New York River Victim Identified as Pretty Anna Ammuller and Father Hans Schmidt Confesses He Murdered, Cut Body to Pieces and Threw Into River.

HER BODY SO PRECIOUS PRIEST COULDN'T BEAR THOUGHT OF LOSING IT

So He Decided to Kill Her. Priest Admits He Married Himself to the Girl and That She Was About to Become a Mother—He Tells Police How He Killed Her and Then Used Butcher Knife and Saw to Dismember Body — Police Say Priest Killed Girl Because She Was About to Become a Mother.

New York, September 14—With the arrest early today of the Rev. Hans Schmidt, assistant rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, charged with the murder of Anna Ammuller, a domestic, the mystery surrounding the finding of parts of the dismembered body of a girl in the Hudson river was solved. Schmidt, according to the police reports, confessed, and at the time of his arrest attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a safety razor blade. "I killed her because I loved her so much," Schmidt is alleged to have told his captors; but the police version of the motive for the crime is that the young woman was about to become a mother. He had married her through a ceremony of his own performing, without witnesses.

Used Butcher Knife and Saw. According to the police and the district attorney's office, Schmidt's confession was full and absolute. In it he is quoted as saying that he killed his companion with a butcher knife, and cut up the body with the knife and a saw. The deed was committed, the police say, while the woman slept, shortly after midnight on September 2, in an apartment in Bradhurst avenue, where the priest had placed her five days before.

When her heart had ceased beating, according to the alleged confession, Schmidt carried the body from the bed to the bathroom and, placing it in the tub, began immediately his gory task of cutting it up. With the keen knife and the saw he cut off the head, arms and legs. Still fearful of detection, he then cut the body in two.

Made Five Trips With Parts. Five bundles, wrapped in bed clothes and papers, were made of the six parts. Five times Schmidt left the apartment house with a bundle to cross the Hudson river to the Jersey shore.

Five times he leaned over the stern of the ferryboat in midstream and gently gave the river his burden. Then he returned to his church. The stains of the girl's blood still discolored the bath tub when detectives searched the apartment today. Schmidt told the police he had taken the mattress on which she lay when dealt the death blow under cover of darkness to a vacant lot nearby and buried it. In the apartment, among other things, the police found a marriage license issued in New York last February and bearing the names of the priest and the murdered woman.

Both Priest and Bridegroom. According to Schmidt's confession he went through a marriage ceremony with the girl. In this ceremony Schmidt was both priest and bridegroom. The ceremony was performed in a private home. A gaily colored pillow of unusual pattern led to Schmidt's apprehension. This pillow, stained with blood and soiled with the filth of the river, was wrapped around a portion of the torso. The detectives traced the pillow to its manufacturer, the manufacturer traced it to the dealer; the dealer traced it to Schmidt. And the police, tracing Schmidt and the girl, knew all about both of them hours before they arrested him. Schmidt was arrested by Inspector Faurel in charge of the detective bureau. The priest was dressed in full clerical garb when the detectives entered his rooms in the parish house of his church in West 125th street. The inspector produced a photograph of Miss

TRAIL OF BIG ROBBERY LEADS TO RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., September 11—Officials of the Southern Express company and detectives who are investigating the theft of $71,000 in currency while in transit from New York to Savannah, came here today and spent many hours in secret conference. They left tonight for Rocky Mount, N. C. through which the Atlantic Coast Line train conveying the money passed. Division Superintendent Duckner, of Wilmington, N. C., who was in charge of the investigating squad here, said that while several clues were being followed, there was nothing definite to give out regarding the possibility of arrests.

AMERICANS HELD BY MEXIC REBELS

One Hundred, Including Several Women and Children, Said to Be Prisoners—The Mexic Congress Convenes.

Mexico City, September 14—One hundred Americans, including a number of women and children, refugees from Torreon are reported to have fallen into the hands of rebels while proceeding overland to Saltillo. The authorities at Saltillo decline to take the responsibility of sending a force to their rescue, fearing, they say, that the rebels might commit atrocities on the refugees which otherwise might be avoided.

The report comes from an official source at Saltillo, but has not been confirmed. The American embassy has been advised, and has called on the Mexican foreign office to investigate the matter, and do whatever is possible to relieve the Americans should the report prove true.

Senior Gamboa, the foreign minister, has had no advice further than the communication from the embassy. He expressed regret, but added that it was no more than might be expected as the result of the "neutrality policy" of the United States, which had hampered the administration in proceeding with a strong hand against rebels and bandits.

Fate of Refugees in Doubt. General Truce Aubert, a federal commander with 1,000 men, which is proceeding from the north to the relief of Torreon, passed Saltillo yesterday. He is traveling over approximately the same route as the Americans, and it is regarded as possible that the rebels will disappear before his advance. He is, however, making slow progress. Meantime the fate of the refugees remains in doubt.

The Americans are headed by Deputy Consul General J. C. Allen, of Monterey, who went to Torreon to notify American residents there of President Wilson's exit warning. They left Torreon on September 11, traveling by the most available conveyances across the plains in the direction of Saltillo, there having been no railroad communication for many weeks. They were passed on the way by J. R. Everett, of Palestine, Texas, near Harrah, about half way to Saltillo, or approximately 80 miles from Torreon. Everett reached Saltillo September 10 and reported that the caravan was making slow headway owing to the bad roads and poor equipment.

Mexic Congress Convenes Today. With Envoys Lind still awaiting instructions at Vera Cruz, the Mexican authorities appear to regard the diplomatic exchanges as a closed incident. Interest in the possible resumption of the negotiations is overshadowed by the approaching opening of congress and the delivery of Provisional President Huerta's message. Congress will convene tomorrow.

Much importance is attached to the message, which is expected to review recent developments in the relations between Mexico and the United States, and to reveal more intimately the attitude of the administration in face of what Mexicans regard as the coercive measures of the United States. That there will be two well-organized wings on the floor of the chamber of deputies, whose chief object will be to oppose the influence of the Catholic party, is common report. It also is rumored that the representatives of the Catholic party, which failed to nominate a presidential candidate, will throw their support to General Huerta in an endeavor to combat his elimination as a political factor.

Colonel David de la Fuente, provisional minister of communications, presented his resignation to the president today. It is understood it will be accepted.

PASTOR AND FLOCK SPEND DAY IN JAIL

Chattooga Citizens Jailed for Concealing Ugly Charges May Renew Bond Request.

Rome Ga. September 14—(Special) All seven of the prominent Chattooga county people thrown into jail Saturday by Judge Moses Wright for contempt of court, and under indictment for compounding a felony in their alleged concealing of evidence and witnesses in the charges of rape and seduction, spent Sunday in jail at Summerville.

William Bagley is also held under indictment for the rape of his own daughter, and William Hayes is indicted for the seduction of Washington Reynolds' daughter. These cases are expected to come up in the regular order of court, but it is probable that Judge Wright will be asked to allow a hearing today by the defense through which they hope to be freed on bond.

Besides Hayes and Bagley mentioned above, those in jail are Rev. W. Mulkey Hill, age 60, a preacher in the Methodist church; W. H. Dempsey, Washington Reynolds, his son, Benjamin Reynolds, and Mrs. Ethel Bagley, Hayes' daughter of William Bagley, who married William Hayes, and is said to have fled to Alabama with him following the seduction charge.

Pastor Hill, who pleaded that if allowed bond the people of his church would raise a $100,000 security, told his attorney, W. M. Henry, after the hearing that it was the first time that he had ever been in a courthouse, and that he believed when he made arrangements to settle the rape and seduction cases out of court that he was helping the peace of the community. All of the parties were members of his flock, and he stated that he wished to end the affair.

It is charged that in the deal engineered by the pastor, Washington Reynolds was to receive $150 for dropping the seduction charge against Hayes, and that Mrs. Hayes was to testify against her father on the rape charge.

2 KILLED AND 2 HURT IN A WILD AUTO RIDE. Fort Wayne Ind. September 14—Bessie Geary 24 of Montpelier Ind. and Willard Fyback 30, of Bluffton were killed early today in an automobile accident which ended a wild ride in a borrowed car at Hazel Stewart, also of Montpelier, and Jack Lindemann of this city, the other occupants of the car are unconscious at a local hospital.

Dr. back worked for Larry Levenstein who told the police he had not given his chauffeur permission to use the machine. The automobile skidded on a turn in the outskirts of the city and plunged down a ten-foot embankment.

IN DIVORCE COURT AGED HUSBAND BEGS FOR RECONCILIATION

Athens, Ga., September 14—(Special)—"Miss Mary," he pleaded, as he followed her to the street, "please let's be friends again. Don't you remember the old times? Please go home with me. I'll have a good supper hot and tempting, and we can have the best time! Won't you, Miss Mary? Please go home with me—I have planned it all out."

The speaker was a man of fifty-five years. The woman he pleaded with was fifty-one. They had been married and lived together for twenty-five years and had children larger than either of them is now. But some months ago there arose differences. There was trouble in the family. It was said the growing children did not respect their father. The mother declared that she was afraid to live with her husband. She began suit for divorce and a petition for temporary alimony. The judge heard the case Saturday between these elderly Jackson county people. He reserved his opinion till next week.

In the courtroom the husband, A. S. Puckett, offered his wife a bright new twenty-dollar bill. She at first refused it, but at the advice of the judge she accepted it. Then when the court had adjourned the husband could not bear to allow an opportunity go by which might result in reconciliation. He got his hat and his grip and followed her out the hall, seizing her hand, and then into the very street, begging her by her pet name "Miss Mary," the name he had used when he courted her a long time ago, to go home with him last night. But she went her own way and he went his.

CATCH CORDELE AGENT IN WISCONSIN WOODS

Frank Furbush, Said to Have Taken Over $5,000 From Express Company, Nabbed.

Cordele, Ga. September 14—(Special)—After pursuing Frank Furbush, alias S. J. Smith the absconded agent of the Southern Express company at Warwick since the night of July 17, detectives for the company have located and arrested him near Superior, Wis. and will return with him immediately to Sylvester, where he will be given trial in Worth county superior court.

Furbush, it is charged, assisted by a book agent named Sturkey, got away with all of the money of the company on hand amounting to several hundred dollars, and express money orders that, if cashed, would have been worth $5,000. Several of the orders for $50 each, it is said, were cashed by Furbush and Sturkey at Rhine, Indiana, and other points under the assumed name of Smith. Furbush served as assistant agent for the express company at Warwick for several months. He had only been agent for a few days when he absconded.

PLOT TO ROB TRAIN FOILED BY OFFICERS. Jackson, Tenn., September 14—An attempt to hold up a northbound Mobile and Ohio railroad train near this city failed, through information given the officers by a farmer. As a result of his story, a young man with letters in his possession addressed to George Sherwood was placed under arrest, and a visit to the scene of the intended hold-up disclosed three quarts of nitroglycerin and a quantity of fuse.

