Not Afraid of Gunmen. Speaker Stanton after charging that scurrilous articles had appeared in newspapers threatening to appear him and that threats and efforts of intimidation had come to him for the past several days, said:

There are two suit cases of guns now in the office of the superintendent of the capitol grounds. I do not propose to be intimidated by Government agents, his gunmen and their efforts to force me to make rulings will do them no good.

Representative McFarland follows Stanton, after pulling off his coat, to show that he was not armed. He denounced the man who arms down weapons in a pocket, and declared that any man who carried such a practice was a d—-coward.

YOUNG GIRLS' TRIP RESULTS IN ARREST OF ALLEGED ESCORT

Government Authorities Investigating Charges Against J. L. Denton, a Prominent Atlanta Contractor.

Charged with an escapade with two girls of 17 years, one of whom was his stenographer, and both of whom he is alleged to have deserted in Birmingham, J. L. Denton, a prominent contractor with offices in the Empire building, was arrested Tuesday morning.

He is held at police headquarters for government authorities who are investigating white slavery charges against him. The two girls, both of them blondes, whom he is charged with having lured from the city are still in Birmingham. Their parents are striving to bring them back.

Denton is 37 years old. Recently he was separated from his wife. Divorced proceedings are now pending in Fulton county. He denies having escorted the girls to Alabama, but admits being with them on both a Southern train and having dined with them in Birmingham.

Arrested Tuesday Morning. He was arrested about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in his office, 427 Empire building by Headquarters Detectives Chewing and Coker, and was immediately taken to police headquarters. Chewing and Coker were detailed by Chief Lanford, who had received a report from a stenographer in Denton's office and one of the girls whom he is alleged to have carried to Birmingham.

The Elliott girl lives on Bellwood avenue. The name of the second girl was given by the girl's mother, who said, however, to be an intimate chum of Miss Elliott, and is only 17 years of age. Both girls, Chief Lanford says, will be brought back to Atlanta to appear against the prisoner.

The Elliott girl, who is declared to be one of the prettiest girls of her neighborhood, has been a stenographer in Denton's office for three months. They have been acquainted for six months, according to the stenographer, and she never had any relations to him. He states that the first time he saw her friend was when the trip was made to Birmingham.

Denton talked with a Constitution reporter last night at police headquarters. He denied the charges of the police, and said that he was a victim of the girls, who had gone to Birmingham, he said, only on business. The Elliott girl and her chum were on the train with him, he said, during the trip, but made no arrangements to meet them in Birmingham, he declared.

He met them as they left the railway station in Birmingham, and invited them to lunch. After the meal, he brought them back to Atlanta to meet them at the entrance of the cafe. That was the last he had seen of them, he declared, and he did not know where they had become until the detectives informed him that they were penniless in Birmingham.

He never had any relations to them back to Atlanta on the same train with me, he said, but they wouldn't. They were with the two men they met in Birmingham, he said. The girls seemed anxious to come home, but her friend desired to stay in Birmingham and surrounded Miss Elliott with questions. These charges are either trumped up or I am a victim of circumstances. I never did anything wrong with the girls, he said, but he had a pleasure trip and I thought she would be back for work by the time I returned.

Neal Bank Receivers to Pay Another Dividend on Nov. 1; 7,000 Depositors Affected

Payment Will Make the Fifth Since Institution Closed Its Doors Two Days Before Christmas in 1907; Central Bank and Trust Corporation Was Placed in Charge.

DIVIDEND OF 8 PER CENT ON TOTAL INDEBTEDNESS PROMISED BY RECEIVERS Some Assets Are Still on Hand and Will Be Disposed Of Whenever Good Price Can Be Secured—With November Payment, Only 27 Per Cent Will Be Due the Depositors.

The Central Bank and Trust corporation, receivers of the Neal bank, which closed its doors December 22, 1907, announces that it will begin paying a fifth dividend to the defunct bank's creditors about November 1 of the current year, and that the coming dividend may amount to as much as 8 per cent on the sum now due the depositors in round figures.

Should the November dividend reach 8 per cent of the original indebtedness, the sum would be approximately 20 per cent of the original indebtedness. The amount now due the creditors for the late Neal bank by the receivers, the Central Bank and Trust corporation. And still the receivers have in hand papers which may materially reduce the 27 per cent due the creditors after the approaching November dividend shall have been paid.

When the Neal bank closed its doors its liabilities were found to be $3,138,780.85. Of this amount approximately 7,000 depositors with accounts ranging from $1 to $10,000. Among the creditors was the state of Georgia, with its preferred claim to which the receivers, the Central Bank and Trust corporation, gave its first attention. The company condition of the Neal bank was anything but promising when the Central bank began its work as receiver, but within a short time the receivers changed the chaotic condition into a condition that was promising for all depositors, but at no time did the financial sheet appear as satisfactory to its creditors as it does now.

Final Dividend Expected. Within a short time after taking over the defunct bank's business the receivers announced a 20 per cent dividend, and at that time many of the creditors were apprehensive that that 20 per cent would be the final dividend of the salvage. Within the year the receivers announced their ability to pay another 20 per cent dividend, which was later augmented by a third dividend of 4 per cent, and then a fourth dividend of 2 per cent, making in all 65 per cent of the payment of which reduced original indebtedness of more than $3,000,000, in which were the receivers' claims. The total amount as the state's claim, to $278,000.

So it will be seen that the receivers have paid to its creditors already $2,460,785.85 and are now ready with another dividend of 20 per cent on the $3,138,780.85. The November dividend which will probably be as high as 8 per cent, will make the total unpaid will represent probably 87 per cent on the original debt of over $3,000,000.

The November dividend when paid will not close the receivership for the reason that these assets are being converted into cash to be applied to the payment of the debt. The remaining 27 per cent of the total indebtedness will be again reduced. The assets are being sold in the manner in which the receivers are being converted into cash to be applied to the payment of the debt. The remaining 27 per cent of the total indebtedness will be again reduced. The assets are being sold in the manner in which the receivers are being converted into cash to be applied to the payment of the debt.

Stayer Operated in Louisville. Louisville, Ky., September 23—The murder of Joseph Schlankey last night in Indianapolis, Louisville indicates or indicates that the victim of a hotel by a young man believed the name of W. R. Anderson is giving the search being made for his son. A series of crimes alleged to have been committed recently in eastern and middle western states by Joseph Ellis, who he declared to be his son, was reported by the police, and a bloody suit of clothes which he said to a second-hand dealer here last night.

Mr. R. K. who was the victim of a sensational robbery in a hotel here Saturday afternoon, was identified as Joseph Ellis, son of Joseph Ellis, who he declared to be his son, was reported by the police, and a bloody suit of clothes which he said to a second-hand dealer here last night.

He admitted that the picture of "Fred" Brock on the Pittsburg robbery circular, bore a "startling resemblance" to his son, but he refused to identify it positively. He said he had been recently admitted having received and answered a telegram Thursday, refusing his son further assistance.

