

The Atlanta Constitution—An Institution

THE Atlanta Constitution is today, as it has been for years, recognized as the newspaper most typical of Atlanta, of Georgia and of the South.

Its name is a hearthstone echo with the day-laborer and the clerk, the silk-hat man, the capitalist and the man behind the steam shovel.

It is the voice of Atlanta, of Georgia, and of the South, to the nation and to the world.

That is why it has come to be known as "The Georgia Bible." People do not use illustrations of that nature without careful thought and long comparisons. You swear folk on the Bible. The people of Georgia swear by The Constitution because of its accuracy, its truthfulness, its inspiration, its cleanliness and its usefulness.

Why is it that Atlanta, that Georgia and the South turn instinctively to The Constitution? Why do YOU personally like the newspaper? Why does the native-born Southerner, and the great mass of other Americans we are so rapidly assimilating, rely upon The Constitution as a sure guide to Southern sentiment and the spokesman of right public opinion?

Here are a few reasons. They will interest you, since they analyze to the furthest the psychology and anatomy of the personality of "The Standard Southern Newspaper."

The paramount reason is that The Constitution today, as always, issues a complete, sane resume of twenty-four hours' news. It is not scrambled together with news half told and features cramped from very frenzy of haste.

It is a Southern newspaper—with Southern instincts and Southern viewpoint.

The Constitution was started with a great mission. It was established in 1868. The year brought the high-tide of the miseries and the tests of Reconstruction. A whole people was being born again. Chaos ruled the land. Bitterness and fear lurked at every corner. A negroid government was upon the people. The institutions of centuries' growth were in the melting pot. On each side was misgiving. Upon every hand was the need for courage and for vision.

It was the privilege of The Constitution to serve the city, the state, and the South under these conditions.

It was its privilege to stiffen the backbone of the timid; to soften the asperities of the irreconcilable.

It was its right to sustain hope when hope appeared folly; when thousands in despair were abandoning the South.

Where concession was compatible with dignity it preached concession.

Where inflexibility was indicated it counseled a stand that was unceding.

The Constitution found little difficulty in this task. It knew the mighty and unconquerable spirit of the Southern people. It knew the superabundance of the South's natural resources. In those dark days, it looked beyond and saw the destiny that lay on the other side of the abyss.

The man who is closest to you is the man who has stood at your elbow in the day of test. That is how The Constitution grew into the warp and woof of the confidence of Atlanta, of Georgia, and of the South. Its hold has steadily increased with the years.

When the "Force Bill" threatened to revive the nightmare of Reconstruction, it was the campaigning by The Constitution that so stiffened the spines of Southern congressmen that the fight ensued which sent that ill-advised measure to the discard.

In later days The Constitution's policy has uniformly been one of construction, as against destruction; of reconciliation, not of vindictiveness nor the role of the historic ghoul.

The Constitution's viewpoint is nation-wide, not provincial.

In the politics of the city and state, The Constitution's attitude has been the same. It has conscientiously sought out and followed what it regarded as the best eventual interests of the majority. At the same time it has avoided intolerance.

The paper might be sincerely opposed to certain policies or candidates. That did not prevent it from doing its best to give them a square deal. The startling accuracy of its political prophecies has become proverbial.

The Constitution has always believed, and lived up to the belief, that while the editorial columns belonged to the paper, the news columns belonged to the people.

The Constitution has always recognized that the intelligence and strength of no community could be stronger than that of its farming element. It has always stressed its agricultural features.

It established first a Weekly and then a Tri-Weekly—which has grown into the greatest Tri-Weekly newspaper in all the world. It is preeminently the newspaper of the Southern farmer. It is the Southern farmer's every-other-day daily. It trails the rural carrier into 107,000 rural homes three times each calendar week.

This means, roughly estimated, and counting five members to the family, 530,000 Southern farmers and their families read The Constitution three times a week. The estimate is purposely conservative.

That is why the heart of the rural South, the feeders and largely the clothiers of the rest of us, look to The Constitution as the supreme court in all those functions a newspaper may discharge.

It is conceded that The Constitution's persistent propaganda is chiefly responsible for the diversification and the better farming methods that are gathering momentum in the South today.

This summarization explains why men, women and children through Atlanta, Georgia and the South regard The Constitution as the court of last resort for news, for breadth of opinion, for promptness, for education and for accuracy.

From the day in 1868, when the first crude sheet appeared, to this day, when the finished and expensive product leaves the great perfecting presses, The Constitution's efforts have always been to—

Keep close to the heart-beat of the people.

To make Ishmaelites of all the sharp-traders with the public confidence.