According to the farmer, he was approached several days ago at his home by two men who outlined a plan to have confederate on the train stop it at a designated spot, blow the safe in the express car and loot the mail car. The farmer was asked to be a member of the party. He acquiesced but informed the authorities. When the train left Jackson at 11:45 o'clock last night it carried a posse eight miles north of Jackson, was stopped, according to the prearranged plan. Two men climbed aboard the engine, and the posse opened fire. A number of shots were exchanged, but the bandits fled to the hills and escaped.

HOW COST OF LIVING CONTINUES TO MOUNT

Three Per Cent Higher Than Year Ago and 15 Per Cent Higher Than 2 Years Ago.

Washington, September 14—The cost of living on June 15 was approximately 60 per cent higher than the average price between 1890 and 1900, more than three per cent higher than it was a year ago and nearly 15 per cent higher than it was two years ago. Investigations of retail prices in 40 cities, conducted by experts of the bureau of labor show prices practically at the same level as last November when the high records of the last quarter century were reached.

Fourteen articles of food were investigated, and compared with the average price between 1890 and 1900. Every one except sugar showed a marked advance, bacon, which led in the soaring, went up 128 1/2 per cent. Some remarkable advances. Other articles which showed remarkable advances were: Pork chops 111 per cent; round steak 102 1/2; smoked ham 84; beef 78 1/2; sirloin steak 75 1/2; rib roasts 75; lard 66 1/2; corn meal 57 1/2; potatoes 44 1/2; butter 41 1/2; eggs 40 1/2; milk 38 1/2; and flour 38 1/2. During the same period sugar showed a decline of 8 per cent. During the last year prices of eleven of fifteen articles investigated went up. Bacon advanced 162 per cent; smoked ham 141; pork chops 124; eggs 118; eggs 117; round steak 101 1/2; sirloin steak 98; lard 72; rib roast 63; butter 58; and milk 41. The other four declined as follows: Potatoes 31 1/2; sugar 152; wheat flour 77; and corn meal 39.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS MEET IN CONVENTION

Jena, Germany, September 11—The National Socialist convention began its sessions here today with an unusually large attendance. Frederick Ebert, of Berlin, and Dr. Louis Wilhelm Beck of Gotha, members of the chamber of deputies, were elected chairmen. Delegates from England, Austria, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Portugal addressed the convention. James Keir Hardie, Socialist and independent labor member of the house of commons, "in behalf of the English Social Democracy and two millions of trading classes" said the English laboring classes were trying to create a united Socialist party to fight militarism by all the means at its command. If the statesman did not secure peace for Europe, he declared, then the International Social Democracy would do so.

There probably will be a discussion tomorrow on the question of a general strike, a number of petitions for which have been received.

SULZER TO BE TRIED ON ORIGINAL CHARGES

New York, September 14—Governor Sulzer will be tried by the court of impeachment on the charges as they stand and will not face additional charges, it was announced late today after a prolonged conference of counsel for the assembly committee having the impeachment proceedings in charge. The committee of impeachment managers will reconvene tomorrow and hold daily public sessions until Wednesday, the day preceding the beginning of the Sulzer trial.

Aaron J. Levy, majority leader of the assembly, today declined to make public the name of the lawyer who had been reported as having brought what Mr. Levy considered to be a proposition from Governor Sulzer. "I cannot give his name until he releases me from a personal pledge I made him," Mr. Levy said.

VETERANS OF BLUE COME TO ATLANTA ON PEACE ERRAND

Members of G. A. R. From Boston Given Cordial Greeting by Their Opponents in Days of Sixties.

OLD CAMP FIRE SONGS ARE SUNG AT GATHERING

At Close of Reception to Visitors by Mitchel Post, Blue and Gray Unite in Singing "America."

One hundred Grand Army veterans from Boston, with their wives, spent Sunday in Atlanta, evidencing that the divisional lines caused by the days of '61 have been forever wiped from the slate of time. They left at midnight for the annual G. A. R. encampment at Chattanooga.

When their train arrived at the union station Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, confederate veterans and city officials, joined with local G. A. R. men in greeting the northern visitors, and extending the hospitality of Atlanta.

Reception Tendered Them. In the afternoon a reception was tendered them at the Mitchel Post, G. A. R. 210-12 Gould building, Colonel W. M. Scott, past vice-commander-in-chief, being assisted in entertaining the visitors by prominent Atlanta Confederate veterans, G. A. R. men and citizens of Atlanta.

The hours were given over to reminiscences of the Great Struggle. Gathered together, they discussed many of the incidents of the war, spoke of their hardships in a light vein and passed an afternoon in which good fellowship prevailed.

Colonel A. J. McBride, of Atlanta, who fought for the gray, told incidents which happened on "little round top" on the field of Gettysburg, Miss. Lou Wadsworth, of the Massachusetts Women's relief corps, read a poem on the united nation, and other women of the corps paid their compliments to the occasion, and their pleasure at being given such a royal welcome in the southland.

But near the close of the afternoon tears were brought to the eyes of all when general veterans of both sides sang their old campfire songs, to famous church tunes. And at the close the men in union blue and confederate gray linked arms and with gray heads lifted high, sang verse after verse of "America" until the building fairly rang with "My country, 'tis of thee."

Day Has Been Happy One. "This day has been one of the happiest ever spent" one of the men in blue remarked as the train left at midnight for Chattanooga. And the others chimed in with their praises of Atlanta, southern hospitality, and a tribute to the men who wore the Gray.

Mitchel Post, G. A. R., together with a number of confederate veterans, will leave this morning on a special car to attend the Chattanooga reunion.

During the course of the week several thousand of the veterans are expected to come down to Atlanta from Chattanooga and spend the day here. Fred Houser, of the convention bureau, will make a special trip to Chattanooga today or tomorrow, to extend a special invitation to those present at the encampment.

It is thought that several hundred of the men who served under Sherman and fought in Atlanta will make the trip to Atlanta and meet "the old boys" at the Soldiers' home, and talk over the old days.

Amuller and asked Schmidt if he knew the girl.

He Tried to Cut His Throat. The priest after a moment of hesitation, inquired whether his visitors were police officers. His actions indicated that he was expecting arrest. He then asked permission to change his clothes and it was when he left the room Inspector Fauret declared that he attempted to cut his throat with a safety razor blade.

Early today attending to parish ioners of the church, Schmidt said to the Rev. Father Huntmann rector of St. Joseph's church that he would hear no more confessions and when asked for his reason said "I have something of importance to tell you."

With his superior Schmidt then returned to the study where the latter told all that had transpired in the Bradhurst avenue flat where according to his alleged confession he murdered the girl.

Father Huntmann conferred with his other assistants and it was agreed that the authorities should be notified. The police, however, were even then on Schmidt's trail and his arrest followed shortly.

Schmidt was taken to the Tombs. According to the police he made a full confession after which he was taken before Coroner Penning who committed him to the Tombs until the inquest is held.

The Confession of the Priest. The confession which the police say Schmidt signed follows:

I met Anna Amuller two years ago at the parish house of St. Boniface church. She was employed as a servant there. I was attracted by her beauty. I became infatuated with her. I loved her because I loved her so much. She was so beautiful. I could not let her live without me.

I had made up my mind that she and I could not live together. I was a priest and must remain with my church. I could not let her go away from us. So I opened the door of the flat.

I awakened her. I told her I had come to fulfill my threat. Then I drew the knife across her throat.

Cut Body Into Six Pieces. I cut the body into six pieces. I made trips to the Fort Lee Ferry each time with a part of her precious body in a bundle. We on the ferry boat reached the middle of the stream. I would throw a piece into the water and when the boat reached the other side of the river I would return and go back to the boat with the next piece. I had disposed of the body. I wanted to destroy all evidence of the crime. I took the mattress on which I had slain her and carried it to a vacant lot and there I burned it. I am sure that if I can say I must pay the penalty. There is nothing else for me to do. But I loved Anna Amuller.

She wanted me to marry her and I procured a marriage license. She trusted me.

He Married Himself to Her. I am a priest and ordained to perform the marriage ceremony so when she insisted upon a ceremony I married myself to her. There was no need of any other priest doing it. It was just as simple as if I had called in another person with authority to perform a marriage ceremony. She was my wife.

After Confessing He Went to Sleep. Schmidt after being assigned to a cell in the Tombs went to sleep. According to his story he was born in Aschaffenburg, Germany in 1881. He attended college and at the age of 18 enrolled in St. Augustine's seminary in Maine and on December 31, 1908, he was ordained a priest. He held several charges in Germany and then came to America because of poor health. After remaining in New York city a short time he was assigned to a church at Louisville, Ky.

Little Known of Girl. Little is known of the history of Anna Amuller before she took employment in the St. Boniface parish house the week before Christmas, 1910, according to a statement issued tonight by Father Braun, St. Boniface parish house in the summer of 1911 returning on Thanksgiving day 1912 and left the second time August 30 last. At this time she said she was about to be married and go to Ohio to live. Father Braun said that she and his sister who is his housekeeper had become attached to the girl because she was very pleasant and a faithful worker.

She Came From Germany. The priest who came to this country from Germany about two and a half years ago, I understand she was an orphan and I have a dim recollection that she had an advertisement that I placed in a newspaper for a girl. While she had no credentials I employed her.

Despite her statement to another maid employed in the rectory that she was leaving to be married, Father Braun said tonight he was forced to discharge her two weeks ago because her mode of living was unsatisfactory.

The girl as nearly as could be learned was 27 years old.

How the Murderer Was Traced. The many clues presented by the amateur detectives and by the parents and friends of missing girls as to the possible identity of the murdered young woman did not lead the men under Inspector Fauret's astringent and clever piece of detective work finally led to the clearing up of the mystery. Inspector Fauret had assigned Detectives James J. O'Neill, Frank Cassassa and Richard McKenna to locate the house or flat where the murder was committed. They made a house-to-house search in the vicinity of the store of George Sachs on Eighth avenue where was purchased the pillow.

slip in which parts of the body were wrapped. In this same locality the tar paper found with parts of the torso was purchased. It was learned that Sachs' record revealed that the only pillowslip of the description, not previously traced had been sent to a purchaser at the Bradhurst avenue address. On Saturday the detectives learned that the third floor rear apartment had been rented recently, but the occupants had not been seen for several days.

An inspection of the flat convinced them that there had been the apartment where the river victims' body was dissected. On the floor were blood stains and articles of wearing apparel and baggage.

Property of Girl Found. In the flat were two trunks and a satchel. The property of Miss Amuller as well as letters that connected her with the rectory of the St. Boniface church armed with this information and a description from the superintendent of the apartment house of the man who had rented the flat, the detectives interviewed Father Braun, rector of St. Boniface.

From Father Braun the detectives learned that Miss Amuller left his employ two weeks ago and that Father Schmidt while an assistant pastor there had shown unusual interest in the girl. Piecing their threads of evidence together the detectives delved into the life of Father Schmidt and last night laid their facts before Inspector Fauret.

With the three detectives and his secretary Inspector Fauret went over the evidence and at an early hour this morning they arrived at the rectory of St. Joseph's church. The arrest of Schmidt followed a few moments later.

