AMERICAN DEMAND "UNFRIENDLY ACT." ASSERTS CARRANZA

General Does Not Like the Order of United States for Firing Across Border'to Be Stopped.

U. S. INTERVENTION REGARDED AS HOSTILE

Carranza Says the Shooting Has Been Done by Villa Forces - He Says Bryan Should Make Investigation

Vera Cruz, December 12-"If the United States employs force to stop the firing by Mexicans across the inter-national boundary line at Naco it will be considered an unfriendly act, notwithstanding the friendly motives gloaking the act"

In this manner General Carranza made answer in a statement to the Associated Press to the formal notice served by the United States on both Provisional President Gutlerrez and General Carranza that unless such firing ceased force would be employed to protect American territory.

Repudiates Responsibility. Carranza's reply to the American note, which is expected to reach Washington tomorrow, will repudiate responsibility for any shots that have crossed the line and clearly set forth that he and his government will regard intervention at Naco as a hos-

At no time since the receipt of Secretary Bryan's note calling attenfon to the repeated wounding and killing of residents of the American town, has General Carranza appeared perturbed but he has had long conferences with those close to him, and, in framing his reply, it is said, he has been careful not to let himself remain in any uncertain light.

"General Hill, constitutionalist commander of the forces at Naco, is on the defensive," continued General Carranza, "and since his back was to the line it is difficult to see how he could be preparable for the firing. The responsible for the firing. The is that Maytorena's men have been attacking and therefore it appears reasonably clear that they, and only they, could have been to blame. "As a matter of fact, I do not know that the rights of American citizens have been violated. It seems to me that it would be well for the state department to investigate this question in order to fix the responsibility.

lustances at El Paso, "I remember similar instances at El Paso, when the Madero forces were attacking there. In that case those shot were for the most part the imprudent and curious individuals who flocked to witness the fighting as if it had been a spectacular show staged for their benefit.

"As to the use of force, of which Mr. Bryan talks, that is something the gravity of which I fear he does not fully appreciate. He says it would not mean an invasion of our territory or a violation of our national sovereign-ty. It would. And moreover, it would certainly be an act directly against the constitutionalists, who now against the constitutionalists, who now hold the town, in favor of the Villaistas, who would be left free to continue their operations. It would be simply tying General Hill's hands and leaving Maytorena free. "I sincerely hope that the good friendship of the American people toward the Mexican people will prevent the consummation of Secretary Bryan's

NO ORDERS RECEIVED BY GOV. MAYTORENA.

Naco, Atiz, December 12-Jose Maytorena, insurgent governor of Sonora, the has been besieging the Carranza garrison of Naco since September, is sued a statement today declaring he had received no order from Provisional President Gutterrez to stop firing to prevent bullets striking in American territory. He is preparing for a final assault on Naco Tuesday night.

"I regret very much that bullets have fallen in American territory and especially that Americans have been injured," reads the statement "My men take every precaution to prevent com-plications with the United States, Strict orders have been issued regarding shooting into American territory, and I am sure that the greater danger to Americans has resulted from the tactics and practices of the enemy."

BELIEVED FIRING WILL BE STOPPED.

Washington, December 12 -State de partment officials were satisfied tonight that orders from Provisional President Gutterrez to desist from his attack on Naco would reach Governor Maytorena in ample time to prevent his carrying out his intention of resuming opera-tions Tuesday might A copy of the message to the governor conveying instructions already has been received here and officials believe Governor May torena's statement today that he had received no orders to cease firing was issued before he learned the wishes of Gutieriez

BROTHERS OF ZAPATA

ARE PUT TO DEATH. San Antonio, Texas, December 12,-Three brothers of Emiliana Zapata, who has joined forces with General Villa, were executed near the border villa, were executed near the border town of Matamoros last night by Carranza troops, according to a dispatch received here tonight. They were captured during a night between troops of the Matamoros garrison and a party of alleged filibusterers that crossed the Rio Grande from Texas several days ago, the dispatch declares.

NO STREET CARS RUN AT VERA CRUZ.

Vera Cruz. December 12—Street car service in Vera Cruz has been suspended by military order. The authorities declare the lives of pedestrians were endangered by incompetent men employed by the railway company. These men were hired by the railway management to replace its regular employees after a dispute regarding salaries which threatened to result in a strike.

BUILD FOR FUTURE, URGES ARMISTEAD

Thinks Bond Issue Should Be Sufficiently Large for Needs of the Schools for Years to Come.

"I am going to urge that council give the people an opportunity of voting for a bond issue of at least $4,100,000 in order that the school department may be given at least $1,500,000 to carry out the plans for new grammar schools and new high school buildings.

"In my opinion, it will be unwise for council to throw anything in the way to prevent the schools getting a sufficient pro rata of the bonds to make It possible for the school board to erect buildings which will be adequate to take care of the needs of the future. . "Let's get together and see to it that the school department is not stinted. That is my mette."

Alderman Jesse M. Armistead, chairman of the school committee, and a member of the bond issue committee of council made the foregoing statement Saturday. He explained that no sum less than $1,500,000 will meet the needs of the school department unless the board is forced to adopt a policy of false economy in the erection of new school buildings.

To Make Firm Stand. Alderman Armistead will take a determined stand before the bond issue committee when it meets Monday afterneon to determine the amount of bonds required for each of the departments. He says that he will show to the committee that unless $1,500,000 is appropriated for the use of the school department it will not be possible for the board to carry out the plans it is making for additional school build-

"I have made a caroful study of the nave made a careful study of the needs of the school department during the two years I have served as chair-man of the school committee," Alder-man Armistead says, "and I feel as though I am thoroughly equipped with first-hand knowledge to make some commendations.
"Atlanta's school system has not improved to a very great extent in the past ten years. As a matter of fact, there have been no new schools erected within the past four years. On the other hand, the attendance at all the schools has increased tremendously in four years, and nothing has been done to take our of the increases. to take care of the increases from year to year. It stands to reason, therefore, that the school department has not progressed in the matter of new buildings for taking care of the increase, and my argument now is that the city should not only relieve the congestion of the present, but it should also plan so that the money which well be voted in bonds by the people will be sufficient to take care of the demands which will be made on the schools in the next five or ten years Enough for Eight Years.

"I am certain that if the city will spend $1,500,000 on schools now, for repairs and new buildings, the school board will not ask for additional money for at least six or eight years
"It is better to give the schools the money needed now to take care of the future growth of the city than to ask for just so much for the present needs.

and then have to fall back on the peo-ple again in the next two or three years for more money. Alderman Armistead is not alone in his opinion.

President George M Hope, who will retine from the board after the next regular meeting; Commissioner Dan Gleen and other members of the board WARSHPS ARE WANTED are advocating a policy of building for the future.

The general bond issue committee will meet Monday afternoon Alder man John S. Candler, chairman of the committee, adjourned the last meeting because members were engaged at the meeting of the consolidated committees of council, which were at work plan-ning for the expenditure of $150,142 for sewer work to relieve the unem ployed of the city.

There will not be a meeting of council Monday afternoon, and the various committees will not begin work preparatory to the final meeting until Tuesday afternoon, so that a full at-tendance of the committee is expected, and it is regarded as certain that the explanation of the need for naval vesreport of the committee will be acted on before the present council adjourns sine die.

FOR THE CANAL ZONE

Col. Goethals Requests Wash- Last of the German Squadron ington to Send Some Destroyers at Once.

Washington, December 12 .-- Colonel Goethals has requested that destroyers be sent to the canal zone immediately, it was learned tonight, but no specific sels there was included in the message. A reply asking for this explanation was sent at once, but no answer had been received from Colonel Goethals at a late hour.

Officials believe, however, that the canal governor has experienced some difficulty in preserving the complete neutrality of the zone and its territorial waters. Many ships belonging to belligerent nations are in the vicinity and it is thought possible Colonel Goethals has found himself unable to check use of their wireless plants within the 3-mile limit.

With swift naval vessels to aid it would be an easier matter to regulate use of wireless and it was thought probable tonight the necessary destroyers would be dispatched as soon as Colonel Goethals' explanation was received.

stoyers would be dispatched as soon as Colonel Goethals' explanation was received.

Recent activity by British and Japanese warships in the Vicinity of the Canal Zone, which followed the disaster to the British fleet under Admiral Craddock, has given rise to some concern here, although no specific reports of neutrality violations have been received so far as known.

Reports of wireless interruptions from Panama have led to the belief that colliers and warships were exchanging messages, which, if they have not otherwise been open to objection, have himilered commercial use of Wireless to a considerable extent.

In view of Colonel Goethals' message, it is believed code messages have been picked up which disclosed that to some extent the waters of the Zone have been made a base of operations by one or both of the allied fleets, and that the governor wishes to establish a patrol, which will prevent further violations of neutrality.

An unofficial report was in circulations of neutrality.

An unofficial report was in circulation tonight that the colier Lena, of the British auxiliary fleet, had made improper use of her wireless equipment by sending British navy code messages while within the three-mile limit, What stops Colonel Goethals may have already taken or contemplates beyond his request for destroyers is not known, however, and confirmation of the report as to the Lena was not obtainable.

The Dresden is the only vessel of the German squadron which met the British fleet in the south Atlantic December 8 that had not been accounted

The engagement of December 3 off the Falkland Islands resulted in the destruction of the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig. Later it was announced the Nurnberg also had been destroyed. The Dresden escaped and was supposed to have fled westward. That would take her to the coast of Patagonia, where the Valparaiso report places her. Patagonia and the Straits of Magellan offer numerous bays and inlets where a vessel could hide or take refuge. There, are also some Chilean ports where a warship could interne.

British warships doubtless are in pursuit of the Dresden and it is said that Japanese cruisers are watching for her.

REVERSE FOR GERMANS IN VICINITY OF CRACOW

In the West the Allies Are Keeping Steady Pressure on the Germans, and an Advance All Along the Line Is Expected.

London, December 12 .-- No important developments have been reported in the last 24 hours either in the eastern or western battles, although fighting of a more or less violent character conclaims of advantage are made by the opposing forces.

As an offset to the Russian claim of having checked the advance of three of five German columns invading their territory, the Germans state today that their cavalry has repulsed the Russian horsemen on the East Prussian frontier; that in north Poland the German operations are developing and that in south Poland the Russian attacks have been unsuccessful

It is admitted in Berlin, however, that the Russian resistance is by no means broken, although, according to the German estimate in the battles preceding the evacuation of Lodz, the Russians lost 150,000 men, including 80,000 captured, while the German losses were

GERMAN SCHEME WENT WRONG.

Nevertheless it is now declared by British commentators that something went wrong with the timing of the Austro-German operations for the relief of Cracon. Converging columns apparently failed to effect a function, with the result that General Dimitrieff, former Bulgarian minister to Petrograd, seems to have been able to inflict a sharp reverse on the Tentonic forces by repulsing the individuai armies -

Further to the north the capture of Lodz by the Germans, so far as is known, has had no spectacular sequel. Yesterday's German official report did not refer to operations along the center, although it mentioned military activities in north and south Poland. GERMANS FAIL

IN ASSAULTS Berlin military writers have warned the public not to base excessive expectations on the capture of Lodz. While the invaders made fierce onslaughts against the Russian lines northeast of Lodz Wednesday and Thursday, in attempts to break through toward Warsaw, they appear to have . accomplished little. It is considered possible, however, that the Germans are placing chief reliance on the effort to turn the right flank of Grand Duke Nicholas' army through efforts of the invading forces pushing forward from the direction of Mlawa, near the East Prussian border.

The more optimistic British observers think they see in that quarter a situation developing which is similar situation developing which is similar to that which resulted in the previous retreat of the Germans. The invaders however, now are much stronger than when they made the earlier effort to reach Warsaw. ALLIES ASSUME

GREAT AIR FLEETS OF BELLIGERENTS

Figures Given House Naval Committee on Airships in Europe—Two Hundred Air Craft Urged for U. S. Navy.

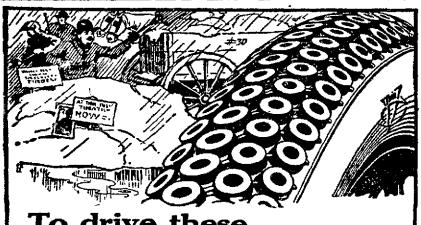

Washington, December 12—Despite the extensive use of air craft in the European war and resulting losses in aeroplanes and durgibles, the warring powers still possess formidable air fleets, according to a report submitted to the house naval committee today by of war.
the navy dpartment. The report showed that early this month Germany had quired 1 4400 geronlanes and de discretization. 1,400 aeroplanes and 60 dirigibles, Ausdirigibles; Japan, 20 aeroplanes, two dirigibles, and Belgium 60 aeroplanes. The report was in connection with the committee's hearings on the naval appropriation bill, and supplemented the testimony of Secretary Daniels, who appeared before the committee Thurs-day and yesterday and will testify igain Monday. No session was held

Rear Admiral Blue, chief of the navigation bureau, also submitted to the committee today a statement regarding the personnel of the navy. The service, he said, was suffering more from a shortage of officers than from lack of calletted more lack of enlisted men. "There are altogether 4,565 men and

1 here are 2 together 4,363 men and 203 line officers short of the number necessary to man the vessels of military value which could be used in time of war. The statement adds: "While there is little doubt that this demand would be met by the ex-service men now in civil life, confusion and delay would result unless an organization was perfected prior to the outbreak

"Shortage of officers in the total required is more serious than that of men. Of the expense of campaigns carried on across the water at any great distance Admiral Blue said:

"I worked out the figures some time ago and found that to keep our fleet supplied with fuel and provisions while operating 5,000 to 6,000 miles from its base in the United States, about 200 merchant vessels would be required. Naturally we would hope to get these vessels from the merchant marine."

vessels from the merchant marine."

200 Aircraft Urged for Navy.

Two hundred naval alroraft—100 for active service and 100 to be held in reserve—are urgently needed by the United States navy in its plans for national defense, as outlined in recommendations of Captain Mark L. Bristel, chief of the aeronautical bureau of the navy department, to the house naval committee, made public today:

Captain Bristol's recommendations are contained in a supplemental statement laid before the committee. Other testimony of Captain Bristol already has been made public.

It would require an appropriation of $2,200,000 to bring: the aeronautical branch of the navy up to a proper standard of efficiency, Captain Bristol told the committee. Its purposes he described as follows:

"The air navy of the United States must consist of aeroplanes, semi-rigid or non-rigid airships—the destroyer, cruiser and battleship of the air, respectively The aeroplane will be used for scouting to discover the enemy's fleet, especially submarines and mines, and to attack the dirigibles and aeroplanes of the enemy It is the torpedo boat of the air against the airship cruisers and battleships. Having discovered the submarines and mines, it directs the air cruisers to attack those craft and to countermine and at the same time protects the cruisers from the enemy's aircraft. The air cruisers also will lay mines. The air battleships will meet the aircraft of the enemy in battle, probably will be used to drop aerial torpedoes on the surface ships of the enemy and be utilized over land for reconnaissance and dropping bombs.

Uses for Aircraft.

"The uses to which aircraft can be dropping bombs.

Uses for Aircraft.

"The uses to which aircraft can be put in war will be better known after the European war. It seems that the air navy will be just as essential a part of the country's fighting force as the battleships and submarines. The front of our fleet in action has now become a vertical plane, with submarines and mines beneath the surface, battleships, cruisers and destroyers on the surface and aircraft in the air. To be successful against any enemy, the country must have command of the sea."

"Any nation that has suitable aircraft could detect submarines," he added. "The aeroplane can see submarines and mines very plainly, guide the dirigible to them, which can descend close to the water and dropingh explosives to counter-mine the mines or destroy the submarines. We can pick up the mines at their usual depth, even follow the anchor line of the mine down to a considerable depth below the mine. The submarine, if it comes to the surface, would be attacked by the surface craft. The submarine could dive deep only for a limited time, but must come up and show the periscope to get its bearings. A bomb dropped upon it should not be arranged to explode until beneath the water. If, say 200 pounds of high explosive, it would disturb the aubmarine not submerged more than thirty or forty feet, even to the extent of disabling it or it might destroy the periscope. The periscope is often discovered by the wash it makes. One could see a submarine to to 100 feet in clear water."

THREE BURGLARIES IN A SINGLE WEEK

Calhoun, Ga., December 12.—(Spectal)—For an office to be burglardzed three times in one week is the record three times in one description of the clews gathered by the Southern Express company at this place, and the clews gathered by the investigators cause them to believe that it was different burglars each time. The first time the office was robbed all the money on hand was taken, but last night nothing was taken except three or four gallons of whisky. This is the seventh burglary that has taken place in Calhoun in the past two months.

in the camp of aliens at Dorchester.

Case Very Heavy.

The box in which the officer was found was among the luggage of a number of elderly aliens who were being sent from the camp at Dorchester to Germany. On arriving at Tilbury from Dorchester they were transferred to a ferryboat for Gravesend, where they boarded the steamer Batavier for Rotterdam. Porters handling the baggage found beneath the pile of packages a huge packing case on which were stencilled the words, "Non-poisonous safety matches."

The case was so heavy the porters had to roll it over and over on the deck tender to the rails separating it from the Batavier. The bumping of the box apparently stunned the occupant and forced the lid of the case part to the entre in which were strengthed, had not been in a street fight with strike-breakers as charged. In the first case the union men were sentenced to a year in jail and a fine. Before an appeal could be heard, Doyle testified, the convicting judge released them.

Offered Freedom for Apology.

Doyle said he had been offered his freedom after his second conviction if he would apologize for articles he had written for the official organ of the United Mine Workers of America. His second trail was for participation in a miners' meeting forbidden by an injunction, he said. The offending articles were read in court, he testified, and he was asked to admit their authorship. Then, said Doyle, the judge turned to the operators' attorneys, not to the part and forced the lid of the case

Lieut. Koehn Adopted Novel Labor Leader Tells How Sweeping Was Injunction Issued Against Strikers.

Denver, Colo., December 12.—Edward The German army officer found at Gravesend Saturday concealed in a box which was about to be shipped to Rotterdam told an allen emigration official that he name was Cott Koch story of his two tricks. official that his name was Otto Koehn and that he was a lieutenant in the German army, according to a Gravesend dispatch to Lloyd's News.

The lieutenant and he had been a mission on industrial relations the story of his two trials for contempt of court on charges of violating the injunction against the northern Colorado coal miners, which he said "prevented to the coal miners, which he coal miners to the coal miners, which he coal miners to the coal miners, which he coal miners to the coal miners to th send dispatch to Lloyd's News.

The licutenant said he had been in America recently, the dispatch says, and returned aboard the steamship Potsdam shortly before the outbreak of the war. Subsequently he was arrested in Southampton and interned in the camp of aliens at Dorchester.

Junction against the northern Colorado coal miners, which he said "prevented them from doing anything but eating and sleeping." The trials, he said were "furcical." There was no jury, the said, and during the proceedings prisoners were identified by witnesses according to the chairs in which they sat in court Couldn't Give Authority. Doyle could give no authority. Statements in other bulletins declaring that thirty-four persons had been killed on the strikers' side did not refer to the Ludlow casualty alone, said Doyle. The witness could not confirm the statement that 1,000 gunmen were imported into the state. They seemed numerous, he said.

he said.

Doyle affirmed that at Forbes, in February, 1913, the gunmen had shot into the tent colony with a machine gun, killing one man and wounding a boy. The tent was exhibited throughout the United States, he said.

Doyle declared the bulletins were accurate, in his opinion, when they are curate, in his opinion, when they accurate, in his opinion, when they accused Major Hamrock and Lieutenant Linderfeit of deliberately attacking the Ludiow colony, April 20. He did not know the authority for the statement that there were two machine guns at Ludiow.

The witness affirmed that to the best of his knowledge Louis Tikas and James Filer, killed at Ludiow, were "murdered and the tents fired with torches."

"murdered and the tents fired with torches."

The statement that Red Cross agents had been fired on at Ludlow was true, according to his information, Doyle declared.

Further charges in the bulletins that miners were "short-weighted," that union men were blacklisted and barred from the mines and that violations of state laws against the use of Scrip were common, the witness said were true.

Doyle read a list of union men who, he said, had been beaten up by mine guards and deputy marshals in Huerfane and Los Animas counties since 1904. Among the names was that of William Fairley, one of the investigators recently sent to the fields by President Wilson. Fairley was said to have been attacked at Trinidad in 1904.

WANT AUGUSTA DRY. Mass Meeting Puts Question Up to Council.

Augusta, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—A largely attended mass meeting last night laid the plans for the enforcement of the prohibition law in the city in the future, provided the council, who will take final action, favors the petition which will go to that body from the mass meeting. The gathering was thoroughly representative, and from the mass meeting. The gathering was thoroughly representative, and could by no means be termed an assemblage of prohibitionists. But all recognized that the law is not observed here at present, and that by legal sanction, and the desire is expressed to end the conditions at present prevalling. The recommendation was also adopted to reduce the license to $500, the salcons to sell "near beer" only, and the number to be reduced to not over fifty, or about one-half of the present array of thirst-quenching emperiums. The women's societies of the city joined in a petition favoring the action taken. It is uncertain what council will do, but many prominent citizens believe that body will acquiesce in the proposed reform.

The women of the Red Cross are nursing, cheering and comforting the wounded or dying The women of Europe not only wrap bandages and scrape lint, but they tend the farms, dig coal, carry burdens and do the work of the men now under arms Every male fighter, however brawn, and heroic, was born of woman; the high courage and hardinood that are a nation's strength are inherited from the mother.

Young mothers who preserve the charms of face and figure in spite of an increasing family and the care of growing children are always to be envied. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives the strength and health upon which happy motherhood depends. It practically does away with the pains of maternity. It enables the mother to nourish the infant life depending on her, and enjoy the hourly happiness of watching the development of a perfectly healthy child.

Thousands of women who are now blessed with robust health cannot understand why thousands of other women continue to worry and suffer from allments peculiar to women when they can obtain for a trilling sum Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which will surely and quickly banish all pain, distress and misery and restore the womanly functions to perfect health.

Plans are on foot for bringing the leading growers of this and neighboring states together this winter, or in the early spring, to formulate plans for a selling organization to handle the whole of future crops.

The value of the pecans produced in the Albany district is now such that paper-shells are very close to commercial importance. For instance, one of the groves near Bacenton, the Barnwell grove, yielded 60,000 pounds of nuts this year Those that have thus far been shipped from this and other groves are easily worth 46 to 50, cents a pound to the grovers. A car shipped this week to New York contained 17,000 pounds of the best papershells, and had a value to not less than $8,000 As many carload lots will henceforth be shipped, not to mention thousands of pounds that will be distributed in smaller quantities, it will readily be seen that as a revenue producer the pecan crop of south Georgia is by no means to be despised.

A moving picture show enlivened the proceedings, representing "the greatest deliverative body on earth; the United States senate" in session, but the general effect was greatly marred, first, by a strenuous objection to such an undignified encroachment upon the body and when that had been removed by the insertion of his own name into the advertisement, by the fact that Senator Ollie James persisted in standing up and thereby blotting out the remainder of the picture.

Following its invariable rule, the Gridiron club initiated in the presence of its many guests a new member—William E. ### IMMIGRANTS SOUGHT FOR SOUTHERN FARMS Legislation Is Asked by the Federal Government and by the States.

Washington, December 12.—Resolu-tions calling on the federal government and the southern states for legislation to care for immigrants who seek refuge in this country after the European war were adopted tonight by the immigra-tion conference called by the Southern Commercial congress to consider the feasibility of distributing immigrants on farms in the south.

A committee was appointed to work out some practical plan of action.

Dr. Clarence J. Owens, managing director of the Southern Commercial congress, declared in an address that the future development of the south was measured in terms of an efficient industrial and agricultural immigration. On Southern Farms.

dustrial and agricultural immigration.

On Southern Farms.

At the afternoon session of the conference, Secretary of Labor Wilson predicted that many of the destitute immigrants who would come to the United States from Europe after the war could be placed on southern farms if proper efforts are made to secure them. He explained the efforts of the labor, gostoffice and agricultural departments to bring together "the jobless man and the manless land."

J. J. DeKinder, an expert on Dutch colonization, who recently came from Holland, said many Dutch and Belgian farmers, rulned by the war, were anxious to come to the United States. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial congress, presided at the session. Many southern states were represented by officials.

The committee chosen to decide on a definite plan to encourage desirable immigration is composed of Dr. Owens, T. R. Preston, Chattanooga; Hugh MacRae, Wilmington, N. C.: M. P. Richards, industrial commissioner Southern railway, Washington, and Robert M. Mixson, a member of the South Carolina legislature.

Among the governors who had accepted invitations to take past in the conference were Stuart, of Virginia; Blease, of South Carolina; McCreary, of Kentucky; Major, of Missouri, and Lleutenant Governor Daughtridge, of North Carolina. Officials who outlined the government's part in immigration work included Secretary Wilson, Commissioner Caminetti and experts of the immigration societies and southern commercial organizations were represented.

Old home Week.

"Old home week" brought together some old spirits under the kindly eye of the Goddess of Liberty on an elevated perch, who had come to welcome them from her station on the dome of the capitol. Uncle Joe Cannon was among the first arrivals, and when asked how long he was going to stay, replied:

"Well, I didn't buy no return ticket."

Cy Sulloway, another returning congressman, announced that up his way "The hunting is poor, all the bull moose have been killed off." When Nicholas Longworth appeared, Cannon inquired:

"How's the family, Nick? Bring 'em all to the celebration?"

Longworth: "All except father-in-law."

Cannon: "Why don't you persuade him to stay in some of those lonesome places he writes about?"

Longworth: "There ain't no lonesomer place than Ovster Bay right now."