ROTTEN BOROUGHS ATLANTA TO VOTE BANNED BY G. O. P. ON CHARTER TODAY

New York Republican Convention Advocates Change in Selecting Delegates to Meet Roosevelt's Ideas.

New York September 23—The republicans of New York today declared in favor of changing the party rules so that each state may determine its own method of choosing delegates to the national convention, and so that states which give the big republican pluralities shall have proportionately large power in selecting candidates for president. For this purpose the New York committee called for a special national convention at an early date.

The proposition and its subsidiary question developed the biggest fight of the republican state convention held here today. This struggle was staged however before the committee on resolutions of the present system of representation with United States Senator Elihu Root Henry L. Stinson former secretary of war and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university as chief supporters of the proposal and William Barnes Jr. national committee chairman as its strongest opponent. The resolution finally was approved after the original measure had been amended to recommend the retention of the congressional district as the basis of representation.

Before the resolution was amended to indicate the present system of representation by congressional districts Mr. Barnes declared that the scheme was not practicable. He said that it placed too much power in the hands of the parties dominant in the different states. It will act in accordance with such suggestion he asserted if I can if I cannot I will retire.

After the amendment was added he remarked: It is satisfactory to me in that form but I don't see how they are going to do it. Senator Root argued that the present rotten borough system gives undue weight to the representatives of the southern states which contribute nothing whatever to the election of republicans. If you are going to change the rules you must do so before you elect delegates to the next national convention. We should declare the method and detail only and leave the committee to work out the details from the different states come.

Dont make the mistake of thinking you cant be fitted in ready clothes

It is sometimes quite a costly mistake; you'll pay a good deal more to have your clothes made-to-measure than for equal quality, ready; and you can get just as good a fit in ready clothes as a custom tailor can give you.

There's an easy way to prove it; because fit is something you can see for yourself. Go to some good clothier where our clothes are sold; ask to see a suit or overcoat at $25; make some comparison of style, material, tailoring, with the made-to-measure suit or overcoat at $40. If it doesn't fit, don't buy it.

You'll find suits and overcoats of ours at $18 and $20 and up to $50.

THAW IN TEARS DURING HEARING

Concord, N. H., September 23.—The duty of the state of New Hampshire toward Harry K. Thaw was the subject of exhaustive argument before Governor Felker today.

The legal battle, in which William Travers Jerome, special deputy attorney general of New York state, which seeks to obtain the extradition of Thaw as a fugitive from justice, was pitted against three of the fugitive's array of counsel, was dramatic at times and near the close came dangerously near to being personal. At one time during the plea of his counsel Thaw was accompanied by his mother and brother, who was in tears.

To the charge that he had resorted to subterfuge and was moved by ulterior motives in his determination to return Thaw to the insane asylum, Jerome retorted with unusual feeling that the state of New York would not permit its justice to be defeated by the corrupt use of Thaw's money.

The conclusion of the arguments of the governor gave counsel until Monday to file supplementary briefs, so his duty will not be known for a week at least.

Seated beside the governor in the senate chamber of the capitol where the hearing was held was Attorney General Tuttle, by whose opinion the executive action will be guided.

New Angles Developed.

During Jerome's arguments new angles in the celebrated case developed. One that appeared to take the position that Thaw is now under indictment in Dutchess county, charged with conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum. Former Judge William Jerome, who was the attorney for Thaw, had been found against his client and that accordingly there was no evidence to place him on trial.

Jerome went further and gave his opinion that if returned to New York state, Thaw would be confined in the state chamber of the capitol where the hearing was held was Attorney General Tuttle, by whose opinion the executive action will be guided.

SULZER SUBMITS TO HIGH COURT

But Seeks to Escape Trial for Misuse of Campaign Funds—Court to Decide Matter Today.

Albany, N. Y., September 23.—After a day spent in listening to lengthy arguments the high court for the trial of the impeachment of Governor William Sulzer adjourned tonight without having decided whether the impeached executive will go to answer charges involving the misuse of the funds contributed for his campaign last fall. It is expected, however, that the court will reach a decision early tomorrow.

In event of the denial of the motion to strike out the three articles dealing with the contributions from the guns of the impeached executive's legal battery will have been spiked, as far as the preliminaries are concerned, and the actual trial will begin.

That counsel for the assembly managers are confident the court will not dismiss the three articles is evidenced by the fact that they announced that Jacob H. Schiff, Abram L. Elkus, Henry Morgenthau and others who contributed to the Sulzer election fund, would testify. This announcement, Jacob H. Schiff, counsel announced, would be the first witness for the prosecution on the contested articles mentioned in the sworn statement of election expenses filed by the governor.

Governor Sulzer Submits.

Governor Sulzer today submitted to the ruling of the high court that the assembly had the constitutional right to impeach him. This submission was made at the opening of court by Judge D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the impeached executive, who declared that the governor will be sworn to testify before the court on the merits of the charges. He also announced that the assembly managers were busy tonight preparing to place their early witnesses on the stand. The court will hear the testimony of presumably non-disputed facts before the really vital testimony is introduced. Formal proof of the charges will be made at the governor's first trial.

Later the governor's statement of campaign expenses and disbursements sworn to and filed with the secretary of state, will be proved. It is on this statement that the prosecution bases its case. The document shows that Sulzer received $5,450 in furtherance of his election and that he expended $10,000 in violation of the law. The document also shows that Sulzer received at least $8,500 of which no mention is made in the sworn statement.

Perjury, Fraud, Larceny.

The preliminary charges of not impeaching the governor who were chosen at the statewide primaries under the state law, and accepted in their place delegates chosen under the party rules of representation by congressional districts. Today's resolution is intended to prevent the governor from making any further charges.

After the proposal had been adopted by the committee, advocates of progressive ideas declared that the outcome of the situation would meet part way those who left the party a year ago to follow Colonel Roosevelt, and who wished to return. The question was one that agitated the delegates at the national convention in 1912, and the delegates who favored Theodore Roosevelt at Chicago urged a change in the party rules of order in principle.

Later the resolution was adopted by the convention, which thus made the change in the party rules the stand of the party in this state.

The convention wound up its labors by electing William E. Wood as the national chairman, Senator Root as the permanent chairman, and Senator Root as the permanent chairman. Senator Root said it was forty years ago that he decided to continue the party, and he hoped to continue that service as long as he lived.

Tammany Is Scored.

The speaker then turned his attention to Tammany Hall, and in a longer local speech, he said, "She controls the democratic party of the state. She reaches out her hand to the great courts upon which the protection of our liberty depends. I cannot present the deep humiliation I have felt to see the seal of Tammany impressed upon its government."

"There can be no possible outcome of the impeachment trial, acquittal or conviction under the democratic party, controlled by Tammany Hall, is not convicted," Mr. Root concluded. "There was a noisy demonstration when District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, of New York, was called to the platform."

"Our next governor," was the cry that predominated during the Whitman demonstration.

The district attorney's speech was mainly devoted to the Sulzer case. It is not a matter of great concern whether these charges be true or false.

Currency Bill Attacked.