To sacrifice profit, if need be, for truth and for service.

To ignore gaudy and clap-trap methods, even though they brought a dearly-bought temporary success to competitors.

To keep jam up with progress, but never to mistake selfish hysteria for progress.

To cater to no class exclusively, but to be worthy of the friendship, or at least the respect, of all classes.

To hold such a course as to be regarded as the ever-advancing standard by which all other comparisons are made.

For forty-five years this policy has been religiously followed. That is why, whether people come from Atlanta, from Georgia, the South or the nation, they hail The Constitution unquestionably as fully entitled to be known as "The Standard Southern Newspaper."

That is why The Atlanta Constitution is something more than a newspaper. It is

A SOUTHERN INSTITUTION

It is that element of prestige, representing the confidence of the public for many years, that gives it an added value as a home newspaper, apart from its superiority in purely journalistic excellencies.

Its 50,000 circulation is superior for advertising purposes because its readers, probably half of whom have read the paper for a long period of years, instinctively give the advertising much the same credence as they do the news and editorial matters, being influenced by it in their purchases similarly as they are in other activities by the paper itself.

protracted duties, and that they resent the conditions that have piled up the need for vital legislation at the very threshold of the party's return to power. The whole responsibility for the surfeit of legislation, for the uncertainty in business and the travail in politics for the past ten years and at present, rests with the republican party.

It is the psychological moment to emphasize that fact. For the whole process illustrates the spectacle of political insincerity and reveals the nation as paying the price. For ten years, or thereabouts, the country has wanted tariff revision and currency reform.

BLACK SHEEP IN EVERY FLOCK. The customary shallow-pated sneers against priests and preachers generally may be expected to follow the news of the revolting crime of the Rev. Hans Schmidt, of New York.

It is, of course, deplorable when a man of the cloth sins atrociously; perhaps a little more so than when a layman steps aside, for the reason that the one stands out in stronger relief than the other.

BRANDEIS' INCONSISTENCY. Louis D. Brandeis, of Boston, is a smart lawyer and a useful public character, but, like many other big men, he is guilty of the sin of inconsistency.

Through years of experience it has built up a splendidly efficient machine. The purpose of the machine is to—Rehabilitate men, women, children. Reclaim all manner of derelicts. Lessen disease. Discourage vice.

THE NATION PAYS THE PRICE. Associated Press reports from Washington summarize the progress of tariff and currency reform and indicate that the preliminary program of President Wilson's administration will soon be on the statute books.

Just From Georgia By FRANK L. STANTON. The Dreamer of the Rain. Rain on, you said, September sky! A heartfelt welcome you shall win; I tell my daily tasks good-by.

Up the broad chimney That a race Of red sparks from the faggots gleaming; O comfortable fireplace, Some dreamer fashions you for dreaming!

His Changed Condition. "Since Uncle Jim Deeks joined the church at camp-meeting," says The Whitsett Courier, "he's come to be so humble his old friends hardly recognize him."

The Tariff at the Fireside. Now that the Tariff's scuttlin' down—has come to spend the day, Willin' to be sociable, you dunno what to say!

To Teach Texas. Says George Houston Post Bailey: "Three Georgia high schools have added to cooking department. We like to hear such things of Georgia, for most of the girls of the Cracker state who learn how to cook usually find their way to Texas."

Queer Country Capers. Musket Ridge is a leader when it comes to keeping in the limelight. It's news correspondent says: "Silas Waxit brought to town the first bale of cotton Thursday week and received 12 1/2 cents for it."

Old Man Plenty—changed not since of old. Except, he's told the harvests how to give us more of gold. They hear him and cheer him in every land and clime.

Old Man Plenty—here's the place to stay, Where the dollars are a-shining like the silver sun of day; Reaping in the rich fields, country spruce and prime.

Woul' Tempt the Boys. After reviewing the Thaw case Editor Gomer Davis has this to say: "If he'd had to work for a living he wouldn't have had time to make such a crazy fool of himself."

Equal to the Occasion. "It takes genius to keep the stove red hot when there's no cash for coal," said the author, as he chuckled in forty odes and half a crate of rejected love poems.

A Story of the Moment By WALT HASON. THE COW'S INFLUENCE. "You have so much to do with cows," remarked the professor.

"I never heard anything more ridiculous than such a statement. It may be that Burroughs has a stuffed cow. I can imagine that there would be some comfort in having a stuffed cow on the premises, but when you get a live one all such things put contentment and harmony and peace out on their never-league boots and make their getaway."

trouble began that evening. Doolittle went out to the shed with a nice new tin pail that would hold about ten gallons. He sat down to milk with his pipe in his mouth. He's always smoking when he isn't asleep.

