clared, "I am perfectly satisfied with results, I am utterly confident of success, and there is positively no doubt in my mind that I will soon be able to point conclusively at the slayer of Mary Phagan."

he intended conferring with Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey and with the detectives at police headquarters. It was in his answer to this question that the detective made the interesting assertion that Dorsey had likely been misled in Frank's prosecution.

"But it was by private detectives," Burns declared. "The average private detective is one of the most diabolical evils with which we have to contend. If we take it for granted that Dorsey was misled in the Frank case, I firmly believe he is the kind of man who will set about at once to rectify the wrong he has done."

"Dorsey was not prejudiced. Although I do not know him, I understand him to be an entirely different type of man. He believed that what action he took was right, and that it was founded on justifiable basis. He might have been zealous—that he is granted—but our country would be a bad fix if we did not have public prosecutors who took up their duty with zeal and spirit."

"If Leo Frank is guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan, he should hang. Whoever is guilty should hang. I feel that way, and Dorsey felt that way. Dorsey believed he was guilty. Dorsey was furnished with substance that tended conclusively to show that Frank was guilty. Dorsey didn't molest that substance. It was collected by others and put in his hands."

Convincing Results.
"For this reason: I will have results that will convince them all. I am thoroughly satisfied of that. Even at this early day, I am prepared to do no little amount of convincing. And when I am near the finishing point, I will turn my data over to the solicitor general and he may act as he sees fit upon it."

In keeping with Burns' theory that a criminal mind had produced the murder of Mary Phagan, the reporter put this question: "Could a man of high intellectual capacity and culture be capable of the crime?"

The detective smiled non-committally, answering readily: "That I would prefer not to say." "Then, do you think that the murder was committed through savage instinct and nature?"

"Neither would I answer that at present."

Burns would not say one way or the other whether or not he had formed any opinion or theory of the crime, or whether he had set suspicion upon any particular suspect.

"Even if I had formed an opinion or theory, he said, it would not be proper for me to discuss it at this time."

He was unable to give any definite idea of the length of his investigation. It may last for many days further, he stated, and may not be necessarily so long.

Dorsey's Attitude.
The attitude of Solicitor Dorsey toward the Burns investigation still remains a mystery. He will have nothing whatever to say for publication. He was asked the question point-blank: "Will you co-operate with Burns?"

"I don't care to talk of the subject," was his answer.

"Do you refuse to co-operate?" "I won't say one way or the other," Burns stated to the reporter that his probe was actual, clear and definite. He had nothing to conceal, he stated, and every fragment of his findings will eventually be made public. He is not representing any individual.

"I am merely solving the mystery," he said, "and making pleasing progress in my work."

Night Trip to Factory.
Detective Burns, accompanied by Leonard Haas and others associated with Frank's defense, again went over the scene of the crime last night in the National Penitentiary building on Forsyth street. The doors were locked upon their entrance, and none others were admitted.

It is said, although not verified, that the noted sleuth went over the second floor, seeking to establish certain possibilities of Jim Conley's narration. They spent anywhere from five to ten minutes in the basement where the body was discovered.

Immediately after he had returned to the Georgian Terrace from the penitentiary building, Burns was contacted by a reporter for The Constitution. He would not discuss the trip to the building, saying that he had gone there merely to follow up certain developments in his investigation. He would not say whether or not he had made examinations at the scene upon the theory of the prosecution.

Whether or not new clues had prompted the journey to the factory building, Burns would not say. He believed, however, that he has revealed new threads of the crime which require a second examination of the penitentiary premises. This is the second time Burns has gone over the scene of the crime.

His trip to the plant building last night lasted from 7:30 o'clock until some time after 10, after which he went to his apartments in the Georgian Terrace. He expects, he stated to the reporter, to make other visits to the factory.

Debate by Law Students.
After a hotly contested debate on the question of whether or not Leo Frank should have a new trial, the junior class of the Atlanta Law school decided Thursday that he should not.

For nearly an hour, arguments, charges and counter-charges were made by the emboldened lawyers. The debate was entirely impromptu, being arranged without preparation, when it was found that the class instructor in Agency Law was unavoidably absent Thursday afternoon. The debate was proposed and carried out by Leo Frank should have a new trial.

He was a graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Georgia, who is now connected with the municipal court while studying law, who should not sit in the jury box and the supreme court. His principal argument was that the question now being raised by the adherents of the convicted man, and being agitated throughout the country, were argued to the supreme court of Georgia and turned down by that austere body as insufficient to warrant a

WHITE HOUSE BACKING GOOD ROADS MEASURE
President Wilson is for the Shackelford Bill With Certain Changes.

Washington, March 19.—Good roads legislation at this session of congress was confidently predicted today when it became known after conferences at the white house, between President Wilson and Secretary Swanson, of Virginia, and Secretary of Agriculture Houston that the president would support the Shackelford road bill if certain modifications were made in it by the senate.

Just what changes will be made is not known, but it is believed one will provide a $5,000,000 appropriation for road improvements and construction work this year. As passed by the house the bill would authorize an expenditure of $25,000,000, to be divided among the states on a basis of population and the number of miles of post roads, with the stipulation that each state should shall put up a like amount from its own treasury.

The president today told callers that at the conference between Senator Swanson and Secretary Houston a common viewpoint on the subject of the road bill had been developed. With the ideas suggested in the conference as a basis, members of the senate should be able to bring their efforts to modify the Shackelford bill.

DEPRIVED OF BEARD, LOUISIANA LAWYER SEEKS ONLY $60,000

Washington, March 19.—What is the value of a beard? That is the novel question which the learned justices of the supreme court have been asked to determine.

The case in point is that of E. A. O'Sullivan, a Louisiana lawyer, who placed a value of $60,000 on a growth of his beard. O'Sullivan, who formerly was district attorney, state senator and city attorney of New Orleans, claims that a number of men imported to the Parish of Jefferson, La., and William W. Sullivan, a deputy sheriff, conspired to prevent Anthony Maguire, Michael Christina and a number of other men from competing for the office of sheriff in the parish of Orleans on election day in November, 1908.

O'Sullivan, who had been deposed of his office, and who was then in the Parish of Jefferson, La., and William W. Sullivan, a deputy sheriff, conspired to prevent Anthony Maguire, Michael Christina and a number of other men from competing for the office of sheriff in the parish of Orleans on election day in November, 1908.

GEN. HUERTA'S THREAT STIRS THREE POWERS

Laredo, Texas, March 19.—Rumors that Huerta might invade Mexico from the vicinity of Laredo, Texas, caused a panic among the citizens of Laredo, to dispatch troops to the city, to that location today. No details are known.