When told that Secretary Daniels had abolished the wine mess on warships during his absence from Washington, Sulloway exclaimed:

"That means no more inspection of salar and stations were represented.

Discussion From All Angles.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, who presided at the conference, said discussion of Immigration from all angles would "go a long way, it is thought, in preparing the south to properly and intelligently take advantage of its opportunities."

Opportunities for attracting immigration to the south were outlined in this statement by the department of labor:

"There are thousands of immigrant families in our industrial communities, either out of work or on short time, that have been working and saving for years in order to be able to return to Europe and purchase agricultural homes, who are now prevented from leaving this country. Many of these in return abroad in view of the economic burden which the war has placed on the countries of Europe and large groups can be placed on southern farms.

Spectacular Fire at Cable Piano Company Came Near Destroying Christmas Tree

tically arranged, to make a real attrac-tive holiday window display— But it doesn't take a flashlight photographer more than two moments to bring ruln to your artistic efforts and create a most spectacular fire. That's what happened at the Cable Piano company Friday afternoon, when an erstwhile harmless and perfectly well-meaning photographer dropped into the big Cable company to make a picture of one of the prettlest Christmas trees so far arranged by an Atlanta house. Just back of the big display window, in the main floor, Manager William Brownlee had arranged a beautiful tree. For two or three years this pretty little pine had weathered the storms in the forest, but the Cable company had now draped it with beautiful tinsel, and entwined around its tapering limbs were wrapped yard after yard of flashy red and green crepe paper; hidden and red and green crepe paper; hidden and gently glowing beneath its myriads of green needles hundreds of electric lights played hide and seek. To make it a perfect Christmas tree the big music house had placed on it, and around it, and underneath it, thousands of dollars of costly musical instruments, musical records, sheet music—in fact, it was literally covered with goods out of stock from the Cable Piano company.

BOSTON AUTHOR VISITS GEORGIA

Thomasville, Ga., December 12 .- (Special.)—Among the winter visitors. In Thomasville now is Miss Grace Donworth, of Boston, Mass. who is well known as an author. Miss Donworth's first work was "The Letters of Jennie Allen," which brought her much flattering notice.

BISHOP NELSON AT LAGRANGE TODAY

Lagrange, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Bishop C. K. Nelson, of the diocese of Atlanta, will preach at St. Mark's Episcopal church, of Lagrange, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A class for confirmation will be presented at this time.

To add to the artistic effect of the beautifully draped music store, long streamers of colored crepe paper twined gracefully around and hung in great lengths just a few feet beneath the ceiling. All in all, it was a beautiful store—a handsome tree—and was receiving the admiration of the hundreds of friends and customers who were conceiving the admiration of the hundreds of friends and customers who were constantly calling.

Manager Brownlee conceived the idea of a photo of the pretty effect—something worth preserving. An humble photographer was called in. With his flashlight high above his head the picture man slipped the trigger. There was a flash—of course. The picture was made. Great clouds of smoke began to boil out from window and transom. Then, behold, the streamers were ablaze.

While clerks and customers were Then, behold, the streamers were ablaze.

While clerks and customers were busy fighting fire, the cashier prepared for the worst. His books and papers were carefully gathered up., Some one thoughtfully turned in an alarm, but by the time the fire department arrived the fire was subdued. The damage was slight, so far as goods were concerned, but the prettily draped room looked for a few moments as if a cyclone had struck it. A few hours and everything was again in apple-pie order.

The picture the photographer made is shown above, and if you want to see really one of the most artistic and beautifully bedecked stores, topped off with a handsome and costly Christmas tree, take a peep into the Cable Plano company.

TURKEY WILL PROTECT AMERICAN INTERESTS

Washington, December 12.—Informal assurances have been given Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople by Turkish cabinet members that American institutions in Turkey will receive similar treatment to that accorded foreign institutions in the United States. Secretary Bryan made public today, without comment, the following paraphrase of Mr. Morgenthau's message: "The American ambassador at Constantinople has had an interview with the minister of public instruction and the minister of the interior. They propose that American institutions shall be treated the same as foreign institutions are treated in the United States and will delay for sixty days the enforcement of most of the instructions that are objectionable. They stated that their chief desire is to secure supervisory control and direct relations with foreign institutions without guardianship of the embassy. "The minister of finance, has assumed temporarily posts of minister of war and minister of marine. Wholesale deportation of French and English from Belrut to Damascus occurred on the 9th and 10th by order of the Damascus commandant. The minister of interior has promised to stop these deportations as contrary to his orders. "Definite assurances were secured that French and others, (word not decipherable) employed in American institutions of a charitable and educational character and many employed by American firms are to remain unmolested, as a matter of favor to the United States.

"The Standard Oil company declines to assume the risk of transporting money from Smyrna to Scala, Nova. The Tennessee is to be sent to Alexandria for funds for Jaffa, Money also will be sent to Jerusalem."

FIVÈ SHOTS FAIL TO STOP FUGITIVE

Waycross, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Because he found a negro hiding in his home, in which his daughter was alone, H. A. Mason started a search today in and around Dupont for a negro he thinks he can identify. Mr. Mason got home late last night from Homerville, and found his front door open. As he was questiong his daughter, who had gone to sleep, he heard noises in the rear and investigated. A negro was found in the house, but escaped by jumping through the kitchen window. Five shots failed to stop the fleeing man.

LIGHTER SHIPS LEFT IN MEXICAN WATERS

Washington, December 12.—Patrol duty in Mexican waters will be left to lighter ships in January, when the battle craft of the Atlantic fleet assemble at Guatanamo, Cuba, for winter maneuvers. The Minnesota, long on Mexican duty, was ordered to Philadelphia today for overhauling and the Texas and Rhode Island will go directly to Guatanamo. Rear Admiral Fletcher will leave Hampton Roads with the rest of the fleet about January 15.

The cruiser Tacoma will relieve the Minnesota at Vera Cruz and be joined later by the gunboat Sacramento.

W. E. Chandler, Waycross.

Waycross, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Funeral services of W. E. Chandler, who died suddenly at his home in Waycross. Thursday morning, were conducted today, interment being at Lott cemetery. Rev. R. A. Brown and Rev. W. P. Price officiated. The pallbearers were members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which the deceased was a member, At the grave the service of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was conducted.

Water from King Solomon's sealed fountain is now piped through the streets of Jerusalem.

The sale of roses for charity on Alexandra Rose day in London realized more than $100,000.

The New Reo The Fifth—"The Four"

WHAT NEED WE ADD to what you already know of this great car? For of course you do know. If you have not owned one, you have many friends who do. And they have doubtless told you in more extravagant terms than we would care to use.

MORE THAN 40,000 of them are today in hands of users: 12,000 were sold last season.

AND AS PROVING the popularity of this model we need only say that on November 10th the last Touring Car left the Reo factory. And that for thirty days at least there has not been, so far as we know, a Reo the Fifth on any Dealer's sales-floor anywhere.

THE PROOF OF QUALITY in any product is "will it sell in the off-season?" Autumn is supposed to be the off-season for motor cars. Not for Reo cars though—we have never known a time when, even with our splendid factory facilities, we were able to make enough Reos to

WE HAVE JUST INCREASED our plants nearly 50 per cent-necessary to produce the new "Six." And we hope to be able to more nearly supply our dealers this year than formerly.

AS WE HAVE NO AMBITION, however, to be maker of the most automobiles, but of the best, we do not expect, ever, to supply all the demand for Reo cars. That would be our idea of-well the reverse of success.

TO MAKE THEM EVER BETTER-so much better that, always, the demand will beckon the supply—that is our desire.

FOUR YEARS AGO we announced that, after more than 23 years of experimenting—testing -proving-we had produced a chassis that we believed was finality in all essentials of design. And we said so.

NEVERTHELESS WE WERE CERTAIN in our own minds that, in the three-unit power plant and in other features that have become known as peculiarly Reo, we had established principles

MPROVEMENTS? REFINEMENTS? of course—but only in minor details. The world moves and of course we expect to move with it. . . Reo has from the first been in the

BUT IN THE FUNDAMENTALS of a self-propelled pleasure car, we were convinced we were right. Events have only served to confirm us in that belief. Reo the Fifth is today, in all essentials, the same as then—and it is still the leader in its price class.

FROM SEASON TO SEASON we have made such improvements as the progress of the science has made possible. And as our facilities have increased and our purchasing ability become greater, we have from time to time reduced the price of Reo cars at the same time that we have increased the quality and the size.

IN THE CASE OF THIS FOUR we have been able to do two things we had considered impossible—we have made a bigger, at the same time we have made a still better car.

READ THAT AGAIN-MULL IT OVER-sense the aignificance of the statement—a larger, more luxurious car—refined and improved at every point where refinement or improvement was possible and at a

HOW WAS THAT POSSIBLE? you ask / Tell you --THE MOTOR PROVED to have more power than was necessary—more than was really desirable for the weight of the car. Refinements, recently made, increased that power still more. SO WE FOUND we could add three and one-half very desirable inches to the length of the car, give the buyer a more luxurious equipage, and yet have a car THAT DIFFERENCE IN LENGTH-and we made It wider at the same time makes all the difference in the world in the capacity and the comfort of the car. It gives a full door—without having to cut the corners to let the wheel-house in.

OTHER NOTICEABLE IMPROVEMENTS-in a car which formerly seemed almost perfection—are.

IMPROVED UPHOLSTERING-higher backs to seats. Extremely low-back fad is waning. Now back to comfort.

IMPROVED WINDSHIELD support—with braces running from cowl to body sill—secret of success of "One-Man Top."

POCKETS in all doors.

INSTRUMENTS mounted flush on instrument board

HOOD FASTENERS—new and improved type. Stay put—and unfasten readily when you want them to. ENTIRELY NEW TOP-a real one man top. Can actually be put up or down by one man—after long use as well as when new. Secret is in the secure WINDSHIELD—Oval moulding and pressed steel construction throughout. New method of fastening -and top attaches direct to and is immovably supported by windshield

Reo The Fifth Roadster $1000

SOME FRIENDLY RIVALS laughed at that statement—said that changes would continue to come with the seasons — as they always had.

that would not change—so long at least as the principles of gas engines remained as they were.

mean to stay there.

RADIATOR-New method of securing to framemore flexible—prevents strains on roughest roads.

More cooling capacity. Cover, one-piece pressed steel—same distinctive and "classy" Reo design.

WHEEL BASE-increased three inches. NOBBY TREAD TIRES on rear wheels and extra wide, oversized, demountable rims with new locking

SPRINGS-Improved method of lubrication for spring

STREAMLINE HUB CAPS—an exclusive Reo fea-ture. Covers all bolt heads, dust and oil proof. Removed by small screw-driver—no need for large special wrench.

ANTI-RATTLER on brakes, and anti-rattling support. IMPROVED STARTING mechanism—same system but doing away with shifting gears; also with sliding contacts and resistance. Silent; no over-running roller ratchets nor any part to wear when car is in operation. We think it is perfection.

NEW HEADLIGHTS with hingeless, anti-ratting doors and outside focus attachment.

NEW DESIGN FENDERS-crown type, fitting under pan. Not the cheap-looking rolled type, but the kind you see on high priced cars.

NEW METHOD of supporting ignition coil. New design universal joint for generator—impossible for backlash or rattle to develop by wear.

NEW CYLINDER DESIGN—independent enhaust ports. Injector type exhaust manifold. New low-NEW THREE-PIECE piston rings giving greater power and acceleration. Ball bearing fan—one piece hub and larger bearings.

IMPROVED VALVE operation mechanism larger surfaces, ball joints, self-lubricating. NEW ONE-PIECE cam shaft—larger bearings—and hardened and ground. ADDED FRICTION SURFACE to dutch. New operating mechanism calling for less foot pressure. Improved thrust bearings.

EQUIPMENT—One-man top. Flush instruments; highest priced d'Arsoval type ammeter and usual tools and accessories.

DELIVERIES BEGIN December 15th. Your local dealer will be able to show you and to take your order for this matchless car on or about that date.

Reo Purchasing Power Made

A Condition That Was To Others, Proved To B

WE PROMPTLY TOOK, and are giving you full advantage of it.

READ CAREFULLY—It's the Silver Lining to the War-Cloud.

YOU ARE OF COURSE AWARE that the Reo Motor Car Company is financially the second strongest Automobile concern in the world.

OR WEREN'T YOU?—We had supposed that knowledge was common property. Anyway, you can easily ascertain the truth of the assertion.

WE WOULDN'T MENTION IT HEREnever have before—but it is necessary to state the fact in order to explain something that is otherwise unexplainable—the wonderful values we are able to give in the two Reo models shown and priced above.

FOR "WONDERFUL VALUES" is the only term that expresses it. Think of it!-The New Reo the Fifth—that incomparable four, improved at many points and a larger car than its immediate predecessor—and at $125.00 less than last season.

AND THE SENSATIONAL REO SIX—A six designed and made the Reo way with the Reo guarantee at the amazing price of-$1385!

THAT CALLS FOR EXPLANATION, for you nor anybody else dreamed it would ever be possible to produce such cars at such prices.

SO SURE WERE WE OURSELVES of that. we went so far as to state in an advertisement a year ago "no maker ever can-not even Reo ever can give greater value than this"-speaking then of Reo the Fifth at $1175.

YOU RECALL THE STATEMENT doubtless -so when you saw the price, $1050, quoted above—and realized also that this latest Reo the Fifth is a larger and an improved car, you wondered.

WELL HERE'S THE ANSWER—and it's mightily interesting.

THE GREAT EUROPEAN WAR has created two sets of conditions—contradictory in some aspects.

FOR EXAMPLE, while we know that Six Ht dred Millions of dollars go into American ban every thirty days—a guarantee of prosper and of a market for automobiles in the comi months—at the same time you know that' banks are most conservative about loaning out. And that is as it should be. Safety Fire

AND SO YOU KNOW, if you stop to this about it—that many manufacturers, of au mobiles and of other commodities, who we financially sound but who lacked a large st plus of cash, found it impossible to borre during the past few months. These we necessarily limited in their capacity to the own funds.

AND THAT WAS WHERE REO, with enviable financial position—having the mon and in cash, and controlled, not by absent shareholders but by men who daily direct t Reo destinies—was able to avail itself of t condition that then existed.

TO BUY WHEN OTHERS WERE EAGE TO SELL—and when there was practical no competition in the buying market:-

TO MAKE MORE CARS at a time when me makers must perforce curtail-and to ha them ready for our dealers and customers wh the demand will be heaviest.

NO ONE COULD HAVE FORESEEN (* condition that had arisen. The best authoriti on world affairs did not anticipate the wa At the time when we said "this is the be value it will ever be possible for us to give we had in mind of course the normal contions that then existed. Those condition changed over night.

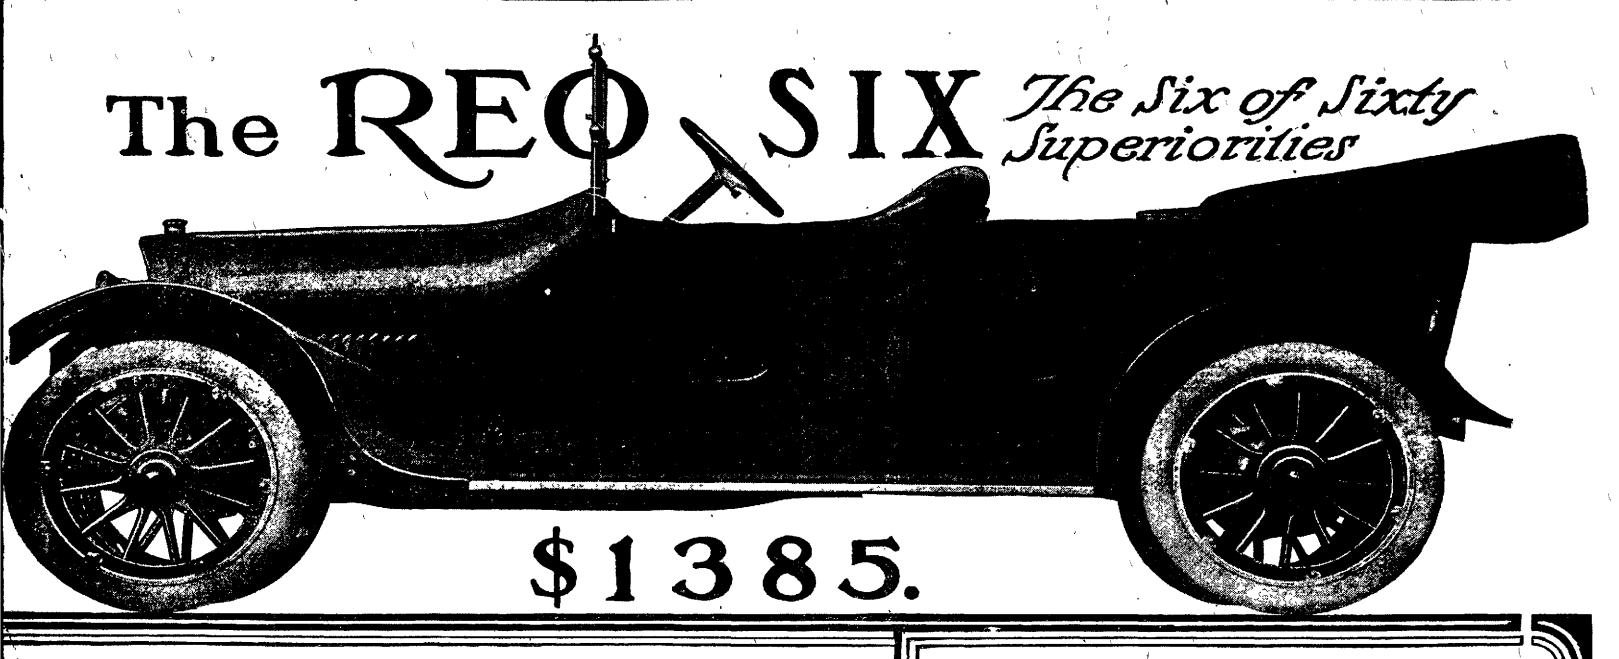

WHY A FEW MONTHS AGO, if a manufa turer wanted a few thousand tons of steel, or special kind, he had to go to the mills, s please—and wait his turn.

THEN THE WAR—The doubt; the uncertain ty-stagnation for a time.

THEN IF IT BECAME KNOWN there w an order for steel in sight we found, figurative speaking, representatives of twenty steel mi camping on the steps of a morning, waiting say please to the purchasing agent.

LANSING, MI

hese Wonderful Values Possible

n Insurmountable Obstacle Reo's Golden Opportunity

THAT CONDITION was of the moment only but it existed. And only because we were alert and able to take instant advantage of it are we now able to give you the unprecedented—the unexpected—the unhoped-for values we announce in this ad.

WE HAD THE CASH--our own, to use on the instant without let or hindrance from anyone. We could declare another dividend—or invest it to vastly greater advantage in the future of Reo. We chose the latter course.

SO WE BOUGHT, and, paying the cash when cash was at a premium, bought right. Bought better than we had ever hoped-secured quality at prices theretofore impossible. From tires to electric starters-steel to leather-and hair—and paint.

DID SPACE PERMIT we would like to enumerate many points where we have been able to incorporate value heretofore impossible.

ONE MUST SUFFICE. Among the "Sixty Superiorities" you'll notice—and you'll be surprised to find-"worm bevel driving gears" in this $1385 Six.

NOW THINK BACK and you'll recall that a year ago "worm bevel gears" were loudly emphasized as a feature of $5000 cars.

A CERTAIN CONCERN owns the patents on the only practical machines for generating this type of gears. Their capacity had been spoken for by European automobile makers. Our engineers wanted them. We tried to buy—impossible.

THEN THE WAR BROKE OUT. European factories practically closed. Our opportunity again—cabled for options. Got them—and the machines.

AND NOW YOU WHO BUY THIS REO SIX obtain this desirable feature—one you have coveted to buy but considered unattainable at any price you could afford to pay.

THE WAR IS BENEFICIAL to those American manufacturers who, like Reo, are alert to take advantage of it.

AND SO WE HAVE NO APOLOGIES to make even to those friends to whom we sold 12,000 Reos last season. Nor for a statement that we made in the best of faith—and must now contradict in the same good faith.

FOR IN GIVING OUR CUSTOMERS the full benefit of the Reo purchasing power—instead of retaining the former price and taking the additional profit ourselves—we are only carrying out that policy which, adhered to from the first, has placed the Reo Motor Car Company in the splendid position it occupies today.

SPEAKING OF POLICY-let us correct an impression that we know is abroad.

OUR FRIENDS CRITICIZE US at times for what they call our "ultra-conservatism."

ABOUT THE ONLY COMPLAINT we ever hear from Reo'dealers is that we are too modest in setting forth the merits of the Reo product.

WELL, PERHAPS THAT IS TRUE—if adherence to the strict truth in our ads; if a determination not to be carried away by the mania for mere quantities; if we prefer to be second in numbers of cars produced that we may be first in quality-if these be incications of "ultra-conservatism"—why then we plead

BUT OUR FRIENDLY CRITICS must concede that that Conservative Reo policy has produced tremendous results. Note the statement in the third paragraph of this ad.

WE DON'T CALL IT that, however. We call it conservatism militant. Aggressive conservatism. Alert conservatism. Being sureabsolutely sure—we are right, then going ahead unfalteringly—irresistibly.

DOESN'T THE VERY FACT that we were financially able to and did take advantage of a condition that we knew was transitory; and the further fact that, having bought better, we instantly offered the better values to Reo buyers—doesn't that look like "militant" rather than "ultra"-conservatism?

WE THINK SO—and so we leave the case in

The Six of "Sixty Superiorities"

THIS SIX IS SENSATIONAL not because it is a six but because it is a Reo Six.

FOR REO WAS NOT one of the first to embrace the "Six" idea. Reo was one of the last. REO WILL NEVER BE one of the first to adopt any innovation—any new—any unproven idea. For our policy has ever been, not to sell ideas-innovations-but automobiles. Dependable automobiles.

AND YOU WILL AL WAYS find Reo "trailing" to just that extent. We will never be one of those to "take a chance"—with our customers' money.

NOT UNTIL EVERY uncertain or unknown quantity has become a certainty will any new type of car or motor or axle or part be offered with the Reo name-plate.

SO YOU CAN ALWAYS BE SURE—as you have in the past—that in buying a Reo you are investing in no experiment.

THIS SIX IS THE RIPEST result of Reo engineering experience. The very fact that we make and offer it to you is evidence that the "Six" idea has now passed the realm of uncertainty. AND FURTHER, let us assure you that, every one of the sixty points of superiority enumerated below have been tried-proven-in fact, helped make the fame of Reo the Fifth-the Four that has set the pace for several years and is today setting it faster than ever.

(1) FLAT TUBE RADIATOR-won't leak through freezing. Flat tubes expand-don't fracture under pressure of frost.

(2) RADIATOR DESIGN—an asset because the sloping, curved visor and graceful contour give class to the entire car. Costs more worth it.

(3) STREAMLINE HUB CAPS—protect bearing from dust, keep oil in. Removed with small screw-driver—original with Reo. Will be widely copied.

(4) EXTRA HEAVY, one-piece, forged front axle—50 per cent over-size.

(5) TIMKEN BEARINGS (4) in front hubs. Heretofore indicative of high price. (6) REO CYLINDER DESIGN—guaranteesstraight cylinders, uniformity of water jackets. No distorted

THE "SIXTY SUPERIORITIES":

(7) SAFETY-FIRST-and sure-oiling system.

(8) THREE-PIECE piston rings more power quicker acceleration. (9) FIFTY PER CENT over-size crank shaft. Ever hear of a Reo crank shaft breaking? Never. (10) EXTRA HEAVY cam shaft—extra large cams One reason for silence and uniformity of power in

(11) ECCENTRIC FAN BELT adjustment - best appreciated after you've owned the car a while. (12) SPIRAL HALF-TIME gears. Silent-and 50 per cent stronger (13) VALVE ACTION-roller lifters. Some high priced cars still have mushroom lifters. But they also have a chauffeur to adjust them every little

(14) OVERHEAD INTAKE VALVE-not exhaust-Another reason for greater power and silence.

(15) FIBRE ROLLER tappets on intake-another (16) VALVE ENCLOSURE - silences, and keeps them silent—see next paragraph—

(17) BREATHER TUBE exhausts in valve enclosure -keeps parts bathed in oil spray, and-(18) NO OIL SPRAYED on outside of motor by breather-tube, eliminates most fruitful cause of dirt

(19) TWO FLEXIBLE JOINTS between motor drive and generator. Most use one only.

(20) ADJUSTABLE main crank shaft bearings. Only motor made in America in which main as well as connecting rod bearings can be adjusted without taking motor out of car. No shims. See the book.

(21) DUAL—injector type—exhaust manifold. Perfect scavenging of cylinders—no back-fire from one to another—more power, better cooling. (22) WATER-HEATED intake manifold---idea borrowed from high priced foreign cars.

(23) REO STEERING gear—different and better.

Not a "talking point"—because it's so simple you can see it—but a driving convenience much prized by Reo owners. No backlash—adjustable for wear. (24) DRY DISC CLUTCH-You know the superiority of this type—no tendency to drag. Saves gears, axles, tires—and the driver's temper.

(25) THREE-UNIT power plant. Always was, always will be a Reo feature. Only excuse for Two-unit idea is cheaper and easier for maker—less accessible, more expensive to owner.

(26) FOUR UNIVERSAL JOINTS—most makers get along with one or two—also at the buyer's expense! (27) BRAKE AND CLUTCH control system-only one hand-lever. Both brakes lock-both double acting-both "service brakes."