Father Schmidt a "Wanderer". While not denying that the Rev. Hans Schmidt had been ordained and had been permitted to officiate at the inquest today after his arrest from the head of the New York diocese characterized him as a wanderer and not a priest of the diocese and as not being recognized although he was assigned to assist the rector of its churches.

After his arrest and while en route to the Tombs Schmidt was questioned by the detectives. They asked him what he had done with the mattress and he told them they said Inspector Fauret stopped the machine at the vacant lot and the charred remains of the mattress were found. Then Schmidt was asked where he bought the knife and the saw with which the body of Miss Amuller was cut up. He indicated a shop as he pointed to a knife with a 10 inch blade in the window as practically identical with the one he used. This shop is not far from the Tombs further up the street.

Schmidt the police say pointed to two butchers' saws in a shop window.

I bought one of those he said laconically.

Girl Born in Hungary. Information regarding the early life of Anna Amuller was given tonight by her cousin Joseph Iglar of East Seventieth street. She was 20 years old born in Oedenburg, Hungary and lived there until she came to this country in 1911.

Her father was a child and she had been supported by an aunt who sent her to a Catholic seminary. The girl was bright and pretty and when she was graduated in her seventeenth year arrangements were made for her to receive a musical education. For some reason these arrangements were abandoned and it was decided she should come to the United States.

Iglar said the girl's aunt was religiously inclined and through friends in the clergy arrangements were made to have Anna cared for when she arrived here. During her frequent calls at the home of Iglar with the St. Boniface rectory she referred to Father Hans Schmidt. She said that he had been very kind to her. She never gave Iglar the slightest hint that she had any other interest in Schmidt than an admiration for his qualities as a priest.

SLAYER OF THE GIRL KNOWN IN LOUISVILLE. Louisville, Ky., September 14.—The Rev. Hans Schmidt who was arrested in New York today for the murder of Anna Amuller, was in Louisville from August 1909 until March 1910. He was not connected socially with any church here but was a visitor at the home of the Rev. Henry B. Westermann pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception where he was received at the request of the late Bishop McCloskey of the Diocese of Louisville.

The Rev. Schmidt had appointed Bishop McCloskey for an appointment but was refused on the ground that he could not speak English fluently and his visit in the home of the Rev. Westermann was intended to expedite his acquisition of English.

According to the Rev. Westermann his visitor kept his own room and had a separate apartment. He had no contact with others in the house or as far as he knew with outsiders. He personally cared for his own room.

He held the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Munich and spent much of his time in the study of science.

Father Westermann said tonight that the Rev. Schmidt performed no functions of the priesthood while in one or two occasions in small parishes. He left here in March 1910, telling the Rev. Westermann that he was going east.

Wilson to Return to Capital. Cornish N. H., September 14.—Believing that the tariff bill may be out of conference and ready for his signature some time this week, President Wilson planned to leave here tomorrow and be back in Washington Tuesday. He took a long automobile ride today and spent the evening at home with his family.

THAW IS DENIED CHURCH PRIVILEGE

Sheriff Feared to Set Precedent His Wife Might Use on Him—Thaw Glad His Case Is in Federal Courts.

Colebrook N. H., September 14.—The protection of the United States courts had not actually come to Harry K. Thaw tonight. Though his counsel obtained a writ of habeas corpus yesterday from Federal Judge Aldrich at Concord, he was not served on Sheriff Drew today, and the Thaw lawyers said tonight that probably it would not be served until tomorrow afternoon. On Tuesday morning Thaw will be taken before Judge Aldrich at Littleton, when arguments on the writ will be heard.

Thaw spent a quiet Sunday, his fifth away from Mattewan. He did not even go out for a walk. He expressed a desire to attend the Methodist church, but the sheriff said that he (the sheriff) had not been going to church much of late and feared if he went today it might establish a precedent under which his wife would compel him to attend regularly hereafter.

He made this explanation with a smile and said later that his real reason for not taking Thaw out was that Colebrook had been upset enough already over the arrest and he thought it best not to parade him on the Sabbath.

As it was the corridors of the Monday house where Thaw is held were crowded throughout the day with country folks who had come here in the hope of getting a good look at Thaw. But only those who were willing to pay for a meal and see Thaw dining had their curiosity satisfied.

Controversy of Factions. The statement of Moses H. Grossman of the Thaw counsel that the federal writ was obtained as an emergency measure to checkmate New York state should Governor Felker honor the requisition sworn for Thaw without a full hearing developed into an open controversy between factions today. Jerome last night characterized the move as a breach of faith and today he procured a number of affidavits from newspaper reporters setting forth what Grossman had said. It was understood that he obtained these for use in a possible move to sustain his contention that Grossman and his associates had trifled with the federal courts and were perhaps liable for contempt.

That is absurd, said Grossman. I shall go before Judge Aldrich myself on Tuesday. He understands thoroughly our motives and we are prepared to meet any allegation that we did not act in good faith either with Mr. Jerome or the court. Any suggestion from Mr. Jerome that I agreed not to go to the newspaper is made under a misunderstanding. It is ridiculous to assume that I as a lawyer could make any agreement that would jeopardize the position of my client.

Habeas Corpus Argument. The habeas corpus argument is set for 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at Littleton. The Thaw lawyers will ask for a continuance, thus leaving the writ hanging over the heads of their opponents and proceedings will be then transferred to Concord for the hearing before the governor.

F. N. United States marshal for this district will serve notice of the writ on Sheriff Thaw and from the moment of that service Thaw will be in the joint custody of the United States government and the authorities of Coos county, New Hampshire. The marshal has been directed to use "such force as is necessary to arrest said Thaw from the violence and indignity if such be attempted.

This will be a new experience for the slayer of Stanford White and he is pleased at the prospect. He has had no interference in his case gratifying that peculiar love for show and publicity he so often has shown. He sides there is comfort in the thought that any infringement of the writ by anyone would mean a new and serious consequence inasmuch as the writ carries with it an injunction which says in effect "Hands off."

Mr. Jerome announced tonight that he had been informed by the federal marshal that the Thaw case will be heard at Concord on Tuesday afternoon for the extradition hearing at Concord.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN MOURNED BY BOWERY. New York, September 14.—The Bowery in mourning and its residents today formed in little groups to discuss the passing of their leader, Congressman Big Tim Sullivan, and to lament the manner of his death. The Bowery men expressed regret for the unfortunate circumstances which almost sent his body to a pauper's grave after having laid two weeks unidentified beneath a freight locomotive.

From early morning today a continuous stream of men and women from the East Side from the Bowery, from all parts of the city and from out of town filed by the coffin to look for a last time on the face of the man who in life was responsible for many charitable and civic projects. Pictures of the dead leader are displayed in store windows and many buildings are draped in black.

The funeral services tomorrow morning will be held from the old cathedral of St. Patrick where Big Tim was a regular attendant and the cortege will pass through the streets of the district where his influence was predominant.

ACQUITTAL PREDICTED BY GOVERNOR SULZER

He Says That He Will Have a Fair Trial and That He Will Win.

Albany N. Y., September 14.—I am going to be acquitted, said Governor William Sulzer tonight at a conference with ex-Judge D. Cady Herrick, or his counsel, concerning the impositions which will be commenced Thursday before the state senate and the court of appeals sitting as a court of impeachment.

The governor commented on the attitude of some of the senators and declared that "this is a trial not a political fight. He said that 'justice is all I want. His statement follows: 'I am going to be acquitted. I will have a fair trial. I have said some hard things about some of the senators and they have said some hard things about me. But this is a trial not a political fight. They are both judges and jurors and I believe most of them are large enough and honest enough to rise above any personal feeling they may entertain toward me because of their having said about me and do me justice and that is all I want.'

Springs today asserted that the band of filibusters captured at Blackcross Crossing yesterday by United States cavalrymen were members of the Flores Magon Socialist party en route for Mexico to proclaim a new revolution.

According to statements volunteered by the prisoners who are in jail at Carrizo Springs the band had been recruited under the leadership of Barney Cline an American and been led to believe that an army had already been raised in Mexico to meet the new comers and the ammunition which they were endeavoring to smuggle across the border. They planned to raise the banner of revolt on September 16 the Mexican national holiday.

Instructions to turn the fourteen prisoners over to the Dimmit county authorities were received from Washington today by Colonel Sibley. This band will be put on trial for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Ortiz who was killed last Thursday during a battle between the ammunition smugglers and a sheriff's posse.

OVER 40 REBEL BANDS AT WORK IN MEXICO. San Luis Potosi, Mex., September 14.—Over 40 rebel bands are at work in this and border States. Compelled from reliable sources shows a total of forty three at the head of bands ranging from 50 to 500 men each. They are to go to the border to seize federal officers, railroad men and residents of towns raised show an aggregate of 50,000 men in this section under arms against the government.

The largest group numbering 600 and commanded by Raos Madero brother of the late president, is near Huerfania 100 miles to the northwest. Other bands of 400 or 500 each are led by Ernesto Sanguinetti, Alberto Torres and Jose Cabo are operating in the north east and south portions of the State. The remainder are widely scattered over San Luis Potosi and neighboring States of Nuevo Leon, Tamaulipas, Coahuila and Zacatecas.

Two of the most daring rebel leaders, Guadalupe Navarro and Pedro Saenz were killed recently but the others are striving for the notoriety which these had achieved. More than twenty two towns have been raided in the last few months most of which are in possession of rebels or are visited by rebels at will.

300 REBELS ARE KILLED BY FORCES OF HUERTA. El Paso, Tex., September 14.—Three hundred rebels of Francisco Villa's command were killed on Friday in a battle with the federal forces of General Marcelo Caraveo and Antonio Rojas at Escutlan, Chihuahua, according to the official federal messages received today at Juarez from General Moreado of Chihuahua. Several rebels were made prisoners by the federals.

General Jose Inez Salazar with 400 federal troops left Juarez on a special train to intercept Villa and the remnants of his force who are marching toward the border. It is reported to be nearing Casas Grandes.

NEW ORLEANS PAPERS REDUCE THEIR RATES. New Orleans, September 14.—The Times-Democrat and the Picayune two of the few newspapers in the United States charging $12 a year subscription will announce tomorrow morning that their rates hereafter will be fifteen cents a week. It is said that after tomorrow only two daily papers in the country will be charging $12 a year or more for subscription.

NEW CREMATORY WILL OPERATE AGAIN TODAY

Another Preliminary Test Will Be Made by the Destructor Company This Week.

The new crematory, whose motors broke down on Saturday, putting the plant temporarily out of commission, will be in operation again today, according to F. D. Canham representative of the Destructor company and superintendent of the local plant. Mr. Canham said Sunday night.

The motors which are the same as those of a trolley car and liable to a breakdown at any time have been repaired, and the plant will be in operation again before Monday morning.

Insofar as the city is officially concerned the plant has not been out of commission. It will be burning the accumulated garbage before morning and will be able to take care of the garbage which will be brought in by the city's carts during the day.

Another preliminary test will be made by the Destructor company this week. Just when the official test for the city will be held I cannot say but it will be as soon as we are satisfied that the plant is in shape to be delivered over to the city.