The Mexican government's contention that the franchise has expired is still being debated in the senate. The question arose late in 1913 and again this year, when Sir Frank Johnson, a British subject, took a stand in the controversy. The company is a British concern, with headquarters in London.

Diplomats here attach considerable significance to the Mexican government's attitude in this controversy, which is possibly indicative of an intention to change the franchise through an Agency Law. No solution of Mexico's financial difficulties has been reached.

HUERTA MAY GET CASH FROM MEXICAN BANKERS

Mexico City, March 19.—It was reported tonight that bankers probably would accede to President Huerta's demand for a loan of $100,000,000 monthly, guaranteed on the taxes on incomes and capital.

CAPITAL OF GUERRERO IN HANDS OF REBELS

Mexico City, March 19.—Chilpancingo, capital of the state of Guerrero, is reported to have fallen into rebel hands. The report is denied, but it is admitted that the city is now in the hands of the military government.

The war department announces that no important developments have occurred in the Guerrero district of war. General Blanquet, minister of war, again expressed fear today that Colonel Carranza and his command of 130 men, captured near Guadalupe, would be executed.

CAPTURE OF MONTEREY PLANNED BY REBELS

Brownsville, Texas, March 19.—Monterey, the most important city in northern Mexico, will be attacked within two weeks, before an attempt is made to take Tuxtepec, according to T. J. Foster, an American gunner, who has been fighting with the constitutionalists in the state of Coahuila.

The war department announces that no important developments have occurred in the Guerrero district of war. General Blanquet, minister of war, again expressed fear today that Colonel Carranza and his command of 130 men, captured near Guadalupe, would be executed.

FLAG LOST AT ATLANTA FOR TEXAS REGIMENTS

Washington, March 19.—The battle flag that the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Texas cavalry followed during the Civil War, until it was captured by the Fifteenth Michigan during a desperate struggle before Atlanta on July 22, 1864, is to be returned to the state of Texas. The flag now is in possession of John C. Chubb, former commander of camp No. 171, United Confederate Veterans. It was given to him by the government.

Lepus Is Found.

Seattle, Wash., March 19.—Dr. Eugene Kelly, state health commissioner, today announced that he had found a leper, Christ Kantajeto, living at Winlock, near Port Townsend, Wash., and reporting the matter to the surgeon general at Washington, D. C. had been informed that the government would not permit the man to be sent to the Diamond Head federal quarantine station, near Fort Townsend, Wash., where two other lepers are detained. The leper is being treated under the care of Lewis county health officials.

COTTON EXCHANGE'S PLAY SHELL GAME

So Southerners Charge in Urging the Grading Bill. Senators Smith and West Both Favor the Measure.

Washington, March 19.—Notice was served on the senate today by Senator Smith of South Carolina, that he would ask tomorrow for passage of his cotton grading bill.

Senator Smith read quotations of Tuesday from the New York Cotton Exchange, when March middling was sold at 12 1/2 and July at 11 1/2. He said it cost from five to ten points to carry cotton from March to July and that it was only by manipulation of the grading of cotton to be delivered that the exchange could afford to sell July cotton for less than March.

"This manipulation hurts both the farmer and manufacturer," declared Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia.

"Yesterday the exchange showed some appreciation of public sentiment by adopting government standards to become effective in 1915," said Senator Overman. "But what we want is to have the grading effective at once."

Senator McCumber remarked that the bill would give the senate a right to amend his bill for government grain inspection.

"The people of the south in their fight against cotton manipulation and the unfair interest in the cotton crop," replied Senator West, of Georgia, speaking for the first time in the senate.

"Shell Game," Says Smith.
Senator Hoke Smith, declared that congress should either regulate the exchange or prohibit it. He said that the exchange had been driven out of business. He characterized the exchange as a "shell game," declaring its operations a menace to the producer and the manufacturer interested in cotton.

As a concrete example of the New York exchange practices, Senator Smith said that the exchange is now quoting March cotton to be 10 1/2 and the cotton which is now quoted as March cotton is quoted to be 12 1/2. He said that the exchange is quoting 7 points lower than it will be when it has paid interest, brokerage and other charges which will accumulate between now and July.

Senator Smith said that the exchange is not genuine and that the exchange is handling the market purely as a speculation. He accused the operators of "bearing" cotton away below the real price because the rules of the exchange permit the delivery of poor cotton, cotton not fit for spinning.

Injures Growers at Cotton.
This practice, said Senator Smith, hurts the grower of cotton, because the exchange prices are published as a standard. They are unfair to the mill, and hence tend to create a false opinion of the market, depressing the price. It is unfair to the mill, he declared as it shows too great a difference between the buying price of cotton and the selling price of the cotton product, thus creating unjust suspicion of too great profits for the millmen.

Senator Smith served notice on the senate that the time has come when such a manipulation should no longer exist and that legislation should certainly be passed on the subject before the exchange is allowed to continue its operations. He said afterwards that he certainly touched the subject and that when the Smith bill, which is now reported by the committee, comes up for consideration on the floor he intends to expose every price and every transaction in the exchange practices were read into the record, as were resolutions from manufacturers and growers.

Jackson, Miss., March 19.—Settlement against the Mississippi Telephone and Telegraph company, the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company and the Southern Union on the basis of dissolution in this state and the payment of the debt of the company was authorized today in a concurrent resolution approved by the senate. The resolution will be acted on later by the house.

A telegram was received today from Attorney General Ross Collins, who went to New York city for a conference with the officials of the wire

BOLL WORM IS FOUND IN EGYPT COTTON SEED

Washington, March 19.—A shipment of cotton seed from Egypt, found to have been heavily infested by the so-called "boll worm," a dangerous cotton insect pest, has been refused admission into this country in Boston, Mass., by the federal agricultural board today.

The federal quarantine against importation of cotton seed has been in force for some time. The seed was intended for planting in Arizona, California and Texas. The boll worm is the most serious cotton pest in Egypt and does as much damage in that country as the boll weevil does in the United States.

Laurence Duke Acquitted.

Seattle, Wash., March 19.—Laurence Duke, nephew of James E. Duke, the tobacco manufacturer, was found not guilty today of the charge of murder. The charge was preferred after his automobile ran down and killed Henry Paul, a saloon keeper on the county road south of Seattle, October 15 last. The state alleged that Duke was intoxicated and handled his car recklessly.

LOBBY SEEKS TO SAVE CONVICT MADE GOODS

Fund of $50,000 Charged to Defeat Hughes Measure. Prison Wardens Involved.

Washington, March 19.—Allegations that a fund of $50,000 had been raised in the interest of prison contractors to defeat the Hughes bill to regulate and restrict the interstate transportation of convict-made goods will be investigated tomorrow by the senate lobby committee.

