

CLAIMS HE FLED TO PROTECT WIFE FROM BETRAYER

By Amazing Tale of Flight From Wife's Childhood Seducer, J. W. Lindsey Secures Freedom in Athens.

HAD BEEN EXTRADITED FROM ALBERTA, CANADA

Mrs. Lindsey Feared Power a Wronged Her When a Girl. Declares Husband in Address to Jury.

Athens, Ga., October 26.—(Special)—Claiming that his wife, ruined while a mere child by her brother-in-law, still feared the power of her alleged seducer, and that he, as her husband, had more than once been forced to give up a good position and flee upon receiving news that her Nemesis was again on her trail, J. W. Lindsey, alias J. C. Moore, arrested in Canada and brought back here under requisition on a charge of larceny after trial, convinced a jury of his innocence and was declared not guilty shortly after midnight this morning.

The trial just completed, involving international questions of law, prosecuted by one of the largest life insurance companies in the world and featured by the defendant's amazing tale of woe and suffering, was one of the most remarkable chapters in the court annals of Clarke county.

As the verdict was given there was a murmur of approval, and spectators and jurors grasped Lindsey's hand and assured him of their high esteem.

Suddenly Left Athens. In explanation of why he had suddenly departed from Athens with his wife last April, giving up a very profitable insurance position here and leaving behind various business obligations, furniture and a new automobile, Lindsey depended on his bare statement.

WOODROW WILSON HERE 20 MINUTES ON WAY TO MOBILE

His Strict Observance of Sunday Prevents the President From Making Speeches in Georgia Cities.

WARM WELCOME GIVEN TO SECRETARY DANIELS

Big Party From Mobile Comes to Atlanta to Escort President to Alabama City for Commercial Congress.

All the intoxicating glory of the highest honor a nation can pay a man and all the responsibilities of deciding the most momentous problems of international relationships, have not caused President Woodrow Wilson to forget for one fleeting moment his old-fashioned southern "rainin' and strict Presbyterian observance of the Sabbath day."

This trait of the schoolmaster-president was demonstrated in most impressive manner by the ordeal to which he was put on his Sunday trip through Georgia, en route to the Southern Commercial congress at Mobile, for it could hardly be called less than an ordeal.

With Mexican affairs involving the policy of the United States in the most critical condition since the beginning of his administration, and with the world clamoring at the door of his palace for some inkling of his policy of security he will pursue, the president quietly declined to talk business.

Declines to Make Speech. Passing for the first time since his election to the presidency through his native southland, where at every town and hamlet he was greeted by a sea of faces calling for ever so short a speech, the president on all occasions smilingly declined to talk.

At Charlotte, at Spartanburg and Atlanta always his one aim was to shake hands with a few of his friends and say:

"Any day but this I will speak to you." The president spent most of his day on the train in reading and resting, turning to Dr. Grayson, his private physician, occasionally to relate some incident of his days in the south through which they were passing, or to shake hands with a few of the people who gathered to meet his train at towns along the way.

"COKE" DEN RAIDED AND ARRESTS MADE

Negro "Tiger Queen" Startles Police Station With Costly Diamond Rings and Big Roll of Money.

With drawn revolvers, City Detectives Webb, Harper and Bullard, working under Chief Newport Lanford, late last night, raided one of the most vicious blind tiger and cocaine dens in detective annals. More than $500 worth of cocaine and $100 worth of whiskey were confiscated.

Six negroes and one negress, the latter being the proprietress, were captured. Emma Johnson, colored, 25 years old, who has appeared in police court a number of times, and who has earned the sobriquet of "Darktown's Tiger Queen," was carried to police headquarters with the illicit goods in the patrol. The detectives then returned to the dive and recovered almost a truckload of whiskey.

JEKYL AND HYDE LIFE EXPOSED BY BULL PUP

William Bastain, Business Man by Day and Robber by Night, Victim of a Bulldog.

San Francisco, October 26.—For five years William Bastain has been accepted by local business men as a responsible citizen with a profitable wholesale jewelry business. His property, consisting of a fine automobile and large thousands of dollars have been sent by him to support his mother in Germany, and his young sister has had the best educational and social advantages.

Whether the administration bill, backed by President Wilson's expressed uncompromising opposition to the Vanderlip plan, and renewed support from administration supporters, will emerge triumphant from the senate committee or whether a middle ground will be found between the two measures is the next question in the air.

SULZER IS LYING, ACCORDING TO RYAN

New York, October 26.—In a statement issued tonight Allan A. Ryan said that the former governor's high court of impeachment at Albany concerning his contribution of $10,000 to the Sulzer campaign was not a lie, as the Sulzer campaign fund took exceptions last night in a speech in the sixth assembly district.

BITTER STRUGGLE COMES THIS WEEK ON MONEY REFORM

Issue Is Clearly Drawn Between Bill as Passed by the House and the Vanderlip Central Bank Plan.

VANDERLIP'S SCHEME ATTACKED BY GLASS

Chairman Glass Says Vanderlip Plan Is Proposed for the Sole Purpose of Defeating Currency Reform.

Washington, October 26.—Reconstruction of the administration currency bill begins tomorrow behind closed doors in the senate banking committee. The issue is clearly drawn between the bill as passed by the house and the central bank plan proposed by President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank, of New York.

THAW IS DECLARED RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTS

Albany, N. Y., October 26.—Attorney General Carmody tonight issued a statement declaring that the outcome of the present proceedings against the return of Harry K. Thaw to this state, will demonstrate "whether the law will be vindicated or whether the great wealth Thaw can break down barriers of justice and defeat the law."

Mexic Election a Farce; Not Enough Votes Cast To Choose a President

PUBLIC IS WARNED TO KEEP ON WATCH FOR CLEVER "DIPS"

Chief Lanford Is Confident That in Two Suspects He Has Men Who Were Busy at Football Game.

LOSSES ARE REPORTED BY FIVE NEW VICTIMS

J. W. Tucker, William Ruehle, George Stewart, Julian Daniels and Thomas Hopkins Are Robbed.

Following the activities of pickpockets Saturday during the Georgia-Virginia football game, five more well-known citizens were victimized Sunday.

The victims are J. W. Tucker, of 337 Whitehall street, Julian Daniels, of 55 King street, William Ruehle, Peachtree Inn; George E. Stewart, of Egan, Ga., and Thomas Hopkins, of 233 Washington street.

Police Look for Trio. Turner describes one of the pair to the police as being of slim stature and apparently about thirty years of age. This man wore dark clothes and tan shoes.

Robbed But Has No Clue. Thomas Hopkins, of 233 Washington street, appeared at police headquarters last night bearing the loss of a pocketbook containing $9 and a number of valuable coins.

Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford declared last night that he was confident that in the personages of Ray Baumbarger and W. T. Farley, of 28 West Baker street, stenographers for the Fairbank-Morse company, who were captured at Ponce de Leon park Saturday afternoon during the Georgia-Virginia football game, that he has two "dips" who were captured by Dan Walraven, who charged them with robbing P. L. Wooten, of 275 Moreland avenue, of a gold watch and stickpin.

Public Is Warned. As yet no clue has been secured to the dips who, Saturday afternoon, picked up the pocket of Dr. William C. Warren, of No. 100 West Peachtree street, who secured $75 in money.

U. S. SOLDIERS OWE MILLION FOR JEWELS. Washington, October 26.—Bills aggregating $1,000,000 for jewelry charged against enlisted men of the army have been forwarded to the war department by a large installment jewelry concern on the Pacific coast, with an appeal for the funds of the collecting the indebtedness. The department has declined to act as collector, but the creditors only received the proceeds against the individual soldiers.

In Mexico City Not 10,000 of the 80,000 Eligible Voters Troubled Themselves to Go to the Polls.

DOUBLING OF THE ARMY IS DECREED BY HUERTA

Dictator Proposes to Increase Military Strength to 150,000 Men—Manuel Calero Says the Election Was Farcical.

Mexico City, October 26.—At the close of the elections today the indications were that not sufficient votes had been cast in Mexico to constitute a legal choice for the presidency to succeed General Victoriano Huerta.

No official announcement was made tonight, but it was unofficially estimated, judging from the results in the capital, where it was expected the vote would be up to the average, that less than 10,000 of the 80,000 eligible voters in the federal district went to the polls. There are said to be more than 3,000,000 eligible voters in the republic.

The leaders of the Catholic party claimed a long lead, although they were unable to estimate the number of votes polled for the candidates, Frederico Gamboa and General Rascon.

There was no semblance of disorder in any quarter of the city. A few patriots were on the streets, but neither police nor troops had any but their usual functions to perform.

The election officials appeared to be a representative group of citizens—clerks, all business men, railroad employees and shopkeepers of average intelligence. So far as could be ascertained no government employees served in this capacity.

Ballot boxes consisted of all sorts of receptacles from a shoe box to a plush-covered jewel casket, or a glass jar borrowed from a neighboring drug store. Each had a table on which were spread tickets of the various candidates. From these the voter made his selection, signed, folded and delivered it to the president, who deposited in the presence of the voter in the ballot box.

President Wilson Enjoys Trip Through the South; Journey Ideal, He Says

For a few seconds President Wilson leaned over the rail of the observation platform of his private car at the Terminal station last night and chatted with a reporter for The Constitution. The crowd gazed about him, impatient to clasp his hand.

"Are you going to stop off in Atlanta on your return trip?" asked the reporter. "Atlanta's one of your home towns, you know."

"No," he answered with a broad smile. "I wish I could. I'd like to stay for at least two hours—or more."

"What's the trouble—can't you arrange it?"

"No, my itinerary has been made up, and it will be impossible to make changes."

"What kind of a trip have you had?"

"Grand trip, says President."

"Grand! This southern scenery is magnificent. And we've ready to act, happens whatever. The entire journey has been ideal, I could have expected nothing better."

By this time the crowd had pressed forward, dislodging the reporter from his precarious footing on a platform rail. The president extended a glad hand, and it was grasped equally as handily by 500 more glad hands.

Headed by Detective Sloan, of the national secret service, who has guarded Roosevelt and Taft, the secret service men, six in all, moved about through the crowd. Two stood beside Wilson as he leaned over the platform railing, watching each hand as it arose from the crowd ready to act the moment a suspicious instrument showed.

Two more stood behind him. The remaining two moved about the crowd, searching for suspicious characters, watching every act of the men and women gathered about the car. A Constitution photographer, whose flashlight machine stood within only a few feet of the president, set off a flash.

WOODROW WILSON REACHES ATLANTA

lived law in Atlanta. The Misses Margaret and Jessie Wilson were born at Greenville, and the president pointed out the house to Dr. Grayson as the train rolled by.

Secretary Daniels, of the navy department, who is also to speak at Mobile, was given a warm welcome en route, particularly in his home state—North Carolina.