The platform adopted tonight opens with a plank against the recall of currency and judicial decisions and denounces the democratic currency and banking bill now pending in congress. It also has a plank against the principles of protection to American workmen, American industries and American farmers. Self interest expressed that democratic tariff reform will prove a failure.

ACROSS MEDITERRANEAN AVIATOR GARROS FLIES

Birdman Makes the 558 Miles From France to Turin in About Eight Hours.

Biarritz, Tunis, September 23.—Roland G. Garros, the French aviator, today flew 558 miles across the Mediterranean from St. Raphael, France, to this city, the most northern seaport of Tunis. His time was 7 hours and 53 minutes. He started at 5:52 a. m. and reached here at 1:15 p. m. The flight is the longest over-sea journey ever made in an aeroplane.

The aviator refused to accept the advice offered him that he should affix floats to his aeroplane as a precaution in case he should be forced to descend on the water. He also declined the offer made by the French naval authorities to station torpedo boats destroyers at intervals along his route from France to Tunis.

Military Aviator Drowned.

Mogador, Morocco, September 23.—A French military aviator coming here from Casablanca was drowned today when his aeroplane crashed at a distance of 300 yards from the beach. The aviator was fastened to the seat of his machine and did not come to the surface again.

Many a good sermon has been preached in silence.

That counsel for the assembly managers are confident the court will not dismiss the three articles is evidenced by the fact that they announced that Jacob H. Schiff, Abram L. Elkus, Henry Morgenthau and others who contributed to the Sulzer election fund, would testify. This announcement, Jacob H. Schiff, counsel announced, would be the first witness for the prosecution on the contested articles mentioned in the sworn statement of election expenses filed by the governor.

Governor Sulzer Submits.

Governor Sulzer today submitted to the ruling of the high court that the assembly had the constitutional right to impeach him. This submission was made at the opening of court by Judge D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the impeached executive, who declared that the governor will be sworn to testify before the court on the merits of the charges. He also announced that the assembly managers were busy tonight preparing to place their early witnesses on the stand. The court will hear the testimony of presumably non-disputed facts before the really vital testimony is introduced. Formal proof of the charges will be made at the governor's first trial.

Later the governor's statement of campaign expenses and disbursements sworn to and filed with the secretary of state, will be proved. It is on this statement that the prosecution bases its case. The document shows that Sulzer received $5,450 in furtherance of his election and that he expended $10,000 in violation of the law. The document also shows that Sulzer received at least $8,500 of which no mention is made in the sworn statement.

Perjury, Fraud, Larceny.

The preliminary charges of not impeaching the governor who were chosen at the statewide primaries under the state law, and accepted in their place delegates chosen under the party rules of representation by congressional districts. Today's resolution is intended to prevent the governor from making any further charges.

After the proposal had been adopted by the committee, advocates of progressive ideas declared that the outcome of the situation would meet part way those who left the party a year ago to follow Colonel Roosevelt, and who wished to return. The question was one that agitated the delegates at the national convention in 1912, and the delegates who favored Theodore Roosevelt at Chicago urged a change in the party rules of order in principle.

Later the resolution was adopted by the convention, which thus made the change in the party rules the stand of the party in this state.

The convention wound up its labors by electing William E. Wood as the national chairman, Senator Root as the permanent chairman, and Senator Root as the permanent chairman. Senator Root said it was forty years ago that he decided to continue the party, and he hoped to continue that service as long as he lived.

Tammany Is Scored.

The speaker then turned his attention to Tammany Hall, and in a longer local speech, he said, "She controls the democratic party of the state. She reaches out her hand to the great courts upon which the protection of our liberty depends. I cannot present the deep humiliation I have felt to see the seal of Tammany impressed upon its government."

"There can be no possible outcome of the impeachment trial, acquittal or conviction under the democratic party, controlled by Tammany Hall, is not convicted," Mr. Root concluded. "There was a noisy demonstration when District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, of New York, was called to the platform."

"Our next governor," was the cry that predominated during the Whitman demonstration.

The district attorney's speech was mainly devoted to the Sulzer case. It is not a matter of great concern whether these charges be true or false.

Currency Bill Attacked.

The platform adopted tonight opens with a plank against the recall of currency and judicial decisions and denounces the democratic currency and banking bill now pending in congress. It also has a plank against the principles of protection to American workmen, American industries and American farmers. Self interest expressed that democratic tariff reform will prove a failure.

HE WOULD PUT SOLDIERS TO WORK AS COWBOYS

Packer Proposes Novel Plan to Avert Threatened Meat Famine.

Chicago, September 23.—It is the duty of the United States to stock its government with the west, with cattle, put the army, especially the cavalry, to work as cowboys to handle the animals, supply the packers with this beef at cost, so that the price would be lowered to the people, and a threat against the west, especially the cavalry, years ago, in the opinion of A. M. Dublin, of New York, a delegate to the American Meat Packers' association, who today declared that only by some drastic action could the meat shortage be prevented.

"My suggestion is perfectly simple," said Mr. Dublin. "The government lands in the west could be made into great pastures, where countless cattle could be raised to relieve the present high cost of meat, and avert the famine that surely is coming otherwise."

"Unless some such action is taken there will be no meat on the tables of American workmen in the next decade. The government has no higher duty than to take this action. It is a matter of life and death to the packers at cost, and the consumer could get it with the mere price of ground beef. The government would be astonishing. This action or something just as efficacious must be done at once."

"I have taken this up with some of the delegates. Some approve, while others say it is too paternalistic. Each however must not stand in the way of relief when an actual famine is staring us in the face."

"Under the law, it is now being taken to make additional lots of oil or gasoline wherever found, regardless of the test made from the tanks on cars. If you think it necessary, the buyer has a right to know just what gravity he is paying for, and it is your duty to see that he is given this information. As a means to this end, I would suggest that all retail dealers buy gasoline only on a guaranteed gravity basis."

(Signed) W. C. BRYANT, "State Oil Inspector."

"Approved."

"J. D. PRICE, "Commissioner of Agriculture."

Commenting on the statement by the department for the improvement of the quality of the gasoline sold, Commissioner Price said Tuesday that he had received numerous letters from automobile owners from all parts of the state asking him to go after the sellers of inferior "gas." The purpose of the department is to see to it that purchasers of gasoline are informed of the quality just what grade they are buying.

Two Newspaper Enterprises

Which Demonstrated The Atlanta Constitution's Extraordinary Hold Upon Its Constituency of Readers

THE M. & M. CONTEST

In the winter months of 1912-13, ending on February 14th, The Atlanta Constitution conducted a Merchants and Manufacturers' Contest, an ingenious joint advertising and selling campaign in which many manufacturers of trade-marked products, with national distribution and a number of Atlanta retail businesses, participated.

A voting contest, with $6,000.00 in cash and other prizes, was the means by which the interest of the readers of the paper was concentrated upon certain lines of goods and particular stores. Many Church societies, lodges, charitable organizations and under special terms, individuals, competed for prizes.