Overman, chairman of the lobby committee, was informed by Senator Hughes that statements had been circulated to the effect that a financial campaign against the measure was in progress. It was said that a fund had been made that a $50,000 fund to fight the bill had been raised, following the introduction of the measure last summer.

national conference on prison labor, who is a staunch supporter of the Hughes bill, also has been summoned to tell what he has heard to support charges that an organized lobby is at work against the bill.

THE ONE WAY OUT.

The recent meeting of various civic and political elements in Atlanta in behalf of a greater Grady hospital is only one more symptom of Atlanta's disease—

Cramped and ill-fitted municipal facilities.
And it is also an indication of the one permanent and logical cure, which is—

An adequate bond issue, that shall take up the municipal "slack" that is the result
of our antiquated policy of trying to meet current need out of current income and to take care of improvements and the demands
of permanent growth from the same source.

Dr. W. B. Summerall estimates that $750,000 will be needed so to standardize
Grady as to make it materialize its mission
and destiny—the greatest hospital south of Baltimore.

What that will mean to the poor and the sick of this city, and to the medical prestige
of the city, it is needless to elaborate.

The suggestion that Fulton county cooperate with Atlanta to this end, sharing
the advantages of the amplified institution, has caught on fertile ground. But even with the aid of the county, the hospital cannot be developed to its logical stature without the help of a bond issue.

The one and only way is—bonds. The improvement projected is a permanent one.
Other cities take care of their permanent improvements by utilizing their credit.

Grady is only an illustration.
The same situation applies to schools.
To sanitation.
To matters, broadly speaking, of public health.

To streets.
To fire engine houses.
To other basic municipal facilities.

Every citizen who knows anything, and who does not follow the head-in-the-sand
gospel, knows of these deficiencies.
He knows they are growing worse daily.
He knows they ultimately must be remedied.

He knows the longer the process is postponed, the more costly it will be.
He knows the work can never be done
out of current revenue, and that the supreme court has knocked the "moral obligation" subterfuge higher than a kite.

This brings us up, then, against the alternative of—
Bonds on the one hand;
Threatened stagnation on the other!

And the longer we dally with the crisis,
the more actual and the less theoretical becomes the actual menace of the situation.

AT BAY, OR BLUFFING?

We will probably know in a few hours
or days whether Huerta is sincere or dis-
sembling in his reported willingness to reopen negotiations with John Lind. There can be no doubt that the dictator is in desperate straits. His finances have failed him, and the alleged federal victories have panned out to be "takes."

If Huerta climbs down, what then? Will some man be found acceptable to Washington to take his place? Will Washington
have to temporize with Carranza and Villa,
not to mention Felix Diaz?

Out of the ruck of rumor and wild report
it does begin to look as though something definite is about to evolve. We ought to be thankful, meanwhile, that in the white house sits a man who knows his mind and
or ages not change it to suit either jingo or.

SUPPLIES FOR THE POST.

The investigation of the Santa Chamber of Commerce into alleged discrimination against Atlanta merchants in the matter of the purchase of supplies for Fort Mpherson
has already developed facts tending to confirm the complaints of the merchant. It has already developed that Atlanta merchants are forced to send samples of goods on which they bid to New York city. The burden of expense and inconvenience thus visited upon the Atlanta merchants appears wholly unjustified. The more logical and legitimate procedure would be to have samples submitted locally. There are army attaches here fully as well qualified to pass

upon quartermaster's supplies as those in New York.

Whether the merchants of Atlanta are
to get a square deal in this matter will depend very largely upon their own efforts.
High army officials have guaranteed there will be redress, if the proper showing is made. It is now up to the Atlanta merchants to make that sort of showing. One thing is certain: The investigation now proceeding is apt to establish a precedent
for a long time in the future. That fact should inspire such activity on part of the Atlanta merchants and the chamber of commerce as will forever fix the practice of preference for local merchants, all other considerations being equal.

MAKE IT "SPOTLESS TOWN!"

The movement launched in council to reprint and clean up the city hall in advance of the meeting here of the Shriners
has spread in scope and developed in detail
to cover the entire city, applying to private
no less than public buildings. With characteristic enterprise, the chamber of commerce is putting its energy behind the movement.

The Shriners' convolve will be the biggest thing of its sort in the history of the city. That fact in itself furnishes sufficient stimulus to civic pride to insure that when these hosts come here from all parts of the country they may see a faithful replica of
"Spotless Town."

A casual walk or trolley ride through the city will unearth a disreputable percentage
of dingy structures, beginning with the state capitol itself, including the various buildings of the municipality, including skyscrapers and ancient and outworn shops in the downtown districts and dwellings galore
in every part of town.

Clean up in advance of the Shriners! It will be better still, after having once sanctioned the city's decks, so to speak, to keep them in that condition, for the benefit not only of other visitors, but in the interests
of eternal cleanliness itself.

Let's get busy with the paint brush and
the mop and the scrubbing brush and the air brush that launders the dirty face of office buildings. Let's include every building in the heart of the town, and let private interest expand itself as far as possible to cover all the dwellings, certainly those on the more prominent or "show" thoroughfares.

Money thus spent will return itself tenfold in the matter of advertisement. From the point of view of business investment alone such expenditures are necessary. The building that is freshly painted and clean
is a more valuable asset and economical
than the dowdy, ill-kept building. That is the personal side of it.

If this city is to be "Spotless Town" for the Shriners, not a day is to be lost.
To the task, therefore, calling in conference the painter and the cleaner!

ALL HAVE SKELETONS.

The recent rattling of the family skeletons of American states in the house of representatives reflects no especial credit
on its instigator, Representative McLaughlin, of Michigan. Mr. McLaughlin sought to have read into the Congressional Record
an editorial in which a Denver paper, basing
its premises alike on ignorance and prejudice, denounced Georgia's child labor law.
Representatives William Schley Howard
and S. J. Tribble, of Georgia, were quick to reply. They drew the fire of Representative Mann, of Illinois, who complained of Georgia's lynching record. Representative Howard disposed of both Illinois and Michigan, when he said that Springfield lynched
more persons in a day than Georgia in a year, and that criticism came with ill-grace
from Michigan, a state where even now a federal commission was probing allegations
of barbarous industrial outrages.

The child labor law of Georgia needs no
defense at the hands of The Constitution.
Its provisions and their enforcement are
about as humane and consistent as any sane
person, not a distant and uninformed rabbi,
could desire. Since we are yet this side of the millennium, the law is not perfect. But conditions are as good as and, in many respects, infinitely superior, to those obtaining in American states both as old as and younger than Georgia.

