

The people are tired of problem plays; they want to know what's what and why.

Here is a unique want ad from the matrimonial column of a German newspaper:

"Young woman of ancient lineage, beautiful as Helen, prudent as Penelope, economical as the Electress Sophia of Brandenburg, witty as Mme de Stael, austere as Lucretia, charitable as St Elizabeth of Hungary, devoted as Florence Nightingale, loving as Virginie, with the voice of an angel, an artistic soul and possessed of a splendid fortune, desires correspondence with a view to matrimony."

The World's Mysteries

DID HELENA FIND THE CROSS?

Is the story that Helena, the mother of Constantine the Great, discovered the cross upon which Christ was crucified, authentic? The statement usually given is that Helena went to Jerusalem, and there compelled the custodians to give to her this and other crosses, and that its identity was established by a miracle; the body of a dead man was placed on each of the crosses and when it touched the true one, the dead man immediately came to life.

This cross was entrusted to the charge of the bishop of Jerusalem, and soon became an object of pilgrimage, and a source of profit, for small pieces were cut from it and given to the pilgrims, who made liberal offerings.

On the capture of Jerusalem in 614 the true cross is said to have been carried into Persia, where it remained a few years, until it was discovered by the conquest of Heraclius, who carried it into Jerusalem on his back in solemn procession.

The story continues further. When the Empress Helena discovered the cross she also obtained possession of four nails with which Christ's body was attached to the spear which pierced his side, and other articles. Of the four nails, two were placed in the imperial crown, one was at a later period brought by Charlemagne to France, and the fourth was thrown into the Adriatic to calm the waters of that stormy sea.

This story is neither told by Eusebius nor by Cyril of Jerusalem, but first by Rufinus, on whom Socrates, Sozomon, and others based their accounts. The foundation of the legend, it would appear, is the story of Josephus and the converting of Helena, queen of Adiabene, and the tradition was the first transferred to the mother of Constantine in the latter part of the fourth century. But while Eusebius does not mention it, although he describes the work of excavating and building on the site of the Holy Sepulcher, yet it would seem to be unsound to annihilate with a negative argument a universal tradition dating from the fifth century.

The testimony of Cyril, Bishop of Jerusalem from 350 to 351, who was on the spot a few years after the event as related of Helena's finding the hiding place of the cross, and who was a contemporary of Eusebius, is explicit and formal as to the finding of the cross at Jerusalem during the reign of Constantine. This testimony is contained in a letter to Constantius. It is true that the authenticity of this letter is questioned, but without solid ground certain authorities have argued. St. Ambrose and Rufinus bear witness to the fact of the finding.

Sylvia, of Aquitaine, assures us that in her time the feast of the finding was commemorated on Calvary, that event having naturally become the occasion of a special feast under the name of "The Invention of the Holy Cross." The feast dates from very early times in Jerusalem, and it was gradually introduced into other churches.

After the happy discovery, St. Helena and Constantine erected a magnificent basilica over the Holy Sepulcher, and that is the reason why the church bore the name of St. Constantibus. What is supposed to have been the precise spot of the finding was covered by the atrium of the basilica, and there the Cross found by Helena was set up in an oratory, as appears in the restoration executed by de Vogue.

The Catholic Encyclopaedia is authority for the following statement: "A portion of the true cross remained in Jerusalem enclosed in a silvery reliquary, the remainder, with the nails, must have been sent to Constantine, and it must have been the second portion that he caused to be enclosed in the statue of himself which was set on a porphyry column in the Forum at Constantinople. Socrates relates that this statue was to make the city impregnable. One of the nails was fastened to the emperor's helmet, and one to his horse's bridle, bringing to pass, according to many of the fathers, what had been written by Zacharias the Prophet: "In that day that which is upon the bridle of the horse shall be holy to the Lord."

Another of the nails, it is said, was used later in the iron crown of Lombardy, preserved in the treasury of the cathedral of Monza. Much of the story of the finding of the cross and the nails is legendary no doubt, and like so many incidents connected with the early history of the church, it is impossible to know just how much authority the writers had for their information.

Elaborating Divorce Views Judge Ellis Discusses Its Threatening Increase

Editor Constitution: I realize that it is not only unpleasant, but unfortunate, for a judge to be drawn into a newspaper controversy. I regret that anything has been published which would require me to say a word now, but your publication of some views of mine on the subject of divorce may have been misunderstood by some people. It is, of course, hard to always get the full meaning of the person interviewed as he is intended to be understood.

In the first place, I intended no attack upon preachers. No man holds the clergy, as a class, in higher respect than I do. No man holds virtue and sobriety in higher esteem than I do. No man loves Atlanta and its people more than I do. I came into it when it had only about 20,000 inhabitants. I have helped to build it. I feel deeply for its welfare, and I have tried to devote my life to its upbuilding and to the uplift of its citizenship.

In my reference to the question of "good beer," I meant two things: first, that the law which prohibits the sale of real beer and permits the sale of a vile imitation called "near beer" was probably a mistake; if the legislature intended to prevent the sale of one kind, it was probably a mistake to allow the sale of the other. Second, in efforts to carry out the prohibition law, I think it probable that even the best and purest minded people may bestow too much effort in preventing the lesser evil at the expense of neglect of a greater. This might be illustrated by saying that even a good policeman might err if he devoted most of his time to trying to catch a man who had violated a municipal ordinance, and let a footpad knock down and rob a citizen passing along the policeman's beat.

The Divorce Evil.

Now, as to the divorce evil. We have six terms of the superior court each year. When I began to call the undefended divorce docket last Monday, I found about one hundred and forty cases confronting me. As each case must be tried twice that meant seventy cases. Six times that would be four hundred and twenty per year. The idea was horrible to contemplate, and the worst part of it is that Atlanta is no exception to the rule. Here are some undeniable facts on the general subject. The United States census bureau has prepared statistics on the subject of divorce. These statistics show: That the United States leads the civilized world in the number of divorces granted, in proportion to population, that the ratio of divorce far exceeds the ratio of increase in population. Between 1870 and 1880, the increase in population was 30.1 per cent; in divorces, 79.4 per cent, between 1900 and 1910, the rate of increase in divorce was three times that of population. That in the last few years, one marriage in the United States out of every twelve has been dissolved by divorce.

What does this mean? If the ratio increases in the same proportion, in twenty-five years one marriage in every six will be dissolved by divorce, and in fifty years one out of two. What a horrible spectacle this presents to the man and woman who, doing their duty in the present, hope for the future of their children and children's children, who yearn for the time when posterity will enjoy all we have today, and be more enlightened and elevated to enjoy the good things that may be discovered or enlarged or perfected in the future.

This divorce evil strikes at the foundation and purity of the home, to destroy that, will destroy the state and the nation.

Of course, there are many causes of divorce. I have not the time nor space to go into detail, or even to enumerate them.

There ought to be a divorce law. No gentleman ought to be yoked to a harlot, and no virtuous woman to a brute, but divorce for trivial reasons is an outrage, and should be discouraged and prevented, if possible. In this state, a divorce may be granted for cruel treatment. That is defined by the law to be the wilful infliction of pain, mental or physical, upon the complaining party, such as would reasonably justify apprehension of danger to health, life or limb. The number of fine, healthy looking men and women who claim to have suffered nervous prostration on account of cruel treatment would surprise you.

In this state, a total divorce may be granted on the uncorroborated testimony of the complaining party. I cannot go into detail as to all this now; I have neither the time nor the space.

I prepared and presented to the legislature a bill to provide that no total divorce should be granted on the uncorroborated testimony of one of the parties, that no marriage of a divorced party should take place within six months of the final decree, that the state should be represented by an attorney specially employed to look into the merits of applications for divorce.

This bill, though attention had been called to it by the press, got no help from anybody, so far as I know, and was turned down by the legislature, and no action was taken on the subject.

What Is Needed.

As a sample, I will state a case that recently occurred. A little girl in short dresses, apparently about 12 years old, filed a bill to annul a marriage. I asked how a marriage license was obtained. The fact turned out to be that it was issued to the man. There was no law authorizing the ordinary to have the female present. The minister was a highly respected clergyman. The mother of the girl went with her to the ceremony; the ceremony was performed; the so-called husband took the child to a neighboring city, kept her about a month, gave her a dollar and a half and a ticket, and sent her home. Now, anybody could tell by looking at this child that she was not fit for the marriage state. The whole affair was an outrage.

A case of a child last week was very bad. What appeared to be a little girl of tender years had been married by a minister over a year ago. I am glad to say such cases are rare, but none such ought to exist.

We need some legislation on this subject. We need the help of good people to frown down this growing evil. We need the ministers of all denominations to use their influence to curb the evil. Christ, the Master, said that if any man marries a woman who was divorced on any ground except adultery, he commits adultery, and I don't see how anyone under that declaration can perform the marriage ceremony between a man and a woman divorced for, say, cruel treatment, and himself escape condemnation.

I am trying to do my duty. I do not know that I go about it in the right way. I do not mean to condemn or censure any other people, but as long as I am on the bench, I intend to see that, so far as I can help it, no man or woman shall get a divorce in this county who does not clearly show a right under the law to it.

I regard this subject as important, so fraught with danger to the good of our people that I hope that the agitation of it, though unpleasant to me, may be deterrent, if not effective.

Judge Superior Court, Atlanta Circuit.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Prose Poet

Reducing the Cost.

"If people paid cash for what they buy," remarked the grocer, "the cost of living would come down like a thousand of brick. Every merchant could afford to mark down the price of his goods, and so the cheapening of things would be universal. But the crazy old credit system is hard to kill."

"You couldn't do business without the credit system," said the colonel.

"I wish I had a chance to try. I have twenty or thirty customers who have everything charged, and they are slower than the millennium about paying up. Consider yourself, for instance. You owe me about $50. Often when you come in here I can hear the dinero jingling in your pockets, and you could pay for what you buy as well as not, but such an idea never occurs to you. You order a pound of butter or something, on which I make a half a cent profit, and ask me to deliver it at your door, and charge it. And when I present my bill you go into a cataleptic trance. I have to earn my money three or four times over before I get it from you. Meanwhile I am paying interest on what I owe, and you are paying no interest to me, and in order to keep out of bankruptcy I have to put high prices on my goods, and the cash customers keep this old shebang going."

"The cash idea is an obsession with you," observed the colonel, as he reached for a peach. "This thing of hanging to a single idea is dangerous, and your faculties will be impaired if you don't break loose from it. You intimate that if the patrons of your disreputable grocery all paid cash, you would be enabled to cut down prices at once. Perhaps you would be enabled to do it, but would you do it? That is the question, and you know doggone well that you wouldn't.

"Merchants, and especially grocers, mark up the prices of their goods whenever they have the least excuse, but they never mark them down again. Years ago your blamed old addled tomatoes used to sell at ten cents a can. Then there came a dry year, and the drouth or the grasshoppers or something killed off the tomatoes all over the country, and the price went up to fifteen cents a can. The grocers held out hopes that it was but a temporary advance. Probably next year would see a bumper crop of tomatoes, they said, and then the prices would slide back to the old level. The next year the trees were so loaded with tomatoes, all over the country, that the branches broke under the weight, and in the fall millions of tons went to waste, because there was no use for them.

"Did the price of canned tomatoes go back to the old notch? You know blamed well it didn't, and it never has to this day. The oppressed laboring man who wants a can of tomatoes for his bedridden grandmother has to cough up fifteen cents. Of course there are cheap grades which sell for less money, but no same man would be found dead with a can of such goods under his arm. The point is that when the price once goes up it never comes down again, and it wouldn't make a bit of difference if all your customers began paying cash down. You'd gloat over your ill-gotten gains in ghoulish glee and study up some excuse for lifting the price a notch higher.

"The credit system is the only protection a man has. You think it strange that I have things charged when I am carrying a few pieces of money in my pocket, but it isn't strange at all. Suppose I come here and buy a pound of butter and pay cash for it, taking your word for it that the butter came from the country, and had some remote relationship to a cow. When I go home in the evening my wife meets me at the door and asks me if I have joined the Black Hand society, that I send home such a package of butter. The house needs fumigating after sheltering that butter, and, filled with bitter indignation, I come here to the store and read the riot act. Do you return my money? Not on your whiskers! That old fiction of returning the money to dissatisfied customers never was anything but a pipe dream. You have my cash in your till, and you keep it there. You are willing to trade me a can of sardines or a box of axle grease for the butter, but you'd rather die on the spot than dig up the money. If I had the butter charged it is different. Then the advantage rests with the consumer, not with the dealer."

Constitution's Book Reviews

JOHN J. UNDERWOOD.

Rex Beach and Jack London have written the romance of Alaska as she was in the days of the "gold rush," and Robert W. Service, with his "Songs of a Sourdough" and "Songs of a Cheechako," has sung of the Yukon much as Kipling would have sung, but it remained for John J. Underwood to crowd both the romance and the poetry of this vast frontier land into a book of facts, no less alluring because it is illuminating.

Mr. Underwood's book, "Alaska—An Empire in the Making," published by Dodd, Mead & Co., is nothing short of a revelation to those of us who look upon this country merely as a stage setting for virile fiction and Kiplingesque verse. It is written by one who knows his Alaska, who prospected there during the Klondike's most feverish days, who tramped its snows, and suffered its hardships.

Mr. Underwood writes most interestingly of the Indians in southeast Alaska and their customs. Beautiful Sitka is described. Skagway he takes you to, and Fairbanks, Seward, Cordova, St. Michael and Nome, the most northerly city in the world, which was practically destroyed by storm a few days ago. He convinces you that an Eskimo is neither a cannibal nor a circus clown. He makes you want to see the fiords, the glaciers, the mountains of Alaska as you never longed to see Switzerland.

Here is a land, owned and operated—and "operated on"—by Uncle Sam, one-fifth the size of the United States, populated by several distinctive types of Americans of whom we know almost nothing, bulging with resources only the surface of which has been scraped; a-thrill with romance. Mr. Underwood has written well. He has brought this Alaska to our doors.

The Man Between. By Walter Archer Frost. Illustrations by Howard McCormick. Ormsby, a young American, who had been very successful at the Kimberly mines, has been invited by Greg Bradbrook to join a jolly party at his camp. Gold—A Tale of the Forty-Niners. By Stewart Edward White. Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty. One of the most thrilling chapters of today in our American history is the gold fever of 1849. In this, the latest book of Mr. White, an author who has received his training by long years in the open, has given us a wonderful piece of work, and it is almost with bated breath that the reader follows him through the pictures he pens with such realism. As part of the story is laid in Panama, the route taken by the gold-seekers, you will not be able to lose interest in the little party of four who are on a searching tour for "Gold."

The Knapp Method of Growing Cotton. By H. E. Savely and W. B. Mercier. This method of growing cotton has taught people how to produce twice as much cotton to the acre as they formerly knew how to do. BOOKS RECEIVED FROM GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY.

The Outlaw David Hennessey. The plot of the outlaw is laid in the Australian bush about sixty years ago. The hero of the story was wrongly accused and he steals away from the haunts of men only to become a Robin Hood of the bush. The love affairs, disguises, capture and final escape from Australia of this man, who, though an outlaw, did more for law and order than the police themselves, is very interesting, in fact, thrilling, as you read of those early days when the "gold greed led all the world a-wandering."

The Sea Captain. By H. C. Bailey. A story of love and adventure, daring attacks on Oriental pirates and the rescue of Christian slaves. "The love commences in old England—the adventure continues in the Mediterraneau."

The Law Bringers. By G. B. Lancaster. A story big and primitive as the vast country in which it is enacted—two men, who were enemies in the old country meet again in Canada as comrades until they fall in love with the same woman. A series of adventures, situations, makes this an intensely thrilling story of a struggle between love and duty.

BOOKS FOR BOYS.

The Boy Patrol on Guard and The Boy Patrol Around the Council Fire. By Edward S. Ellis. This is a new series of books for boys and will be called "The Boy Patrol Series." He has now finished his "Launch Boys" series, etc., and the boys will find these new stories brimful of interest and adventure, and bubbling with mirth provided by "Mike Murphy who has not kissed the Blarney stone in vain." (John C. Winston company, Philadelphia; 60 cents per volume.)

The Roaring Lions. By James Otis. The famous club of Ashbury, its organization, etc., is the story that will be of special interest to all boys. (Publishers, Harper & Bros., New York and London.)

Danny Fiwis. By Walter Camp. Mr. Camp has made himself a very popular man by writing a series of school and college stories. "Another story by Walter Camp" is sufficient for any boy, but Danny is not a Yale student, but a lovable, hot-tempered "prep school" lad, who hopes some day to be asked if he is from Yale. Every boy should read this wonderful football story.

The Luck of Laramie Ranch. By John Harbottle. Illustrated. A story filled with the breath of life on the open prairie and the usual amusing episodes connected with a boy's life on a ranch. These two young heroes worked on a ranch in the far west where they saved enough money for their education.

An excellent story for children, of Alphonso XIII., present king of Spain. The story is historically correct, and is supposed to be told by the king's favorite Angora cat. A very pretty book for a gift.

LITERARY NOTES.

Patience Pennington has written a book, the subject, "A Woman Rice Planter," which is sure to attract a good deal of attention, especially in the south, as it is a true story of a woman who managed two large rice plantations in South Carolina. The MacMillan company will publish this book about the 10th.

John E. Patterson, the author of "His Father's Wife," is a famous wanderer, a man who, as a friend of his once said, "has been everywhere and has done everything, from breaking a wild goat as a boy to breaking heads as a man, etc." Mr. Patterson's birthplace is a little Yorkshire village and his parents were Scotch-Irish.

The Century company will issue this month James Davenport Whelpley's "The Trade of the World," in which the author aims to give "a better appreciation of the common sense, wisdom, courage, etc., required not only to the individual, but of nations seeking a fair share of international commerce."

"The Truth About Camilla," the story of an Italian adventuress, is another October book. Miss Gerturde Hall, the author, has spent much of her time in Italy and knows well the people of that country.

Louis Joseph Vance denies that the title-character of his new novel, "Joan Thursday," by the way a theatrical novel, was drawn from life and positively states that "Joan" is not the pen portrait of any individual star actress. "It is simply an attempt to show the result of Joan's temperament combined with the lure of the footlights," says Mr. Vance.

"Partners," by Margaret DeLand, has been brought out this month by Harper's. It will be only another evidence of the popularity of Mrs. DeLand's books.

Madame Van Saanen Algi, the author of "Wild Grapes," published by Moffat, Yard & Co., has recently joined her husband, who was called, in the spring, by the minister of war to Rumania, in order to prepare for war in the Balkans. Madame Algi with other Rumanian women has become a Red Cross nurse.

"Bob" Adamson Versus "Joe" Johnson; Story of Two Former Atlanta Boys Who Are "Big Guns" in N. Y. Politics

Alfred C. Newell, who by request has written the following, was for four years a political writer on The New York World, to which he went from The Constitution. When he decided to return south as the general agent of a large life insurance company, Robert Adamson, who had been "covering" up-state New York politics, succeeded Mr. Newell in charge of the municipal matters for The World. Both young men had graduated from the staff of The Constitution. They left together for unknown fields of New York journalism. For ten years they were co-workers on the same metropolitan papers. Mr. Newell was at one time attached to the personal staff of Joseph Pulitzer as his newspaper expert.—The Editor.

By Alfred C. Newell.

The political destiny of New York city is practically in the hands of two Georgia men. Robert Adamson has the fusion end of it. Joseph Johnson is one of the triumvirate leading the Tammany end. It is a battle of giants for more than a king's ransom. New subways are to cost $150,000,000. Short term bonds included, the annual budget of the greater city approximates $175,000,000.

For the past four years municipal pickings have not been as good as the voracious fangs of the Tammany tiger would like. This beast is usually zoo-fed. Its flanks just now are a trifle concave with jungle hunger. Murphy and his men need the coin.

So that the fight now well under way will be waged with unprecedented ferocity. It has called forth the highest quality of generalship and it is a noteworthy tribute to Georgia pluck, and to Georgia brains, that one of the three directing geniuses of the Tammany element is "Joe" Johnson and that the sole director-general of the fusion fight is "Bob" Adamson. It is a position of pre-eminence for Adamson. It came to him entirely unsolicited and unexpected. After the sudden death of Gaynor, Colonel Kline, by accident the mayor, announced that he would insist upon Adamson retaining his place of secretary-to-the-mayor. Those familiar with New York affairs know that under the Gaynor regime Robert Adamson had been a kind of deputy mayor. His influence had been seen early during the Gaynor regime. In the selection of heads of departments; afterwards in the retention of those officials and in the development of a fixed policy which seems to have made Gaynor greater in death than in life.

At the time of the late mayor's death, his campaign for re-election looked roseate. Johnson was the field manager of this campaign. Adamson elected to remain in the background. Johnson had started out by hurling broadsides into John Purroy Mitchell, the fusion nominee.

Quick Realignment.

After the death of Gaynor, a quick realignment took place. Up to that time the Mitchell campaign had been bossed by Norman Hapgood and a few theoretical satellites. Hapgood has a wonderful feeling for the English language and a wholesome regard for civic betterment but lacks the practical punch needed to deliver a Tammany knockout. The fusion campaign needed a manager. Mitchell is a Woodrow Wilson democrat who until this week has held the office of surveyor of the port by appointment from the president.

It appeared that Edward E. McCall, heading the Tammany ticket, had the whole thing buttoned up. McCall is an ideal Tammany candidate. He was hand-picked by Murphy. He has been a colorless lawyer influential in the old days of big corporate contributions, for his brother headed one of the larger New York insurance companies, and Edward E. did the "Albany work." He secured a supreme court judgeship and lately the head of the public service commission, by Murphy's dictum. With Gaynor eliminated and the Mitchell campaign weakening, it looked easy for Murphy and his Tammany candidate.

Then the executive committee of the fusion forces set the alarm clock and decided to wake up. They needed a real political general, not an essay writer or a Bull Moose propagandist. Some members of the committee held out for "Joh" Hedges, a seasoned old warrior, and an erstwhile G. O. P. candidate for governor. William Loeb, of Roosevelt's cabinet, was the choice of some. Others said it was up to Hapgood to put Mitchell across. The candidate himself announced that there was one man to whom he would entrust his campaign—that man was Robert Adamson. The committee assented; so Adamson was approached. He promptly agreed to direct the fight against Tammany, if given a free hand.