On the president's train were about 200 people, all bound for the Southern Commercial congress, Senator Fletcher, of Florida, president of the organization, took a part of the delegation back into the president's car during the afternoon to shake hands, and Mr. Wilson later came forward into the Pullman to greet some of the ladies in the party.

Diplomats Meet President.
John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, and the Latin-American diplomats aboard, paid their respects to the president. Among them were Minister Calvo, of Costa Rica; Minister Calderon, of Bolivia; Minister Pezet, of Peru; Minister Morales, of Panama; Consul General Cunha, of Brazil; and Consul General Pardo, of Argentina.

The president told the diplomats that his main reason for going to Mobile was that the meeting was suggestive of closer relations with their countries. He remarked that they probably were aware from what he had said and done of his close sympathy for Central and South America. He explained that the great benefits that would accrue from the Panama canal, declaring that although the waterway physical ly severed the two continents, it would make for a closer union in every other respect.

Lunches With Daniels.
The president had lunch with Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels. Although the secretary of the navy is now outlining suggestions as to the number of battleships the nation should build next year, it was said that neither this matter nor the Mexican situation was touched upon in his conversation with the president except in the most informal way.

The train was furnished with every possible means of establishing instant communication with the president from Washington and other official sources. All telegraph companies had special representatives on the train to see personally after any message to or from the president.

In the president's party in his private car were only himself, Dr. Grayson, his private physician, him and his corps of secret service men, who kept a vigilant watch.

The president wore a light gray business suit and a green hat. He was the picture of pink health.

Besides the president's car there were four other coaches, carrying prominent delegates to the Mobile convention.

Barred From Station.
With a great throng of people waiting upstairs in the station and on the platform, the president, Sunday, was fortunate enough to get by the gates and onto the train. His special train from Washington over the Southern railway pulled under the stars terminating station at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, remaining in the city until 5:20.

Never was the rule of the railroad commission regarding the admission of people to the tracks more rigidly enforced than it was by Superintendent Davis at the Mobile station Sunday. Newspaper men at first found themselves barred out with numbers of prominent Atlantans, some of whom had known the president when he practiced law in this city thirty years ago.

By various means, some of them going some distance below and approaching the shed from the railroad yards, thereby eluding the guards, others buying tickets to nearby stations and getting in that way, about a dozen newspaper men with two photographers, finally managed to group themselves about the president's car.

There were others, too, railroad men and ordinary citizens, who also succeeded in getting in, so that there were about a hundred who formed themselves in line under the vigilant care of United States secret service men and members of the local police force, to snake the president's hand.

Four coaches were attached to the special which brought the president to this city on his way to Mobile, where he will deliver an address to the Southern Commercial congress today.

Occupants of Car.
In the rear coach was the president himself, his physician, Dr. Grayson, and a number of secret service men. Another coach was occupied by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial congress; John S. Barrett, of Washington, president of the Pan-American union, and a large quota of South and Central American diplomats. Another car was occupied by newspaper men from the Associated Press and the metropolitan papers.

Soon after the train came under the shed the president appeared on the rear platform of his car, where he was greeted with as much enthusiasm by the crowd as the fewness of their numbers would permit.

At 2:25 a special train arrived from Mobile bearing a party of prominent citizens from the Alabama city, who came to meet the president here and escort him to his destination. In this party were H. T. Hartwell, chairman of the reception committee; Fred I. Thompson, secretary of the reception committee and publisher of The Mobile Register; W. W. Armbrucht, president of the Mobile chamber of commerce; M. J. McDermott, president of the bank of the city; John R. Cochrane, of the A. T. & N. railroad; Robert Ewing, publisher of The New Orleans States, and other officials.

Met by Atlantans.
These gentlemen were greeted on their arrival here by a committee of Atlanta citizens, consisting of J. R. Smith, J. H. Ewing, Postmaster Bollinger, Jones and E. F. Childers, and were taken to luncheon and to an automobile trip about the city. Their private car, which was under the supervision of General Passenger Agent Houston, of the A. T. & N. railroad, was attached to the presidential special when it left for Mobile.

The president is scheduled to arrive in Mobile shortly after 7 o'clock Monday morning.

U. S. READY ON SEA, DECLARES DANIELS

Refuses to Discuss Mexican Situation, But Says Government Has Ships at All Strategic Points.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, the only member of President Wilson's cabinet on the president's special train, which passed through Atlanta Sunday afternoon, en route to the Southern Commercial congress at Mobile, seemed well pleased over the policy which the United States has pursued in respect to Mexico, when seen by a Constitution representative.

As to just how seriously complicated the relationship of the United States and Mexico might become, however, he would not venture an opinion.

"The Mexican situation, I believe, can be worked out amicably," he said, "but in any event, we are well prepared on the sea. We have war vessels stationed now at all strategic points. However, the Mexican situation is a matter for the consideration of the state department and not for me to discuss. Secretary Bryan, who had intended speaking at Mobile, has remained in Washington in order to keep in touch with the Mexican election."

As the train rushed through the cotton fields of Georgia, Secretary Daniels commented on the quality of the staple, and said that he was pleased with the prosperous condition of the south as a whole.

Secretary Daniels will address the Mobile congress Tuesday night, and will leave for Washington on Wednesday. The secretary said that he felt greatly honored at the ovation given him in Charlotte, N. C., on his way to Washington.

Agrees With Churchill.
Secretary Daniels expressed his own approval of the suggestion of Winston Churchill, Great Britain, that the powers should agree to cease naval construction for a short period.

"I feel," said Mr. Daniels, "that if all the other navy building countries agreed to such an arrangement, the United States would gain nothing so I think this suggestion follows as a direct sequence to Secretary Bryan's peace policy."

He said he did not believe, however, that the Churchill suggestion would affect the immediate program of this government.

Mr. Daniels said that in naval affairs with the president, but did not discuss the Churchill proposal.

day morning. A brisk program of entertaining occurred during the moment of his five hours' stay in that city, beginning with a breakfast at the Battle house, in addition to the presidential party, a number of officials of the Southern Commercial congress and prominent Atlantans have been invited. This will be at 8 o'clock.

This will be followed by a review of Mobile harbor at 9 o'clock and an automobile tour of the city, during which the president and members of the Southern Commercial congress will be shown the various points of interest by the local committee on entertainment.

At 10 o'clock the president is scheduled to deliver his address to the congress at the Lyric theater. The entertainment will close with a monster parade in the president's honor, which will be participated in by the various civic and labor organizations and by the children of the city.

At 12:25 p. m. Monday the president's train will leave Mobile on its return trip to Washington, arriving in Atlanta about midnight or a little after, and reaching Washington Tuesday evening.

The president's car was detached from the rest of the train in the Terminal station at 5 o'clock. The cars were changed, and the special car from Mobile was put on. This occupied about twenty minutes, most of which time the president spent in the privacy of his car, to which he withdrew about four or five minutes spent in shaking hands.

Responding to the call of the crowd, he again came forward, waving a farewell to the cheering crowd, who followed him along the platform. He was greeted by the chief of police, who was in plain clothes for the occasion, a squad of fifteen detectives was thrown about the car from which the president's hands with the crowd of people who greeted him. The chief stationed himself beside the president, remaining there beneath the president, remaining there throughout the president's festival of handshaking.

The fire of other sleuths were scattered through the crowd near the private car. A cordon of policemen formed to handle the crowd as schematically as they pressed forward to shake Wilson's hand. By this means the president was able to handle the great throng of members of the throng in the few minutes of time his train remained in the Terminal shed.

PRESIDENT IS GUARDED BY MANY DETECTIVES
What was undoubtedly the most vigilant secret guard ever thrown about any single individual in the United States was the Atlanta police department upon the president's arrival in Atlanta yesterday afternoon.

Headed by Chief Jett, who was in plain clothes for the occasion, a squad of fifteen detectives was thrown about the car from which the president's hands with the crowd of people who greeted him. The chief stationed himself beside the president, remaining there beneath the president, remaining there throughout the president's festival of handshaking.

The fire of other sleuths were scattered through the crowd near the private car. A cordon of policemen formed to handle the crowd as schematically as they pressed forward to shake Wilson's hand. By this means the president was able to handle the great throng of members of the throng in the few minutes of time his train remained in the Terminal shed.

Brings President's Train Into Atlanta on the Second And Wins Bacon and Eggs

It was in the smoky lunch counter at the railway station in Charlotte, N. C., that L. P. Busha, received orders from the dispatcher to drive the special train Wilson's special into Atlanta. Between bites of a ham and egg sandwich, washed down by iced beer, he turned to the dispatcher and said:

"The extra car on me next week if I don't take it here at exactly 5 p. m.—not a second less, a second more."

The dispatcher made the bet. Next week he buys the car. He has been with For Engineer Busha, who is an Atlanta man—or, rather, he lives in College Park, and he has been driving the special train Wilson's special into Atlanta Sunday night at exactly 5 o'clock, scheduled time to the minute.

Twilight was shrouding the big Terminal shed. Trains puffed and roared over the tracks. The air was swarmed about everywhere. The big clock over the runway pointed to twenty seconds of five. Far up the tracks came the shifting beam of a headlight and a locomotive's scream.

A puff and a roar with the groan of brakes and the hiss of steam greeted the 5 o'clock train. The crowds swarmed about the rear car of Engineer Busha's train. He had arrived exactly as he had predicted, "on the dot." Climbing down from his cab, oil cup in hand, he called to a train dispatcher:

"We got to Charlotte that'll take bacon, crisp and eggs scrambled next week."

With which he turned his engine over to the Atlanta and West Point engineer, who was to take the president over the remainder of the route to Mobile.

Busha is one of the Southern's most reliable engineers. He has been with the road for twenty-two years. His home is in Columbia avenue, College Park, where he lives with his wife and three children. He was given one of the road's best engines to pull the president's train, and was selected for the job because of his record. Not a minute was encountered on the whole trip.

One Opportunity Now Is Worth Two in the Future

Which, being translated, means that we cannot count upon a better day than today to share the advantages this store offers.

For this we know —That months of splendid and scrupulous preparations are back of our offerings of today.

—That the merchandise you are invited to choose from is representative of what trained and true men and women, who give their whole heart to doing things a bit better, have judged worthy of the ideals of this store.

—That things are right, to the extent that shopping here today means shopping where every point (sometimes small, sometimes very large) that could be worked out to your advantage, has been.

In some instances these mean only quality, in some only style, in some only price, in some quality and style and price.

And Now That It Is Blanket Buying Time

We want you to know how things are done in this Blanket Store. In the first place, you know what you are buying. We look upon this as a matter of common honesty, also of good business.

If a blanket is not all wool, it would not be right of us to say it is. Furthermore, it would be rather a poor recommendation for the future, since you would discover the fact sooner or later.

Again, we have selected these Blankets after passing on many that we did not select. These are the fittest Blankets we know of at every given price.