The point is that we still grow public men narrow enough not to see that every state and territory under the flag has its own peculiar and, sometimes, unhappy, problem or family skeleton. Call the roll of states in the house or senate, and the din
of the bones will drown the voice of the most leathery-lunged orator.

Above all else, we need tolerance and perspective in public life. We ought to be past the stage of provincialism or Phari-
seism.

"Seeing Atlanta" was a popular diversion
of the southern newspaper publishers.
Enjoying himself in Europe, it is probable old Porfirio Diaz looks with mild amusement on the respective dilemmas of Huerta,
Carranza and Villa.

Just from Georgia
Where the Fishingpole Is Nodding.
Not in the fields of spring-
time where the toilers
are nodding.
But on the river bank I
watch the fishin'pole
a-noddin'.
Far from the noises of the town—to be there I'm
a-wishin'.
Just let the world roll as
it will, I'm happier when fishin'.
Then Life moves along
To the river's drowsy song.
Or you wander in the woodlands where the
simple wildflowers throng.
I don't know 'bout the scientists, nor how
the statesmen rank;
The beat of all philosophers camps on a
river bank!
He's not in anybody's way—if Life has
pleasure in it
He's pretty sure to get enough to bless him
every minute!
For Life moves along
To the music of a song,
And the sweetest life is ever where the
simple wildflowers throng.

Philosophy in Brief.
These Port Paragaphs from C. R. Vance,
the Musket Ridge Man
"Tell the world you are tired of life, and the world is tired of you."
"Old age is the devil who terrorizes beautiful women."
"One definition of heaven: receipted bill,
"When husband and wife disagree and fuss and fume, it's a case of hell on earth."
"Don't miss the living of life, in order
to attain it after this."
"Most people in life's battle need 'gumption' (the ability to put the grease where the squeak is).
"The most unhappy man in the world
is the one who has nothing in this world
except an apple and a mother-in-law, and unable to satisfy either."

Elizabeth Chudleigh
Elizabeth Chudleigh was one of the most
celebrated beauties of the latter half of the
eighteenth century, and was wooed by several of the most prominent of the court dan-
dies, but eventually, on August 4, 1744, she
married Honorably Augustus John Hervey,
at the time a lieutenant in the navy. Several days after the wedding the husband joined
his ship and sailed for the West Indies. Upon
his return the Herveys had a disagreement and they never lived together afterwards.
When she was married, Elizabeth was a
maid of honor to the Princess at Leicester
House, and she continued to hold this position after she had separated from her husband. She remained in the navy for the
freedom and indelicacy of her conduct,
appearing on one occasion in 1749 at a mas-
qued ball in the character of "Iphigenia," "so sparsely dressed," said Horace Walpole, "that
she could not be taken for 'Andromeda.'"
George II pretended to be in love with
Elizabeth and made her a number of valuable presents, as well as appointing her mother as housekeeper at Windsor. On account
of the failing health of the Earl of Bristol
in 1758, which seemed to promise the speedy
succession of his brother, Augustus Hervey,
Elizabeth thought it well to take means to
enable herself to establish her marriage
should she wish to do so.
Early in February Elizabeth went to Winchester, where the minister who had per-
formed the ceremony lay on his deathbed,
and in the presence of his wife caused him
to enter her marriage in the register book
of Lainston Chapel.
At this time Elizabeth and the second
Duke of Kingston were on especially intimate terms, and her parties were among the most fashionable in London. She paid a visit
to Germany, where her beauty attracted admiration such Emperor Frederic II pair her
marked attention.
Upon her return to England her husband
notified her that he purposed applying for a divorce. She was anxious that this divorce
should be granted that she could marry the Duke of Kingston, and that she could be
brought about she swore that she was not married. On March 8 she was married to the duke.
John Hervey died in September, 1772, he
left his property to the duchess, on condition that she remain a widow. Shortly after the duke's death she visited at Italy and
during her absence from England, the duke's
nephew caused a bill of indictment for big-
amy to be drawn up against her.
Upon her return home the duchess busied
herself in taking measures for her defense.
On May 24, 1775, she was brought up for
trial in the court of the king's bench before Lord Mansfield. She was defended by the Duke of Newcastle and others and entered
bail to appear before the peers in parliament.
The trial of the duchess began on April 15, 1776, on which day the peers went in
procession from their house to Westminster
Hall, together with the Judges, the Garter
king of arms, and other attendants on the
lord high steward, Earl Bathurst.
At the trial of the duchess, her husband,
which extended from April 16, to the 22d, the marriage with Hervey, the birth of a child, and
the registration of a marriage in 1759 were
clearly proved and a verdict of guilty of
bigamy was unanimously pronounced by the
peers.
As bigamy was a clergyable offense, the
duchess might have been burned on the
hand, but she claimed the privilege of her peerage,
which exempted her from corporal punishment, and although the attorney general argued against her claim, it was allowed by
the peers.
The farce then ended in the greatest piece
of humor of all—the injunction to the duchess
not to commit bigamy a second time. The lord high steward ended his charge to her as follows: "Madame, I must tell you that if
you should ever be guilty of a similar offense, of any crime amounting to felony, that
no such claim can be again allowed, but that
you will thereby incur a capital punishment."
After her trial the duchess, hearing that
the duke's nephews were about to proceed
against her, left England, and spent the remainder of her life on the continent, but in possession of the wealth left her by the Earl
of Bristol. Her story is said to have suggested to Thackeray the character of Beatrice
in "Esmond," and of the Baroness Bernstein
in "The Virginians."

DISTRACTING NOISES

When You Dream of Tribulation.
When you dream of Tribulation—that his shadow's in the door—
When you study 'bout yer troubles you are
only makin' more!
You invite 'em in to stay
When you go on in that way!
But when the light where the light is
Makes the winter dream of May.
Joy's with you when you know not—he's asayin' all the time:
"In spite of Tribulation, ain't the world afeelin' prime?
"Just keep the happy score:
Throw wide the sunny door:
When you study 'bout yer troubles you are
only makin' more!"

An Entertaining Editor.
The Pink Rag is a weekly paper whose editor is quoted as "having numerous side lines." He advertises that he wishes to sell
a sewing machine, adding machine, typewriter,
a pair of diamond earrings, a button-
making machine and 350 pounds of old type.

The First Bluebird.
Folker McKinley sings of the first spring
messenger:
"What's the paper got to say
That's as fine or can compare
With the bluebird's morning lay
And the chirping of this air!
Sunny side the world turned up,
Melting just like butter will—
Right next door to buttercup.
Look out, there's a daffodil!"