WARM WELCOME FOR McCONNELL

Impressive Installation Services at Baptist Tabernacle Attended by Thousands Sunday Afternoon.

Before a congregation which crowded the huge auditorium to its utmost capacity, yet at the same time beautiful in its simplicity, characterized by a spirit of interdenominational Christian fellowship...

Beautiful Musical Program. A large choir consisting of fifty mixed voices, especially trained for the service by Prof. A. C. Boatman and L. G. Dibble...

According to announcements issued in the daily papers some days ago, the service began at 2 o'clock, but long before this hour the seats in the lower floor of the tabernacle auditorium were taken...

Scated on the pulpit platform with Dr. McConnell, and assisting in the welcoming exercises were S. W. Witham, pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. D. M. Poteat of Greenville, S. C., Dr. John L. White pastor of the Second Baptist church...

Three-Minute Addresses. W. S. Witham in charge of the program stated that he had only a few minutes to say to the people...

Following Dr. Poteat, Dr. White, Dr. Furrer and Dr. Daniel were successively introduced and in the name of Atlanta Baptists a hearty welcome to Dr. McConnell...

How He Became Baptist. "My friends, I am going to tell a tale on our new brother. I am going to show you in just what manner he became a Baptist...

that my family will leave my church if they come to hear him preach." Colonel J. L. Mayson, city attorney, made a welcoming address in the name of the city of Atlanta...

Dr. Broughton's Address. "Dear friends," said Dr. Broughton, in part, "I think I need no introduction here. No one here can introduce me to this church, so let's drop the preliminaries and get down to business..."

When Dr. McConnell was introduced the storm of applause became so tremendous for a time that it all but shook the building. Standing with upraised hand and with his eyes watching with emotion, Dr. McConnell waited until the outburst had somewhat subsided...

How He Got Job. "About twenty-three years ago, I stepped off a train at the old Southern depot, about 2 o'clock in the morning. I thought I had a job, as we called it then, but I was mistaken. Absolutely stranded I looked in the help wanted column of a newspaper and saw an advertisement for a man in a restaurant. I applied for the place to my good friend Mr. Henry Durand who is seated behind me now, and was employed. I was hired for two weeks, but I stayed two years..."

"I want to say that I am going to give my best efforts to the upbuilding of this church and the kingdom of Christ. I am going to jump right in, beginning today. I want every woman in this church to come here tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, if it is possible, as I want to personally meet every one of you. I want to thank you all from the bottom of my heart for your royal welcome, and I assure you that I shall and will do every thing in my power to merit your continued regard and confidence."

REGULAR CAMP MEETING TIME AT GRACE CHURCH

The special revival services at Grace Methodist church ended a week ago, but the climax was had on Sunday morning. The congregation overflowed into Sunday school chapel and galleries. Dr. C. O. Jones, pastor, announced that he had prepared a sermon which would not preach it.

Religious emotion ran high, tears of joy flowed freely, and it was a regular camp-meeting time. The old hymns and they had never seen the like before. Rarely in any church are so many received at one time. During Dr. Jones' pastorate at Grace church of twenty months he has taken into membership 322 persons, making a church in itself, and constituting Grace congregation one of the largest in the country.

GEORGIA MOTHERS WARNED BY BOARD

Against Dangers of Entrusting Babies to Nurses Who Are Diseased or Incompetent.

That Georgia mothers, as a rule, do not exercise sufficient care in selecting nurses for their babies is declared by the state board of health in an article describing some of the dangers to which helpless infants are exposed because of this negligence.

Four rules are laid down by the Georgia board of health, by which a girl or woman must be judged before she should be employed to take care of a baby. They are as follows:

The nurse must be healthy. The nurse must be neat and clean about her own person. A nurse must be of good moral character. The nurse must have intelligence.

Don't employ anybody to take care of your baby unless that person comes up to these four requirements, says the state board. Consider to begin with the importance of the first qualification—health. Suppose a nurse girl, who may seem to be in good health, comes from a home in which there is tuberculosis or some other contagious disease. Suppose the nurse has been exposed to smallpox or is tainted with some dangerous contagious disease? A very great many negroes are supposed that through your thoughtlessness you have employed as a nurse a woman suffering from any of these diseases. Think what a terrible risk your baby is running. Assure yourself first of all that the nurse you employ is healthy.

Should Be Personally Clean. The second thing to consider is the nurse's personal cleanliness. Get a nurse who is neat and clean, says the state board, or for the baby's sake, don't get a nurse at all. To begin with, disease germs always flourish in a body which is not kept clean, particularly in the summer time, and in addition a tiny baby is exceedingly susceptible to unhealthy and unpleasant odors.

The third thing to consider is the nurse's moral character. This is important, not only because an honest and respectable girl is always the most faithful, trustworthy and reliable; but also because by the time the baby has become two or three years of age its little brain is being powerfully influenced by everything it sees and hears. A nurse of vile language and loose moral habits may, without even meaning to do so, teach the child evil expressions and unbecoming actions which it will take years of later training to counteract.

The fourth consideration is the nurse's intelligence. This does not mean that the girl who has had the most schooling necessarily makes the best nurse, but it does mean that a good nurse must have practical common sense. If it is important to have an intelligent gardener to bring your plants and flowers to perfection, how much more important it is to have an intelligent nurse to rear your baby.

Watch Your Nurse Closely. Maybe you can't find out all these things to a certainty when you employ a nurse. In that event, it is absolutely essential that you watch the nurse closely until you do assure yourself about them all. Find out where the nurse goes with your baby when she takes it out for a walk. Make sure that it isn't lying neglected on its carriage with the sun beating into its eyes while the nurse is idly gossiping. Make sure that your baby is not playing on the floor of some dirty negro cabin, when you think it is in the park. Make sure that your nurse is not allowing strangers or sick persons to fondle your baby.

If you find out that the nurse is not properly caring for the child, discharge her. It may mean life or death, for a human baby is one of the most fragile and delicate of all God's creatures.

MARRY AHEAD OF TIME

Brother of "Lew" Dockstader and Miss Ralls Wed.

Miss Mary Ralls of Smyrna, Ga., and Mr. D. M. Dockstader, brother of the famous "Lew" of minstrel fame, were married at the pastor's study of the Second Baptist church Sunday morning by Dr. John White. Miss Allie Sherman and Mr. E. H. Thornton witnessed the ceremony.

The couple were to be married to-day, but the groom early Sunday telephoned Dr. White that the bride wished to have the "thing done and over with."

BREAKING CRIME WAVE DR. PROCTOR'S SUBJECT

In his sermon on "Breaking the Crime Wave" at the First Congregational church, colored, last night Rev. H. H. Proctor dwelt on the necessity of moral training in the home.

Among other things, he said: "The home is the source of the weal or woe of any people. The crusade for the moral conquest of the world began in the circles of the home. The home-life is the test of a people's character. There is a growing number of homes among the colored people that approach the ideal in their moral discipline. A large part of the race, however, has poor home discipline, and there is another part that has none at all. The independent home-life of the race goes back scarcely more than a half century."

"Bring a race of this condition face to face with the temptations of city life, and one can easily understand why so many fall victims to crime. In view of this fact there are two lines of activity that will break the wave crime among us. One is to remove the occasions of evil, such as liquor saloons, houses of evil, moving pictures that incite to crime and the publicity given to horrible crimes in the community."

"But the work must be positive as well as negative. Every aid must be given the home, such as schools that inculcate morality, reformatories that send back to the community boys improved in character, and churches that stand for a practical type of piety. We must have better homes and more of them."

"HOME-COMING DAY" IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

First Christian Soars to 983 While Others Show Average Gain of 126 Per School.

Yesterday was the biggest day in the Atlanta Sunday schools in several months, being "Home-coming day" in a number of the schools, and the return of folks from summer vacations boosting the attendance throughout the city.

The First Christian Sunday school, which had worked hard to make its "Home-coming day" a big success, had its greatest attendance since the close of the now famous Baptist-Christian contest of last spring, when the world's record was made by the First Christian school. Its "home-coming" attendance soared to 983.

The average gain for the seventeen schools in the weekly report is 126 per school, over last year. The total attendance for Sunday in these schools was 6,994, an average of 406, as opposed to a total for the same Sunday last year of 4,763, which was an average of only 280. This is taken as a reliable barometer of the splendid gain of the past year. The total report for the seventeen Sunday schools follows:

IN THE THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

Ida Brooke Hunt and a selected company of operatic singers and Bernard Reinhold and his company of comedians will be headliners at the Vaudeville. There will be five other acts, all of whom are to be classed as features on modern vaudeville entertainment.

"A Man's Game."

"A Man's Game," with Miss Edith Williams as the star, ably seconded by Edwin Vetter will be the offering at the Lyric this week opening tonight. It is described as a play of much heart interest and intensely dramatic with an unusual amount of pathos that is interesting and new. The play was produced last season with the same excellent cast and made a pronounced sensation from its initial performance. It is considered by both press and public as being one of the few really great hits of last season and rightfully acknowledged as being Miss Williams' greatest success.

Burlesque Company.

The opening of the Columbia burlesque theater, which was announced for Monday night has been postponed until Saturday afternoon on account of the failure of the contractors to finish the remodeling of the building. The entire company, "The White Way Burlesques," are in town awaiting the completion of the theater. However, there will be no hitch on Saturday and promptly at 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon the curtains will rise for the season on burlesque in Atlanta. Three shows will be given each day a matinee at 2 in the afternoon and two shows at night at 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

"The Man of Mystery."

Atlanta theatergoers will be given in this week's play at the Bijou one of the most sensational melodramas that has been staged in Atlanta in many years. It is Mark Swann's play, "The Man of Mystery," a detective story that teems with sensational intense dramatic climaxes and sets a story that holds the audience spell bound from curtain to curtain. It has all the intrigue, mystery and cleverness of a Sherlock Holmes play and in addition to all this there is a snap realism and vividness to the action that is directly American and has won for the author the amiable reputation of one of the greatest writers of sensational melodrama of the present decade. Mark Swann is also author of "The Red Dagger," "The Lawless Law" and "The Runaway Match," all plays that have been favorably received and have crowded theaters everywhere throughout the country.

SECOND CALL REFUSED BY COLUMBUS PASTOR

Columbus, Ga., September 14—(Special)—Dr. Christie, pastor of the First Baptist church, today announced his declination of a call to serve the leading Baptist church of Chattanooga, Tenn., as pastor. A few months ago he was called to the First Baptist church of Rome, Ga., but declined the call.

STOP SELLING CALVES ADVICE OF DR. MORGAN

Continuation of Practice Death Blow to Industry in South, Says Expert.

If the southeast is to become the great cattle-growing section that it should, in view of its natural advantages and the present and growing demand for cattle with commensurate prices, farmers must quit selling their female and immature stock, declares Dr. C. M. Morgan, dairy agent of the Southern railway, who sounds a warning against a continuation of the wholesale depopulation of cattle from the south.