There is no need of subterfuge in connection with their merits. Their merits are intrinsic and lasting. One may buy Blankets here with the confidence that every effort of trained experts has been put forward to raise quality and lower price—the efforts have resulted in these Blankets.

Be guided accordingly.

The Fact That "Madame Irene" Corsets Are Favored By So Many Smart Women Has Its Significance.

We might tell and retell the merits of "Madame Irene" Corsets, with more or less success in convincing the individual, but the fact that so many women who are "up" on such matters favor the "Madame Irene" tells the whole story at once.

Asked why, these women would probably say that the lines of a "Madame Irene" Corset are those of the present-day fashion, and comfortable; the materials are beautiful; the trimmings neat and dainty; the whole effect one of grace and elegance.

But to go a bit farther into the why—"Madame Irene" Corsets are of Parisian descent. Madame Irene herself (the designer) spends a good portion—at different times—of her year in Paris. She learns what the Parisian style wizards are doing and what the Parisian corsetiere is doing, and brings this knowledge and the materials to America to make "Madame Irene" Corsets for American women. The result is that which usually follows the most painstaking effort, sometimes called genius.

Madame Irene Corsets Are Priced From $5.00 to $37.50

There are Brocades, Silk Batistes, Imported Coutils, Tricots, Silk Suedes and Elastic Corsets (these last have come in for unusual praise by many eminent surgeons), in styles that belong distinctively to Madame Irene and the fall of 1913.

"The Successor" is the Madame Irene understudy. It is priced at $2.75 to $6.00.

Made by the same people, who, believing in their styles, would not make corsets along other lines. The difference is a matter of material and finishing, and still there are "Successors" in French Coutil, Silk Batiste, Suedine, Brocade and a new Linen Poplin.

Comfort O'er Night--Fleecy Night Gowns

New ones, which means that the patterns and colorings of the flannelettes are not what one is accustomed to finding.

A bit neater and more attractive, with outlined checks and stripes, in dainty blues and pinks; others all white. Also it is not necessary to choose the high neck style; here are those with round neck and yoke. Regular and extra sizes.

The Mail Order Service Department brings the big stocks of this store very close to those who live out of Atlanta--and promptly.

J. R. HOLLIDAY, Constitution Building, sole Advertising Manager for all territory outside Atlanta.

The address of the Washington Bureau is No. 1725 S. Street, W. R. Mr. John Corrigan, Jr., staff correspondent, in charge.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had at Hotaling's Newsstands, Broadway and Forty-second street.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents.

AN EXCELLENT PLAN.

A unique and practical plan is that of the chamber of commerce of LaGrange to intensively develop territory within a radius of sixty miles of that city as being, strategically, the halfway point of traffic between the east and the isthmus of Panama.

The project is given pertinence by the fact that the area in question, partly in Georgia and partly in Alabama, is one of the richest in the south.

EDUCATING FOR LIFE.

A note significant in American life was that recently struck by the vocational guidance conference held in Grand Rapids, Mich. Delegates from many parts of the country and from most of the associations devoted to education were present.

The latter part of the nineteenth and the first part of the twentieth centuries will be notable in history for the revolution they brought in our educational ideals.

Next in order has come the realization that academic and classical education must be training for professions, or for life, in effect. Technological schools have sprung up over the land.

The change is fundamental and it has come to stay, and to broaden its influence. This is not to say that academic and classical education will be at a discount.

HE'S OUR COLONEL.

One forgets that Theodore Roosevelt is a national and an international institution until he goes abroad.

changed by the mere fact that it finds a lodgment in democratic and republican as well as bull moose bosom.

Take his South American trip. The cables say that immediately he stepped on the quay at Rio de Janeiro he was welcomed by a brilliant native assemblage.

Of course it will be said that the honor thus paid him is drawn forth by his former high office. That is true, measurably, but it does not account for the furor he creates wherever he goes.

Now the process is to be repeated in South America. He has lecture engagements in all the capitals.

No wonder a man of this variegated appeal captivates the popular imagination and was able to dismantle the republican party.

Incidentally, it will be interesting to observe the colonel's course upon emerging from the jungle. When he returned from Africa, he put the politics of this nation into the melting pot.

THE WISDOM OF TAFT.

It is doubtful if any new administration, even in the post-revolutionary days, ever traveled a league on its course without certain congressmen of its party accusing it of attempts to dictate or to control congress.

For those likely to be influenced by such criticisms, the following extract from a recent speech by former President Taft will come as a sound corrective.

We are republicans and we are democrats. We are responsibilities and we are responsibilities. But I trust there is no one who doesn't wish the success of the present administration of the United States for the benefit of all the people.

The comments of Mr. Taft show his characteristic breadth and a very considerable acumen.

Mr. Wilson is the titular leader of his party. He is charged with the performance of its promises.

Recognizing these facts he has gone about his task with diplomacy, but with a will. It is perfectly possible that he has made a few enemies within his own party.

Incidentally, Mr. Taft exemplifies a non-partisan patriotism as we are glad to believe is on the increase in this country.

OF COURSE HE'LL ACT.

Washington correspondents of all political complexions are perturbed over the apparent impassivity of the president toward the Mexican situation.

That fact is obvious to a schoolboy. Anyone who has followed events with reasonable accuracy does not expect that the president will hold his hand after the elections add their clarifying influence to the status.

It is evident that Mr. Wilson has heretofore played a waiting game for three reasons: 1. His anxiety to keep good faith with the world and the people of Mexico.

Any one of these motives is a sufficient one. Combined they are unbeatable. Now that conditions in Mexico are rapidly resolving themselves into a vicious and endless cycle of bloodshed, misrule and irresponsibility, with the European powers clamoring for an understanding of some sort, the administration will in all probability take decisive action by doing that which could not as well have been done before.

The story goes that Mr. Sulzer has an offer to deliver 100 lectures at $1,000 each. Nothing like getting paid for explaining your explanation.

His Winter-Thankfulness.
Thank the Lord for weather: When the winds the cold flakes blow

Thankful for the blessings of summertime an' fall,
A world that's trimmed with icicles looks purty, after all!

Outside's a tingle in the air, along the frosty ways;

Within, the great logs crackle where the chimney's on the blaze;

Grandfather leans an' listens as the rough winds rattle a row;

An' stirs his toddy—shakes his head: "We'll have some weather now!"

An' purty soon Er'er Rabbit will be layin' mighty low;

By them unlucky feet o' his we'll track him through the snow;

For all that's good life reaches; there's joy an' plenty nigh,

We've seen the peach's rosy side, an' now comes 'possum pie.

Take us any time o' day, the word is: "Feel-in' prime!"

For the halleluia season—it's just with us ALL the time!

An' in the winter gardens, an' on the snowy banks

I'll kneel down where the violets was an' give the Lord my thanks.

"Man's Little Day."
This little song, "Man's Little Day," by William Wallace Whitelock, in The New York Times, rings true to the situation:

"First thing a fellow knows at morn' He's born.

Then, say at ten o'clock, the next He's vexed

By readin' 'rithm, 'rithmetic, 'Till sick

At noon he has to go to work, Or shirk

Then, 'round 'bout two, he takes 'for life' A wife

From two bill time to bring in lights He fights

And struggles with his fellow men, And then

He sits around a while and thinks, And blinks,

And when at last it's time for bed, He's dead."

ESCAPING ENNUI

"I don't know what others think about it," said the melancholy boarder, "but I find life a tiresome and oppressive business.

"You talk in this wise," observed the star boarder, "because you don't know how to make your life interesting.

"As you well know, my dear Mrs. Jiggers, I have a weakness or being in debt up to my ears all the time.

"When I first adopted that course, Mrs. Jiggers, I anticipated much annoyance. My natural impulse was to pay for things when I bought them, but I felt that there was to become a martyr.

"Now my life is one round of pleasure. It is an interesting and absorbing game, Mrs. Jiggers. It is a game calling for the exercise of all my intellectual resources.

"Crawdad, the clothing man, has been sending me bills and statements for a year or two, and the other day he noted me that he had placed my account in the hands of Gripsaw, the lawyer.

"Mr. Gripsaw," said I, "trouble is my favorite and my life falls in line. Others may prefer tomato ketchup or Worcestershire sauce, but give me trouble every time, when it comes to a seasoning to make this life palatable.

"Gripsaw never takes an account into court, and he never fails. He prefers to bound and hillyrag an man into submission. He began on me at once. Just as sure as I stopped on the street to converse with a friend he would rush up and present his bill and insist upon payment.

"I am waiting to see what his next plan of attack will be. I have no doubt it will be masterly, but my own faculties are Napoleon-like and I am confident I will be able to out-thrust him.

"The young man looked at the slip of paper which his father handed him. Then he looked at his father.

"Why, you mean that I'm to have $5,000 a year, don't you?"

"Clear?"

"Of course."

"Then, if I'm to have $5,000 clear, what do you mean by giving me a taxable income with no money to pay the tax?"

"With a wild howl the infuriated father kicked over the wastebasket and tore up his check book.

Popped on the Stalk.

There are all kinds and manners of places for the purpose of "popping," but it remains for a Murray county farmer to furnish the newest place for that to take place.

The song of bird, the hum of bee, The low wind moving musingly,

The whispering leaves, the roses fair, Had fled with summer from the garden chill.

And where heart spoke to heart with tender word, And vows were made that mocked the night of years,

The vines, frail ghosts of glories fled, As by phantom fingers led, Cling to the lattice in their fears

Of ruthless winds from northern slumber stirred.

Their whirling forms down garden paths, Where walked the Orient summer in her pride;

The last dance of the leaves is o'er, The fountain's song is heard no more.

Here earthly roses all have died, But in the heart love's rose shall never die.

The World's Mysteries
THE EMPEROR'S WITHERED ARM

Most readers are acquainted with the fact that Emperor William of Germany is afflicted with a withered or deformed left arm, but very few know the cause of it, and in fact there have been several different stories published which have cast a mystery about it so that there are probably only a very few persons within the immediate family circle who are aware of the actual condition.

This left arm of Emperor William is said to be practically paralyzed. He has trained himself to hold the rein with it when he rides, but that is the sum of its usefulness.

The defect, according to one story, dates from the occasion of his birth, and is ascribed to the ignorance or ineptitude of a physician. Another story has it that it was an idiosyncrasy of birth.

This deformed left arm is four inches shorter than its fellow, and has a malformed hand with only rudimentary fingers. The arm is so wholly limp that William has to lift his hand to even place it on the hilt of his sword with his right hand.

But he has not only trained his hand to use the rein, but it is said that he uses both hands equally well when he plays the piano, which is quite frequent, no one suspecting any difference in force or flexibility between them.

To have become a skilled marksman under such a weighty disadvantage indicates great patience and determination. William uses a very light English gun, having abandoned the attempt to get any made on his liking in Germany, and carries it on his shoulder with the stock behind him.