Resigned to Providence.
On being told that half a dozen voters
were crowned while attempting to cross a swollen stream a Bluebird candidate said:
"The Lord's will be done! Perhaps, if they had lived they might have voted for the other fellow!"

No Faith in It.
Is that a bee
In violets humming;
Or just a whisper:
"Blizzard's coming!"

The Candidate's Way.
"What's his religion in this campaign?"
"Well, he says he was born a Baptist and raised a Presbyterian, but judging by the way he hollows on the stump, I have an idea that he is developing into a shouting Methodist!"

The Happy Days.
I.
Sing about the happy days
Comin' up the slope,
Love and light in all the ways—
Ring the bells of Hope!
II.
Evermore the rainbow's rays—
Not in night we grope;
Sing about the happy days—
Ring the bells of Hope!

Chicago's Heavy Rush Traffic.
(From The Electric Railway Journal.)
In a recent talk before an engineering
society on the elevated railways of Chicago,
a speaker described the problem of traffic
conditions as worse than on any other rapid transit line in the country.
On a typical day, the number of passengers entering the cars of the Metropolitan Elevated railroad between 4:30 and 4:55 p.
m. was 250. This number increased to 2,700
during the five-minute interval between 5:30
and 5:35 in the evening rush, then to more than 2,900 passengers between 5:35 and 5:40.
The load dropped off even more abruptly
and was at the normal day-load at 5:50 p. m.

The Great Trials of History

TRIAL OF ELIZABETH CHUDLEIGH

Elizabeth Chudleigh was one of the most
celebrated beauties of the latter half of the
eighteenth century, and was wooed by several of the most prominent of the court dan-
dies, but eventually, on August 4, 1744, she
married Honorably Augustus John Hervey,
at the time a lieutenant in the navy. Several
days after the wedding the husband joined
his ship and sailed for the West Indies. Upon
his return the Herveys had a disagreement and they never lived together afterwards.
When she was married, Elizabeth was a
maid of honor to the Princess at Leicester
House, and she continued to hold this position after she had separated from her husband. She remained in the navy for the
freedom and indelicacy of her conduct,
appearing on one occasion in 1749 at a mas-
qued ball in the character of "Iphigenia," "so
sparsely dressed," said Horace Walpole, "that
she could not be taken for 'Andromeda.'"
George II pretended to be in love with
Elizabeth and made her a number of valuable presents, as well as appointing her mother as housekeeper at Windsor. On account
of the failing health of the Earl of Bristol
in 1758, which seemed to promise the speedy
succession of his brother, Augustus Hervey,
Elizabeth thought it well to take means to
enable herself to establish her marriage
should she wish to do so.
Early in February Elizabeth went to Win-
chester, where the minister who had per-
formed the ceremony lay on his deathbed,
and in the presence of his wife caused him
to enter her marriage in the register book
of Lainston Chapel.
At this time Elizabeth and the second
Duke of Kingston were on especially intima-
te terms, and her parties were among the
most fashionable in London. She paid a visit
to Germany, where her beauty attracted admiration such Emperor Frederic II pair her
marked attention.
Upon her return to England her husband
notified her that he purposed applying for a divorce. She was anxious that this divorce
should be granted that she could marry the Duke of Kingston, and that she could be
brought about she swore that she was not married. On March 8 she was married to
the duke.
John Hervey died in September, 1772, he
left his property to the duchess, on condition that she remain a widow. Shortly after
the duke's death she visited at Italy and
during her absence from England, the duke's
nephew caused a bill of indictment for big-
amy to be drawn up against her.
Upon her return home the duchess busied
herself in taking measures for her defense.
On May 24, 1775, she was brought up for
trial in the court of the king's bench before
Lord Mansfield. She was defended by the Duke of Newcastle and others and entered
bail to appear before the peers in parliament.
The trial of the duchess began on April 15, 1776, on which day the peers went in
procession from their house to Westminster
Hall, together with the Judges, the Garter
king of arms, and other attendants on the
lord high steward, Earl Bathurst.
At the trial of the duchess, her husband,
which extended from April 16, to the 22d, the marriage with Hervey, the birth of a child, and
the registration of a marriage in 1759 were
clearly proved and a verdict of guilty of
bigamy was unanimously pronounced by the
peers.
As bigamy was a clergyable offense, the
duchess might have been burned on the
hand, but she claimed the privilege of her peerage,
which exempted her from corporal punishment, and although the attorney general argued against her claim, it was allowed by
the peers.
The farce then ended in the greatest piece
of humor of all—the injunction to the duchess
not to commit bigamy a second time. The
lord high steward ended his charge to her as
follows: "Madame, I must tell you that if
you should ever be guilty of a similar offense, of any crime amounting to felony, that
no such claim can be again allowed, but that
you will thereby incur a capital punishment."
After her trial the duchess, hearing that
the duke's nephews were about to proceed
against her, left England, and spent the remainder of her life on the continent, but in
possession of the wealth left her by the Earl
of Bristol. Her story is said to have suggested to Thackeray the character of Beatrice
in "Esmond," and of the Baroness Bernstein
in "The Virginians."

Sir Marmaduke's Musings.

I won a noble fame:
But, with a sudden frown,
The people snatched my crown,
And, in the mire, trod down
My lofty name.
I bore a bounteous purse:
And beggars by the way
Then blessed me, day by day:
But I forgot the curse,
Have now their curse.
I gained what men call friends;
But now their love is hate,
And I have learned, too late,
How mortal minds unite,
And friendship ends.
I clasped a woman's breast—
As if her heart, I knew,
Or fancied, would be true—
A woman's heart, she told,
False like the rest.
I now am all bereft—
As when some tower doth fall,
With battlement, and wall,
And nothing left above, and all—
And nothing left above, and all—
But I account it worth
All losses and hopes crossed—
All loves and honors lost—
To gain the heavens, at cost
Of losing earth.
So, lest I be inclined
To render ill for ill—
Henceforth in me instill,
O God, a sweet good-will
To all mankind.—THEODORE TILTON.

Mother Instinct.

(From London Tit-Bits.)
At the close of his talk before a Sunday school the bishop invited questions.
A tiny boy with white-caper face, at once held up his hand.
"Please, sir," said he, "why was Adam never baby?"
The bishop coughed in doubt as to what answer to give, but a little girl, the eldest
of several brothers and sisters, came promptly to his aid.
"Please, sir," she answered smartly, "there
was nobody to nuss him."