In Complete Mastery.

It was agreed that Adamson was to have no interference and that he would be in complete mastery of all fusion forces. He assumed command immediately. He started the wobbling fusionists down the track with a 45-horsepower headway. It seemed a sudden reversal of form for Mitchell. Sunday last The New York Herald carried a column and a half character sketch of "Bob" Adamson, with an "Underwood-and-Underwood" photo, indicating that he is already on the bills for the "movies." More significant was the poll by this paper indicating a great trend towards Mitchell.

It was scarcely a suprise when "Joe" Johnson announced that he would support the Tammany ticket. The movement towards Mitchel was somewhat bewildering to McCall and Murphy. They decided to put on more speed—hence the selection of Johnson, of Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, and of James Battle Gordon, the lawyer, to run the Tammany fight. With "Joe" Johnson's hand in the game, Tammany's campaign, always spectacular, will be super-spectacular. His publicity methods are unique. From the time he induced old Bishop Potter to stand as the patron saint of the subway-tavern, fathered by his personally conducted Order of Acorns, until his more recent successful appeal to national notoriety by means of his arson exhibit "Joe" Johnson has managed to be in the middle of the metropolitan limelight. He has most of the essentials of a big Tammany leader, except the dymanic power of silence. He will gather this from the mysterious Murphy. It is not too wide a guess that some day, when Tammany gets into a respectable reform mood, it may do another Lewis-Nixon-Post-Croker turn and put "Joe" Johnson in as the real boss.

Adamson has many years' knowledge of Tammany and Tammany methods. He can fight with a sure knowledge of his position. For five years he was the star political writer of The World, along with Louis Siebolt and Sam Blythe.

In Reminiscent Mood.

When the editor of The Constitution asked me for this story, I presume that he wanted me to "reminisce." I could tell how, in 1897, when Adamson was on the city desk and the writer on the night city desk of The Constitution, a forfeit of $100 was put up by each for the man who failed to be in New York city ready for work when the greater city was consolidated January, 1898. I could tell of a siege of newspaper offices for positions in the unknown city; of the ups and downs of the political reporters' life at a time when Croker was dominant and Van Wyck his tool; of the gradual ascendency of Pulitzer's brilliant political staff (for I regarded him as the best-informed, most alert-minded writer in the city) of almost world-famous "beats" and features which he put over during our more than ten years of close comradeship.

These are matters which we can dig up any day. The important thing is that Adamson has really "arrived." this lanky youth, who came into Clark Howell one morning, hailing from Rex, Ga., asking for a job, should be conducting almost single-handed a campaign of nearly presidential proportions which will for the next four years decide the political and therefore material destiny of 4,800,000 souls. Win or lose in this fight, Adamson can set his sights to the highest notch. If it is not improbable that in the exigencies of political life Wilson will call him sooner or later to the cabinet.

Johnson meanwhile has started out on his Tammany career. Should McCall win in the approaching election Johnson will retain his high municipal position.

It is an interesting situation with these two Georgia men—the red spectacular head of "Joe" against the bald philosophical pate of "Bob."

72 YEARS OF AGE, HE MAKES A LONG TRIP IN SAILBOAT

Brunswick, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Captain C. W. Duvall, an old citizen of Brunswick, but who has been making his home in Tampa for the past four years, arrived in the city yesterday, having made the trip all the way from the south Florida port in a sailboat.

Captain Duvall is well advanced in age, being 72 years old. Still he started out on the trip from Tampa unaccompanied in a sailboat 40 feet long and 18 feet wide, the Robert W. Taylor by name.

Captain Duvall started out on his long water journey with ample provisions to last him to Brunswick, not making a long stop between the two ports. He made part of the trip via the inside route, but some of his journey carried him out into the ocean. While he struck pleasant weather during most of the trip, still he encountered one or two gales, but his little craft well withstood the weather, and, wtih its lone passenger aboard, put in port "all well" yesterday.

ARCHDUCHESS ISABELLA MARIE

ARCHDUCHESS ISABELLA of AUSTRIA

Reason for the Annullment of Her Marriage Not Revealed—As Nurse, She Submits to Regular Routine, and Agrees to Go to War for the Red Cross if Called Upon.

Vienna, October 11.—Working as a common nurse in a Vienna hospital the Archduchess Isabella Marie, daughter of the Archduke Frederick, the richest of the Austrian royal family, is trying to heal her own aching heart. In the interest of her daily routine in tending the sick and infirm, and in preparing herself for actual Red Cross work on some possible battlefield of the future this proud Hapsburg girl hopes to forget her unfortunate marriage with her cousin, Prince George, future king of Bavaria. It will be remembered that she left her husband almost immediately after the marriage and that the ceremony has since been annulled after fruitless attempts at a reconciliation. The affair formed one of the most amazing episodes even in the amazing family history of the unfortunate Hapsburgs.

Just outside this city, nestling among the vineyards, which cling to the sides of the outposts of the Northern Chalk Alps, stands the Rudolfiner house, a great surgical hospital where many of the most famous Vienna doctors accomplish miracles of skill. Here the sisters of the Red Cross get the training which fits them for the battlefield.

Archduchess Turns Nurse.

The sisters of the Red Cross were astonished, a few weeks ago, to hear that an archduchess a member of the imperial house of Austria, was about to join their ranks. Such a thing had never even been dreamed of before. The Austrian archduchesses are so hedged about by ceremony that they are seldom brought into contact with the world. Their whole life is arranged for them from the cradle to the grave. Their ladies in-waiting, who has authority over the unmarried ladies to an extent which is only possible inside the walls of a palace, is an adept in all knowledge of what an imperial highness may and may not do, and the ladies at the Austrian court are kept in a somewhat hard durance. At the age of three they commence to learn foreign languages and are put in charge of a German nurse—to make sure that they learn to speak Hoch Deutsch, instead of the soft Austrian German—an Italian maid, a French governess and an English tutor.

Archduchess Isabella Marie up to the time she joined the Rudolfiner house, never did a hand's turn for herself. The sisters in the hospital were curious to see how she would enter into her new life. The rules of the establishment are severe. The sisters must be at work at 6 a. m. The cases are all very difficult ones. Slight operations are carried out elsewhere the Rudolfiner authorities selecting its patients from among the most serious and interesting in Vienna. The sisters train for six months. They are constantly called upon to witness operations, and are trained in the special branches of their work required in the field. It takes strong nerves to assist at an operation for the first time, even for a hardy girl, accustomed to roughing it. It was doubly hard for the delicately-nurtured archduchess.

Just Like Ordinary Nurse.

Much to the surprise of the other nurses, Archduchess Isabella Marie turned to and works just like an ordinary girl from a middle-class family. She has not stood on her rank in any way, but mingles with her fellow-workers, spending much of her leisure time on the flat roof of the hospital, which is grown over with flowering plants and seldom leaving the Rudolfiner house. The ordinary sister is allowed to absent herself only once a week, and the archduchess has not asked for more extended privileges but places herself under the regulations of the house in the same way as any other sister.

There is some speculation as to what the future of the young archduchess will be. The eldest daughter of the Archduke Frederick, second cousin of the emperor, she was destined to a throne. After the dissolution of her marriage with Prince George it was expected she would retire to the shelter of a convent, and there was considerable astonishment when it was known that she would follow the fashion, just now so popular among the aristocracy, and train as a Red Cross nurse. She bomb herself, on commencing the course, to place herself at the disposition of the association, and may be called upon at any time to leave Vienna and follow an Austrian army to the battlefield, there to comfort the dying and tend the wounded. Should there never be an opportunity of putting her skill to the proof on the battlefield, she will no doubt assist her mother, the beautiful Archduchess Isabella, in tending the sick and relieving distress on the country estates of her father, unless, like all the unmarried archduchesses, she becomes the superintendent of some institution. In former times they have invariably become abbesses of nunneries in default of marriage. As Archduchess Isabella Marie shows no inclination for religious life some secular sisterhood may be organized especially for her.

Archduchess Isabella, here, is keenly interested in cottage industries, and is largely responsible for the great progress which has been made in that direction in Hungary. She has spent years of her life in encouraging the peasants to purchase better patterns for their work, and has held sales of their produce in Buda Pesth and Vienna.

Spoils Trousseaux of Daughters.

It is said that she spoilt the appearance of the trousseaux of her daughters—some of the prettiest girls in Europe—by her insistence on their having gowns made of linen embroidered by peasant work. Much of their table linen, too, was embroidered in crass colors by Hungarian women. The enthusiasm of the elder archduchess for well doing has been transmitted to her eldest daughter and now that fate has robbed her of a throne she has an occupation to her hand, and can turn from the life of splendor which was opening up before her as presiding lady at the court of Munich, ruler over a palace which the heir to the throne had built for her accommodation, to the simple life of the tent on the battlefield or failing wars, to years of quiet piety and well doing under the direction of her mother.

The marriage of Isabella Marie took place some eighteen months ago. She had been betrothed to Prince George of Bavaria for some months and every one expected that the marriage would be a success.

Alliances between the ruling houses of Austria and Bavaria have been very frequent. The Bavarian court is very strict and the princes and princesses "enjoy" very much the same upbringing and education, although on a less magnificent scale, as do their royal neighbors. The young men are soldiers, attached to regiments, and spend a great part of their lives with the troops, while the girls are convent bred.

Fresh Blood Is Needed.

The relationship between the two houses is so very close in the present generation that the desirability of introducing fresh blood has often been mentioned. Unfortunately alliances with most of the royal houses of Europe are barred by the religion professed by the members. The German princes, who rank as reigning sovereigns, although merely nominal kings, are ruled out, as most of them are Protestants. The Russian imperial family belongs to the Greek church, the same difficulty applying to the young scions of the small Balkan families, and although the possibility of the marriage of an Austrian archduke, Karl Franz Josef, the heir to the throne after Archduke Ferdinand, and one of the Balkan princesses was spoken of some years ago, it was an understood thing that the princess would embrace Roman Catholicism, and it is probable that dislike to the transaction on the part of the mother of the archduke, Archduchess Josefa, led to the idea being abandoned.

The alliances between the Austrians and Bavarians have been successful on the whole. The late empress of Austria was a Bavarian princess, and was extremely popular especially in Hungary, in spite of her advanced views. Her simple character rather startled the Austrian courtiers, who are not accustomed to ladies who have wills of their own. An amusing anecdote is told of the dismay created at Schonbrunn palace, when, shortly after her wedding, the late empress commenced to assert her own ideas.

She Objected to New Boots.

It has been the custom of ages to place brand-new pairs of walking boots at the bedside of the reigning monarch and his consort every morning. The boots, after being once soiled, became the property of the domestics. The late empress wore new boots which were somewhat small for her feet several days in succession without making any objection, always hoping that it was the last time she would be expected to do so. Realizing, at last, that this uncomfortable practice was to last throughout her life, she abruptly commanded yesterday's boots to be brought back, with the curt remark that "she did not intend to stretch new boots for other people every da." This assertion of personality was taken very amiss in Vienna, where archduchesses are expected to follow tradition of the court to the minutest detail.

The elder daughter of the present emperor of Austria, Franz Josef, and of Empress Elizabeth, Archduchess Gisela, married Prince Leopold of Bavaria, thus continuing the tradition of intermarriage in the last generation.

The repetition of the experiment in this generation, however, was a complete failure. Archduchess Isabella Marie is a woman of considerable force of character. She had known her cousin from boyhood and it appears that she did not care for the husband her parents had selected. This became known by a singular circumstance. The afternoon before the eve of the wedding a fire broke out in the palace of the Archduke Frederick in Vienna. The cause of the fire was not revealed for some time. The official inquiry elicited no satisfactory answer.

Started Fire to Postpone Wedding.

The dressmakers who had created the marvelous toilet in white duchesse satin, embroidered in myrtle and orange blossoms, which was to serve as the bridal robe, however, were aware of what had occurred. The princess, in an attempt to postpone the marriage, had applied a match to the delicate tissue, and the work of many weeks went up in flames, and the dressmakers were forced to pass the night in making a makeshift wedding gown of sorts for the ceremony which took place on the morrow.

The archbishop of Vienna made a curious faux pas at the wedding. Whether purposely, suspecting something of the state of affairs, or by accident, he chose the indissolubility of the marriage tie as the subject of his serson.

The prince and the newly married princess elected to spend their honeymoon near Munich, and all seemed well. The Archduke Frederick and his wife were, however, very startled a few days after the wedding to get a telegram from their daughter saying that she was returning home with her maid. The parents, who were resting after the turmoil of the wedding in Pressburg, received their child, and hearing that the differences between her and her husband were of a serious nature, which could not be easily overcome, took her away to Karapanza, where she spent the summer in a perfect fairy land, in forests, the depths of which have never been explored.

WHEN MRS. CARNEGIE COUNTS HER SILVER

London, October 11.—I met an old friend this week who had just come down from Skibo castle where she had been staying with the Carnegies. "They are the kindest people in the world to visit," she said. "There was only one thing I did not like there that was the porridge. It seems to be an affront to the family if you don't eat your porridge off the lovely silver platter, on which it is served. I did so want to put one of these platters in my pocket," she added. They were genuine Queen Anne.

"The old silver at the castle is Mrs. Carnegie's fetish. She is quite crazy over it. About half past nine in the evening she will slip out of the drawing room and steal down to the housekeeper's room to count it before it is locked in its special safe for the night. She is the most house-proud chatelaine in all the Highlands and that's saying a lot. The housekeeper has been with her for years, yet Mrs. Carnegie is not content to let her count these treasures. But probably it is just a labor of love and a joy to her to handle the rare old things.

There is no vestige of snobbery about the Carnegies. They don't pine a bit for the society of royalty or even titled folk, but they are anxious for the companionship of brainy individuals. Of late Andrew has taken to being a raconteur and does it awfully well. He likes his friends to correct him if he repeats himself. It would be a blessing if other story tellers did likewise.

The gardens at Skibo are looking gorgeous just now, especially the old English garden, which is a mass of flowers, with fruit trees round the walls and cabbages to give it the true air of a century ago. The walls, like those of all self-respecting old English gardens, are mellow red brick, nearly covered with tinted foliage.

Everybody knows there are no rainbows in the world like those of Scotland. When one appears in the sky at Skibo a bell rings, and all the house party flies to the lawn to admire it.

April and May Babies.

(From The London Sketch.)

Many of theadmirers of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" will be surprised to hearthat the April and May babies of the book have now arrived at their twenties and are undergraduates at Girton. A sweet girl graduate tells me that they are fair-haired, clever without being brilliant and altogether "nice little things" really called after the month in which they were born. Their mother the now widowed Countess von Arnim, does not encourage them to be luxurious or extravagant, and aided and abetted by her they always spend their long vacation in some original manner—tramping, caravaning, or camping out.

British Labor Party Is Now Facing a Crisis

Political Prophets Declare That It Will Disappear as a Serious Force After the Next General Election. Failure Is Due to Trade Unionism.

London, October 11.—Has the effort of the English trade unionists and socialists to build up their own political party in parliament failed? All the indications point to the conclusion that it has, and that in a few years Labor M. P.'s will be as scarce at Westminster as blackberries in January.

The rise of the labor party at the general election of 1905 was one of the romances of politics. Before that there were perhaps half a dozen labor socialists in parliament, led by the veteran Keir Hardie. The miners had a dozen or so of their own men but they were liberals and not socialists. They were there to look after the special interests of the miners, but on all other matters they sat and voted with the liberals. The railwaymen also had one or two representatives who were also relied on by the liberals and most of the miners and railwaymen's M. P.'s were helped in their election expenses by liberal money and given a clear field against the tory candidates.

In 1905, however the new party was born. Politicians laughed when it was announced that 'Labor' intended to contest some sixty odd seats and predicted that the candidates would be snowed under. When, however, they won nearly 40 of these seats the politicians were seized with something like a panic and serious men were heard to predict that before many years there would be a labor prime minister in residence at 10 Downing street. When a little later the miners and railwaymen's unions decided that their representatives must "sign the labor party ticket" by which was meant that they must pledge themselves to be governed by the party caucus, these gloomy prophets saw the confirmation of their fears.

Labor Party a Joke.

Now all this is changed. The labor party is the joke of politics and no one believes that after the next general election whenever it may come "Labor" with a capital "L" will cut any serious figure in parliament.

Various explanations are offered for this astonishing collapse, but the most generally accepted is that the official labor party has allowed itself to be swallowed body, boots and breeches by the liberal party. Certain it is that the labor members have consistently voted liberal on all occasions when their votes were required to keep the liberals in office. On the one or two occasions when labor made a show of independence the liberals were assured of enough tory votes to overcome the labor defection and the labor men knew it.

Another and perhaps a more serious factor is that the labor party has not made good. When it came into being eight years ago the leaders were prodigal of promises of a new heaven and a new earth. Wages were to be raised, hours were to be reduced, work was to be made easier and conditions better. Factories and mines were to become like ladies' drawing rooms and the millennium was to arrive without further delay. The trouble is that the millennium not only hasn't arrived, but doesn't seem to be any nearer than in the old days before labor had its own party in parliament. Factories and mines are still grimy unpleasant places and employers still continue to insist that eight hours, or more, constitute a day's work. Wages have not gone up to any great exetnt and the cost of living has beaten wages in the climb, so that the British workingman is worse off than he was when the labor party began to promise him a golden future.

Still another factor is the feeling that the labor leaders have succumbed to the flesh pots of Egypt. The British parliament is really a very democratic place and the younger son of a duke who is an M. P. doesn't mind being seen walking arm in arm with another M. P. who has wielded a pick in his father's mine. He even invites him to his father's big political dinners and garden parties and the illustrated papers snapshot Bill Jones, M. P., who represents the miners of some unpronounceable place in Wales, in top hat and frock coat, talking to Lady Clara Vere de Vere at her papa's garden parties. Snapshots of Bill Jones balancing a cup of tea while he chats with her ladyship are not pleasing to Bill's constituents who drink their beer from a can and take their recreation at football matches or dog fights.

He Has Lost Touch.

Then, too, Bill, who, when he was a plain trade union official lived among the workers and understood their problems, has lost touch. He has been at Westminster for eight years and Westminster is a long way from Wales. In the old days when there was a dispute between masters and men Bill could put on his cloth cap and walk round to the office to talk things over with the mine manager. He knew all that was going on in the mine and he knew maybe that the man who was fomenting all the trouble was a chronic sorehead and shirker. If the trouble was genuine his practical knowledge enabled him to point out in a little friendly talk with the boss how it could be avoided.

Now Mr William Jones, M. P., in his top hat and frock coat, comes down to Wales, perhaps accompanied by a cabinet minister, when he is sent for to settle a dispute. He travels first-class and puts up at a good hotel and the mine manager, who is a rude, rough person, used to dealing with rude, rough men, doesn't understand him. Neither does Mr William Jones, M. P., know what has been going on in the mine and he has not kept up with the new situation created by new machinery and improved methods. He fails where plain Bill Jones succeeded and a strike follows.

How true this picture is, is shown by the figures of the time lost by strikes. In the five years from 1902-1906 11,000,000 days were lost in the United Kingdom. In the five years 1907-11 or since the rise of the labor party 33,000,000 days were lost and in 1912 alone over 40,000,000 days weret lost by industrial disputes.

Now the British workman is a hard-headed person and he don't like to be idle any better than any one else. He realizes, too, that although Mr William Jones and his friends in the cabinet have fixed up "settlements" that look very fine on paper, he isn't any better off. He has lost his 40,000,000 days, his wages are hardly any higher and his food is costing him more.

A factor in the situation which is too often overlooked is the human factor. The British workingman is a very human man. He likes his beer, he enjoys a dog fight or a boxing match and he doesn't mind a small bet. By some strange freak the great majority of the men who he has sent to parliament are Puritans.

Official Leader a Preacher.

Arthur Henderson, the official leader, but not the real manager of the labor party, is a Methodist local preacher. Ramsey Macdonald, the real "boss" of the party—never was a workingman at all, but is a middle class liberal politician who knows nothing of the real life of the working people. Philip Snowden, who is probably the cleverest man in the party, is also from the middle class. He is a bitter socialist but an ascetic in his private life and cannot understand why his constituents prefer beer and dog fights to Karl Marx and Bernard Shaw.

With all this the labor politicians might have managed to keep their seats in parliament if they had not made the fatal mistake of greediness. There was a tacit agreement that in certain working class constituencies returning two members to parliament the liberals should have one member and the labor party one. Recently the labor wire pullers decided that they were entitled to both, and in two or three by-elections they broke their bargain with the liberals. At Hanley they won a seat and at Crewe they were defeated. Then came the Chesterfield election a few weeks ago. This is a miners' constituency and had been held by a liberal. The miners wanted Barnet Kenyon, the secretary of their local union, and the liberals were willing to have him, but Ramsay Macdonald stepped in and declared that Kenyon would not do. Kenyon was willing to "sign the ticket," but Macdonald was bent on having some one else and refused him the labor party indorsement. In the end Kenyon was nominated and elected over Macdonald's head. Now the liberals declare that at the next general election they will contest every labor seat. If they do so the labor party is doomed.

Syndicalism Is Gaining.

The result of it all is seen in the gains which syndicalism is making among the British workers. Labor leaders like Ben Tillett, who scorn all political action and preach the strike or in the last resort, force, as the workingman's only weapon, are gaining more and more influence, and still more significant is the revolt of the rank and file against their own leaders.

Only a few weeks ago 20,000 London railwaymen met in Hyde Park and against the protests of their leader, J. H. Thomas, M. P., passed resolutions in favor of a strike. A couple of months ago the miners, by an overwhelming majority, stripped their officials of the power to conclude any bargain with the employers without first submitting it to a popular vote. The shipyard workmen have gone on strike twice within the last year against the direct orders of their officials.

Discipline in English trade unions has disappeared and many trade unionists declare it is due to the effort to mix trade unionism and politics.

Century Magazine Will Be Published Only in America

London, October 11.—It is reported that W. W. Ellsworth, president of the Century company, who has just sailed for America, made arrangements while here to stop the publication of The Century at an English magazine after January 1, next, as it is more convenient and economical to buy only the American serial rights of the work of some of the big English authors with whom the Century has deals pending for future work.