Votes in the contest were given only for labels and cartons from trade-marked merchandise and for invoices, receipted bills and cash register tickets from retail stores which were brought to The Constitution office and deposited. Every vote represented the actual sale of merchandise.

The total vote represented the sale of $494,039.00 in grocer, drug, food and beverage products;

$757,554.00 in retail store merchandise;

$1,251,593.00 was the aggregate business done by the advertisers participating as a direct result of the campaign. The indirect benefits in new trade and additional publicity were incalculable.

At the close of the campaign four large rooms and a great deal of overflow space in The Constitution building were occupied by tons of labels and cartons.

These were the results for a few of the products:

1,900,000 labels, representing $95,000.00 of Uncle Sam Bread.

100,000 wrappers, representing $6,000.00 of Cleaning Soap.

$23,000.00 of Gold Medal Flour.

These two enterprises, both of them completed in the ensuing calendar year, have unusual significance when the complete facts about them are stressed in relation to The Constitution as an advertising medium.

So far as can be ascertained, The Constitution sold more merchandise, a total of $1,251,593.00, in the M. & M. Contest than was ever sold by a similar plan in this country.

The Woman's Edition was the most successful from a journalistic as well as a financial standpoint of any similar enterprise ever undertaken in this country.

WHY? Constitution readers are its loyal friends. This is especially true of the women. It is able to secure from them, for any enterprise for which it stands sponsor, a large enlistment, because of its hold upon them through its character, its journalistic excellencies, and all the elements that make it a fine family newspaper.

No other newspaper of relative size could have sold $1,251,593.00 in merchandise through such a selling plan because its prestige with its readers would not be strong enough to enlist enough people in buying certain brands of products and trading at certain stores.

No other newspaper enjoys the relationship with as strong and powerful organization as The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, as to have made The Woman's Edition the notable success it was.

If the readers of The Constitution, particularly the women, by their attachment to it, enable the paper to accomplish these two remarkable things upon its own initiative, does it not signify that they read the paper, that they have confidence in it, that they give advertising addressed to them a sympathetic interest that can scarcely be secured in any other advertising medium?

THE WOMAN'S EDITION

On June 4th, The Federated Women's Clubs of Georgia issued The Woman's Edition of The Atlanta Constitution, which has been for years the official newspaper of this body of women's clubs, the largest and strongest in the United States, embracing 118 clubs and 18,000 members, as well as The Daughters of the American Revolution and The United Daughters of The Confederacy. Special departments, edited by club women, in which all the organization announcements, addresses by the officers, etc., are printed, are prominent features of the Sunday paper.

The primary object of the edition from the Federation's standpoint was to obtain the nucleus of the Ella F. White Memorial Endowment Fund for the maintenance of the state work.

The Federation, through its permanent organization, as well as a special organization created for the purpose, not only wrote and edited all the news and editorial matter, but sold the advertising and 15,000 copies of the edition. The women were entirely responsible for its success, except in the preliminary plans and some guidance from time to time in the technical phases of the production.

The Woman's Edition was 126 pages in size, the largest single issue of a newspaper ever printed in the state and one of the largest in the history of journalism. It had a circulation of 60,000 copies. Each copy weighed two pounds. It contained 8,258 inches of advertising. The Federation of Women's Clubs participated in the profits substantially.

From every journalistic standpoint The Woman's Edition was notable. It was entirely different from the usual type of newspaper special editions. All the matter was of the most interesting character. The women did real newspaper stunts in the way of interviewing prominent men on delicate political subjects, attended police court as reporters, and obtained striking photographs. The art work, the typographical make-up and the arrangement was exceptionally fine from every critical viewpoint.

The issue attracted national attention. There was scarcely a newspaper of importance in the United States that did not comment upon it as a remarkable achievement, both for the Women's Clubs and The Constitution.

THE PLAGUE OF FREAKS.

A recent explosion from a clergyman in South Norwalk, Conn., sums up the whole fanatical folly of the plague of freaks and fanatics now howling from one end of the country to the other.

"In dress, dance and practices society seemingly is going straight to purgatory," he declared.

One might restrain patience if the sentiment here expressed were merely local. It is not. In the sense of geography, it is national.

These visitations go in cycles. The muck-raker having passed from the center of the stage, we must now put up for a period with the little coterie, generously scattered, that bays about the iniquities of the times and howls about imaginary evils.

Society isn't headed for purgatory! Society, using the word in the generic sense, is growing sounder and its ideals loftier every day.

The trouble is with the angle of its critics, or rather the smoked glasses they wear every time they find opportunity to turn their gaze from inward outward.

The world is not free from devilment. We hardly expect it will be this side of the millennium. If there were no ills to correct and injustice to undo this wouldn't be the earth—it would be heaven.

Not everybody has as yet qualified for that state. But taking it by and large, the America of the twentieth century is about the most moral, the kindest and the most genuinely religious country in history.

As for morals and their relation to dress, the average young man and woman, the average mature man and woman, holds and practices a higher standard of morals than at any previous era in America.

Out upon this morbid, fanatical practice of reading evil into innocent diversion, and seeing hopelessness on every side, when the truth is that every vista opens to progress and hope so clean and strong as to defy prophecy.

The "night birds" must, we suppose, have their day, and perhaps they're necessary to the gaiety of nations. But they certainly get upon the nerves of the healthy-minded man and woman!

"Get out of my sunlight," was a good motto in the days of Greece, and it's a good one in this hopeful and inspiring year of our Lord, 1913.

"UP TO THE COMMISSION."

Powerful support to the contention that the state prison commission should take advantage of the law and become also a central highway bureau, is that given by John Williams, president of the Georgia State Agricultural society.

By a queer coincidence, Mr. Williams had advocated these views before he knew the law on the subject. When his attention was called to the legal authority already existing he became even more enthusiastic in his opinions.

He is quoted in full elsewhere. When a man in his official position says that Georgia is wasting millions of dollars in unscientific road-building it is time to sit up and take notice.

He cites the experience and his own home county, Jones, and says it is typical of the average country county. He declares that road-building in Georgia has become involved in politics.

Mr. Williams says, it is simply "up to the prison commission." He believes the force of inspectors could, with profit be reduced and the money used to pay civil engineers, as the law authorizes.

The opportunity is theirs to open a new era in Georgia!

MARTIN, SCHOOL-BUILDER.

J. O. Martin, superintendent of the county schools of Newton county, is what might be called a master school-builder. We commend his methods and his example to the school authorities of every county in Georgia.

It is shown that to Newton belongs the distinction of possessing more standardized schools than any other county in the state.

Newton has seven, and it seems there are only twenty-eight in all Georgia, confining the test of course to the rural schools. For this condition credit is due Superintendent Martin and Professor H. H. Stone, president of the enterprising board of education.

Behind the work that is being done in Newton county is a dynamic appreciation of the fact that education is the solution of the prosperity and the individual success of the future.

Superintendent Martin and President Stone have invented and set at work machinery that carries education as far as it possibly can be carried in Newton county, that makes every dollar spent work intelligently and that gives to every pupil the dollar's worth his parent expends for educational purposes.