DAILY GRIND From the STATES POLITICAL GRIND

Now comes the progressive party with the announcement that it is its intention to put out a full state ticket, all of which will put a few more in the race for, both places in the new state senate, and, in case of Governor Slaton's entering this race,
at least one more in the race for his chair,
and all of which also makes a merrier race.
The Fulton county progressives declared themselves for a slate ticket at a meeting
in Atlanta Wednesday night.
At that time no definite ticket was made
out, but the names of several prominent men about the state, including Seaborn
Wright, of Rome, and Harry Stillwell Edwards, formerly postmaster, were mentioned in connection with the senatorial race.
While not mentioned at Wednesday
night's meeting, the name of a prominent Alabamian who has in time past, and for all that is now known, still adheres to orthodox democracy, has been suggested and frequently discussed by the progressives as a possible candidate for the governorship.
However, as yet the same gentleman apparently has not been converted to the progressive way of thinking.
President Woodrow Wilson came in for criticism at the hands of the progressives
for his Mexican policy.

WILL SLATON BE ABLE TO BEAT THAT "EX-GOVERNOR" HODDGE?

And still amid the silence on questions
senatorial at the executive quarters at the capitol comes the babble of speculation
among the many callers as to the chances Governor Slaton would have should he enter
the senatorial race now.
Many of the governor's friends, it seems,
would have him run now, rather than at the next election.
There seems small doubt but that Governor Slaton could go back to the governor's chair unopposed at the expiration of his present term.
In this event he would not run for the senate in the present race, of course, but should he attempt the race at the expiration of the Bacon term, would enter with the handicap of that strange political hoodoo,
which is characteristic of Georgia political
history, of being an ex-governor.
Three men have gone to the United States
senate from the governor's chair and before
the expiration of the gubernatorial term,
whereas Georgia history is replete with instances of where ex-governors have failed to
"come back."
The title of ex-governor in Georgia, it would seem, has almost as much significance of absolute obituary as the title of
vice president of the United States.
There are those, to be sure, who believe firmly that Jack Slaton could "come back"
after two years of ex-governorhood.

LEDBETTER TO RETURN TO THE HOUSE FROM POLK

Dr. L. S. Ledbetter, who so ably represented Polk county in the general assembly,
will, in all probability, be returned to the house of representatives without opposition. So far there has not even been a suggestion of opposition, and reports from his county indicate that he will be the unanimous choice of his people for re-election.
Dr. Ledbetter was one of the strongest and most influential members at the first session of the present assembly and no
member of the house stood higher in the esteem of his associates than he. The fact that he will probably be a member of the next house is a matter of interest not only
of Polk county, but of the whole state.

MUST SCHOOL BOOK WITNESSES DEFRAY THEIR OWN EXPENSES?

The McCrory school book bill on Thursday once more presented itself for news
comment, and this time from an entirely new angle.
It appears that when the legislature
provided for an ad-interim commission to look into the question of the state printing its books and selling them at cost it also provided that witnesses might be summoned
before this commission under penalty, but
at the same time failed to provide an appropriation for defraying the expenses of these witnesses in attending.
An thereby hangs the tale.
R. P. Brooks, L. B. Evans, P. F. Brown,
S. V. Sanford, E. C. Branson, F. A. Merrill
and G. F. Humlicutt, all having been summoned as witnesses before the commission
and having duly attended, presented their expense accounts to the state treasury for reimbursement of their private funds, but were informed that no warrants had been drawn for such expenses.
The matter was taken up with Attorney
General Felder, who, after due deliberation,
declared that inasmuch as the legislature
had failed to make provision for such an emergency as this, the state could not legally reimburse these witnesses.
Professor Brooks, of the bill, declares that he will make every effort at the next meeting of the legislature to have an appropriation made to defray the expenses
of these and other witnesses who may appear before the commission.

THOMASVILLE TIMES-ENTERPRISE LIKES McCRORY'S SLATON'S CHANCES

The Thomasville Times-Enterprise, one of the strongest of the dailies of south Georgia, has the following in reference to the south Georgia senatorship:
"We would love to see a senator elected from south Georgia, who has always been
for some recognition for this section, but we would most assuredly not sacrifice our ideas of the best man for the position to vote for a man whom we considered inferior
just because he happened to live in a county
situated south of the Atlanta & Co. line.
Mr. Slaton has an ambition to be senator;
he will, we believe, make the race, and if Georgia wants one of its cleanest, ablest
men to go there he will be the junior senator next December."

RAWLINGS ANNOUNCED CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS IN TENTH DISTRICT

Still another entry in the race for congress from the counties to be annexed to
B. T. Rawlings, of Sandersville, who, on Thursday, wired The Constitution as follows:
"Sandersville, Ga., March 19.—I desire to announce my candidacy for congress in the tenth congressional district that I am a candidate for congress in the next primary."

ROBERTS ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR LEGISLATURE FROM CRISP

Cordell, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—The
first candidate in the race for representative
from Crisp county was announced today—
Dr. H. C. Roberts, who is one of the best known citizens and physicians of the county.
The announcement of Dr. Roberts at this time was somewhat of a surprise to his friends, as it was expected that all candidates for the statehouse offices would probably hold off until the passing of the county
primary on next Friday.

Recommends to War Department
That Post Supplies
Be Bought in Atlanta.

One of the last official acts of Colonel Griffith, commanding the Seventh Infantry at Fort McPherson, before he boards the train for the Mexican border where he and his troops will be placed on patrol duty, was a recommendation to the war department at Washington that the right to purchase the commissary supplies of Fort McPherson from Atlanta merchants rather than through the division headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y. be restored.

Colonel Griffith and Captain Banker, head of the local committee, explained to Secretary W. H. Leahy of the industrial and statistical bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and to Chairman Lynn Fort of the chamber's wholesale trade committee who called at the Fort representing the committee that the matter of purchasing supplies in Atlanta does not lie within their discretion, but that these purchases must be made by the head of the division in New York.

Both expressed themselves as being desirous that the supplies should be purchased in Atlanta as heretofore. Their reasons were that the purchase of the supplies to ally would not only be of benefit to Atlanta, of which they stated they felt themselves proud, but would also greatly facilitate the business of the commissary department at the post.

Secretary Leahy and Chairman Fort were greatly pleased at the cordiality and the sincerity with which the post officials offered the co-operation.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB
OF THE WEST SIDE
WILL MEET FRIDAY

There will be a meeting of the West Side Improvement club Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Red Men's hall at the corner Gordon street and Lucie avenue. All citizens living in Battle Hill, West End Park and along the line of the Lucie avenue and Walker street car line are urged to be present.

The West Side Improvement club was organized last Saturday evening.

The object of the club is to ask for improvements to which they feel justly entitled. A. E. Howell was elected chairman and Lev B. Mooney secretary and treasurer.