This leaves Harpers and Scribners as the only American magazine separately published here and catering for English sales. There is, to be sure, an English "World's Work," but it now has practically no connection with the American periodical of that name. On the other hand, the English editors are buying more and more of the contents of the American magazines for republication here, and the work of many American writers who ordinarily would not find a foothold here is becoming known to English readers. Although American editors still come to England for a large proportion of the highest quality of fiction, it looks as if the American story-tellers in all but the top rank were getting the upper hand over here as rapidly as the American playwrights of the same grade.

Princess Troubetzkoy, best known as Amelie Rives, is not so well known in England as in America, but her new novel, "World's End," is to appear serially here as well as in the United States by arrangement with "The Weekly Budget," and will probably be brought out by an English publisher next spring. Meanwhile the princess' cousin, Hallie Erminie Rives, who has not hitherto made much impression on English readers, is gaining a foothold with her "Vallants of Virginia," which is getting some first-rate reviews.

Evidently there is going to be a commotion over Lord Alfred Douglas' forthcoming book to be entitled "Oscar Wilde and Myself." Donald Ross, Wilde's literary executor, is doing his best to prevent its publication, knowing that Lord Alfred has no great affection for him, and will probably make a bitter attack on him. It is reported that the book is now finished and is being revised under legal advice to make sure that it is free from libels, and that it will be published this autumn. Lord Alfred has announced that he proposes to make a spirited defense of his reputation.

No one who read "Elizabeth and her German Garden" will have forgotten the April and May babies who figured in that delightful book, and the Countess von Arnheim's readers may be surprised to learn that these have now arrived at their twenties and are studying at Girton, the English Vassar.

A sweet girl graduate tells me that they are fair-haired, clever without being brilliant, and altogether "nice little things" really called after the months in which they were born. Their mother, the now widowed Countess von Arnheim, does not encourage them to be luxurious or extravagant, and, aided and abetted by her, they always spend their long vacation in some original manner—tramping, caravaning or camping out.

That phenomenally successful lady, Mrs. Florence Barclay, though she had to go to America to be "discovered," has now no end of honor in her own country and is, in fact, one of the favored few among authors whose books invariably are reviewed on the day of their publication. Truth to tell, however, Mrs Barclay's latest story, "The Broken Halo," has had only a sorry reception at the hands of the English critics, most of whom, in fact, demand who it can be that reads Mrs. Barclay's novels? Says the "book whacker" of the "Daily News": "If it were not for its probable enormous sales, it would be easiest to say nothing about this kind of writing. Yet what is read so widely must have some good quality in it, though, frankly, we cannot discover it."

The all-conquering "movies" are now making a conquest of the literary members of the British peerage. The Marchioness of Townshend has been turning out film dramas for some time, and now the Countess of Warwick announces that she has made an arrangement with a British moving picture film to do ditto. The countess declares that her chief objects in so doing are to educate the masses and to "give the British film an impetus in the competition for supremacy with foreign films," but the fact remains that the Warwicks are in extremely low water financially, a meeting of the earl's creditors recently having followed the sale of his town house, so one suspects that f s d have weighed to some extent with her ladyship. It appears, moreover, that not only has the countess who once became known the world over as the Babbling Brooke,—contracted to write dramas for the aforementioned house, but has placed at their disposal Warwick castle and its historic environs and her own estate at Easton, Essex, which boasts many thousands of acres of deer-park, gardens and woodland, to afford a setting for the filming of her own plots.

"I have written my first play in a highly sensational vein," said Lady Warwick in an interview yesterday. "It is called 'The Great Pearl Affair,' and, therefore, is extremely topical! But in time I hope to prove that things of a far higher character can be filmed.

"I have listened to Mr H. G. Wells' views on the future of the cinema as an instructional medium, and it is in this direction that I hope to lift my work to a most elevated plane.

"I have decided to do several things in the field of historic drama. There is much history that is practically unknown in the Warwick archives, and I have two incidents now in mind that will form admirable subjects for dramatic treatment.

They concern Piers Gabeston and Isabel, one of the daughters of the kingmaker, who married that Duke of Clarence who was drowned in the butt of Malmsey, and they will have Warwick castle as a setting."

COMPLETE HISTORY OF B. H. S. "TATLER"

Started in 1909, the School Paper Has Been a Great Success

By William D. Ellis.

On Friday, October 10 the members of the 1913-14 Boys' High School Tatler staff issued the most up-to-date copy of a prep school paper that has been known in the city of Atlanta.

At the beginning of the term 1908-09 a few of the students of the freshmen class thought it a good plan to start a school paper

With the assistance of W F Dykes, the well-known principal of that school, a meeting was called of all those interested in the founding of the paper A staff, consisting of Howell Foreman, editor-in-chief L A Pinkussohn, business manager E J Bond, assistant editor-in-chief O G Goodwin, sporting editor, and W L Green general news editor, was elected and the motion was put in action on May 3, 1909

The paper was given the name of the "Boys' High School Tatler" and was of about four pages the size of a common school book with a weekly publication. The next issue however was about the size of a portfolio, which size was retained for the rest of the year

Members Divide Surplus.

The members of the staff divided the surplus of the treasury, which gave them about $4 each

On September 24 1909 the paper started its publication for the new term with great prospects as it had the same staff with the exception of the admittance of William Rawson as advertising manager

It was decided to make this a semi-weekly instead of a weekly The plan met with great success and the boys came out ahead, as they did the year before

Again at the opening of the 1910-11 term The Tatler was put into circulation, but on account of many graduations under a somewhat different head. At a meeting of the class correspondents W L Green was elected editor-in-chief Robert L Manry, assistant editor-in-chief, Stanton Henley, sporting editor, Bert Binns, exchange manager, Eason Bond, business manager Louis Rosser, advertising manager and Roy Manning, as circulation manager

The form of The Tatler was changed to its present shape, which consists of eight pages The year ended with great success from a business standpoint

Staff Meets With Difficulties.

During the terms of 1911-12 and 1912-13 the staff met with many difficulties which caused them to end up "in a hole," so to speak This slight debt has been paid and the 1913-14 term of The Boys' High School Tatler appears to be the most prosperous looking one known in school papers.

Under the management of Le Conte, editor-in-chief, Weekly, assistant editor-in-chief, Robert Foreman, exchange editor, F Spears, business manager Calhoun, advertising manager, and Baker, sporting editor, this well-known paper will be a great inspiration to the students of high school mentally, morally and physically

It will be twenty-four pages, neatly backed and published monthly

The G M A Gimlicad and the T H S Echo are the only other prep school papers in the city, both of which are expected to be put out of existence by The B H S Tatler Last year Peacock-Fleet published a so called "Prep Student," but this term its face has not been seen

The members of The Tatler staff wish to thank the many firms who have given them advertisements and the boys of the school who have subscribed.

BACKS DANIELS' PLAN FOR ARMOR PLATE PLANT

Washington, October 10—Maintaining that investigation into armor plate expenditures had enabled the government to "know without a doubt that it is being systematically robbed by the steel trust," Representative Barton, republican, of Nebraska, today pledged support to Secretary of the Navy Daniels' plan to establish a government armor plate factory

Speaking on the subject in the house, Representative Barton read a letter from Secretary Daniels

"I feel sure," wrote the secreatry, "that congress will not fail to back up the department in whatever steps seem best to obtain armor plate at a fair price This is too great a government to sit still and allow any two or three concerns to fix identical prices.

"Unless something is done they have the government at their mercy."

Lourdes Pilgrims.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

Three thousand five hundred Irish pilgrims recently journeyed to the famous grotto at Lourdes in the hope that their ailments would be cured by divine agency. Three pilgrims from Belfast, after praying at the shrine, declared themselves miraculously cured One of these was an 8-year-old boy named Downey, who threw away his crutches in ecstasy, exclaiming "Look, I can do without them!" Another was a man named Michael Downey, also from Belfast, who threw aside his crutches, claiming to be cured of paralysis, and the third, his nephew, James MacAlister, 9 years old, who had been suffering from hip disease, was also able to throw away his crutches These cures, only three in 3,500, form a pitiably small percentage of the great number who made the long journey, hoping for relief from their sufferings.

"It was," said the Mirror, "a scene of deepest pathos. Not a few had to be supported by parents, or friends, and the sad feature of the procession from the train to the hotel, where dinner was served, was the large number of girl and boy cripples.

"I took these crutches with me," said one little fellow, a son of a Killaloe farmer, "hoping I should leave them at the shrine of the Lady of Lourdes. But I could not do so."

"Of course, we do not take any notice of the aprtial cures," said a priest, "for it is often the case after the person returns home that a relapse occurs."

One young woman cried bitterly during the whole of the dinner, and said tearfully. "I am in greater pain than when I left for Lourdes." This young woman had both legs paralysed

World's Biggest Livery Business Started With One Gray Horse

London, October 11—What is believed to be the biggest livery business in the world—the proprietors of which own and run over 800 motor-omnibuses and employ, besides, more than 5,000 horses and a huge fleet of motor cars—proves to have started, some 60 years ago, with just one, solitary gray nag This business is the famous one of Messrs Tilling, whose dispute with their motor-omnibus drivers over the question of whether the latter shall be allowed to wear their trade union badges when on duty has astarted a big 'bus strike here

The story of the growth of "Tillings, Limited," is one of the business romances of London In the early fifties, the district of Peckham, now a dingy suburb of the metropolis, was a "truly rural" locality, and about this time it was that a worthy resident of Peckham named Thomas Tilling started as a livery stable man with one gray horse and a trap A shrewd soul, Tilling purchased from the start, and it was only about a year later that he commenced an omnibus service from the corner of Rye Lane, in Peckham, to Grace church street in the "City," a distance of something like 4 miles You can do it on one of Messrs Tilling's motor-'buses now for tuppence ha'penny, or 5 cents in real money, but, for lugging a passenger in on one of his old, dark green omnibuses, the late Thomas Tilling charged one shilling and elevenpence, or practically 50 cents The 'buses were highly popular, however, for many years

Whatever may be slow about London, it is not her motor-omnibus service—which manages to kill something like 800 persons a year, and injure a lot more—and, like time and tide waits for no man, so it is rather amusing to learn that the first Tilling's 'bus proves to have been drawn by four horses, used to call around at the private houses of its regular patrons before starting for the city Its conductor too, blew a post horn However, the service made good, and its originator started others in quick succession—to Dulwich, Clapham, Herne Hill, Lewisham and a dozen other places. In the meantime he was developing a huge carriage business.

For many years Messrs. Tilling have supplied the horses for the lord mayor's show, the Metropolitan fire brigade, the army, and at the present time for the territorials.

Three years ago they had 7,000 horses in their stables They still have 5,000, and these include 700 grays, said to be the finest collection of its kind in existence

The present heads of the business are Richard and Harry Tilling, sons of the founder who the former was quick to see the possibilities of the motor and can claim the distinction of having run the first public motor-'bus—on the Oxford circus route.

The firm now own over 200 motor-omnibuses, and have one of the largest fleets of motor cars in London. They are also contractors to the post-office for motor mail vans

When the colonial conference was held in London four years ago the Tillings supplied the motor cars and carriages for the use of the delegates, and received a check for 17,000 for their services in this direction.

ROADS AND EMPLOYEES SUM UP THEIR CASES

New York, October 11—The last step, but one toward the settlement of the controversy between forty-two eastern railroads and their conductors and trainmen over the employees demands for more pay was taken Counsel for both railroads and employees summed up their cases before the arbitration commission and ended the long record of daily session The commission will meet again next Wednesday to receive a brief from each side, and has until October 25 to hand down its decision.

At today's session W W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania, asserted that well paid employees of his company had been hounded by the employees of other roads, not so well paid, to enter into a labor agreement against the Pennsylvania company This had been urged, he said, in the name of the employees' brotherhood

Salt Water Mussels.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

Much attention is given in some European countries, especially France to the production of the salt water mussel, which is held in little esteem on this side of the Atlantic There the mussel is not only used for food, thousands of bushels being gathered for the market but for bait in the deep sea fisheries Max de Nansouty, a French writer, says "Three villages Marcilly, Esnandes and Charron cultivate the Bay of Aiguillon, and six hundred men are there engaged in growing the mussel the production of which amounts to 1,200,000 francs yearly It was a poor Irish fisherman named Walton who has proved for man named Walton who has proved for seven hundred years the benefactor of these villages. In 1235 he was driven by a tempest into the Bay of Aiguillon, which, bordered by a desert waste, was frequented by many birds He saw these birds as they took their food, mussels, from the wafers of the bay His first thought was to capture these birds, and for that purpose he spread his nets upon long poles in the bash. He soon saw that the bases of these poles were covered with minute mussels, and that they increased in size with great rapidity. He then gathered fagots and branches of trees which retained the little mussels. He did not return to Ireland He makes the flat bottomed boats which to this day are used by the fishermen in gathering mussels"

TIMOTHY L. WOODRUFF IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

New York, October 11—Alarming reports late today regarding the condition of former Lieutenant Governor Timothy L Woodruff, who recently suffered a stroke of paralysis, were followed by issuance of a bulletin signed by his physicians that was not at all reassuring Mr Woodruff has been unconscious except for a brief interval since last Sunday night, his son said The doctors' bulletin read

"The condition of Timothy L. Woodruff is still unchanged and he continues to be dangerously ill."

(From The Philadelphian Ledger.)

The ordinary newspaper or periodical reader doesn't dream of the potency of good advertising One of the largest, if not quite the largest, general advertiser in the United States is a manufacturer in the Philadelphia district

There is a never-ending race at that plant between the advertising department and the builders The advertisers bring in so much business that the builders are kept busy enlarging the factory

Something like $1,000,000 a year is spent in advertising this company's output, which is a luxury in every sense At the present moment orders for new business are so fara head of the capacity of the plant that it would seem a hopeless job ever to catch up But the advertisers never relax.

The head of that great concern now knows almost better than anybody else that before you can reap a harvest you must first sow the seed The advertisers are the chaps that are doing taat.

RHEUMATISM COMES FROM CONDITIONS WHICH CAN BE REMEDIED

Just a bilious attack and a slight deposit of uric acid. Now calomel and similar mercurial purgatives do not dissolve and expel the uric acid sediment that forms from undigested, fermenting foods, and when this poisonous acid is not expelled it accumulates quickly, thickens the blood and settles in joints and muscles. The joints and muscles then become stiff

An attempt to cure this rheumatism must be directed toward removing uric acid from blood and tissues, breaking up the crystalline urates already formed and preventing new deposits.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is remarkably successful in the treatment of rheumatism It dissolves uric acid out of the tissues, holds it in solution and expels it in the urine. It thoroughly cleanses the system of fermentation and purifies the blood. It will give prompt relief in all cases of rheumatism resulting from uric acid poisoning.

If you are suffering with rheumatism, try JACOBS' LIVER SALT immediately It will relieve you more promptly and surely than anything else. Don't take an inferior substitute, some closely imitate the name, but none produces the same result. Insist on the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT, 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you full size jar mailed upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

HOW SALESMEN WORK

Who was the gentleman who recently arose to remark that the average travelling salesman led a life of ease and reclined on a bed of roses? No answer Well, such statements have been made and right here and now is the time to refute them Of course, anyone who knows the salesmen at all knows that this is not so, but it isn't everyone who does know the salesman

What do you think of this as a life of ease?

"I rode 40 miles into Knoxville standing up on a train that stopped at every tree and twice at a crossing It traveled at the grand average of 7 miles an hour I couldn't get a bed in Knoxville on account of the fair, but finally one gentleman consented to double with me. Then the hotel clerk wanted me to share the same bed, but I made them put in a cot and squeezed into it I didn't sleep much that night, and looked forward to a good night on the sleeper to follow But I couldn't get a seeper and sat up all night in the smoker Then I found a customer who had some goods to send to Atlanta and he asked me if I would take a little package along I am obliging, and so consented I carried that package by hand for 400 miles, and it weighed 40 pounds when I started Four thousand when I got here I got corns on my hands from carrying it But I had a splendid trip, and sold more goods than I ever had done before, so I don't care for little things like that They are all in the day's work"

That is a true story, tld by Max Samuels of the Hirshberg company Now tell of your "Life of Ease"

RIFLE SHOTS

BY N. K. SMITH
THE "PROFIT" of KENNESAW MOUNTAIN

The Clark Amendment. Viewpoint on Cotton Futures.

That there are two sides to every question is a fact that there is only one right side to a question is another fact Each side of a question may be presented in a purely logical manner, also one side may be based on a false premesis and the other side on a true premesis If the argument and evidence used to support the false premesis is strong and the power to comprehend and detect the fallacy is weak, then the wrong conclusion is inevitably reached and accepted as right. That power in every human mind to reason is not greatly used and developed. It should be one of the greatest pleasures for any individual to be able at any moment to inwardly consider and reason out most any problem and satisfy themselves as to the possibilities, probabilities, facts and fallicies. For instance, one man looking at a train going at a high rate of speed on a track, superficially concludes that the engine is of a great horsepower and is running at 60 miles an hour, another mind seeing the same object says 'that train is running at 60 miles per hour, the engine has so much horsepower, the grade of the track is level what per cent of that speed the train is making is momentum, if the grade was 4 per cent and the steam shut off how far would velocity carry the train, on a dead level it would run a given distance, on down grade it would run for ever at a constantly increasing speed on gravity only," and so on The cotton futures question seems to be many sided Take the cotton exchange side first, as that is the organization attacked, and they are the ones who have most strongly tried to influence legislation Why are they? A body of men who inhabit New York, they toil not neither do they spin, and yet Solomon was never able to buy the glad rags that these men can buy They rise up in the morning at 8 o'clock and after breakfast they motor down to some handsome offices, where certain people, known variously as lambs, suckers, investors, speculators and goats, come in and get sheared by trading on margin with these brokers. For every 100 bales traded in they get a rake-off of $15 for commissions, and the lamb goes into the game with $15 odds against him at the start. The cotton crop, say, is an average now of 14,000,000 bales, in order to trade there are always buyers and sellers, and where one man sells 100 bales another buys 100 bales so that gives the cotton exchange broker $30 brokerage If the whole crop was sold and bought on the exchange at one time the brokerage at regular rates of 15c per bale would be over $4,000 000, but such is not the case, for after selling the whole crop once they turn in and sell it over and over again during the year four, five and even six times, and all the time they get the $15 on every hundred bales traded in They then want more That their game is a crooked game is beyond question, for they are subject to no law, they often literally steal thousands of dollars of securities, they perpetrate all kinds of wash sales, they corner, they sell short, and buy long without either rime or reason, they plunder each other, and now and then give up the fight and blow their brains out One of their greatest arguments for continued life is that they have a place where cotton mill men can hedge If that is so, then they are running a place of business solely for the purpose of allowing cotton mill people to have a dead sure thing, by eliminating risk The mill may sell their products ahead, and go on the board and "cover" or "hedge" on futures and thus be absolutely sure of a profit If this is so, then why is it that cotton mills here in the south who have had that great privilege of having a dead sure thing why is it that with this great privilege for the past eight years the mills have had the hardest time ever known to earn a dividend? They have had to work on short time they have had warehouses full of goods unsold, there have been as many or more cotton mill failures in the south than in any other enterprise Cotton mill stocks have been at the lowest point. One thing is a fact many of the mills that failed did hedge on the dead sure New York cotton exchange, and lost Another thing is a fact if the losses from the south to the cotton exchange in ten years could be gotten together it would be enough to buy every cotton mill in Georgia, and have enough left to pay a 20 per cent dividend the first year

Another fact is that the best dividend paying mills in the south, many of them, have never bought or sold on the cotton exchange in New York never hedged and never played the dead sure thing They have taken the legitimate risk that attends all classes of business, buying raw material and converting it and selling it for a reasonable profit, over cost

Now go to the farmer—the great producer A mighty howl has gone up "If the tax goes on futures it will put the exchanges out of business and the mills will combine and fix the price of cotton and the 'poor old down-trodden, brow-beaten farmer' will have it to pay and in the end he will be the loser." Who is it that says this? The merchant says it It is a case of "Who killed Cock Robin?" The merchant says it, he says there will be no market, cotton will be priced by the mills at their own figures and taken He fears he won't get a slice of it Who killed the cotton farmer? The factor says so, for he won't get a slice of the melon Neither the one nor the other raises cotton—they get a rake-off, that's all

All this talk about the poor farmer getting it in the neck is a joke The southern farmer is the most independent man on earth, he is freer than the merchant, the factor, the mill man or the New York cotton exchange man, and he is bigger than all of them put together, and the reason that so many are worrying about him is that they all want a toll from his work and labor When the southern farmer realizes his strength and power, look out He can go out to his farm and do as he pleases he has less taxes to pay than his brother in town No man can interfere with his job, his crop or his living, no court can enjoin him, as can be done with any business in cities and towns He can take 10 cents worth of seed and make $10 worth of food; he can raise all that he wants to eat and wear at home, he can get a bigger per cent of profit than a bank, or a merchant, or a mill on his investment Mark this The man or the set of men that weep the loudest over the poor farmer are the men who are getting the most out of him The southern farmer can better take care of himself than any set of men on earth. To prove this, for over 100 years now the states and the nation have done the very least that they could do to advance the farmer and the very most they could do to advance the manufacturer. Manufacturers, railroads and all so-called big business has owned and controlled the national government; they have had representation in every congress; they have had the control of the senate and house, and have been able to use the supreme court to do their bidding The poor farmer! Has he had any representation on the floor of the senate? Has he been able to buy senators and own congressmen? No! He has gone on in the even tenor of his way making an honest living and showing more independence, grit and power than all the so-called captains of industry, who as a matter of fact have proven in nearly every instance to be captains of pirates and cutthroats If the cotton exchange of New York were closed tomorrow, cotton would be selling at a fair price A small body of men in New York can no more fix or control the price of cotton, that great crop of over $1,000 000,000, than can the men in Mars To say so, or to think so, is to imagine a mind too small for a pigmy The great markets of the world are bidding for the south's cotton crop and the price is not made in the New York cotton exchange, nor in Liverpool The New York cotton exchange is simply a conduit through which passes the current of conditions in the whole world If they controlled the prices then when Manchester England, had a strike and her great mills shut down, why did cotton go down? Why didn't they keep it up? If they control the price, why did they not keep cotton up when Texas and the west last year made a deluge of cotton? If they control the price, why don't they put it down this year when Texas and the west has little cotton? If they control the price why is cnot cotton selling in the south today 50 points out of parity with them? All they can do is control their pitiful, purile, impotent "board prices" and take the toll of $15 brokerage from the southern sucker who thinks he can beat their game and can't. The Clarke amendment would not have hurt the southern farmer If he has not been hurt by the special protective legislation favoring everybody and everything under the sun but him, then he is bullet-proof The farmer of the south has got more backbone, more grit, more stamina than any set of men Off of him have fattened more swine than there are blades of grass The railroads have bled him Without him they could not live They must haul his produce from one section to another and haul merchandise to him. By watered stock and overcapitalization, on which dividends must be earned, they have made him pay excessive rates of freight He does not fear the New York cotton exchange, and if it closed tomorrow he would live just as well—live at home and board at the same place, as he has done in the past He is the only free man If cotton don't pay him to raise it, he can raise something else and he can always live The merchant, the exchange, the lawyer, the Mr Anybody else you may name can't do it Unless he turns into a poor downtrodden farmer Then he, too, can do as he pleases It was only a few short years ago that there were as many bucket shop exchanges in Atlanta as there were drug stores, and when the legislature proposed a law to knock them out the same poor old farmer, all forlorn, would have no market Oh, it was awful, and yet Georgia has saved millions by running this great gambling game out of the state Many other states have done likewise and cotton still sells on its merits If there is a big crop it is low, if short crop it is high

BETTER CIGARS

E. F. Malone, of Capital City Tob. Co., Tells of Changes.

E. F Malone, of the Capital City Tobacco company, told of some changes in the tobacco business last Friday

'Do you remember how, in all older literature, you read of the man in his part of the country who "wore store clothes and smoked a cigar" as being regarded as quite well-to-do? Well, did you ever stop to think what kind of a cigar it was he smoked? Nine times out of ten it was a stogie that would sell for about two for five today Or possibly "three-fers" Today the man who smoked a stogie is smoking a 5 or 10-cent cigar, and the man who smoked a 5-center ten years ago is running to 10 and 15-cent smokes And it isn't because the smokes have gone up in price, for the present day 5-cent cigar is much better than that of ten years ago Then it was made most anyhow out of most anything But today there is as much careful selection in the tobacco and as much painstaking effort in the manufacture of five-centers as there is in the more expensive cigars. It is just the difference in the tobacco that makes the difference in price The general tendency is toward an increased sale of better grade cigars People are learning to discriminate better, and so they demand better goods"

W. F. Spalding, of the Gramling-Spalding company, returned this week from Boston, where he has been on a buying trip. He reports the leather market as stiff and all the factories busy. He placed the order for the "Premium Brand" low-cuts and they will be delivered in December, January and February. He states that htey are as pretty a line as they have ever carried.