"Farmers should keep their herds and build up the quality of their stock by the use of pure-bred bulls of dairy or beef type as desired," says Dr. Morgan. "This is the only way to increase the number or the quality of cattle in the southeast. The scarcity of cattle is world-wide, and it will never be possible to secure enough pure-bred cattle to develop the industry in the southeast."

Fitzgerald Pastor Called. Dawson, Ga., September 14—(Special)—Dawson Baptist church, in conference today, decided unanimously to call to the pastorate Rev. Thomas M. Callaway of Fitzgerald. The church members expressed the hope that he would accept.

GEORGIA HAS ALREADY A STATE HIGHWAY MACHINE

The Constitution publishes today a communication from State Senator G. M. Huie, of the thirty-fifth district, in which he points out that in the legislation putting the convicts of the state on the public roads the prison commission is already in possession of the machinery, resources and facilities for a central highway commission. The announcement will probably come as news to most Georgians, and as welcome news to those who have long been fighting for co-ordination in road construction, and who realize the penalty we are paying for its absence. It is, indeed, lack of co-operation between counties and the dearth of uniformity in methods of construction that has proved the chief objection to Georgia's otherwise splendid facilities for the creation and maintenance of a state-wide good roads system.

Senator Huie's opinion and his warm advocacy of the solution he proposes comes with especial pertinence from him, since he is a resident of a country county (Clayton) typical of the counties who have most to gain by central facilities in highway construction.

He cites as his authority the law repealing the convict lease system. He shows that the law empowers the commission to employ at least four "supervisors" who shall be, preferably, civil engineers who shall supervise the work and consult with the authorities of each county. He shows further that the law contemplates that the commission shall supply the counties with all needful technical information. More important than all else, he shows how, under the present law, and without changing it one jot, financial provision can be made for the amplified powers of the commission without any disturbance of its other functions.

The section vitally touching these points is as follows:

Section 20 Be it further enacted, That the prison commission is hereby authorized, if they deem it necessary, to employ not more than four supervisors who shall visit the various counties, inspect the convicts and their work and perform such other duties as may be required of them by the commission. It is practicable, civil engineers shall be selected for these positions. The salaries shall not exceed $150 per month and actual traveling expenses. The commission shall also appoint such wardens and guards as may be necessary and shall define their duties.

The Constitution earnestly commends the communication of Senator Huie to the prison commission. We know that members of that body are all alive to the necessity of co-ordination in the upbuilding of a state-wide highway system.

It is difficult to estimate what Georgia has lost and is losing from the present haphazard method, adjoining counties building at random and failing to connect their roads, roads beginning nowhere and ending nowhere, the use of the wrong material in many localities, and the application of such unscientific methods as sacrifices roads that should stand heavy traffic indefinitely. This is not to mention the equally important item of road maintenance and continuity, without which no highway system can approximate standardization.

Several bills have in recent years been introduced in the general assembly looking to the establishment of a state highway commission, and favorable action has been withheld solely because the finances of the state did not permit of the creation and maintenance of a new board. The state simply could not afford the expense incident to the establishment of a new department.

Senator Huie points the way out by showing that the very function which it has been proposed to incorporate in a state body has already been vested in the state prison commission. The legislature of 1908, which passed the present convict law, looked far enough in the future to make provision for the very condition that has since arisen.

The state prison commission has it within its power to do a genuine service for the state, and we believe that its members will not be slow to exercise the authority which the state has so thoughtfully vested in that body.

The prison commission should lose no time in making its authority in this respect operative. In so doing it will have the support of the whole state.

FRIENDS OF YESTERDAY.

Never again deny the virtues of reincarnation, as that abused term applies to the newspaper business. For here, in the past few days, have come back long-lost old friends in the shape of "Old Subscriber," "Junius," "Tertium Quid," "A Wise Owl," "Vox Populi," "Pro Bono Publico" and a few other of the same lusty tribe, that used to haunt the columns of all newspapers, and thrust pungent dart or blunt exhortation at "all evil and mischief, the crafts and assaults of the devil."

Kissing, that's all! Blame osculation for it, as you do for lots of the other evils under the sun. The Atlanta authorities got a sudden "grouch" against the kissing bug, and put the quietus to Cupid in public. A smack was the signal for the riot call. An insinuating poet made the hardest cop all but turn up his toes. They pounded Cupid to a frazzle.

And just here is where "Pro Bono Publico" and the rank and file in his rain stirred in their graves and came forth ravening. They bombarded The Constitution with arguments for and against kissing—most for. Now, it is an old rule of The Constitution that an anonymous communication shall not get past the editor's desk. Generally, its destination is the waste-paper basket. In this case, and for cause, we made exceptions. One member of the reincarnation pointed out that, since he had "kissed a cousin at the depot," he feared arrest if his name were revealed. Another urged that although he had kissed his mother-in-law in the presence of his wife, he was momentarily expecting prosecution. Another confessed that he had made three billiard balls kiss consecutively, and feared this probably constituted, under the new regime, a felony. So we took mercy on our correspondents and gracefully shielded them.

One and all, they have had their say. One and all, they have once again shown the public that they are not dead, but only sleeping. We believe the public has received as much pleasure out of the renewed acquaintance as has The Constitution. But since they have made their opening salutation and their farewell obeisance, fist-bumping as do the pixies in a brief period of revelry, The Constitution once more draws the curtain. For "Pro Bono Publico" and his clubmates another long and happy hibernation, like that of Rip Van Winkle. May their vigorous ministrations have sufficiently laid the kissing spectre that called them from the Land of Yesterday. And, for The Constitution, it is back to its traditional policy of welcoming these guests only when the visiting card is appended to the published article.

WHAT'S THE USE!

The Rome Bar association, for which we have the utmost respect, is about to undertake the most forlorn hope ever launched by any bar association anywhere.

They are bent upon prohibiting all save bona fide colonels and judges from using that title.

Dame Partington got busy with a broom and the incoming tide. We question if our Floyd county friends will get as far as the industrious dame.

Abolish the ornamental and arbitrary "colonels" and "judges" and you will rob southern politics and southern life of a large part of their picturesque. We cannot view the abolition of a whimsical and, after all, harmless custom with other than feelings of pungent melancholy.

Draping various popular and well-meaning individuals with this title hasn't impeded the section's prosperity, has it? We won't! It's made nobody hopelessly unhappy, has it? It has added to the joy of the days and made the sleep o' nights sweeter, hasn't it? And it's given the visitors in our midst a suave reminder of the old days that makes them talk about us when we go back, and all to our advantage.

Go a-rustling for the colonels and the judges? Why, bless your sweet life! The profits on this year's cotton crop for Atlanta and Georgia wouldn't pay the transportation to the seacoast of all this gentle and joyous class, if you wanted to deport it. And their absence from our admiring midst would of a certainty paralyze industry.

We move the case be nolle prossed. At least that the defendants be given a change of venue to Kentucky, where the forceful pen and brave spirit of Marse Henry would of a surety protest against decadence of one of the south's (and Kentucky's) most characteristic institutions.

One reflection of the melancholy days is—the money spent for that summer coat of tan. It would have bought two winter overcoats.

Of course, some critical person will say the judge who acquitted Jerome is a dead game sport and has been there himself.

The invitation of these September morns is "Come on out. The weather's fine!"

Just From Georgia

The Winter Dreamer.

Want to hear the Fire talkin' (in this world, you understand):
When the night-wind comes a-singin' o'er the snowy winter-land:
Want to see the red sparks flyin' up the chimney, in the night—
It's then I make my own glad world, my gardens of delight.

"(Listen!" says the Fire: "From Youthlirt's skies of blue I see your sweetheart coming— She's kissed a rose for you!")

Then it is I lose my troubles in some dim and dusty niche:
(Says the Fire: "One more toddy'll make him Rockefeller-rich!")
In a deep armchair, a-drowsin', I drift to days still fair,
And no storm-wind rocks the castles standin' dream-enchanted there.

"(Listen!" says the Fire: "Without, the storm-winds fight; The Wind knocks like a ballist, But you're rich in dreams tonight!")

Penultimate:
It remained for the critical Musket Ridge correspondent of The Dalton Citizen to say it like this:

"Musket Ridge has voted in saloons. A prominent citizen expressed himself to me this way. If we are going to stand for our women folks to wear shadow and slit skirts and tish-tish form-fitting dresses and vulgar and tasteless hats, and our younger women learning to dance 'The Boll Weevil Wiggle,' 'Texas Tommy,' 'Tango,' 'The Bunny Hug,' 'The Bear Dance,' 'The Calf Canter,' 'The Kangaroo Kick,' 'The Buzzard Lope,' and so on down the line, the men folks had just as well have their saloons, and the whole push go to hell together."

The Stager.

I. Find him here and everywhere—happiness untold!
Richer than a millionaire, with only Autumn's gold.
Singing on the way
In the glory of the day,
Dreaming in the winter of gardens red with May.

II. Still a thrush is piping from woodlands distant-dim;
A daisy in a meadow says the sweetest things to him.
For he holds a secret sweet
Where Night and Morning meet;
He listens in the darkness and hears the world's heart beat!

A Little "Ad's" Big Return.

Here is another instance—according to The Kansas City Star—where advertising paid 100 per cent:
"A Kansas man lost a $5 bill and advertised for it. In a day or two a man appeared in his office, saying that he had seen the advertisement, and handed him the bill. In a few days the Kansas man was going through his 'other' clothes and found the original bill which he thought he had lost. Notwithstanding the fact that the events in this story may sound suspicious, the lesson is obvious."

Beats Literature.

The Adams Enterprise brother rhymes his philanthropy as follows:
"Six bales o' cotton'
That's gone some 'tis clear.
When a literary feller
Only makes one book a year!"

Nuggets on the Road.

The man who was born to get there is the chap who makes Time run a race to catch him.
Talking 'bout kitchin' your wagon to a star, there's more money in keeping a good team down here, and hauling automobiles out o' the ditch.

The Brighter View.

In these lines, from a poem, "To-Day," in The Argonaut, the best philosophy of life is packed.
"It's today that I am livin'.
Not a month ago,
Havin' losin', takin', givin'.
As time wills it so,
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way
It may rain again tomorrow,
It may rain—but say,
Ain't it fine today!"

How to Tread Trouble.

"Ef you looks lak' you is 'fraud or Trouble," said Brother Williams, "You is de very one Trouble will single out fer a lambastin'; but sit in de door wid yo' fightin' close on, an' he'll pass de time or day an' take ter de woods!"

To the Good.

Here's a homely text for the hopeless:
"No Cain that chap wuz raisin';
He wuz allus to the good;
He kept the fire blazin';
'Cause he didn't waste the wood."

The Prosperity Plute.

"Prosperity will find us all at home," says a Georgia editor, "so uncomfortably healthy that we always have appetites for more."

A Story of the Moment
By WALT MASON,
The Famous Press Poet

ANCIENT HISTORY.