A number of committees are going to be appointed at the next meeting. First of all a committee to draw plans for better war service and better public buildings. They also have a committee to draw a plan for a new route to reach the above mentioned sections.

FRIGHT BY DOG LEADS TO DEATH OF CHILD

Lucas Richards, the 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Richards, died Thursday afternoon after being frightened by a dog while out walking with his mother.

The mother and child were on Garden street near the home when a large dog jumped at the child who had a white dog which he was fond of. The child died from the shock half an hour later at the residence.

The body was removed to Berthard & Johnson's chapel and will be sent for funeral at 11 o'clock. The child has two small sisters, Mary and Lovelace.

SEEK RENT OF HOUSE IN RED LIGHT DISTRICT

An echo of the former existence of Atlanta's red light district came to light on Thursday in municipal court when a suit was filed by A. J. and Myra Childs against James J. Lynch in which the Childs seek to recover $250 rental allegedly by them to be due from Lynch for the rental of certain property at 111 Hulse street.

Through his attorney Lynch has made answer to the suit, admitting that the Childs knew that he was renting the place for immoral purposes and for that reason such a contract was void.

The suit is scheduled for trial in the Municipal court.

CHARTER IS GRANTED
NEW TRUST COMPANY

Secretary of State Phil Cook on Thursday issued a charter to the North Georgia Trust company of Winder.

The new company is incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000. The incorporators are F. V. Maynard, W. H. Toole, J. P. Strange, G. W. Woodruff and others, all of Winder.

Harry T. Moore Addresses
Ad Men's Club of Atlanta
At Luncheon on Thursday

One of the most interesting luncheon talks yet given by invited guests before the Ad Men's club, of Atlanta, at their Thursday gathering at the Hotel Ansley, was delivered by H. T. Moore, secretary of the Atlanta freight bureau, yesterday noon.

Mr. Moore spoke of about seventy-five members of the club. In part, he said:

Strategically situated, Atlanta was destined by nature to become a city of great commercial importance. So situated and favored with a delightful climate, Atlanta soon attracted to itself an energetic people who have pushed to the utmost every natural advantage, and with increasing power have forced freight rates to a remarkably low basis.

As the business interests have developed, rival lines serving the same markets and other lines serving rival markets and played them against each other, they have themselves built and helped to build railroad lines into and out of Atlanta and have brought to bear all the pressure in their power on the carriers and on the governmental authorities of the state to force freight rates into and out of Atlanta down to an abnormally low basis. Competition has increased there seeking to share carriers and markets in the great volume of business moving into and out of Atlanta.

In a carefully prepared paper, Mr. Moore reviewed the growth of the railroads in and about Atlanta, and gave figures which showed the reduction in freight rates secured by the business in favor of Atlanta shippers.

Next week, at the Ad Men's luncheon, Julius Roy, one of the best known moving picture syndicate managers in the south will deliver an address on the Moving Picture Business. The talk will be illustrated with moving picture films showing how movies are made.

One of the honor guests at the Ad Men's club on Thursday was L. J. Lockhart, of Louisville, Ky., manager of the Massengale Advertising agency in that city.

Investigate Charge That Thomason Is Working for County

According to charges brought to the attention of the Chairman Winn of the board of county commissioners late Thursday, Philip Weitzer secretary of the prison committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement alleges that Guard Thomason, recently discharged from the county, was indicted for cruelty to prisoners in again at work as overseer on the county roads.

Commissioner Winn declared that if such was the case he was not aware of it. No one at the office of the county commissioners would state that Thomason was at work for the county. The county pay roll has not yet been handed in for the current month so the records fail to disclose whether or not Thomason is at work for the county.

An investigation of the matter is being made and will be probably brought to the attention of the public works committee of the county committee at its next meeting.

Dr. Donaldson, superintendent of construction for the county, declared that he was not aware that Thomason was at work, but that he would make an immediate investigation.

DAMAGES OF $25,000

F. D. Flynn, manager of the Madison hotel was bound over Thursday afternoon to the higher court, Judge Broyles for running a disorderly and a gaming house. Plain Clothes Men Green and Fortson made the raid of the poker game Wednesday night and caught the parties with the goods on them. It is alleged A. S. Jenkins and Young Jackson said to have been in the poker game were bound over for violation. The bonds of the three men were assessed at $500 each.

CARROLL FINED $25.75
FOR FAKE PHONE CALLS

James Carroll, saloonkeeper at 19 West Alabama street, was fined $25.75 Thursday by Judge Broyles for phoning in false calls to the police station and having the call officers hurry out to 158 East Georgia avenue killing them that a man there was being held by the police. Carroll did this on Friday night and when the officers came there a very orderly and refined home life was found out for him when he tried the same stunt on Monday night. Station sergeant sells jailed Carroll over the phone holding him there while another officer located Carroll through the aid of an operator and went to his place and arrested him.

J. WYLIE SMITH IS ILL; CASES ARE POSTPONED

Three cases against J. Wylie Smith were postponed Thursday in superior court for the fifth time on account of the fact that Smith, a well known attorney, is ill. Judge Broyles stated in court that he did not know when Smith would be able to appear. The cases, one charging with a worthless note and two charging forgery were indefinitely postponed.

RAINY, WINDY WEATHER INDICATED FOR FRIDAY

Following is the weather forecast for Atlanta on Friday:

Very unsettled, rainy and windy weather is indicated for Friday. Rain will continue during most of the day with fresh southerly winds and some what warmer weather, but about 10 p. m. the wind will shift to west or northwest becoming brisk to high the temperature will begin to fall again, and will be below freezing Saturday morning. Clearing weather will set in this day, night or Saturday. Saturday will be a cold, windy day, probably without precipitation.

Can Policemen Take Away Anything Found if They Have a Search Warrant?

The question of whether or no city officers can come before the municipal court, secure search warrants and then proceed to take everything they find from a man's premises when the search warrant only calls for the retention of one thing, will be threshed out in Judge L. Z. Rosser's criminal division of the municipal court on Friday afternoon.

The case to be tested is the one which involves city detectives who went to a residence recently, and while in the act of digging under the house for hidden money, turned up a complete 1908 outfit. The officers confiscated the outfit, taking it to police headquarters.

The fact that the officers took the year outfit is not contested from an ethical standpoint. Judge Rosser will attempt to ascertain whether or not the search warrant granted the officers by deputies in the municipal court, the detectives could recover any property other than that listed in the search warrant.

Spring Cheer Awaits You Here

"The Best of the Best"

When you decide to get new Spring clothing, what is your first thought? Most people think "how much will it cost?" Then they compare the cost with the available cash to spare. Nearly always the result is something cheap, with a sort of getting-ready-for-the-rag-bag look.