(28) REO ONE-LEVER CONTROL-simplest ever devised. Broadly covered by patents. They all covet—but they copy at a distance.

(29) REO Gear-shift direct connected lever you feel the gears as if your fingers touched them. "It's a pleasure to shift geara.'

(30) REO patented locking device—impossible for two gears to mesh at once.

(31) HYATT bearings in transmission. (32) "INDEX" PLATE surrounding control rod-"a novice could drive without a lesson

(33) FULL FLOATING rear axis 50 per cent over-

(34) TIMKEN bearings in rear axle—everywhere. (35) NEW TYPE torque-arm takes stresses that would otherwise be transmitted to delicate mechanisms. See the book.

(36) WORM BEVEL driving gears—how we were able to incorporate this feature is told in the "story."

(37) CANTILEVER rear springs-most luxurious riding springs ever invented. See the book.

(38) RIGID attachment of cantilever springs to axie act as radius rods-keep axle in perfect alignment at all times. (39) REMY electric starter and lighting. Made like the car—to stay good. Always starts. Some don't, you know, (40) STARTER hook-up—exclusively Reo. Worm-drive—connected all the time but no wear when car is running. No shifting gears no over-running ratchets. A lot of better features—see the book for the rest. (41) STARTER LEVER-handy, but unobtrusiveyou touch it only when you want to. (42) TIRE PUMP attached to starter shaft—connected at all times. Always ready—no lifting of the hood—hose carried in special compartment. (43) DIMMING attachments to headlights. (44) INSTRUMENT light and tail light connected in series—if tall light goes out pilot light warns driver.

(45) SPECIAL tail-light switch—a little thing but most important when touring. Conforms to regulations of all states.

(46) PRACTICALLY one-piece pressed steel cowl.

Pressed steel body on wood frame—so made it can't spring "a'creak."

(47) 634-INCH WIDER tonness. Measure the (48) 50 PER CENT OVER-SIZE in all vital parts-the Reo factor of safety. (49) REO accuracy—Reo care—Reo inspection everywhere. Parts ground to absolute exactness.

(50) 190-odd steel forgings—in many pieces where others think castings good enough. (51) REAL LEATHER upholstering—we've never found any substitute that was "just as good."

(52) REAL HAIR—retains its spring as nothing else

(53) REAL RUBBER and Sea Island cotton in tires-not cheesecloth and Jersey clay. (54) VENTILATING, rain-vision, clear-vision windshield-and attached to stay put. (55) CLEVER—and strong—windshield and top support—have to study in detail to fully appreciate.

(56) GENUINE one-man top. 5-bow type only other car using same kind sells for several hundred dollars more.

(57) LIGHTER weight in proportion to power-result of using better materials. (58) EVERY PART-radiator-cap to tail-light-Reo made and Reo guaranteed. (59) MOST ACCESSIBLE car in the world. Adjustment can be made to any unit without disturbing any other. Value in dollars to the owner is inesti-(60) FINALLY—and most important to you, the Reo name-plate. This signifies that the Reo guarantee, with all it stands for in integrity and financial stability, goes with the car.

In Am in a report of Wesley Memorial hospital for the year ending October 31, 1914, snows that 1,123 patients were treated during the year. These patients came from every part of the state of Georgia and from several other states of the union. Of this number 110 were charity patients who were unable to pay for treatment, and afor the hospital for service furnished these charity and part pay patients, above what was paid by those who paid part of their expenses, was over $10,000. This does not include the value of services furnished by the surgeons and physicians who treat all charity patients without charge to the hospital or the patients.

An important part of the work of the hospital is the training of nurses. Young women from all parts of the state and from adjoining states are found in the nurses' staff.

The Women's auxiliary nas raised during the year over $25,000 for the patients.

MRS. BARNHART ADOPTS HER LITTLE GRANDCHILD

The police of Atlanta have dropped procedure in the case of Mrs. M. V. Barnhart, instigated by the Baltimore police who accused Mrs. Barnhart of abducting Leona Rust, her orphan grandchild. Mrs. Barnhart has legally adopted the child, and the court granted her the right to change its hame to that of Leona Barnhart. The child was likewise made the legal heir of Mrs. Barnhart's estate.

PUT U. S. TAX STAMPS ON OFFICIALS' BONDS

Governor Slaton has advised that all county officials sending their bonds for proper discharge of their duties for their ensuing terms of office, which hegin January 1, see that the federal government emergency tax stamp is affixed. The governor has not yet been advised from Washington as to whether this stamp is necessary, but is awaiting advice. The provision of the stamp, which only costs 50 cents, will forestall any complications in case the stamp should be necessary.

Massengale Advertising Agency, Atlanta, Georgia.

Gentlemen:-

Replying to yours of Nov. 20th. inst., we wish to state that you have placed all of our advertising since the organization of this company, and we are very glad to say that our business relations have been both very pleasant and satisfactory.

We are today recognized as the largest mail order feather goods house in America, selling direct to the consumer; and we attribute our success, both to the merits of our merchandise and the capable manner in which you have placed our advertisements.

We realize the success of a mail order house depends on fair dealings to their customers and the satisfactory merchandise sold them, together with the co-operations of a reliable Advertising Agency.

These are the essential facts that are necessary to the progress of a successful mail order house. We are glad to hear of your growth and wish you the increasing success which you deserve.

Yours very truly.

SALES HELPS---NO. 5

X/E ARE REPRODUCING above a recent letter in appreciation of our Service from a successful mail order house. The very fact that we say this firm is successful is proof positive that its members are of the progressive type, who have applied the principle of The Merchandising Combination to their business. This Merchandising Combination is one composed of meritorious merchandise, together with advertising that will tell the world it is meritorious. A business combining both of these attributes is infallibly successful; but one without the other is strictly inefficient. The American Feather and Pillow Co. saw to it that their products were par excellence; they delegated us to see to it that their advertising was of a like caliber. The result was inevitable—The American Feather and Pillow Co. is a successful firm.

Let us send you our interesting "Year Book."

BUDGET SYSTEM URGED BY EX-PRESIDENT TAFT

December 12 -Former

New York December 12—Former President William Howard Taft, guest at a luncheon today at the Lawyers' club, spoke on efficiency and economy in the national government and advocated a budget system

"All countries that have respectable governments, except our own, have budgets," he said "We have acted like children We have had so much money available through taxation that we have not been obliged to consult the revenue side of the ledger Now we are coming to the point where we must keep out of bankruptcy These three things are the great instrumentalities that ought to be created

"First Machinery for the reorganization of the executive departments of the government so as to eliminate duplications and overlaps.

Second A bureau directly responsible to the president, to report to him a comparative statement of economy and efficiency in each department, and "Third A plan for bringing the executive and legislative departments closer together and the preparation of an annual budget upon which congress can intelligently act

"The co-operation of the executive and legislative branches can'be best effected by carrying out recommendations to congress made in one of my last messages, that the heads of departments appear on the floor of each house to answer questions, to take part in the discussion to introduce bills and through the secretary of the treasury to intent appear on the floor of each house to answer questions, to take part in the executive departments, with the president at the head and his cabinet behind, him, become responsible

"With the opportunity of the secretary of the treasury and the other cabinet officers to appear on the floor in presentation of the budget, a means will be offered for an intelligible dus cussion and if congress chooses to ignore the recommendations of the executive, then the responsibility will be that of congress In the presentation which the executive makes the whole field of government expenditures will be covered and the whole field of government income" age has brought its buildens. For example here is a railroad! The pretty heiress knows a lot about books and domestic science and the theater, but is troubled over this railroad, the West-ern Maryland What can she do with her stock in this line? Certainly she doesn't know how to run it doesn't even know how to get rid of it It isn't like the Satsuma vase that The vase she has placed in the reception parlors of her home where Is a most attractive ornament It is very acceptable for that reason, alone not to mention the fact that it is valuable enough to be insured at $60,000 But a railroad? Oh what a difference Consequently, like a sensible heiress she experts to set about disposing of the railroad before planning what to do with her millions

Possibly you have heard of the noted

Tolin B Carter that wizaid of finance, who built so many radroads and dealt in so many millions. He was the father of the Atlanta helices who is now the step-daughter of Henry S Courtney, the well known automobile dealer Except the time that she has spent traveling over both Europe and America and in college at Chev, Chase Miss Carter has thways been a resident of Atlanta Now Worth Willions.

She was living quietly here, content-ed with her books and church and c word of warning, she was suddenly summoned to New York for a settle-inent of her fathers estated Two weeks later, when she returned from Wanhattan, she walked into the presence of her mother and stepfather with the announcement

Didn't know you had a multi-milhonaire in the family, did you? But before you isk any questions, tell me did the girls hold Tag day while I was gone""

It perturbed her greatly to realize that Tag day had been held during her absence and that she had been provented from going woon the streets to labor with other girls and women in the interest of the olphan children les there are many drawbacks to $1 000 000, some of which are the invaluable newspaper men who clamor tor interviews and disturb heiresses in the midst of their Christmas sewing the midst of their Christmas sewing the first experience with the agents of publicity tame Saturday night She brought in her bit of sewing and kept busy while she talked, as she had so many things to make in the short space between now and the holidays.

She Turns Interviewer.

Sitting upon the sitting room divan.

She Turns Interviewer.

Sitting upon the sitting room divan, her sewing in her lap and her mother as interested in the interview as the daughte was unconcerned, she usurped the role of interviewer by firing the first question.

But why should there be any publicity to this I think its absurd Nearly verybody is likely to inherit something.

Neath to this I think its absurd Neath Cerybody is likely to inherit something. The people want to know something of the fads and fancies and tastes of a voung girl heiress—they want to know what you're going to do with your foitune. But I haven t any particular fads lew fancies and my tistes iun mostly to books and pictures. So there isn't after all, I story in my case. As she spoke of pictures she called attention to five funtings on the walls. There were works by Bonelly, Lerch Gartner, Minghi and Lecilsky. She referred to them with the aidor of a connoisseur who was perfectly at home when the subject was art. Then she resumed her own handiwork with the needle. She did this each time her interviewer sought to question her about her plans for the $2.500.000 Finally, she dropped the little handful of sewing looked up and said.

Plans to Help Others. Honest to Help Others.

Honestly I think about the only satisfactory thing I can do with all this money is to help others. The been interested in settlement work for a long time I know of nothing that would make me happier than to go into the factory communities and aid descriving families who we never had their just chances.

It has been my ambition to find a protege that I might train for a career and I—"

What sort of a girl would you like brotege that I might train for a career and I—"

What sort of a girl would you like to adopt "her interviewer interrupted Girl? she queried I didn't say anything about a girl Girls are too uncertain I m atraid I couldn't depend upon one I want to give a boy a chance in life When it comes to gratitude men and boys remember longer than the other sex A girl might turn to anything—might even be a suffragette." At the mention of suffragette' her expression showed she had little sympathy with the cause of the militant woman.

pathy with the cause of the infitant woman

By this time the interviewer had despaired of finding out what she planned doing with her $2500,000 except to promote charity and a protege 'Have you considered investing any of it in matrimony" he put as a partng query

J. W. CROSBY WENT FISHING AND HAS SINCE BEEN LOST

Brunswick, Ga., December 12.—(Special)—J. W. Crosby, 70 years of age, and a well known citizen of Brunswick, has been missing eince last Tuesday morning and relatives and friends have given up about all hope of him. It is believed that he has been drowned, though searching parties friends have given up about all hope of him. It is believed that he has been drowned, though searching parties have failed to locate his body.

The aged citizen left his home at an early hour Tuesday morning to spend the day fishing. He went alone in a small batteau, announcing that he was going to a well-known "drop" only a few miles from the city, and failed to return Tuesday night. A searching party was made up Wednesday and Thursday and a thorough search was made for him. The party has continued the search but he has not been found.

The party yesterday went to the point where Crosby announced he was going to fish and a jug which he had in his small boat, together with an empty bottle, was all that was found. There was no trace whatever of the man or boat. It is believed that the boat was capsized and that its occupant was drowned.

MISTRIAL FOR SMITH

Jury Out Since Thursday, But Couldn't Decide.

Waycross, Ga., December 12.—(Special)—No bills have been returned here by the grand jury in cases charging M. G. Hunter and Aaron James with arson. They were given preliminary hearings a short time ago and bound over for action of the grand jury. Their arrest followed an alleged attempt to burn the home of Monroe Taylor, west of Waycross.

DUST OF GOV. EARLY MOVED TO NEW REST

After a Century, Governor, Wife and Child Now Lie in Greensboro.

Athens, Ga., December 12.—All that remained of the body of Peter Early, governor of Georgia a century ago, was removed from its grave in Greene county today and reinterred at Greens-boro, Ga., beside the governor's parents. The ashes of the governor's wife and small child were taken to Greensboro at the same time. The graves opened today were made in 1815.

To Protect Cotton

In Albany's Streets

Albany, Ga., December 12—(Special,)
As there are many hundreds of bales of cotton in the streets of Albany, the warehouses and improvised storehouses having overflowed some time ago, the city authorities are heing urged to forbid the use of fireworks in any part of Albany during the holiday season. A good man, local dealers have placed orders for the usual Christmas supply of fireworks, and most of the shipments have been received. It is pointed out, however, that a single spark from a skyrocket or roman candle could easily start a bilaze among unhoused cotton that would cost thousands of dollars. No action has vet been taken by the city "ouncil."

IN CENTRAL AMERICA

Guatemala City, December 12.—The curtailment of imports as a result of the European war has started a decided industrial movement in Central American republics. Activities hitherto have been directed, for the most part, toward the production of coffee and other commodities, which commanded high prices in the foreign markets.

The increased cost of importing manufactured goods and food staples has aroused the people to a desire to be self-sustaining. It is pointed out that in the Spanish colonial times Central America produced all the food and clothing its population required and had a surplus to export.

An outcome of this movement, it is believed, will be an increased demand for machinery of all kinds and an opportunity for American manufacturers to supply it.

SPECIAL RATES FOR FARM STUDENTS

Athens, Ga., December 12.—(Special) Seventeen rawroads operating lines in Georgia have issued circulars offering reduced rates to Athens on account of the short courses at the State College of Agriculture and the attendant agricultural conventions—the Georgia Dairy and Live Stock association, the Georgia Breeders' association, the Georgia Breeders' association, the Georgia Estate Horticultural society's thirty-ninth annual session and the first annual meeting of the Georgia Apple Growers' association, besides the meeting of the farm demonstrators. The tickets are from January 3 to 20. It is expected that two hundred girls and as many boys will be here for the short courses and two hundred to three hundred of various conventions will come for the period from January 15 to 19.

THOMASVILLE SENDS CLOTHING TO EUROPE

Thomasville, Ga., December 12—(Special.)—The first box of clothing from the Red Cross Aid society of this city for the use of the sufferers from the war in Europe will be forwarded Monday to the Red Cross headquarters in New York. Accompanying the box will be a donation of $100. Other contributions both of clothing and money will be sent on from time to time. The society here was organized very recently, and the object met with such hearty enthuslasm that the members of the committees in charge of the distribution of garments to be made had difficulty in getting them cut out fast enough to meet the demands of the many who were anxious to do what they could in helping along the work. The contributions have been liberal also, and there is a good balance in the treasury which will be used as needed.

BRUNSWICK STORE L DESTROYED BY FIRE

Brunswick, Ga., December 12.—(Special)—Brunswack was visited by another somewhat serious fire early yesterday morning when a large two-story store at the corner of Monk street and Cochran avenue, together with two small adjoining houses, were destroyed. Gus Early, who conducted the grocery store, is of the opinion that the fire was of incendiary origin. He says it started upstairs, which is used as an amusement hall, and he believes that the place was set on fire. The store, together with all of the contents, were destroyed, with only small insurance.

FATHER OF THIRTEEN CHILDREN IS DEAD

LaGrange, Ga., December 12.—(Special)—The death of W. J. Newsome occurred at his home at Union Point Wednesday morning. Mr. Newsome had been in failing health for some time and his death was not unexpected. He was 68 years of age. He had been elected mayor of Union Point at various times. He is survived by his wife and thirteen children. He was a promi-nent Mason. Many friends from all parts of the county attended the fu-neral services, which were held Fri-day morning in the Union Point Metho-ist church

LaGrange, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—A young negro boy, Noel Smith, aged 8 years, shot and killed another negro boy, Charlie Geston, aged 13 years. The affair occurred on the plan-tation of Edward Askey, in the Ridge Grove neighborhood, in Greene county A shotgun was used and the dead boy's head was blown completely off. On account of the youth of the boy no arrest was made.

CLEARINGS LARGEST SINCE THE WAR BEGAN

The bank clearings for last week were $15,164,945.80, as compared with $19,832,803.76 for the corresponding period last year. This report gives the best showing since the outbreak of the war, which improvement is due to the freer movement of cotton and improving business conditions. Further improvement is expected from this time, as the Wade cotton plan will become affective next week.

The deficit from last year was reduced to a little less than 24 per cent, which compares with about 40 per cent in October.

MADDOX IN WASHINGTON ON COTTON POOL FUND

Robert F. Maddox, who is chairman of the state cotton pool committee, left Saturday for Washington to attend Monday the meeting of the seneral committee, which has in charge the fund of $10,000,000 for distribution among the cotton states. The chairman of the various state committees will report on the progress of the plan in their states, and additional details will be worked out which will be helpful to applicants for funds. Should this fund of $100,000,000 be divided among the states on a basis of cotton production, Mr. Maddox estimated that Georgia would be aliotted $20,000,000.

shall not play freshmen on their varsity football teams, was made here today in a constitutional amendment adopted at the association's annual meeting.

The amendment divides the membership mto two classes, irrespective of enrollment. Class A is to operate under the one-year exemption requirement, while class B will be allowed to play freshmen. Members have the privilege of edeciding which class they will be enrolled in and will play only member opponents in the same class. In this way there will be two football champlonships each year.

Adoption of the amendment by a vote of 12 to 16 followed the defeat of another proposed amendment, providing that the one-year exemption be made to apply to all members. All of the smaller institutions belonging to the association opposed making the rule apply unqualifiedly and the proposal was defeated, 17 to 5.

Delegates representing Auburn, Georgia, Louisiana State, Tennessee and Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical were strongly in favor of the rule barring freshmen on varsity elevens, while those from Vanderbilt, Sewanee and other institutions opposed it, claiming it placed an undue handicap on the teams from the smaller colleges.

Under the rule barring freshmen, as it has existed, first-year men could not be played by the following institutions.

December 12.—(Special.)—With the contest yet six months away, four entries are already lined up for the next Indianapolis 500-mile lace, the last to register being Ralph DePalma, America's road racing champion, with his Grand Prix Mercedes. Through his backer, P. C. Patterson, Del'alma inide entry this week, desiring to be as close to the head of the list as possible, because of the Hoosier elimination trials, which take place in the inverse order of nomination each year. elimination trials, which take place in the inverse order of nomination each year.

Though defeated at Corona, DePalma has great hopes of capturing the indianapolis classic, since, out of all the machines that raced in the western contest, his was practically the only one conforming to the new 500-mile specifications. Measuring well under 300 cubic inches, the limit prescribed by the speedway managoment, and tested in over 1,500 miles of actual racing, he thinks it is ideally suited for the task.

One thing seems certain, and that is that DePalma will go to the post a popular favorite. In point of sportsmanship and victories alike he stands unexcelled among American drivers. Of his triumplis, the following are the most noteworthy: 1912, Santa Monica light car race (Mercedes), Elgin free-forall (Mercedes), Vanderbilt cup, Milwaukee (Mercedes): 1913, Cobe trophy, Elgin (Mercedes): Elgin national trophy (Mercedes); Elgin national trophy (Mercedes), Cobe trophy, Elgin (Mercedes).

HARVARD'S FOOTBALL DATES TO BE CHANGED

Cambridge, Mass., December 12.—There will be radical changes in Harvard's 1915 rootball schedule, according to a statement from an authentic source tonight. Five teams which the Crimson faced this fall have been dropped. These are Michigan, Washington and Jefferson, Springfield M. M. C. A. college, Tuits, and Bates.

Colby probably will open the season at the stadium, Trinity, a newcomer, will have the second game, and Penraydvania State will come third. Games with Princeton, Brown and Yale again will close the Crimson season, in that order.

Under the rule barring freshmen, us it has existed, first-vear men could not be played by the following institutions:

Auburn, Alabama, Georgia, Louislana, State, Tuliane, Mississippi, Clemson, Kentucky State, Tennessee and Vanderhit.

The Georgia School of Technology, which recently withdrew from the association, also had to conform to the one-year rule in playing members of the organization.

More than twenty southern universities and colleges are members of the association. The freshmen rule has applied only to football, the use of first-year men on varsity teams in other sports being permitted without restriction.

The next meeting of the association will be held in New Orleans in 1915. Old officers were re-elected.

The question of modifying the summer basebal eligibility rule to allow students to have more privileges in flux connection was referred for consideration to a committee of which S. V. Decatur 14, Wesley 10.

In a very exciting and interesting game of basketball played friday night the Decatur High school girls defeated the Wesley Memorial team by the score of 14 to 10.

In the first few minutes of the game it looked as if the Wesley girls were going to have a walk-away. However, Decatur came back strong toward the close of the half, being in the lead when the half was over by three points.

Although Wesley put up a game tight in the final period, the Decatur team stuck to them and managed to maintain their lead from the preceding half. maintain their lead from the preceding half.

There were not any particular stars of the game. The team-work of the Decatur crowd brought forth applause repeatedly from the spectators.

The Decatur team has not lost a game this season. Among some of the schools that they have victories over are Covington High school, Marietta High school and the North Avenue Presbyterian school.

The Tech classes opened their football season yesterday afternoon with two corking games, both of which were 0-0 affairs, between the seniors and the subs and between the juniors and the freshmen.

In the senior-sub fray the former outplayed the latter all during the game. The subs never seriously threatened the seniors' goal line, while the upper classmen were in striking distance of the subs' goal repeatedly.

In the last minute of play in the first half the seniors carried the ball over for a touchdown. The play w'us had more than eleven men on the field had more than eleven men on the field at the time the play was made.

at the time the play was made.

Forward Pass Used.

The seniors made some nice gains at times by resorting to the forward pass. They worked the pass in midfield, but when the ball was inside the subs' 20 or 30-yard line, it was broken up. The subs did not attempt any forward passes.

In the matter of first downs, the seniors also had the better of the seniors also had the serior and their distance a number of times, while the subs made but one or two throughout the entire struggle.

At one time, when the seniors had the ball on the subs' 25-yard line, Reifsnider attempted a 'drop-kick, which went wide by but a few feet. Fumbles were frequent and time and again they would break up a march toward a touchdown by the seniors. The subs recovered nearly all of their own fumbles and a majority of the ones made by their opponents.

The freshmen came back with renewed life at the beginning of the second half, rushing the ball about sixty yards on end runs, when a fumble gave it to the junior team.

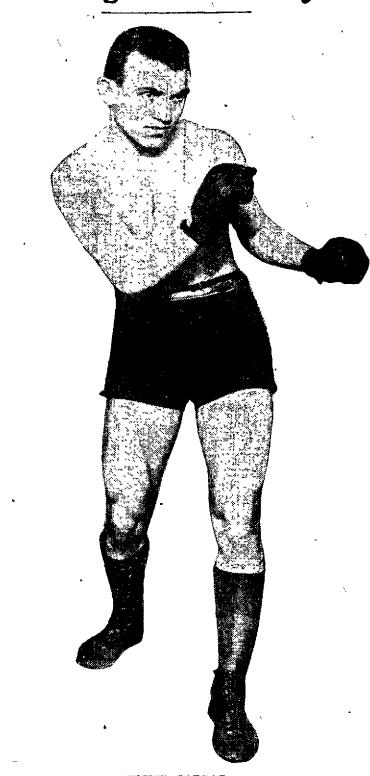

In the final period also the freshmen had the juniors back on their goal line as a result of repeated penalties imposed. Strupper here attempted a drop-kick, but the trial was a fallure, the ball never rising off the ground.

JIMMY PAPPAS.

The local Greek, who meets Kid Herman at Bijou theater on Tuesday night. Kid Herman, bantam king of the south, and Jimmy Pappas, the Greek 116-pounder, have finished hard work for their ten-round scrap at the Bijou theater Tuesday night. Each went through a hard work-out yesterday, Pappas doing his training at the Metropolitan club, while Herman went through a long grind at the Atlanta Freshman-Junior Game.

The freshman-junior game was a much closer contest than the senior sub conflict. Each team had a splendid opportunity to score at one time during the game, but neither could make use of the chance.

The juniors got the jump at the outset by carrying the ball, mainly by line plunges and short end runs, up to the freshmen's 10-yard line, where the line tightened and the ball went over.

The freshmen managed to work the ball back to the middle of the field, where it remained for the remainer of the half.

The freshmen came back with renewed life at the beginning of the second half, rushing the bull about sixty yards on end runs, when a fumble gave it to the junior team.

Indianapolis Flag Winners Led Federal League Teams

The Indianapolis club, pennant winners in the Federal league, led the teams of that league in team batting, according to the official figures just issued, with a team batting average of .284.

This is a remarkably high average for a team to go through a season of 157 games, and shows the real reason the Hoosiers won the pennant. But the team batting averages of the entire league was fairly high. Brooklyn was second with .269 and Baltimore third with .268.

Indianapolis scored 762 runs and made 1,471 hits, an average of nearly six runs to the game, and over nine hits to the game, a wonderful record.

Brooklyn led in two-baggers, with Indianapolis second. Indianapolis led in three-baggers, with Brooklyn second. Chicago led in home runs, with Brooklyn second. Indianapolis led in total bases, with Brooklyn second.

Hannes Kolehmainen Shows His Heels to Classy Field in Record Time.