The day is coming when every county in Georgia must approximate standards of this nature or announce itself blind and reactionary.

And there is no reason why the standards of Martin should not be the universal standards. Newton is rich, but not singularly rich as compared with the majority of the counties in Georgia.

The difference is that in Newton intelligence has been joined out of its slumber and set to work at one of the foremost tasks of our day.

DIRECTOR HARRIS' WORK.

William J. Harris, of Georgia, chairman of the democratic state executive committee of this state, and director of the federal census, is laying the entire country under obligation to him by steps he is taking for the thorough-going reorganization of the census bureau.

Director Harris recently appointed a special commission of experts to investigate every branch of the bureau and report on plans for its reorganization.

On the commission were Hon. William R. Merriam, ex-governor of Minnesota, and the Hon. S. N. D. North, both former directors of the census; Professor Walter F. Willcox, of Cornell university; W. S. Rossiter, formerly chief clerk of the census, and the Hon. Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general and formerly an official of the census bureau.

The political personnel of the commission is republican. Its verdict cannot, therefore, be charged with bias or clouded by a "muck-raking" motive.

In the preliminary report the commission agrees that affairs in the bureau are in a "deplorable" condition. The work of the latest decennial census, the thirteenth, which should have been completed by July, 1912, still hangs over.

Director Harris does not, of course, expect to clean house violently. But his plan contemplates gradual improvements, the substitution of new for effete methods and of efficiency for delay and mossbackism.

In this mission he will have the hearty approval of every American who recognizes the vital relation of the census bureau to American progress. It is the sole source of accurate statistics now available in this country.

There can be no question that its previous mismanagement has been distinctly damaging to the nation's interests.

There are recompenses. The hard-riding consumer is not losing any sleep over the high cost of radium.

The king of Greece, it is said, is traveling incognito. Even kings want to look and feel like the other people God made.

Prosperity isn't standing aside for the joy-riders; he's running over the country himself.

Mrs. Pankhurst is not quite ready to sail for this country, so the government will have plenty of time to "view with alarm."

Candidates need not despair because the tariff is settled. It's the easiest thing in the world to drum up an excuse for running for office.

It might be better for Mr. Sulzer if he could gain his consent to let his lawyers do some of the talking.

Note to Prosperity: No need for the Dollar to ring. The door's wide open!

Washington will seem dull to Mr. Bryan unless he can get a chauntauqua band to play music at meals.

Just From Georgia By FRANK L. STANTON

In Comfort Country. Comfort now, and joy amazin'— Big oak fire in the chimney blazin'.

Don't mind wind or the black night howlin', Or the sneered haunt dog at the old haunts growlin'.

What's yer great life—all its glory. To a fireside song an' a fireside story?

No witch now rides on brooms an' switches, Here's the fire that'll burn the witches! Here, where joy for the night is stayin', Give us a song an' a fiddle-playin'!

Bless yer stars that you've got good reason To thank the Lord for the winter season! Plenty, now his store is bringin'!

A Story of the Moment By WALT MASON, The Famous Press Poet

ULTERIOR MOTIVES

"My Willie celebrated his thirteenth birthday yesterday, and I gave him a camera," said Peasenden. "You can't imagine how much fun he's having snapping everything in the earth and the waters under the earth."

"Well, you tell your Willie that if he begins making pictures of me I'll have the law on him," replied Rumbelow. "I feel quite satisfied that there is some nefarious plot back of all this. You're not the man to give your boy a camera unless you see where it's going to profit you."

"I expect this camera scheme is some new wrinkle in the scheme to drive me out of this suburb, but it won't work. I've had cameras trained on me before, and lived to tell the tale."

"Bigelow has a long gangling sister that he's been trying to unload on me for a couple of years. The fact that I won't fall for her explains his hatred of me and the way he persecutes me. If you've ever seen that sister of Bigelow's you must realize that no sane man would hand her a package of orange blossoms. She is the limit, and no mistake. She's about seven feet tall, and I hate tall women. Then she's all bones, so that when she walks she sounds like shaking dice for the drinks, and her eyes don't match, and her hair is streaked in two colors, and she has long yellow teeth. Whenever I see those teeth of hers I can't help thinking what a horrible thing it would be if she had hydrophobia, and went around snapping at people."

"All of a sudden Bigelow got too cordial for any good use, and began inviting me to his house to take tea and to eat ice cream and to play tiddledy-winks, and as soon as I'd get there his sister would take possession of me and gush and giggle around until I'd get so dizzy that I'd have to be carried out on the burglar counter a long time, and Bigelow was tired of seeing her around. He wanted to dispose of her at a sacrifice in order to make room for new goods, and he elected me to be the goat. I confess that I wouldn't mind marrying again if the right sort of woman came along, but I have an inherited prejudice against marrying a female scoundrel like Bigelow's sister."

"That woman tried every trick and stratagem to beguile me into proposing to her, but I was on my guard, and sidestepped the pitfall and the gin. One afternoon when I was there she begged me to take a seat on the porch, as her little nephew, Eddie, Bigelow's son, had a knock.

The World's Mysteries WAS CLAY-RANDOLPH DUEL A FARCE?

One of the most amusing resort to arms for the vindication of honor was that of Henry Clay and John Randolph in 1828. It had such an extraordinary termination that the story reads like a melodramatic farce.

Clay and Randolph were bitter political antagonists. Their quarrels terminated when Randolph bitterly denounced President Adams and his Secretary, Mr. Clay, for the message the former sent to the Senate regarding the Panama mission.

"I was defeated, foot and dragons—cut up, clean broke down by the coalition of Buff and Black George—by the combination unheard of till then, of the Puritan with the Blackleg."

"Blackleg" was too much for the high spirit of Mr. Clay, and he immediately sent Randolph a challenge. The place of meeting was the famous duelling grounds of Bladenburg. The date set for the duel was the afternoon of Saturday, April 8, 1826.

The principals and seconds had arrived on the ground. From the first Randolph had determined not to return the fire. When his friend, Mr. Benton, told him, on the morning of the duel, that he had visited Mrs. Clay the night before, of seeing their child asleep, and of the unconscious tranquility of Mrs. Clay, he added: "I could not help reflecting how different all that might be the next night."

"I shall do nothing to disturb the sleep of the child or the repose of the mother," Randolph had decided from the first not to fire. Clay, it was believed, thought it was a real transaction. But it is apparent that he, too, had no idea of soiling his hands with the blood of a great American, even under the provoking circumstances.

As they took their stands the principals saluted each other courteously, according to the usage of the "code." As Mr. Randolph was adjusting his pistol it accidentally discharged into the ground. Instantly Randolph turned to his second and said: "I protest against this trifling incident. It has handed another pistol and the two antagonists faced one another. The word was given to fire, and Randolph's bullet struck a stump behind Mr. Clay, and Mr. Clay's knocked up the earth behind Mr. Randolph."