Modern Inventions THE HAM SANDWICH. By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Sissah". (Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

The ham sandwich is the great American substitute for food. A ham sandwich consists of a hinged bun with a suspicion of ham between halves.

One ham sandwich will keep the ordinary traveler from wanting any more food for 100 miles. This brings down the cost of traveling in a remarkable manner.

The ham sandwich is the legal tender for a nickel in all parts of the country except along a few railroads so lost to honor as to charge 10 cents apiece for everything it sells to the traveler.

The Reason. It is getting harder and harder to keep the women on the farm. Another of their favorite amusements has received a severe blow.

The World's Mysteries WHO WAS THIS PRINCE OF MODENA? One of the most remarkable impostors of the eighteenth century was the youth who claimed to be the hereditary Prince of Modena, and who was long accepted as such.

The arrival of the exalted but mysterious personage was soon known through the length and breadth of the province and he became a center of interest. The commandant of the port where he landed placed his house at the young count's disposal, and he was received with every mark of respect.

At this time the governor of the Windward Islands, the Marquis de Caylus, was unpopular, and the Prince deemed it wise to side with the inhabitants, and he declared he would call the governor to strict account for mistaking the powers entrusted to him.

JUDGE T. E. PATTERSON, of the state prison commission, declared today that the proposition of taking charge of the state's highway work is at present under consideration by the state commission, and that he is heartily in favor of its being undertaken in the near future.

In reply to questions, Judge Patterson said that since he has been a member of the commission he has held the views editorial and the state will continue to urge the adoption of this policy by the commission. He is firmly of the opinion that if it is adopted the various counties of the state will save very largely the sums now wasted by road work not skilfully performed.

"The commission is now hampered by lack of funds to carry on the department, as it is at present conducted, but if this change of policy is made not only will there be a gain in efficiency, but the funds will be ample." "The difficulty with the commission as at present constituted is that there are in the employ of the commission five inspectors, all being good men and faithful in the discharge of their present duties, and it is hard to dispense with their services to make places for those who are less skilled men."

The Overshadowing Curse. (From The Houston, Texas, Post.) Fourteen murder trials make the record of one term of court in Atlanta. On Monday last 135 cases were before the recorder, including drunks, disorderly conduct and two homicides.

This would be sufficient to bring Atlanta into disreputable notoriety, if it were alone. But Atlanta is not alone. There are ugly conditions of a similar nature existing in other southern cities.

The Columbia State tells us that South Carolina is recording an average of two homicides a day, or more than 700 a year. The smaller cities and towns and even the usually peaceful rural communities are contributing to the record.

The discouraging part of it is, the situation is not much worse now than it is at any other time. The curse and blight of homicide is upon us at all times, and as a rule we pay but little attention to it, largely for the reason, we suppose, that we have become accustomed to it.

A Song of the Future. Sail fast, sail fast. Ark of my hopes, Ark of my dreams. Sweep lordly o'er the drowned Past. Fly glittering through the sun's strange beams.

At this time the governor of the Windward Islands, the Marquis de Caylus, was unpopular, and the Prince deemed it wise to side with the inhabitants, and he declared he would call the governor to strict account for mistaking the powers entrusted to him.

assisting the various counties in their road work by providing these experts who can lend their skill and knowledge to the wardens and thus standardize and make more efficient the road-working forces of the state.

The other members of the prison commission, Messrs. Davison and Rainey, are not in Atlanta at the present time, but their views will be ascertained upon their return. It is expected that both will endorse Mr. Hule's suggestion as enthusiastically as Mr. Patterson has done.

It seems to the Post that the people will have to quit looking at surface evils and get down to the deeper causes of all this crime, and particularly the unpunished crime. They are entirely too indifferent. Too many seem to think that so long as they themselves are not shot, everything is all right.

The great overshadowing curse of the south and of all America is homicide and until we recognize the fact our reformers will be merely fishing for minnows while the whales are threatening the very craft of our civilization.

Sail fast, sail fast. Ark of my hopes, Ark of my dreams. Sweep lordly o'er the drowned Past. Fly glittering through the sun's strange beams.

Secretary Clarke of the LaGrange chamber of commerce was the first of the official delegates to arrive having reached the city on Sunday.

Never before in the history of similar movements looking to the advancement of the industrial interests of Georgia has there been such state-wide interest in the matter and it is expected that Macon is making preparations for the coming of not less than two or three hundred men of prominence from all parts of the state.

The Albany chamber of commerce has made arrangements to run a special train out of Albany tomorrow in order to accommodate the delegates from Albany and nearby points.