New York, December 12.—Hannes Kolehmainen, wearing the colors of the Irish-American Athletic club, won the national senior cross-country run of the Amateur Athletic union today over the six-mile course in 33:36, a new record for the Van Cortlandt course. The course is laid out over stiff hills and dale country. Among other obstacles it includes a formidable water jump, where each of the contestants got an ice cold mud bath. Kolehmainen led all the way, winning by about sixty yards from Arthur J. Fogel, of the Irish-American Athletic club, who finished thirty yards ahead of his clubmate, Thomas Barden. Fogel's time was 33:49.

Birmingham, Ala., December 12.— Walter Locke, representing the Atlanta Athletic club, won the annual three-mile open road race, held under the auspices of the Birmingham Athletic club, here today. Vivian Jones, of the local athletic club, ran second. Time, 16:57.45.

Walter Locke is fast coming to the front as a cross-country runner, and Atlanta and the south can justly feel proud of him.

This is his first effort outside of Atlanta. He has won the annual road race of the Atlanta Athletic club for the past two seasons, making splendid time in both events.

With his success in the Birmingham event, the Athletic club officials are going to train Locke for participation in some of the bigger events in the east and west in the coming track season.

THOMASVILLE LINKS. READY FOR GOLFERS

Thomasville, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Work on the golf links at the Country club has been completed and the links are now in fine condition. For several years must the links had been very little used and had not been kept up, but the demand among the northern visitors here last season for the use of them was so persistent that the board of governors of the club decided to have them put in first-class condition again and a force of hands has been at work for several months doing everything possible to put them in as perfect condition as they were in former years, and they will, no doubt, be popular with the visitors here this winter. As there are already more here than is usual so early in the season, there will, no doubt, be enough here soon to make the links a popular place of resort.

The Athletic Board Decides That the Sport Does Not Pay Sufficient Returns at

In view of the fact that basketball has always been a financial failure at Tech, the athletic board has decided that the Yellow Jackets will not be represented on the court by a team this winter.

This announcement will, no doubt, come as a surprise to the followers of Tech's indoor game, as the prospects for a winning team this year appeared to be unusually bright.

From last season's team, Johnson, Spence, Vaughn and McCullough were back. In addition to them, there were a number of first-class players in school last year who were ineligible on account of the one-year rule.

The class league will be composed of six teams, as the faculty have rounded a team together and entered the race for the pennant.

The teams should be considerably stronger than they were last year as a result of the last season's varsity mon being allowed to participate in the sames.

To the team that wins the championship hardsome awarters

To the team that wins the championship handsome sweaters, with their class numerals on them, will be awarded. At the close of the season, Coach Heisman will pick an all-star team, the members of which will be given sweaters with "T's" on them.

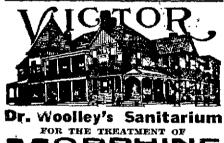

In order to make all the teams as nearly even as possible, the subs and seulors will be allowed to use all men left over after the other classes have chosen their fives.

"I am not greatly in sympathy with this movement that so many well-meaning, but misguided persons have taken up," says R. C. Rueschaw, sales manager of the Reo Motor company. "I mean this general 'cheer up, theer up' movement.

"The reason I am not in sympathy with it is because I think it unnecessary and therefore foolish.

"It reminds me of an incident that happened on one of the early Glidden, tours. We were gliding along over the country road feeling happy, having a perfect score in our pocket as it were, when we met a horse and buggy. ### Southern League to Open Either April 14 or 17

Little Rock, Ark., December 12.—
(Special.)—The Southern league's 1915 season will open either Tuesday, April 14, or Saturday, April 17, according to President W. M. Kavanaugh, who is putting in most of his spare time working on the league schedule.

If the April 14 opening is decided upon, the season will open with a threegame series in the non-Sunday towns. Thus, according to President Kavanaugh, will make the closing date of the season September 19, with no double-headers except on holidays and tomake up postponed games. He also has it figured out that under this arrangement, he will be able to give the cities that do not play Sunday ball most of the Saturday dates they want. If April 17 is fixed as the opening date, the season will close September 25, No double-headers will be necessary. President Kavanaugh has worked out an arrangement under this plan whereby the cities that do not play Sunday ball will be given Saturday dates to correspond with the Sunday dates to the clubs. Under this arrangement each club that plays Sunday ball would have from fifteen to seventeer Sundays at home, and the non-Sunday cities would have a corresponding number of Saturdays.

It's a thing we can't do in this country. Everything will have to stay white until the war is over 'The other day I met him again; asked him how business was, 'Running' to full capacity,' he said. 'What about those dyes?' I asked. 'Why we are getting all the dyes we want, and better than we ever imported,' he replied jubilantly.

"The point I want to emphasize is that we bought from Europe, not because we could not make it here just as good and just as cheaply, but because in certain things that formerly were secret processes European makers had become strongly entrenched and America feared to invest the amount and to build the plants necessary to right for a share of the business. Now the business is ours without even fighting for it—the demand must be supplied, and we are now supplying our own demands.

"Just here I might call attention to one great difference between Americans and a foolish prejudice against buying or using anything that is made in any other country. We Americans have had a foolish prejudice in the opposite direction. Our loyalty has not reached the commercial stage yet. That is because we have had no real competition—nothing to stir up our commercial loyalty. We like to see the word 'imported' on the box, and we have actually paid more for an inferior article just because it was made in Scotland, France or some other European country.

"Perhaps we are exceptional, but the only, indication the Rec Motor Car com-of business here in America. The disturbance on the other side of the Atlantic has already had a tremendous effect on the development of new industries in America.

"For example, when the war broke out, we were told that in ninety days it would be impossible to have a photograph made, in this country. I say it would be impossible to have a photograph made in this country. I got worried about that, and, not having had one made for many years, rushed off to secure what I felt sure would be a currosity in the near future. Several others must have done the same because the photographers tell me business has been excellent.

"Now the ground for that belief was the fact that heretofore we had procured the glass for negatives from Belgium and the chemicals from Germany. Those who said the photographic industry would have to stop as soon as the small supply on hand was exhausted did not count on American ingenuity.

Scotland, France or some other European country.

"Perhaps we are exceptional, but the only indication the Reo Motor Car company have had that there is a disturbance anywhere on the face of the earth is increased orders for automobiles at a season when in former years, we expected less orders.

"Like most American automobile manufacturers, our export trade has been a very small percentage of the total, and inasmuch as we have for

AUTO MAKERS EXPECT BIG SPRING BUSINESS

Many Requests for Allotments Cars Have Already Been Received.

Automobile manufacturers and dealers are preparing for a demand next spring that will fully sustain the pace the spring selling seasons of recent years. Sales managers and distributors of the leading cars unanimously assert that this fall's business was not gmly actisfactory, but a distinct surprise to the pessimists.

Requests of distributors and dealers for apple allotments wherewith to meet the rush of spring, 1915, alleady coming in reveal a confidence in the field that can only be based on definite prespects.

coming in reveal a confidence in the field that can only be based on definite prespects.

Following the usual experience of the trade, the first fine days of next spring will remind these prospects by the thousands that they want their cars—and dealers will be expected to fun the cars up to the front doors of purchasers the day they are asked for Distributors and dealers all over the country are even now placing their orders for shipments from carloads to trainloads on a monthly schedule, right through the winter. The distributors and dealers have to pay for these cars at the time of delivery. Except with factory branches practically no consignment business is done. The cars are stored at the points of delivery, awaiting the spring purchasers. It is a "distinct mark of the substantial foundation and healthy tone of the automobile business that distributors and dealers so generally obtain the financial support pecessary to detial foundation and healthy tone of the automobile business that distributors and dealers so generally obtain the financial support necessary to obtain cars months in advance of the demand." Commodore William Livingstone, president of the Dime Savings Bank of Detroit, said to the American Bankers' association at Richmond, and The disposition in early years to look askance at the automobile manufacturer and dealer has passed, and with further knowledge of the business, oredits commensurate with sound banking methods have been extended to the mutual benefit of all. No longer do we hear talk that the automobile business will go the same way as the bleycle business, it being generally agreed that the making and marketing of motor cars is among our geatest industries—a situation to be credited to a large degree to the care and conservatism of bankers who have been active in caring for the automobile dealers among their patrons."

SEEKING BUSINESS

Active Campaign Already Begun by Representative of Chandler Car.

With glaing headlines in every trade and newspaper advising American business firms to "Go Atter South American Business," the Chandler Motor Car company, through the foresightedness of its export manager, W. S. M. Mead, has already commenced an active campaign of sales in the southern half of the hemisphere.

Going first to Porto Rico, Mr. Mead renewed acquaintances with dealers and many motor car owners to whom he had personally sold cars. He was successful in establishing arrangements for the sale of cars in Porto Rico and other nearby islands and several orders have already been received. The export manager later left for South America and has spent a good portion of the past month in "I have established at least one record on my trip to South America that its only rarely duplicated in the states writes Mr. Mead. "That is the signing up of the Caracas sales rights for the Chandler, delivery of the demonstrating car and the retail sale of same all within the short space of twelve hours. Our dealer in Caracas, Mr. Fernando Marquis, O., is one of the hivest wires in South America and certainly understands the Latin temperament as connected with the sale of motor cars. His headquaiters, the Grange Central, from which Chandler owners in the capital of Venozuela will be served, constitute the most upto-date motor establishment in the city."

When the Australian expedition force left Melbourne to join the all in Europe, a model 32 Hupmobile companied the Red Cross corps a special field ambulance. This am lance corps, which is known as Light Horse brigade, has among its

The Stewart vacuum gasoline system will go down into automooile history as the biggest imnovation of the 1915 automobile season, the same as the electric starter was credited as the big success of the 1912-13 seasons. This invention, which is a simple control of gasoline, has already proved its superiority in many ways. Eight exhaustive tests conducted with a new Model Buick 55-C on the Indianapolis motor speedway a few days ago being the clincher to all arguments of the superiority of the vacuum system over pressure feed

In the tests conducted under sanction of the A. A. A. both on the Indianapolis motor speedway and rough, middy highways, the vacuum system showed 123-4 per cent increase in mileage efficiency over pressure feed systems. Technical Engineers F. E. Edwards, of the Indianapolis motor speedway, sent the Buick over the speedway, sent the Buick over the speedway, sent the Buick over the speedway course at 30 miles an hour on the highways at 21 miles an hour on the highways at 22 miles an hour of the highways at 23 miles an hour of the highways at 24 miles an hour of the highways at 25 miles and of the highways at 25 miles an hour of the highways at 25 miles and of large concerns which have contracted for the Stewart vacuum system as regular equipment.

The phenomenal records that the system has made in tests under the strict supervision of the A. A. is responsible for the remarkable advance the system has made.

Originally, the Stewart-Warner corporation proposed to manufacture 50,000 tanks the first year. This was supplemented by a statement that the number would be increased to 100,000. Now within a fortnight the demand for the product has been so large that the company will increase its production to 300,000 tanks.

In spite of the wonderful success that the vacuum system has met with, without any competition, and in face of signed contracts totaling over 50,000 tanks, the Stewart-Warner corporation voluntarily reduced the retail price ex-

HIGH-CLASS HOMES

WEST ELEVENTH ST. Price $16,500

ON WEST ELEVENTH ST., just off Peachtree street, we offer a two-story, eight-room house, servants' rooms, garage, two baths and all pos-sible conveniences. Lot 50x152 feet. As-sume loan of $5,590. Terms on the re-mainder.

WEST FOURTEENTH ST. Price $15,500

JUST OFF Perchtree street, on West Fourteenth street, we offer a mod-ern nine-room home, all possible im-provements. Lot 50x175 feet. No loan to assume. Terms.

PONCE DE LEON AVE. Price $12,750

WE OFFER a new ten-room home on lot 50x180 feet on a well-shaded bill that everlooks the surrounding country. The house was built by one of the most thorough and competent men in the business and has all the latest improvements. The lot and street speak for themselves, values on this street being most apparent.

We can also sell the vacant lot (50x 180 feet), which is next to this place, for $5,000 on reasonable terms.

THIRTEENTH STREET Price $6,000

ON Thirteenth street, near Piedmont park, we offer a new six-room modorn bungalow. This house is not the regulation "stock nouse" used by a great many builders, but is an individual home, the plans having been prepared by the well-known architects, Messrs. Hentz & Reed. Three bedrooms, tile bath, sleeping porch, hardwood floors, furnace-heated. Reasonable terms.

PENN AVENUE Price $11,000

JUST off of Ponce de Leon avenue, on one of the prettiest north side streets, we can sell a new modern nine-room brick house for $11,000. This home is situated on a let 50x150 feet, and has sleeping porch, furnace heat, cement basement and all possible conveniences. Assume loan of $4,000, balance can be arranged to suit purchaser.

JUNIPER STREET

WE OFFER what we believe to be one of the safest, most sensible "buys" in residence property that we have seen in a long time. If you have been looking the north side over, with a view of getting a substantial, well-built home (a "regular" home, and with nine or ten rooms), on a good street, at a price that will allow for a good profit, if the time ever comes for you to resell, we believe that after an inspection of No. 305 Juniper street you will agree with us that it's a bargain for $7,000. House has recently been repainted and completely gone over inpainted and completely gone over inside. Assume loan of $3,000; terms can be arranged on remainder.

DESTRABLE BUILDING LOTS

BETWEEN Stewart avenue and West End, on Brookline, Elbert and Catherine streets, we have a few splendid lots, 50x200 feet in size. These lots have plenty of shade trees and all possible conveniences, with just enough building restrictions to protect the home. In this residential park is a new city school, city park, and it is convenient to two car lines, being only fifteen minutes' ride from town. The terms on this property can be made to suit the purchaser. Price, $300 to $1.500.

PARK

BETWEEN Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, on Pledmont avenue, we offer a number of lots, 67x200 feet each, ranging in price from $115 to $150 per foot. These lots are the only available ones in this section suitable for high-class homes. This property has plenty of shade trees, faces east and beautiful Pledmont park—A lanta's most valuable park. This park gives a permanent outlook, and should make this property doubly valuable for homes. This fact will be appreciated when you take a lock at the average crowded residence street. There is no property anywhere in Atlanta that is quite as desirable for apartment houses as this. The price on these lots will range from about $7,500 to $10,000.

SUBURBAN LOTS

AT THE intersection of East Lake drive and the South Decatur car line we offer a few pretty building lots, about 70x190 feet in size. Price, $900. This property has water, sewer and the sidewalks. Reasonable terms.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Dealers in farm property in the Atanta real estate field were interested Saturday in the appeal of T. B. Lanford, superintendent of the stockade, who urges the city council to establish poses to cure the victims of cocaine. morphine and other drugs that are constantly imprisoned in the stockade.

The committee of council to which the matter was referred has agreed favorably on the project, and a recom-mendation of the farm idea was decided upon. Council will be ursed to establish a farm on which truck gardening and other branches of agriculture can be carried on.

The Retail Merchants' association, through President Harris G. White and S. B. Turman, are making a vig-orous effort to forestall landlords from uncreasing rents during the stress of uncreasing rents during the stress of war times. Mr. Turman, although admitting himself at a loss as to suggest a mode of procedure, said that landlords would do well to forbear during the crisis, as it was gradually dispelling, and that more prosperous times would soon be at hand.

WARNING TO BANKERS WITH GERMAN NAMES

Amsterdam. December 12.—(Via London.)—In a long article on the possibility of the United States playing an important role in the conclusion of ueace among the European powers. The Cologne Gazette says that the "peace movement in America is not inspired by Germany," and that "American bankers with German names, in urging the desirability of peace, render a doubtful service to Germany,"

Such language, the newspaper says, is likely to be misconstrued as an indication that Germany is exhausted by the war, and, it adds, such notions only tend to injure German credit with neutral states.

Despite all friendliness with America The Gazette continues, Germans must not allow themselves to be deceived and they must look in the face the fact that America cannot be an arbitrator in the fight between Germany and Great Britain. It may be argued, it says, that the American government has observed the strictest neutrality, but one can be neutral in an indifferent way, and, on the whole, American neutrality has been favorable to Great Britain. The hewspaper then says:

"In view of all this, we cannot have in America the confidence which we ought to be able to rapose in a power which would act as an impartial arbitrator in regard to an arrangement of peace.

"We cherish no felling of irritation arainst America because in the interior are in regard to an arrangement of peace.

trator in regard to an arrangement of peace.

"We cherish no felling of firitation against America because she is friendly to Great Britain. Such a feeling is only natural, as Great Britain is America's motherland: but it is for this reason that we fear prejudice and we must in a friendly, but firm, manner reject America as an arbitrator."

FORCE OF AUSTRIANS REPULSED BY SERVIANS

Paris, December 12.—The Nish correspondent of the Havas agency reports that the Servians have repulsed an Austrian force at Kosmal, thirty miles south of Beigrade.

"Heavy fighting continues with large Austrian forces at Kosmal, south of Belgrade and north of Milanovatz," says the dispatch. "Attacks by the Austrians on Kosmai, December 3, were repulsed with heavy losses. The Austrians on Kosmai, December 3, were repulsed with heavy losses. The Austrians retreated, leaving 2,500 bodies.

"Along the remainder of the front in Servia the Austrians are retreating in the direction of Mokra, Gorbina, Bachta, Rogatchitz, Kotzeliova and Oub."Thirty-five Austrian officers, 4,500 soldiers and a military band were made prisoners by the Servians."

CONDITION OF KAISER CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

Berlin. December 12—(Via The Hague and London.)—Emperor William's condition continues to improve, according to an official announcement issued today. The catarrhal symptoms have wholly disappeared and his majesty's temperature is normal.

NO CHRISTMAS TRUCE FOR WARRING NATIONS

Rome, December 12.—The vatican authorities today made public a document setting forth the efforts made by the pope to obtain a truce in the European war during the Christmas season.

The efforts of the pontiff, unfortunately, failed, according to the vatican announcement, "owing to the opposition of a certain power."

First announcement of the pope's offort for a Christmas truce came through the German official press bu-reau two days ago, which said Ger-many was agreeable to the proposal provided the others accepted it. Yesterday the press bureau said Rus-sia had declined.

GERMAN SUBMARINES RAID FIRTH OF FORTH

London, December 12—An Edinburgh dispatch to The Daily Mall reports two German submarine attacks were made on the Firth of Forth Wednesday morning, but they were repulsed. Two of the enemy's submarines, the dispatch says, were destroyed.

The admiralty has no confirmation of the report.

The Firth of Forth, facing the North set, has a British naval base at Rosyth, off the shore of Fife, immediately west of the great Forth bridge. Because of its advantageous situation, England undoubtedly has a strong fleet gathered there, hence the report of a German submarine attack is no surprise. The Firth of Forth is the estuary of the River Firth—a bay-like extension of the river, about 50 miles long and where widest nearly 15 miles across. The principal port on the Firth of Forth is Leith, the port of Edinburgh.

RED CROSS SUPPLIES SHIPPED TO EUROPE

Washington, December 12.—The American Red Cross today shipped 401 cases of hospital supplies and clothing for women and children to war-stricken countries of Europe. France will receive 80 cases and an additional donation of 5,000,000 cigarettes. Germany will get 71 cases; Austria-Hungary 71 cases and 20 bales of absorbent cotton, and Belgium 159 cases.

Inclosing a check for $100, Vice President Marshall wrote the Red Cross today: "I fear the calls for help at home and abroad are to be so numerous and all-compelling that many of us must curtail our pleasures at the beheat of duty and that larger charity which spells love."

Can Offerings From Abroad Be Held Back So That Stock Market Will Not Be Flooded With Them?

New York, December 12 .-- (Special.) The restrictions regarding trading in stocks on the floor of the New York stock exchange, which started today, are expected to safeguard the market from heavy liquidation, but there is less of the general feeling of calm confidence regarding stock trading, as was shown in the case of bonds when trading in them was resumed two weeks ago. In spite of the fact that bond dealings have been marked with strength in prices of many issues. there is a widely held opinion that for-eign selling will be considerably heavier, during the next few weeks, heavier, during the next few weeks, in stocks than in bonds. However, the stocks which will be traded in are nearly all of the investment character and the number of speculative leaders for which trading has been resumed is so small that it is hoped that the impending flood of securities from Europe can be held back by means of the large amount of call money which is available here. If all of the speculative leaders were included in the list in which trading was resumed today, even with ample financial backing, it might be a difficult task to take up all offerings. There has been considerable amounts of bonds sent from Europe for sale here during the last two weeks, and it is known that more are on the way, but liquidating pressure has been sufficiently distributed over the period as to allow easy absorption of the offerings. While investment buying has supplied most of the demand, there has been a fair amount of speculative purchasing evident, although the general tendency of those who are looking for quick profits is to hold off for a week or two at least until time has been given in which to ship securities from Europe here. It is believed that it will be at least two months before anyone will be in a security have been at a in stocks than in bonds. However, the stocks which will be traded in are nearly all of the investment character gn selling here, for it will take a ng time for many holders in differ-it parts of Europe to send their se-freight rates is expected almost any day. Comments made by several members of the commission or those close to it have been taken to mean that the decision is ready for publication. Those most interested are prepared for almost anything from the commission. There have been "reliable" reports that the advance would be refused, and just as "reliable" ones that it would be granted, also that it would be given in part or conditionally. Preliminary figures of November railroad reports have been forwarded to the commission. Gross showed big decreases from a year ago for the same month, but not made a fairly favorable comparison with November, 1913, in many cases. A few roads showed just as big decreases in net as in gross. When complete figures for November are available, however, it is said that they will show that the month was a very poor one, considering the great improvement in general business sentiment during that month. Better conditions, it is said, have not yet extended to railroad tonnage and earnings. One factor which may have some bearing on the eastern freight rate case is that railroads in southwestern territory have asked increases of 5 to 15 per cent in freight rates. In fact, the southwestern roads have filled schedules showing such increases, and not a petition for them, the interstate commerce commission being asked to allow them to go into force on January 5.

Total transactions in stocks amounted to about 114,000 shares, with bond sales (par value) at around $1,000,000. The most active stock was Reading, of which over 23,000,000 shares were exchanged. Amalgamated copper, Erries, American can, Lehigh Valley, some of the lesser coppers and the local tractions helped swell the total.

Conspicuous gains were as follows: Reading, 10 points; Lehigh, 14%; Atchisen, 5%; Brocklyn Transit, 3%; St. Paul 3%; Erie, common and first preferred. 2 and 4; New Haven, 2%; Northern Pacific, 4%, and Toledo, St. Louis and Western pfd, 4%.

Seenes at the Opening.

Not for many years has there been such a throng of brokers on the floor as that which walted patiently for nearly an hour today for the signal to resume trading. There are 1,100 members of the exchange and nearly 700, it was estimated, were on the floor. Many of the others smiled down from the west gallery.

The first chime of Trinity church's 10 o'clock bells has long been the signal for sounding the opening gong on the floor of the exchange. As the church clock struck, a wave of applause went over the exchange and swelled into a vast flood as the gong clattered noisily in response. Then the cheering subsided to a great hum and the hundreds of brokers began grouping themselves around the trading posts. The gallerles gazed down in dwindling interest and slowly began to empty. Within the first ten minutes the floor of the exchange was white with torn fragments of thousands of memoranda. There was scarcely need, it seemed, during the first few minutes the floor of the exchange was white with torn fragments of thousands of memoranda. There was scarcely need, it seemed, during the first few minutes the floor of the exchange wis white with torn fragments of thousands of memoranda. There was scarcely need, it seemed, during the first few minutes of trading, for the posting of minimum prices. The market opened with a rush and old-time upward swing that sent the rock bottom figures determined upon by the committee in advance. There was one feature, however, that was not at all in keeping with the activity of the big days of more prosperous Scenes at the Opening. was one feature, however, that was not at all in keeping with the activity of the blg days of more prosperous times, and that was the small volume of single trades. Sold in Large Blocks.

Around posts 11 and 12 on the floor of the exchange the crowds were thickest. At these posts Reading and the coppers—such of them as were not barred—were bought and sold. Although trading was most active there, the volume continued to be small, few single lots of more than 300 shares changing hands. The largest early single transaction was a sale of a block of 1,400 shares of Reading. That opened at more than five points above the minimum prices.

Notwithstanding skyrocket advances over the minimum, trading seemed to assume a cautious tone. The greatest gain noted was one of more than twenty-six points by General Motors. Texas company stock came next with a rise of 13 points above the minimum, and many more active issues, such as Lehigh Valley. Tennessee Copper, American Beet Sugar and Central Leather, showed gains from 5½ to 10 points. Some stocks declined, notably Southern Bailway preferred, which went down 3½ points from the opening. Trading today was only for cash. In that way the governors curbed speculation, though it was believed at the expense of the volume of trading. Within the first fifteen minutes it was estimated 35,000 shares had changed hands. That ordinarily would he a poor record. The actual number of transactions, however, was vastly in excess of the ordinary, as most of the transactions were in small lots.

Although open trading on the floor of the exchange was forbidden in United States Steel, Anaconda Mining and certain railroad stocks held largely abroad, these issues were dwarfed in semi-privately under supervision of the stock exchange's clearing house committee of five. None of the restrictions on bonds, in force during the past two weeks, was lifted with the resumption of trading.

Chicago, December 12.—Record-breaking sales here for today give a decided upward swing to wheat. The market, after being on the upgrade for the outset, closed strong, 1% 01% to 1% above last night, Other leading staples, too, all made a net gain, corn % 0% to ½, oats % and provisions 2% to 10 cents.

Most of the European purchasing here was credited to the Greek government, which was said to have taken 1,650,000 bushels. Other Chicago export sales made the total more than 2,000,000 bushels. Trade broadened gradually and the feeling at the tend of the session might almost be classed. as bubyant.