But this affliction, combined with a withered arm, no doubt has a great deal to do with the Emperor's disposition towards nervous excitability and restlessness. A man with the earache cannot be expected to hold calm mastery over all his moods.

It is a reasonable assumption that to this affliction is in some measure due his phenomenal and unseasonable physical activity. Sometimes it happens that he is unable to sleep at all, and he is said to habitually keep pencils and notebooks within reach of his bedside upon which to work until the demon of insomnia is exorcised.

TRAPPINGS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Trappings include the unnecessary little doodads and fancy here-and-there that add weight and weight to 'North White' business.

The greatest accumulators of Trappings are Idle men and Don't-care men. They fall heir to us—we scarcely know how or from whom. But we know we wake to the daily knowledge that we have them with us.

Trappings are Valueless—drop them. Anything that takes from your efficiency is a Trapping of some sort. Even another man or woman who insists on taking from you time that belongs to you and in which you are engaged in some useful manner, becomes a dangerous Trapping that should be dropped and fled from.

Trappings are Valueless—drop them. Anything that takes from your efficiency is a Trapping of some sort. Even another man or woman who insists on taking from you time that belongs to you and in which you are engaged in some useful manner, becomes a dangerous Trapping that should be dropped and fled from.

Dedication.
For you I am a poet. Yes, I sing As never any poet sang before;

For you I am a poet. In the night I scatter music mid a crowd of stars, I build great passionate cities with my hand on air.

And pair with song the colors of the dawn.

But I am not like other men who sing; Their words are artful and their lips ablaze,

They are the singers of the world, And I am a singer only in my heart.

For you I am a poet. You alone, Who lie within the temple of my arms, Can see the banners swaying in my heart

At your white feet I drink the ages' wine, And reap the ancient gold of other lives;

For you I am a poet blind with rime— For you I am a singer of red songs. —Willard Huntington Wright in Smart Set.

Satisfactory.

If I could control the weather, An' could move the sun an' moon, And the wind and clouds, you're thinkin'!

That I'd have it always June: Always June with the sun shinin', An' the birds' hearts filled with song—

I should hate to disappoint you, But I'm thinkin' you are wrong.

I don't think that always June time, 'T would appeal so much to me, With new roses just unbudin', And new blossoms on the tree, And with soft winds gently blowin' From the prairies of the south, Bringing perfumed summer showers, Like moist kisses on the mouth.

Not that I don't like June weather; I admit I like it fine; From the crops, just startin' growin', To the dinkin' glory vine; From the glad birds all a-buddin', And the skies a rain-washed blue; I like June, an' I admit it, But I like the other, too.

July, August an' September, I like 'em all in them all; Maybe it's some widder's call; October, and through November; Them two months seem mighty good, Settin' by the fireplace nighttimes, Listenin' to the cracklin' wood.

An' then who would miss December, An' the lighted Christmas tree, An' the children dancin' 'round it Eyes a-glintin' in their glee? An' then I like January, An' like February, too; Each month holds something I'm likin', Somethin' that I like to do.

An' I'm fond of March an' April, An' I'm plum in love with May! With new roses just unbudin', An' could bid one month to stay With us an' be our'n forever, I'd just simply let things be; God knowed what He was a-doin', An' the whole year pleases me.

POLITENESS
By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swahn"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)
Politeness is the lubricant which enables human beings to mingle without knocking the corners off of each other.

It is the piano finish of conversation. Politeness isn't a state of mind, but of habit.

Politeness is the art of expressing what you ought to feel. When a man feels politeness and expresses it at the same time, he is a perfect gentleman.

Politeness is a great asset that works for his money, but the truly polite man can allow others to work for him and can make a lifelong friend of a creditor by the beautiful way in which he apologizes for not being able to pay him.

Some people rear their politeness all the time, while others take it off like an overcoat when they become heated and use the plain unvarnished cussword.

Politeness has made the world twice as pleasant and about half as truthful as it was before. However, people should not attempt to live on politeness alone.

Politeness is a great asset that works for his money, but the truly polite man can allow others to work for him and can make a lifelong friend of a creditor by the beautiful way in which he apologizes for not being able to pay him.

ARNOLD TO RESUME HIS SPEECH TODAY

Hearing for New Trial for Leo M. Frank Will Probably Be Concluded on Wednesday Morning.

Attorney Reuben Arnold, associate counsel for the defense of Leo Frank, in making a masterful argument for a new trial for his client, was asked shortly after the adjournment of his speech Saturday if he had any idea of the time he would finish.

TABLET IS UNVEILED TO CHARLES GOODMAN

W. S. Kelly, Senior Warden at Church of the Incarnation, Makes Presentation

Impressive services marked the unveiling yesterday morning of a tablet to the memory of the late Charles Goodman, at the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation in West End.

The tablet was unveiled by Charles Goodman, a son of the man in whose honor it was dedicated, and W. S. Kelly, senior warden, made the speech of presentation.

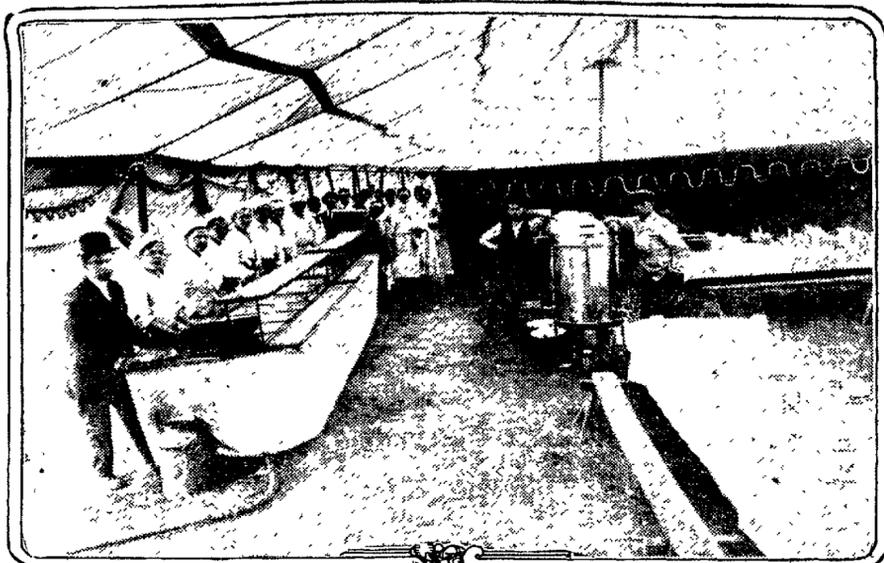

Mr. Goodman died several years ago. He was one of the members of the Episcopal church in West End and was an active member of the congregation up until the time of his death.

Following the dedication of the memorial, Mr. Wing conducted the regular church service and then preached his farewell sermon. He leaves this week to take charge of Grace Episcopal church in Anniston, Ala.

A number of the members of the W. D. Luckie lodge of Masons in West End attended the service to hear Mr. Wing's sermon. He is a member of this lodge.

He has been rector of the Church of the Incarnation for the past fourteen months, and spoke feelingly of his congenial church work in the parish.

Charge of Light Brigade Was No More Spirited Than Onslaught on the Dinner Table at Circus

Section of the dining room of Barnum and Bailey circus, showing coffee urns and some of the cooks.

The Barnum & Bailey circus attractions will leave the circus grounds at 10 o'clock this morning for the parade through the city. The performances today will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 8 o'clock at night.

By Sidney Ormond. Since the days of my childhood I have longed to eat a meal with circus performers. I am at a loss to know why my youthful ambition took this turn, but never has a circus come to town that the desire of my youth has not returned. Perhaps it was that I had a natural curiosity to see the bearded lady eating soup, or to learn whether the glass-eater preferred such expensive delicacies as memorial windows or was a frugal-minded soul who contented himself with such ordinary provender as lamp chimneys or beer bottles.

So far, the desire was still there when my friend, Dexter Fellows, mess representative of the Barnum & Bailey show, came to town the other day and extended me an invitation to take dinner out at the circus grounds—to share pot luck with the various freaks and artists and workmen of several grades who make up the 1,200 persons on the Barnum & Bailey payroll.

At last the dream of a lifetime was to come true! I accepted with an enthusiasm which left no loophole for escape or chance for the invitation to be withdrawn.

Sounded like a battle, and I have you ever witnessed a sham battle or heard the rapid fire gun doing duty in one of Charles Blaney's lurid melodramas? You have not, I am at a loss to describe the noise which accompanied your ears as you enter the big cook tent where 1,200 persons eat three meals a day.

The charge of the Light Brigade was never more spirited than the onslaught which these 1,200 make on mountains of victuals—not more spirited, but decidedly more successful, for the victory is all on the side of the invading army of men and women who come armed with the best of hard work and perfect digestions.

Tons of beef disappear as if some feat of legerdemain had been performed. Gallons of coffee vanish as if in steam knives and forks beat on unbreakable plates in staccato measure. No one talks, no one has time to talk. It is a case of fire and fall back to make way for the other fellow who has come in a moment with the hunger of a Siberian bear.

A splendid meal. Our party were given seats in a corner of the huge tent where we could see the various high-priced performers as they came in. Circus performers are not like the business-like folk outside the sawdust ring. There is nothing about the men to distinguish them from the motley while a majority of the women might be taken for actresses in some musical comedy, only they dress more plainly and have less desire to attract attention.

There is nothing, for example, to tell you that that rather lugubrious looking young man who is so conspicuously dressed is one of the highest-priced in the world, nor would you suspect that he is an Oxford graduate, but such is the case. Nor is there anything about the highest priced trapeze performer to distinguish her from the humblest member of the ballet.

There is nothing to distinguish about the man who was put on ahead of Cissy Fitzgerald, and of 'Oh, Susannah!' After the long illness I had, they seemed to have forgotten me. I went to manager after manager—nothing doing. I was absolutely desperate, and you will scarcely believe it—I was not regarded seriously in New York until I had made my success in London.

I have played 'Annie Russell' parts since I was 3 years old," she said, "and I did so long to draw a deep breath, and to express life as I knew it. I have played these little ingenue parts, and I suppose I should feel very miserable. The knowledge that men who can't be induced to see problem plays came to me, and I felt that I had great trouble. The best and most artistic thing I did, stars ago, was 'Blaine' It appealed to people with artistic temperaments. And don't you think that the soul of the world needs expression sometimes—that apart from mere material success there are certain things worth expressing to the cultured few? Oh surely! The chance to fail gloriously—is alluring, don't you think?"

both classes. Cooking for 1,200 people is no small job. In the first place it requires twenty cooks, who are working constantly from morning until night. The meals are served by eighty waiters—thoroughly competent, intelligent men, who are far more cautious than the average Atlanta waiter. Two thousand five hundred pounds of the best meat obtainable is consumed during the day. Four hundred gallons of coffee disappear, while at least 1,000 loaves of bread are purchased each day. Potatoes, rice, eggs appear and disappear in proportion.