S. Ruan, with the T. L. Adams company, has been noticed wearing a severe frown, ever since Dee Westbrook went and got married. It is surmised that he is thinking hard over the lapse of his old bachelor chum and it is quite probable that he will fix things in a similar way for himself in a few weeks.

W. O. Stamps, of Fain & Stamps, reports business for the month as splendid, so far.

NO ACTION YET TAKEN ABOUT PANAMA TOLLS

Washington, October 11.—Reports published in London that President Wilson soon would ask congress to repeal the exemption of American shipping from tolls in the Panama canal, brought from the white house today the brief statement that any announcement of the administration's policy on that subject at this time was unauthorized. Officials decline to amplify that statement.

In other administration quarters, however, the belief was expressed that later such a repeal would be recommended to congress, but those who spoke disclaimed any official knowledge of President Wilson's intentions. Those closest to the president predicted that any announcement of policy would not be made until the legislation in congress was opportune.

Last negotiations over Great Britain's diplomatic protest against the alleged discrimination were conducted by former Ambassador Bryce last February. He relinquished his post here after announceing he would not do so until the question was on the way to settlement.

Sir Cecil Sprig-Rice, the new ambassador, has taken no steps in the question and diplomatists have construed his inaction as an indication that satisfactory assurances have been given by Washington to London of a settlement of the dispute.

DANGERS TO HEALTH IN PUBLIC PLACES

Washington, October 11.—Perils to health that lurk in such public gathering places as railroad stations, churches, schools, moving picture theaters and the like are set forth in a report today by Dr. R. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general of the public health service, coupled with an appeal to the public to aid in minimizing the danger. For months Dr. Rucker has been at work seeking to introduce better sanitary conditions into public places and the common carriers of the country.

The country railroad station is declared by Dr. Rucker to be one of the most prolific breeders of contagious diseases because of the loafing crowds that gather there in the winter months. The playhouse also is criticised for its general lack of ventilation and overheating. But as a rule conditions are being improved, Dr. Rucker says.

JEFFERSON M'CARN SELECTED FOR HAWAII

Washington, October 11.—Jefferson McCarn, of Nashville, has been selected by President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds for United States attorney for Hawaii.

Red raspberries are propagated by suckers which come up around the old plants. These may be taken up in the autumn, heeled in during the winter and set out in a permanent bed the next spring.

Do not breed the young sow until she is nine months old and then keep her breeding two litters a year until she begins to decline from old age or is proved a poor brood sow.

The farmer who is most interested in his work is the one who usually accomplishes the most.

PICKLE STATION TO BE ESTABLISHED AT TIFTON

Tifton, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The second pickle salting station established in the south will be located at Tifton. Its purpose is to preserve vegetables in brine for pickling purposes, after which they are shipped in tank cars to the factory.

Contracts were signed this morning by representatives of the Tifton chamber of commerce with Jones Bros. Co., manufacturers of pickles, presedves and condiments, Atlanta, for the establishment of a pickling station here. It will be the secon station established by Jones Bros., one having been put in at Ellenwood, Ga., this year. They expect the two stations to supply them with all the vegetables they will need for their large factory.

The firm wants to contract with growers here for the entire crop from 300 to 500 acres in cucumbers, perhaps a similar amount in tomatoes, 500 bushels of bell peppers, 500 bushels of onions, 150 barrels of cauliflower and other vegetables. This firm is today making ketchup from tomatoes grown in New Jersey.

ATLANTA BAR INVITED TO NEWMAN BANQUET

Capital City Club Will Be Scene of Unique Gathering on 25th. Entire Bar Participates.

Formal invitations have gone out to the lawyers of Atlanta, and also to a number of personal friends of Judge William F. Newman not members of the bar, to the dinner in commemoration of his seventieth birthday, which is to take place on Saturday evening, October 25, at the Capital City club.

Mr. John D. Little, who is chairman of the invitation committee, says in behalf of the committee that he wishes it understood that every member of the Atlanta bar who desires to participate in the banquet is invited to do so. In mailing so many invitations the list may not be as complete as the committee would have it, and some of the invitations may miscarry, so the committee wishes to make it clearly understood that every member of the Atlanta bar is invited to join in the banquet.

Any member who fails to receive an invitation and who desires to be present is requested to communicate with John D. Little, chairman of the committee, at the Third National Bank building.

The Capital City club has tendered the use of the building for this occasion, and the fact that any lawyer is not a member of the club will have nothing to do with his participating in the banquet. It is believed that the gathering will be one of the largest and most representative ever held in Atlanta.

FINE CROP PRICES HELP THOMAS FAMERS

Thomasville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—That the cotton crop and the fine prices it is bringing, coupled with the other good crops made this season, will do much to put the farmers of Thomas county on "easy street" for the season, there is no doubt, and already the banks are reporting large deposits being made by them.

IN SOLID TRAIN LOAD TATE QUARRIES EXPORT TO EAST $50,000 IN GEORGIA MARBLE

The marble is worth $50,000.

The Blue Ridge Marble company, of which Colonel Sam C. Tate is president, are the owners of the famous Kennesaw quarries from which these columns were taken.

The shipment is thought to be not only the most valuable in Georgia's history, but in the history of the marble industry in the United States.

The Tate quarries have figured in the news of the country by bidding for the marble from which is to be constructed the Lincoln memorial in Washington. The bids are hung up over the strong protest of this company that the contract should not go unjustly to a western country.

The Kennesaw quarries have supplied some of the most prominent public and private buildings in the United States. The product is of a superior grain and tint, and adapts itself admirably to architectural purposes.

The quarries owned by the Tates have tremendous capacity, and Colonel Tate expects, as Georgia marble becomes better known, the quarries will place its products in every part of the country.

Judge Ben Hill Soon to Sit As Superior Court Judge

JUDGE BENJAMIN HARVEY HILL,
Who soon retires from the court of appeals to become judge of the superior court.

By T. R. Conner.

With the close of this week, Judge Benjamin H. Hill, who has presided over the court of appeals ever since its organization in January, 1907, will voluntarily step down from his high position to become one of the superior court judges of the Atlanta circuit, a court part of whose work it has been his prerogative heretofore to pass upon in review.

For anyone seeking a reason why a man should voluntarily give up a higher position for a lower one, a word or two about the heavy burden of work and repsonsibility of our court of appeals should be a sufficient demonstration. It has been something less than seven years since the court began its work, in this time 6,000 cases have been argued before it, every one of which will have been decided when Judge Hill leaves the bench. So closely has the court kept up with its work that each one of these cases has been decided on an average within a month from the time that it was argued. They are now printed in the thirteen volumes of the court of appeals reports, familiar to every lawyer.

It will be seen that the court has passed upon about 900 cases per year on an average. 300 cases per judge, one for every working day in the year counting even the days on which arguments are heard and holidays. It is doubtful whether a court of review in the United States can show an equal record for work.

But while the above figures are the average for the whole time the court has existed, the truth is that the burden is much greater now than it was at the start and is increasing all the time. And the pay is $4,000 per year, one thousand dollars less than the annual salary of superior court judges in the same town, notwithstanding the superior dignity which the higher officials have to maintain. It is hardly any wonder then that Judge Hill, when asked for his reasons for making the change, said of the Atlanta judgeship:

Why He Took It.

The principal facts in the career of Judge Hill are too well known to Georgians and particularly to Atlantans, among whom he has spent practically is entire adult life, to require much recapitulation. Everyone knows that he is a son of Georgia's great United States senator, after whom he was named, that he was born in La Grange, the home of his father, and that, after his admission to the bar in 1872, he practiced law in Atlanta, first in partnership with his father and, afterwards, with his brother, the late solicitor, Charles D. Hill.

He graduated at the state university in the famous class of 1869, with such Georgians for classmates as William H. Fish, Howard van Epps, Emory Speer, A. Pratt Adams, William R. Hammond and Seaborn Reese, every one of whom has since achieved distinction upon the bench. A class ahead of him was Henry W. Grady, and a few classes later, but in college at the same time with him, came such distinguished Georgians as the late Chancellor Hill, of the University of Georgia, Congressman Bartlett, N. E. Harris and Washington Dessau. It is doubtful whether there has ever been such a brilliant array of talent gathered at the university at one time, before or since. The young men who had come through the terrible privations of the war took life seriously and were determined to make the most of it.

It was after a year of travel in Europe and a law course at the University of Georgia that Judge Hill entered upon his life work in 1872. Not many years later, in 1877, he became solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit, a position which he retained until 1885.

During his incumbency in office, he acted as prosecutor in two of the most noted murder trials that have ever been known in Atlanta, winning for the state in both cases. In 1879, Ed Cox shot and killed Bob Allston in the office of the state treasurer and in the presence of a number of state house officials. Both the slayer and his victim were men of prominence, the latter having been a short time before a Fulton county representative in the legislature.

During the course of the trial which lasted for two weeks, the court room was jammed with well known people of both sexes from the city and from other parts of the state, Alfred T. Colquitt, United States Senator John B. Gordon, State Treasurer Renfroe and Keeper of the Penitentiary Nelms.

Cox was convicted of murder, after the jury had been out for four days, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court. It was said that one juror, who favored a voluntary manslaughter sentence, held out the eleven others who were in favor of hanging, until he induced them to save the man's life!

First Case Under New Law.

This was the first case tried after the law had been amended so as to allow juries to fix life imprisonment as the penalty in first degree murder cases rather than hanging, if they should choose. But the most singular feature of it was that Bob Alston had been the author of the bill in the legislature, and had thereby himself unknowingly saved the life of his murderer.

The case was affirmed by the supreme court, but Cox remained in the penitentiary for only a few years, when he was pardoned in 1882 by Governor Alexander H. Stephens.

The other case was that of the state vs. Sam Hill, which came the following year. Sam Hill walked up to J. R. Simmons, while he was taking a drink in the bar of the old National hotel, and shot him dead without a word of warning. Mrs. Hill's name was involved in the affair and the defense relied upon the unwritten law to save the slayer. But it was of no avail. The young solicitor succeeded in convicting the accused, which conviction was sustained by the supreme court, and Sam Hill, too, received a sentence of life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Then the defense, as a last resort, took a writ of lunacy for their client, in which they won, and the prisoner was consigned to the asylum, rather than the state's penal institution in Milledgeville. Some time later, however, he made his escape and is now said to be living somewhere in the west.

When the democrats came into power for the first time since the war with Grover Cleveland in 1885, Judge Hill was appointed United States district attorney, a post which he held until his party went out of office in 1889. He was then appointed standing master in chancery of the United States circuit court by the present Chief Justice White, of the supreme court bench, and two other federal judges. This position he retained until he accepted a place on the court of appeals, when it was created in 1906, being elected chief judge by his colleagues on the organization of the court.

If there is one thing in the character of the new superior court judge which distinguishes him more than any other, it is his enormous capacity for hard work of an unobtrusive kind. It would be hard to find a man with less affectation, less "fuss and feath" ers" about him than Judge Hill. A rather taciturn man with much reserve, yielding his confidence only to a few who are his most intimate friends, a man of Spartanlike regularity of habit, he has devoted himself entirely to his official duties, without reckoning the cost of time or inconvenience to himself.

An incident of his younger days, which is related by Lucian Knight in his "Memoirs of Famous Georgians," well illustrates the Spartan nature of the man. It was in 1882 when Judge Hill was a candidate for the United States senatorship to succeed his distinguished father, who had recently died.

Invited to Speak.

He had accepted an invitation to deliver a speech in the hall of the house of representatives in the old capitol on Marietta street and he determined to fill the appointment, although he was sick at the time. When the time arrived, the hall was packed to its capacity with those who wished to see and hear the son and namesake of the great Georgian who had died. The intense heat combined with the crowd to make the strain upon the speaker almost unendurable.

Several times it was noted that he was struggling against acute physical weakness. Finally he fainted and was borne by his friends to an apartment back of the speaker's stand. Some minutes elapsed, and it was considered certain that he would not be able to finish his address, when, much to the surprise of the dispersing audience, the young orator suddenly rushed back upon the stand, and shouted:

"Richard is himself again."

He then concluded his speech, the audience marveling at his determination and self-control. Incidentally, it may be said that this was the only political contest in which Judge Hill was defeated. Pope Barrow, of Savannah, was chosen United States senator.

That Judge Hill will give satisfaction on the superior court bench of Fulton county may almost be taken for granted. A man of his known attainments and judicial experience could hardly do otherwise. The people of the county are indeed to be congratulated in being able to obtain such a man to fill the fourth judgeship.

In conclusion, attention may be called to the fact that Judge Hill is the second member of the court of appeals bench to resign since that court was created, on account of the fearful strain put upon the judges and the inadequacy of the pay. Two years ago, Judge Arthur Powell resigned for much the same reasons and is now engaged in the practice of law in Atlanta. There have been frequent rumors that other members of the court will also resign.

ALBERT HERSKOWITZ.

Editor of American Jewish Review, in Interesting Interview, Says Georgia Is at Apex of Prosperity.

By J. Walter LeCraw.

"Southward, ho!" as a cry of business and settlers from the west, has received a stimulus through the crop failure and meat famine of the middle west that has attracted the attention of the whole country, and probably the most forceful example that has yet developed is in the removal to Atlanta from Oklahoma City, Okla., of The American Jewish Review, which has this week been consummated.

The Constitution's prophecy that "Georgia will reap a golden harvest from the west's adversity" is already beginning to materialize. The caravan of trade has actually begun to move—southward from the west! Georgia has indeed begun to reap the harvest, not only in settlers who are turning their faces southward, and in stimulation to the Georgia corn and cattle industry to supply the meat demand of the country, but even in the actual migration of business enterprises. The "American Jewish Review" is a concrete example, and the indicator of others to follow.

This publication makes its first appearance in Atlanta colors this week, bearing for the first time in its history the announcement on its cover: "Published at Atlanta, Georgia!"

"Why did it move to Atlanta from Oklahoma?" is the question that arises in anybody's mind upon seeing the magazine and learning of the change. It was with this question that I sought out Albert Herskowitz, editor of The Review, upon his arrival in Atlanta, saying to him squarely, "Tell me just why you have come."

His answer is one of the most interesting analysis of conditions in Georgia compared with the rest of the country that has come to light in a long while, and he is willing to tell it to the whole nation, with the climax to big words: "Come to Georgia."

GEORGIA AT THE APEX OF PROSPERITY.

"I have come," said Mr. Herkowitz in answer to the question, "because Georgia represents in the natitonal life of this country the very apex of prosperity—because I decided after long investigation that Atlanta, being the center of such a prosperous section, would be the most advantageous point in the United States for me to locate as the headquarters of my magazine.

"For several months past I have studied conditions in the various sections with the view of moving The American Jewish Review from Oklahoma, where business is at present almost paralyzed by the enormous crop failure of 1913. The failure of the farmer, of course, affects every other line of business either directly or indirectly. Not only has this year proved terribly disastrous, owing to the drought that blistered the fields and dried up the corn, but the past four years have all been disappointments more or less from the same standpoint. 1913 is simply the climax.

"As a result of this condition, there is scarcely any money in circulation in Oklahoma today. Business is stagnant. And this applies not only to Oklahoma but to large sections of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and the northern part of Texas.

"Among the first realms of business to be affected by this is the publication business. A magazine must have advertising, on a consistent and profitable plan, if it is to live. Many of my advertising clients began to withdraw, saying they had no money with which to continue. When I went out after new advertisements I found a similar condition generally. Other publishers felt the same dangerous influence. Finally it began to threaten the very life of my publication.

SURVEYED NATION AND SPOTTED ATLANTA.

"Then it was that I turned my thoughts definitely toward locating the magazine in a more prosperous section. I began to study conditions with the direct view of ascertaining what city in the country would be the best to live in, and the most promising as headquarters for The Review. I had already been of Atlanta and the general prosperity existing here and so I began to make inquiries. Everybody I found spoke highly of Atlanta, both as a city and as a center of prosperity.

"But I investigated many other places before deciding to move here. I went out to Denver, Colo., and while there handled conditions as in that section, but found there was not very much difference between Colorado and Oklahoma. The same condition of 'scarce money' existed in Denver that existed in Oklahoma City. I investigated conditions in the farther west and also thought long about locating at Kansas City, but gave up the idea.

"All things combined argued for Georgia. People elsewhere, as well as Atlanta men whom I consulted, advised strongly the moving of my headquarters to this city. Finally I was convinced that it would be the wisest move I could make—and so here I am.

FINDS WHOLE SOUTH IN PROSPERITY.

"Permit me to say," continued Mr. Herskowitz, "That I have found conditions in Atlanta, and in the south generally, far brighter than I ever expected. The train that brought me from Oklahoma to Georgia showed me a kaleidoscopic change of crop conditions. In the south I passed through some of the most beautiful fields that I have ever seen. Your whole section is in the midst of splendid business prosperity, and every man in the south ought to be proud of the outlook.

"In Atlanta I find that money is plentiful. Adequate support from the advertising field has developed and the success of my move to this city is already assured. The people of Georgia have, to my mind, no cause whatsoever to be pessimistic in the slightest degree."

Thus has Mr. Herskowitz—a westerner, a newcomer in our midst—repeated the very arguments that The Constitution has been making in its editorial columns for many weeks past. He brings from the outside world substantiation of the plea as voiced by The Constitution that Georgia is at present the most favored section in the whole United States.

While pessimists scowled and declared the 1913 crop was going to be below the average, The Constitution set to work and collected crop statistics which proved that the crop is not behind, but is now turning out to be one of the best in many years. By a comparison with the crop reports from other parts of the country, The Constitution declared editorially that "Georgia will reap a golden harvest from the west's adversity," and the truth of this prophesy is now becoming self-evident.

A STRONG ARGUMENT FOR IMMIGRATION.

Another interesting fact which has borne out this same prophesy is the large number of inquiries as to immigration to Georgia from the west, received during the past few weeks by the industrial departments of the railroads.

Numbers of people whose farms in the middle western states have been parched and their crops ruined by the drought have turned their eyes to the rich and prosperous fields of the sunny southland. In truth it may be said, "the south is coming into her own."

Mr. Herskowitz, Atlanta's newly arrived editor, being in a peculiar position for comparing Georgia's advantages with those of his own section, the middle west, was asked to make an analysis of this condition for The Constitution.

"To attempt to state why I believe that Georgia presents one of the greatest opportunities in the world for farmer-immigrants today, I will have to go into detail as to my observations in the realm of social study," said Mr. Herskowitz.

"In my capacity as editor and publisher of the American Jewish Review I have had occasion to observe the movements of the Jewish agricultural aid societies of American, and especially the Jewish Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society, whose functions to a degree control the distribution and settlement of Jewish immigrants and farmers throughout the United States. I once asked one of the representatives of these societies, who happened to visit Oklahoma City, why they did not send more of their charges to Oklahoma to till our soil. He replied that it was their desire, all other things being equal, to give these prospective farmers the most ideal circumstances under which to live that will naturally bring out the best qualities in them, for their ultimate mutual advantage.

GEORGIA IDEAL SPOT FOR IMMIGRANTS.

"Environment, well adapted or selected, is the molder of opportunity, and the place of ideal environment is the one that should be sought by immigrants. In every phase of human activity it is natural to follow the line of least resistance. By this I do not mean that we should exert ourselves less, but rather to increase our efforts in those directions and applied to those things which will yield the greatest results in the quickest way.

"The choice of a location for agricultural pursuits should follow this law. The cultivation of tropical products in a frigid region would be both foolhardy and non-productive. The successful farmer selects his locality, tills the soil in the most opportune way and cultivates those products which, considering the temperature, the soil, and the supply and demand, are the natural results of his environment.