Corn ranged higher, in sympathy with wheat and because of the lightness of country offerings.

Oats were mainly influenced by the action of other cereals.

Bellef that a break in hog values would check receipts tended to make provisions higher.

WHY YOU NEED AN

$\mathbf{APPRAISAL}$

Every manufacturing plant operated on business lines, carrying insurance and borrowing money, needs an appraisal as much as it needs insurance.

An Appraisal Saves Insurance

The average $100,000 manufacturing plant pays insurance on about 25 per cent of non-insurable property-foundations. underground piping and other property that could not be collected upon in case of fire. Hence 25 per cent of the insurance premium is annually wasted.

An Appraisal Is a Basis for Loans With an established appraisal in hand banks will lend more and "easier" money to a manufacturing plant than without this evidence of true worth.

Appraisals in Partnership Settlements With an established appraisal, partnership settlements are comparatively easy.

Appraisals in Settlement of Estates

In the settlement or division of estates physical values form the true basis of worth. Participants should insist upon expert appraisal before considering settlement. This company, chartered under the laws of Georgia, is equipped to render valuable service in this work. Our reports will be accepted as basic in any of the above cases.

LOW REDISCOUNT RATE FOR BARTLETT'S PLACE FAVORED BY M'CORD

By John Corrigau, Jr.

Washington, December 12.—(Special.)
Joseph A. McCord, president of the federal reserve bank of Atlanta, returned home this afternoon after attending a three days' sessions of the governors of the twelve reserve banks.

Mr. McCord was very much interested in the question of having the rediscount rate at 'Atlanta reduced to 5 per cent. The bank approved by the federal reserve boand. The board has proceeded with the utmost caution in approving such requests, preferring to study all possible effects upon business conditions generally of a change in the rate before taking action.

Reserve bank directors say if the banks are to be of the greatest service to the business men of their several communities, the banks must be able to rediscount at the minimum figure consistent with safety. Some of the Atlanta bank's directors are understood to favor a rate as low as 4 1-2 per cent. The individual banks who have entered the system wall be less able than formerly to meet the needs of their customers unlies they can rediscount paper at the reserve banks at a reasonable figure.

MRS. LESLIE'S BEQUEST ATTACKED IN COURT

New York, December 12.—Mrs. Frank Leslie's $1,000,000 mequest to the cause of woman suffrage was attacked today in two suits started in the supereme court by Florence L. Weissbrod and Lonetta L. Hollander, grand children of Frank Leslie, founder of the publishing firm which bears his name. The plaintiffs demand $400,000 each as their share of the estate and also set forth that $200,000—all that would be left of the money bequeathed by Mrs. Leslie to woman suffrage should be paid to Frank Leslie, III., and Arthur Lesle, also grandchildren of Frank Leslie. The potitioners allege that Mrs. Frank Leslie was entitled to only one-third of the $1,800,000 estate which she disposed of by will.

Mrs. Leslie's will provided that the residue of her estate be paid outright to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. Although she imposed no restrictions upon Mrs. Catt, she expressed the hope in her will that the money would be spent for advancing woman suffrage.

LAMBDIN AND POTTLE LIKELY CANDIDATES

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, December 12.—(Special.)—Senator Hoke Smith secured a favorable report today from a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee on the Webb bill, providing an additional federal judge for the southern district of Georgia. As approved, the bill does not contain the objectionable Cullop amendment, which would require the president to submit to the senate with his nomination of a judge all the recommendations and indorsements which influenced his choice. Waldo W. Lambdin, of Waycross, and Joseph E. Pottle, of Milledgeville, are regarded as the most likely candidates for the honor of being selected.

Phoenix, Ariz., December 12.—There will be no hanging of men at Florence penitentiary December 19. Six persons condemned by the action of the electorate in voting November 3 against abolishment of capital punishment in Arizona won today the elemency of Governor Hunt. Sentences of two men were commuted by the governor before he began preparing the election proclamation which would put into effect the initiated law taking away his power of pardon and commutation. Cases of the others were referred to the supreme court and the attorney general.

The Christmas Gift

"Back of all birthdays is the wonderful fact of birth, Nature's most holy manifestation." By the same token, back of all gifts is the beautiful spirit of giving, the noblest impulse of the heart of man.

It is fitting, therefore, that when we employ the art of giving to commemorate the greatest of all birthday anniversaries, that we select a gift that will really carry with it the spirit of the day and be a complete symbol of the love which prompts its sending.

A Sale of Beautiful Blouses at Half Price

Atlanta Writers' Club.

One of the charming events of the week, both from a social as well as a literary viewpoint, was the tea given by the Atlanta Writers' club, on Wednesday afternoon at the University club. As this was the first social affair of this popular club, it was most appropriate that it should have been held on the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris, the south's greatest writer.

Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris was the guest of bonor and, standing with her in the receiving line, were Mrs. Thomas Feters, the organizer of the Writers' club; Mrs. J. C. Parmele, first vice president; Mr. and Mrs. William Hurd Hillyer, Miss Arline Scully and General Scully. Much to the regret of everyone, the president, Mr. W. F. Parkhurst, was called out of town at this fime. That he had not forgotten the occasion was signified by the dainty corsage bouquets, his gifts to the ladies present, and the reading of a telegram received from him during the afternoon.

Innumerable have been the social enhomes and at the clubs, and the tea-Wednesday and that at Druid Hills yesterday afternoon both assembled large parties.

There have been many dinner par ties and small luncheons, and the holiday spirit is already manifest. The Christmas decorations are showing themselves in hospitable homes, and Santa Claus, with his arms filled, is in the minds of the happy little folks who still believe the old story.

This week the college set will begin to arrive home, and their program will include festivities morning, afternoon

The dinner-dances will be numerous out none could be more enjoyed than the two this week, the one Friday night day night at the Piedmont Driving club Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser gave beautiful dinner Tuesday night, assembling twelve guests. The decorations were the dirst expressing the Yule tide. A miniature tree was the centerpiece. The candlesticks were crimson shaded, and the place cards and souvenirs hore out the season's symbols. Mr. and Mrs. Woods White gave the first of a series of dinner partles they have planned for the season, and were assisted in entertaining Wednesday evening by their lovely young daugh ter, Miss Lulu White. Though a debutante this season. Miss White is combining with her social pleasures an or ganised philanthropic work along the line of social service. She is deeply interested in the latter, and has taken t up in a business-like, organized way Mr. and Mrs. White had, as their guests of honor, Dr. and Mrs. William Evans, who have been the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. J. > The younger sister. Miss Eleano Yeager, decided to go to Columbia university, and take a course in domestic science. She is there now, and is making dressmaking her specialty. She is delighted with her progress, and will not come to Miss Campbell until the Christmas holidays, when she will have her vacation.

Not only does the principle actuating these young women present itself as most practical, but what a helpful sit uation it is to the man of family, who with the fortune uncertain in its duration, can feel that, come what may, the children for whom he is responsible will be enabled to look after themselves no matter what may happen!

Another phase of the situation is the joy of an interest as well as that meresocial, which enables a young woman to see life in the broader Youth is the time for the purest joy, and no rational person will ever deprive youth of its rights, but it is se possible for the young woman of the present day to have some vital wholesome interest to combine with the social pleasures which are a part of her rights.

THE VALUE OF

"Why should Miss Yearer have select ed domestic science as the business or profession, in case self-support should confront her?" someone may ask in the strangely mistaken idea that there is lack of dignity in the profession of domestic science.

So much dignity is attached to mowledge women should have of the very interesting guest later in the sea- science, including a knowledge of handiwork, that in the education of the roymost beautiful estates in New Jersey, sewing is a necessary part of their education.

Any pursuit so essentially womanly and a part of the equipment of the complete woman, has every right to be raised to the highest form of perfection as a science or an art, and in the present day no form of woman's bility of procuring them from the usual art in it than that of dressmaking. It country which women have not taken advantage of.

> It is a hackneyed story—the yery ownership the French artist dressmaker has of American patronage, while an English titled woman has come to New York and made a fortune in the dressmaking establishment she owns and directs.

Now that the purchase of the foreign gown will not be so easy, the American designers, if there are any and the American women clever enough to go carnestly into dressmaking as their profession, will have a chance There is no broader opportunity for the American young woman of today than that of dressmaking. She can raise the business of it to an art, the basis upon which it should be estab lished, and keep at home the millions of dollars spent each year by the Amer ican woman-this good money made it America by hardworking husbands and

The tea-dance has provoked some question about correct footgear, as the skirt for dancing is shorter than that for other occasions. "Are spats stylish with dressy afternoon gowns?" was the question raised by a group of women who confessed they did not know, when several who said they knew laid down the laws on the subject. The informa tion the latter gave was that spats, no matter what kind or color, are only in good form with the cloth tailor suitthat designed for the street wear. "Cloth spats," said one, "answer the purpose of the cloth-topped boots, when women are in the street, but never when indoors at home or the entertainment indoors.

"For instance, the cloth spat is never n good form with the smart afternoon toilet of satin, silk net or similar materials; they are as incongruous with that toilet as a satin slipper would be on the street with the cloth walking or tailor gown."

AT THE TEA-DANCES.

At the tea-dances many pretty toiets were to be seen this week. Pretty black velvet gowns were worn Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Willis Westmoreland, Mrs. Floyd McRae and Mrs. Henry Jackson, Miss Aileen Fielder and Mrs. E. H. Barnes.

Mrs. John Murphy's gown was a combination of black velvet and satin, and she wore with it a close-fitting black velvet toque. Mrs. Kelly Evans wore a becoming costume in ivory white cloth trimmed in seal. Mrs. John Little wore black taffeta silk gown made marked ly directoire fasirion. Mrs. Reed Hob

Our Great December Half-Price Sale of Suits and Dresses

Begins Tomorrow, December 14th

In many ways this is an unusual season. Fitting in with the universal economy plan, almost everyone is going to make gifts of importance this Christmas-something to wear--something that means something--the gift that covers a need while it compliments. What is more generally acceptable than a handsome tailored suit, or a pretty frock--as a gift--and to wear at Christmas time? What is more opportune than buying these all this week at half price? Though our prices on suits and dresses continue at half throughout the month, the early purchase gets your choice. Just now there are plenty of blacks and blues. It is well known they go first.

Cox College Notes.

A pleasant entertainment was given on Saturday evening by the members of the Dramatic club, at which a large audience was present. The program opened with an amusing comedy sketch, "The Glee Club Rehearsel," in which the following girls took part: Jess Pringle, Pearl McCoy, Zip Hule, Theima Norris, Mary Epps, Sara Gay, Idelia-Andrews, Ethyl Fringle. There was a monologue, "Dickie's Christmas," by Nobye Humphrey; a plano duet by Annie Marchman and Marjorie Howell, and a vocal solo by Cecille Jones. The latter part of the program was given over to the presentation of Howell's "The Mouse, Tiap," in which the following girls took part: Wyolene Nance, Bettye Nobles, Nobye Humphrey, Ethyl Pringle, Florine Gentry, Myrtle Flannigan and Edna Walters.

An interesting announcement was made at the chapel services the past week, stating that the college had engaged the services of Rev. Z. J. Edge, of Rome, Ga., as its new field rapresentative. The many friends of Mr. Edge throughout the south will be pleased to learn of his connection with Cox college.

Miss Mary Oslin, of Washington, pressive numbers, school notes and extemporaneous talks. The program of Thursday afternoon, December 17, will be made especially interesting by the Tech orchestra, which is to furnish music for the occasion. The public is extended a cordial invitation.

Argentine Club Dance.

One of the brightest events of the week was the dance given by the Argentine club for the members and their afriends at their club rooms in West End, Friday evening, and was enjoyed by a large number of the younger set. The hall was prettily decorated in blue and white, the club colors, delicious punch was served, and the orchestra rendered the latest dance compositions.

Home and School Club. The East Point Home and School club met Tuesday afternoon, and was addressed by Mrs. Spain, on general topics relating to the work now in progress. In these meetings the mothers and teachers are brought in close relation, and the advancement of the pupils is easier accomplished.

Mrs. Joseph Hubbard, president of the club, made a timely talk in regard to sending out Christmas baskets to those in need.

The club is doing a fine work; teacher and mother working in unison for the upbuilding of the school and the advancement of the pupil.

New Officers Elected.

The Southern Methodist Missionary society, of East Point, met Monday safternoon, at the home of Mrs. M. O. Blackwell, and elected the following new officers:

Blackwell, and elected the following new officers:

Mrs. G. C. Trimble, president; Mrs. H. B. Shannon, corresponding secretary Mrs. H. A. Brown and Mrs. Joe Cahron, treasurers; Mrs. Charlie Wilson, superintendent of study and publicity, Mrs. A. J. McCov, superintendent of social service, Mrs. A. O. Fowler, agent for Voice: Mrs. A. O. Fowler, agent for Voice: Mrs. Alfred Jarvis, superintendent of supplies.

The society has done a good work the past year, and as the field of labor is widening, each member is pushing forward for greater things in the Master's vineyard "Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might."

Mr. Brieux's Lecture.

Mr. Brieux's Lecture.

The well-attended meeting of the Alliance Francaise yesterday was much interested in the first scene of "Le Temme Seule." As the next regular meeting was to fall on Christmas day it has been decided by the members to meet on Friday, the 18th, at the University club, at 336 pm.

Mrs. Slifer is in receipt of a letter from M. Delammare, secretary general of the Federation of the Alliance Francaise, in which he regrets to have to say that M Brieux has refused and will refuse any invitation to lecture before any club or association. He wants the fact emphatically known that all of his lectures are and will be exclusively under the auspices of the Federation of the Alliance Francaise.

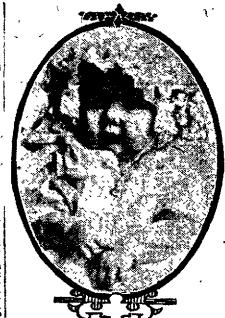

Parent-Teacher.

The Parent-Teacher association of Tenth street school will hold its next meeting Tuesday afternoon, December 15, at 3 o'clock, at the schoolhouse. Miss Postell will give a talk on the very progressive kind of work they are doing in their open-air school-rooms out at the Lee street school, of which she is principal.

All interested are invited

Miss Dunson Entertained. Miss Gladys Dunson, who has been visiting friends in Milwaukee and Chicago, will return home on the 18th. She is now the guest of Miss Gladys Stewart. in Chicago. ### Will Hold a Terpsichorean Fete at Auditorium Dec. 22

It would seem that Atlanta is rapidly developing the fad of carnival balls with all society, old and young, interested. Scarcely had the carnival ball of last week been carried to brilliant success than a large contingent of society volunteered their service to Mrs. William Lawson Peel in giving a masquerade ball at the Auditorium for the D. A. R. fund, this dated for December 22. Five thousand tickets will be sold, the various dancing club of the city forming the committee in charge.

There will be two bands of music, one relieving the other, and the decorations will be typically appropriate of the Christmas season. Among the

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

as good syrup as money can only.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly $2. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hourse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated com-pound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MRS. PEEL'S

SPEECH.

It was entirely appropriate that at the end of the Woman's Golf tournament a prominent woman should make the speech presenting the trophies to the winners Mrs. William Lawson Peel was selected to make the speech of presentation yesterday afternoon and she did so with wit and grace, at the Druid Hills Golf club.

"This is a great club—always some delightful specialty," said Mrs. Peel. "Last week it was Mrs. Flatbush. Well, this is the second great golf event in my life. SPEECH.

this is the second great golf event in my life,
"Several years ago I had the honor to open the Brookhaven course and it is a good course. And there are others. One of our distinguished citizens has suggested public golf. When we have that, with our churches furnishing free board and lodging, we will soon have millions added to our population.

lation.
"When I was a child people in Mawhen I was a child people in Ma-con used to say that when you saw a man racing down Whitehall street like he was going to a fire he was chas-ing a quarter of a dollar. Soon, per-haps, it will be said, 'He is going to the free links!'

The Age of Woman.

The Age of Woman.

"I have never heard of a woman presenting trophies at a golf tournament or at any other kind of tournament. That great honor has hitherto been reserved for the gentlemen—and justly so. They are the lords of creation. But Atlanta is no copy cat. She sets the pace. This is the age of woman, anyhow (not meaning to ask any woman her age), and more. It is the age of old women. Look around. Last year at the Southern Golf tournament in Knoxville the champion of 75 women was a grandmother, elegant, spry, victorious! When I was a child tournaments were for men only. Knights with lances rode on horseback and crowned the queen of love and beauty, as in Scott's novels, and it was prettier than sweaters and things. I was crowned once myself, in Macon, but times change, of course, and I think that soon we cannot tell a man from a woman.

but times change, of course, and I think that soon we cannot tell a man from a woman.

"Speaking of golf, that reminds me that I know nothing about it except the balls. I don't know a tee from a caddle, or a mashle from a brassle, but I have seen the balls. On Tuesday, December 22, there will be a great ball given The Terpsichorean, the Vesper, the Argentine and the Hyperion dancing clubs, the Shell club (a small aristocratic club), and the Admen's club, a large patriotic club, are paying this compliment to my chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. We need money. We wish to give employment to the unemployed by building our beautiful clubhouse on Peachtree, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. Your honored president, Mr. Atkinson, is on our building committee. The men ought to help us—they have many, many clubs, and we have been doing things for them all these years. This ball will be a grand affair, with military band, and one of the meest men in town playing Santa Claus, dispensing presents.

Speaking of Presents. Speaking of Presents.

"Speaking of presents reminds me of golf again. Here we are gathered together to celebrate a great event—the awarding of trophaes in the great golf tournament just completed on the Druid Hills links. There were forty-eight entrants, the largest tournament ever played or fought in the south by local players or fighters."

The cilvor cups were presented to

Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Miss Dorothy Harman, Mrs. F. V. Gude, Mrs. E. E. Pomeroy, Mrs. G. A. Howell, Miss Mar-garet Lewis, Miss Jennie Mobley, Mrs. I. A. Elley, of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Alex-ander

Monday Federation Day. In the calendar of the Atlanta Wom-n's club, December 14 is set apart as aderation day, and Mrs. Samuel tion. will have charge of the program. Feeling the importance of the subject, and appreciating her good fortune in securing Rev. J. R. Atkinson, rector of the Episcopal cathedral, as speaker. Mrs. Lumpkin has eliminated the usual order of having honors shared, and will give all her allotted time to Dr. Atkinson in which to make a strong address on "Co-Operation, Organization and Federation." The spirit of the Atlanta federation is unity, its opportunity, to exert a great influence on vital questions of varied character. Its power shows the result of co-operation attengthened by organization.

Co-operation is a bulwark for the permanence of organization and a nucleus of strength for federated work which offers wider opportunities and experiences.

Every member of a federated club, every federated club, counts for members, and their affirmative influence adds to the strength of a position.

All club women should hear Dr. Atkinson Monday afternoon. The address will follow the regular order of business at 3 o'clock.

Music for music's sake, the ideal attitude of the artist towards his art, is rare enough to be remarkable, especially in a city where the lack of local "atmosphere" throws the artist in upon himself for all his inspiration.

character of its rendition, would have done credit to any concert actual and cone credit to any concert occasion.

The Program.

Seven composers were represented—
Schubert, Schumnnn, Brahms, Grieg, Tschalkowsky, Hugo Wolf and Richard them familiar to the average concert goen, and each was given its own identity of manner and meaning.

In the first place, Mrs. Elsas possesses to delightful degree the prime requisite of the volca that would be pleasing; so well in hand as to be second nature; as negligible a thought as are the tools in the hands of a carver.

And finally, she has musical intelligence, that special faculty which is of the heart as well as the mind, and can read and translate what the composer himself cannot always analyze.

Especially in the Brahms group—Miebestreu" and "O Liebliche Wanger"—was there striking expression of this last quality. The composer himself, while he is distinctly "the intellectual," proved also his musical soul when he wrote his songs, and Mrs. Elsas' interpretation was a brilliant outpouring of this two-fold victory of Brahms over the limitations of musical expression.

The High Points-

The High Points.

Every song on the grogram might be cited to bring out some special charm in Mrs. Elsas' work, but it may be said that the high points were reached in the Brahms group, the Tschalkowsky songs, "Er Liebte Mich So Sehr" and "Ob Heller Tag," one depicting love in despair and the other love's dedication, and in the Strauss group, "Die Nacht' and "Zueignung." Of the last, the night song was exquisite in its repose, and the other equally beautiful in an intensity which rose at the last to an outburst of devotion.

Were there any need of superficial aid to the impressiveness of Mrs. Elsas' singing, it might easily be found in the classic beauty of the singer, and, while the character of her work could easily stand on its own merits, the charm of the woman becomes a happy supplement to the completeness of her art.

The young ladies of St. Mary's guild of St. Philip's church will hold a sale of useful and dainty hand-made articused, suicel, suitable for Christmas gifts, on Tuesday. December 15, at R. C. Black's shoe store, 35 Whitehall street. Nothing on sale will cost over 75 cents.

Song Recital.

The dearth of professional concerts in Atlanta this fall and winter may have had something to do with the vervival of the drawing room recital. Whatever the reason, there has been some exceptionally fine concert work in Atlanta homes and the audiences on these occasions have shown not only appreciation, but avidity for the high-class music these recitals presented.

A noteworthy instance was the recital given during the past week by Mrs. M. M. O'Brien and Mr. Wilford Watters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Vaughn.

Players in Cast Full of Intense Moments.

"Unrest" a Selig psychological drama feafuring Tom Santschi and Bessie Eyton, will be shown at the Vaudette Tuosday, December 15. The cast is a strong one, and includes, in addition to Tom Santschi and Bessie Eyton, the following well-known Selig players: Harry Lonsdale, Joseph Hazelton and Roy Watson. The story of the picture is as follows.

Tom Dean, a muscular, clean-cut fellow, is a mystery to his father, who engages a psychological scientist to grive Tom a course of special treatment. Tom does not like society and the restraints of home life, but prefers the company of toughs. During the course of the story he becomes involved in an automobile race, in which his machine is wrecked and several fights with toughs. Finally he meets his fate by rescuing a pretty young lady from drowning. The acquaintance quickly ripens linto love, he is cured of his atavistic tendencies and brings Bessie home as his bride.

At the Fort Lee studios of the World Film corporation Miss Russell is now working on a moving picture version of her greatest stage success, "Wildfire," the play that was written especially for her by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart. When the play was originally produced by Joseph Brooks, in Cincinnati, the audience at the opening night were a bit disconcerted, because they had come prepared to see a musical play, but saw nothing of the sort in "Wildfire." She was acting a character, and she made the audience realize that she was an actress of distinction. They were not disappointed when the final curtain fell.

disappointed when the final curtain fell.

That first performance marked her entrance to the legitimate stage: that maked audience in Cincinnati was the forerunner of a long series of similar audiences that gathered wherever Lillian Russell in "Wildfire" was announced. When her tour was completed Miss Russell decided to retire to private life, but she received so many requests from her admirers all over the United States and Canada who were anxious to see her in "Wildfire" that she was receptive to the idea of making a motion picture from the play when the plan was suggested to her by General Manager Lewis L. Selznick, of the World Film corporation. To him is due the credit of placing Miss Russell under contract, and her legions of admirers will wellagain.

EXPENSIVE DECORATIONS IN KLEINE FEATURE

With characteristic lavishness, George Kleine has arranged for unique and expensive interiors in his coming production, "Stop Thief," founded on the Cohan & Harris comedy of that name. The library set boasts 2,000 real books instead of the usual "prop" backs only. There is also a fine Italian renaissance mantel in carved walnut valued at $800. Beautiful Flemish, tapestries for door hangings and many oil paintings add a touch of realism to the various scenes as original as it is refreshing.

The big comedy is being rapidly completed Mary Ryan, as well as Harry Mestayer, both of whom are playing the respective leads, are enjoying the novelty of picture work, and delighted to find that they can readily exchange a successful "stage presence" for the all-essential "picture personality."

"The Master Key," the second installment of which will be presented at the Savoy and Alpha tomorrow, has already created an astounding interest all over the country. The first installment, which was presented last Monday, while only introducing the characters and opening chapters, played to over 8,000 people in Atlanta, which smashes all records for the first showing of any serial in this city.

In the staging of the second episode shown tomorrow, an accident occurred which came very near resulting seriously to Ella Hall.

Everything was in readiness and the real action was about to start. Some one suggested that they test out the strength of the cable before attempting the ride. A weight of about 300 pounds was put in it, and it was started on its journey. Just as it reached the deepest part of the canyon there was a sharp snap. The cable broke from its fastenings and the bucket dropped with a crash into the chasm. White-faced, the players looked at one snother, thinking what must have happened if Robert Leonard had been in the car instead of the test weight.

According to the scenario Ella Hall, returning from the scenario Ella Hall, returning from the mine, is given a ride on an ore car with one of the mines. On the way out a premature shot stuns the miner and he falls from the car, leaving Ella unable to stop it.

Robert Leonard had been in the car instead of the test weight.

According to the scenario Ella Hall, returning from the mine, is given a ride on an ore car with one of the miners. On the way out a premature shot stuns the miner and he falls from the car, leaving Ella unable to stop it. As it shoots from the mouth of the tunnel Leonard, as the mining engineer, jumps into an ore bucket which crosses the car-track and shoots along the cable at top speed, across a canyon 100 feet deep, and, stopping where the cable crosses the track, leans from it and drags Miss Hall from the ore car as it passes under him.

The following day the cable was repaired and again tested, this time to 500 pounds, and the action was taken. And at that, the scene as it was taken was not without its danger. The ore car in which Miss Hall was riding was really bound for the ore dump, and with no one on board to check it in its wild race, if Mr. Leonard had failed to catch her as she went under, she would certainly have been dashed to death. But in the lexicon of the photoplayer there is no such word as failure, and the scene was taken without injury to anyone.