"I had a letter from my sister, Dorcas, this morning," announced Mrs. Jamesworthy, "and she intimates that she'd like to visit us. I, she thought she'd be welcome. You know she hasn't been in our house since we were married, and when she offers the olive branch in this way I think there's only one thing for us to do."
"Yes, Mrs. Jamesworthy, there's just one thing to do," said Jamesworthy, "and that is to send her a copy of the last bill sent us by the grocer, so that she may have some idea of what it costs us to live when we are not quarreling with her. After looking over that bill she will realize, if she is an intelligent girl, that such a visit as she proposes is out of the question. Even if she packed a hamper with groceries and provisions while here, I couldn't encourage her to come, for you'd want to buy new furniture for the spare bedroom and a new set of chairs for the parlor table must be re-made."
"I must say that your sister, Dorcas, has plenty of nerve, and keeps it about her person all the time. She has been holding out that olive branch you speak of ever since we were married. She is willing to forgive and forget, if we'll only invite her to our lovely home, and give her meat tickets, but I am sure for us to do that, you must, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and I have no forgiveness on tap for your sister, Dorcas."
"If I lived a thousand years I'd never forget her low down conduct in the long-gone days when my ambition was to lead you to the altar, and you must remember, when you were my most attractive young man, and when it came to noble qualities of mind and heart I had few equals and no superiors. I was long on sterling worth, but short on the dollars of our days. You were enjoying a lucid interval in those days, and was far more anxious to marry me than I was to marry you, but you sister, Dorcas, who is several years older than you, was determined to have you marry a foxy young real estate man who was supposed to be a money-maker."
"The tricks your sister resorted to to put me on a quiet street were so low down to be chronicled in a respectable newspaper. She must have equipped herself with a dark lantern and a set of false whiskers for the purpose of doing some sleuthing on my trail. She carried such reports to you that at different times you began to look upon me as a social outcast. If I spoke to a man on the street, your sister would fix up a romance to the effect that I was planning an elopement. If I played a quiet game of dominoes in the drug store, you were informed that I was a mere tin horn gambler, hitting the high spots on the road to perdition."
"If it happened to be chewing a clove when I met your amiable sister, she'd issue a bulletin at once, to the effect that the clove was for the purpose of disguising a breath which had been corrupted in the village rum holes. Then she was always playing tricks on me, to make me ridiculous in your eyes. Well do you remember when, on a calling upon you, your sister would fix up a romance to the effect that I was planning an elopement. If I played a quiet game of dominoes in the drug store, you were informed that I was a mere tin horn gambler, hitting the high spots on the road to perdition."

"I went down those steps on my shoulder-blades, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and I have no doubt there's a hole in the gravel where I landed to this day. For years afterwards I was always finding new silvers in my person, and had to carry a pair of pliers to extract them. On my wedding day your sister bribed a young man to swipe my garments, and I had to be married in one of my aunt's shirtwaists and a pair of overalls."
"Of course, your sister is willing to forget all this, and let bygones be bygones, but I'm not, and if she is going to bring me into this house she'll have to bring her Jimmy. Write to your sister and tell her that if she must visit somebody, she might send a tracer after that foxy real estate man. If he still lives he may be willing to pitch a tent in his back yard for her."

YOUR VOICE.

By George Matthew Adams

Intelligence and Character may for a brief time keep their blinds drawn. But once let a man speak and you have the key both to his Intelligence and Character. Light at one end of the street, dark as perch upon the other. You KNOW the MIND or WOMAN—as soon as the Voice is heard.

Your Voice is your Press Agent. And it is a true one. Take care as to what you give it to express.

Make Your Voice a worthy servant to you. Be clear, and direct as a Thief in its betrayal if you but allow it chance. Make Your Voice, also, a true expresser of what you think and the way you think. When conviction orders Action, give the message to Your Voice to thunder out with Strength and Confidence. Compel Your Voice to compel Respect.

You can make of Your Voice a Clarion Call, a stimulator to Endeavor, an arouser of Smiles and Cheer and Hope!

A pleasing, interesting, instructive Voice is more to be desired than the gift of Riches or of Honor. How we are afflicted at the sound of a Voice that we have not heard for years but that once inspired us. How priceless is a clear, clear, commanding Voice—indeed—there is Success and Happiness in Your Voice. But Success and Happiness must first be IN Yourself.

"Mr. Underwood of Alabama."

(From The New York Sun.)

We agree entirely with those friends of Mr. Underwood and Endicott and of said democratic policy who believe that his transference to the senate would be a great loss to the house of representatives. For years neither party in the majority in the house has had an abler, more level-headed leader.

It is one of the penalties of Mr. Underwood's fine qualities that he cannot quit any field of public usefulness without inflicting a distinct loss at that particular quarter.

On the other hand, in our opinion, the democratic party and the general interests of the country would gain quite as much and probably even more in the senate than they would lose in the house and of the capital.

Never was there more apparent and more grievous need in the senate of a democratic statesman and leader of Mr. Underwood's intellect and temperament and experience.

The whole country has an interest in the elevation of the senate to something like its old position. What other democratic right has the combination of qualities, the knowledge, experience, tact, the firmness that knows how to yield at a pinch without loss of dignity, the force of mind and the power and charm of character which are Mr. Underwood's?

Spirit Freedom.

Were but my spirit loosed upon the air—
By some High Power who could Life's chains
Set free to seek what most it longs to find;
To no proud Court of Kings would I repair;
I would be but a simple, honest man,
When day was wearing late, and dusk was kind;
And one should greet to all my fallings
Content so I but shared his twilight there.

Nay! well I know he waits not as of old,
And will not find him in the old-time place;
I must pursue him, made by sorrow bold,
Through worlds unknown, in strange celestial
Whose mystic round no traveler has told,
From star to star, until I see his face.

The World's Mysteries
THEFT OF GAINSBOROUGH'S "DUCHESS"

The theft a short time ago of Da Vinci's famous painting, "Mona Lisa," from the Louvre, and the whereabouts of which have never been discovered, recalls to mind the theft of a famous painting by Gainsborough more than a quarter of a century ago. This painting was known as "The Duchess," and represents the beautiful Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire, with a large picture hat and the folds of her skirt drawn up in front of her between her arms, in the hand of one of which she holds a rose. It is one of the most famous works of art of its character, and copies of it have been liberally distributed throughout the world.

The theft occurred the night of May 13, 1876, when the portrait was cut from its frame in the gallery at No. 13 Bond street, London. When it had been purchased at Christie's by Agnew, the sum paid was the highest ever given at an auction for a portrait. The theft was a deep puzzle to the police. One morning the frame was found empty. The picture had been very quietly cut from the stretcher after it had been removed from the gilt frame in which it hung upon the wall. The stretcher was left, and it showed that no unpracticed hand had operated upon the canvas, for the picture itself had been completely removed, leaving nothing but the clean cut canvas at the edge on which it was mounted. The gilt frame had the nails simply bent back and not extracted, so that the thief had lost no time in needless trouble. No marks or signs remained, beyond some crumpling of the drapery hung in front of the picture. The room was not more than ten feet square, having only one window opening into Bond street, the other being blocked and covered with cloth-hangings, and a passage opened on to it from the large gallery where the water colors hung.

This one window, however, was found open about two feet, and on examining the ledge there were distinctly visible the mark of a nailed shoe. The window had no blind to it, consequently, if any light had been used, it would in all probability have been noticed by the policeman in the street, who knew that no one resided in the house after it was locked for the night.

This duty of locking up was performed by Messrs. Agnew's porter, who had no doubt that all the fastenings had been secured when he left, and he found them intact upon his return the next morning.

The police conjectured that the theft had been accomplished by some one who had entered the exhibition room as a visitor, and had managed to secure himself on the premises. Then, having cut the picture out of the frame, he might easily have dropped the roll through the window into the hands of a confederate below, a feat requiring only a moment when the night policeman's back was turned.

The only point that remained obscure was how the thief could escape without being observed. There were, however, two entrances from the street, one from a side door which opened upon a yard containing stables and a shoeing forge. Between this last-named door and the gallery there was a narrow dark passage, and it was just possible that the thief could have remained hidden while the porter unlocked the door, and then slipped out at the first favorable opportunity.

For fifteen years no trace of the picture could be found. Finally detectives obtained knowledge of its existence in the United States, through a notorious criminal they had caught, who had promised to arrange for its recovery, provided he would get his freedom. This was refused by the detectives, who, from time to time, however, got indirect knowledge of the portrait's concealment.

There was considerable mystery surrounding its acquisition, but finally its American custodian in Chicago, who was acting as a "go-between," was paid a high reward upon turning it over to Mr. Agnew, who had come to this country from England. After it was stolen it was boxed and hermetically sealed. For a time it had been kept in storage in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and Boston. Then it was packed in gunnysacks and placed in the bottom of a trunk. From that day until it was delivered to Mr. Agnew in Chicago it had not been opened. It was found to be in perfect condition when recovered. The name of the real thief of the Gainsborough "Duchess" has never been revealed. It is at present in the famous collection of the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

STATE MACHINE FOR HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT IS AVAILABLE
--Senator Huie.

Editor Constitution: I have been much interested in several editorials in The Constitution in reference to good roads and lack of system in the state of Georgia in working our roads. I was in favor of the bill to establish a good roads department in Georgia, which failed of passage because of the lack of funds in the state treasury to pay for same.

However, it seems to me that the same object can be secured if the prison commission of Georgia would put into force sections 1194 and 1195, volume 2, of the code of 1910, which are taken from the act of 1908, and which provides for the employment of four supervisors who shall be civil engineers, and whose duty it shall be to inform themselves thoroughly upon the subject of road building and assist as far as possible those in different counties and municipalities in planning and constructing public roads, bridges and works.

These sections also provide that the state prison commission shall furnish those representing the various counties of the state engaged in building roads, bridges and public works information on the subject of handling their convicts economically and successfully with reference to the construction of public roads. This seems to me to make ample provision for a good roads department under the direction of the prison commission, and I have wondered why the prison commission did not put this department into effect. The money can be obtained from the money now spent by the commission on a force of inspectors which they have employed to do inspecting work.

If this money was spent on road experts and the commissioners did the inspecting in person, as provided by law, it would solve this problem by providing the expenses of the good roads department from the funds already appropriated, and which, in my judgment, were intended to be used in this way.

If you would investigate this subject and call the attention of the prison commission to the same, I believe that this reform could be accomplished and great good done to the state of Georgia in saving millions of money that is now wasted annually in haphazard road work.

ROUGHING IT.
By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Roughing it consists of going back to nature and standing up before her for a few rounds without gloves.

In the early days a man could step outside his cabin door into the woods and come home three hours later with four arrows and a bear scratch. It was easy to rough it then. Now it is more difficult. Only prosperous men can afford to pay the carfare necessary to rough it successfully.

Nowadays when a man desires to rough it he buys a $17 fish rod, a $40 canoe, a $15 silk tent, a frying pan, some bacon and a sack of flour. Then he buys a railroad ticket to the end of the line, gets a permit from the owner of a 10,000 acre wood lot to sleep in it, and then smuggles up against nature as close as the mosquitoes will permit.