"After a period of considerable experimentation and failures in the establishment of colonies of Jewish farmers, experience taught the leaders in these movements that the judicious selection of land, climate and market facilities were the basic elements in the success of the agriculturist, and upon this principle the Agricultural Aid societies are acting. They follow the line of least resistance.

"NOT OKLAHOMA LESS BUT GEORGIA MORE"

"A comparison of Oklahoma and Georgia from this standpoint shows the latter far in advance as an ideal place for locatin gimmigrants. I have lived in Oklahoma for nearly fifteen years and can say without fear of contradiction that it is one of the most remarkable states in the union. In the few years of its admission it has attained a marvelous growth and development. However, no matter how much I appreciate the citizenship and fifteen years' residence within its borders, I am not unmindful of one of its disadvantages—the uncertainties of climate and rainfall which in the past four years have operated to disadvantage and this year resulted in wholesale failures.

"My allegiance to the state of my headquarters impels me to say, 'I do not love Oklahoma less—but Georgia more.'

"And while I would not say to Oklahomans, 'Come with me to Georgia and reap the fruits of a rich, fertile and prosperous country,' I can say with all my heart to those who in other parts of the country contemplate a change of location, 'Come to Georgia, whose splendid soil and charming climate possess the potentialities and possibilities of a marvelous agricultural and industrial future.'"

Bumper Bumble Bee Crop.

(From Wabash Plain Dealer.)

Among all the other good crops in the country this year, the fact should not be overlooked that there is also a bumper bumble bee crop. There never was a bigger one, farmers state, and the "varmints" are said to be very vigorous as well as industrious in the shaking of honey for winter stores. Farmers plowing this fall have been compelled in some cases to quit some fields, so thick have been the nests of bumble bees encountered. It is said that a big crop of bumble bees is a sure sign of an open winter, and a big crop of clover seed, a green Christmas.

Vice Crusade, Attracting Attention of All America, Won Christian Convention

By J. Walter LeCraw.

The inside story of how Atlanta won the 1914 convention of the Disciples of Christ, as told by Dr. L. O. Bricker upon his return from Toronto, furnishes one of the most interesting flashlights on national thought and tendency that has developed in many a day.

Dr. Bricker declares that the one pre-eminent, commanding accomplishment that put the name of Atlanta upon the lips of every person at the convention, and that finally caused Atlanta to be chosen for the next gathering, was—Atlanta's famous crusade on vice.

When I heard this remarkable statement from the lips of Dr. Bricker I could hardly believe that he meant literally what he said—that the vice war was THE ONE TRUMP CARD which claimed the victory! But the pastor of Atlanta's First Christian church is a man who speaks straight from the shoulder his deepest convictions, and before the interview was over I knew that he did, indeed, mean literally every word he said.

It was shortly after Dr. Bricker's return to the city that I found him—in his study in the First Christian church. His smile filled the whole room, he was so happy.

"Well, you did it! Congratulations!" was the way I accosted him.

"Ah no, my boy. 'Twas something far greater, far more powerful than my little efforts, or even the efforts of the Georgia delegation, that really won the convention for Atlanta," were his first words of reply. Such is the self-effacement of the man.

Wild Enthusiasm at Vote.

Interested at his words, I sat down and listened while he described enthusiastically the enormous convention gathering at Toronto last week—the contest which was waged between St. Louis, New York, Des Moines and Atlanta, all fighting for the 1914 convention—and the final victory for Atlanta, which was acclaimed by a burst of applause that lasted over five minutes on the convention floor.

Then he went on to tell how Atlanta's delegation to the convention had been exceedingly small, how the campaign for the convention had not been strenuous, and how there were very few people in Atlanta generally that even knew the convention was being solicited until the news was flashed that the convention was won. The greatest aid of all, he said, was given by Atlanta's friends from other cities who boosted the Georgia capital and helped focus interest.

"But why was it, Dr. Bricker," I asked, "how was it that all these people from over the country took up the cause of Atlanta, in preference to New York, or Des Moines, or Denver, or St. Louis?"

Then it was that he unfolded the secret of the whole story—the vice crusade and the gripping interest with which this campaign had caught the eyes of people from all parts of the United States.

All Wanted to See Atlanta.

"Everywhere I turned, people asked me about the vice crusade, asked me how successful it had been and if I thought the houses would ever be brought back to Atlanta," said Dr. Bricker. "And when I told them 'No, I don't believe they will ever be brought back, that only increased their interest all the more. Everybody had read about Atlanta in the newspapers of the country, about the struggle going on over the policies and actions of Chief Beavers, and they all wanted to know the present status of affairs.

"I feel confident in saying that among the Christian people of America the vice crusade has done more in the way of constructive advertising for Atlanta than any other event in the history of this city. The Toronto convention has proven it in an unexpected and highly satisfactory way, for undoubtedly we would never have won that convention if it hadn't been for the vice crusade attracting the eyes of the whole nation toward Atlanta."

Of course there were other things that counted, in the complex campaign waged for the convention. The Georgia delegation had, for instance, a song called "Marching on to Atlanta," which they sang to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia," and on the steamboat as well as on the special train enroute to Toronto hundreds of people from other cities joined in the song and stirred up enthusiasm for Atlanta. And before the convention committee, which recommended "Atlanta" in 1914 at the general session, speeches that counted a lot were made by Rev. A. R. Moore, of Savannah; Rev. H. K. Pendleton, former pastor of the First Christian church here; H. M. Patterson, of Atlanta, and a number of others, while Rev. John S. Wood, of Atlanta, who was a member of the convention committee, also did good work.

Perhaps the following, clipped from The Toronto Globe, is the most vivid description that could be given of the enthusiasm that prevailed when Atlanta won the convention.

Toronto Globe's Description.

Come, ye servants of our King, and join
this glorious band;
With banners gladly waving high; friends
clasping hand in hand
From north and south, from east and west—

DR. L. O. BRICKER.

Canadians welcome to way down south in Dixie.

Singing the above to the old tune, "Marching Through Georgia," in a way that would make the University of Toronto students green with envy, the delegates made the walls of Massey Hall tremble following the announcement that thep lace of meeting next year would be Atlanta. Waving handkerchiefs, shouting and clapping with all their might, there was no question as to the popularity of the decision, and the demonstration lasted for several minutes. Rev. L. O. Bricker, of Atlanta, then addressed the convention and gave a characteristic southern welcome to the audience. "Come, all of you come," he said with a broad smile. The chairman, Rev. G. A. Miller, of Washington, then put the question to the audience as to whether they would accept the decision of the committee. Thes hout that followed was sufficient, "They're all in favor of Atlanta," said he; "what's the use of voting?" There was a shout of laughter at the remark.

RHEUMATISM

A Home Cure Given By One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free. Don't delay. Write today.

After the game dancing was enjoyed by the young people and later refreshments were served in the dining room, where all of the table decorations were in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs Baldwin left immediately for Washington and other points of interest. Returning in about ten days, they will be at home in their attractive new bungalow in Kennesaw.

Mrs. Sheppard W Foster, a member of the Atlanta chapter and state regent, will give a delightful talk on the state work. Miss Daisy LeCraw will give some enjoyable solos.

As this meeting will bring together the old and the new members after a summer vacation, the social half-hour over the teacups will be the most delightful ending of the chapter meeting and all are cordially invited to be present.

For Miss Seymour.

A delightful surprise was given Saturday, evening to Miss Marie Seymour, whose marriage to Mr Lewis Rhodes Jackson, will be an interesting event of October 18.

About fifty friends of the brideelect assembled at her home, and announced their presence with a burst of music, just as the bride-elect with her fiance were returning home after having dinner at Durand's, anticipating a very pleasant and quiet evening.

The music was rendered by an orchestra led by Mr and Mrs Minor Everette—and dancing was enjoyed by the young people. A contest "Romance of the Bride," also greatly interested the guests.

Diamonds Lead Other Jewels As Haynes Leads Other Jewelers

Atlanta is ably represented in the world's treasure marts by the Eugene V. Haynes Company.

The new store of this company contains rare gems and exclusive designs in jewelry. In purchasing from us you are certain to obtain the most beautiful goods and at the same time your purchase will prove a sound investment.

Our jewel caskets are particularly brilliant with diamonds and pearls. Pearls will be ultra-fashionable this winter and you should examine what we offer. As for diamonds—they are always the kings of gems and our heavy buying in anticipation of the new customs duties gave us access to European strongholds that few jewelers penetrate.

Have you seen our new quarters? WE believe we are exquisitely located. You are invited to call and pass YOUR opinion.

THE CORSET IS THE CAUSE OF IT ALL—

DISTINCTION—PRESENCE—whatever you call the ability to wear a gown to its most charming possibilities—do you really realize that the corset is the cause of it all?

The most recent figure, the supple style of the moment's mode, examples this truth.

We Have Just Received A New Dancing Corset

With all the world dancing, it is small wonder that someone has given so much thought to the designing of corsets that would add both to the comfort and grace of the dancer.

Such a corset is the model constructed to be of assistance in acquiring the proper poise of the body in taking the different steps.

It is wonderfully flexible, with no bones, and made of a soft tricot and elastic web. The flesh is held in entirely by the unique cut of the garment rather than by boning. The back is very flat and the bust is cut extremely low.

We have the exclusive sale of the dancing corset in Atlanta, $7.50 up.

THE SCEPTRE OF FASHION

Our showing is authoritative, and proves that the lorgnette and the lorgnon may be plain or jeweled to be smart.

KIMBALL PLAYER

Our Own Make, $450 Up

The Kimball Player-Piano is the nearest approach to the human touch that it is possible for inventive genius to devise. When properly played, it is impossible to distinguish it from pieces rendered by a skilled artist playing by hand, or manually.

You may have heard in some homes player-pianos which were not satisfactory—that failed to give the proper expression and feeling. Don't make the mistake of assuming that all player-pianos are alike. It will pay you to investigate the merits of Kimball Players, and an hour spent in our player room will convince you that there is nothing mechanical about this flexible instrument.

Kimball instruments—Player-Pianos, Uprights, Residence and Church Pipe Organs—are sold direct by the world's largest manufacturers, through this Branch Store, eliminating intermediate profits of the jobber and dealer, and consequently, at a great saving in price to the buyer.

Our one, absolutely one, price at which our goods are sold is a positive protection to the experienced as well as the inexperienced buyer. It insures both of receiving full value for their money. In over fifty years of merchandising we have found that in order to be both f[illegible] to ourselves and to the buyer the One Price System is the only basis on which pianos should be sold.

Allen's Shoe Room

The Place to Find The Latest Style Footwear

Owing to the popularity of the beautiful draped effects in ladies' garments this season, the vogue of velvets, plushes and other pile fabrics, a demand has been created for women's footwear of surpassing elegance and quality.

Just as certain manufacturers of women's garments were caught unprepared by the suddenness of the change from garments of utilitarian value to those of the luxurious type, so has the average shoe dealer and manufacturer alike been overwhelmed by the demand for footwear in keeping with the beautiful garments of today.

That is one distinct advantage that the buyer of shoes at Allen's enjoys over the dealer handling shoes alone. Frequent conferences are held between our various buyers and the tendencies of the season's new styles are discussed just as soon as they appear on the horizon.

We are glad to say that the demand for footwear both for day and evening dress of this more elegant, more beautiful type, has been fully prepared for here.

We are receiving shoes almost daily by express that a year ago it would have been impossible to sell.

Colonial or low effects are selling almost as strong with us now as boots were this time last year.

We now carry three boots on the floor, in all sizes and widths, at $8.00 a pair, which is the highest grade of ready-made footwear obtainable. The same thing in colonial pumps with the cut steel buckle, already attached, is $8.00, or $7.00 with the plain buckle.

We challenge any store in the city or even New York to show higher grade or better shoes than can be found at Allen's.

Our evening footwear has always been conceded to be the largest and most comprehensive, in point of colors carried in stock, size, width and price range in the South.

Our boots and colonials begin at $4.00, and then on up to $4.50, $5.00, $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00.

The evening footwear begins at $3.00, and, according to the price of the ornament, runs as high at $15.00 a pair.

Our children's shoes are marked very close; according to the sizes are $1.50 to $4.50 a pair.

Stunning Costumes Mark Opening of Fall Season at Piedmont Driving Club

A delicious dinner, and ball following, inaugurated the fall season at the Piedmont Driving club Friday evening when two hundred and fifty guests assembled there. The improvements recently made upon the club building were commended, the entrance hall having been enlarged, the stairway broadened and given easy ascent to the second floor, the dining room enlarged and prettily decorated and the ballroom redecorated, making a charming setting for the assemblage of Friday evening.

The dining room walls are in soft tones of pastel green, and the decorations in pink and white roses were harmonious. On all the tables and mantels were these flowers. There were several large parties, one given by Mr and Mrs L H Beck, another by Mr and Mrs Wilmer Moore for their niece, Miss McKee, and a third given in honor of Mr J H Colquitt by a group of his men friends. He leaves today to assume his duties in Washington, D C, with the interstate commerce commission, and the dinner was in the nature of a farewell. In the party were Messrs. An October Bride

MRS. TARANCE YOUNG WESTBROOK,
Niece of Dr. and Mrs. John W. White, of Oakland City, who was formerly Miss Blanche Ella Mayner, her wedding to Mr. Westbrook being an event of October 2.

Mrs. William Witham to Direct Work of the Local Y. W. C. A.

Mrs William Witham has accepted the presidency of the Young Women's Christian association of Atlanta, and has assumed the active responsibility of the office.

This announcement is one that will bring joy to the many who know Mrs Witham and appreciate her spirit and ability and her ready helpfulness, while to those who have been working to the end of reorganizing the work in Atlanta it means unquestioned success.

Mrs Witham, when asked for the plans being inaugurated for the year's work, stated that they were not yet entirely perfected, but that every branch of the work would be under competent leadership, and that within the year the Atlanta branch of the Young Women's Christian association would meet the demands of every girl in Atlanta who desired membership in the organization.

"I am finding out what our young women want in their association: what they want in the way of instruction, recreation and social life, and when the board finds that out they can more directly push the work of the association.

Our boarding home on Ellis street is serving excellent purpose, also the home on Baker street. We are planning for a tearoom. Our gymnasium work has begun in the Wesley Memorial building, and I confess I have the ambition to see a beautiful woman's building erected in Atlanta under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association."

Miss Betzner Talks.

Miss Era Betzner the director of physical training in the Young Women's Christian association, is organizing the gymnasium classes each day in the Wesley Memorial building, and she brings to the work this fall the inspiration of a course of lectures she heard this year at the New York chautauqua. She is a graduate of the Physical Training school, of Berlin, Ontario, and she has had experience in Canada and the northwest before coming here.

"The direct purpose of the gymnasium," declares Miss Betzner, "is to give the business woman, the home woman, the overworked woman, the leisure woman rational exercises. Games are good, out of door pastimes are good, but frequently, in both cases, some muscles of the body are overworked and other muscles not called into play at all. Rational exercises equalize the forces, and, therefore, the most helpful.

"Definite sets of exercises are taught and directed in the gymnasium, according to the needs of the members.

"There are the classes in the Swedish gymnastics which are very popular. There are corrective exercises.

Folk and Classical Dancing.

"The folk dancing and classical dancing are very popular, and besides their physical values they are interesting in their expression of the ancient and modern life of these nations with interpretation of their industrial life.

"All directed physical exercises, besides their value from the standpoint of health, are conducive to freedom of action, ease, lightness of motion and vigor and power resulting from an equalized self-control.

Needed—A Swimming Pool.

"How I wish the Young Women's Christian association could have with their gymnasium outfit a swimming pool. No form of exercise is finer than swimming. It brings into play every muscle. Cities not half the size of Atlanta have swimming pools for the recreative moments of women.

"Atlanta women need one, and I believe that nothing would give more real pleasure to our women. We have at the gymnasium shower baths, hot and cold, but we must have the swimming pool."

Lecture on Music to Be Given at the Capital City Club

At the Capital City club, where there have been featured from time to time men celebrated in every line of progress and achievement, will be presented on the evening of the 21st something of a novelty in a lecture on music from the practical and progressive viewpoint.

The theme, vital as it is growing to be in the interest of the south, has hitherto been handled purely from the artistic side, and that but seldom and without direct aim.

A different program is that of John C. Freund, one of the oldest, most prominent and representative men in the affairs of music, from the professional, trade and artistic standpoint now before the American public.

Music critic, editor and publisher, his career, as The New York Times recently said, has been contemporaneous with and part of the great rise of the musical industries in this country, as well as of the development of musical culture in which he has had a prominent share.

In recent years he has come prominently before the public as the editor of The Music Trades, a leading paper in the musical industries, which he has founded, and also as the founder and editor of Musical America, which is recognized, both here and abroad, as a standard musical newspaper.

Only recently he made a sensation, when, at the convention of musicians and music teachers of New York state at Saratoga in June, he gave out figures, based on careful research and on his experience in the musical field of over forty years, which showed that there is annually expended in this country for music of all kinds, exclusive of the musical comedies, which are generally classed with the drama, the enormous sum of $600,000,000, which is more than the money spent on the postal service and on the army and navy combined, and is almost as much as the value of the hay crop, the leading crop of the country.

His appearance in Atlanta will be under the auspices of the Atlanta Musical association, and one feature of his address will be to show the wonderful advance of the south in the last decade and what the south means to the future progress of the country, not only in a material, but in an artistic sense.

Her Work Promises Success as Singer

Miss Marion Vaughn

Youth, health, voice, ambition, temperament, beauty—a goodly portion of all these is essential to the career of a singer. But what a future confronts the girl who may be fortunate enough to possess them! And, on the other, what a responsibility is hers to multiply the talents given her; to prove her worthiness of the endowment!

Miss Marion Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Vaughn, is an Atlanta girl, who has the material to promise real achievement as a singer, while the prominence of her family and her own popularity in the younger set render more than usually interesting her determination to "take music seriously."

Her work is only just begun but augurs rapid progress, in that she has naturally the kind of tone production which needs less of correction than of development. Even her portrait denotes that she possesses physical poise, an attribute which belongs only to the woman who has that greater faculty—mental command. Because temperamental freedom itself, to carry its full force, must have the ballast of control.

Already Miss Vaughn can set in vibration one's whole sense of sweetness, and there is an underlying premonition of the creative artist instinct; of power only to be made conscious of itself.

Georgia Minervas to Talk of Many Timely Topics

If there are any skeptics about the real practical work being accomplished by the organized women of Georgia, invite them to glance over the program which is planned for the annual meeting of the Georgia federation, which will hold this year in Cuthbert. You will note receptions and luncheons and after-dinner speaking on the list, but speakers are limited to time, and subjects are designated so that even at luncheons and banquets business will be attended to.

On the first session of the program you will notice that besides the officers of the club who will speak and the prominent men and women from Cuthbert who will welcome the guests, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Georgia's governor's wife, will bring a message, hers to bear upon the subject of women's accomplishments and the obligation the women should feel to keep up the cultural side of life in music and the other fine arts.

The same evening Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, the president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest women's organization in the world, will speak.

Another session of the program promises an address by the governor of Georgia and reports of the officers of the federation, among these that of the president, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, who is one of the most thoughtful women of the state, and one who has proven her splendid qualities of leadership.

Lipscomb, the director of the Tallulah Falls Industrial School for Mountain Children, this school the only one in the country actually built, owned and maintained through the efforts of a state federation, will make a report.

That splendid work done by the club women in student aid, through which young women are enabled to obtain scholarships, paying for their tuition afterwards, will be told by Mrs. H. B. Wey.

"The Problems and Progress of the Rual Schools of Georgia" will be the subject of an address by that brilliant and gifted pedagogist, Miss Celeste Parrish, of the state department of education.

Mrs. Charles J. Haden will tell what the club women have done and will do in the matter of legislation.

The subject of the conservation of health and how women can help it will be discussed by Dr. Caroline Geisel, of Battle Creek, Mich., who is a member of the health committee of the general federation.

Other Speakers.

Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb will make an address on the subject, "Some Danger Signals to Women's Organizations," and "The Influences of Literature and the Drama Making Through Women's Organizations" will be the subject of an address by Mrs. William C. Spiker, president of the Drama league, of Atlanta.

Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, of Rome, Ga., will talk on timely topics, bringing to the subject her experiences in club life, and the vice presidents of all the club districts will bring messages from every club in their districts.

Morgan, of the promotion department of the Southern railway, will tell the club women how they can help their dairymen produce a cleaner and better quality of milk.

Secretary and Mrs. Bryan Entertained at Grove Park

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Seely have had as their guests at Grove Park, Asheville, for the past three days Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, for whom many brilliant entertainments have been given.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Seely gave a reception at Grove Park in honor of the secretary and Mrs. Bryan, to which 300 guests were bidden. They were received in the drawing rooms, which had to enhance the beauty of their decoration, woodland bamboo and the vivid tinted fall flowers which make of Asheville at this season a veritable garden of flowers.

Music in the rotunda resounded, and groups of handsomely gowned women walked through the various apartments, seeing from every window the wondrous beauties of the mountains, which can be seen long after twilight in the lights of the afterglow.

The height of the golf season at Grove Park has brought there well-known people from all parts of the country, many of these being among the guests invited by Mr. and Mrs. Seely to meet Mr. and Mrs. Bryan.

MISS ANNIE JOHNSON,

THEY GUARD YOUR FIGURE, HEALTH & PURSE

When You Buy a Nemo
Be Sure You Get a Nemo!

ONCE more we are compelled to sound a note of WARNING. Unscrupulous manufacturers still persist in trying to palm off, upon the unwary, VASTLY INFERIOR IMITATIONS of Nemo features and fabrics—spurious "supporting" and "reducing" corsets," elastics that rip—in the hope that you won't know the difference. Original Nemo inventions and trade-marks—even our "ads" and illustrations—are copied, with the obvious intent to deceive you.

BE A WISE WOMAN! Don't fall into the trap! If you seek genuine Nemo style and comfort, REFUSE all corsets that do not bear the trade-marks "NEMO" and "LASTIKOPS."

You should strongly RESENT all attempts to sell you imitations of the Nemo, for such an attempt is nothing less than an attack upon your health, your figure and your purse.