MARGUERITE CLARK AT THE MONTGOMERY

Fascinating Actress in Strong Photo-Play on Monday and Tuesday.

Marguerite Clark's presentation in the photoplay production, "Wildflower," t the Montgomery some time ago, at the Monigomery some time ago, made such an impression upon the people of Atlanta that the management of the Monigomery take pleasure in announcing for Monday and Tuesday of this week the fascinating and irresistible actress in another feature. The the powerful and heart-grapping drama of "The Clucible" the portrayal of a soul's ordeal in the melting-pot of suffering, from which fiery furnace it emerges unscathed and strengthened by its agonies, Marguerite Clark plays the part of little Jean Fanshaw, at first hoyden and tom-boy, unjustly condemned to a reformatory, who later triumphs over the shame of her imprisonment and the sordid corruptness of her environment, veturning good for evil to those who worked havod with her life.

Jean Fanshaw is brought up by her father as nearly like a boy as possible. One day, at a picnic, a playful made such an impression upon the peotrick of Jean's enrages her mother and sister, and when they arrive home Amelia nags and bullies Jean till she catches up a sickle in a spirit of mischief, threatening to defend herself with it, if necessary. Amelia, alarmed, throws her hand up with, a fuck motion, and cuts herself on the sickle. She runs screaming to her mother, declaring that Jean has attacked her. This her mother beheves, and joinsher outcries to Amelia's; the constable and neighbors run in, and eventually Jean is sentenced to the reformatory.

tually Jean is sentenced to the reformatory.

She later wins her pardon, but not being wanted at home, she goes to the city, where her struggles are many. How the cup of happiness is snatched from her lips, how the shadow of the reformatory again looms over her, how she heaps coals of fire upon her weak sister's head and how she regains her own love and is rewarded for her long struggle against evil and despair are vividly unfolded in this unusually strong photoplay.

Crane Wilbur.

Crane Wilbur, for several years the representative male star of the Pathe American company, and for the last year exploited as the hero in "The Perils of Pauline," has left the employ of Pathe Freres and is at present ponsidering the offers of several prominent film manufacturers who would like to add his name to their list of stars. Mr. Wilbur severs his business relations with Pathe Freres with the kindest of feelings. His contract with the company has terminated with the last installment of "Pauline," which is now completed. Crane Wilbur has been with Pathe Freres nearly four years, never having appeared in pictures under the direction of any other company, it was in their releases that he gained his reputation and nation-wide popularity.

NATIONAL CONGRESS MOTHERS AND PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS

Letter From State President. In order that our department may contain things of interest to the stateat-large, I earnestly request each district vice president, as well as the presidents of the various parent-teacher associations and Mothers clubs, to send their reports to the state chairman of the publicity committee just after their meetings. These reports should give the work accomplished through the difforent committees, as well as the programs that have been arranged. The work of your association will inspire and stimulate other associations to reater effort.

Never in the history of our great organization have we had more enthusiasm than now. Your president is receiving calls to visit different sections to organize parent-teacher associations and to assist in better babies contests. These two departments seem to be creating a state-wide interest, and they are all-inclusive. The better babies are all-inclusive. The better babies contest and exhibit cares for the child until school age, where the parent-teacher associations begins and continues through graduation.

It might be well to mention the fact that for better babies, work begins with parental influences and then with the care of the physical nature of the child in infancy. This includes food, clothing, sleep bathing, toys, exercise, fresh air, habits, diseases, care of the eyes, hair, scalp, mouth, skin, nails and Child Hygiene and Sanitation.

The work of the Parent-Teacher as-sociation is as broad as we wish to construe the meaning. Every depart-ment included in the national and state ment included in the national and state work is inculcated in each of these associations. The individual club can work as many or as few of these departments as they see fit, but I sincerely hope every association will have the department of child hygiene and sanitation. I believe every mother is vitally interested in promoting good health for the community as well as for the home.

It is a well understood fact that each individual association has its own prob-

It is a well understood fact that each individual association has its own problems that must be solved and in a manner befitting the community in which it is located and by the association and its officers. Each association is an individual one, and its government is entirely in its own hands, hand-icupped neither by the state or national. But each is a part of the whole, to make up one grand organization, whose sole purpose is the welfare of the child for the present and future generations. Now, let me urge every mother who is not a part of this body to join the nearest parent-teacher association in her district. If you have no organizanearest parent-leacher association her district. If you have no organization consult your principal of schools and organization. If you don't feel equal to forming an association, write your district vice president for help. Every member of a parent-teacher association of school receives. Every member of a parent-teacher association of church or school receives a membership card, stating the aims and purposes of the national body, when they send in their list of members to the state secretary, accompanied with the 10 cents per capita for each member. These names are sent to the national office, where they are registered and kept. In this manner it is possible to know the membership of each state.

What the National Does. Five cents per capita is forwarded with the list of names, so you see the national only receives 5 cents from each member. Let me say here that I am frequently asked, "What do I get in return for the 10 cents I send from the country own association." First let me my own association." First, let me explain that it is not a power that is so subtle that you feel you are being bonefited, but it is a real fact. The national furnishes your means to supply each of the district vice presidents with amount necessary to extend the work in her district. This by far more than we receive from the state. The national you see, gives us in return more than they receive from us. Then we have the inner consciousness of knowing that we are using our best effort toward bettering the conditions for the children of our state. We may have laws that are adequate for the protection of children, but if mothers, real and universal, are not interested in the children of the community, will these laws always be effective?

While we have accomplished much, ret we need the support of many more organizations than we now have in or-der to carry out what we have underder to carry out what we have undertaken. If every mother would use her influence toward raising the age of consent, how long would it be until this present law would be changed? We read what other states have done, and everything is possible for Georgia that has been accomplished elsewhere. What we need is a united motherhood, all working for the one great purpose—the welfare of our children.

I stand ready to help in any district that specially needs my services, and let me again ask you to assist me in our state work by giving our department the news from your association or mothers' club just after each meeting. Please send the same to our chairman, address at top of page. Cordially yours, MRS. HOWARD FAYNE, State President.

North Avenue Association.

North Avenue Association.

The things undertaken by the North Avenue Parent-Teacher association, and that were carried through, mean much to the city-at-large as well as our particular district. Under the leadership of Mrs. George Haugh, the old Ponce de Leon park was converted into a summer playground for the children of that district. No one except the ladies of this district know how much work is required to accomplish all the things that this organization has accomplished. More than 675 children were enrolled during the summer at this playground. The average daily attendance was something over 200.

The city also provided protection for the children, and the mothers were there daily to assist the children in games. A graphophone was furnished by our Parent-Teacher association, and this gave the children apportunity for dancing.

Mrs. Haugh, who has worked so untringly for this playground, was mable to attend our recent meeting, much to the regret of our association. At our last meeting, Mrs. W. D. Harwell presided. The afternoon was devoted to talks on the new system. Miss Smile gave a most interesting talk on the grading and the time required for the children to do their work. This was very timely, for the mothers were anxious to anderstand these changes.

Mr. Liebman, one of the patrons of the school, has recently contributed to the boys' yard 2 drinking fountain, a memorial to his little son, who passed away during the summer vacation.

Gloves are an ever welcome gift, the more fastidious the woman is the happier she is to receive gloves as presents. Fownes' gloves in fact need not be emphasized. They are real kid, perfect workmanship and dressy in appearance, besides being the most durable and economical gloves known to the trade. There is no substitute for them in the kid glove field.

Of course women who know them will have none other. Fortunately we are able to offer them in black, white and tan, Paris point embroidered, also three rows heavily stitched, in 2-clasp styles.

THE RICH MAN AND

HIS CIVIC OBLIGATION. One of the primary rules of life is that a man never gets more out of it than he pats .in.

By the same reasoning, the more a man gets out of life, or the more he gets out of a community, the more he is under obligation to that community.

The parallel applies with force that is unshakable to the bond issue for the permanent standardization of the schools of Atlanta is fortunate in its rich men.

The summons of civic duty finds them, as a class, with an ever-ready response.

There are, of course, exceptions, as there are exceptions in all classes.

There is the constitutional tight-wad who guards his accumulations with the vigilance of a miser, and who is a bear on any improvements that contemplate the expenditure of a penny even though he also is to be a beneficiary. Seldom openly, generally by stealth, he is a vigorous opponent of anything resembling a bond issue.

Fortunately, there are few of his tribe in this community. The atmosphere does not seem to agree with them. There is something in the very air of Atlanta that inspires the broader view and the more

It is not to the exception, but to the rule, among rich men in Atlanta that The Constitution speaks when it expresses confidence that they will heartly support the bond issue for the school system and for other fundamental purposes.

Last week there was the unusual spec tacle of the Atlanta Federation of Trades 'single-shotting" in its commendation of a newspaper, The Constitution, for the bond campaign.

There was cause for that action.

The Federation of Trades comes as near speaking mass sentiment as any other organization in Atlanta.

The masses recognize that unless radical relief is applied before next September the schools of this city, the system that has achieved prestige over a career of 40 years, will reach an impasse. Not only can they advance no farther, but there is obvious danger they will be compelled to recede.

It is in the face of this crisis that the men whose labor is so important a contributing factor to the reputation and progress and destiny of this city make their demands in terms that are unequivocaland justifiable.

The Constitution is sure the men of property and wealth in Atlanta will take a similar view of the situation.

A standardized school system is, first, to their financial and personal advantage.

For whatever makes Atlanta a city more worth living in creates wealth in Atlanta. Then it must be remembered that the schools of Atlanta are among the most democratic in the country. They absorb the child of the poor man and the rich man, and turn out as the finished product—the well equipped Atlantan.

Fortunes are made by the collective ac-

We owe something to the men and women who help make them.

That is axiomatic

No one plans to thrust a bond issue on the market at the present moment.

It will be some time before the issue can even be authorized.

But it should be to the interest of all to dispose of the preliminaries, so that when bonds can be marketed to the best advantage no time shall be lost.

The council committee that meets this week has its course charted before it. The only question is as to terms, and those may safely be left to its judgment.

TAFT IS RIGHT.

In a recent address at Somerville, Mass., former President Taft told his audience that there ought to be some way to protect the federal government against the present power of the single state to involve all its sisters in trouble with a foreign power. Mr. Taft said that such a provision would be among the foremost measures for prevention of war, so far as this country is concerned.

The former president had in mind, of course, California and possibly New Mexico and Arizona. These three states figured in international friction during his administration, California especially. Right now we are getting a dose of the ability of a state or two to pull the rest of us into hot water, with regard to firing across the Mexican border. Of course, the menace to life and property thus created is not to be tolerated, but there ought to be some way to adjust it without imbroiling the whole

In the case of California the illustration was a perfect one. Here was a problem peculiar to one state, or at least acute in one state only. Even then the situation had not reached a crisis and appeared to be receding rather than becoming aggravated. Yet demagogy and incendiary racial prejudice reared on its hind legs and during three administrations threatened to involve the whole country. Patient diplomacy at Washington, the whole truth of which has never been written, averted a crisis. But no credit was due to the forbearance and thoughtfulness of our fellow-Americans in California.

If the state is to call on the nation when it is confronted by another nation, which was the case on the Pacific slope. then it follows inexorably that the nation should have some primary rights, at least in the matter of consultation. If the civil war settled anything beside the issue of slavery, it settled the supremacy of the central government. That holding, the right of the single state to jeopardize, much less infringe, treaty rights is so slight as to belong in the realm of metaphysical speculation. .

Fortunately, the states seem voluntarily to be coming to an understanding of their relation to the central power. It is possible that the most satisfactory process of adjustment will be that of natural events rather than of law.

A DIPLOMAT IN KHAKI.

Returning to his Kansas home for a visit the other day, and, looking out of the train window at the rolling acres, General Fred Funston expressed the wish that he had had sense enough to stay in his Kansas home."

Considering the abounding prosperity that has come to Kansas in the past few years, and the earned fame as an experiment station for the economic innovations of the nation, the lament of the general was well founded. It is probable that had he remained in Kansas upon a farm of medium size and addressed himself to the job of farming with fair energy, he would now be on the high road to wealth. As it is, he must look forward ultimately to the pay of a retired officer, and his reputation, as his chief material rewards.

At that, few men have had the opportunity as has Funston to serve his country and capitalized it with such signal and modest success. One may or may not think that the expedition to Vera Cruz was a march up and down the hill. But as to Funston's part in it, and the credit that is due him, there can be no mistake in the mind of the most partisan. The job of occupying Vera Cruz and administering it required a blend of the soldier, the diplomat and the administrator. Funston displayed all three faculties with rare efficiency. He was, necessarily, committed to the Wilson policy of "watchful waiting." He had to hold his men in check. The slightest flaw in administration, the briefest departure from delicate tact with suspicious Mexicans of all factions, and he would have brought a hornet's nest about his ears and, incidentally, the ears of his

That he completed his assignment with no untoward incident and left with the anparent friendship of all the warring contingents is a rare tribute to the personality of the man. Sometimes we wonder if the American diplomat in khaki is not more efficient than the diplomat in evening suit and with a string of university degrees after his name.

THE SIGN OF THE SEAL.

Americans, and southerners especially, are this Christmas called upon to meet an unprecedented array of appeals to their hearts and purses. In the midst of these petitions, the call of the Christmas seal, the little red stamp sold for funds to fight tuberculosis, should not be forgotten.

In Atlanta the street sale of the stamps started last Thursday and will run one week. In addition, they can be bought at almost any of the stores. Each day of the week's campaign, some well-known woman of Atlanta is to be in charge and the effort is to be to push the sale with vigor.

The European war has come, is with us and will go. Tuberculosis has been with the race as long as memory runs, is here in tragic profusion and shows no radical sign of receding.

Money spent for Christmas seals is money spent for self-protection, for a health policy for one's self and family, to put the matter on purely selfish grounds. Tuberculosis is among the most communicable of diseases. We meet it everywhere, and it does not often convey such a warning that we may go on guard against it. The surest protection is education and gradual elimination, and both methods require money and lots of it.

In Atlanta the work has progressed encouragingly. Educational publicity, free clinics and the sanitarium are making an appreciable impression upon the death rate and, what is equally important, the rate of spreading. But in its very nature the campaign is one which requires constant feeding, incessant watchfulness, carrying troops into new territory, so to speak, keeping public sentiment at concert pitch and preventing it from relapsing into ineffectual maudlinism.

That is something of the scope of the work that is represented by the Christmas seal. Nominally, the movement is a philanthropic one. At bottom, its motives are essentially those based on economics and self-preservation.

THE FARMER THE PIVOT.

If further proof were needed of the fact that the farmer is the pivot of the whole business and economic machine, it is found in a recent and obscure little dispatch from 'Arkansas. It was related that cotton was moving more freely, being more freely disposed of in that territory. As a logical and inevitable corollary, the dispatch continued that railroad shops that long had been shut down were open in consequence.

The farmer pays the merchant. The merchant pays his country banker. The country banker pays his city banker. Oil percolates through every part of the business machine and it is the farmer that applies the oil.

The benefit comes back to him. For these men in Arkansas, restored to employment in the railroad shops, will be customers of the farmer; they will increase the spending capacity of the community. Whatever does that reaches right back every time to the producer, who is the farmer.

It has taken the farmer some weeks to learn his responsibility and his part in the current crisis. He has about found himself at both angles. The movement of cotton is one indication. The general liquidation of debts another. The increasing easing off of tension in the country another, and not unimportant one,

SWINGING TO SANITY.

Singularly, and with an almost unani mous voice, the press of the country hails the Missouri referendum on the full crew bill as one of the most conclusive signs that the era of baiting the railroads has passed. The bill required that certain extra trainmen be used on trains, the services of which would have been absolutely superfluous to safety or service, as testified by experts, but which would have cost the carriers of the state $500,000 a year. According to the Missouri law, the bill went to a referendum vote before becoming effective.

A significant feature is that the farmers. generally the first target of the demagogue, voted almost solidly against the bill. The cities went against it heavily as a rule, and the support accorded it was negligible.

Had the bill been offered for popular vote five or even three years ago there is little question it would have carried with a whoop. We have just emerged from the decade of the demagogue, during which one of the chief assets of that gentry was harassing the carriers. It is true that the carriers brought much of the trouble on their own heads by vicious financial and operating practices extending over a long period. The "public be d-d" motto has not yet been forgotten. But even after the railroads showed unmistakable signs of regeneration, the demagogues refused to let up on them. They had discovered a good thing, a fine vote-catcher, and they were minded to ride it the last mile.

The reaction was, of course, inevitable, People sooner or later discovered that even after the railroads had cleaned house they had difficulty in financing their deals, or in pleasing near-statesmen because the nearstatesmen were thriving on the railroad errors of the past. During this period it grew into a superstition that the people could always be relied upon to approve when the railroads were "swatted," even after it was discovered that "swatting" the railroads sometimes meant "swatting" the

The people of Missouri have dispelled that unhealthy hallucination. The Constitution believes their verdict is typical. The railroads have been put on their good behavior. But we doubt if they need fear an early recurrence of the day of baiting.

No simplified spelling for those Russian names.. You still have to take them at one big mouthful.

Only Santa Claus the children don't believe in is the one that has whiskers to burn.

The kaiser's cold got by the censor. Probably because the censor didn't want it.

Of course there's a Santa Claus. There are the world-chimneys to prove it.

There is hope. Old Move-we-adjourn is still on the job in congress.

The Holland Letter

Substantially the first words which were spoken by Sir George Paish after his arrival in England, after two months' visit in the United States, were the assertion that if the United States wants to get the world trade which England, France and Germany have lost because of the war, American capital must be prepared to lend money to other nations whose trade the United States is anxious to get. That is what Sir George is reported by those in this city who met him to have said in an informal way before he took the steamer for Europe ten days ago He is among those who are convinced that trade now follows the loans, whereas it used to be said that trade follows the flag, and has always been said since the rall transportation began in the United States that trade follows the rails. No one can be brought in touch with leaders in the financial district without learning that they are already con-templating the making of loans to other nations. Possibly the United States may in-directly lend to France, although the rigid attitude of neutrality which is now maintained by the government would undoubtedly make a direct loan impracticable.

Within a few days, loans have been made to Sweden and to Panama. There are some evidences that one or two of the South American countries are ready to approach the United States with intent to negotiate considerable loans here. Eussia has already established a large credit in the United States, although exactly where it is and who are the representatives of Russia are subjects veiled in some mystery. American manufacturers who have been selling heavily to Russia recently received pay in cash, but the payments were made in such manner as cover the transactions exactly as cashiers' checks are sometimes used for the purpose of protecting the person who bought check of that kind. However, Russia has not been able to secure in New York precisely the kind of open banking facilities which it was reported she at one time contemplated she is serving her purpose quite as well. She is sending gold regularly to the Bank of England. The belief in the Wall street district is that the bank now is carrying between fifty and sixty millions in gold to the credit of Russia. No doubt a considerable portion of this gold will be used to facilitate payments for the heavy purchase Russia is now making in the United States. There seems to be an impression that Russia, rather than France or Great Britain, will be found to have been the largest purchaser of American commodities during the entire period of the war. After peace comes, the probabilities are considered good that Russia may attempt to borrow a large amount of money from the United States. If that be done, much of the money will be invested in repairing the damage done by war, and this will entail the purchase of many commodities in the United Financing the War. How far removed from the truth or the event were the predictions of some of the ablest men of the United States a few months ago is now disclosed by the actual situation upon the continent of Europe and Great Britain. Some of the ablest of our men of finance felt justified in saying as late as April of this year that it was impossible that a great war should take place. because the world's great financiers would see to it that this be prevented. One of these financiers stated that war would have taken place at the time of the friction be-tween Germany and France on account of the Morocco incident if Germany had not suddenly discovered that she owed very lange sums to Great Britain, and that these debts would be called if she persisted in her attitude toward France at that time. This illustration was used not in any way to criticise Germany, but to set forth the influence which the world's high finance has in world

So, also, late in July one of the ablest men in American business life, a man of unusually accurate judgment, declared that Bermany would not care to force the issue to active war, because if she did the maginficent commerce which she had built up yould be destroyed, temporarily at least.

Now there begins to be a better understanding of the fact that there is something nore powerful than high finance in world affairs. There have been two financial events which have occurred since the war began that have served to change the view that high finance represented by a few men can control world affairs. These events were he wonderful celerity with which the great British war loan was absorbed by the people of Great Britain recently and the equally vonderful rapidity with which the neople of Fermany accepted a loan as high as $2,000,-000,000 and now appear ready to accept another. There is not a financial institution in New York of international association in which the extraordinary facility with which these popular loans have been made has not been the subject of much comment. There is general admission that they have been absorbed by the public far more easily than was presumed in the early days of the war to be possible

Where High Finance Loses Out. The great bankers may possess billions and, acting together, control more billions recognized that the resource of countries like Germany and Great Britain and the savings accumulated by the peoples of those countries are something against which high finance cannot stand. Then, too within the past fifteen or twenty years the mobilization and utilization of credit have that there can be a higher development of this resource. It has been recently stated by high authority in this city that the credit rganizations established in recent times make possible enormous payments on government bonds to be extended over a very ong tme. In this way the public can make heavy subscriptions to national loans with out being compelled to sell property. The proposition is put in this way: If a citizen nas to sacrifice property so that he can buy to do it, but if he can use his credit to buy bonds the interest on the bonds will carry his own indebtedness, and the government in turn, can use bank credit for its disburse ments; so that in this way the process o financing a war is reduced to its easies factor.

The importance of this to the United States will not be necessary for persons in Great Britain or on the continent of Europe possess good American accurities to sell them and to use the money to pay for subscriptions for their own government loans. This means that in case the New York stock exchange be opened for regular business of when it is opened for regular business, the United States will not be called upo absorb any considerable part of the five hillions now invested by those who live own sayings and resources should enable us to meet any reasonable demand for loans made by other nations. And it will be in great measure upon loans of that kind that the United States must rely for maintaining and increasing the trade with other coun tries which the European war has made

A HOMILY ON CHIVALRY.

(Editorial in The New York Sun.)
The archbishop of York does well to deplore and reprove "the gross and vulgar" abuse of the German emperor in the British press, especially the comic press. He does justice to Wilhelm II.; more than that, to "the great German people," of whom he begged that the British public and newspapers "speak with admiration." In short, because one nation is at war with another, why do noncombatants in both nations revile and lie about one another? Why shouldn't a nation be a gentleman? The name being changed, the homily of the archbishop applies to every country new fighting. Well, fight your best, but you don't have to shriek and fall a-cursing like a very

There is no hationality about the fury and billingsgate of war. The United States is a good performer in the noncombatant charivari. How the north used to hate Jeffercharivari. How the north used to hate Jefferson Davis! And it is a fact that there were persons who rejoiced in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln.

We are all "miserable sinners." When there's fighting going on, what a lot of par-ticularly mean sinners turns up! And yet they are well-meaning people and esteem themselves to be patriots.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN ENGLAND.

(From The New York Tribune.) Some time before the war broke out The London Times reported a list of British howlers. Here are a few samples of these witticisms—unconscious products of the cruel "examination" period:

"The imperfect is used in French to express a future action in time which does not "A great deal of butter is imported from cause Danish cows are more enterprising than ours and have received a technical education superior to that given them in England." "The courage of the Turks is explained by the fact that a man who has several wives is more disposed to face death bravely than he who has only one." "In the British empire the sun is setting all the time." One wonders, smiling at the naive paragraphs of the schoolboy, whether he is fight-to day in France, learning at first hand something about that French imperfect expressive of "a future action in time which does not happen at all," or pondering in the trenches on the British empire whose sunset he is helping to prevent?

Don't censure the boy whose hands are discolored with green walnut stain. Any boy that will put in his idle time after school hours pounding green walnuts with stout club, separating the hull from ithidden treasure, deserves a word of praise and a word of encouragement. We've a warm place in our heart for such a boy. The green walnut is an unfailing sign that he has ambition and energy and that he has exercised these startling qualities by looking after No. 1. He may have stored walnuts for his own use during the winter or he may he disposes of them-the strong point in his favor being that he got them and has stained hands to prove it. If in after years he tackles life's tasks without fear of getting his hands soiled we'll wager he tastes of

> AN OKLAHOMA FRANKLIN. (From The Kansas City Journal.)

Paul Parrott, a Checotah boy, has broken the record in this part of the country so far as kites are concerned, having recently constructed one 14 feet long and 9 feet wide, which requires a cable to hold it when flying, according to a Checotah dispatch to The Oklahoman. After experimenting with the kite, the owner conceived the idea of a para-chute attachment and made one corresponding to the kite in size. He wanted a passenger to test its carrying ability. A cat seemed to be the most available thing, which was fastened securely in a net to the para-chute and sent up with the kite. Though the A green Christmas is predicted. ### THE CRUISER.

BY GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

The cruiser is a predatory craft with a thin skin and a huge set of engines. It is built for the purpose of getting to places in a tremendous hurry and of removing from said places with even greater speed.

The cruiser is built of steel, and carries plenty of guns. However, they are not large guns. They are only large enough to tear an ocean liner in two at one shot-not large enough to be of any use in a real war. A hattleship would bark once at a cruiser and then spend three days hunting for the remains, if it could get within reach. But the business of the cruiser is to remain exceedingly aloof from the hostile battleship. For this purpose the modern cruiser is composed largely of engines. It can travel faster than a train on a railroad operated on a "safety first, speed nowhere" schedule. Thirty miles an hour is not fast for an agile cruiser when it is headed for safety under full steam. Germany and England have cruisers which are as large as battleships, and, which travel 35 miles an hour. The Goeben is one of them. The entire English and French fleets hunted her up and down the Mediterranean, but she dodged the whole collection and is now placidly blowing up

Russian gunboats under a Turkish flag.
The United States also has many cruisers, but they do not travel 30 miles an hour. An American cruiser is built for comfort, not for speed. It has always been the policy of the eminent fossils in charge of the Amer-ucan navy to build war vessels about five knots slower than the prevailing style abroad. This adds to their safety in making it impossible for them to catch up with a hostile vessel and provoke a fight.