No More "Muslin Girl" Parts Declares Miss Annie Russell

Miss Annie Russell, who appears at the Atlanta theater tonight has forsaken forever, she says, her "muslin girl" parts. This slight little woman who is known by theatergoers the world over as an exponent of the "girl of today"—the blushing "standing on the threshold" sort of a girl—efforts to create those histrionic ladies of dignity and finish. In short, she wants to "emote" Russell, in her own words, affirms this. Hear what this dainty little woman says.

"I've got away from Annie Russell parts. And you know what 'Annie Russell' parts are? I got so sick of playing blanc-mangey girls and simpering ingenues—I call them 'Annie-genes'—that it is lovely to appear one night in a strong role like that in 'The Nigger' and the part of the cultured lady, Lady Teazle. I love 'Lady Teazle,' and I feel that I have been able to do something with it.

You think my success has come easily. I have had awful times when nobody wanted me, and I had to appear in curtainraisers and bit parts. I was put on ahead of Cissy Fitzgerald, and of 'Oh, Susannah!' After the long illness I had, they seemed to have forgotten me. I went to manager after manager—nothing doing. I was absolutely desperate, and you will scarcely believe it—I was not regarded seriously in New York until I had made my success in London.

I have played 'Annie Russell' parts since I was 3 years old," she said, "and I did so long to draw a deep breath, and to express life as I knew it. TRUSTEES OF MERCER ELECT NEW PREX TODAY. Macon, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—The special committee from the board of trustees of Mercer university will meet in Macon Monday for the purpose of considering a possible successor to Dr. S. B. Jamison as president of Mercer.

Kaiser William in Vienna. Vienna, October 26.—Emperor William of Germany arrived here today on a visit to Emperor Francis Joseph, who warmly welcomed him at the station. The meeting of the two sovereigns will go far toward checking rumors of coolness between the two countries because of Germany's support of anti-Austrian policies during the Balkan war.

Austrian Battleships for Panama. Vienna, October 26.—The battleship Zrinyi has been selected to participate in the naval pageant at the opening of the Panama canal.

NEAR PANIC CAUSED BY CRASH OF AUTOS

Street Car Passengers Thought for a Moment Their Car Had Been Hit.

Street car passengers aboard a Pryor street car and pedestrians were thrown into a panic at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when two high-power touring cars crashed together at the corner of South Pryor and Garnett streets. An automobile belonging to L. O. Turner, a well-known real estate agent, with offices in the Atlanta National Bank building, driven by John Ware, negro chauffeur, was running south at the rate of 15 miles per hour on Pryor street. Turner and the driver were the only occupants.

Another car, rented by H. E. Latham, an attaché of the solicitor general's office, driven by Raymond Nealy, negro chauffeur, was going east at about 3 miles an hour on Garnett street. Latham had three prisoners in custody, seated in the tonneau. The two cars came together at the intersection of Garnett street, on Pryor, with a terrific crash, which caused passengers aboard a Pryor street car to think that the street car had been jammed. Men jumped and women screamed. There was a shower of splintered glass. Latham and two prisoners were thrown to the pavement just in front of the moving street car. Turner and the negro driver were shaken up, but retained their seats. No one was hurt. Latham's prisoners made no attempt to escape.

The entire front end of Latham's car was demolished. The right side of Turner's car was staved in. Motorcycle Patrolman J. W. West arrived on the scene several minutes after the accident. He at once arrested both chauffeurs on charge of violating the road ordinance with an automobile.

A huge crowd gathered, and there was much excitement. Traffic of street cars was delayed until the wreckage had been cleared from the track.

REV. CALLAWAY RESIGNS MACON TABERNACLE. Macon, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Rev. W. P. Callaway, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, of Macon, today handed his resignation to his congregation and announced that he had accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Dublin. He said his reason for leaving is that the Dublin church gives him a larger field.

Mr. Callaway will leave on December 1.

MRS. KING'S TRIAL WILL BEGIN TODAY

Defense to Fight Introduction of Alleged Confession in Which She Admits Plotting Husband's Death.

By Vernon Stiles, Special Staff Correspondent.

Gray, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—With her attorneys claiming that the state has nothing upon which to base its case against the confession alleged to have been made by Mrs. King, she is to go to trial Monday in Jones superior court in an accessory before the fact in the murder of her husband, James A. King, aged 60, who was shot to death last December, and last Saturday Nick Wilburn, an alleged paramour of Mrs. King, was convicted and sentenced to hang for the murder.

Mrs. King will testify against Wilburn, and Wilburn will not be used against her. Attorney W. D. McNeill, of Macon, leading counsel for the woman, stated today that he would not use Wilburn. The state could not well use him as the crown witness, and would take advantage of this right.

Her Alleged Confession.

In a recent confession she has been made last Christmas, the woman stated that she had plotted her husband's death to secure the insurance money of $10,000 and marry Wilburn, with whom she was infatuated.

During the trial Mrs. King gave an interview which was printed exclusively in The Constitution. In it she stated that she had no recollection of improper relations with Wilburn, but she declared that it was only after she had overheard the conversation that she learned the truth. She said the relations continued, and she feared to tell her husband on account of Wilburn's threats. This was the defense she will use in the trial, and her attorneys will fight the introduction of the alleged confession of last year.

As Mrs. King's fate hung on Wilburn's trial, his fate depended to great extent on the result of her trial. The woman could not have been tried as an accessory unless the young farmer had been convicted. She was given a new trial, and Attorney John R. Cooper, representing him, declared today that he would not testify against her. He will also seek affidavits from John A. and W. L. Middlebrooks, jurors on the Wilburn case. However, a new trial, alleging these jurors to be related to Gus Middlebrooks, a brother-in-law to the dead man.

Attorney Cooper was unable to prove this during the trial, and was not allowed to swear the two jurors and have them testify. The motion for a new trial for Wilburn is set for November 4, at Milledgeville. On grounds that Judge J. B. Park erred in allowing Wilburn's alleged confession to go to the jury, the court has annulled the verdict and the alleged relationship, the condemned man will stand another trial.

Mrs. King spent a quiet Sunday in her cell in the Jones county jail. She has read the Bible often since her incarceration, and frequently announces herself as not fit to live. She puts all the blame on Wilburn, but in her statement to the constitution she declared that she did wrong in not braving Wilburn's threats and telling her husband of what she claims Wilburn had forced upon her.

JEWEL EMBLEM GIVEN TO EDWARD M. HAHER

Edward M. Hafer, who last week was made a thirty-third degree Mason, was honored again last night by a number of his Atlanta friends, who went to his residence on Peachtree street and presented him with a handsome jeweled emblem.

Mr. Hafer was agreeably surprised by the presentation and made an appropriate response to his friends who presented the emblem.

ITALIAN ELECTIONS WON BY GOVERNMENT

Rome, October 25.—General elections were held throughout Italy today. The disorders were not as grave as expected, although one person was killed and many were wounded. Numerous arrests were made in various quarters. The balloting was light because the spring-like weather caused the people to go on excursions rather than to the polls. Results of the elections will not be known definitely until late Monday, but already the government is assured of a large majority. Giovanni Giolitti, the premier, has been re-elected almost unanimously with the other members of his cabinet.

Others elected include ex-premier Baron Sidney Sonnino and Luigi Luzzatti, the former socialist leader, republican leader, Signor Barzilai and the former minister, Signor Nitti, who served a term in prison for embezzlement and later was sent several times to the chamber of deputies, only to have his election annulled.

In a hundred constituencies a fierce struggle was waged, especially between socialists and Catholics, and in these a second ballot will be taken next Sunday.

In some constituencies, particularly in the Venetian provinces, ecclesiastics voted openly. At Cosena the bishop was the first to go to the polls. So far as returns have been received, out of 503 constituencies, 197 liberals or ministerialists have been elected, as well as 21 moderates, 17 socialists, 10 republicans and 10 clericals.

Prince Scipione Borghese and Prince Tesoro, both radicals, failed of re-election in their home constituencies. Signor Turati, the socialist leader, was re-elected.

STRIKERS AND GUARDS IN PITCHED BATTLE

Two Persons Reported Killed. Situation in Colorado Mining District Extremely Critical.

Ludlow, Colo., October 26.—A general battle between strikers, mine guards and deputy sheriffs was waged for twelve hours today in Berwin canyon at Hastings and in the vicinity of the Colorado and southern station at Ludlow.

Firing started at 3 o'clock this morning and continued intermittently until nearly 4 o'clock this afternoon. One mine guard was killed and, according to union men, one striker is missing.

The situation is extremely critical tonight. More than 700 armed strikers are reported to be in the field against the mine guards. Armed strikers patrol the entire district in the vicinity of Ludlow, and communication with the camps of Cedar Hill, Tellerburg, Berwin, Hastings, Del Agua and Tabasco practically has been cut off.

The firing started this morning in the vicinity of the Colorado and South-eastern bridge, the zone of yesterday's battle. The guards, it is said, retreated in the direction of Cedar Hill and Tabasco.

At daylight the strikers from the Ludlow tent colony made their way along the hills past Cedar Hill to Tabasco and opened a heavy fire on that camp. The guard who was killed was struck while returning the fire of the strikers near the mine tipples at Tabasco.

The attack on Hastings began at about 11 o'clock. Shots rained on the camp from two quarters for nearly two hours, but, according to officials of the Victor Amalgamated company, no serious damage was done.

The final skirmish of the day was an attack by strikers along the Colorado and Southeastern tracks near Barnes station, on a passing Denver and Rio Grande train, which the strikers declared was carrying mine guards.

BEATS WAY ON TRAIN. Alleged Circus Acrobat Must Explain to the Recorder.

When fast train No. 14, of the Southern railway, steamed into the Terminal station, a wiry young chap, quite snappy in spite of the fact that he had just ended a long dirty trip, jumped nimbly down from the blind forward end of the first baggage coach of the train and started briskly for the exit.

Special Officer Ray, of the Southern, however, was on the job, and promptly placed the man under arrest, charged with suspicion. When taken to police headquarters he gave his name as C. Copeland, stating that he is employed as an acrobat by the Barnum & Bailey circus, and claimed New York as his home. He will be given an opportunity this morning of explaining to Recorder Broyles just why he was being "it" here instead of coming in with the circus outfit.

ALL THE BODIES BURIED UNDER TONS OF DEBRIS

Dawson, N. M., October 26.—The bodies of Mine Superintendent William M. McDermott and Henry P. McShane, the young miner from New York, were recovered tonight in the wreckage of the mine north of mine No. 2 of the Stig Canyon Fuel company. Both bodies with 16 others were buried under tons of debris.