Colonel Tatnall, Benton's second, now tried to interpose, but the two combatants refused and the seconds were directed to reload. Randolph, however, remarked that he did not feel as high as the lance, and then he added, with the deepest feeling: "I would not have seen Clay fall mortally or even doubtfully wounded for all the land that is watered by the King of Floods and all his tributary streams." Randolph informed his second that at the second attempt he would not fire at all. He kept his word, and when Mr. Clay fired as high as the lance, and then he added, with the deepest feeling: "I would not have seen Clay fall mortally or even doubtfully wounded for all the land that is watered by the King of Floods and all his tributary streams." Randolph informed his second that at the second attempt he would not fire at all. He kept his word, and when Mr. Clay fired as high as the lance, and then he added, with the deepest feeling: "I would not have seen Clay fall mortally or even doubtfully wounded for all the land that is watered by the King of Floods and all his tributary streams." DANCING TONIGHT AT LAKEWOOD

"Until The Constitution called my attention to the fact, I did not know that the law empowered the state prison commission to exercise the functions and authority of a central road-building bureau, providing also for ex-officio members. But, by a singular coincidence, I advocated this policy for the board at a speech delivered in Macon at the recent organization of the state chamber of commerce. Now that you show me the commission has statutory authority for this policy, I am more enthusiastically a partisan of it than before."

These are the sentiments of John T. Williams, of Round Oak, Ga., and they are given special pertinence by two facts: He is the president of the Georgia State Agricultural society, and must, therefore, know the conditions of which he speaks; and he holds from a country county, Jones, which, he admits, has wasted thousands of dollars in unprofitable road-building.

Rivals Her Daughter in Youthful Beauty.
A well-known society matron whose youthful beauty is so well preserved that she is regarded as her daughter's rival in this respect—though she does not pose as such—attributes her glowing complexion chiefly to two things. She says:

"I am convinced that creams by over-loading the skin and trying to age the complexion. Mercurochrome has just the opposite effect. It keeps the pores clean, permitting them to breathe, and removes dead particles of cuticle which are constantly appearing and which give the complexion that faded look. Whenever my skin begins to get the least bit off-color, I go to my drugstore for an ounce of mercurochrome, I apply this nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings. This is what keeps my complexion so fresh, white and velvety.

"The absence of wrinkles and flabbiness, I owe to the use of a simple face bath prepared by dissolving one ounce of powdered salicylic in a half pint witch hazel. This keeps the skin tight and firm." (Adv.)

Have You Found the Correct Corset for Your Figure?

Mrs. Miller, an expert demonstrator, is here this week, showing

The "Grecian-Treco" Corsets

If your Corset is not comfortable and does not give you the exact lines you would have, perhaps it is a Bien Jolie "Grecian-Treco" you need—the Corset that gives the natural, "uncorseted" effect so much desired this season.

The peculiar knitted fabric of which "GRECIAN-TRECO" Corsets are made took longer to perfect than any other corset fabric ever produced. The "GRECIAN-TRECO" has stirred up more interest and has "taken" quicker than any other corset produced in many years.

This soft, pliant, boneless, knitted corset is the latest creation in corsetry. It lends itself to the willowy, clinging draped gowns of the season's styles, and produces the natural "uncorseted" effect.

It is always more satisfactory to have the demonstrator study the lines of your figure and choose the correct model.

Let Mrs. Miller fit you this week.

600 STUDENTS REGISTER AT THE GEORGIA TECH

Governor John M. Slaton and M. L. Brittain Speak at Opening.

The Georgia School of Technology is now in the full swing of its fall term, with a student body numbering 600 registered to date. The formal opening of the school was held on Monday morning in the chapel hall of the academic building with Governor John M. Slaton, M. L. Brittain and other notables present.

The principal address was delivered by Governor Slaton, who spoke on work and its importance to the duty of the students, not only to himself, but to the parents who are making sacrifices in order to prepare their sons adequately for the duties of life. He spoke of the duty of the students to the state, and coupled it with the duty which the state was doing through Georgia Tech and other institutions, in developing men and fitting them to go their part in the onward march of progress. He told of the wonderful value the technological training had in teaching men to help in the development of the state's natural resources. Governor Slaton was followed by State Superintendent Brittain, who spoke on the "Relation of Education to Success."

Education An Advantage.
Mr. Brittain declared that education could never insure success, but that higher education was always an advantage. He said it was not only to the individual, but to the state or community, because it developed the capacity of sending away for trained ability and developed a high standard of citizens at home.

Professor Floyd H. Williams, of the faculty, delivered an interesting address on "Discoureries and Opportunities in the Twenty-first Century." He represented the students, spoke of student life and activities, and of the duties the student must assume. Mr. Williams spoke for the alumni, and a brief address was delivered by Mr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Tech. He said that the night school of the Central Presbyterian church of Atlanta, conducted the opening and closing religious exercises.

Tech Night School.
The free night school at Georgia Tech is also splendidly under way, with the largest attendance in its history. Thursday of this week, September 25, will be the last day on which registration is open, and all persons who desire to attend the night school are urged to avoid disappointment by presenting themselves for registration before that time. The night school represents the effort of the state of Georgia through Tech to furnish technical education for the citizen who is unable for any reason to take the paid course in the day time.

ATTACKS SENTENCES IMPOSED BY THOMAS

It is generally believed in local court circles that the claim of those convicted and sentenced by Judge E. Thomas, of the Valdosta circuit of the superior court, was presiding in this county, that such proceedings were illegal, would be held invalid by the supreme court.

It was raised when Attorney Charles J. Graham, representing Arthur E. Thomas, yesterday set aside the sentence of two months with no privilege of a fine, which Judge Thomas imposed on Thomas last spring. Attorney Graham claims that Judge Thomas should have been appointed by the governor, since in this circuit, and that this exchanging without the governor's appointment makes his acts as Judge invalid.

HER CONDITION QUITE CRITICAL

Roleta, Tenn.—Mrs. Lizzie Perry, of Roleta, whose illness for three years caused her friends much worry, makes the following statements for publication: "I suffered terribly for three years, from sick headache, and was so nervous at times, I could hardly stand it. I had dragging pains, and pains in my side.

Finally, I got the blues so, my memory got bad, and I was hardly able to go.

I wrote you for advice, and after taking three bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic, I am stronger than ever before, do not have headaches, or those awful pains in my side, and feel like a new person entirely.

I can never thank you enough, for what your medicine has done for me. I believe I would have been in my grave, had it not been for Cardui.

I wish all women who suffer would take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and be happy and healthy."

The success of Cardui, in benefiting sick and ailing women, is due to the fact that it is a building tonic for the nerves, as well as for the physical system. It is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, which act gently and naturally, without bad after-effects.

Why not try Cardui for your troubles?

Correct Shoes for Street and Outdoor Wear

For shopping or general street wear a graceful, yet substantial-looking, shoe is needed to carry out the rather severe lines of your tailored suit. Such a model can be found in many button or lace boots of dull calf.

When you don a more elaborate suit, or afternoon dress and topcoat, for calling or matinee, you will want a dressier shoe and one slightly lighter in weight, preferably of patent leather.