The cruiser's business is to destroy the merchant marine general all-round scrapping while the battleships remain tenderly guarded at home. Over one hundred crussers of all nations have been sunk since the present war began. while the battleships are still doing duty as dend of winter when not a soul is hear the inn. Even the caretaker and his wife go to the inn only one or twice a week.

The main body of the play, or the play within the play, is in two acts. A prologue precedes, an epilogue succeeds the concrete play itself. At the rise of the curtain following the prologue, the author's seclusion is found to be insecure. There is more than one key to Baldpate Inn, although Magee is told he has the sole key to the inn As he sets to work on his story he hears a key grating in the door. A young man, armed and desperate, enters. He places $200,000 in the safe, the first act in a franchise bribery plot. The intruder is tricked into a room and locked there but escapes by jumping from a window.

Immediately enters a charming young newspaper woman and her chaperon, the one trailing graft and the other seeking to protect the man she loves from being bribed. Comes next an adventuress, straight out of the vellowest yellow-backed novel ever written, to double-cross her confederates and steal the $230,000. Next appears the "hermit-shost" of Baldpate mountain, and in exciting succession the corrupt mayor, the ex-convict who is to share the boode and the franchise-buying capitulist.

How in a deft manner, the author makes each and every one of the intruders do his bidding gives a thrill worth while. How finally the tables are turned on him gives another thrill. And interspersed are a hundred laughs, Shots ring out. The police arrive and the situation seems hopelessly complicated.

Five keys to Baldpate are in the hands of intruders. The syth in the quthor's pocket, and the seventh in the hands of the owner of the inn, who appears on the scene at the opportune moment. There's a quick explanation, and you suppose the play is done. But it isn't. The real ending comes is the

The story of the play is so claver that to tell it in detail would detract from the enjoyment of witnessing the play. Suffice it to say, it concerns an author of "best sellers" who makes a wager of $5,000 with the New York owner of Baldpate Inn, that he can write a 10,000 word story complete in every detail in the span of twenty-four hours. Magee, the nuthor, selects Baldpate Inn as the place for his labors, because it is a summer hotel set upon a lonely mountain, far from any city. The time of action is in the dead of winter when not a soul is near the inn. Even the caretaker and his wife go to the inn only one or twice a week.

Miss Haswell is remembered here for her fine work as leading woman with Otis Skinner in "For the Honor of the Family," and for her excellent Shakesperean acting. "Potash & Perlmutter."

"Potash & Perlmutter."

[At the Atlasta.]

Ever since "Potash & Perlmutter" took New York by storm and began a record-breaking run at the Cohan theater there, managers and playrights have been trying to analyze this remarkable dramatic production in the hope of discovering just what litereray ingredients brought about its remarkable success. "If such a play could do such enormous business why couldn't another just like it do equally well?" they asked, but all the expert dissection in the world falled to reveal the divine spark of success, and, like "Humpty Dumpty," although one might easily enough take "Potash & Perlmutter" apart "all the king's horses and all the king's men' couldn't put it together again to make a duplicate success. "Potash & Perlmutter" is unique. No play has ever before attained such immediate and enormous popularity and the announcement that Manager A. H. Woods will present it at the Atlanta December 31, January 1 and 2, is sure to be welcomed by the theatergoers who have long been awaiting a visit from Mr. Montague Glass' famous characters.

PLEDGES PAID TO STATE SCHOOL EDUCATORS' IDEALS ARE OUR IDEALS

No difficulty is experienced by bodies of workers in doing their work when they are assured of the goal. And for assured success our leaders must be intelligent, practical, experienced and wise.

Georgia club women are fortunate to co-ordinate their educational work with that of the state school officials. They are leading us, their ideals are becoming our ideals. Through them we are learning that the community conditions are of vital concern in solving the school problems; we are learning that training the child for his everyday duties is of far greater importance than the ordinary lessons found in school books; we are learning, that the physical side of life is of paramount importance to all others, and for this reason sanitation and hygiene are being stressed; we are learning that the right kind of teaching awakens the child's mind to the possibilities about him, and that training of this kind makes him alert, resourceful and ready for action; we are learning that by teaching practical agriculture and household arts, and that by bringing together the home and school interests, through the organization of corn, pig and canning clubs, we are serving best the large army of rural school children; we are learning that in order to get hold of and benefit the child, the parents' co-operation is essential and that by making the school a social center is the best solution to that problem.

We are learning that the cultivation of the beautiful has its recognized value in character-building. School houses and grounds for that reason are made attractive, the planting of flowers, shrubs and trees is made a part of

All that represents the best in education we hope to absorb and put into practical use at our Tallulah Falls Industrial school.

We also told them wis we stress industrial officiation, our desire being to make life less difficult for their children than it had been for them. We plan later inviting the parents of the day pupils in groups to meals. There are many problems which they alone can help us to

Tallulah Should Be Made Model Industrial School

My Dear Madam President Seven, years ago the club women of Georgia, by unanimous action, voted to center their altruistic endeavor upon the Tallulah Falls Industrial school and the Student Aid foundation.

We have been engaged in the betterment of the rural schools for years. Has not the time arrived when we, as loyal and patriotic women, should give to our state a concrete example of our highest educational ideals in our own federation school at Tallulah? Shall we not make it THE MODEL INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL of Georgia?

Recently a great opportunity was presented to your board of directors by the state superintendent of education Through him two of the state's best supervisors were assigned to our school to advise and direct its management. In the early fall Miss Celeste Farrish and Mr. M. L. Duggan completed a survey of the school—like made a diagnosis of its needs. On the club page I wish to call your attention to recommendations made by them.

Only eighty clubs out of the 250 belonging to the state federation have pledged anything toward the support of the school.

Has your club made its pledge this year for your school maintenance? The finance burden is too great for any one person to be compelled to bear alone. Let me urge you, Madam President, to appoint a Tallulah Falls Industrial school chairman, whose duty it shall be to arouse entiusiasm among the individual members and secure funds for the school.

Many Recommendations Made For School at Tallulah Falls

Recommendations made by Miss Parrise and Mr. Duggan are

1. Two teachers, in addition to a matron, are needed at present, but these should be muture, skillful, experienced, consecrated and efficient. One of these should be skilled in primary, the other in grammar grade work. One should be able to teach sight-singing and should have the supervision of the games and the plays the other should be able to carry on and to teach some of the industries. The matron seems a necessity. Should be provided ing of certain industries, such as poultry raising, gardening, fruit growing, canning and the usual home activities.

2. The matron and two teachers should be employed and paid for twelve months of the year and at least two months of the should always be on the ground.

3. A distinct outline of the industrial work to be done in each grade should

The Dixie chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, at Eatonton, Ga., met for their regular meeting December 2 at the home of their president, Mrs. A. S. Reid. A very interesting program was carried out, the subject for discussion being the life of Alexander Stephens, and we all felt an inspiration given from the study of the life of this loyal, courageous son of Georgia.

The program was interspersed with music, an instrumental solo by Miss Julia Wingfield and a vocal solo by Miss Roberta Sparks, "Sing Me a Song of the South."

A contest was then enjoyed, Mrs. J. L. Williams winning first prize, a leather handbook of "Toasts." After all business is attended to, the different fruits of the fall were served. Let each member, remember that our next meeting will be with Mrs. J. B. Walton on the first Wednesday in November.

No. 1 Madison avenue.

Georgia women are already enlisted in this work; since the names of towns sending boxes last week, word has come that Blakely and Bainbridge have both sent boxes. We want to hear from others who are responding to the call for help. We must help Belgium or that nation will starve. Six millions of people are in a desperate plight. King Albert says that "despite all that can be done, the suffering during the winter will be terrible."

My Daughters, this is a year apart in the history of our country. Americal stands out in bold relief, a Christian nation at peace.

the history of our country. Americal stands out in bold relief, a Christian nation at peace.

The European war has affected every portion of the globe, and America has felt the shock, perhaps more perceptibly in the south than in any other section. We are not in a position to expend large amounts of money on our state work, but this fact does not prevent research work, the compiling of history and legends concerning our communities, the establishing of valuable facts that would add much to the interest of our states history.

Naturally, our hearts go out to the broken-hearted women of other lands, and a good share of our money will go to the Red Cross and on the ships that carry clothing and supplies to foreign shores. This is as it should be Having so recently been among these people and knowing the desperate position they have occupied even five weeks after the beginning of the war, it is quite easy to picture the great needs that must exist in all sections attarfour months of such terrible warfare. And the end is not yet.

The pope of Rome attributes the war to lack of mutual sympathy and understanding, opposition to authority, and the greed of self. Self-aggrandizement.

to lack of mutual sympathy and understanding, opposition to authority, and the greed of self. Self-aggrandizement.

There never was greater need for the work of a peace committee than the need that confronts us now. Mrs. J. T. Carithers, of Athens, is chairman of this committee. We do not hope to stem the tide which is destroying a great continent, but we can awake to a realization that we can prevent the destruction of our own America by creating and maintaining peace in our hearts, and within our borders. The same spirit, that is wrecking such destruction across the waters has its equivalent in the spirit of envy. jealousy, suspicion, pride of position, desire to undermine, untruthfulness and maine that go hand in hand with the love of self. My daughters, can we not blot self out of existence and rise superior to all impulses that belittle, and as true patriots work shoulder to shoulder for the greatest good to all? Let us live peace among our selves and while we memorialize every section of our great country and strive to carry in our hearts the prayer that she may be spared another terrible ordeal and that never again will her soil be bathed in the blood of her sons. As I write, the dawn of Thanksgiving day is breaking, and as the sun shines above the horizon dispelling the shadowy night, crowning the hills with grandeur, flooding the city with golden rays, searching the highways my heart goes out to everyone of you in loving thought. May the coming vear hold in store for you many blessings, but may your greatest blessing be from the replication of good you may have done for others.

Truly we have much to be thankful for and we can unite with all our hearts in saying, "Our Good's in His heaven, all's well with the world."

Children Are Planning for Pretty Yard Next Spring.

We are grateful to the board of education for the two holidays we had.
We enjoyed them very much, and all came back ready for hard work again.
The third grade won both the spelling and attendance star last week, but the fourth grade took the spelling star away from them this week.
We hope to have a very pretty yard next spring, for we will soon have all our bulbs planted.
The fourth grade is very much interested in their elementary science, as Teachers and Classes.

Dr. Toepel, our physical training didector, supprised us by a visit Monday. He said he came because it was a rainy day and he could use our auditorium for the work of his department, but the clouds rolled away, the sun came out and he stayed to watch the ten classes of small children go and play their games out of doors, the was delighted with them, especially the game played by first A. "The Daisy Game," taken from their primer. The little girls were nodding daisies and each little boy picked a daisy, the children making a daisy chain, singing as they marched "One little, three little daisies," etc. He reported beautiful work in the sixth grade and fifth grade A and commended all the teachers and classes.

We are proud of the records being made in the throwing of the oat bag by seventh B.

Washington Seminary Pupils Honor Creator of "Uncle Remus"

By Elizabeth MacDonald.

Wednesday, the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris, was celebrated at Washington seminary in a most interesting fashion. Miss Wootten, head of the Carnegie library, and a former Washington seminary girl, talked most charmingly of our old kriend. She told us of his life as office boy, printer boy, reporter, and at last, writer. Of how he arranged schemes to frighten people, like an overgrown school boy, and of how be got a paralyzed man a postoffice appointment out of kindness of heart. We all enjoyed it from the

3D GRADE PUPILS AT STEWART AVE. WIN ATTENDANCE STAR

We are grateful to the board of education for our holidays last week. We enjoyed them very much and came back ready for hard work from now until our Christmas holidays.

The third grade had 100 in attendance last week, so won the attendance star. They also won a star for the highest average in spelling, but the fourth and second grades are working hard to take it away from them this week.

The rain stopped our work on our flower beds, but we hope to have all cur bulbs planted before long.

STATE ST. SCHOOL Pupils Greatly Enjoy the Exercises on "Arbor Day."

On last Friday, December 4, we celebrated Arbor day The small children learned that the trees are our very best friends, supplying us with food and shelter and making the earth a pleasant place on which to live. The first grades drow trees, and the teachers told them delightful tree storles.

Four of our upper classes had their exercises together. Miss Pitts talked to us about the origin of Arbor day. As far back as fifty years ago, it was suggested that the school children be interested in tree planting, but it was in 1872 that I. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, got the people of his state to set apart a day for this splendid work. During that year over a million trees were planted in Nebraska. Now almost every state in the union celebrates the day.

RAILROAD PRODUCES CHRISTMAS CHEER

A holiday banner of a handsome holly and poinsettia design extending season greetings to patrons of the Denver and Rio Grande and Western Pacific railroads has just made its appearance in all freight and ticket offices, depot waiting rooms, general offices, dining cars and Pullman sleepers on this system. This method of bringing Christmas cheer to the traveler was first adopted by this road a year ago, and the innovation was received so kindly by the traveling public that it was repeated again this year.

Valdosta, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Elder A. V. Simms, who has been pastor of the Valdosta Primitive Esptist church ever since the church was organized in this city eight or ten years ago, has resigned, and Elder J. M. Thomas has accepted the call to the pastorate. Elder Simms retains the pastorate of a number of churches in different sections of south Georgia, and will continue to reside in Valdosta. He is one of the ablest ministers of the Primitive faith, and his resignation as pastor here was received with regret.

CLASS FOOTBALL

Class football starts at Tech High Monday afternoon with gaines between the Seniors and Freshies, and Juniors and Sophs. This class football idea was originated by the Seniors just after the quarterly reports were given out. They were outraged at the gorey appearance of their reports and the su-perfluity of red marks, and hit upon perfluity of rea marks, and nit upon football as a plan to revenge themselves on the merciless profs. They promptly challenged the faculty to a game, and with equal promptness the faculty developed a chronic case of trasted redal extrapilies. frosted pedal extremities.

faculty developed a chronic case of frosted pedal extremities.

Every day for the past week the different grades have been out practicing and all seem confident of having a winning team. The second and third grades have been running signals in fine shape and will certainly make the fur fly when they hook up.

The Senior class has had but one practice, but any casual observer could tell at a glance that we just oozed class. About half the bunch turned out in full dress suits, but you could tell that they could play swell if they wanted to, and had some clothes and a little experience. We got along in tine shape until Lively attempted to prove that the kinetic energy of a forward pass in ergs was numerically equal to the potential work required to extract Hope's hands from his pockets during signal practice, expressed in joules.

The Seniors have only sixteen in the class, but some stars are rapidly developing. Ferbleman and Kunlansky are showing up well at the halves and Bridwell is starring at center.

Varsity basketball practice is humming along out at Crystal Palace, but will soon have the use of our new court now nearing completion.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

"A Day at the Union Station' Big Success—Want It in Other Cities.

So successful was the play, "A Day at the Union Station, given on last Saturday at the Atlanta theater, under the auspices of the United Commercial Saturda, at the Atlanta theater, under the auspices of the United Commercial Travelers, of this city, that the promoters have received many requests to repeat the performance. Calls have also been made from neighboring cities asking the U. ('T's to bring the play to their cities for a performance. The officers of the travelers are considering the matter, and will probably take one or two trips out of the city, or will repeat the performance here for some of the many charities now asking for aid.

A roview of the play at this time is unnecessary, suffice it to say that at both the matinee and night performances a large house greeted the player, and it was the consensus of opinion that the play firminshed more genuins enjoyment than any similar local entertainment ever given in the city. Mrs. Charles A Sheidon, Sr. under whose direction the play was given, deserves much of the credit for the big success. She had carefully drilled a large number of the characters in the play and with a nucleus of some of the very best local talent she trained the more timid to perform their perts like veterans. More than seventy-five people took an active part in the performance, and each presentment as given with care and clock-like precision—no dras, no jar. It was a great performance, till in all, and the receipts have gone to help some of the worthy charities of the city.

If the travelers decide to repeat, they can certainly depend upon another full house, judging from the numerous kind things that have been said about Saturday's neiformances

100 Years After His Downfall

When Napoleon had everthrown the kingdom of Prussia in 1806 and driven out of Germany in 1807 the Russian army that came to the rescue of the Prussians, his foce sucd for peace. Then there took place at Tileit, near the Russian frontier, one of the most dramatic scenes in history, when the French emperor and the Russian czar sat down on a raft in the middle of a river, with their armies drawn up on opposite shores, and divided the earth between themserves. That is the scene Mr. Morgan, who visited Tilsit last year, reconstitutes and sets before his readers today, enabling them to see Napoleon at the height of his power and almost catch the accents of his voice as he talks with Queen Louise. The story of the last years and the death of that unfortunate princess is also told.

The sword of Napoleon having in mine months cut its way like a scythe from end to end of Germany, his allied foes hoisted the white flag in the month of June, 1807.

The Russlans and Plusslans, who escaped from the lobster trap at Friedland, fought with one another to gain the lead in the wild tace for safety and did not pause until they had put the Niemen between them and the trumphant French. The Pressian king and queen, Frederick William and Louise, still at Memel, less than 60 miles from Tilsit, were hurriedly packing up for flight into Eussia, trusting to the hospitality of the czar, with whom they had so lately sworn never to make peace with Napoleon until they could dictate terms to him on the banks of the Rhine.

Nor did Alexander seem disposed to abandon his allies now that not a square mile of their kingdom remained to them. On the contrary, he talked only of preparing for another campaign, as after Austerlitz, and vowed he "would never stoop to Bonaparte."

The Babes of Belgium WILL IRWIN They Call Him the Musical Nut, And He's Willing to Admit It

J. Edson Browne, Atlantan, Proves That a Song Writer Can Be a Regular Human Being.

By BRITT CRAIG.

They call him the "musical nut" and he grins. It's an apt title | He plays his own songs and writes them, words, music and all The only way you can keep him away from a piano is move

That is, if you move it far enough. He, himself, doesn't exactly know why he's wasting such artistic talent at a desk in the federal department of commerce. His only explanation is that he has a diploma from the law school in Columbig university and that he just naturalfollowed the diploma to his position in the federal building

He signs the government payroll, Edson R Browne

Browne is the most entertaining outlay of youngster you've ever seen. He has the vaudeville germ, but is afraid to divorce himself from his law job because he might not be able to get it back in event his audiences "went cold" on him Being young and inexperienced belind the footlamps, he suspects that at first he would hardly be able to work fast enough to keep them from walking out on him.

At a polite house parts, with just the gang, however, it's a different story. The musical nut is at the pinnacle of his glory

TWO OF HIS BEST SONGS.

You could classify him as a professional song writer and still maintain your integrity. One of his ballads has Jessamine" and his latest and greatest.
"Cotton Pickin Days," is being whistled on the streets, although it hasn't yet left the Feist publishing house, in which it is being printed.

"Cotton Pickin Days" is a song that promises to lift Browne from the obscurity of a desk in the federal building to the heights of song renown. It is as pretty a melody as you would care to hear and it was written around the waitime sentiment that threatens to drive the cotton fields from Dixie Browne was inspired to it by an editorial in The Constitution deploring the overabundance of cotton in the present crisis It goes like this

"Hard tymes comin on the old planta-Hard times comin' mighty soon Nigger's heart is feeling very weary 'Cause it's lost that old-time tune 'The master's leavin'

And we all are guerin'
For the days that are no more
Tho nelds of white now are gone from There's sorrow 'nound the cabin door.

Chorus "Goodbye to cotton pickin' days Goodbye to old plantation joys Goodbye to happy hours out in the field With mammy and her boys.

A pickin' cotton,
To the banjo's strumning

And the darkies humann With a smile on every lace There's no more harmonizm While the moon am risin'-Goodbye to cotton pickin' days

As your imagination entwined its flexible coils around this picture of a poetic and flowing-haired gentleman you saw him leaping from bed at mights as he roused from some rapturous dream state, and, forgetting in his daze of inspiration that the open andow and mere pajamas were conducive to penumonia, scribble fast and

Some had seen real, flesh-in-theblood song wittels—some hadn't There was much individual guessing, withal, on the mental, physical and personal specifications of the scheduled songster, when, at 9 15, the butler announced Mr. Browne.

And then came Browne

Instead of a frowsy haired, frock coated, wend looking artist who strode forward with conscious dignity, whose master fingers had written such an appealing melody as "Cotton Pickin' Days." there appeared in the door a diffident youth of 22 with a red necktie, a cowlick, and a lanky figure that suggested broomstreks. He said, "Howdy, folks," and asked where was the plano.

"You know," he said, "I have to get acquainted with the plano before I do anything else in strainge company That's the only way I can make myself known. My tongue streks to the roof of my mouth, but my fingers always itch to go."

Whereupon he proceeded to shove Howard Winburn aside on the plano bench and his fingers were uplifted over the ivolies when somebody whispered, "Kitchen"

THAT MAGIC WORD

"KITCHEN!" Leo Laney, a song expert, who was instrumental in introducing the Atlanta boy's creation to "Tin Pan" alley predicts that the song will create such a demand for Browne's writings that he will be forced from his federal building desk in order to keep up with the market

HE WRAPS HIMSELF AROUND A PIANO.

The Nut draped his lengthy limbs around several nether portions of the plano, and, with breezy abandonment that was infectious, showed just how much he felt at home at a plano, cutting loose a smile that invaded his ears. Then, with a syncopated, draggy sort of way, he began pounding out his best rag creation. best rag creation.

could not restrain her anxiety to know where the marvelous Browne had got his inspiration.

"Do tell us, won't you, how you ever manage to write such impossible stuff as music and to fix such catchy words to fit it." She was the unmarried young elf who had expected long hair and poetic eyes.

"Well, you see, I get so tired hammering away on a typewriter in the office that I just have to do something to relieve the tension. And I expect I inherited most of it. You know, somebody back in the ancestry was a black-smith who played tunes on blg and little anvils."

The assembly intuitively looked around for the wife. Naturally, she wasn't present.

"Yes," flared up a neighboring lady, "I see you're taking advantage of her absence to do a little knocking yourself."

DO THE FIGHTING.

DO THE FIGHTING.

'Let the Allies do the fighting, folks, and I'll play a little more harmony," with which Browne launched into another of his successes.

Let me see! I think it was 2.45 a m when he got through, and it was an accordion on which he was rendering the funeral march from Saul in lamentation of the fact that everybody had to go and the party was to end.

Since that time it has been my extreme pleasure to see the Browne in numerous and varied places. Only the other afternoon I dropped in on him scated at a piano playing 'Cotton Pickin' Days," while it was being sung by P. Harrower in the meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs at the Auditorium. The federation has adopted the song, and Browne has dedicated it to them.

Previous to that I had encountered.

As I said, I have seen him many times since—but there has always been a plano there!

Behind followed the rest of the refmobile horn, and the refugees would make way for the passage of a motor car loaded to capacity with the white-faced wounded. No child among them laughed or played; they were too weary for that; but no child cried. I was trying to have speech with these refugees, and finding them too nerveless to give any account of their adventures when an ambulance arrived.

A nurse and a physician descended. A woman rose from a distant group and joined them. She carried in her arms a bundle wrapped in rags. The slant of her back showed that the bundie contained a child-there is an ac-titude of motherhood which none can four dead, new-born babies.

It was the same story which one hears everywhere. The mothers were so reduced by privation that they had no milk of their own. As for cows' milk, it was not to be had for any money.

Add another picture, brought out by an American from Belgjum. He stood one morning by the back door of a German cook camp, watching a group of Belgian women glubbing through the trash-heap piled up behind the camp. All these women carried bables.

stricken Brussels, that gay, dainty, lively city in old times—the city whose smiling people called it petit Paris. The a bundle wrapped in a sheet. And between them they dragged by the hand a little girl, not more than six years old—half carried her, since now and then she raised her feet from the ground and let them support her.

It was plain to see why she lifted her feet. Her poor little shoes, heavy though they had been in the beginning, were worn clear through. Her clothes scene is the once busy, pleasant boule-vard Bischotsheim. A woman colbaby, surely not over 5 months old, has a pale, lead-colored skin. Its mouth is open as though set that way. Its eyes are closed

Two women of Brussels pass this unhappy group. They hurriedly ex-change some words, turn back to the woman on the beach. Then one stands guard while the other hastens for some milk and bread—such as is to be found in the Brussels of today. They force a little milk between the teeth of the mother. They let the baby drink. Unweaned though it is, it drinks as though it had never drunk otherwise.

To the face of the mother comes a few patches of color. She slowly re-covers until she is able to eat a bit of bread. The baby opens its mouth, drinks more greedily. "It has not fed since two days," the mother whispers. The mother tries to rise from the bench, but she cannot. The elder child drinks the milk that is left. It looks curiously at the piece of bread as if it did not know what it was. The mother forces it to eat. A clowd has gathered, murmuring This sight is not new, yet each time it draws a little crowd. The women in the nearest group followed the pantomime with their tearless, hopeless eyes.