It is known tonight that not one of the 234 men caught in the explosion remains in the mine alive. Late today the entire workings had been explored by helmet men and it was learned that the bodies not located are buried beneath tons of debris.

The mine today remained relatively clear of the "death gas" which heretofore impeded the rescue work.

TEMPERANCE TARS CHEERED BY W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Mary Harris Armor Tells Convention How Georgia Was Made "Dry."

New York, October 26.—Enthusiasm was aroused this afternoon when eight sailors from the United States steamship Washington, receiving ship at the Brooklyn navy yard, appeared at the convention of the world's Women's Christian Temperance union at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Many in the audience rose and cheered.

Mrs. Anderson Hughes Drew, delegate from New Zealand, won the woman's suffrage element in the audience by her speech.

"I never knew what an 'ant' was," she said, "until I came to America. It was very surprising to me that any woman should ally herself against suffrage for her sex."

Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Georgia, in a ringing speech, declared that many persons when they started to run for congress suddenly discovered just how strong their temperance sympathies were. She told in a general way how the states of Georgia and West Virginia were made "dry."

The idea of saying that any good man in the saloon business is a bosh," she concluded.

Congressman Richmond Pearson, in a ringing speech, was unable to present as he is making a prohibition fight in his state of Alabama.

Car Stolen, Says Flournoy

WIDER WEST HUNTER PROMISED FOR CITY

Work Will Be Started When the Whitehall Regrading Is Completed.

The widening and regrading of West Hunter street will be started just as soon as Whitehall is completed between Mitchell and Trinity avenue. It has been planned to widen the street thirty feet from Ashby to the city line, and give it a smooth grade. The project has been in abeyance for several months.

Great progress was made on Whitehall street last week. The Georgia Railway and Power company removed all its tracks, and during the early part of the coming week work will be started on lowering the water main. It is expected that in two weeks the stretch will be cut down to the bridge grade, and along about the early part of December the street will be ready for traffic.

Despite protests, the steam shovel belonging to the county will be moved from Brady street to Ponce de Leon park, where the city and county will begin work on a sewer. The shovel will be moved to the sewer in the Ponce de Leon section was requested by the Shallopers. The old amusement grounds will be used as a camp and parade ground by thousands of visitors.

Raid Lula Bell's House.

Plain clothes police officers, working under Sergeant J. W. Barfield, last night raided the house of Lula Bell, at No. 165 1/2 Peters street. The Bell woman was placed under arrest, charged with operating a rooming house without a license. Four women inmates were not molested. Lula Bell will face Recorder Broyles in police court this morning.

Not in the Wilderness, But on Life's Highway. Is Place for Holiness

In a sermon on "Reconciled and Saved," delivered yesterday morning at the Central Presbyterian church, Dr. Dunbar Ogden said that the place for right living and for the setting of a holy life is not in the wilderness, away from sin and temptation, but on the throbbing highway of life, where the example will stand out before men and exert a constructive influence for good.

"Christ realized this pre-emptive truth and chose to live His life and exert His example not by a life of perfection in the wilderness, but by a life of service among men," said Dr. Ogden. "It is true now, as it was 2,000 years ago, and there is a crying need in the world today for men in the ranks of the great employed who will follow conscientiously and earnestly the example of Christ in a life of righteousness on the world's highway."

Dr. Ogden told of his visit during the past week to Davidson college, North Carolina, where he looked into the faces of 300 young men who are learning, he said, the fundamental principles of right living, in having their moral and spiritual natures trained at the same time they are pursuing the higher branches of learning in the university.

FOUR HIGH SCHOOLS CALLED INADEQUATE

Professor W. F. Dykes Sends Communication to Constitution on Situation in the Atlanta Schools.

Professor W. F. Dykes, principal of the Boys' high school in a signed statement declares that the four high school buildings are inadequate and unsuitable.

He calls attention to the fact that the high school enrollment is approximately 1,500—300 girls and 600 boys, and says that the attendance is not as large as it should be in a city of the size of Atlanta.

Professor Dykes does not explain the cause of the small enrollment but he makes the following terse comment:

"The high school enrollment is not as large as it should be. For a city of the size of Atlanta there should be 2,500 pupils in the high schools. To what extent the inadequacy or equipment has caused this small enrollment I am not prepared to state."

Hundreds Are Lost. Professor Dykes has been connected with the public school system of Atlanta for more than twenty years.

He says that every year he is forced to realize the loss to the young men and women of the high schools on account of the lack of modern equipment.

Their very surroundings are not conducive to their inspirational betterment, he says. A noble discontent is evident in their faces. They deserve better quarters and should have them.

Professor Dykes asks that the city build two new high schools at a cost of not less than $250,000 each. He declares that Atlanta cannot afford to mark time educationally when other cities are making progress.

Professor Dykes' Communication. Professor Dykes' communication follows:

"Editor Constitution—Without any desire to air my opinion or to usurp the authority of others I desire to submit to the public the following observations in regard to the high school situation in Atlanta.

"There are four high schools in the public school system, two for girls and two for boys. The enrollment is approximately 1,500—300 girls and 600 boys.

"These boys and girls are all housed in buildings that are inadequate and unsuitable. It is not my mission to state which one of the four is in greatest need of a new and more modern building. The city of Atlanta should disband enough of the present ones to make room for all four of them.

"The high school enrollment is not as large as it should be for a city of the size of Atlanta there should be 2,500 pupils in the high schools. To what extent the inadequacy of equipment has caused this small enrollment I am not prepared to state.

Serve City Faithfully.

"The members of the board of education are to be commended for their faithful service to the city. Much of their valuable time is being devoted to the schools. They are fully informed in regard to the high school situation and are doing what they can to relieve it.

"The high schools did not get one dollar of the recent bond money. The grammar schools needed all of it and more. Consequently the city of Atlanta plan to build during the coming year two new high schools to cost not less than $500,000 each. Can we afford to mark time educationally while other cities are progressing?

"The high schools are the people's colleges. They are preparing our boys and girls for citizenship. Good high schools help to make good grammar schools.

"My devotion to the Boys' high school due to nearly twenty years' service prompts me to write this letter.

"There is no finer set of boys in the world than the 367 boys now enrolled in the Boys' high school. Every year I am forced to realize the loss to these mainly boys on account of their lack of modern equipment. Their very surroundings are not conducive to their inspirational betterment. A noble discontent is evident in their faces. They desire better quarters and should have them.

"It is true they have a roof over head and every boy is seated at a desk of his own, but is this enough? We have built splendid churches for religious worship. Our magnificent new courthouse is nearing completion, an elegant place for trying criminals. We are provided with a handsome post-office for the delivery of mail. We have a costly public library which is doing a valuable service to the city. A new Y. M. C. A. building is being planned. But our boys in the Boys' high school are using the same old whittled desks at which their fathers probably sat twenty-five years ago. Each year they are becoming more and more out of touch with the various school enterprises that are of necessity housed in this building.

Forced to Divide School. "Five years ago the board was forced to divide the school by removing the technological department from this building in order to accommodate the increased enrollment.

Notwithstanding these discouragements the Boys' high school is graduating every year a large number of young men who are prepared to enter any college in the United States. Recent graduates include the new four-year course are now sustaining themselves creditably at Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell, the University of Virginia and many southern institutions.

"Our commercial department with only a two-year course is sending out every year about thirty young men fully equipped as stenographers and bookkeepers. In addition it is being tutored in English and mathematics.

Very respectfully,
W. F. DYKES,
Principal

Will Debate Abolition Of Capital Punishment At the Jewish Alliance

The first prepared debate under the auspices of the public speaking department of the Jewish Educational Alliance will be held in the rooms of the alliance at 8 o'clock tonight, upon the question: Resolved, That capital punishment should be abolished in Georgia.

An impromptu debate on the abolition of the death penalty was held last week. L. L. Brail and A. J. Frankel were pitted against S. D. Frankel and C. B. Kunitzky, who favored capital punishment, and were awarded the decision of the judges.

S. D. Frankel winner of the gold medal in the Tech debate last year, was elected president of the debating club. L. L. Brail vice president, M. F. Garberg, secretary, and C. L. Kunitzky, treasurer.

Gentlemen:—

We think the advertising carried in your medium merits an unsolicited testimonial from us. Our classified advertisement in the "CONSTITUTION", which we have been using for several weeks, has produced most satisfactory results.

Two things stand out paramount:— First, our classified advertisement in the "Constitution" has brought us inquiries and orders not only from every part of Georgia but from the entire South.

Second, the replies received have come from a better class of people than from any other classified advertisements we have used. We have received orders from bankers, merchants, professional men, men of character and business experience.

The results obtained from the use of your classified columns are highly satisfactory and are not a mere "happencance."

The expense associated with advertising of this kind is of secondary importance in comparison with the good results obtained, as we regard it. This is given for your information and disposition.

Very truly yours,

REAL FOOTBALL BATTLES APPROACHING

... Faces Georgia Eleven at Athens Next Saturday ...

"Bob" Edwards, baseball player and captain of the 1912 basketball team of Guilford College, who is playing left tackle on Carolina's football squad.

"Big" Abernethy, captain of Carolina's 1912 team who plays the position of right tackle. He weighs 188.

Graham Ramsey, of Salisbury, a member of the squad of Randolph-Macon in 1912 team who is trying out for right tackle on Carolina's team.

Taylor, a member of last year's team, who is playing the position of left half.

"Little" Abernethy, of Abernethy Brothers, who is playing center on Carolina's eleven.

The football practice game season is over. Starting Saturday the real elimination contests are in order. Good games seem certain.

WHIFFS

East v. West.
THE FOOTBALL championship of the country will never be decided except by the matter of opinion. It was hoped by some that there would be a game at the end of the season between the admitted champions of the east and west to decide this honor, but the western officials have thrown cold water on the proposition by saying that they would have every thing to lose and nothing to gain, and they are not far wrong at that.

In This Section.
IN THE SOUTH, however, there seems to be a broadening of contesting. The appearance of Virginia in Atlanta, the trip of Sewanee and L. S. U. to Texas, of Alabama to New Orleans to play Tulane, Tech to Florida, Vanderbilt to Charlottesville to play Virginia and North Carolina to Athens to play Georgia is widening the scope of football games throughout the entire south, and gives the southern football public an idea of just which is the best section.

The Comparison.
THESE games will furnish a good comparison, as Virginia plays eastern teams and all the leading elevens of the South Atlantic states, while Texas plays all the leading teams in that section. Football is certainly growing in the south, and this year's breadth and scope of play is on a wider basis than ever before. Next year's proposals to be even more so.

Coming Games.
THE GAMES that will be played this week and the weeks to follow are the football classics of the year. One can get a very good idea of which teams are pointed for the championships by the east, west and south, after the games of November 1. Every city of importance in the country has a good game on tap for that date.