Here's a Good Example

No. 512—The newest LASTIKOPS Corset, for extreme and comfortable reduction below the waist. Very low bust, with Nemo "bridge"—front steels won't "dig in" above the waist-line. Skirt—extra-long; semi-elastic bands of Lastikops Webbing reduce hips and thighs; Lasticurve-Back, of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth. The triple reduction when you stand, gives triple expansion when you sit. And the elastics stay elastic. Finest white coutil; sizes 20 to 30 ..... $5

This corset will OUTWEAR any three corsets made with the same old unreliable elastics that are used in all imitations of the Nemo.

Preserve your figure; guard your health and your purse. Ask for the Nemo—and GET it. For all figures—$3.00 up.

NEMO HYGIENIC FASHION INSTITUTE

Bulletin No. 35

What's that?

You "didn't know there was any difference in elastics?"

Well, that's not our fault. We've spent thousands of dollars trying to make you understand that the patented Nemo semi-elastic fabrics, Lastikops Webbing and Cloth, are the only elastics in existence that don't "give out."

The Next Time

—you buy a corset made with elastic gores or bands, look for the trade-mark LASTIKOPS. If you don't find it, don't buy the corset.

Be A Wise Woman!

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

(From the Beauty Seeker.)

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will gradually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding freckles, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Instantaneous results are secured.—(Adv.)

Operations Avoided

Thousands of surgical operations are performed every year in our great city hospitals upon women afflicted with serious female troubles. Sometimes the operations are successful and sometimes they are not; sometimes they are necessary, many times they are not. It is safe to say that a very large percentage of surgical operations for female troubles may be wholly avoided. This statement is amply proven by hundreds of letters constantly being received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock of Paw Paw, Mich., relates her sad experience, which is only one of thousands that are constantly occurring. Had she taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at first, as she finally did, her dreadful hospital experience would have been avoided.

Here is her own statement: PAW PAW, MICH.: "Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and finally sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks, and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advise my friends who have any female complaint to try it."—MRS. ORVILLE ROCK, Paw Paw, Mich.

If you are ill don't drag along until you are advised to have an operation, but remember that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills and has saved a vast army of women from surgical operations. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not at least give this famous medicine a trial.

A HANDSOME REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person who will prove that any of our testimonial letters constantly being published in the daily newspapers are not genuine and truthful, or that any of these women were paid in any way to give their testimonials or that the letters were published without their permission or that all the original letters did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

SAVANNAH SOCIAL NEWS

Savannah, Ga., October 11.—(Special Correspondence.)—Many weddings have made this week interesting here. The marriage of Miss Mary Lee Nugent to Mr. J. Frank McCarthy took place Monday morning at a nuptial mass at St. Patrick's church, with Miss Anne Roe Nugent as maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, Mr. Henry McCarthy, as best man. A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nugent, and Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy left on the morning train for Atlanta and the north.

Another prominent Catholic wedding took place the next morning at the Sacred Heart church when Miss Frances Anita Rossignol was married to Mr. John Read Lovett. This ceremony was also performed at a nuptial mass. Miss Frances Adams, the bride's niece, and Natzol Nungezer, were children in the wedding party, and Mrs. J. M. Culpepper of Gainesville, was matron of honor. The bride had no other attendants. Mr. Thomas L. McCarthy acted as Mr. Lovett's best man, and the ushers were Messrs. William A. Howland, Joseph Rossignol and Richard Welch. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rossignol and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Dempsey of Augusta.

The marriage of Miss Frances Rvals Whatley, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. G. B. Whatley, to Mr. Willard K. Gould, of Titusville, Fla., took place Tuesday morning and was a very quiet one, for which no cards were issued. A third Catholic wedding of the week was that of Miss Mae G. Palmer to Mr. Leonard Calvert Farrar, a former Virginian, now of New York. This took place very quietly Wednesday afternoon in the Sacred Heart church with Miss Nellie Lyons as maid of honor and Mr. Lucius A. Palmer as best man.

The marriage of Miss Carrie Lee Stubbs to Mr. James Norton Christian took place in Wesley Memorial church Wednesday evening and was the largest event of the kind this week. Miss Roberts Stubbs was maid of honor and Miss Agnes Christian, of Columbus, the Misses Bessie and Maude Stubbs of Macon and Miss Madge Hicks, of Savannah, bridesmaids. Mr. John Turner was best man, and Mr. Fred Woods, Mr. Charles Solomon, Mr. Elton Sauls and Mr. William Gignilliat, ushers. A special musical program on the organ was given by Miss Addie Mae Gibson, an intimate friend of the bride.

Much social interest here surrounds the marriage of a former Savannahan, Mr. Edward Karow, to Miss Mabel Veeder, daughter of Mrs. A. G. Veeder, of Schenectady, N. Y. Miss Veeder has visited here. There will be no cards to the wedding, which will take place November 7, at the home of the bride. Mr. Karow's mother and his sister, Miss Dorothea Karow, who will be one of the debutantes of this season, will leave early in November to attend the wedding, and Mr. Karow and his bride will visit here about Thanksgiving time, on their wedding trip.

One of the fashionable circles of King's Daughters, composed of the younger society girls "The Elizabeth Butler Circle," will give a cabaret show for the benefit of their children's hospital fund. The same circle gave a cabaret last spring with brilliant success, many clever and well-known amateurs taking part in the songs and dances. Miss Janet Menzies is president of the circle, Miss Mary Shotter, vice president, Miss Ernestine Cutts, treasurer, Miss Carolyn Myers, assistant treasurer, Miss Patience Barrow, secretary.

The marriage of Miss Mae G. Palmer to Mr. Leonard Calvert Farrar, of New York, took place Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church. The ceremony was a simple one and only members of the family and a very few intimate friends were present. Pink roses adorned the altar. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Frank Palmer, Jr., of New Orleans, and was preceded by her maid of honor, Miss Nellie Lyons. Mr. Farrar's best man was the bride's brother, Mr. Lucius A. Palmer. The Rev. Father Bernard, O. S. B., rector of the Sacred Heart church, performed the marriage services. The bride wore a very lovely gown of white lace, with a touch of pearl embroidery in the bodice. Her becoming hat was of white lace with a white plume caught around the crown. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride's roses, with maidenhair ferns. Her maid of honor was gowned in white crepe with accordion plated tunic and wore a hat of white tulle. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies and white snapdragon.

Mrs. Palmer, the bride's mother, was gowned in black charmeuse with lace. Immediately after ceremony the bridal party and members of the family were entertained by Mrs. Palmer at her home in Bull street. Pink roses adorned the drawing room, and in the dining room the bride's table, with the heartshaped wedding cakes, was charmingly arranged, with a handsome lace luncheon cloth over pale green, and in the center a vase of Easter lilies and white roses. Everything was in white and green and the effect was very dainty and exquisite. The wedding gifts were shown in the drawing room and included many handsome pieces of silver and glass. Among them was a chest of flat silver from the bride's mother, and a set of silver carvers from her brother.

"GETS-IT" Is a Wonder for Corns

You never used anything like "GETS-IT" for corns, before. You're sure at last that every stubborn corn that you've tried so long to get rid of is a "goner." You apply "GETS-IT" in 2 seconds, that's all. "GETS-IT" does the rest. There's no more fussing, no more bandages to fix, no more salves to turn the flesh red and raw. No more plasters to get misplaced and press on the corn. No more "pulling," no more pain, no more picking and gouging, no more razors.

"GETS-IT" stops pain, shrivels up the corn, and the corn vanishes. "GETS-IT" never fails, is harmless to healthy flesh. Warts, calluses and bunions disappear.

Will Be Married Soon

NEW CREMATORY SHUT DOWN AGAIN

Mayor Woodward Declares That He Is More Convinced Now Than Ever That the Plant Is Worthless.

Because of another break in the auxiliary machinery, Atlanta's new $276,000 crematory was shut down again Saturday morning. As the result of the damage, Chief John Jentzen, of the sanitary department, ordered the wagons to dump garbage on the vacant property adjacent to the crematory site. Eleven engineers connected with the office of the New York Destructor company, are in Atlanta, trying to repair the plant.

Councilman Claude L. Ashley, chairman of the sanitary committee, stated Saturday that the break was caused by the burning out of the auxiliary machinery. Councilman Ashley, himself an expert engineer, says that the trouble with the plant is that the machinery was not properly installed.

W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales engineer, who is in Atlanta looking over the plant, says that the close-down is only temporary. He predicted that the plant will be in operation again in twenty-four hours.

Mayor Woodward says that the plant has operated forty days since its completion. He declares that he is more convinced now than ever that the plant is worthless.

The city has been imposing a penalty of $25 for every day since July that the plant has been held from the city. The city has been paying the Destructor company twenty-five cents a ton to burn garbage pending the test.

This year council authorized the payment of $125,000 on the plant, and agreed to pay the remaining $135,000 next year.

SUB-COMMISSION WILL RECOMMEND TEXTBOOKS

Five Practical Educators Chosen for Work—Must Adopt Uniform High School Books.

In a session lasting until nearly 2 o'clock yesterday, the state board of education, sitting as a school book commission, selected five members of a sub-commission and two alternates, who with advise the board in the selection of text books to be adopted in the state public schools. Following is a list of those chosen:

L. F. Elrod, superintendent of the Jackson county schools, Jefferson; J. M. Collum, principal of the Third District Agricultural school, Americus; Jason Scarboro, superintendent of city schools, Tifton; E. B. Gresham, superintendent of the Burke county schools, Waynesboro; and G. W. Brindle, a country school teacher, of Surrency; alternates, J. R. Campbell, principal of the town school, Forsyth; and J. Harris, superintendent of city schools, Rome.

Four Ballots Taken.

Ten nominations were placed before the board and four ballots were taken before the sub-commission was selected. Under the law the sub-commission must be composed of practical educators, all actively engaged in educational work either as county superintendents, city superintendents or teachers of grade schools.

The sub-commission will meet with the state board at its next meeting in Atlanta, October 25, and must have their reports ready to submit by November 5. They are not required to meet together themselves, but must submit individual reports in writing to the state board.

High School Texts.

Another matter which the board had up for consideration was the selection of uniform texts for high schools. This is a function which some of the members of the board did not care to assume unless the law made it obligatory.

Attorney General Thomas S. Felder was called into conference with the board. He gave as his opinion that the new law was mandatory and that uniform high school texts must be selected for such high schools in the state as are now receiving state aid. This, of course, does not include the high schools belonging to city systems.

Georgia Chamber of Commerce to Launch Vigorous Campaign; Fund of $50,000 to Be Raised

The executive committee of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce has just closed a contract with the Wilson-McKeand company, Detroit, Mich., the purpose of which is the completion of the organization of this body along thoroughly up-to-date lines.

A. W. McKeand and L. E. Wilson, the leading members of this firm, are thoroughly known to the commercial secretaries of Georgia as men of large and successful experience. Mr. McKeand has recently been in the state for the purpose of organizing a board of trade at Gainesville and the Griffin and Spalding County Chamber of Commerce. This company is also well known in Augusta and Athens. Associated with them will be about ten other men of experience along the various lines of commercial organization work.

The term of the contract covers a period of four months, during which time this company will undertake not only to secure an individual membership of 5,000, including representative men from every part of the state and the co-operation of all the local trades bodies already organized, but will also undertake the organization of trades bodies in as many as practicable of the counties of the state that have not as yet a local organization of this kind.

Up-to-Date System Planned.

The important part of the work of this company will also be the installation of a thoroughly up-to-date system of work for the Georgia Chamber of Commerce based upon the experience of other state organizations.

Under the leadership of Charles J. Haden, president, Atlanta, and Charles D. McKinney, acting secretary-manager, Decatur, the Georgia Chamber of Commerce has alreayd secured the cooperation of thirty local trades bodies, including Macon, Columbus, LaGrange, Albany, Waycross, Morgan county, Clarkston, Decatur, Lithonia, Kirkwood, Springfield, Cordele, Bainbridge, Athens, Fitzgerald, Newman, Swainsboro, Brunswick, Clarkesville, McDonough, Perry, Ocilla, Dublin, Camilla, Barnesville, Americus, Jesup, Washington and Sylvester.

A number of other local organizations have assured the officers of the chamber of commerce of their support later on.

New Members Coming In.

Several hundred individuals have already become members of the state chamber. New membership cards are being received every day from farmers, business and professional men of the state to whom letters have been addressed soliciting their membership.

Special effort has been made in the past two weeks to obtain 1,000 charter members, and it is hoped that this will be accomplished before the first of November, on or about which time the application for a charter will be made in accordance with instructions of the convention at Macon on September 16.

Raoul Foundation Hopes to Sell 2,000,000 Red Seals

The W. G. Raoul Foundation, now in charge of the fight against tuberculosis in the state, has announced that the sale of Christmas Red Cross seals this year will be started within the next month, and that the Associated Charities has set 2,000,000 seals as the mark this year, as against 770,000 sold last year.

The foundation, which has just opened offices in the Hurt building, will extend the anti-consumption war in this state on broader lines, than it has been conducted in the past, receiving the assistance of the Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis society.

The purpose of the Raoul Foundation is toward the organization of the entire state into a compact fighting force against the evils of tuberculosis. The trustees o fthe foundation have elected Bernard Suttler, the well-known Atlantan, chairman. He has secured the services of Dixon Van Blarcom, lecturer, for the National Tuberculosis society, who is in Atlanta at present, and will devote himsel for the next two or three weeks to the organization of the various state anti-tuberculosis societies.

Women of Atlanta Asked to Discuss School Needs

"I hope that all the women of Atlanta interested in the welfare of the public school system of Atlanta will be present at the meeting of the executive board of the city federation, which will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock, in the Atlanta Woman's club," said Mrs. Charles Haden when asked yesterday if the meeting called by her Monday was open to the public.

"The purpose of the meting is not to criticise or to condemn, but rather to consider how we, the women, may help to work out the problems which confront the school system at present. I have invited the woman's visiting committee of the board of education to be with us, also the members of the board of education, and the mayor and council, for I feel sure that with a clear understanding of the situation now existing in the schools all factors can work the better together.

"I have been in consultation with the various leaders in our federated organizations, and I have asked representation from among the women in every ward in the city. The school system is such a common and vital cause, I believe that when we get all the women interested they will interest the men who are indifferent citizens and that out of this very situation, which seems complex now, there will be many good results.

"I would appreciate it if those friends who are coming to the meeting will come prepared to speak out; also that they will ask questions when they desire information. I have succeeded in gathering from various interested sources much valuable information, and the meeting will bring out much that will be helpful."

BLACK SHOOTS POSSE SEARCHING BROTHER

Two Negroes Then Make Escape After Four Lavonia Citizens Have Been Wounded.

Lavonia, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Hack Curry, colored, shot into a posse of white citizens Friday night, hitting four and seriously but not dangerously wounding George Crawford.

Hack's younger brother had been before the mayor for assault and was sentenced to sixty days on the streets. Young Curry dashed away from the police as soon as sentence was pronounced. Hack, the older brother, resented the sentence of his younger brother and shot into the posse while they were searching for the younger brother.

The shooting was with a double-barrel shotgun. The black fled afterwards and has not since been heard from. Blood hounds were secured, but failed to trail him. Nothing has been heard of either of the Curry negroes.

A reward has been offered by the city for Hack. He is a desperate character, having already served a sentence in the penitentiary. Curry cursed the whites as he shot from a cotton patch near the Curry home. Mayor Dortch was with the posse and received a slight wound on a finger. The whites were not armed and trouble was unexpected.

DIDN'T LIKE DANCE.

An audience of Bellwood avenue citizens failed to appreciate the twinkling toes and Spanish melody of lustrous-eyed Tedra Mitchell, of the Mitchell clan, when she gave an impromptu performance at Bellwood and Ashby streets Friday night, where her clan has pitched its tents.

Also Judge Preston, of police court.

Tedra is a dark and handsome creature with flashing black eyes and raven hair. There was a little celebration of the Mitchell clan in their camp Friday night, and Tedra, the most accomplished of her nomad family, was called upon to dance. She did. Bellwood immediately began to raise a howl, for Tedra's audience, who admitted in court of having drunk much beer, expressed its appreciation boisterously.

Witnesses testified that when the noise of applause would cease, Tedra would raise her voice in Spanish tunes, which would call forth equally as much applause as her dancing. The voice and song were alright, the witnesses said, but Bellwood didn't relish the Mitchell clan's particular style of laudation.

Tedra M. Mitchell—leader of the clan—Steve, Will and Pedro Mitchell were all brought to police headquarters, where they later gave bond. Fines of $5.75 were imposed.

New Law Firm.

Cornelia, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Judge J. J. Kimsey, former judge of the northeastern circuit and one of the best known lawyers in this part of the state, has formed a partnership with Colonel Sam Kimsey, of this place, and will enter into the active practice of law at once. They have secured a suite of offices in the Cornelia Bank building, where they are placing their library and general offices.

WARM CONTEST LIKELY ON INTERURBAN RATES

Arkwright Denies People Were Misled—Citizens Say Proposed Fares Extortionate.

There is every indication that the hearing to be given by the railroad commission on rates for the new Stone Mountain electric interurban line next Tuesday will be the most warmly contested which has been before the commission in a long time.

President Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, indignantly denied yesterday the charge that the people living along the new line had been misled by false promises when the railroad sought to obtain its right-of-way. He also denied that the rates charged would be more than the Georgia railroad, the latter being 2½ cents per mile, while the rate his company proposed to charge was approximately 2 cents.

Say Proposed Rates Extortion.

On the other hand, the people of Clarkston, Stone Mountain and other communities along the line assert that the proposed rates are exorbitant and they will make a vigorous fight to prevent the railroad commission from allowing them. In this connection, T. M. Meriwether, of Clarkston, who was in the office of the railroad commission yesterday getting data with which to make the fight, said:

"The proposed rate of the Georgia Railway and Power company from Clarkston to Atlanta is 25 cents. This simply takes us to Atlanta, as the application does not allow for transfers. Now we can buy a Georgia railroad ticket to Decatur for 13 cents, then get on the Decatur line and for 5 cents more go to any part of Atlanta and the suburbs, even to College Park and Hapeville. There is a total of 18 cents, against the 25 cents proposed to be charged to take us to one single point in Atlanta.

Commutation Tickets.

"As to commutation tickets, the Georgia Railway and Power company proposes to charge $8.90 for a thirty-day book, while the Georgia railroad charges only $5.60. Besides this, the Georgia railroad gives a three months' commutation rate of $13. The power company offers no quarterly rate, and its charge for three months would be $17.70.

"Our people feel that these proposed rates are extortionate and we expect to show the commission that they should not be allowed."

Henry Banks, of LaGrange, Ga., has accepted an invitation from Gate City Lodge, No. 2, Free and Accepted Masons, to be present next Tuesday evening and deliver a lecture to the large class of candidates who will receive the Master Mason degree in Masonic temple on that occasion. Mr. Banks is past grand master of Masons of the state of Georgia, and is considered to be one of the brightest members of the craft, and is held in very high esteem, and his lectures on Masonry are most interesting and instructive.

Gate City lodge has issued invitations through its worshipful master, J. LeRoy Duncan, to all the Masons of the city and adjacent towns, and much interest is being manifested in the meeting and a large number of the craft will be present. The lecture will begin at 9 o'clock.

YOUNG BRIDE WANTS OLD SWEETHEART NOW

"I'm Going to Break Up This Marriage and Marry Fred," Says Jessie Gwinn.

"I'm going to break up this marriage and marry Fred," was the declaration of pretty 17-year-old Jessie Brock Gwinn, on learning that her husband, John Henry Gwinn, of 6 Luckie street, who on Monday whirled her away from Fred Bagwell, her fiance, and married her while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brock, and half of the Atlanta detective force were seeking to prevent the affair, was threatening divorce proceedings.

"What she says is right—I'm not talking—I'm not saying anything, but what Jessie says goes," was the comment that young Bagwell made.

The girl-wife was sitting on the front porch of her parents' home at 48 Larkin street, Saturday afternoon as she announced her intention of "straightening things out." A middy blouse and dress above her shoe tops made her a child in looks. She brought one shapely little foot down on the floor with such venemence that the porch swing where Fred had sat and courted her ceased rocking for the moment.

"Papa's going to break up this marriage; he's going to, oh, what is it? Yes, annul it. He can do that, can't he?" she added.

Kiss Causes the Trouble.

On Saturday young Gwinn declared his intention of bringing suit for divorce on Monday, and said as his reason that his bride of less than a week had kissed Fred Bagwell Thursday morning on the street. This kissing both the girl and Bagwell denied.

"I'm little, and I don't know much," said little Mrs. Gwinn, "but I've got too much sense to do a thing like that. I would have at least not kissed another man in public." She laughed as she said this.

The story of the last few days of the seventeen-year-old girl's life is chock full of romance. In eight days she has crowded more into it than some of her less attractive sisters ever do in a lifetime.

On Friday night little over a week ago, she pledged her heart and hand to young Bagwell, who is employed at Benjamin's Pharmacy, on Whitehall street, where she worked as cashier. On Sunday afternoon she refused an automobile ride with Gwinn and worked in the store although it was her "day off."

Later that afternoon Gwinn told her that she had only one day of grace. This declaration proved true when he persuaded her to wed him shortly after noon Monday. By Wednesday Gwinn admitted to his wife with tears in his eyes that he knew she was not happy, and the next day she slipped out of bed at 5 o'clock in the morning and went to the corner store with her sister, Marjorie. There she accidentally met Bagwell.

Then They Separated.

It was from this meeting that Gwinn made the charge of kissing. By Friday a trip to Spartanburg had been abandoned by the young couple and they separated.

"I left him; he didn't leave me," said the young wife. On Monday Gwinn is expected to bring suit for divorce and J. W. Brock intends taking action to have the marriage annulled.

"I loved Fred all along and was simply persuaded against my will to marry John Henry," said the little wife.

"If there was ever any kidnaping done, Gwinn and his friends did it," interposed Mrs. Brock.

Incidentally Mrs. Brock made a plea for different marriage laws.

"If there had been some law requiring the ordinary to wait a week or ten days before he issued the license, my little girl would be happily making her trouseau to marry Fred Bagwell," she said, as tears came in her eyes.

"The ordinary ought not to be allowed to give a license to young folk like these. He ought to have to advertise it for two or three times and let folks know about what was being done.