Considerable discussion is going the rounds of the delegates already on the ground as to who will probably be elected as permanent officials of the organization it being generally conceded that Charles J. Haden of Atlanta who has devoted much time and energy to the organization of the state chamber will be elected president.

PIEDMONT CELEBRATES AFTER THEATER SEASON King Oyster and All His Followers Are Formally Welcomed to Atlanta.

IN THE THEATERS Keith Vaudeville. (At the Popsy.) As a usual thing Atlanta vaudeville players would rather see any other kind of an act than a sketch, and if you were to tell a dyed-in-the-wool front row secker that there would be two of them in the same week, he would rush to the nearest phone and cancel his reservation.

Mix a goodly portion of Mard Gras, stir in a heaping, hourfull of New York New Years' eve, sift a scattering few moments of the spirit of Hallowe'en, warm over the sparks of imported liquors and one obtains a birdseye recipe of the opening of the theatrical and oyster season at the Piedmont cafe last night.

Everybody in Atlanta—that is, everybody who is seen anywhere—was present at the event in which Old King Carnival, that much press-agented individual, "reigned supreme," as the most verdant reporter has it.

THAW TO APPEAR IN FEDERAL COURT

His Case Will Be Heard by U. S. Judge Aldrich Today. Thaw Feels Safer Since the United States Interfered.

Colebrook, N. H. September 15.—The judicial branch of the United States government assumed joint guardianship of Harry K. Thaw tonight. By virtue of a writ of habeas corpus issued at Concord, N. H., United States Marshal L. Nute became one of the Massachusetts fugitives and tomorrow morning Thaw will be taken to Littleton, N. H., and produced before Judge Edgar Aldrich in the United States district court.

The writ was obtained by Thaw's lawyers as a weapon against William Flavel Jerome in case Jerome should essay forcibly to get Thaw across the New York border. Before the federal court tomorrow they will seek to have the writ continued to safeguard their client should Governor Holke find against Thaw in the extradition hearing to be held at Concord probably on Wednesday.

Jerome will oppose the continuance of the writ and insist on an immediate hearing, although there is possibility that Thaw may be released from custody. Jerome believes Thaw's counsel would make an attempt to get their client out of the state under the circumstances and that Thaw would immediately be arrested and brought before the governor as arranged.

Thaw Trusts to Be Safe.

Both factions planned tonight to leave Colebrook for Littleton on the Maine central railroad at 6:18 o'clock tomorrow morning. The distance is about 11 miles and the train if on time should reach there about 8 o'clock.

Thaw tonight was eagerly anticipating the trip to Littleton. It is the first time with the exception of bankruptcy proceedings at Pittsburg that he has ever been in the federal courts and the sovereign power. Uncle Sam gave him a sense of security against kidnapping.

Marshal Nute reached Colebrook shortly after 6 o'clock this afternoon. The writ he bore was against Holman Drew, sheriff of Coos county, or any other custodian of Thaw. But because the writ was temporary, absent having gone to his home in Berlin for the afternoon the marshal refrained from serving the writ and handed it to the sheriff in person on his return here tonight.

Jerome lets Canadian Attorney Thaw spend in unconfined liberty.

THREE TRAINMEN HELD FOR RAILROAD HORROR

Coroner, in His Findings, Neither Blames Nor Absolves the New Haven Road.

New Haven, Conn. September 15.—Three employees of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are held by Coroner Eli Mox to be criminally responsible for the disastrous wreck at North Haven on September 2 when the White Mountain Express plunged through the second section of the standing Bar Harbor Express, exacting a toll of twenty-one lives. The coroner's findings were filed today after he had conducted a private inquest.

Those Held Responsible.

Those held to be responsible are Augustus B. Miller, engineer of the White Mountain Express and Bruce C. Adams and Charles H. Murray, conductor and flagman, respectively, of the Bar Harbor train.

The Coroner's Findings.

The coroner neither blames nor absolves the New Haven road. He finds the signals were in perfect working order and whether the band signals are absolute or not, the accident would have been prevented if the company's rules had not been violated. He declared the number of violations of rules of employees makes a sorry record.

Benches Warrants Have Been Issued for Adams and Murray.

It is said they will be brought into court tomorrow.

In His Finding the Coroner Says of Engineer Miller.

The lives of a large number of people were in his care and he was duty bound to take no chance or incur no risk. He was in a position to see that the train was ahead and that it was imperative and his duty to have had his train under perfect control ready to stop at a signal of danger. Miller approached the band signal set at danger just north of the wrecks at a reckless rate of speed.