For your outing costume, of tweed or corduroy the stout tan walking boot with low heel and broad toe is best—the lace having a special advantage here because it can be made snugger about the ankle.

DR. BRYANT PRAISES CONSTITUTION'S STAND

Dr. W. C. Bryant, state oil inspector, has written the following letter to The Constitution commending its stand on the vital statistics question and explaining the status of the present bill in the legislature.

Editor Constitution—I desire to commend the position of your newspaper on the question of vital statistics as outlined in your editorial of Sunday morning, August 10, 1914. It is a question of great importance and is deserving of the attention of thinking men.

The vital statistics bill, which was introduced in the last session of the legislature however, was not killed as one might infer from the editorial, but stands near the head of the calendar of the next session and is certain of consideration at that session. I desire to make this point clear in order that the bill may have all support possible when it comes up upon its passage. The bill was recommended for passage by the committee on hygiene and sanitation and was read before the house and senate.

"I gave this bill all the support I could at the last session and expect to do so again at the next session. Any assistance from your paper would be appreciated. Very truly yours, W. C. BRYANT"

WANDERLUST CAUSES INCREASE IN RANKS OF MARINE CORPS

The United States marine corps is recruited to its full power and men are still applying, according to the reports at local marine recruiting stations.

"And the reason says Sergeant Henry O. Miller, in charge of the recruiting station at 10 South Broad street, is largely due to the wanderlust which fall weather never fails to arouse in men.

"There's something about fall weather that is hard to understand in that respect," says he, "the melancholy seems to be a notable fact, though that the business of marine recruiting stations picks up during the fall months as at no other time of the year. Men who want to wander and see the world then come to the marine corps rather than the army or navy because of the fact that it allows greater facilities for travel than any other branch of the service."

1915 ALCOHOL CONGRESS FOR THE UNITED STATES

Milan, Italy, September 23—The president of the fourteenth international congress on alcoholism, Dr. Angelo Filippetti, announced at the session this afternoon that the permanent committee had decided to propose that the congress in 1915 should be held in Atlanta, Ga. The delegates discussed the liquor traffic from an economic standpoint and tentatively agreed on the organization of three international institutions—a bureau for combating alcoholism, a federation for the protection of temperance workers and a federation of physicians opposed to the prescribing of liquors in medical cases.

The secretary of the women's section of the Universal Temperance federation, Agnes Dack, of London, in an address, which was warmly supported by others, opposed the Gothenburg system of license. She said many leading temperance workers are strongly in favor of this system and expressed the hope that the American delegates would join with those who have disapproved of it. The Gothenburg licensing system, which originated in 1865 gives the exclusive control of liquor to a company licensed by the town. The business is conducted by salaried managers and all profits above 5 per cent go into the town treasury.

DAUGHTER OF PULITZER BRIDE OF ENGLISHMAN

Sacramento, Cal., September 23—Miss Helen Pulitzer, daughter of Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of The New York World, was married Saturday to William Emble, of London, at the Little Church in the Wood, on the shore of Lake Tahoe, California. The marriage became known tonight. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moore, of New York city, the latter a sister of the bridegroom, attended the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Emble left yesterday for Colorado Springs, Colo., to spend their honeymoon.

Miss Pulitzer chose Lake Tahoe for her vacation and there met Emble, an Englishman she had previously known abroad. Emble is said to be wealthy and returned to New York.

New York, September 23—William Gray Emble, who on Saturday married Miss Pulitzer, is the son of an English judge and formerly lived in London. He is the youngest of the Pulitzer boys, the youngest of the Pulitzer boys, he met his bride-to-be at the Pulitzer camp at White Pine Harbor in 1907. After completing his work as a tutor to young Pulitzer, Mr. Emble went into business at White Pine, where, it is understood, he and his bride will make their future home.

PLASTER IS FALLING IN SUPERIOR COURT

That Fulton county officials look with anxious eyes to the time when the new Fulton county courthouse will be completed is shown by the fact that in the first division of superior court Judge John T. Pendleton sits these days with one eye on the litigants before him and the other straining toward the ceiling, from which any minute a piece of plaster may shoot forth at him.

The old city hall in which court is being held is in no too good a repair, but recently court has been halted when pieces of plaster fell. Workmen have been ordered to repair the plaster and to try to make it safe for those who must be in the courtroom.

FOR SPYING ON WIFE CHAPIN IS ARRESTED

Held for contempt of superior court, R. D. Chapin, aged 30 years, a bookkeeper, has been ordered arrested by his wife, of 45 West London street, who complained of Chapin spying upon her at home.

He was taken to police headquarters and later released on bond. He asserted to the police that he had been attracted to the home of his wife, from whom he is seeking a divorce, by a mysterious telephone message and that he did not go to the place with the intention of spying upon her.

He recently was made subject of a restraining order by the courts which prohibited his visiting the home of his wife.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

The enormous rise in Atlanta real estate values was shown yesterday when the M. C. Grier Real Estate agency sold for Johnathon B. Frost to Charles F. Byrd, of the Byrd Printing company, the old High residence at 528 Peachtree street for $90,000, or at the rate of $1,250 per front foot. The terms of the sale were not mentioned. A full detail appears elsewhere in The Constitution today.

$15,000 South Pryor Sale. Mrs. Martha Rich has sold to E. W. Bigham through Southern Realty a residence property at 324 South Pryor street for approximately $15,000. Mrs. Rich taking a part payment of a two-story brick residence at the southeast corner of Bedford place and Fourth street, valued at $17,500, and the balance of the $15,000 in cash.

Plans for Handsome Residence. Hentz & Reid, well-known Atlanta architects, are drawing plans for the handsome residence to be built on West Fourteenth, between the Peachtree and the Old Peachtree streets. The residence will cost approximately $7,000.

Decatur Church to Build. The First Methodist church of Decatur is having plans drawn by Morris & Morris, architects, for a brick and Sunday school structure to adjoin the church house. This addition was made necessary by the large growth of the Sunday school and greatly increased within the last year.

Local real estate dealer is eagerly awaiting the action of the real estate committee of the First Presbyterian church, which has charge of the sale of this property on Marietta street. A call meeting is expected within a few days, at which time some definite action will be taken. The property, which has a frontage of 90 feet, is being held for $180,000, or $2,000 per front foot.

When this property was given to the church sixty years or more ago, it was valued at only $500, it is said.

ATLANTA TO VOTE ON CHARTER TODAY

His charter. He closed his campaign Tuesday night with another caustic attack on the proposed charter.

Advocates of the new charter asked equally bitter denunciation of the motives of Mayor Woodward, charging that he seeks to block the council charter because he wants a reform which would put him in a life tenure on the office of mayor.

Voting Will Be Light. Voting on the charter will be light according to local observers.

Out of 11,129 voters who qualified to participate in the election, it is not expected that more than 5,000 or 6,000 will cast their ballots.

In many respects the new charter is similar to the one under which the city has been operating since 1874.

The most radical changes affect several of the boards, the new charter gives council more power in the matter of electing public officials.