After a man has roughed it for two weeks in this fashion he acquires a mahogany complexion, a case of poison ivy and a muscullunge large enough to stuff. Then he comes home in a parlor car and after he has talked about the wild free life of the woods for a week, his friends dive over bill boards and hide at his approach.

"He acquires a mahogany complexion, a case of poison ivy and a muscullunge large enough to stuff."

Some men rough it by going into northern Maine and shooting each other under the fond delusion that they are hunting moose. Others buy a cow pony and a pair of chaps and scramble over the highly irregular and entertaining west. Still others, who are more reckless, join a lecture bureau and spend a winter investigating the American small town hotel.

These lovers of nature who spend their vacations in the solemn woods cooking their own meals and paying an Indian guide big money to paddle them over the bosom of the fish-infested lake know little of the sufferings endured by the bold traveler who spends a winter night in a hotel room heated by red wall paper under a thin anemic comforter which only extends to his ankles and who stabs himself in the eye in the morning with a petrified towel trying to wash in a basin full of extra hard ice.

The traveler who has partaken for several months of the slobber fried egg, the floundered potatoes, and the pale consumptive coffee of the country hotel, whose cook left

PROMINENT BAPTIST APPROVES STAND OF BISHOP C. K. NELSON

Editor Constitution: I read in your issue of Saturday a deliverance of Bishop Nelson, also your editorial, "At Our Doors." I have read recently, too, an article—an appeal for the negro—in The Christian Index by Dr. P. H. Mell, treasurer of the Home Mission Board. All these are along the line of truth.

By the way I am a careful reader of The Constitution. I have scanned its editorials closely for several months, in which time it has not tripped even once. Go on, brother, hewing to the line, "regardless."

Several years ago Bishop Haygood wrote "Our Brother in Black." This was a great task at the time. He went up against many prejudices, but he was right in position and right in the end. He was right in position and right in the end. He was right in position and right in the end.

From our viewpoint of Christianity, and no less from the viewpoint of political economy, we are bound to promote in the way of truth the welfare of the negro, both at home and abroad, but especially at home.

The Apostle Paul had the negro in mind; yes, even the Jim Conleys, the Jesse James gangs and all the rest of us, when he wrote, "I am debtor to all men." Paul understood that the civilized and the uncivilized, the Jew and the Gentile, the bond and the free, the jailbird and the saint were, the last mother's son of them, his brothers, made so by the blood of the atonement.

We have a common father. We live on a common earth. We have a common law, we are going to a common judgment bar, we are before it now, we are before that bar every hour that we live.

No use fighting against God. We are brethren and I am glad of it. Do not get frightened about social equality. The Savior did not seem to care anything about it. He ate dinner with Zaccheus, a very unlawful and unconventional thing.

Questions about social equality and about fashion and about civic righteousness and about post and millennium matters and about policemen kissing women and all such will make care of themselves. If we will recognize God as our Father and let our fellowmen as our brethren, if we will just preach the truth and live it, according to the way in which it is unfolded in the Bible, in the Book of Nature and in the experiences of men, if we will do this in the love of the Truth, considering it such a sacred thing, that we will burn at the stake rather than give it up, a whole lot of foolish questions will take care of themselves.

(Rev.) H. R. BERNARD,
Auditor Baptist Mission Board.

the night before, and who has stood for hours on the station platform with newspapers inside his vest and snowdrifts on his hat waiting for the 3:45 a. m. train, which has not yet been reported, only smiles when the western adventurer talks about roughing it. And that is the only time he smiles.

FEDERAL VETERANS MEET IN REUNION

Thousands of Them in Chattanooga for G. A. R. Encampment—Formal Opening Today.

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 14.—Bent upon their first peaceful invasion of the south, thousands of union veterans arrived here today and tonight to attend the forty-seventh annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and allied organizations. The encampment will be formally opened tomorrow, continuing through Saturday.

In honor of the occasion, Chattanooga is in gala attire. Citizens committees through the railroad stations, welcoming the veterans survivors of the union army which caused the confederacy to totter in the decisive battle of Chickamauga fought here fifty years ago, are greeted with the same cordiality shown the United Confederate Veterans whose annual reunion was held in Chattanooga last May.

Military Demonstrations. Committee meetings and receptions are expected to occupy the first day of the encampment. Impressive military demonstrations, including a parade of the United States Army and other military organizations, are scheduled for Tuesday. On the evening of that day welcoming addresses will be delivered by national, state and city officials at a camp-fire meeting.

The impressive parade of the Grand Army of the Republic will take place Wednesday morning. Thursday and Friday will be devoted largely to business sessions, while sight-seeing tours to the scenes of several important battles will conclude the encampment Saturday.

The following allied organizations will meet separately, namely: the G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Veterans, National Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War, National Association of Civil War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, United Confederate Veterans, National Association of Army Nurses of the Civil War, National Association of Civil War Nurses, and the Soldiers Army of the Confederacy.

On Civil War Battlefields. The scene of an approach to the present G. A. R. encampment and the present G. A. R. reunion team with historic interest with the possible exception of the Valley of Virginia, this section, it is claimed, stands first in number of important battles of the civil war. En route to this city the union veterans passed through many of the important fields on which Grant grappled with Albert Sidney Johnston in the early stages of the war, and where Rosecrans and Bragg fought their prolonged battle. They took the way to the battlefields in which Thomas and Sherman staged their attacks upon Joseph E. Johnston in the campaign which, many contend, broke the backbone of the confederacy.

Within a short distance of the encampment are the battlefields of Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Ringgold, Altoona, Resaca, and the scene of many severe skirmishes.

Services in the Churches. In connection with the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic patriotic services will be held in all the churches of Chattanooga at 11 o'clock this morning, the pulpits being filled by visiting department and national chaplains. The features of the day was the services at the Methodist church where Chaplain in Chief George Edward Lovejoy, of the G. A. R. and Dr. J. W. Bachman, former chaplain general of the United Confederate Veterans, pastor of the church, held the services jointly. It was an impressive scene.

Speakers in the other churches were: Levi Longfellow, national patriotic instructor; Chaplain General H. M. Hamilton, United Confederate Veterans; Nashville, Rev. B. F. Jones, Rev. John Fletcher Plainwell, Mich., Rev. J. P. McFerrin, Centenary M. E. church; A. C. Colson, M. A. A. church; Highland Park M. E. church; Chattanooga, Rev. J. E. Church, Chattanooga, Rev. J. E. Church, Cumberland Presbyterian church; Bishop T. S. Henderson, First Christian church; Rev. O. Reed, Trinity M. E. church; Henry M. Knight, former quartermaster department of New York, St. Paul's Episcopal.

Numerous Special Treats. Numerous special treats have arrived in the city during the day, each one carrying hundreds of aged veterans, many of whom were accompanied by their wives. During the afternoon a slight rain was falling, but the old soldiers appeared smiling and happy as they were taken in hand by members of the entertainment committee and assigned to homes.

Home-Coming Day in the First Christian Sunday School Draws Big Crowd

Scene at the First Christian church, where largest congregation gathered for Sunday school exercises since the attendance contest, held some months ago with the Second Baptist church.

One of the most striking organizations seen this afternoon was the Nurses of the Civil War. They were attired in their blue uniform, short skirts and campaign hats. Tonight an immense mass meeting was held at the city auditorium at which a semi-official welcome was extended to the officials of the G. A. R. There were at least 7,000 persons in the building and many were turned away. Ex-Senator Howell Sanders, Hon. H. Clay Evans and General Alfred B. Boers, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., were the principal speakers.

INVENTORY IS ORDERED OF POSTAL PROPERTY

Washington, September 14.—An inventory of all postoffice property of the United States is about to be undertaken by the postoffice department. It will mark the first attempt of any department of the federal government to obtain an accurate census of its immensely valuable property. The idea originated with Postmaster General Burleson who will issue the required orders within a short time. It was stated by an official of the department tonight that no one knew just what the postoffice department owns or what are its assets. The postmaster general therefore decided to find out definitely just how much property he has under his jurisdiction, its condition and its value. Mr. Burleson's idea is that there should be regular inventories at stated periods. That the inquiry will be a stupendous task is indicated by the fact that there are more than 33,000 postoffices and their many branches with much equipment constantly in transit in railway mail property and mail bags. Postmasters, their clerks and railway mail clerks will take the census. Several months will be required. The first step in the investigation already has been taken. Recently Postmaster Burleson directed a census of all small equipment such as mail boxes, scales, etc. Many thousand mailbags are stored in postoffices and other places and are not in use.

TURPENTINE-ROSIN MARKET SHOWS FIRM

Savannah, Ga., September 14.—Turpentine was firm for the past week closing yesterday at 39 as against 38 3/4 to 39 last Saturday and 38 1/4 for the corresponding day a year ago. Receipts for the week were 5,414, as against 4,254 a year ago. Shipments for the week were 1,474, as against 1,812 a year ago. Stocks are 32,241, as against 40,409 a year ago. Stocks increased 3,928 in the past week. Rosins for the past week were firm. Lower grades decreased 5 to 10 cents in price. Increases of 10 to 15 were noted in upper grades. Sales for the week were 17,453, receipts for the week were 15,280 as against 15,900 a year ago, shipments for the week were 11,316 as against 14,823 a year ago. Stocks are 175,568, as against 194,120 a year ago. Stocks increased 3,064 in the past week.

KILLED IN A COLLISION ON ATLANTIC BEACH

Jacksonville, Fla., September 14.—Donald Johnson, electrician, was instantly killed and Ed Garrett, a bank clerk had an arm and leg broken in a collision on the beach between Pablo and Atlantic Beach late this afternoon. Johnson and Garrett were riding a motorcycle and automobile driven by S. S. Burrell, approaching them, skidded and struck the motorcycle. Almost every bone in Johnson's body was broken.

COMPROMISE SOUGHT ON IRISH HOME RULE

King George Discusses the Matter With Two Leading Conservatives

London, September 14.—The presence of two of the most prominent conservatives of the two houses of parliament at Balmoral as the king's guests for the coming year's work, the state board of health desires to call the attention of the parents and teachers of the state to the importance of having the children examined at the very outset for the presence of hookworms, so that those children who are infected may be freed of the infection, and thereby be enabled to do their work properly, and also to keep them from spreading the disease to the healthy children.

MEDIATION IS PROPOSED IN THE COPPER STRIKE

Calumet, Mich., September 14.—The copper country commercial club, with a membership of five hundred business and professional men of the copper mines strike district, decided at a meeting today to offer mediation to the strikers and operators in an effort to settle the strike which is seriously threatening business interests. A committee of three was appointed to investigate the contentions of both factions, providing an offer is accepted. The club's proposition, which is understood to have the backing of Governor Ferris, was referred to by both President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners and Treasurer Lennon of the American Federation of Labor in their addresses to 3,000 strikers here this afternoon. Both declared that any plan which was as fair to the men as it was to the operators would be considered. The strikers would hold out for the right to organize and recognition of the Western Federation of Miners. As the operators are firm in their stand not to recognize the federation, little hope is held out for the success of the new plan. Lennon remarked that he had seen drunken soldiers on the streets and declared that the government should close the saloons if the militia continued to patrolize them. Rumors of serious trouble tomorrow morning are in circulation tonight and the troops and deputies have been ordered on duty early. It is said a determined effort will be made by the strikers to stop mining work at the Calumet and Hecla mines.