"But Fred's stuck by Jessie like a man and Gwinn has said some mighty low down things about her and it seems to be the only thing to make her happy would be to annul the hasty wedding and let her marry the right man. My little girl's going to be happy in the end, we're going to see to that," the mother concluded.

Groom Secures Attorneys.

Gwinn has secured the services of Attorneys Munday and Cornwell to represent him in the matter. He alleges that he was "doped" at the time his young wife left him Thursday morning. He also hints that the Brock family had a great deal to do with her leaving his side then.

The matter now is at a standstill. The courts must act. Gwinn and the girl both admit that there is no chance for them to live together any longer and the Brock family talk of a restraining order from superior court to keep Gwinn from coming to the premises.

"I might not have been left after all like the newspapers said on Monday," was the only other comment that young Bagwell made outside of his statement that "whatever Jessie says is so, and you can take her words as mine."

PROTEST DELAYING ERECTION OF STAND

James E. Belcher, representing a delegation of citizens from the third ward called on President J. O. Cochran, of the park board, to protest against delaying the erection of the new $10,000 refreshment stand in Grant park.

Mayor Woodward, at the last meeting of the board, declared that inasmuch as the board did not have the money to build the stand this year the contract could not be made and carried over into 1914. President Cochran endeavored to have the work started over the protest of the mayor, but he was not sustained, a majority of the members taking the position that Mayor Woodward could refuse to sign the check to pay for the work and the board would be up against a legal proposition.

It was the aim of President Cochran to spend $2,500 on the work this year, and pay the remainder in 1914.

Mayor Woodward stated Saturday that he is in favor of the rebuilding of the stand, but he says it must be done in a legal manner.

"Let the board get the money next year and carry out the contract in a legal and regular manner," the mayor said.

PRAIRIE DOGS GIVEN TO GRANT PARK ZOO

The latest addition to the Grant park zoo is a pair of prairie dogs, a gift from B. M. Dickey, of Electra, Texas. They arrived Friday, and a specially designed wire cage, with concrete flooring, has been prepared for them.

Five years ago a pair of prairie dogs burrowed through the ground under their cage at the zoo and tunneled a distance of more than 500 feet before coming to the surface, and the new cage has been designed with a view to preventing a similar escape of the new arrivals.

Catarrh Victims Fearfully Nauseating to Those Who Are Near Them

The Positive Cure for Catarrh Is the Gauss Treatment—A Free Trial to Prove It Is Sent to All Who Write for It

There is nothing so nauseating as to have to sit next to a gagging catarrh victim or to talk to one of them and have whiffs of bad catarrh breath constantly blown into your face. No man or woman suffering from catarrh can avoid these things, because it is a part of the catarrh itself though the victim may not realize or know that his very presence carries with it a certain garbage atmosphere. You can't smell your own breath and you seldom smell your own smell.

The constant spitting and hacking and nose-jerking is enough to make even the members of one's own family breathe a sigh of relief when the hawker closes the door behind him. Love itself wavers and disgust forbids the kiss. And out of regard for the afflicted one little mention of his pollution is ever made to his face and he must rely on his own misery and such plain talk as is contained in this page to reach him and to cure him. There is a cure for this pestilence within the reach of everyone. It was not always so. Catarrh has raged fiercely through the years like a firebrand and in the eagerness to quench it many useless things were given out as cures but it remains now after the slow process of experimentation and discovery to offer the positive real cure which has been born of ceaseless searching and common sense.

Thousands Praise Gauss

This is the Gauss Combined Treatment for Catarrh. The story is told over and over again a thousand times of the lost birthright of health restored of the happiness caused of the release from a degrading pestilence and of hope and comfort and sleep returned by the use of this wonderful simple Gauss treatment. It must be true. There are heart stories from all over the land that bubble up from gratitude. They tell us nothing else can equal the misery in which catarrh plunges the danger it brings the deaths it causes and then again there are the pictures painted in these letters of happiness and health redeemed lost energy restored and ambition reclaimed.

Sniffler Chased Out of Meeting

Enraged Audience Roughly Handles Gagger Who Interrupts Speech.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 19.—During a public primary meeting here today a middle-aged man in the audience who was fumbling a rolled-up handkerchief in his hand, persistently sniffling and pulling his nose during the delivery of a speech was forcibly ejected from the assembly hall. Cries of 'Kick him out' and 'Choke the lobster' interrupted the proceedings and finally resulted in a grand rush for the nose-puller by some of the enraged hearers. He was grabbed by the coat collar and unceremoniously and swiftly moved toward the door.

When the man first sat down and began loudly tearing out a throat-hawk the audience shifted nervously. After continuing the draw-rattle of his catarrh through one of the most stirring parts of the speech the audience gave vent to its feelings. He was roughly hauled on the way out and sustained several severe bruises. He was taken to the county hospital.

It is such occurrences as these which make the catarrh victim one of the despised of his race. He can't help show his disease. If this man had simply spent a few moments time to send to C. E. Gauss for a package of the wonderful Gauss Catarrh Treatment, he never would have suffered such an indignity as being kicked out of a public meeting.

Catarrh Kills Thinking Power

Gradual Clouding of the Brain and Loss of Memory Inevitable Result of Catarrh

Catarrh anywhere in the head or throat or ear is right next to the brain. The catarrh germ grows fast, does an enormous amount of damage in its burrowings into bone and flesh and is difficult to destroy. There are thousands of little nerves that run from all parts of the face and head to the brain. Some of these little nerves have to pass through probably a mass of catarrhal inflammations on the road to the brain. When they do they are weakened and sometimes destroyed.

What affects the nerves is bound to affect the brain and when the nerves are deadened by constant catarrhal discharges there is bound to be a certain torpor or stupidity brought about in the brain of the victim. Thus follow sleeplessness inability to think clearly or to connect ideas, loss of memory, lack of concentration, lack of presence of mind and a wandering of thought.

If any man or woman imagines that those things can't affect their earning capacity, their cheerfulness and the esteem which their friends have for their brightness they have little realization of the necessity of keeping the mind always clear. That is all there is to life.

When it takes such a comparatively short time to cure this terrible disease by the Gauss common sense treatment and regain the pep and brilliancy of the normal brain there is no good reason why one should not spend the two or three minutes it takes to cut out the coupon below and send it to C. E. Gauss and have him prove to you that he is right and that he positively cures catarrh. The coupon below mailed to us will bring you back by return mail a package of the wonderful Gauss Treatment. It costs you it does not think. Address C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich.

Seek Divorce; Can't Stand Catarrh

Wife Says It Is Either Separate or Die in Disgust

Lincoln, Neb., September 19.—Henry O. Rasmussen it is reported is to file suit for divorce because his wife can no longer endure a catarrhal affliction of which Rasmussen is said to have been a victim for the last two years.

Mrs. Rasmussen says that no woman with any shadow of self respect would consent to be in constant association even with a man she loved who was afflicted in the manner she states. She says she regrets the publicity attached to a suit for divorce but that it is either that or simply lie down and die of disgust.

Plain language is the only thing to use in trying to deal with such an affliction as catarrh. The fact is plain. Here is a man in all other respects robust, vigorous and lusty man blessed with a paying bustness a happy home and a faithful wife suddenly stripped of all that makes life worth living with the love of a true woman ruined in his own disease. Picture to yourself what happens when a catarrh victim comes home from work—the face of his gentle mate turning away from a foul-breathed kiss, the rack and grug and burr, and the spitting and hawking in handkerchief and cuspidor every few minutes.

Makes Home Miserable

What happens to the table when the catarrh gag comes on (and a man can't eat and pull his nose at the same time) we will not mention. What happens after such a meal in the sitting room or dressing room or bathroom or the stairs anywhere and everywhere with a hawk hawk, hawk can be imagined. What happens when the victim almost leans on top of the cuspidor in the presence of members of the family and hawks and jerks with twisted face is a subject merely to be mentioned. What happens during the sporting hours of the night with a foul snuffling, odor wafting about in the closed room we can easily picture.

And add to it all the misery of the miserable man himself. Is it any wonder that divorce is seized upon as a cure.

The Gauss Treatment would at once remedy all these horrible phases. If left to C. E. Gauss Mrs. Rasmussen would have no reason for getting a divorce. There are cases which though they have their humorous angles after all make or unmake the happiness of us all. If you have catarrh in any form cut out the coupon below and mail it to C. E. Gauss, 184 Main street, Marshall, Mich., and be cured.

DEAFNESS CURED BY GAUSS

When I wrote to you for your sample I was so deaf in either ear that I had to press a watch hard against them to hear a watch tick. But after taking your course of treatment my hearing came back and I can now hear the same watch tick fifteen feet away. Leon R. Atkin, Box 487, Petoskey, Mich.

Confessions of A Catarrh Victim

Some of the Experiences That Catarrh Forces on Its Slaves

I get boiling mad when people tell me I've got catarrh. I've had dozens of more acquaintances and especially one young lady who have come up and ventured to tell me something 'for my own benefit.' That expression begins to pall on me—for my own benefit. It seems they all want to tell me the same thing—you ought to try something for your catarrh. I'll tell you how my cousin got cured and every letter used to say he had the worst case he ever heard about.

Now when a friend puts his hand on my shoulder I gulp in preparation for catarrh advice. This gulp is not mere throat action but the swallowing of mucus. Nothing could suit me better than to have the earth open and swallow me up.

I walk along the street close to the curbstone. When I ride on a car I stand on the rear platform rather than sit down inside.

I wish I could talk without having to open my mouth to breathe. I wish that kisses were obsolete. I wish that handkerchiefs could be turned into sheets. I wish that no chair but mine would be placed at the table. I wish that other people were deaf, blind and without noses.

Sniffling and Hawking All Day Long

I wish that I were alone—always alone to hawk and spit when and where I please. I wish that I was my mother's little fairy once more, with my little towsled head that knew not disease lying on her warm shoulder.

Now I feel that I am an outcast. I know what they think of me every one. I know my friends shun me for even dark my old college chum doesn't come around and chat and make any more as he used to do. My acquaintances only say hello and possibly Mrs. Grundy next door and all the other neighbors are talking about how repulsive I am. I see it in the way they look and act.

People I sit next to get up and move somewhere else. People who talk to me turn their heads at an angle. And I'm in pain. It's not one physical pain. It's my mind too that I'm in agony. I can't remember things as I used to. Thoughts slip away from me. I say things that I don't mean and mean things I never say.

My head is thick and my brain is in a fog.

I walk along my work palls on me, my nerves refuse me. That let me go feeling has set in. I relish nothing. I eat, but my appetite has gone. And as I think of my misery I must hawk again. My cough is a little. The ruby has been plucked from my cheek, the flush of my young health is gone. My head is in a fever but my hands are cold and I seem to feel in them the approaching chill of the tomb—I have read of catarrh death and my mother's brother died of the same disease. Come on death and relieve me.

No, my mother comes. Who Gauss, did you say, Mother? Do you think so? I'll try, mother. Yes. If you send for the treatment I'll use it faithfully. I won't let it go a single day without using it. I'll prove it in every case do just as I'm told, send on the coupon today. Perhaps after all there is a cure and still one person in the world to live for one who will love you in spite of catarrh, your mother.

Gauss Catarrh Treatment is the simplest and surest in the world. It cures catarrh on a common sense plan, and Gauss proves it. Cut out the coupon below and mail it today and get a free treatment of the Gauss treatment and prove to your own satisfaction that it will cure you. Whether you have catarrh slightly or seriously it may be the means of brightening your life now overshadowed by catarrh. Send coupon to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich.

Eminent Doctor Says Blindness Due to Catarrh

(Associated Press Dispatch.)

London, August 6.—Dr. H. Manning Fish of John Hopkins declared at the medical congress that most of the blindness in the world is the result of catarrh in the upper nasal cavities or the bony cells composing the roof of the nostrils.

Dr. Fish described his experience in thirty-six cases covering a period of several years, claiming that in each of these immediate improvement of the vision followed the effective treatment of the diseased nasal cavities and advised that in cases of loss of vision following grip, measles, scarlet fever and kindred ailments relief be sought through treatment of the nasal passages of the patients.

Catarrh is caused by a germ which must be destroyed before the catarrh itself can be cured. If not cured blindness may result. An extended history of many extraordinary cures effected by the Gauss treatment will probably be brought to the attention of the next international meeting of the medical congress.

Some Results of Catarrh

Even Slight Cases of Catarrh Have Terrible Consequences

Every case of catarrh of course is not fatal. Nor does every case result in consumption or bronchitis, but nevertheless they are very frequent. No man or woman knows what his or her case of catarrh would lead to. Men of robust health have succumbed to resulting consumption and partial idiocy. Women of strong vitality have become nervous wrecks and victims of bronchitis. Your good health is not always a preventative against the catarrh germs.

The more you feel sure there is no danger of the catarrh resulting in a disease more serious, the more danger there is simply because you will neglect yourself. This happens in hundreds of cases and we see it recorded almost daily in the letters we receive.

If I had only started the cure earlier,' is a very frequent expression showing that our warning is not fanciful but based on fearful reality.

Even slight cases of catarrh may result in nose cancer than which there is hardly a more painful affliction in this world.

Catarrh Fatality Frequent

Some of the frequent results of catarrh are bronchitis, pneumonia, death and decay of bones, loss of thinking and reasoning power, death of ambition and energy, loss of appetite, indigestion, dyspepsia, ulceration, bad breath, raw throat, raw sores in the nose, general debility and sometimes idiocy and insanity.

This is why in the death list you do not find a mention of fatal catarrh, the death is caused not directly by the catarrh itself but by a disease which was caused by catarrh. Medical books and cyclopedias will tell you even more serious news than we will tell you here, probably after reading them you will have a full realization of what it is to have catarrh—a common disease it is true, but with a common result—misery for years if not death.

Cure Is Certain.

You can cure that catarrh, slight or serious, at once and forever by means of the only common sense sure cure for catarrh, Gauss Combined Treatment. We don't ask you to believe it before proving it yourself. Therefore we send you a treatment at our own expense absolutely free to you. When you get it you can prove it all to your own satisfaction. It is without question the greatest catarrh cure on earth. Cut out the coupon and send for the free treatment today to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main St., Marshall, Mich. When you see your catarrh begin to leave, you will appreciate what it is to have a real genuine cure for catarrh that can be relied on. Send the coupon.

An Old Soldier Grateful

Mr. Gauss: I have finished your treatment now, and I am completely cured. My wife says she cannot detect any of it left, and says my catarrh is gone. She ought to know, for she is a graduate nurse. I am as truly grateful to you as any old soldier can be for what your treatment has done for me, and certainly will recommend it to those whom I know are afflicted. You are certainly at liberty to use this if you want to in recommending your treatment to others. W. B. PLUMB.

In the Coils From Childhood

I have suffered with catarrh since I was 4 years old, but it has annoyed me more in the last two years.

I tried everything I read or heard of, but they did me no good and I saw your advertisement in a paper and wrote to you and received a sample package. I was impressed so favorably with the sample that I immediately sent for the full treatment.

I suffered much with the dropping back into my throat and after I had taken the medicine for three or four weeks this nasty sensation entirely ceased and I have never had any return of it. I am now fully cured of my catarrh and I am very grateful to you and your medicine.

I will be very glad to tell anyone whom I think needs it and if you wish to use my name you may do so, as I am so grateful that I wish everybody who needs it would use it, and I am sure that it will cure them. Miss Mattie Drullinger, Birdsells St., South Bend, Ind.

C. E. GAUSS
Mankind's Benefactor.

What I have done for thousands of others I will do for you. I offer you my treatment that will cure catarrh, free of charge. I can do no more—the matter lies entirely with your own good judgment. Catarrh at Meals

Outlawed by Society

Good Appetite and Catarrh Rarely Travel Together.

The limit is the catarrh gagger at the table, the man or woman with an appetite-losing hawk and a hank utterly unmindful of the nausea he causes to other people who are trying not to notice or hear him.

Do you wonder that other people despise this creature? While others have joyously assembled around the board with a delicious mouth watering appetite here comes the hawker with nose jerking grimaces a jerk gurgle in his throat and a balled up handkerchief in his hand. Horrors forget it. Go away and cure that catarrh before appearing at a public table and mingling your bad breath with the scent of steaming tenderloin steak.

If you have nerves, or you believe other people have any you will just stop and look at yourself as you are, and before other people move away from you when they see you coming you ought to run away from them. Go somewhere anywhere just to be alone, and take this page with you cut out the coupon at the bottom and send it now, before you pull your nose again to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich.

Send for Free Trial Treatment.

You will get by return mail a free package of the famous Gauss Combined Catarrh Treatment the only positive cure for even the worst cases of catarrh on earth. Gauss sends you this treatment to prove to you that it will cure you, and it costs you nothing absolutely nothing. Gauss Treatment will save you a world of misery and humiliation and make you instead of an outcast, a welcome soul in the bosom of your own family, and among your friends and acquaintances.

Because you have not gagged at the table yourself before this don't imagine it will not happen at some time or other as long as you have catarrh. Catarrh brings all this just as sure as night follows day. It is only a question of time. Send the coupon.

I Want to Cure You

I only wish I could gather some of my patient together and let you hear them talk. Some of these people had such extreme cases of catarrh that a cure was unknown to them. My treatment not only cured them, but its effect made them feel much healthier.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Common sense wins. Write and ask any of Gauss patients.

"Down in the mouth" can apply to the spirit as well as the catarrh.

All great things are conceived in Sweat. Gauss worked hard and produced a cure that will live after him.

Some would know a great deal more about being able to cure catarrh if they could forget a lot of old ideas they never should have learned.

The reasons of the strongest always yield to the strongest reasons—common sense Gauss Treatment prevails for the same reason.

If the catarrh victim would stick to the treatment as faithfully as the catarrh sticks to him, that disease would probably be as infrequent as the now conquered diphtheria.

There are some people who instead of making the best use of the chances they have for a cure, are always telling of what they might do under happier circumstances. Send the coupon.

CUPID RETURNS.

Mother—How does it happen, Helen, that you have started going with Henry Hawk again? I don't see how you can bear to have him around.

Helen—Oh, you couldn't tell he ever had the catarrh now. He's been taking Gauss' Treatment for over two weeks.

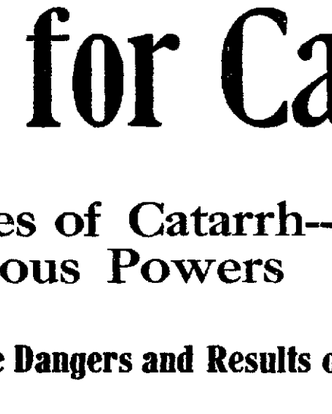

Catarrh Everywhere, Even on Pike's Peak

No Man or Place Is Immune from the Deadly Catarrh Germ

There is no part of the land which is free from catarrh. Altitudes and latitudes have little effect in destroying this omnipresent germ. Many imagine that the climate of the west with its high altitudes and dry atmosphere, tends to prevent catarrh. There are just as many cases in proportion to the population west as east of the Mississippi only the disease is not as severe because of the climatic effect upon the nerves.

Even on Pike's Peak which is over 14,000 feet above the sea level catarrh seemed to attack several of the attaches of the signal station located there some years ago.

No place is exempt, no human soul is immune from catarrh. Don't imagine because you don't live by a lake or river that you can't have catarrh or that you have only a chronic cold when your nose has been stopped up for some time. That is usually the way catarrh starts—with a bad cold.

"Happy Together Once More; Mr. Gauss Has Cured My Catarrh."

Better spend a few days destroying the catarrh germ right from the start than waiting and putting off until you feel droppings in your throat and your nose plugged up.

The Gauss complete treatment will stop it and avoid for you perils of future misery. Cut out the coupon below if you have even a slight cold or touch of catarrh and send it to C. E. Gauss who will send you a free package of the wonderful Gauss treatment so as to prove to yourself its great power.

"If I Had My Life to Live Over."

We can point to hundreds of cases of catarrh that have dragged their bleareyed nose-dripping half deaf victims through fifteen and twenty years of misery. It all started with one little germ. Just one of Gauss Catarrh Treatments for a little while would have killed off Mr. Germ and reclaimed to health and happiness in short order some of the world's best women and bravest men who now dodder about in blank diseased old age or fill some cold graves—food for thought. Think of yourself at 40 or 50 or 60 clutched by catarrh. If you only had your life to live over! A 2-cent stamp would blot out all the misery.

It is not too late. Cut out the coupon below, fill in your name and address, and take courage. Do it willingly and with hope. Mail it to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich., and you will get by return mail a free package of Gauss' Catarrh Treatment to prove that it will cure you.

How to Judge Man's Honesty

The Man Who Lets "You See for Yourself" Is Usually Honest.

Men as a rule are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight and the proof of merit will depend on being able to stand the gleam. There are always men who aim to tear down every good thing and there have been men who set about to ridicule the Gauss Catarrh Treatment, and figuratively tear it into shreds. They turned on the gleam and dissected it. They expected to find mere dross and found gold. So Gauss has been discovered by his enemies.

But regardless of this, all this, if a man will "show the goods' he has willingly and openly and let his patients prove first to themselves by their own senses the value of what he offers them instead of expecting them to take his word for it—there must be something of value in his goods and it must show his intentions to be honest.

Every catarrh victim should make a test of the great Gauss Catarrh Treatment. It is free. All you have to do is to spend a minute or two cutting out the coupon below, filling in with your name and address and send it on to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich. You will get back a package of the Gauss Catarrh Treatment in plain wrapper and under seal with full information and instructions. It costs you nothing and you put yourself under no obligations whatever.

Use it according to instruction, don't expect too much of the treatment you get and it will prove to you that the worst case of catarrh can be cured and that the Gauss Catarrh Treatment can do it.

Thought Wife a Consumptive

Your catarrh medicine is a wonderful medicine. My wife had it so bad everyone thought she had consumption. She used to cough all night and could not sleep at all. One doctor gave her up. He said she would not get cured if she stayed here. I have tried all kinds of medicines and found them no good till I tried yours, and it acted right away. I recommend it to all my friends. You may mention my name if you please, and they can write to me and I will let them know how bad my wife was with catarrh. But she is a well woman once more. W. Thomas, 926 Talman avenue, Chicago, Ill.