He Should Worry.
THE LEDGER, at Birmingham, commenting on the Texas case, states that the S. I. A. acted in its usual clear-headedness on the case and with commendable speed. The article with this comment: "Texas was found not guilty, and Heisman has again been released. He has now to get up early, or to be more exact, stay up all the time."

Hope Its True.
IN THESE days of football and the winter league of baseball, the reports from St. Louis that Wallie Smith and Harry Holland are to be returned to the Cracker, who will close the season, and that Rippy Williams is to be sent here also by Griffith, is joyous news to the Cracker fans. Following the season, would bolster the Cracker offense immensely, to say nothing of the defense, which would be a great help. Chapman catching, Dent, Price, Thompson and Kissinger as a pitching staff, and the Cracker, with Wallie at third, and Long, Welch and Nixon in the outfield, looks good for another rag.

Nothing to It.
LARRY MULEAN, the Giants' big receiver, regarding whom there was a story printed a few days ago that he had received a $500 offer for his share of the world's series spiffs, as he was not with the Giants all season, has said that he got his full share, and how the report started that he did not is beyond him. He thinks of the well-timed Larry and the suds are going to have $2,100.

Is Doomed.
THE CINCINNATI base hit is doomed. After a season of trial, and we admit that it has been a failure, the committee is now getting ready to meet this fall and abolish it, returning to the old rule of scoring these hits as errors. The Cincinnati has been scored previous to this season. The Cincinnati hit was a good scoring rule about once in one hundred cases.

Shows Wisdom.
CLARK GRIFFITH is dickering for Mike Mitchell, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, to be added to his Washington Americans next season. In dickering for this player, Griffith is showing wisdom, for Mitchell is through experimenting with young unseasoned outfielders. Mitchell will help the Senators, and Mosler, Milan and Mitchell will make a very formidable trio for the men of Griff.

Mugs to Meet.
SALLY league mugs will meet at Savannah this week to discuss the situation in that circuit for the 1914 season. It is said that some changes in the league's personnel will be proposed.

NEGRO MOTORCYCLISTS WILL RACE TUESDAY

The negro motorcycle race meet, which was postponed twice last week, will be run Tuesday afternoon at the local Motordrome. Weather permitting, the race will start at 2:30 o'clock. Bill Jones and Loyd Brown will defend the title against the invasion of Ben Griggs and Willie McCabe, of Chattanooga, and the Wilson brothers, of New York.

Several Good Football Games On Menu for This Saturday; Elimination Begins Then

There is a more than usually good set of football games scheduled for the coming Saturday, games that will mean the elimination of this or that team from chances for the college title in their respective sections. Local interest will naturally settle on the Sewanee game at Columbia, and from all the dope obtainable on the two teams it is going to be a battle worth going to see. To pick the winner this far away is out of the question. Georgia's wonderful showing against Virginia Saturday should make her the favorite in the game with the University of North Carolina, although judging from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute-North Carolina score of last Saturday, the latter team have any easy time of it. Virginia Polytechnic Institute was able to win by only one touchdown margin. At Mobile, Auburn will get her first real test of the season, and just how strong the Georgia Bulldogs really is can be gained by a glance at the score they made against the Louisiana State University game, which, according to reports, is a strong one this season. In view of the game here last Saturday, the Virginia-Vanderbilt game is going to attract more attention and create more interest than any game scheduled for this day. Unless Virginia shows more strength than she did against Georgia, or un-

WATSON, PUT OFF TRAIN, SUSTAINS FATAL FALL

Dublin, Ga., October 26.—(Special.) Dave Watson died here this morning from injuries sustained when he fell from the railroad trestle over the Oconee river at this place last night. Mr. Watson stated that he got on the wrong train, and was carried about 2 miles across the river before the conductor discovered it, and put him off. He started back to town walking, and just before he reached the Dublin bridge, the trestle fell to the ground, about 35 feet, and was unable to get up, being obliged to lay on the ground all night. He was not found until early this morning, when a negro passing by saw him and notified the county sheriff, who brought him to the city. He had several ribs broken, and was injured about the head and neck with the exposure all night on the ground. He was taken to the hospital, where he died.

GAIN OF 110 SHOWN BY SUNDAY SCHOOLS OVER 1912 AVERAGE

Twenty Sunday schools of Atlanta, included in yesterday's comparative report of 1912 and 1913, showed an average gain of 10 per school within the past year. The total attendance in the twenty schools was 8,027 an average of 401, as compared with a total of 5,816 in the same schools last year, which was an average of only 291.

FROSTS ARE PREDICTED FOR SOUTHERN STATES

Washington, October 26.—Weather below normal, with rain distributed throughout the country, featured the weather bureau's forecast for the week, made public today. "A disturbance over the Mississippi valley today will advance eastward with rains in the eastern and southern states Monday night or Tuesday, and followed by decidedly colder weather overspreading the great central valleys and the gulf states Monday and the eastern states Tuesday or Wednesday," says the bulletin. "This change to colder weather will be attended by general frosts in the southern states except the Florida peninsula. "A general reaction to higher temperatures will set in over the plains states Monday. A disturbance in the far west Tuesday will move eastward, preceded by rising temperature and attended by general precipitation. This will cross the great central valleys about Thursday and the eastern states about Friday. Considerably colder weather will overspread the northwest Wednesday or Thursday."

Thirty Bales on Wagon.
Dublin, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Thirty bales of cotton were brought to this city on one wagon at one time Saturday afternoon last, by George Cullen, a large planter living about 10 miles from the city. The load was hauled from his farm with nine mules on a steel frame, roller-bearing wagon, and the prime cause of his bringing so much to one time was a wager with the man who sold the wagon as to its ability to carry the load.

TENNESSEE LEADS SOUTHERN TEAMS Georgia Is Second and Tech Third in Scoring Points. Auburn Team Only One Not Scored Upon as Yet.

The University of Tennessee leads the southern football teams in scoring points, including the games played Saturday. Georgia is second and Tech third. Auburn is the only southern eleven whose goal line has not been crossed this season. Here are the points scored by and against the southern teams this season:

Team	Points Scored	Points Against
Tennessee	58	0
Georgia	17	0
Tech	13	0
Auburn	0	0
Vanderbilt	0	0

Bill Is Ready to Die, So His Manager Says; Will Race on Tuesday

Thomasville, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—The grand jury which was investigating matters here during the past week decided that the Sunday bill was not screwed on tight enough in the county, and that the authorities look into the matter. They stated that they had found drug stores, bicycle supply stores, etc., doing business on Sunday, which was against the law and should be stopped.

DUBLIN FAIR SECURES TWO FINE EXHIBITS

Dublin, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Two counties that have prize winning exhibits at the state fair in Macon—Houston and Twiggs—will ship their exhibits to the Twelfth District fair to be held in Dublin the week following the close of the state fair. Both of the county exhibits are very fine, and have been admired greatly by the thousands that attended the fair in Macon, so that the management of the Dublin show feels much gratified that they were able to get these two counties to ship their exhibits here for display the week following. Besides these exhibits, a large number of concessions, midway shows, etc., from the state fair will come to Dublin to show in the Twelfth District fair, giving this fair some of the very best features to be had.

BIG RED FOX KILLED AFTER 9-HOUR CHASE

Dublin, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—R. A. Palmer, a rural route carrier in this county, killed a very large red fox here this morning early after a nine-hour chase. The fox was the largest seen in this county in many years, being about 25 pounds in weight. The fox was chased with an pack of cow hounds, and was caught about 7 a. m. in the lower edge of the county. Fox-hunting is not rare in any means in this county, and many parties follow the hounds in seasons. There are some splendid foxhounds owned here, and there is always a large number ready to go for a hunt.

Sewanee Forwards Touted As Good As Any in South

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 26.—(Special.)—Although Sewanee's five forwards from tackle to tackle, average but a little more than 175 pounds in weight this year, followers of the Tigers claim most unhesitatingly that they form the best rush line in the south. The Tiger fans have had all sorts of worries about backfield and ends, but they bank on that line to tear up any opposing quintet in the south. Four of the five were members of last year's eleven; the other, Barwell, scores Stoner, the star at center, and it is claimed that he is an even better man than his stocky, aggressive predecessor. Captain McCullum, at guard, is the heaviest man of the five, and the way he has played through the season, Tennessee's line leads Tiger rosters to believe that he has a great year before him and will spill many an opposing play besides making great gaping abysses for Sewanee's pet play—Quarterback Tolley's sneak through the center of the line.

MACON COUNCIL MAY STRIP MAYOR OF POWER

Macon, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—Friends of Mayor-elect Bridges Smith are considerably concerned over the fact that the city of Macon has authority to name the members of the police and fire departments under a city ordinance only and not by charter amendment as was generally supposed. According to a man who opposed the administration faction in the recent municipal campaign, in which ten of the Miller aldermen were elected, the city council can repeal this ordinance, which has been on the books for seventy years, and take the naming of the policemen and firemen into their own hands and appoint them as they see fit. Whether or not they will do it remains to be seen, but it is contended by this man that the only city officials the mayor has the authority by charter amendment to name are the members of the board of health.

NEWSPAPER MEN WILL HAVE GOLF TOURNEY

Arrangements have been perfected for the holding of a golf tournament over the East Lake course of the Atlanta Athletic club, the entrants to be newspaper men only. W. L. Halstead, of The Constitution; O. E. Keeler, of The Georgian; and John Fuschel, of The Journal, have been appointed as a committee to meet with George Adair and arrange all the final details of the tournament. Mr. Adair is going to give a handsome trophy to the winner of the tournament, here to be thirty entrants. No qualifying round will be played, the thirty-two players will be paired and in the first round of match play, the defeated sixteen will form a second flight. There will also be a trophy for the runner-up in the first flight and one for the winner of the defeated sixteen. The first round of match play must be played by Saturday. The committee will meet Tuesday and make the drawings and then the players can start to work. Three weeks have been allowed for the consummation of the tournament, though the players are sure to complete it in less than time.

GIANTS DEFEAT WHITE SOX

New York, October 26.—The ten-poum bout between Leach Cross and Willie Ritchie, which was to have taken place here next Wednesday night, has been postponed to November 10, because of an injury sustained by Cross to a muscle over his ribs. A specialist today said Cross will be able to fight November 10.

GRAND JURY WOULD SIT ON THOMASVILLE LID

Thomasville, Ga., October 26.—(Special.)—The grand jury which was investigating matters here during the past week decided that the Sunday bill was not screwed on tight enough in the county, and that the authorities look into the matter. They stated that they had found drug stores, bicycle supply stores, etc., doing business on Sunday, which was against the law and should be stopped.

WILSON TO OPEN MOBILE CONGRESS

Meeting Expected to Be Most Important Ever Held by Southern Commercial Congress—To Honor Morgan.