The construction department is taken from the hands of the council and placed in the hands of council to make appointments. The fire and police boards are consolidated and made a board of public safety.

The polls will be opened at 7 o'clock a. m. and will close at 7 o'clock p. m. The city clerk will be in charge of the polls at 6:30 o'clock to make everything in readiness for early morning voting.

Woodward Opposes Charter. In his final discussion of the charter Tuesday, Mayor Woodward said:

"I have appeared in public print protesting the favorable action of the people of the city of Atlanta in the charter that was gotten up in a back room caucus, without knowledge to the public, which was going on or who composed the body that was getting up the said charter.

"There has been no money expended in furthering my work in this connection. The people who are trying to put over this proposed charter on the city of Atlanta are expanding, it appears, considerable money. Where that money is coming from and for what reason I do not know. It is a people will have to judge for themselves. It is evident, though, that the promoters of that charter and who are a lower class of men in the respect to reap some benefits in the future, if they are successful in passing it in the election tomorrow.

"There are so many fakes and pitfalls in the proposed new charter that it is impossible to give a full and complete account of them. It is a complicated and further removes every important department of the city government from the control of the people. The mere fact that the advocates of that charter have reduced the number of boards can only rightfully be considered as a concentration of power.

"With all due deference and respect for the views of those who have raised the question naturally arises, where did he get on in the getting up of this charter, the promoters of which are to the people? I never heard of his connection in any of the back room caucuses in the preparation of it, and never knew that he was going to have it in any way until after it went to the legislature. Then it appears that they called on Judge Hillier to act as their chairman. I presume, for the purpose of giving it some respectability and receive it in the legislature. It was carrying on as it came from the back room caucus.

The Sanitary Tax. Their main feature is the abolition of the sanitary tax should be abolished to catch the money with the idea that they will be relieved of the three dollar sanitary tax, when, in fact, the city is in sore need of money for carrying on public improvements. If the sanitary tax should be abolished the money would have to be raised from some other source.

The general manager is really in earnest and desired to act honestly with the people, they could have received the money from him. The same crowd who got up this charter got up a movement last year to place a tax on the city of Atlanta, with an income of $500,000 upon it. With the conditions that a bond issue should be placed before the city could redeem the same, the people of Atlanta, undaunted by the reputation of last fall, have placed it in the hands of the general manager, giving the mayor and general council the right to sell, exchange or lease the property.

The general manager of the water-works is elected by the people under the present charter. The provisions of the proposed charter place that officer under a board and entirely removes him from the people.

Finest Under Board. The chief of construction is also placed under a board that board to be elected by council, and the people have an opportunity to vote for council, so it is not fair to say that it is a reform in itself as to what effect or weight it would have in that department when it is so far removed from him.

"I wish to again emphasize that section which deals with the fee system. Under section 478 the mayor and general council has power and authority to establish a fee bill for the officers of said city. Section 479 of the proposed charter contains precisely the same words of section 478 of the present charter, except that the words 'for his officers' are omitted. There can be but one meaning to this, and that is that they have eliminated entirely the establishment of fee officers in order that they can establish a fee system to apply to each service the city does for its citizens.

Charge Misrepresented. Archibald H. Davis, secretary of the charter committee, in a signed statement issued on the eve of the election, declared that opponents of the charter have resorted to misrepresentation in their effort to defeat the proposed measure. He says that the tax was abolished by the charter framers because it was unjust and inequal. He points out that the section relating to the water board is the same as in the old charter.

William Terrell's Reply. William H. Terrell, ex-councilman for many years, has written a card in reply to Judge Hillier's charges. Archibald Davis and City Attorney James L. Mayson, on the subject of the new charter.

He says that he has again carefully read the proposed charter and is now convinced that it is full of 'jokers.' He points to that section of the charter which provides

This Week Will Probably Go a Long Way Towards Deciding Final Standing

Street Car Conductors of Atlanta

You all read about the special vote offer which is made for this week only in The Constitution's Popularity Contest. Did you think that offer over carefully yesterday? If you did you probably came to the same conclusion that the Contest Manager reached after he had totaled up the different contestants' standings and had figured out how the week was liable to affect them all. That conclusion is that the end of this week will probably see the different men in the probable order in which they will finish the contest. Of course, there may be changes after the offer is closed, but it isn't likely. The offer is limited to the best advantage of it will, in all human probability, be the men who will win the big prize. For the sake of absolute clarity, here is the offer again.

For three three-month subscriptions that a man brings in each day, he will get two thousand extra votes. That, together with the thousand votes which go with each of the three subs on the regular schedule, will mean five thousand votes for the three subs.

Each man will only be allowed to bring in a maximum of three subs on this offer each day. Of course, he can bring in as many more as he likes, but that is not the offer. The offer is limited to three three-month subscriptions on each of the five days of the contest (Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday), will get a total of 17,000 votes for the three subs.

Each man will only be allowed to bring in a maximum of three subs on this offer each day. Of course, he can bring in as many more as he likes, but that is not the offer. The offer is limited to three three-month subscriptions on each of the five days of the contest (Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday), will get a total of 17,000 votes for the three subs.

For three three-month subscriptions that a man brings in each day, he will get two thousand extra votes. That, together with the thousand votes which go with each of the three subs on the regular schedule, will mean five thousand votes for the three subs.

ONE OF HAPPIEST DAYS FOR PRESIDENT WILSON

Princeton, N. J., September 23.—President Wilson left here at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Washington, after spending one of the happiest days of his life in his home town.

He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, and a group of students who passed the governor, and when he reached the polling place he examined his ballot carefully and quickly registered his choice. He voted for Acting Governor James F. Fielder.

After voting the president visited the college grounds and turned the day into one of joyful reminiscences as he walked with friends amid the familiar scenes of Princeton University.

Lifelong companions who saw him today for the first time since he left here on March 3 for the inauguration of his presidency, and who had never looked better.

Alumnus, Not President. It was the proud alumnus and not the chief magistrate of the nation who swung easily along through the campus members of the faculty, students and townsfolk trailed the president about. He shook hands with many he met.

The president's memory for faces was illustrated in a curious way in a group of students who passed the president on his way to the polling place. He recognized one who nodded, but passed modestly onward.

"Hello, Jack Westcott," said the president as he stepped forward and greeted the bashful young man. "When I saw him last," explained Mr. Wilson to his companions, "he was but a small boy."

Young Westcott is a son of Professor Westcott, who teaches Latin in the university.

In the trophy room. In the trophy room at the gymnasium the president animatedly called attention to the collection of football trophies which he had won in his college days. "The blue ones are those we won from Yale, and the red ones were won from Harvard," he said. "I was captain of the football team in my senior year. We are very proud of them."

After his tour through the university the president returned to the Cleveland Memorial tower and the graduate college. He made but one call, this at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Fickett, 87 years old, his next door neighbor, and acquaintance of many years. He also went to his old home in Cleveland, Pa., to find the key in his pocket and showed his friends about it.

After an automobile ride to the Law Academy school, the president boarded his private car. His crowd gave him a farewell cheer as the train pulled out.