"Thank Heavens, We Have Such a Man as Gauss"

There is no case too serious for Mr. Gauss to consider, no case too slight for considerate attention, whoever writes to him receives a prompt reply whatever questions are asked are answered and advice is freely given. It is his liberal treatment of everyone the broad view that he takes of everyone's whims and eccentricities and his sympathy for the afflicted that has so often brought forth in letters received from happy patients all over the land this sentiment 'Thank heavens, we have such a man as Gauss.'

It is not necessary to write a letter in asking for a free treatment. Just cut out the coupon at the bottom of this page and send it to C. E. Gauss, 5184 Main street, Marshall, Mich., and you will receive by return mail in plain sealed wrapper a free package of Gauss' Catarrh Treatment. It will cost you nothing and put you under no obligation whatever. This is to prove to you at once what the treatment will do even in the worst cases of catarrh.

United States Commissioner Heard From

Having been absent for some time, I now take the opportunity of answering your letter. Took the treatment as nearly as I could and would state that I am cured. It is the best catarrh medicine that I have ever taken, having tried everything that I could hear or read of, and I am thoroughly satisfied that it is a genuine remedy for catarrh, and if ever I feel the effects of this disease coming back to me I should immediately order more of your treatment. Your medicine for taking internally I think is the best I have ever used for constipation or indigestion. You are at liberty to use the contents of this letter and any reference made to me will be cheerfully answered. Edward McCagherty, United States Commissioner, Warroad, Minn., Box 1.

And so on down the list. Do you find a mention of catarrh? No, because catarrh as a rule does not directly cause many deaths. But catarrh is indirectly the cause of many deaths. "Died of pneumonia' should better be 'died of pneumonia, caused by catarrh.' The 'caused by catarrh' is left off—what's the use? He's dead anyway. And so catarrh is looked upon as a disease of slight consequence by those who don't know. Over every catarrh sufferer no matter whether he has been suffering a month or five years, there hangs a dark shadow which is pointing with its dark bony finger to the silent way. Will you follow it, or fight it?

The Vogue of Plaid

Not for years has the vogue for plaid been so pronounced as at present. The illustrations show three smart costumes, composed of the popular fabric. The first is a child's frock of serge, with collar, cuffs and loops of black velvet; three narrow patent leather belts add a smart touch to the little costume.

The third figure is garbed in a gown of plain and plaid serge; jet buttons ornament the blouse and cuffs, which flare widely about the hands.

ATLANTA GIRL OF 1913 AS SHE SHOULD LOOK, DRAWN BY FAMOUS ILLUSTRATOR OF FASHIONS

By Isma Dooly.

An illustrator of Fashion, and one who has syndicated her illustrations, is Atlanta's last accomplishment in the world of art. Hazel Miles, of Indianapolis, one of the best known illustrators of fashion in this country, has made her home in Atlanta since last November. In her studio on Ponce de Leon avenue, she has been so busy that she herself scarcely realizes how long she has been here, and not until her booklet in early September was published showing the latest tips on fashion and promising two similar publications a season did Atlanta's patrons of art realize there was a genius in their midst.

True the name Hazel Miles has appeared at the bottom of many of the smartest illustrations which have made the pictorial part of the biggest "ads" in the daily paper, but the author the average observer believed was the product of some syndicate in the east or in Chicago.

This is the pictorial age—the age when everybody demands that everything printed be illustrated. The short story, the long story, the political news story, the last police scandal, the obituary tribute, the report of the preacher's Sunday sermon, all must be illustrated to meet the demand of the age, and the kindergarten theory of presenting the object talked of pushes itself right through every branch of world knowledge.

HAD DARWIN LIVED IN THIS DAY.

Had Mr. Darwin lived in this day there would be no question about the whereabouts of the missing link, its form and manner of being, for there would be pictures of it in every position, in its nursery, in its study, as it walked to church, and interviews with it would have been worked out of the mere pictures of it, and the world would have been the wiser about its real aristocracy.

Indeed the demand for pictorial presentation is so great that there are those that believe they will yet get a peep of the actual apparition of the immortal soul.

With this being the enterprising spectacular spirit of the times, it is not surprising that anything as all important as woman's attire, which has pushed out of the realms of the dressmaking studio and department stores and become the theme for medical directors, moralists and preachers, should demand an artist's stroke on the latest story based upon it.

No amount of reading matter about the kind of heel Madame should have to her shoe, the kind of corset she buys, lingerie she affects, means as much as the little illustration which shows the thing itself, while the display "ad" of the modern moment carries with it a directly impressive picture of the gowns, wraps or hats expoited.

It is the artist's stroke that Hazel Miles gives to these fashion sketches, and though the modish woman tells you it is her own idea, it is from the illustrations in the daily papers that she bases the idea which individualizes her gowns.

ISSUES BOOKLETS ON FASHIONS.

Miss Miles will issue two booklets of her illustrations each season, the first of which appeared in September. These booklets cover every phase of fashion from the baby layette right through to grandma's boudoir gown. It is needless to add that the booklets will hereafter be anticipated by readers of up-to-date fashion literature.

Miss Miles has her studio at 302 Ponce de Leon avenue, and is one of the busiest young people in town. She is a lover of every branch of art, and deplores the fact that there is not an art school in Atlanta, and that this particular branch of art has not had more followers. In the development of her work she will need trained assistance, but she will probably have to secure it away from here, as there are no fashion illustrators among Atlanta's gifted young people. She is compelled to decline patronage every week for lack of time and assistance.

She is a graduate of the art school of the Chicago Museum of Art, she has visited the great studios of the country, and is enthusiastic in her appreciation of Atlanta as a field for artistic endeavor. She is a valuable acquisition to the group of Atlanta's lovers of art, who are making the effort to create a more definite art spirit among the people of the city generally.

I am told the artist in this branch must be ready to anticipate, as well as follow, to interpret and portray, and there are composite requirements which keep the artist on the qui vive at all times for new subject matter.

MUST ANTICIPATE TOMORROW'S STORY.

They can not rely upon the story of yesterday, the fashion of the morning, and the model of a moment ago. They must anticipate the story of tomorrow; portray at high noon the lines of the afternoon model, and suggest the lines of the model of the moment to come.

The pen stroke must be already on the surface of the white paper before the queen of 1913 fashion has said she wanted the particular gown drawn for her. She is followed in her changing wayward spirit by the illustrator, who must be first and foremost a clairvoyant. When the queen decides that her figure will present graceful fullness about the hips, narrowness at the feet, fullness of youthfulness in the face, and an unbroken line from shoulder to waist, the illustrator has drawn the picture and handed it to the monarch of Vanity Fair before the latter makes the actual demand

But all of this leads again to the story of the young artist herself—Hazel Miles.

She visited the opening of an Atlanta modiste who returned from Paris last week, she studied the faces of the women at the various openings. She drew the pictures illustrating this story today—pictures of the Atlanta girl of 1913. I submitted them to the modiste who knows, and I showed them to several dames of fashion and they all confess these are the governing lines of the gowns to make ravisante the belle of this and the coming season.

I call attention here to the chic evening gown in the illustration. The inspiration of it was that shown by an artist modiste. The gown built of flesh pink satin has fullness at the hip line, but narrowness at the feet, though there is enough fullness and length to make the little swirl on the ground. There is tunic of sheerest net over chiffon, bordered with fur, and set above it a garland of little French flowers. The corsage drapery shows the distinct line from shoulder to waist—a chemisette of lace set between the folds at the bust line; a soft tinted flower gives finish, and the sleeves still show the kimono drapery.

SMART COAT HAS WAISTCOAT TO IT.

The other stately figure illustrated covers the same lines of the figure, and the material is of the soft pliable kind that lends itself to the figure. The smart coat has a waistcoat to it, and the hat shows a burst of paradise plumes that ascend from the close fitting velvet hat. The entire costume was inspired by a gown and hat in one of Atlanta's leading department stores.

Hazel Miles with her art, fresh and distinctive, and her energy and industry commendable to see, came to Atlanta and had only presented a few illustrations in the Atlanta market when her fortune seemed made. What Atlanta men had been obliged to get in New York and Chicago, they could get now at home from her. They were quick to see it. Her ability, local at first, pushed out, and soon requests came to her for her work from all over the state and far out of it. She could not meet the demand. There was no one to share the work with her, and in September she organized her own syndicate for fashion illustrating.

She illustrates for Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose Co.

The first store outside of Atlanta to secure her illustrations was that of the Miller company in Knoxville. The Rollman & Sons, Cincinnati's leading store for women, followed, and then came an order from H. P. Wasson & Co., of Indianapolis. Oppenheim-Collins Co., of Newark, N. J., have bought the rights of the syndicate for their Newark and Brooklyn (N. Y.) stores; also Forbes & Wallace, of Springfield, Mass.; Frederick & Nelson, Seattle, Wash.; E. E. Atkinson & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; W. A. Green & Co., Dallas, Texas, and the "Whitehouse," of Spokane, Wash.; The Troy (N. Y.) Times, The Beacon, of Kansas, have secured her work for their advertisers, and illustrations have been sent for individual patrons in St. Louis, Nashville and Philadelphia, and all this business in one month's time. Her second series of illustrations will be published late in October.

Aside from the interest Miss Miles inspires in her achievement, her coming opens a new field of art endeavor in Atlanta. There is demand for the fashion illustrator here, as her success proves, and she needs assistants.

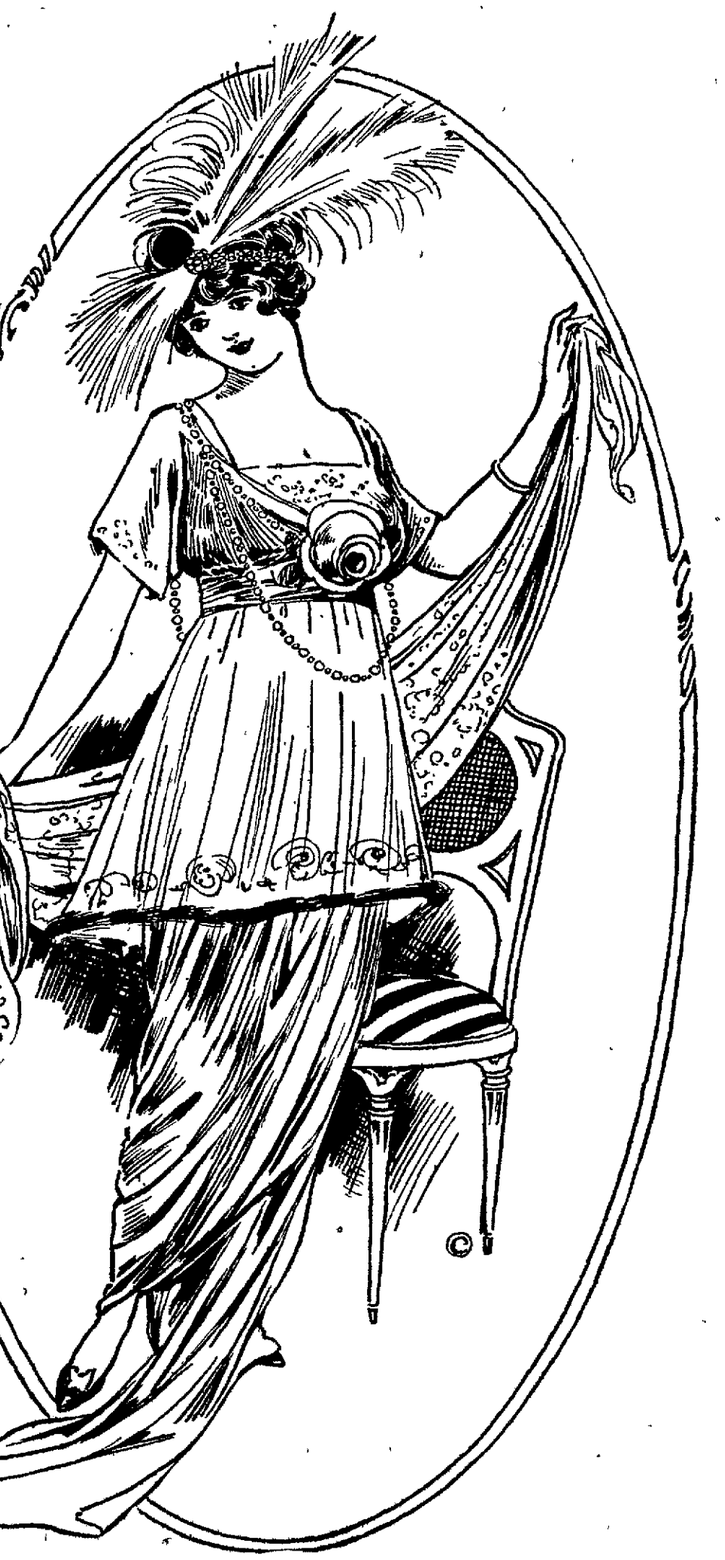

The daily paper more and more demands its individual staff and the corps of writers employed to do syndicate work are in number almost duplicated by illustrators.

With the application for the position to write fashions, a woman must be able to produce her illustrator, if she cannot do it herself.

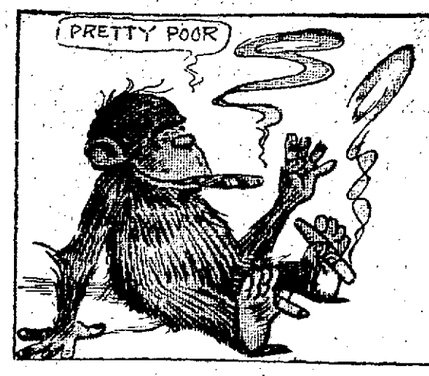

Atlanta Belle of 1913 A Fascinating Creature

The Atlanta belle of 1913 as Hazel Miles, Atlanta's fashion illustrator, sees her, on the street, at a ball, and in her boudoir, will be the most fascinating of creatures. On the street she will wear a graceful garment that will cling about her dainty ankles. Her coat shows a waistcoat, and her hat has a crown of Paradise. At a ball, she will have a swirl of soft material about her high-heeled slippers, a tunic of fur-edged net will hang below the knee over the satin skirt and the bodice will have finish at the waist in a single flower. In her boudoir she will be all in lace-trimmed chiffon, from the upper garment drooping from her shoulders, to the lace-edged garment above her satin slippers. Her boudoir cap will fit close to her head, not altogether hiding stray curls underneath.

Whether she chooses for her gown white or black, purple or green, or tries the faint color of the rose, the orchid or the Enchantress carnation, her smartest gown will have a finish of fur and her hat will fit close to her head. Her dressy shoes will have high heels, and she will walk with a sinewy glide.

By Britt Craig.

Miserable Miss Atlanta!

To be termed slow and unsophisticated by anybody or anything is obnoxious. But by an aggregation such as Miss Winifred Mills Burkholder's Troupe of Wonder Models of Fashion is nothing short of calamitous.

And calamitous, in that particular instance, is mild—yea, exceedingly mild!

Miss Burkholder's Wonders—ravishing beauties every stylish one of them—came to town, admired the tall buildings, the busy streets, the educational and uplifting advantages and the women, but what they had to say of Atlanta's speed and up-to-the-minute men folks wouldn't be used by the chamber of commerce as advertising material.

No one who saw them show Atlanta a thing or two in style and festive air last week need be told that Miss Burkholder's Wonders are real, sure enough wonders. There are eight in all—a veritable harem of beauty that would make any sultan jealous of any collection he might gather.

Their First Visit.

It was their first visit to Atlanta. In fact, it was their first trip south. They had heard a lot of our sunny southland, and, no one nowadays speaks of the south without first mentioning Atlanta. Naturally, they expected much of Atlanta. They expected worlds of things, which included entertainment, pleasure, gasoline, et cetera. All a woman can conceive. It takes no remote imagination or liberal experience to know what that is.

But it unhappily is always the unexpected that happens.

It was Virginia Rappee who spoke first. Virginia is the most fascinating wonder of the eight wonders. It was she who bewildered the gaze of unsophisticated Whitehall street by plunging into its midst clad in her daring Tango skirt, which comes mighty near being no skirt at all, being just as much as the law allows—allowing, of course, that the law has one eye well closed.

She sat dejectedly on a lounge. All about her were gathered Miss Burkholder's wonder girls, each equally as dejected. Despondency was so thick that it could have been sliced in chunks and served to an army.

Full to Find Speed.

"When it comes to speed," spoke Virginia, "this town is on the 'Fritz!' See? 'F-R-I-T-Z!' The combined speed of the whole of it wouldn't put ginger into a grasshopper. We've been here three days—think of it—and the only entertainment we've had the entire time has been . . . I hate to mention it, but you girls remember that little taxi ride we paid for out of our own dear, hard-earned bank accounts?

"True, we gave a tango party to ourselves. The management stopped it. Even locked up the ballroom. Did you ever?

'Shameful!'

'No! Certainly not! Outrageous!"

Miss Rappee generally is known to wear what is known as a "Million Dollar Smile." On this particular occasion it was marked down. She, herself, would have sold it for thirty cents—maybe less.

Over on the bed sat alluring Gertrude McLin. Scotch, dashing, nineteen, and—it will forever be remembered—a perfect blonde. Her chin was in her palms and her soul in the depths.

She spake.

"But they're chivalrous. You'll have to hand it to 'em for that. Everywhere I went they took off their hats and bowed their heads. And they didn't do it to show their original style of hair. Some of them didn't have any. Hair, I mean. They'd walk plumb off the sidewalk to give you the right-of-way.

"What they lack in nerve they make up in courtesy. I haven't seen many men. Nothing much but women. Women, women, loads of 'em. Pretty, too, believe me. They'd make 'Boy Blue's' outfit look like chromos. Enough women to win the ballot. But men? Wonder where they are?"

"Search me. They haven't been around here."

The Harrison Fisher Girl.

There was Lula Monroe, who has posed for Harrison Fisher and whose face has smiled at you from many magazine fronts. She was at the dressing table, cold-creaming a face that would inspire a Raphael, and singing:

"London's dropped its dignity,
So has France and Germany,
All hands are dancing to that
Ragged melody,
Full of originality."

Somebody shied a pillow.

"Don't, Monroe. You make us homesick."

"Well, I can say this much," between dabs of cream, "I saw a club today. Yep! A real club. One man pointed it out to another on the street. I looked up and saw a regular waiter with his head out the window. There was a club, all right. But, for the life of me or anybody else, I have thus far failed to find a clubman. Take back your pillow, Florence, I want a chocolate."

The door opened. In came Florence Temple, as blue as the rest, kimonoed, slippered and some distance from pleasant.

"What? The town?

"Don't do it! It's cruel! The poor place can't help itself. I don't believe in hitting a-body when he's down.

"Don't bear malice. It isn't nice. Besides, it hurts the complexion. I had an aunt who got wrinkles by it.

Politeness A-Plenty.

"Don't knock. Boost! This burg's got plenty of politeness. Chivalry, too. You can't beat it. The men might not have nerve enough to get acquainted, but they're chivalrous. They'd better put it in cold storage while they have it. It doesn't last long, you know, even though it doesn't treat anybody.

"However—comma—I can't say I abhor it."

Helen Patterson is another blonde, and if there ever was a creature more Xantheous, she didn't come by it legitimately. You have to know Helen to appreciate the fact.

"I opine," she mourned, "that this place would be perfectly heavenly for that love in a bungalow stuff with a gas range, but as a place for pleasure—real, luxurious pleasure—it reminds me of Hackensack.

"The folks are perfectly lovable, but they haven't got the courage to get acquainted. I mean—Oh, you know! Women don't bother my mind."

Esther Anderson was curled upon a rug, biting chocolates and philosophizing. She is beautiful enough to make the man who invented the word regret that he didn't invent one more adequate to fit her case.

"Guess what I did today," she chirped. "No, not that. I'm no flirt, understand! Mind, now, or I'll tell tales. I'll show some things that'll make you think I've been reading somebody's mail.

The Gay White Way.

"What I was going to say is this. I got desperate, and, you know, whenever I'm desperate I'm sarcastic. In desperation, I asked one of the page boys downstairs to show me the 'gay white way.' He did. Took me out front and pointed to one of those lamp posts with four big lights on the sidewalk. 'That's it,' he said—seriously, too—'and if it ain't enough, there's some more around the corner.' They must be proud of those white lights—they're so white. Gay, though? Gay as a crutch—no reflection, however, on the crutch."

One needed no divining qualities to detect that Miss Burkholder's wonders did not appreciate Atlanta. But they did. Oh, yes, indeed! Only feminine Atlanta, however. They had as many nice things to say about Atlanta women as a debutante gets on her coming out night—or whatever they call that night they make the first dive into society.

The trouble was, they lacked entertainment, and, worst of all, somebody to entertain them. Whatever—or what little—they got was paid for, as Miss Rappee said, out of their own dear little bank rolls. Once they took an auto ride. The troupe chipped in and paid for it. The only man in sight was the chauffeur. His presence was mercenary.

They had just about as much fun in Atlanta as the star mourner at a funeral. Mankind was an absent figure in their visit. Pleasure absolutely foreign. And, if the truth were known, the whole secret was purely a case of delusion on both the part of Miss Burkholder's wonders and Atlanta mankind.

The Men Didn't Know.

In the first place, Atlanta mankind saw from the very outset that Miss Burkholder's beauties were the aristocracy of showdom. Atlanta mankind wasn't accustomed to taking privileges of aristocracy. Mankind just didn't have the nerve. It never occurred to mankind a moment that Miss Burkholder's Wonders were as eager for entertainment as chorus ticketers.

Therefore, the chevaliers of Peachtree let Miss Burkholder's aggregation be with much wailing and lamentation, and waited patiently for the appearance of showdom's more accessible brollers.

And, on the other hand, Miss Burkholder's Wonders considered Atlanta—being, as it was representative of the south they were seeing for the first time—too chivalrous and aristocratic to entertain even the aristocracy of showdom. They didn't encourage, they didn't invite. They didn't take pains to tempt.

Consequently they were compelled to entertain themselves.

But, even at that, they each and every one grieved the lack of entertainment which even they themselves could purchase. They arrived in town expecting to find a vest pocket duplicate of Father Knickerbocker's gay district—maybe many.

But—

"What have we struck?" chorused the Wonders, "Boston by mistake?"