Mobile, Ala., October 26.—Featured by a speech of President Wilson, the seventh annual convention of the Southern Commercial Congress will be opened here tomorrow for a three-day session. In conjunction with a celebration of the opening of the Panama canal and a memorial to Senator John T. Morgan, the congress will be held for more than thirty years was a strong advocate of a water route across the isthmus.

President Wilson will arrive here early tomorrow morning and at 8 o'clock the convention will be opened with a breakfast for the president. Later in the morning he will address the convention and will leave for Washington shortly after noon. Until Saturday night it was not assured that the president would come here because of the delicate Mexican situation, and when he left it was to hurry back to Washington because of the conditions in Mexico.

"HOME-COMING DAY" AT THE TABERNACLE

All Members of Church Are Warmly Welcomed on Their Arrival Sunday.

"Home-coming day" at the Baptist Tabernacle on Sunday morning and evening was a distinct success. Regardless of the fact that the services were of a religious nature, it seemed, at times, that the spirit of a family reunion pervaded the big auditorium, and more closely bound together the members of the church. Many who had attended the services, both during the day and at night.

The morning service was marked by the appearance of the church officials who met the incoming churchgoers in the lobby of the tabernacle. They warmly welcomed each member or visitor as they appeared at the church doors.

Rev. Lincoln McConnell, the pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Dibble, made it a point to greet the members of each person entering the auditorium, so far as they were personally able to do so.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated for the occasion, bunting being festively hung from the balconies, while fall flowers and golden wreaths were placed in vases in window niches and on the postium.

The morning sermon by Rev. McConnell was taken from the Bible story of Christ and Peter.

NEW ORGANIST WILL PLAY NEXT SUNDAY

Colonel W. L. Peel announced Sunday afternoon at the Auditorium organ recital that William Zeuch, the Chicago concert organist, selected by the Musical Festival association as successor to Dr. Starnes, will take up his duties next Sunday.

"Mr. Zeuch comes to us as a finished musician," said Colonel Peel, addressing the large audience at Sunday's concert. "We have faith that his efforts here will be more than crowned with success."

"The members of the Music Festival association also want to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., who has so liberally given his services to the music festival directors for the past month. He has been delighted with his sincere and musicianly attitude and we take this opportunity of publicly thanking him."

Sheldon, assisted by Miss Sylvia Spritz, a tiny little woman with an immense voice, rendered his last concert before an appreciative audience Sunday afternoon.

Prominent place on the program was given to Theodore De Hoese's "Cantata in F major," which was given in honor of the musician, who died during the past week. The rendition of this number by Sheldon was extremely effective and brought forth rounds of applause which in turn, occasioned an encore.

"Chant D'Amour," a light but deeply poetic hit, in which the organ accessories play a large part, such as the use of the chimes, the flute notes, and the deeper tones, was brilliantly executed and as warmly received.

Miss Spritz's rendition of her several numbers deserves more than limited space permits. Miss Spritz, with her far-reaching yet extremely flexible mezzo voice, captured the hearts of her audience completely. Her first number, Salieri's well-known, all-but-recited "The Piper," a dainty little dramatic bit of voice technique which, in its delivery, was all but thrilling.

In her second effort, Brewer's "The Fairy Piper," a dainty little dramatic bit of voice technique which, in its delivery, was all but thrilling.

TODAY AT MOVIES

The Vaudeville.

With Rosemary Thebein the leading role, a beautiful two-reel Rolian film called "Hearts" will be shown at the Vaudeville today. The cruel and heartless actions of one woman toward another lay the corner-stone for a deeply absorbing plot. The woman who hates in "Hearts" is a wealthy mother-in-law, the one who suffers is the object of this hatred—a sweet, simple, country maiden, whose only sin has been her beautiful love and honorable marriage to a worthy man.

Circumstances being about a fatal misunderstanding between the girl and her devoted husband, which leads to her being away to suffer alone in a foreign land and are happily reunited after a long and arduous journey.

A humorous Keystone film, entitled "The Janitor," will also be shown. The Belmont Comedy Four is continuing a popular engagement.

The Alcazar.

The principal photo play at the Alcazar today is entitled, "A Puritan Episode." It is a powerful drama in two reels, dealing with the picturesque New England days, when the stern Puritans of olden times believed in witchcraft. A beautiful love story is woven around the central plot. The costumes are interesting, both from a scenic and historical standpoint. The story is well made, and is one of the most popular features ever introduced in a local motion picture house.

The Savoy.

One of the big motion picture features of the season in Atlanta will be the presentation at the Savoy Wednesday and Thursday of "Chelsea 750," an intensely dramatic and physical story, directed under the direction of Daniel Frohman, with the eminent actor, Henry Fonda, in the leading role.

The Alamo.

Don Ferrandou, the operatic baritone, whose magnificent solo work has been a feature at the Alamo during the past week, will sing the famous song "Carman," this afternoon from 3 o'clock on throughout the afternoon and evening performances.

The Lanier.

A little girl saved from death in the quicksands, while the man who gave his life to save her, sinks from sight in the whirlpool of a mad world, which will be the leading feature at the Lanier today. It is one of the most beautifully produced in the western pictures. The central figure is a horse thief who seeks employment on a western ranch and rescues the rancher's daughter from a mad world, which will be the leading feature at the Lanier today.

Roosevelt Leaves Rio.

Rio de Janeiro, October 26.—Theodore Roosevelt left Rio de Janeiro at 8 o'clock this evening by a special train for Sao Paulo. The party was accompanied by the train by a representative of President Roosevelt, by all the ministers, the diplomatic corps, members of parliament and higher officials. The crowds cheered the departing visitors.

PI KAPPA PHI STARTS GEORGIA TECH CHAPTER

With J. D. Carroll of Columbia, S. C., a national officer of the fraternity, presiding, and a number of representatives from the various chapters of the organization in the Georgia School of Technology with a dinner at the Kimball house Saturday night, the chapter will be known as the Georgia Iota, and numbers fourteen members, three of whom are Atlantians.

NEGRO IS CAPTURED AS HE LEAVES SHOP

Captured by Call Officers Jones and Watson as he was leaving a butcher's shop on East Avenue, a young negro, Paul Johnson, a young negro man living at 122 Port street, will face recorder's court this afternoon charged with burglary.

"The New Office Girl."

A tearing burlesque comedy, "The New Office Girl," will be shown at the Columbia Burlesque theater for the week, which begins Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The play is a comedy in two acts, and is a comedy in two acts, and is a comedy in two acts.

"Up Fool Hill and Beyond," Subject of Dr. C. A. Ridley

Dr. Caleb A. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, spoke Sunday night on "Up Fool Hill and Beyond," this being the subject in series of talks by college men of the city. In his introduction he said:

"Fool hill is an elevation which lies across the way between the plains of childhood and the undulating peaks of manhood. No man has ever faced the seriousness of living and been free of it without first having climbed Fool hill.

"Fool hill is the playground of the big boy. On its slopes are enacted the antics of a boyhood, a play of its uneven way is marked by a thousand skulls and cross-bones, and yet, they are without warning to those who stagger over them."

Wrecks Without Warning.

"Human wrecks seem to be without warning. If men see storm-signals hanging in the sky, they rush to their little barks, but a million grinning skeletons along the ways of manhood seem to have no influence upon them."

"I am addressing men tonight who are supposed to be up Fool hill and looking back upon its follies and forward to the issues of real life. And since we cannot change the past by meditation, and may enrich the future by contemplation, I am going to ask you to face toward the future with me tonight."

Outlines His Subject.

Following the introduction, Dr. Ridley outlined his subject under the following heads: (1) Things to Avoid, (2) Things to Remember, (3) Things to Do. In discussing the things to avoid, the doctor mentioned bad company, scoffers at religion and the professional idler. He then exhorted all to remember that God is with them, and that even civilizations leaving Him out of their life finally perished.

Under the second heading, "Things to Do," Dr. Ridley discussed (1) Duties to One's Self, (2) Duties to One's Fellow, (3) Duties to One's God. At the 11 o'clock service, Dr. Ridley spoke on "Jesus as Light," a packed house. There were several public pro-selections and a prayer unite with the church at this service.

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.) A great bit of vaudeville is announced for the Forsyth for the week starting with Mattie and the week starting with Harry Butler and Herbert Corthell. Both comedies are new and are being presented for the first time in Atlanta. The comedies are being presented by the well-known comedian, Harry Butler, and the well-known comedienne, Mattie.

"An Orphan's Prayer."

(At the Bijou.) With this afternoon's performance the Bijou stage company will present a fourth week of stock at the Bijou, presenting Edward De Courcier's successful comedy drama, "An Orphan's Prayer." This play is a new and original story, which has been a great success in many respects from the style of the plot, the acting, the scenery, and the music. HE CLAIMS HE FLED TO PROTECT HIS WIFE

With more notes and property than all his possible obligations, everything could be easily disposed of, he was content to remain in the new land—safe in the hope that the Nemesis, Beasley, would not locate him.

Then the Pinkertons set upon his trail, found him, and he was brought back to Georgia. He was forced into making a clean breast of the story of unusual misfortune and fate.

Charges Against Moore.

The case went to the jury in a double-barreled form—the trial on the criminal indictment and the equity master of abatement. Case after case was cited in which it was sought to show that Moore collected either cash, checks or notes for policies which were never delivered, some of which applications for them were turned down. It was sought to be shown that in business at Denver several years ago under the name of J. W. Lindsey, he had been short several hundred dollars in his accounts with this same company, which he did not know until last week that J. C. Moore and J. W. Lindsey were one and the same. It was attempted to be shown that Moore sold to a barber of Atlanta named Reed $500 of stock in a coffee importing company at Gulfport, Miss., but after investigation Reed found the deal a fake, and that in the past few weeks he had paid back to Reed through the barred door of the prison here $200 of the $300 balance. Reed's attorney, J. C. Moore, should not press the matter in the criminal court for sixty days. Other charges were brought into the mass of evidence which took up days of the trial.

Moore attacked the company he once represented and denounced it in scathing terms; he alluded to the company of officials before him as "that galaxy of insurance and banking on the slams of Tammany." He held his own with the shrewd attorneys in all their grilling and frequently during the hearing of the civil part of the trial when he was on the stand as a witness—not a defendant—made a statement of colloquy was more like a finished word duel than the examination of a witness. He was eloquent in his statement, and tears flowed copiously. Backed against the wall of circumstances, a stranger in a strange land, with no one to go his bond, with sentiment against him, with the mystery back of him that his story did not, could not, explain fully to the skeptical hearer—

Moore sought his way to a clean vindication. The scene when the verdict was rendered was unusual. There was a murmur, then almost a roar of approval. Moore's friends did not leave his hand before spectators who never saw the man until a few hours before, writing home addresses and asked him to be their guest, declaring that they would have a vendetta against anyone who would do damage for malicious prosecution if it had been possible.