EXAMINE CHILDREN FOR HOOKWORM PRESENCE

Now that the schools are beginning to open up for the coming year's work, the state board of health desires to call the attention of the parents and teachers of the state to the importance of having the children examined at the very outset for the presence of hookworms, so that those children who are infected may be freed of the infection, and thereby be enabled to do their work properly, and also to keep them from spreading the disease to the healthy children.

The board will take pleasure in sending boxes to any school requesting them for mailing specimens. In each of these boxes there is a printed circular giving detailed directions as to how the specimen is to be collected and mailed, so all the teacher will be required to do is to distribute the boxes among the pupils. If the specimen on examination in the laboratory of the board, shows the presence of hookworms or other intestinal parasites, a report stating the type of worm will be mailed to the sender, who can then show the report to his or her physician, and be treated for the disease. The examination of a good many schools has shown the entire enrollment, including the teacher, to be sufferers from some variety of intestinal parasites—hookworm being the most common infection. A comparison of the marks in school made by the infected and the non-infected has shown that the non-infected, as a rule, do much better work and with less effort than those who are suffering from these health-destroying parasites.

The state board of health also wishes to respectfully direct the attention of the trustees of the various schools to the importance of providing the proper kind of toilet at the schools. It is of more value to the children and to the state to teach the children how to take care of their health than to teach them algebra, Latin and geometry, or even reading, writing and arithmetic. The plans and specifications for the construction of a sanitary surface toilet will be sent to the trustees or to any one else in the state who will write for them.

Christopher Held for Murder.

Laurens, S. C., September 14.—Wanted on a charge of murder, James Christopher was taken to Haywood county, North Carolina, this afternoon by officers. It is alleged that Christopher killed a man several weeks ago. Christopher was accompanied here by a woman, who was also taken to North Carolina by the officers.

GOUT

Like Rheumatism, Can Be Expelled by the Prompt Use of Sulphur in Solution.

Not the old-fashioned disgusting doses of thick mixture of molasses and powdered sulphur, but a better way—SULFOSOL, the new form of sulphur in solution—the form anxiously desired for hundreds of years by the medical profession and now first realized in SULFOSOL. SULFOSOL is as soluble as sugar or salt, and it has brought so much joy and gladness to sufferers from Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema and stubborn skin troubles that the whole world should know of this wonderful remedy.

SULFOSOL is the great vitalizer of the blood, expeller of uric acid and other blood taints and conqueror of Gout and Rheumatism. Get it of your nearest druggist or write to the Sulfol Company, 215 Washington St., New York, for a free book on Gout, Rheumatism and Blood Diseases and the successful use of SULFOSOL in their treatment.

EARLY FROSTS PREDICTED BY WEATHER BUREAU

Cool Spell to Follow Rain in Southern and Middle Atlantic States.

Washington, September 14.—Early autumn frosts in the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic states, New England and the extreme northwest are predicted by the weather bureau for Tuesday. The weekly forecast tonight says:

"The week will open with rains continuing in the southern states and extending into the Ohio valley and the middle Atlantic states, and about Tuesday unsettled, rainy weather will prevail over all central and northern sections east of the Mississippi river. There will be local showers early in the week over the Rocky Mountain region and the northwest, but by Wednesday and Thursday generally fair weather should prevail over all districts.

"There are no present indications of an unusually high or low temperature during the week, but frosts will occur Monday morning over the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic states, New England and the extreme northwest on Tuesday morning over the lowest generally, the middle Atlantic states, the Rocky Mountain region, and by Wednesday or Thursday morning probably over the northern and western upper lake region.

"Temperatures will be rising over the northwest and west after the middle of the week, accompanied by falling pressure and by the end of the week the weather over those sections will again be unsettled and somewhat cooler."

SUNDAY'S TEMPERATURE LOWER THAN SATURDAY

The fitful gusts and threatening showers of fair weather did not prevent Sunday afternoon strollers in the house yesterday. They flocked to the parks and strolled down Peachtree and Whitehall streets and seemed rather to enjoy the cooler weather than to fear the showers which threatened.

The temperature on Sunday dropped somewhat below that of Friday and Saturday. While the sky was more or less cloudy during most of the day, there was no rain except for a slight sprinkle during the afternoon.

DRAFTING SEASON OPENS TODAY

Who Will Crackers Lose By Draft?—Majors Start Drafting Season Today

Who will the Atlanta Crackers, the pennant winners of 1913, lose by draft? This is the question that is agitating the minds of the Atlanta fans today.

The big league season opens today and runs for the next week or ten days. There are several players on the roster of the Atlanta club who will be eligible to drafts and who are worthy of being called in by the major league clubs.

But according to the drafting rules, only one player can be taken from one club in the league. Who will be the Atlanta player that will be chosen by lot?

The possibilities. Harry Welchone, Tommy Long, Harry Chapman, Livingston Blisland and Elliott Dent are all sure to be drafted. Which one will be the lucky one in the draft?

We would like to see any of the men mentioned go up and stick. Atlanta fans are unshakably enough in wish that they make good, though from the selfish side we would not like to lose any of these five men.

With Harry Welchone in the outfield, Blisland in the infield, Chapman behind the bat and Dent in the catcher's box, Atlanta have an excellent nucleus to build the 1914 team around.

But there is one consolation. Four of the five will be here in spring and for the sake of the player who will go up and get in the limelight it is possible that he will be drafted and receive more compensation.

Welchone, Long and Nixon in the outfield, Blisland, Chapman, Dunn and Reynolds behind the bat, Dent, Price and Voss in the box, is a mighty nucleus for any manager to carry over.

Joe Agler is lost for good and it will be an effort to find a shoe at the initial audition. Wallop Smith is also lost.

Mar Come Back. Harry Holland, Steve Love and possibly Joe Conzelmann and Carl Thompson will be back. If they are, then Bill Smith will have very little buying to do to build a team that will give all of them a fierce battle for the "A's."

Manager Smith will be in Cincinnati today and will remain there until all the drafts are recorded and all the players have been awarded contracts. It is possible that he will purchase a player or two at the meeting. If there are any promising finders or buyers in the market, Bill may grab one or a couple.

The Atlanta team is not the only Southern league team that has players who are likely to be drafted. At Birmingham, Pete Kinsley and Omar Harbridge are easily the pick of the bunch. At Mobile, Al Price and Gene Paulet are easily the pick of the bunch.

Chattanooga does not show a player that will be drafted, as most of the team is down under optional agreements that have already been exercised.

Bert King might attract some attention because of size and probably prove a handicap to him, however.

All the best players at Nashville, with the exception of First Base Earl Kraft, have already been sold. The latter has just been secured by the St. Louis Browns, but his trading partner, Memphis first baseman, will attract the attention of some of the weaker hitting teams in the major leagues.

Montgomery and Memphis fail to show any players worth of draft, as the stars of the former having been sold already, while on the latter there is a bunch of veterans who have been up.

If we were doing the drafting from the list of men above, figuring of course, one man for the team and being successful in our picks, we would choose the following: Wilson, of New Orleans; Kinsley, of Birmingham; Hoeg, of Mobile, and Kraft, of Nashville.

If we would take more than one man from each team, we would grab every man mentioned as eligible for draft from the roster of the pennant winners.

BERT HUMPHRIES STILL LEADER League Star Tops National League Hurlers—Al Demaree Is Second—Big Alexander Third.

The 1913 golf season of the Atlanta Athletic club is nearing its close. But one more tournament remains to be played.

The qualifying round in the tournament for the T. A. Hammond trophy is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and the finals by September 23.

The trials in the first flight will be 36 holes. In all the others 18.

Atlanta's new hotels seem to make no dent in the demand for temporary accommodations on the part of the traveling public.

Sunday was the busiest day yet this season at the larger downtown hotels. The new Ansley, recently opened and concerning which hotel men wagged their heads in doubt when it opened its doors in midsummer, was "standing firm" up over Sunday.

The Piedmont, the well-known Peachtree street establishment, had its usual overstreet register, demands for rooms being unprecedented for this time of year. All the other hotels were also crowded.

On the other hand the subway situation in New York city. When the subway was opened, the surface and elevated line management started counting the days until they would have to close the elevated lines.

The surface and elevated lines held their own as to hauling passengers, reports showing that they did as well this year after the subway had opened as they did previously.

On the other hand the subway company began paying dividends at the end of their first fiscal year.

Statisticians pondered over the problem of how the people who patronized the subway lines had traveled previous to its opening, as the surface and elevated lines did not lose a single patron.

That is the problem confronting local Atlanta hotels. The new Ansley, the Georgian Terrace and the other hotels are crowded. Yet the old establishments are doing as well, if not better, than they have ever done.

With the addition of the Whitecroft hotel to the list of first-class hostels in the city, the fellows who like to monkey with figures are staying working out that problem. They will undoubtedly reach the same total when they have ended their work.

Philadelphia 7, Cincinnati 6. Cincinnati, September 14.—Philadelphia nosed out Cincinnati in the ninth inning today and won an exciting game 7 to 6. Philadelphia topped the Giants by good hitting and by the grace of errors by Cincinnati. Doolin was hit on the knee by a foul tip in the eighth inning and retired in favor of Burns.

Washington Stops Naps. Washington, Cleveland's nemesis since the early days of the American league, today won the Naps' chances for the flag, and even the Cleveland fans to concede place has been threatened. Birmingham City eight days ago, made a good start in Philadelphia by downing the Athletics yesterday in the first game of the Sox series.

Runners-up, however, are a full game worse off than a week ago, the Athletics lead having grown from six and a half games then to seven and a half today.

In the National league the Giants got a running start for a series of four games by beating the Cubs, 10 to 7, Monday, which, with three straight from the Pirates, gave them a clean record for the week up to date. The Athletics, who met their first reverse, their advantage is so commanding that they would have to lose their future games while Philadelphia was winning steadily to give the Quakers a look in for ultimate honors.

Philadelphia's lead is showing equal class. Marquard, indeed, won his only game of the week, but was beaten in the ninth by the Sox, a game they did early in the season. Seaton and Alexander divided last week's four victories between them and today they met in a double-header, a single run in extra innings.

The Giant boxmen class, the possible exception of Marquard, are showing equal class. Marquard, indeed, won his only game of the week, but was beaten in the ninth by the Sox, a game they did early in the season. Seaton and Alexander divided last week's four victories between them and today they met in a double-header, a single run in extra innings.

Washington Stops Naps. Washington, Cleveland's nemesis since the early days of the American league, today won the Naps' chances for the flag, and even the Cleveland fans to concede place has been threatened.

In the National league the Giants got a running start for a series of four games by beating the Cubs, 10 to 7, Monday, which, with three straight from the Pirates, gave them a clean record for the week up to date.

Record for Week. The record in each league of games played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors and men left on bases, follows:
