

PLIED WITH WHISKY SHE LIED IN STORY TOLD ABOUT FRANK SAYS MRS. FORMBY

Woman Who Made an Affidavit That Prisoner Had Telephoned Her That He Wanted to Bring Girl to Her House Says Detectives Brought Her Booze for Three Weeks.

CHARGES "FRAMEUP" IN INTERVIEW GIVEN TO NEW YORK PAPERS

Declares She Has Repented Making False Affidavit. Detectives Norris, Chewning, Rosser, Vickery and Hamby Figure in Story. Didn't Know Frank, She Says.

New York, February 25.—(Special)—A newspaper over having made a false affidavit accusing Leo M. Frank, who was sentenced to death for the murder of the little factory girl, Mary Phagan, in Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Nina Formby, of Atlanta, tonight called up The New York Times and asked that she be permitted to make a public denial of the statements she made against Frank in her affidavit. Mrs. Formby repeated again and again that she had made the affidavit against Frank only after she had been unduly influenced to do so by the Atlanta detectives.

Although her affidavit was not used by the prosecution in the trial, she believes it influenced public opinion and had its part in convicting the young superintendent.

The detectives, she said, had plied her with whisky until she was on the border of delirium tremens. Mrs. Formby said she was taken to the office of the chief of detectives of Atlanta, where she was forced to admit in the presence of witnesses that she had made incriminating statements on the character of Leo M. Frank.

SAYS POLICE HOUNDED HER.

To make her story short Mrs. Formby readily explained that she ran a rooming house in Atlanta some seventeen years ago. Later she said she found it more desirable to try to earn a livelihood by respectable occupation she opened a boarding house for men, but the police of Atlanta were suspicious of her and they "hounded" her so openly that she was forced to move from one place to another. The last time she was forced to abandon a boarding house, she leased a four-room apartment at 400 Piedmont avenue.

The apartment house in which she lived was in a locality through which Leo M. Frank passed frequently on his way to work, or on his way to visit friends. Mrs. Formby said she knew Frank by sight, because a girl acquaintance once had pointed out the young superintendent as her "boss."

"I remember quite well the day that Mary Phagan was murdered," said Mrs. Formby. "It was on April 25, and I remember it because it was my birthday. I remember also quite well that I remember, too, that it was only about a week afterward that Detectives Norris and Chewning called me up over the telephone and asked me if I had any booze. I told them I didn't have any, and they said they would bring some around to my house."

"They called around that evening and they brought the booze. We drank booze and played cards in the dining room. They were arrested the next day. Mr. Frank wasn't a degenerate, but at that time I was under the influence of liquor. When Norris and Chewning kept asking me if I didn't know that Mr. Frank was a degenerate, I finally lost the power to discriminate about what I was saying."

"They asked me the same question so many times that at last I gave them the answer they wanted me to give them."

"Yes he is. It was right there I made a fatal mistake. I recall particularly this. They asked me if Frank didn't call me up over the telephone on the day of the

DRESSED IN KIMONO OF HIS MURDERED WIFE

In That Garb Ellis Was Found When Detectives Entered Room of Tragedy.

Chicago, February 25.—Letters written by William Cheney Ellis, of Cincinnati, shortly before he killed his wife in a hotel here last October telephone messages he sent from the room where he was alone with his wife's body, and the first words he spoke when detectives rushed in were brought out in evidence at Ellis' trial here today.

The former Cincinnati leather merchant went through the ordeal of hearing charged by step by step the movements of himself and his wife in the twenty-four hours preceding the tragedy.

The evidence offered by the prosecution, while it purports to show premeditation, so far has failed to bring forward any definite motive for the crime.

Blood-Smeared Room. Hotel detectives and city policeman told of the condition of the blood-smeared room, and Mrs. Morris Eber sole, whose husband is Mr. Ellis' cousin, repeated what she said was Ellis' telephone message to her after a night's vigil beside the corpse.

"It's better to stick it come down at once," I told him," she said. "It's too late," he replied. I asked him why and he said, 'We're dying' and hung up the receiver. Then I told the hotel clerk something was wrong in the room and to hurry somebody up there."

John O'Rourke, special policeman, told of opening the door and finding Ellis there dressed in his wife's kimono and trying to light a cigar. "He asked me for a match," said O'Rourke. "I saw the woman's body on the bed with a handkerchief laid over the face and neck. She looked like a wax figure."

Swayed in His Seat. Ellis put his hand over his eyes and swayed in his seat as O'Rourke testified.

Ellis became dejected today when he heard that the Cincinnati court had refused to permit his children to be taken to his home.

He had planned to bring them to his side by a writ of habeas corpus.

"My babies would be a great help to me now," he said. "What is the use of fighting for life and liberty when I can't have my babies?"

Dynamite Not Eliminated From the Mexican Situation

Lynching of American Citizen and Villa's Refusal to Yield Benton's Body Greatly Increase Tension.

UNITED STATES BOUND TO VIEW BENTON'S BODY

Villa Has Agreed to Let American Agents Inspect Corpse on Mexican Soil. Bryan Discusses Situation With Senators.

BAUCH AND SIX AMERICANS IN THE JAIL AT JUAREZ

El Paso, Texas, February 25.—A Michaelis who gave his address as 236 Vernon street, Brooklyn, and who said his father was a director of the Union Trust company of Brooklyn, was released from the Juarez jail this afternoon. He said Bauch will still there.

Michaelis was arrested eleven days ago, he said, after a fist fight in jail, he said, were the following Americans besides Bauch: Edward Trabard, Matt Giddins, H. T. Davis, V. E. Goodman and a railroad man named Thornton.

Washington, February 25.—The Mexican situation which the last few days has centered chiefly on efforts to determine how and why the constitutionalists executed William S. Benton, a British subject, was broadened today when Consul Garrett, at Nuevo Laredo, was instructed to inquire into the hanging by Mexican federalists of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen.

The consul was directed by the state department to demand the body of the dead American from officers of the Huerta government in the vicinity of Hidalgo, Mexico, where Vergara was killed. Earlier in the day Mariano Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua, had been instructed to insist that General Villa permit the delivery of the body of Benton to the widow for burial, where she may wish.

Secretary Bryan to the senate foreign relations committee of all the state department's information on the Benton incident, and Mexico generally, constituted the principal developments of the day.

Examination of Body. General Villa's message of last night offering to permit the widow of Benton or relatives and an American official to see the body when exhumed is taken by the American government to mean that a complete medical examination may be performed. Secretary Bryan told the senators that the United States was insisting that two American representatives be permitted to see the body and that one of these be an army surgeon. He also has made inquiry as to exactly where the grave is located. General Villa, it is today had not replied to the last request of Secretary Bryan for the surrender of Benton's body, but it is understood Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, for the present will be satisfied if there is an opportunity for an autopsy to determine whether Benton was shot by a pistol bullet or by rifle bullets from a firing squad.

It is thought the British ambassador is anxious that evidence be obtained first, following discussion of the disposition of the body can be taken up afterward. The same army surgeon who will be detailed by General Scott, at Fort Bliss to act with the British consul, Charles A. Perceval, when he arrives at El Paso, will reconsider.

Call for Treasurer. Albany, N. Y., February 25.—Homer D. Cahill of Syracuse, today was elected state treasurer by the legislature to succeed the late John J. Kennedy. Cahill was supported by a combine of progressives and democrats.

READY TO SHOOT ANY U. S. OFFICER

German Admiral Admits He Was in Fighting Mood at Manila—Dewey Blamed for Clash.

MEXICAN LYNCHERS WILL BE PUNISHED

Huerta Officials Promise Reparation for Hanging of Vergara, American Citizen. Was Lured to His Death.

Justice in Dewey's Complaint

He admitted there was a certain justice in Admiral Dewey's complaint as to the German ships being constantly on the move although there was no unfriendly intention.

The bulk of the German squadron was about to be withdrawn and the German commander when the conflict arose over the right of navigation and the decision to retain his whole force there.

Admiral von Diederichs blamed Admiral Dewey for the clash and intimated that it would never have occurred had the American commander had merely protested officially about two trivial incidents.

The German admiral felt that Admiral Dewey's action was decidedly unfriendly. He sent his flag lieutenant von Hintze, to make formal protest against the action of the U. S. Navy in sending the German cruiser to Manila in order to learn her identity.

This said the German admiral was the incident incorrectly attributed to the Commander by Admiral Dewey.

The American admiral retallated with an announcement that no ship was to pass his lines. He then announced his intention of sending an officer on board every warship arriving in the bay to make an inquiry and to establish his identity.

The word "inquiry" apparently aroused the ire of the German admiral, who identified it even today with a claim to the right to cross-examine any German commander.

Admiral von Diederichs says he discussed the situation with the British commander and told him that he would shoot any officer attempting to carry out this order of Admiral Dewey. A substantial victory for the Germans was claimed by Von Diederichs in the final settlement by which any arriving warship was to report itself to the American commander and afterward was required only to show its flag.

BLANKET OF WHITE COVERS GATE CITY

Traffic Greatly Inconvenienced and Many Horses Are Injured by Falls on Slippery Streets.

Atlanta on Wednesday was in the grip of the most persistent snowstorm she has had in years and according to the weather man the city will be under a continually thickening blanket of snow until Thursday night.

The city on Wednesday however bore up remarkably well under the unexpected onslaught of nasty weather. Except for the suffering of dumb animals the city bore small inconvenience from the snow.

While a blizzard had been predicted for Atlanta for several days it had been so long in coming that people had almost begun to believe that it would not come Tuesday afternoon.

The thermometer took a sudden drop and early Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock the snow began to fall. All day long it fell persistently never ceasing for a moment.

Wednesday afternoon the weather bureau reported a 1 1/2 inches of snow, and by nightfall that depth had increased to about 2 inches.

Wednesday morning opened up with a temperature of about 29 1/2 degrees but it dropped gradually until about 9 o'clock it stood at 24 degrees.

While a blizzard had been predicted for Atlanta for several days it had been so long in coming that people had almost begun to believe that it would not come Tuesday afternoon.

The snow of Wednesday was starting by reason of the fact that it is the first considerable snow Atlanta has had in winter and probably because of the fact that it is seldom that so much of a snow falls in the daytime when everybody can see it.

NAMED FOR SENATOR

COLONEL WILLIAM STANLEY WEST Who has been appointed U. S. Senator to succeed the late Augustus O. Bacon.

GOVERNOR SLATON NAMES W. S. WEST TO SUCCEED BACON AS U. S. SENATOR

Appointee Is One of Best Known Men in South Georgia, and for Years Has Been Prominently Identified With Politics in the State.

STATES HE WILL OFFER PLACE TO BOIFEUILLET HE HELD UNDER BACON

In Connection With Appointments, He Will "Regard Sentimental Considerations Carried in Recommendations of the Late Distinguished Senator."

A few moments before 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Governor Slaton announced that he had appointed Hon. William Stanley West of Valdosta, one of the best known men in the state to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. O. Bacon whose death occurred in Washington February 14.

Present at the time Governor Slaton made his announcement were the representatives of the three local papers, Jesse Perry, private secretary to the governor, Charles Davis, state game warden, A. H. Utin, executive secretary, and Tom Conner, registration clerk.

Colonel West was at the Winecoff hotel and was told of the appointment by telephone.

Governor Slaton did not write any formal announcement. He merely walked out into the reception room, saw that the newspapers were all represented and spoke one word "West."

In an instant the news traveled throughout the capital and was flashed to all parts of the city by telephone.

Commenting on the appointment Governor Slaton said: "It was very much a moment ago that I came to a definite decision. Any change my mind I had told me one of my intentions."

Colonel West was naturally gratified when he heard the news of his appointment.

When seen by a Constitution representative at the Hotel Winecoff yesterday afternoon after the statement had been made at the capitol that the governor would appoint him, Mr. West said:

"I have been in Atlanta for several days, but I have not obtruded myself upon the governor. After the burial of Governor Bacon my friends not only from all parts of the state, but also from throughout the state, notified me that they would present my claims to the governor. Many of them asked me to meet them in Atlanta for a conference on the situation and I have been here for a few days with that end in view."

"I was impressed from the beginning that this was a south Georgia appointment and my friends were good enough to take the position that I was the man for the place. Frankly I do not know that I have as many friends here as a loyal and a zealous supporter of Governor Slaton and that I have been unflinching in my zeal in behalf of the section of the state from which I come. I have never let my enthusiasm in behalf of south Georgia lessen my advocacy of what I believe to be for the best interests of the state at large and I consider myself fortunate in having as many friends in the upper part of the state as I have in the section around my home county."

Naturally I am very greatly pleased at the governor's announcement that he will appoint me.

CHAUFFEUR DROVE LACY AROUND TO THE BANKS

Dixon Says Lacy Got Large Sums of Money on Day He Disappeared.

Montgomery, Ala., February 25.—Harry Dixon, a chauffeur, witness for the prosecution in the trial of Theodore Lacy, formerly chief clerk of the state convict department, who is on trial charged with embezzling $50,000 of state funds, today told on the witness stand of driving Lacy to various banks the day he disappeared, two months ago. Dixon said he did not know his passenger the day he drove him through the streets, but today he identified Lacy as the man. He also told of a mysterious pine box that he figured prominently in the case. Dixon said he was hired by Lacy and drove him to the banks, where money was gotten by the payment of checks. Visits were then made, he said, to various suburban saloons and other resorts and to the depot, where Lacy had his suitcase checked. Lacy, he said, dismissed him at a prominent downtown saloon, paying him $20, and told him to keep the change. The little pine box was still in the automobile and the chauffeur asked as to its disposition. He says Lacy told him he was through with it and to throw it in the streets, which he did. It is alleged that Lacy placed his money, $52,000 of state's money, in this pine box, in order to get away with it. Charles Harold, president of the Montgomery Savings bank, spent many hours on the stand detailing the payment of funds to Lacy on the checks presented. The only other witness was called merely to identify a check during the testimony of Mr. Harold. It developed that Lacy claimed James G. Oakley, former president of the state convict department, ordered him to secure cash for all the checks he presented at the banks. When court convened this morning Judge Brown overruled the demurrer of the defense and ordered the case to trial. Lacy was arraigned and pleaded not guilty, and the hearing of testimony was immediately begun.

COTTON CORPORATION IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

George Dole Wadley Maintains That the Concern Is Solvent.

Dallas, Texas, February 25.—S. W. King, Jr., president of the Dallas Cotton Exchange, and a member of the local board of cotton dealers, today was appointed receiver of the Southern States Cotton corporation by Judge E. R. Meek in federal court. The receivership for the Alabama corporation was declared upon by Judge Meek at the close of a hearing on an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding brought by four creditors who alleged $2,000 against the corporation. Judge Meek, in making the appointment, commented upon alleged mismanagement of the company in dealing in cotton futures, and said in his opinion it was a fact that the examination seemed to indicate the company was insolvent. President George Dole Wadley and other officials of the corporation maintain that the concern is entirely solvent and showed during the hearing that a large amount of cash held in various banks to its credit. The court decreed the corporation's affairs, declaring why it should not be declared bankrupt, must be filed by March 14.

HOWELL FOREMAN HIGHLY HONORED BY HARVARD STUDENTS

Boston, Mass., February 25.—(Special)—After a contest extending over three months, Howell Foreman, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Foreman of Atlanta, was today elected second assistant business manager of the University of Harvard baseball team. Mr. Foreman is now in his sophomore year. The customary rule of promotion will make him first assistant business manager in the junior year, and in his senior year he will be the business manager. For this reason the election as second assistant is one of the most coveted honors bestowed upon Harvard sophomores.

Car Shops Burned.

Montgomery, Ala., February 25.—Fire this afternoon destroyed the car building shops of the Western of Alabama railway in this city, entailing an estimated loss of $50,000. The shop building, valuable tools, five cars and other property were destroyed and five other cars, including two circus cars, were badly damaged.

'COWARDLY FOOL' MESSAGE WAITING ELOPING HUSBAND

Boston, February 25.—"Cowardly fool!" was the text of a cable message which Charles Cole, a passenger on the steamer Arabic, found awaiting him on his arrival from Liverpool today. It was from his wife, whom he is alleged to have left with two children at Burnley, England, when he eloped with Mrs. Florence Beavers. The couple, who had crossed the ocean as "Charles Hesp and wife," admitted their identity, according to immigration officials, when they were ordered deported.

YOUNG WOMAN DOCTOR DECLARED NOT GUILTY

Legislative Committee Lauds Dr. Saunders and Condemns Her Accusers.

Columbia, S. C., February 25.—Dr. Eleanor B. Saunders, whose work as second assistant physician at the State Hospital for the Insane was the subject of a legislative investigation, was acquitted of every charge in the report of the committee, made to the legislature today. The committee reports that they went fully and minutely into the complaints, insinuations, innuendoes and charges against Dr. Saunders, and found no evidence to sustain any of them. No Breath of Suspicion. "There is no breath of even a suspicion as to her moral character—none against her professional reputation and conduct and none in her official department in or out of the institution. The few and insignificant acts on which complaints were based were the direct result of requests from the superintendent, her superior officer, and were executed in the discharge of duty to suffering humanity, and are to be commended and praised rather than condemned. Her work and labors in the state hospital bear eloquent tribute to the remarkable initiative, aided by tireless energy and dominated by the womanly woman's overflowing love for unfortunate humanity—which love, energy and tireless devotion is manifested by her every movement." Condemns Method of Trial. The committee condemns the method of trial of Dr. Saunders adopted at the meeting of the board of regents of the hospital, December 12, 1913, and "hopes that the records of the state will never show a repetition of such procedure." The stand of Dr. J. W. Babcock, superintendent, who championed the cause of Dr. Saunders, is commended by the committee. The administration of the colored wards is declared inefficient and the work of staff officers in these wards "only perfunctory." The committee recommends that a rigid system of rules be adopted by the board of regents and that the state park property purchased for hospital use be developed as rapidly as the state can afford to do so to relieve congestion now existing at the present quarters.

HE GAVE HIS HENS HYDROGEN PEROXIDE ONLY ROOSTER LEFT

Penn Yan, N. Y., February 25.—John B. Cramer, president of the board of education, had a fine flock of chickens he wanted to sell. He was told by a prospective purchaser, who looked at some of the eggs, that they were not white enough for the New York market to which he was shipping. A friend advised him that small doses of peroxide of hydrogen set in water or mash would aid his hens to produce eggs of the proper degree of whiteness. He tried the experiment and the eggs grew whiter but not fast enough to suit him. He then increased the doses, but his hens soon stopped laying eggs of any color, and a week ago one of them died. Today old rooster.

MISS ELLEN KEILEY IS BURNED TO DEATH

Richmond, Va., February 25.—Miss Ellen Keiley, aged 79, sister of Bishop Keiley, of Savannah, and of the late Anthony M. Keiley, former mayor of Richmond and later judge of the international court at Cairo, died this morning of burns received yesterday morning while stirring a fire in her sitting room. Her coal, she said, fell upon the skirt of her dressing gown, and she strove in vain to remove it. A negro servant found her semi-conscious on a blazing rug.

5 SONS SWEAR TO SAVE MOTHER FROM THE CHAIR

Mrs. Buffum's Boys Take Stand and Tell of Father's Conduct. Her Alleged Confession.

Little Valley, N. Y., February 25.—Special Prosecutor W. Cole, rested the people's case against Mrs. Cynthia Buffum, on trial charged with the murder of her husband, late today Patrick S. Collins at once outlined the plan of the defense and during the afternoon placed in evidence the testimony of the woman's five sons. Under a bitter cross-examination by Mr. Cole the boys never wavered in the story they told to keep their mother from the death chair. The boys said their father had been a heavy drinker the last year of his life and that they, too, with their mother and sister Laura, who died February 2, this year, of poisoning, were sick last summer at the time the mother and husband became ill and died.

Boys Tell on Father.

The boys said their father "when drinking, frequently said: 'I am going to do away with myself and the whole family.'"

Mr. Collins said he would prove this threat of wholesale destruction, that Buffum had been abusive to his wife, that Buffum was given to heavy drinking and at times Buffum was ill that Mrs. Buffum suffered from the same symptoms.

Justice Brown held a statement made by Mrs. Buffum to Mr. Cole in Buffalo on December 10 to be competent evidence and it was read to the jury.

Mrs. Buffum declares the confession was wrung from her by detectives who made her drunk. In it she read today she stated that her husband had accused her of undue intimacy with Ernest Frahm.

"I would never have thought so much of Frahm," the statement said, "but he put so many propositions to me. He wanted me to go away. He said if I will sever struck me again he would kill him for me."

She Loved Frahm.

"I loved Frahm. I felt I had to do everything and anything for him. He kept urging me to go with him and I said I would go but for Willis. He said he would get Willis down a dark road and shoot him and I said there were other ways to get rid of him. It was then I decided to give my husband poison."

"My brother Jim had left at our house a bottle of horse liniment doped with the poison. It was in the pantry and I gave it to my husband in his medicine, mixing it in a whiskey glass."

On the witness stand today Mrs. Buffum's sons sustained the claim of the defense that the horse liniment referred to in the alleged confession was a myth. Each swore that there never had been any of the poisonous liquid in the house.

FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF COTTON EXCHANGES

Memphis Cotton Exchange Wants Government to Regulate Future Trading.

Memphis, Tenn., February 25.—Federal supervision of the future contract departments of all cotton exchanges is urged in resolutions adopted by the Memphis Cotton Exchange today and in which methods of the New York exchange are scored. Congressional action providing that all future trading be conducted under rules established by the department of agriculture is asked. Efforts will be asked to have the exchange throughout the country cooperate in the movement. Dissatisfaction with the present method of arriving at differences in classification prompted today's meeting. As a remedy it is urged that stipulation be made in all contracts that standard classification as adopted by the United States government will be followed, that exchanges adopt either commercial differences between grades or that differences be revised every thirty days, the allowance of not more than three grades to be delivered on each contract for 100 bales and a requirement that each bale be identified separately. The present future contract as recognized by the New York exchange is scored as "an impediment to business in that its fluctuations no longer bear any relation to the actual value of cotton."

Coast Line Stock Cut.

Hartford, Conn., February 25.—Filed in the office of the secretary of state today was a certificate of reduction in the capital stock of the Atlantic Coast Line company, of Bridgeport, from $12,640,000 to $8,320,000 and par value of each share from $100 to $50. The reduction is in accordance with a vote taken at the annual stockholders' meeting held at Bridgeport February 20.

MISS KELLY FORCED TO REMOVE HER CAP BY SUPREME COURT

Washington, February 25.—Miss Maud McLure Kelly, of Birmingham, Ala., was admitted to practice today before the supreme court on motion of Secretary Bryan, but to do so she had to take off her head dress. Miss Kelly, a graduate of the University of Alabama, was anxious to wear her academic cap and gown upon being admitted. The court marshal gently reminded her, however, that members of the bar must remove their hats in addressing the court and that the rule applied alike to men and women.

port to the American government on the condition of the Benton corpse. The British ambassador had a brief conference with Secretary Bryan early today, and later was kept informed of messages received by the state department.

No Change of Policy Discussed.

No change of policy in connection with treatment of the Mexican problem was discussed in the senate conference with Secretary Bryan before known afterwards. It is apparent, at least to those officials are not prejudging the Benton affair and are awaiting for facts, the danger to the safety of foreigners in northern Mexico and what is being construed as inability of a part of the constitutionalists, at least to the present, to handle the situation, in receiving deep consideration by high administration officials.

It has developed that the American government is informally looking to General Venustiano Carranza as titular head of the constitutionalists' movement, to clarify the situation in connection with the Benton killing. The news that Luis Cabrera was at Juarez conferring with Villa's friends, urging the immediate delivery of the body for examination, was received with satisfaction by the state department. Cabrera is understood to be an emissary from Carranza and, it is said, the state department has been advised that he has benefited by his activities for protection of foreigners.

Should Carranza's influence with Villa be unavailing in the present instance, it is admitted by many officials, at least to the present, that regard the problem in northern Mexico as having developed a much more serious aspect than before.

Legation Guards for Mexico City.

Another aspect of the situation engaging attention here is the sending to Mexico City of armed legion guards of foreign nations. The possibility of complications over their presence in case of overt acts or disturbances in Mexico City is being taken into consideration. While the suggestion of sending a guard for the American embassy was rejected on previous occasions, weeks ago, it now is being discussed with seriousness.

Secretary Bryan took the senate committee into his confidence on the Mexican situation in general and the Benton case in particular, and also discussed the foreign relations of the nation as pertaining to other countries. He told the committee that the position of the United States in this regard was being improved, averring that ratification of the arbitration treaties last week had been effective in establishing relations and peace.

The committee wanted to learn all the facts that could be obtained with relation to Mexico and Secretary Bryan was asked to answer questions put to him. He emphasized the fact that the policy of the government toward Mexico was received with respect and support from foreign nations, and read to the committee several communications from the subject from other countries called attention to the speech in the house of commons the other day by Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, after the execution of Benton, and declared that it was an evidence of the general satisfaction existing in other lands with respect to the attitude of the United States toward Mexico.

murder and I told them that if the telephone bell had rung once that day it had rung twenty-five times. "The detectives became insistent and asked me if I didn't remember Mr. Frank calling and I said, 'Yes.' Then they asked me if he wanted a room for himself and another person I said, 'Yes,' and right here I want to state that I was particular even though under the influence of liquor, to say that party without mentioning Mr. Frank's name."

WOMAN LEAVES ATLANTA.

"After that they suggested that Mr. Frank was possessed of a mania and asked me if I knew anything about that side of his character. To those questions I also replied in the affirmative. "I went back to Atlanta in September 1913 I was there only a day or so before I heard it whispered that I would be forced to swear in court that I had made that awful affidavit. I just said to myself then that I never would do it. I was still more determined not to stay there to swear to that affidavit following a meeting I attended in the hotel with one of the detectives. His name was Koeser. The detective Koeser told me plainly in the hotel that he had been heard a dirty deal by the other two men and he said he was sorry for me because I didn't deserve it. "Meanwhile I was approached by two other detectives, named Vickery and Hamby, who tried to persuade me to open up in the hotel. They said they wanted me to go back to house-keeping, because I had been a 'good school girl' and they thought I would stand by me to the end in the future. I know now that they only wanted to place me in a position to give their protection. Then they would have a lever with which to keep my mouth shut, in the event of investigation of the conduct of police in the case. It had been rumored in Atlanta that I could tell a good many things about the police.

Frank Rehearing Refused.

In their desperate fight for the life of Leo Frank Luther Koeser and Ruben Arnold will next rely upon a motion extraordinary to be made before the superior court for a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence. This move has been in the air for some time, but it was made definitely known Wednesday, when the supreme court, after twenty-four hours deliberation, refused the plea of the defense for a rehearing. To have discussed the principal grounds to be set forth in the new trial request will be the disclosure of Dr. Roy Harris that he was not positive, one way or the other, that the hair found upon the lathe was Mary Phagan's and that Albert McKnight's reputation of opinion among the original trial will be presented.

Attorneys Arnold and Rosser went into conference Wednesday over the prospective motion extraordinary. Neither, however, would state definitely when the motion would be filed with Judge Ben Hill now presiding over the superior court.

The supreme court, in denying Frank a rehearing, handed down this ruling: "Frank v. State. "On motion for rehearing. "The motion for a new trial contained 105 grounds. To have discussed each of them separately would have unduly prolonged an opinion already necessarily of considerable length. It is likewise to deal with each of the grounds of the application for a rehearing in detail would serve no useful purpose. Suffice it to say that the matter set out in the motion for a rehearing was not overlooked in making the decision, but was carefully considered and passed upon, though all of them were not discussed at length. While the difference of opinion among the members of the court, as to certain questions, which appears from the opinion, still exists, the court is unanimous in overruling the application for a rehearing. "Motion overruled." A new development in the Jim Conroy trial arose Wednesday when William Smith, the negro accomplice of attorney, made application for a new trial under the contention that the verdict of guilty was contrary to law, and to the principles of equity and justice. The motion was filed late in the afternoon, and a hearing will probably be given at an early date.

SENATOR W. S. WEST.

The appointment by Governor Slaton of W. S. West, of Lowndes county, to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator A. O. Bacon is a recognition of signal achievement in the public service and of peculiar personal fitness.

His political record is one of consistent accomplishment, popularity and progress. He served long and with distinction in the state house of representatives. It speaks volumes for the esteem in which he is held in that when he was elected to the state senate he was chosen president of that body.

Indubitably, if the principle of geographical representation is to hold at all in American politics, it was due that south Georgia should have received the senatorship. Not for many years has a United States senator been elected or appointed from that part of the state.

The governor would have made no mistake had he appointed any of the several distinguished south Georgians whose names were presented for his consideration. Of the list every man occupied a unique place in the current history of the state, and any one of them would have represented the state with distinction and ability.

No doubt a consideration largely controlling the appointment of the successful candidate was his close personal relations with the governor and to a great extent the sense of obligation felt by the governor for a marked act of friendship on the part of Mr. West when he withdrew from the contest for the governorship two years ago in behalf of Mr. Slaton.

Senator West goes to Washington well qualified to participate in important legislation now pending. He will, of course, cordially support the policies of the administration, and he will serve the state and the country in a manner worthy of the best ideals of both.

A SHAME AND DISGRACE.

The conditions at Grady hospital, as told the board of trustees by Superintendent Summerall, ought to blister into action the civic conscience of this city. The Grady has only thirty four nurses, including night and day shifts. The superintendent says the hospital should have at least seventy-five nurses.

There is constant congestion and threat of breakdown in efficiency from lack of the proper sort of facilities. The tale of neglect at Grady is nothing new. The Constitution has been hammering the subject for several years.

Conditions at Grady should be remedied at once. It is the one municipal hospital. It is doing a splendid work. It stands between death and disease for many of the worst people in Atlanta. The superintendent, the staff and the trustees have about reached the limit of their resourcefulness.

THE CASE OF BECKER.

The decision of the court of appeals of New York in the case of Lieutenant Charles Becker, accused of instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, ought to drive home a significant precedent in the criminal jurisprudence of this country.

By a practically unanimous verdict, the court annuls the conviction of Becker and gives him another hearing upon the count that he did not have a fair trial.

It analyzes the low moral standing of the principal witnesses against him. It declares that time and again the presiding judge erred in suppressing admissible evidence for the defendant.

The decision plants itself, broadly, upon the immutable Roman and Anglo-Saxon legal principle: That if the atmosphere of a trial or its controlling circumstances are such as to produce bias or inflame prejudice, the accused shall have the benefit of the doubt.

Justice is built upon the theory that a man is innocent until his guilt shall have been established. Justice does not contemplate passion. Justice does not comprehend obscure evidence, or evidence from dubious sources, especially where that evidence shall be substantiated by indirect circumstances only.

The court did not attempt to settle the guilt or the innocence of Becker. Its mandate says only that he has not had a fair trial.

It decrees that he must have a fair trial. Our judicial and legal machinery is at best, an insecure, an arbitrary and a very fallible factor.

But we should at least make it positive that so far as human judgment goes innocence shall not suffer for guilt, nor doubt linger that verdicts are dictated by prejudice.

THE BANKS RESPOND.

The organization of the new currency system announces that banks representing 99.75 per cent of the national banking capital of the country have applied for admission under the Glass Owens law.

The response from trust companies and private banks has been equally emphatic. The negligible number of banks declining assign their reasons to causes entirely outside the virtues and advantages of the new law.

The virtual unanimity of the banking institutions of the country is significant in two directions. It is a conclusive answer to the pessimism of those who declared that the banks of the nation would invalidate the new law by opposing it.

It is final indication that capital in America sees ahead one of the most prosperous periods in the country's history and that it is minded to be duly prepared to reap the attendant harvest.

Of course the receptivity of the banks is largely due to the missionary work done by McAdoo and Houston on their national tour of investigation. These men carried conviction wherever they went and dissipated the lingering remnants of doubt or misgiving.

But it is important to remember that banks of national prominence had asked permission to qualify long before the committee launched its tour. The deciding argument with the financiers is, therefore, that of profit and expediency.

All of which means that, in all probability, by the time the crop moving season moves around we shall have installed and smoothly working one of the best and most approved currency systems in the world, patric proof and sufficiently elastic for sound business.

And that, in turn, the bases of prosperity being sound, signifies a season of affluence which should establish new high records in America's history.

A Rainy Day.

Somehow it always seems to me A rainy day is good to be in. A day when there is naught to do But rummage one's own home-places Attire to cellar—searching away For half lost things on a rainy day.

In trunks with locks covered with rust We delve with an in grins and dust. Elate when lo! we run across Scissors or thimble—some like loss—And letters too, hid in old books—Or cloistered in cobweb nooks.

The old wardrobe now dim-remembered Creeps its doors when intruded For it holds what grandmother wore—The wedding gown gloves, ancient store—Head-dress mantilla a thing hoop skirt—All, with grandfather's lace-ruffled shirt.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

Just from Georgia

The Colonel's Snow-Dream. "Fine day," said the old Colonel, stirring his toddy, and glancing over the snow-deep roofs "It takes me back to the old Virginia miller, and put under it and piled the straw in and—let me see. There were six ruddy checked girls and just as many boys, and we went skidding over the snowlands to the jangling of bells and the music of merry voices—laughter and song and all the wild delight of youth with life before us!

And—the big white house in the distance with the broad fireplace of the great oak logs sending the red sparks flying up the chimney and the ample windows where the freight twinkled welcome or the snow—And want it a hearty 'home' welcome! And as we shook the snow from our caps and cloaks it was long before we heard the old time fiddlers calling the figures of the dance, and 'twas 'Swing yo' partners' and what an 'Ole Ferginny Reel' we made of it! What a dance-wild time it was in the old home-hall!

"Colonel," I interrupted, "you've forgotten to all your glass again!" "Ah, well!" sighed the Colonel, "that's all I HAVE forgotten!" I was just about to beckon you of the dinner—the sparrows and backbones—the country sausage—the home-cured hams—the Oh, we'll all up! Isn't it fine old-fashioned weather? Thank God for the dear old dreams the snow brings!"

A Day for a Gabled Inn.

What joy for a day like this may be, With bread for the weans to win? But he smacked his lips and he says, says he 'Tis a day for a gabled inn! And well say in an inn like that, we rest, And you'll be landlord, and I'll be guest."

When the wind shakes the outer door well say From a snowbound world and dim 'Tis a timely traveler come our way— Make him not lack for a pint of sack And take you his hat and cloak and fill The bowl whose bubbles shall cheer us still!

And Falstaff—Jack of the days of old— To you shall take his place, And he'll not lack for a pint of sack To reddish his round, fat face And Bardolph—he of the crimson nose, A toast to his master shall propose.

Beakers of joy for a day like this! Give us a world of snow To the sweetest loves and dreams we miss (Clink cups to the Long Ago!) The gods be thanked for the joys we win Snowbound in the warmth of a gabled inn!

Quit prophesy in the end o' the world and help it to live a little longer. When it comes to choosing between new brands of trouble for the Lord's sake have another engagement. Even old Satan can't please em' all. Some will want a private fire, with a gridiron fence around it. When the fire burns low pile your troubles on it and start a bigger blaze than ever.

His Wintry Thought. What mercy Providence doth give To all beneath the sky. He even lets the cold trust live And still it will not die. But I'm not asking for my share Its warmth of welcome over there.

The Fredonia Herald tells this lawyer story: "What is that little boy crying about? Asked the benevolent old lady of the ragged boy. 'Dad other kid swiped his candy' was the response. 'But how is it that you have the candy now?' 'Sure I got de candy now. I'm de little kid's lawyer.'

No Wonder He Weakened. To demonstrate the enterprise and patriotism of this community says an editor, for the reason that in its present size it takes too many of them to go round when a subscriber wants to paper his house against the cold.

By the Fireside. Thankful for fire in this world As blizzard winds sweep by, But heaven forbid that in the next It keep us hopping high!

One Lesson of Snow. Days all sorts of lessons in a snow storm, said Brei Williams as he dusted the flakes from his old fur cap all sorts or lessons for you shiverin' sinners but I'm too cool ter thaw em out er my wisdom brain fer yo' enlightenment—unless I had a sarchin' fram er looser my joints but I'll take time ter say dis much ter you. Watch yo' ways whar you gwint an keep dis word befo' yo' eyes I never has seen de devil in a snowstorm!

Another Life-Lesson. So far as known says The Adams Enterprise 'only one mule offered objections to converting the wagon into a sleigh and wearing clanking cowbells on its neck. The wagon and its owner haven't come down yet and we can't say just how high they went but the mule is sad and serene. Thus it is with life. The old timers kick at everything new!

A Rainy Day. Somehow it always seems to me A rainy day is good to be in. A day when there is naught to do But rummage one's own home-places Attire to cellar—searching away For half lost things on a rainy day.

Efficient Housekeeping

By HENRIETTA D. GRAVEL, Domestic Science Lecturer. Recipes for Dainty Salads. Salads are the most appetizing additions one can make to the daily bill of fare. A rich dressing makes their food value high and the succulent vegetables, that usually compose them, furnish the minerals our systems need.

It is only a matter of practice for any one to produce a smooth dressing, but for those who have no time for the blending, mixing and beating of eggs and oils there are a host of ready-made dressings that more than equal the average home-made article.

The following salad mixtures will afford satisfaction when blended with a fine mayonnaise or a French dressing. They are pungent, rich and should tempt the most jaded appetite.

Molded Tomatoes. Chop celery fine and season it with salt and pepper. Scoop out the inside of small tomatoes, remove the seed and chop this and mix with the celery and salad dressing. Fill the tomatoes with this and place on a heap of shredded lettuce with a spoonful of dressing.

Chorus Girl Salad. Dice enough lobster meat to fill a pint measure and chop a few mushrooms and cut some water cress fine. Mix this together and season very delicately with celery salt and white pepper. Sprinkle about ten drops of vinegar over all and cover for twenty minutes. When ready to serve place a head lettuce leaf on an individual salad platter and on it put a spoonful of the salad. Masque this with rich salad dressing. Garnish each plate with olives, stuffed with capers or pimientos and curled celery and lobster claws.

Popular Salad. This is of apple and celery. Chop celery and add chopped nut meats and as much diced apple as will equal the amount of the above. Mix with dressing and serve in apple shells or as you like. Olives, Beets and Potatoes. Dice these cold boiled vegetables or cut them in strips with a vegetable cutter. Put the potatoes into the dressing at once and the beets into spiced vinegar when serving dish alternately.

Cabbage Salad for Men. Dip some bacon and fry it until brown and crisp, add a cup of vinegar and salt and pepper to season. Bring to boil and pour at once over shredded cabbage. Have this very cold when serving it.

Ladies Cabbage Salad. Chop the cabbage very fine and salt it. Whip a half pint of cream and add four tablespoons of powdered sugar to it. Sprinkle a tablespoon of vinegar over the cabbage then pour on this sweetened cream. Mix chill and serve. Cauliflower Salad. Boil a cauliflower in salted water and place in center of salad dish and garnish with sliced or fancy cut beets.

French Cucumber Salad. Slice the cucumbers and soak them in salted ice water for several ours. Slice tender onions also and mix them together. Serve on cream with mayonnaise.

New Orleans Salad. Boil tender okra until well done drain and chill. Dip small sweet peppers in boiling fat and cut the skin into match like strips. Mix pepper and okra together cover with rich dressing and serve with fowl or fish. The peppers may be sliced and soaked in salt water and then fried in butter if it is not convenient to fry them as directed.

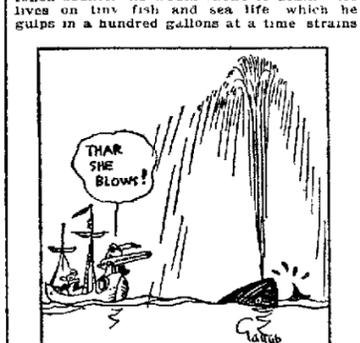

WHALES.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Blawh."

The whale is a sea-going animal and is the largest thing that man is able to kill. The whale does not live in rivers and lakes owing to their lack of elbow room. His home is in the middle of the ocean. He is born at sea and he does not leave the ocean during his life even to go into dry dock and have the barnacles scraped off his bottom.

A large whale is eighty feet long and has a tail and fins big enough to spank a schooner severely. He is one third head together cover with rich dressing and serve with fowl or fish. The peppers may be sliced and soaked in salt water and then fried in butter if it is not convenient to fry them as directed.

The whale has a month almost as large as a union station but no throat at all to speak of. If he were to swallow a meal as carelessly as a hurried business man in a lunch counter he would choke to death. He lives on tiny fish and sea life which he gulps in a hundred gallons at a time strains

Like the North Pacific fire department, through his whalebone section and swallows blowing the surplus water through a spout in a way which makes him look like the North Pacific fire department.

Whales have never been caught with a hook and line but a good many of them have barely escaped by breaking away in the rivers and streams of many countries.

An Imprudent Man.

(From The Chicago Record-Herald) Governor Ferris, of Michigan says girls are little wild brutes. He must intend to return from politics before the girls get a chance to vote in Michigan.

What Next? (From The Washington Star) Instead of being a Non hunter Colonel Roosevelt in South America is a snake charmer.

The Great Trials of History

TRIAL OF HERR MOST.

During the last quarter of the nineteenth century a trial that was very much discussed—on account of the elements of sensation about it—was the prosecution of Herr Johann Most and his German paper called 'The Freiheit.' Most was the editor and proprietor of the paper which was printed in London and it was claimed that he had endeavored to incite persons in Germany and in foreign countries to assassinate their rulers and also with having published a false and malicious libel concerning the late emperor of Russia, and with inciting evil-disposed persons to murder the reigning sovereigns of Russia.

The case was brought to trial on May 25, 1881. The attorney general in opening the case said the question to be tried was whether articles of such a nature as that published by the defendant could be printed with impunity. That Most was the writer of the articles in the paper was not disputed. Prior to the publishing of the articles in question attempts had been made upon the lives of several of the rulers of Europe. On the 13th of March the Emperor of Russia was murdered and no argument could be allowed to maintain the justice of the murder.

The court held that the editor had the right to express his views in relation to political matters but the question for the jury was whether the prisoner had not exceeded the limit which the law of Germany allowed. The article complained of was in part as follows: 'Triumph—Triumph—at last the word of the poet is fulfilled—one of the most horrible tyrants of Europe whose destruction has long been desired and before whose withering and revengeful wrath countless heroes and heroines of the Russian people sunk into the grave or the prison. The Emperor of Russia is no more. Could only one such cowardly rascaluffin be put to death in the future to play at monarchy.'

There were other articles published in Most's paper and the assassin Kousakoff was described as a person who ought never to be spoken of but with reverence. Another article complained of was in part as follows: 'I know I'll never stick to a good resolution. The next time I see Doolittle trying to kill a rooster I'll go over and offer to help him and he'll hit me on the side of the head with the ax instead of killing the bird. There's no more talking preser—'

I quite agree with you, interrupted the professor; it would be a great relief to your friends if you would live up to that.

Handicaps to Alaska's Progress. (From Alaska—A Future Empire) by F. A. Thomas in The American Review of Reviews.

While Alaska is an empire in the making progress has been greatly retarded. The physical forces as at work. Men are there and industry is established. Nature has lavished her gifts on the region but gloom, discouragement and stagnation are the places of activity, prosperity and happiness.

Man has not been in harmony with his environment. Political conditions have disturbed the balance and readjustment has not been made.

There is a big task ahead and it is no theorist's job. Practical minds are needed. There has been a lot of long distance talking but the patient has not worn a plastered several more. Finally I struck a Real medicine is needed.

In July last a Norwegian ship unloaded a cargo of coal from Australia at Unalakleet for the United States vessels doing patrol and revenue cutter service in the north. Yet Captain Porter, then of the Buffalo, after testing Matanuska coal said it was better than the best Welsh product and far superior to Puget-sounds.

Last year Alaska produced 29,220,441 pounds of coal. Only 1,000,000 of the ore some fifty ship-loads was smelted at Tacoma. Instead of in Alaska some of it with coal from Australia. Yet the Bering river coal makes superior coke and this coal and all of this copper ore lies within a very short radius of which Cordova is the center.

In short all industry in Alaska is under handicap. Settlement is under a similar handicap for it too depends upon some sort of a definite domain problems.

Land classification must precede every other move if we are to work out a public land policy which will encourage development. Coal lands, oil lands, agricultural lands, mineral lands and forest lands must go the part laureate of the time succeed in his Shakespearean work that he attempted to rewrite them. John Boteler a literary man of the time wrote to Tate. Once upon a time there was a great man called Shakespeare who wrote a thing called 'Lear' and I got hold of a copy of 'Lear' and proceeded to make it into a play and published it in 1699. He dedicated his work to the friend Boteler. He wrote that he found the play a heap of nonsense and unpolished. I was so dazzled in my disorder that I soon perceived that I had seized a treasure. It was my good fortune to light on one expedient to rectify what was wanting in the regularity and probability of the tale. I have read Tate's version and instead of finding it a heap of rubbish, discovered it to be a mountain of rubbish.

A Poet Laureate Who "Improved" on Shakespeare.

(From The Kansas City Star) It is a matter of surprise says B. H. Sothern to discover that William Shakespeare was almost entirely unknown in England fifty years after his death. This can be understood in a measure when it is known that in the first edition of his works published in 1616 and the second in 1632 that little more than sixteen hundred copies of the plays had been printed. All of these volumes were of course to be found in the hands of students and in noblemen's houses.

This can be understood in a measure when it is known that in the first edition of his works published in 1616 and the second in 1632 that little more than sixteen hundred copies of the plays had been printed. All of these volumes were of course to be found in the hands of students and in noblemen's houses.

It is a matter of surprise says B. H. Sothern to discover that William Shakespeare was almost entirely unknown in England fifty years after his death. This can be understood in a measure when it is known that in the first edition of his works published in 1616 and the second in 1632 that little more than sixteen hundred copies of the plays had been printed. All of these volumes were of course to be found in the hands of students and in noblemen's houses.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Poet. MEN WHO DO THINGS.

'I grow weary of reading of men who do things observed the professor, as he laid aside a magazine. "The public prints are full of stories glorifying such men and when you analyze them you find that their actions are all selfish. Doing things in this country usually means acquiring a huge fortune in a short time. Helping others is the true achievement. Unless we help others our triumphs are vain and empty."

The professor said the low brooded man, but it is like a lot of other things—it doesn't work out well in practice. I was thinking just this morning that most of my troubles have come from helping others. All my life I've been handing out assistance to my neighbors in one way or another and that is why my name is Mudd now that I am stricken in years.

I have always championed the cause of the unfortunate whether they were human beings or dumb brutes. According to the books of men who do that sort of thing should live happily ever after, but so unpleasant happens to me every time I go on an errand of mine. Last summer there was a stray dog hanging round the neighborhood and it couldn't find the word 'Well' out of their doormat. I saw women chasing it out of their doorways with broom and men throwing brick bats at it until my heart ached for the unfortunate creature. So I made up my mind to give it a haven of rest in the cow barn. The next time the dog came bounding around I called it to me and said, "Come at once, bosom my own stricken pup and tied it in the barn, but that dog had hanged or seven year itch or some disease of that sort and it spread to all the cows and if you could have seen those wretched animals standing on end in an effort to rub their backs against the ridge-pole of the barn you couldn't have restrained your tears.

Aunt Julia mixed up two gallons of ointment for the itch, and I had to rub it into the ends of their tails and the remarks I made concerning homeless dogs brought some of the neighbors with threats that if I didn't use denaturated kerosene oil they would send for the police. I had to grease in cows five times before they got rid of the disease and they fell off their feet. I was so tired and let the dog out and he came back with a good deal like that Japanese volcano which covered the surrounding landscape with boiling lava and melted brimstone.

The other day I saw old Doolittle trying to load a big trunk into his spring wagon. I was sitting on the porch and saw him break the hinges and the trunk came around and broke his suspenders and then I went over and offered to help him. I believe the trunk was filled with sad ions and lead clock weights. It weighed more than an ordinary hardware set and both he and I were so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it.

I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it. I was so tired and he had to get a horse to pull it.

Mrs. W. S. West, Her Young Son and Their Beautiful Home

The home of Senator and Mrs. William S. West, in Valdosta, is one of the handsomest in the state, and is noted for its hospitality. Mrs. West is a charming woman, who graces and adorns the social life of her section. William S. West, Jr., is the pride of his parents' hearts.

W. S. WEST NAMED TO SUCCEED BACON

he will tender me the unexpired term of Senator Bacon. I consider it not only a great compliment to myself, but more especially to the section of the state from which I come. It has been many, many years since south Georgia has had a representative in the senate of the United States. I mean by that the real southern section of the state which, as the records will show, has made the most rapid progress of any part of the state during the past twenty years.

"I am aware of the fact that many distinguished men in my part of the state were urged for this appointment, and I am frank to say that if the governor had seen fit to appoint anyone of the names presented to him I would have very cordially approved the appointment. The governor could have made no mistake in naming any one of the large number of representative Georgians presented to his consideration.

"Now, that the matter has been settled, it is in order for me to say that I am very cordially in sympathy with the policy of President Wilson and his administration. No member of the senate will be more earnest than I will be in sustaining our great president and the policies of his administration. I am contented to mention on earth but to what I believe to be the conscientious discharge of my duty, and I consider that it is the first duty of every democrat to stand back of the president in the fight he is making for the principles upon which rest the very life of our party. I shall cooperate with him to the very best of my ability.

As regards the various appointments that may come under my consideration, I think it also proper that I should say in this connection that I shall regard the sentimental consideration carried in the recommendations of the distinguished senator whom I have been named to succeed. Where it appears that Senator Bacon is on record as having favored any specific appointment in my part of the state, I will consider it a moral obligation on my part to do just what he would have done had he lived, and it goes without saying that without having heard a word from Mr. Boileau, or from anybody else on the subject, I will deem it a privilege and an honor to tender to Mr. Boileau the same position under me that he held for so long under Senator Bacon.

Sketch of New Senator.
The following sketch of Colonel

West was written by the late C. R. Pendleton, editor of The Macon Telegraph, and appeared in "Men of Mark in Georgia."

"William Stanley West, the oldest surviving son of James and Mary A. West, is leading member of the Lowndes county bar, with residence and office in the city of Valdosta. He was born in Macon county, Georgia, August 23, 1849; was educated in Mercer university, where he graduated with the degree of bachelor of arts, subsequently receiving the degree of master of arts from the same institution, completing his education when he was 33 years of age. While a student there he was honored with the presidency of the Cleroan Literary society and was anniversary of that society in 1880.

"In the early portion of his business life he was engaged in teaching, continuing in this occupation for some time after leaving college. He was then identified with sawmilling and lumbering interests, as well as other enterprises, after which he graduated in the law department of Mercer university, and was admitted to the bar upon completing his course. He located in Valdosta, where he soon demonstrated his ability as an attorney and counselor at law, and won a high standing at the bar.

Interest in Public Affairs.

Mr. West has always taken a keen interest in public affairs, and has been for years recognized as one of the active democratic workers and leaders in Georgia. From 1882 to 1897 he served as a member of the lower house of the state legislature, and in 1898 was a member of the state senate. In 1900 he declined a return to the lower house, but was elected to that body in 1902 and served until 1904. In 1905-06 he was again returned to the state senate without opposition, and was elected president of that body. In 1908 he was sent as a delegate-at-large from the state of Georgia to the national democratic convention, held at Denver, Col. When he first entered the legislature, in 1892, he introduced the bill for uniform system of textbooks in the common schools of the state, which was one of the most important measures he ever championed. While he continued to introduce this bill at each successive term of the legislature, it was opposed with such stubbornness at each session that it did not finally pass both houses until 1905. He also introduced the bill looking to the erection of a new passenger station for the Western and Atlantic railroad in Atlanta, this measure he regarded as important for the preservation of one of the state's most valuable properties, and while it passed the senate it was defeated in the house after a long and spirited contest. Mr. West also introduced in 1905 a bill which he took great interest in, and which bill passed the senate in 1905 and the house in 1906.

Another measure in which he took an active interest was the bill looking to the leasing of the Western and Atlantic railroad for a term of sixty years, at not less than $50,000 per month, after the expiration of the present lease. The bill passed the senate in 1906, but failed to pass the house. Through its failure he thinks the state will ultimately suffer a great loss in revenues. Besides the act referred to directly, he was also active in the support of and interest in shaping much of the important legislation during his long service of thirteen years in the general assembly. His record as president of the senate is shown by the following extract from a letter written to him by one of his colleagues:

"A word of our senatorial work. No senate has in my life experience done so much with no friction as that over which you presided. I will write what I think best, and I will say to you that you presided with marked and unexcelled, if ever equaled, ability, dignity and impartiality over a Georgia senate that acted on more important and far-reaching legislation than any senate since 1870-72. You made a record that will be an honor to you, your great boy, your splendid wife, and your family and people. This I say with care and measure of each word. You have nothing to regret. You can rest assured in the full recognition of your superb administration by the people of today as well as those of tomorrow."

Mr. West's public career, like his professional and business life, was not only marked with ability and great courage of conviction, but with unusual candor and honesty of purpose. His campaigns for political office were pitched on a high plane, and his bold advocacy of those things which he believed to be best for his fellow man, won the admiration and often the votes of the people who were his opponents. He was never defeated, although he several times had strong and determined opposition.

On November 15, 1883, Mr. West was united in marriage to Miss Ora Lee Crawford, daughter of John L. and Jane (Baird) Crawford, originally of Pike county, Georgia. To this union has been born one son, William Stanley, Jr., April 7, 1907.

No Contest Over West.
Washington, February 25.—No contest over the sending of W. S. West as senator from Georgia, to succeed the late Senator Bacon can develop in the senate, after the appointment was made under the Georgia law recently enacted for such emergencies, Senator Kern, chairman of the privileges and elections committee, said tonight that

Mr. West's credentials would be considered as soon as Governor Slaton forwards them to Washington, and that the committee would favorably report them to the senate.

South Georgia Overjoyed.

Valdosta, Ga., February 25.—(Special.)—No event in the history of south Georgia has caused greater enthusiasm in this city and section than the appointment of Colonel W. S. West to the United States senate. Governor Slaton's action in naming him to succeed the lamented Bacon is meeting with the widest approbation. It is regarded not only as a tribute to Colonel West's splendid ability, but as a long-delayed recognition of south Georgia's claim.

Few men in Georgia have been more actively interested in the political affairs of the state for a longer period, or have made greater impression on legislation. Colonel West's name was quietly but vigorously urged by his friends and while a few of them went in person to call on Governor Slaton, no effort was made to overrule the governor by clamorous delegations. The appointment will no doubt give entire satisfaction and will redound to the credit of the governor, as well as to the state.

SHORTSTOP BISLAND HERE FEW MINUTES

Passed Through En Route to St. Petersburg, Fla., to Report to the Browns.

Rivington Bisland, the Crackers' sensational shortstop last season, was in Atlanta yesterday for ten minutes between trains. "I thought I'd get out of the snow when I got down here," he said. "I've seen snow every minute since the train left New York and I'm tired of it, inasmuch as I had plenty of it in Gotham before I left. Let's hope there isn't any in Florida."

Bisland was interested in the report that he was going to be sent to the St. Petersburg club, of the American Association. "I don't believe that he is going to lose out with the Browns, and if he does, he wants to play in Atlanta."

Manager Rickey treated me fine last season," said Bisland, "and he never looked at me as if I wasn't doing my work. He lent me every encouragement and I believe that he is going to give me a trial this spring. "But if he turns me loose, no Indianapolis for me. I want to play in Atlanta, again, if I cannot stay in the big league. I was treated fine here last season."

Not wishing you any hard luck, Bizzy, old boy, but if that's the way you feel about it, we hope you don't make good so you will be back on the old job again. That's how selfish we are.

Gymnasium Excellence To Be Rewarded With E's at Emory College

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., February 25.—(Special.)—Emory college is to be rewarded with "E's" similar to the letters now given by the student body to the athletes in football, baseball and basketball. The new "E's" will be given by the student body to the athletes in the branch of gymnasium work. The director of the gymnasium, who is a member of the faculty, and two other gentlemen, will comprise a committee to award the letters. The two committees will be appointed by the members of the students athletic committee.

The maximum number of "E's" to be awarded in one scholastic year is six, and if there are not six students who come up to the requirements, only the efficient students will receive them.

One of the requirements is that the students must be excellent in one branch of the gymnasium work and proficient in two other branches.

This new move has stimulated the student body to six students in the branch of the gymnasium work, which is under the supervision of the college, although the students took the initiative concerning the letters.

NATIONAL COMMISSION CHANGES ITS RULES

Changes Made to Comply With Agreement With Players' Fraternity.

New York, February 25.—The national commission today announced several important changes to its rules, changes made to comply with the agreement recently reached with the players' fraternity.

Rule 35 has been amended to read as follows:

"Major league player shall not be released outright or under an optional agreement to a club in Class A, or lower classification, until interleague waivers have been first obtained on him, as provided in rule 23, and such player has been tendered to all Class AA clubs at a price not to exceed $1,000; and if such release be to a club below A, to all class A clubs at a price not to exceed $750.

The following paragraph on the same subject has been added to rule 23:

"Interleague waivers, which may be requested at any time, shall be secured on every major league player other than a drafted or purchased player, before he shall be released to a club of lower classification, clubs of the league club soliciting waivers to have the preference in his allotment. Such players, if claimed, may be retained by the club applying for waivers or withdrawal of its waiver request within two days after receipt of notification of such claim. The waiver price of a player other than a drafted player shall be fixed by negotiations between the interested club, or, in the event of their failure to agree, by the national commission, whose decision shall be final."

These changes, according to Secretary John Heyder, of the National League, mean that no player will leave one major league unless all clubs in the other league have been given a chance to procure him; also that the player cannot be released to a league other than the one to which he was immediately released. The new rule goes into effect immediately.

Sharkey Must Serve His Jail Sentence

New York, February 25.—Tom Sharkey, former pugilist, will have to serve out his term of thirty days in the county jail and then be confined to a room on him for maintaining the saloon on East Fourteenth street, which the court of special sessions decided was a disorderly place. Justice Colahan refused yesterday to grant a certificate of reasonable doubt to Sharkey, play from now on and Boys' High loses only to Marist. Marist will be tied with Boys' High, each having a percentage of 84.

Boys' High has three games to play that are with the strongest teams in the National league recruits in gaining they will have to travel some in order to finish the season with only losing one game.

They have gone to work hard since their defeat at the hands of Marist Tuesday and are practicing assiduously and team work in which they were sadly off in Tuesday's struggle.

There is a complete standing of the local league:

NAME	Won	Lost	P.C.
Boys' High	8	1	.888
Donald Fraser	7	2	.777
St. John's	6	4	.600
Stone Mountain	3	8	.272
Peacock Fleet	0	11	.000

Marist defeated Boys' High on Boys' High court. Boys' High will have to travel at a much faster gait than they did in the Marist game to win out over Donald Fraser in Decatur.

The race for the pennant in the local league is tightening up now, and will, no doubt, be fought out between Marist and Boys' High when they meet on the Marist court in a postponed game next week.

Boys' High is leading with a percentage of .888 with Marist second, having won seven and lost two, with a percentage of .777. Marist has three more games to play, while Boys' High plays the same number. Now, if Boys' High can hold the lead that they have and win the games except the one they are to play, they will be tied with Marist for first place, while if they win all the three games that they play from now until the end of the season, they will lead with a percentage of .917. If Marist wins all three games that they

FULTON COUNTY BOARD TO VOTE ON REFORMS

Ousting of Donaldson Brothers to Be Considered at the Meeting Today.

The Fulton county commissioners meet at 10 o'clock this morning to act upon the recent recommendations of the grand jury who made a drastic and mandatory presentation on the local convict situation over two weeks ago.

From a standpoint of actual votes, it is conceded that the Donaldsons will be asked to resign. However, two members of the board will ask that an official investigation be opened into the conduct of either one or both of the Donaldsons.

Discussing the matter of the appointment of a county convict warden Chairman Tull C. Waters declared on Wednesday that he was unequivocally for the retention of the Donaldson brothers until such time as an expert in penal affairs can be selected to fill the place to be created by board action today.

The files of the county commissioners last night showed over 100 applications for the job of convict warden which is to be filled. Among the names presented are many of the well-known politicians of this city and county.

So far as a salary for the new position is concerned nothing definite has as yet been set although the commissioners at an informal meeting last Monday, placed the sum in the neighborhood of $3,600 per year.

Should the Donaldson brothers resign, it is likely that but one man will be named for the position of superintendent of construction now held by St. Donaldson. One of the assistants in the department of public works will be made assistant of construction given a small increase in salary, and thus the gap made by the resignation of Tom Donaldson, now superintendent of paving, will be filled in.

A meeting of the county commissioners will be held Monday, at which time the question of the abolishment of whipping in convict camps will be discussed.

The season of Lent began on Wednesday and for the next forty days Atlanta will forego the giddy whirl of the city and theater for penitence and fasting, meditation and a rehabilitation of its moral and religious being.

The services of Lent began in the Catholic and Episcopal churches on Wednesday, when the meaning and importance of Lent was impressed upon the congregations. At Sacred Heart the services began with the distribution of palm branches and the holding of a service on Sunday and Wednesday.

The Episcopal church services will be held every day except on Saturdays, and there will be special services on Thursdays.

His child badly hurt, he sues for damages.

Floyd C. Cooper, Jr., a minor, through his next friend, F. C. Cooper, a well known traveling salesman of Atlanta, filed suit Wednesday in the superior court against Landrum, a well known $500 damages which Cooper alleges is due him following Landrum's collision with his child on the Brown Mill road, about August 1913.

Cooper alleges that his wife and child were on their way to visit the home of Tull C. Waters, and when alighting from a public bus that runs in Brown Mill road, Landrum came by on a motorcycle and struck the child, seriously injuring it.

Cooper further alleges that the road was forty feet wide at the point of collision and that the injury inflicted on the child was due to "gross carelessness."

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Ohio Society of Georgia, held at the Ansley hotel, Dr. Stone presiding, it was unanimously adopted that for the year 1914, the Ansley hotel shall be the Ohio society's headquarters. A monthly meeting will be held in the hotel, the first Friday of each month, in the form of a social gathering, with entertainment.

Members of Company Try to Persuade Chief to Let Alberta Nix Go With Them.

The step-father of pretty 14-year-old Alberta Nix, who ran away from her home in Macon, Ga., a fortnight ago, charged with the murder of her father, has been rehearsing at the Atlanta hotel, came to Atlanta yesterday to try to persuade the chief of police to let her go with them.

When Richard L. C. Richards, of 332 Columbus street, Macon, who is engaged in the railroad business there, was in Atlanta Tuesday to get Virginia Nix, the daughter of his brother, another young girl who ran away from home in company with Alberta.

Chief Jett told Alberta that she would have to wait until the chief had seen the other show girl gave vent to her feelings, blowing out the chief and her step-father.

Chief Jett, however, stood firm in his decision and put the young girl under arrest and charged her with the murder of her father, until the next train left for Macon. He advised her that if she had her father's money with her, she would be better off to return to it and not to follow him.

At a luncheon at the Ansley hotel today, the local weather bureau, will give the Rotary club an address on "Early morning weather in Atlanta." The speaker will explain in detail why we have such variable weather in Atlanta, and why it comes from the Atlantic and why there is so much of it.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Real estate announcements on Wednesday were extremely scarce, and real estate activity still more scarce, the reason for the latter conditions being the weather.

George F. Moore has sold for J. Turner Carson and James L. Wright to George C. Rogers, No. 55 East Alabama street, for a consideration of $22,500. This property consists of a mill constructed building on a lot fronting 1 1/2 feet. The consideration was given in $7,500 cash and the balance in notes.

The Martin-Osburn Realty company held for J. T. Oakes to J. C. Humlin, No. 541 Ponce de Leon avenue, a two-story, eight-room residence, on 102 1/2 feet, and a lot, rear, Nos. 103, 104, for a consideration of $11,500.

BOY NOTIFIES POLICE OF GROCERY BURGLARY

The grocery store of Sam Goldstein, 81 Conally street, was entered last night about 7:30 o'clock by three negroes, who threw a gun into the face of the groceryman and robbed his cash drawer of $5.

The hold-up was witnessed by a small white boy who was standing across the street. He immediately telephoned the police.

Officers McDaniel and Wood answered the call but by the time they arrived on the scene of the robbery the negroes had made safe their escape.

The groceryman gives the following description of the three negroes: No. 1 is about 27 years of age, tall, brown hair, wearing a dark suit, white shirt and a white handkerchief around his neck. No. 2 was a young negro about 22 years of age, wearing a dark suit and a cap on the order of those worn by street car men which pulls down over the ears. No. 3 was described as about the same as No. 2.

ELOPER IS CAUGHT AND BOUND OVER ON KIDNAPING CHARGE

Gainesville, Ga., February 25.—(Special.)—Dewitt Pressley, son of a prominent planter of upper Hall county, was jailed here yesterday on a charge of kidnaping a young girl, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Fowler, of this city.

At a luncheon at the Ansley hotel today, the local weather bureau, will give the Rotary club an address on "Early morning weather in Atlanta." The speaker will explain in detail why we have such variable weather in Atlanta, and why it comes from the Atlantic and why there is so much of it.

Notifications of the luncheon have been sent out to the members of the Rotary club by President E. H. Goodhart and Secretary Howard Goldert, and reservations are being made.

BECKER TO TRAIL REAL MURDERERS

Man Saved From Chair Says Men Who Killed Rosenthal Are at Large—Bitter Against Schepps.

Ossining, N. Y., February 25.—As soon as Charles Becker gets out of prison he will devote all his energies, he says, to running down the men who are responsible for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The former New York police lieutenant, who was granted a new trial yesterday for the Rosenthal murder, declared today that he could furnish information that would bring the real culprits to justice. "After I have done that," said Becker, "I shall be willing to go back to the police department, if they want me. If they do not, I will enter some other line of work."

Gets Skin Nice And Clear

Puts Life into Muscles—Gives Just the Slight Exhilaration Needed for Health

Nature has supplied us with wonderful materials for the restoration of health. It is from our own forests that Georgia people have the best medicine in the world. S. S. S., the famous vegetable blood purifier, has been a marvel for more than forty years. And its action in overcoming all skin troubles and blood risings or eruptions is easily explained. The skin is but a network of fine blood vessels. And it is perfectly natural that any unhealthful influence in the blood makes its first appearance in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration. Thus pimples, boils, eczema, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin, is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

John Drew.

(At the Atlanta.) John Drew, the noted star, will appear at the Atlanta on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. He will be seen in the double bill of J. M. Barrie's "The Will" and "The Admirable Crichton". Both of these plays are new pieces and Mr. Drew is doing the most wonderful work of his career. He is surrounded by a brilliant company and the production of the month's American Musicals declares Mr. Drew to be the greatest actor of his generation. In the present bill and the night of his career Drew and his company will be seen in the list of the theatrical offerings of the season. # Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Roswell.) There are good features in the bill at the Roswell this week and the attendance is showing a marked increase. Even last night, with keep-at-home weather, the house was comfortably filled and the work of the vaudeville artists, William H. Mason and his company in a splendid Irish comedy, which was offered last night, was of course, the interesting event of the program. For next week the Dance Revue, with its pretty girls, will be one of the headline features and a special attraction will be pretty Ethel Green.

Norman Hackett.

(At the Lyric.) Norman Hackett's production of "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" is pleasing the Lyric and the house chorus has made a real hit and there is plenty of interest. For the coming week the stock will play "Alias Jimmie Walker" with the famous Paul Armstrong crook play.

"In Wyoming."

(At the Bijou.) "In Wyoming," as presented by Eddie Black and his associates played this week. The Lyric has secured a huge hit with patrons of the Bijou. Record audiences have attended the performance and the indications are that standing room will be at a premium Saturday evening and Sunday. This week's offering is a rattling good western melodrama. There are numerous thrills in each of the four acts and there's plenty of comedy to offset the lines and situations bordering on the tragic.