They do not list the weak and helpicss who have dropped out from the pathetic caravans of refu-gees to perish along the edges of the roads. They do not take list of those who are beginning to die by hunger in stricken Belgium. And finally, they do not list these babes of Belgium, dropping off before their lives have fairly begun, because there is no milk. Let us view the situation in cold blood. Belgium is shut off from the world-ringed with steel. Her own food supply was used up long ago, either by the people or by their conquerors. The cattle were first of all to go; even in August I saw the Germans killing milch cows for rations. A cow or a small dairy herd is left here and there; but they are the exceptions. The supply of condensed wilk ran short long ago. Now milk is a necessity to most civilized children between the ages of one and two years. Some children, it is true, pull through, under exceptional circumstances of privation, without it, but these are the unusually sturdy; they stand apart from the rule. The average young child must have milk or he will die And there is no

Again, the suckling baby must have mother's milk or a substitute. There is, of course, no substitute to be had in Belgium and equally there is little mother's mulk.

Every woman knows that a civilized nursing mother must "keep up her strength" She must have nourishing food—in many cases special food. Every woman knows that a certain proportion of civilized mothers cannot feed their own babies even at cannot feed their own babies even at that.

Nourishing food—special food! The news which filters out of that locked, stricken country to the American com-mission for relief in Belgium makes a sarcasm and a mockery of those phrases In many, if not in most Belgian cities, the populace is down to one large baker's bun a day, issued by the municipal authorities. In some places the authorities have been able to supplement that ration by one bowl of cabbage soup a day. One bun and one bowl of cabbage soup a day-for a nursing mother Yet that is all they have and all they will have this winter at the best America can do The American com-mission hopes at best to transmit ten ounces of food a day to each inhabitant of Belgium—and to do that the people of the United States must strain every resource of charity. How little that is for a civilized human being, and especially for a nursing mother, be-comes plain when one learns that the average inhabitant of Greater New York consumes forty-two ounces of food a day. The best the mothers of Belgium can hope for is a quarter

Belgium can hope for is a quarter ration this winter.

Gallon arrives in a small western town, where he tells the sherff that he and his partner were attacked by outlaws and that his partner was killed. The sherff, his posses and Gallon go to the scene of the fight, but they do not find Wilkerson. The sherff thinking Gallon has tricked him places him under arrest. Meantime Wilkerson has recovered and departed. That night Gallon makes his escape and later arrives in San Francisco. Here he takes ship. The captuin of this vessel is a collector of curios. Gallon's mind is uneasy and he has visions of Wilkerson returning for the plans. In the captain's cabin is a chest where he keeps his curios. Gallon opens this and finds a Japanese idol, with one eye. He removes the eye and hides the plans in the idol. A fire breaks out in the ship, causing a fight among the sailors to get into the boats Gallon returns to the deck to secure the chest and is left on board. The ship sinks, but Gallon saves himself. Having nothing on which to write he takes a key and an old nail and on the key scratches the probable location in latitude and longitude of the ship when it sank. He is picked up by a passing steamer and 18 years later endeavors to find the location of the gold strike, but does not succeed. #### CHAPTER IV.

Many a man writes down on paper the things he cannot articulate.

Thomas Gallon dreaming of two women, taciturn and silent as he was, wrote down the thoughts which he could not express in speech. His diary, well thumbed, held the history of many a lonely night; but of all these nights there was one that stood out in his mind:

It was the darkness enclosing a woman on a bed. He still heard her whispered cry: "You speak of God, Tom-but I have no religion but motherhood." Before his closed eyes came the vision of a lamp lit—then almost an apparition—the face of his daughter. One life had fied, possibly appalled by the horrors of a world that recks not of our poor humanity. Yet there was in the dead woman's arms a child-grotesquely asleep, as if unawakened to the sorrows this mother had known.

"Ruth!" he cried. There was no answer from the still woman in the darkness-but thus he had christened his only child.

It seemed to him as if that echo still reverberated from the moonwashed hills which marked the site of "The Master Key."

"I am getting old," he thought, as he turned the pages of the diary, as if unconsciously counting the years since a woman had leaned over his shoulder. "Ruth." he murmured again.

The problem before him was no longer dim and vague, as it had been in the days of his primebut absolutely distinct and clear-what was to become of Ruth when he died?

He reviewed in his mind all the men and women he had known. It was a strange procession. They marched before his sharpened vision old partners, fresh young girls, mature women, men with checkbooks in their hands, men dying of thirst on the desert—and Wilkerson He sternly put out of his mind the thought of his former partner—the man was he dead? If he had not died that night in the gulch-if he were still alive, knowing the secret of "The Master Key," who would save Ruth from his vengeance?

Then there rose before his mind the straight, strong, almost austere figure of his mining engineer, John Dorr. Youthful, of course, but he had proved himself wholly competent in almost every task that had been given him.

The old man thought more deeply; he recalled his own former years. He, himself, had broken down the iron barriers of a cold world for the sake of a woman whose image Ruth was. He had seen in John Dorr's eyes the growing flame of love. Long experience had taught the old man that there is no passion so dependable in this world as love. John Dorr loved Ruth. It needed no monetary bond to assure his fidelity to her interests; and with the sudden, swift, alert step of a man who had made his final decision, he went out on the porch and called, "John, John!" The Meaning of the Pennant.

Within the interior of the little house down the hill, the engineer of Thomas Gallon's mine had abandoned his blue prints to study the letters on a little pennant, which represented his first victory -a touchdown on the football field within the last ten seconds of play. He knew better than anyone, that his mission to Valle Vista was futile. Using every resource at his command he could find no paying ore, and yet—there was the pennant—the emblem of victory hard fought and hard won. Should he give up now? He heard a clear, stern call from up the hill-"John! John!"

Till win out yet, for Ruth's sake," he said, as he answered that imperious cry.

Other ears heard that call, and as John hastened down the hill he saw Ruth's figure by the side of the bungalow, and as if by the opening of a shutter he once more saw the lights of Broadway, and a table spread with linen; two people sitting there: his evil geniuses.

Other Lights.

In this complex and highly organized civilization of ours, no man can be assured that at any moment some other man, possibly thousands of miles distant, is not planning an act whose portent would never occur to him.

At a table in a New York restaurant, a man and woman were sitting with the words: "Gallon," "Dorr" and "Wilkerson" on their lips.

"Harry Wilkerson has found Tom Gallon," she said quietly. "I wonder what will happen?"

Her companion laughed. "Gallon? I had a college mate named 'Dorr' who is working for a man named 'Gallon' somewhere out in the mines." The woman's dark eyes lit up and she seemed more strikingly handsome as she allowed her sudden passion to flood her somber face with color. There is money in that mine, George Crane!" she said. "But this man Dorr-what sort of a chap is he? You mining stockbrokers usually have information as to all these engineers."

The slender man with the shrewd face, seated opposite her, dropped his eyes. "To tell you the truth, Mrs. Darnell, I never liked John Dorr."

"Neither does Harry," she put in quickly. The stockbroker looked at his plate a moment, and then pulled out his memorandum book, "Listen, Jean!" he said, in a tone she recognized as utterly businesslike, "shall I buy 'Master Key' stock?

"There is a girl back there-" she went on tensely.

Crane looked up swiftly; he caught a glint of the jealousy in the woman's eyes: for his own purposes she was most useful, so he snapped the rubber band around his memorandum book, put it back in his pocket, and said with finality, "Jean, I'll buy 'Master Key' shares at any price!" "Still Waters."

Answering the cry which had come to him from Thomas Gallon's bungalow, and realizing that in it was a tone he had never heard before, John Dorr strode down the hill. As he crossed the guich he saw the door of the bungalow open and Ruth appeared.

"I thought I heard your father call," he said awkwardly.

"He was calling you," she answered quietly, "but he went over toward the dump. I think he wants you there.

Ruth laid her little hand on John Dorr's brawny arm, "John," she said, the swift color rising in her cheeks, "I don't want to say anything to make trouble, but father is worried. He trusts you; but, you know, we haven't recovered the lost vein " John looked her straight in the eye-"Leave it to me!" Her appealing hands crept up his arms, and for one moment she allowed him to read her soul.

She made a potent plea, directed by the instinct of a woman who is loved. "John, look after him! He is doing it for me." Dorr hesitated a moment. It was the first thing

Ruth had ever asked him. He felt that he ought to respond to this appeal in some most convincing way, but he could formulate no phrase that would express at once his determination to do everything in his power to help her father, and his gratitude that she had taken him into her confidence; so he merely smiled, waved his hand, and went down the hill toward the dump, beneath the head end of the spraddling trestle.

She called him back. "I forgot it was lunchtime," she said shyly.

"I must get down to your father," he said "Then I'll bring you both down your lunches to the mine," she said "We can have a little picnic all by ourselves!"

"The Lip of the Bowl of Life." As he went up toward the end of the trestle Dorr observed that the engineer running the donkey engine seemed hardly to know his business.

it were the blossom of a cloud warmed into full bloom by the hot sunlight pouring down into the valley.

Ruth let fall the lunch basket and stared upward at that dark, murky hole in the hill. Was John Was her father there? She knew that that bulky cloud blooming into the heavens meant death beneath the ground. Unwittingly she cried, "John!" Then she remembered her filial duty and her next word, whispered toward that billowing, eddying mass of vapor was "Father!"

The Runaway Car. Ruth hastened her pace toward the entrance of the mine. The shale gave way under her little feet, but she struggled upward until she reached the trestle. Having lived all her life in a mining camp there was no terror for her in anything but falling rock. That effusion of smoke floating over the hillside seemed to speak of disaster. She knew the peril of a premature explosion and she also knew every working of "The Master Key." And again she wondered whether it was John Dorr or her father or both who were stifling for air ing car and cried: "John! John!" The Rescue.

After talking to the engineer John Dorr had missed Gallon and saw him at the anchorage of the ore cable car up the hill across the gulch from the trestle. He made his way up there and the two men stood talking for a moment.

"John," said Gallon, "I am getting old. Years ago there were two partners of us prospected this country and we found free milling gold. I say 'we, John, but there was a little girl-I kept the location of that mine to myself. There was trouble, John. He suspected me-" He turned his dimming eyes on the stalwart young man in entreaty. guess you know why I tried to keep those plans to myself?"

'Who is the man?" demanded the engineer, patting the great iron ore carrier with his hand as a man pacifies a restless animal.

At that moment there came a faint cry from a miner on the trestle.

What does he want?" demanded Gallon peevishly.

"My dear fellow," he said quietly, "you're allowing too much slack on your cable. It is dangerous! Those ore cars are coming down that trestle too fast-if their brakes give way it means disaster!" "What's the trouble?" said Gallon, coming up with a piece of ore in his hand. "I was just telling Bill Tubbs that if he did not keep up the slack on his cable on those cars he would whip them over the end of the trestle," said

John. He turned toward the old man and said in a different voice, "You called me; what is it that

"Look at this, John!" said the older man, handing out the piece of ore. "Dirt, not gold-bearing quartz. I want to talk to you; I've got something to say to you. Involuntarily John looked down the street: he saw Ruth coming, swinging the lunch basket in her hand. He remembered her shy appeal, that he would do the best he could for "The Master Key." "I think we had better go into the mine; we can talk there." be said. "They are setting off a blast," Gallon remarked.

Disaster. Dorr looked up at the car roaring past them overhead and said suddenly, "Before anything else you ought to fix that trestle. Some day a car will go over on the dump." Gallon looked up and then glanced at Dorr. "I guesa you're right, John; I've thought of that myself. Things have kind of gone at loose ends; now I'll see to it myself with your help. Besides I have something to say to you."

"There comes Ruth with a basket of lunch!"

"Oh, yes, when I am away from the house she often picules with me here in the mine. Say, I'm going up on the trestle; have another talk with Stubbs. He is all right, but he has got careless; tell him to keep up the slack of his cable. I tell you. John, I have wanted to talk to you for a long time; but first I'm going to look after that cable, because I can see you are right, and we might have a bad accident."

As the old man started into the mine putting one foot after the other, with that carelessness characteristic of men becoming decrepit, a man ran out of the mouth of the mine waving his arms. Almost instantly following him came a puff of gray-blue within that dark tunnel.

She did not see John Dorr talking to the engineer below her, nor did she see the miner who had just left the mine and was scrambling down the ladder. Her thought was that during this noon hour, when both shifts were off duty, her father had gone in and accidentally set off a blast. What blasting was done in "The Master Ker" usually took place during the nooning, but owing to carelessness it was sometimes the case that all the blasts were not set off. She had seen men belched out of that dark hole before furious gusts of gas. And yet, why was the ore car inside? That, too, spelled disaster.

She dropped the lunch basket and pulled out the pocket electric light which she always carried. It burned only a tiny hole in the billowing smoke. She rushed blindly in, trusting to her long familiarity with the tunnel to find her father. Thus it was that father and daughter passed each other in the darkness. "Father!" she cried, peering into the darkness

She stepped on into the shadow and called again. Her foot slipped on the rough floor of the tunnel and as she tried to save herself her lamp fell. A moment later she saw a trickle of fire running along toward the heading. It was a fuse leading to a blast that had not yet been shot. With all light gone except that blue flicker, penned in as she was by the ore car standing there with set brakes, what hope had she?

She climbed into the ore car and tried to unset the brakes. It was her only hope. Then she realized that the cable was still attached. She climbed down by the light of the now flaming fuse and unhooked the heavy shackle. A moment later she was again in the car with her little hands firmly on the lever. With strength bred of desperation she managed to release it.

The heavy car slowly creaked away down the dark tunnel; then it came over Ruth that she was not strong enough to stop its momentum on the long treetle that led to the dump; she was fleeing death by fire and gas and rock only to be hurled headlong over the lofty end of the track. She crouched in the car; just as it emerged from the tunnel's mouth it was as if a huge hand thrust the car forward—the boom of the explosion deaf-

John Dorr's eyes saw the miners in the camp. wives and all streaming out and staring upward. They had got the meaning of that cry. He thought to himself: "Where is Ruth?" It came over him that she was bringing luncheon to her father and himself in the mine. He stared up at that dark hole in the hillside and saw an eddy of smoke. Instantly he knew that she must be somewhere within that dark depth.

With all the force of his lungs he bawled down to the engineer, who was staring stupidly upward: swung himself into the bucket: pulled his signal whistle out of his pocket and blew it furiously.

The engineer seemed to listen for a moment, then kicked off his brake and blew his answering whistle. A second later the bucket was swinging down the lofty cable across the gulch. It was not clear in John's mind how he could rescue Ruth. The quickest way to get to the trestle was by the bucket; then he would have those long, long stretches of ties to traverse and when he reached that smoke-filled tunnel, could be get through? , He must. He steadied himself and thought, his eyes fixed on the hole in the hillside.

The bucket was still surging one hundred feet away from his goal when he saw the ore car emerge and in it the slender form of Ruth. No one realized better than he that her strength was not equal to setting those brakes and that she had escaped one death only to meet another.

His trained eye caught sight of one chance. He yelled down to the engineer: "Quick! Quick! Tubba!" The engineer's blank face upturned toward him seemed that of a man dazed by eminent disaster, but John Dorr's imperious will reached across and down that space. The engineer pulled his throttle wide open and as he did so John Dorr swung himself over the edge of the bucket, and, hanging down by his knees right over the trestle, waited for the oncoming car.

"Ruth!" he cried, "Ruth! come to me!" He saw her turn toward him, balance herself in the swaying ore car and lift up her arms. He stretched his own down and as the mass of steel and ore dashed under him, caught her up. He did not hear the crash that followed. All he saw was the upturned face of the girl he loved, swinging one hundred feet above death in his strong arms,

About three thousand miles away a dark and splendid woman was looking critically at her maid. Eloise!" she was saying, "I don't like to be waked this early in the morning. I have told you often enough about this. What do you mean by disturbing me for a mere letter?

"You told me, madame, always to call you when there was a letter in this handwriting."

Mrs. Darnell sat up alertly, and quickly perused the slow, even script written on the old-fashioned blue-lined paper of a country hotel. "Dear Cousin Jean:

"Since you last heard from me I have found Galion. I am leaving today for Silent creek. His 'Master Key' mine is only ten miles from 'hore. Won't he be surprised to see me? I will let you know later how our scheme comes out-

Fear of One Man.

When Gallon thought he had killed Wilkerson he became infected with the ineradicable disease of dread.

In his conversation with John Dorr he had given first expression to his feelings. The young mining engineer, on account of his youth, did not fully understand that men do not speak of such things until age-loosener of tongues as well as of the chords of life-suddenly oppresses them; makes them feel helpless; brings them to a realization of what the ultimate fact of death means. He had harely caught the appeal in the old man's voice when he had comprehended Ruth's peril.

The old man, with shaking limbs, had watched the rescue. When he saw that his daughter was safe he also perceived the solution of his problem. Here was a quick mind needed to protect Ruth's property. Somewhere in that hill was the richest of California gold. Once more he said to himself: "John Dorr can find 'The Master Key.' "

Feeling himself too weak to meet the girl who was now clinging limply to her rescuer and also discerning in his own slowing pulse that his time was short, he went down the hill, crossed the gulch without a word to the wondering miners and entered the bungalow. A moment later John Dorr entered with Ruth in his arms. The old man merely looked up: ways look after her, John," he said slowly, "and if Wilkerson comes back--'

Dorr looked at the old man with pity in his eyes. "She isn't hurt," he said, gently putting her down on the couch. Then he straightened up: "I'll always look after her," he promised.

Gallon stared over at the white face of his daughter as she lay unconscious on the couch. "Humph-" thus expressing to himself his own comprehension of the fact that there was coming such a period in his own life. He went out without a look backward. When he returned the room was empty. He fingered the books on the table and fell into a state of profound thought. He did not hear the door open behind him.

Ruth, freshly clad and wholly recovered from her experience, wondered at her father's attitude. She stepped softly toward him. He did not turn. She went nearer. She laid her soft hands on his shoulder and then, as if the fingers of life-long fear were touching the very nerves of his being, Thomas Gallon slowly twisted his head by a supreme ecort of will to see the sight which of all things in the world he did not want to see, the face of his enemy.

By the maxic of the strange phantasmagoria which represents our mental processes if we look at them carefully, he did see the face of Harry. Wilkerson.

"A-a-a-h--" he breathed. His eyes closed, compelled to by his troubled conscience; but he was recalled by a loved and familiar voice; it was Ruth bending over him saying: "Father! Father!, what is the matter?" The old man suddenly looked up, still fearful that he was to see that feared and hated face. "Ruth!" he said, and it struck him that on her face was a look almost of terror.

"Why, nothing was the matter, child; I was only thinking."

Ruth draw back. In her innocence she had not learned to discern the difference between the various rude passions that govern this world. She was still afraid. She crept out the door. Gallon let his head fall on the table upon his empty arms. As Ruth closed the door softly behind her, she saw a light burning in John Dorr's cabin and there flooded over her a sense of relief that there was someone to whom she could go. Once at the door she knocked hard, because it seemed to her that she had been pursued up the hill by some strange and miserable demon-"John! John!" she cried.

The moment he appeared it came over her that she had done an unconventional thing; yet there was that demon of fear creeping up the hill after her and she turned her eyes to the kind, brave face of the engineer and held out her slender arms and whispered: "John, I don't understand; something has happened; I am scared." John Dorr looked down at her fair face for moment and shut his eyelids. Was it true, that she had finally come to him? He, too, felt the presage of dread. Way down the hill, across the gulch drenched in moonlight and shadows, it seemed to him that he saw one of those grotesque and impossible figures, mirages of the desert night. Then he took Ruth into his strong arms. And the man whose arms held nothing, whose hands were clenched in an agony of culminating fear, saw through the window a figure of a man on horseback on the crest of the hill.

Resurrection. A tall, dark, stern man, who did not tip the porter, got off the Overland express at Silent Valley. The little hamlet lay there like a mirage of some man's dream. There was but one familiar building in the place and Harry Wilkerson gazed at it and "Well," he said audibly, "this looks like old times! Now to find Gallon!"

It seems that in that clear dusk which marks the border line between life and death, we see things more clearly than at any other time; and Harry Wilkerson, as he looked over the familiar valley, remembered that long night when almost mortally wounded by Thomas Gallon's bullet he had crept to safety. Every peak, gully and guich was as plain to him as it was on that night. He had heard a great deal about Gallon's mediccre success and he did not fully understand why it was that "The Master Key" mine did not pay better. Was it possible that his former partner, had not been able to find that rich vein of gold' after ali? He smiled again. He would find it. Then there was that girl whose vivacity and beauty he had heard so much about. Some instinct told him that Gallon must be ever thinking of him and with the dramatic impulse of a man who has long nursed the hope of bitter vengeance, he planned his reappearance. He would find his old partner alone and there and then they would once more have it out. This was the reason that he had not taken the motor stage, but had come on horseback, silently watching for his opportunity. His keen eyes scanned the scene below him and easily picked out the bungalow. (To be continued)

It was absolutely motionless, the yellow brown of its back, and its dark sides, exactly harmonized in color with the light andark patches on the log; the color was as concealing, here in its natural surroundings, as is the color of our common woodfrog among the dead leaves of our woods. When I stirred it up it jumped to a small twig, catching hold with the disks of its finger-tips, and balancing itself with unexpected ease for so big a creature; and then hopped to the ground and again stood motionless. Evidently it trusted for safety to escaping observation. We saw some monkeys, and fresh tapir sign; and Kermit shot a jacu for the pot.

saw the fresh sign of paca, agoulti and the small peccary, and Kermit with the dogs roused a tappr, which crossed the river right through the rapids; but no one got a shot at it.

Except at one or perhaps two points a very big cance, lightly loaded, could probably run all these raids. But even in such a cance it would be sailly to make the attempt on an exploring expedition where the loss of a cance or of its contents means disaster, and moreover such a cance could not be taken, for it would be impossible to drag it over the portages on the occasion when the portages' became inevitable. Our cances would not have lived half a minute in the wild water.

On the second day the cances and loads were brought down to the foot of the first rapids. Lyra cleared the path and laid the logs for rollers, while Kermit dragged the dugouts up the bank from the water with block and tackle, with strain of rope and muscle. Then they joined forces, as over the uneven ground it needed the united strength of all their men to get the heavy dugout along.

Meanwhile the colonel with one atvery big canoe, lightly loaded, could

FRENCH DOGS OF WAR DOING NOTABLE SERVICE

Paris, November 18.—(Correspondonce of the Associated Press.)—Lovers of dogs will be gratified to know that so imposing an organization as the Institute of Zoological Psychology reports that the dogs; that accompany the French ambulances are behaving well under fire. The director of this institute testifies: "All reports are most encouraging. Some of the details of their instructions may be open to question. It is probably bad that they should be taught to bring in the caps and handkerchiefs of wounded soldiers, but our dogs of war are performing noteworthy service and it is a pity that we have not many more of them."
The leader of one section of the am

BOOK REVIEWS ::

A list of the latest books of fletion; is a story of the seas, and then the sent out by the publishers. Also the most popular books from the Affanta book stores suggested as gift books.

Story of the seas, and then the reader can guess that it has an exciting, up-to-date and refreshing love affair to keep you pleasingly interested in the result.

Since the European war, at least for the first few months, conditions in all business seemed to be at a standstill, and the pessimist even tried to evade the world of books. But he seems to and the pessimist even tried to evade the world of books. But he seems to have been unsuccessful, as popular interest in literary works is as great as ever. Reports are received from all over the north and the south that among the most popular gifts of 1914 will be books, books of fiction, travel and description religion and philosophy, history and politics, books for the boys and girls, and the interest increases in books of essays, poetry and drama. As for books on the European war, they are already countless, and the publishers continue to announce new editions or new authors.

The book is ever a friend, and no matter how many pessimists we may know, if we have books to read there will be Christmas cheer, for there is no gift which carries a sweeter message to a friend. the world of books,

UGLY WOUNDS CAUSED BY SHRAPNEL SHELLS

Rheims, November 26—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The vintage of 1914 in the champagne country is secure. The grapes are under press while the cannon continue to boom toward the north.

"When the champagne province was invaded," said the director of one of the big champagne cellars, "the German surgeons have begun to talk about their experience in healing the wounded in this war. Professor Payr, of Leipsic university, who is acting as surgeon general of the Saxon army, said. The wine will be outs, so they spared the vines, when our troops chased them out, they had not time to stop to do any damage, all of which is especially fortunate, since the year of the comet as one of the best vintages."

The gathering of the grapes around Rhelms was done under a violent fire. The Joyous peasant girls whose laughter is poetically said "to be imprisoned with the wine and to come out with the spream of the ground was accompanied was the ominous and the music by which it was accompanied was the ominous crashing report of the little 3-inch field gun of the French artillery.

Most of the wine houses above ground were seriously damaged by the heavy artillery fire from both sides, but, as a rule, the cellars, owing to their their depth and solidity, have not suffored. They served and still serve as a shelter for thousands of poor refugees who find no other place to escape from the Gerinan shells. The only damage to the cellars was during the German surgeons have begun to talk about their experience in healing the wounded in this war. Professor Payr, of the provised hospitals on the line of the German the line of the German the line of the German there is little angle of the gave much interesting information on this subject.

Tay pointed out that the balls used in shells produce much more lakely to be lodged in the body. They served and still surge of the ground was the ominous crashing report of the little 3-inch field gun of the French artillery.

Most of the province hospital fire the department of such their stop o carry germs into the body with bits of clothing, but the dangerous gases from the shrapnel explosion often adhere to the fragments and balls in sufficient quantities to polson the wound. Lockjaw is often produced by wounds of this character, but by vaccinating patients with a tetanus serum the German surgeons have materially reduced the rutio of deaths in such cases since the first weeks of the war.

Especially dangerous are the wounds caused by iragments of bombs thrown by avantors Even very small fragments often produce much more dangerous wounds than much larger pieces of ordinary shells. These small fragments penetrate very deep into the body, cutting through all blood vessels, and thick masses of muscle are cut through as with a sharp knife. Aeroplane bombs also frequently cause bad burns.