Instead of saying, "How much will it cost?" wouldn't it be far better judgment to say "How long will it last?"

In other words, wouldn't it pay better to buy quality?

Now think how easy it is to buy quality clothing if you use Day's gradual payment plan. Why, if you would pay the amount you spend for cash on a cheap garment as first payment at

and even that much isn't necessary, you'd be able to pay the balance of the bill in thirty or sixty days and you'd get a garment of quality and lasting good appearance.

That's the very essence of economy. Get the benefit of "The best of the best" at Day's by using a simple, convenient charge account plan, open to everybody and arranged to suit any income. Day's credit is a dignified credit.

Kidnaped by His Friends, He Phones Fiancee, Who Joins Him in Atlanta for Wedding

The Right Honorable Daniel Cupid sat in the tonneau of a high-powered racing automobile as it sped madly en route from Cuthbert to Atlanta Wednesday afternoon, and at the futile efforts of the powerful machine, grinned triumphantly, just as he has often laughed at locksmiths and other things that try to put frequent obstacles in his path of progress. For the big machine was rushing to Atlanta in an effort to spirit away an intended bridegroom who had planned to wed one of Cuthbert's most charming young ladies on the night of his kidnaping. It was a conspiracy, but Cupid chuckled at conspiracies as sprightly as he laughs at locksmiths and these other hostile things. The bridegroom—for he really is one now—Robert B. Jackson, a wealthy young coal and wood dealer of Cuthbert, the conspirator, who was rushing Atlanta away from the scene of the proposed nuptial activities, was W. Boyd, an automobile dealer of the same town. The two are friends of long standing. When it became known that young Jackson intended marrying pretty Miss Lois Cannon, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Martin, of Cuthbert, friends of both sides had been planning to thwart the wedding as a practical joke. Wednesday morning—on which the marriage was to take place—Boyd enticed the groom into his big racer for a ride over the village. The ride ended in Atlanta. Several miles out of Cuthbert, the car's driver threatened to ditch the kidnaped groom if he did not proceed according to his wishes. With many a dire threat, the groom consented, rather than walk back to Cuthbert. The two wound up at the Ansley hotel early Wednesday night. About 11 o'clock Jackson stole away from his abductor and dia a little long distance telephoning to Cuthbert. Thursday night, without ever a mention of his long distance call, he asked Boyd to drive him to the Terminal station, as he expected a friend on a Southern train. They drove to the Terminal, Miss Cannon, the bride, attended in a trim traveling suit of blue with stylish hat and raincoat, stepped from the train. The groom, finding he had been victimized by a frame-up, stepped up himself with complete success. Cupid, in the suitcase, grinned at "frame-ups" and kidnappers just as he grins at locksmiths and things. Boyd acknowledged defeat and drove the young couple to the home of Mrs. J. W. Martin, at 8 East Fourteenth street, at 8 o'clock last night, where the ceremony was performed. Boyd and his cohorts, the bride and groom will return to Cuthbert in the same car in which the groom was spirited to Atlanta.

BIG HOWL IS RAISED OVER TAXES IN MACON

Five Million Dollar Increase Brings in Stream of Complaints. Macon, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Complaints from taxpayers who claim they have been over assessed are beginning to come in since the report of the board of assessors showing a $5,000,000 increase over last year's assessments was published and an Assessor W. H. Hendricks declares that he is being made the subject of much unjustified criticism. "What would you do," asked Assessor Hendricks yesterday, when referring to these criticisms, "when you come into office and find the city with $70,000 worth of debts on its hands that it cannot pay, and in addition, being overtaxed—at the same time, being overtaxed in the amount of a big sum through the putting out of near by saloons? Would you sit still and just copy the figures from last year's tax books or would you get busy and do something to help the city out of a financial hole by assessing property at something like its value? No, sir," he said, "I have done this and I will do it again. I make the big property owners come across with a little bit more." The city council are expected to drop them before they actually reach the city council, for the assessor has adopted a resolution requiring that each person petitioning for a reduction of his taxes shall file an affidavit that their property has been assessed for more than its worth, and that they are unable to pay the same. "One well-known citizen came to me today," Mr. Hendricks said, "and told me I had ruined him by raising his assessments. He said he had a piece of property worth $100,000 and he had assessed for more than that. He said he would go just like I have done, and he would have to stand, for his client could not make the requisite amount of money to pay the tax more of them in the same boat." Mayor Woodworth is expected to call a special meeting of the city council to discuss this matter.

JOHN W. WOODRUFF, A PIONEER CITIZEN, DIED ON THURSDAY

John W. Woodruff died Thursday at noon at a private sanitarium after a lingering illness. He was in his seventy-second year. Mr. Woodruff came to Atlanta when a young man from Griffin, Ga. At the beginning of the war he enlisted in company A, Ninth Georgia battalion of artillery, commanded by Major A. L. Woodruff, an only son and active until the close of the war. He was a member of the Central Presbyterian church and was loved for his faithful and upright life and his bright and cheery nature. Always a devoted and efficient soldier, he was known by those in every walk of life. Mr. Woodruff was an Odd Fellow, having been a member of Central Lodge No. 1215 for over thirty years. He was the only surviving member of the group of five first post-clerk of the Georgia National Guard, who served in the service of the government. He was a railway mail clerk for forty-seven years. Having been a resident of Atlanta for over fifty years, Mr. Woodruff had seen it grow from a hamlet into a great city. Mr. Woodruff is survived by his wife, who is Miss Julia Swanson, of Lawrence, Ga.; his daughter, Mrs. T. W. Warren, of Macon, and Miss Jeanne Woodruff, of Atlanta, and one grandson, who is now in the military service. He is also leaves two half-sisters, Misses Emma and Eva Woodruff, of Macon, and other relatives. The body was carried to Patterson's undertaking parlors, where the funeral will be held there at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Danbar H. Hadden officiated with the funeral services, which were held in the 12:30 Central train, where the internment will take place.

Smooth, Hairless Skin Follows This Treatment

(Toilet Tips.) Among the home-beauty helps, none perhaps more important than that which will free the skin from objectionable hairy growths. A simple method is to rub the skin of unwanted hairs to make a paste by mixing powdered delonate with water and applying for about five minutes. The hair will fall out with it comes every bit of hair and when the skin is washed, it will be free from blisters. The treatment is more satisfactory if the delonate is bought in an original package.

50 PERSONS DROWNED WHEN VESSEL IS SUNK

Venice, March 19.—A torpedo boat today cut down a small passenger steamer which plies between Venice and Lido, a chain of sandy islands separating the lagoon of Venice from the Adriatic, and fifty persons were drowned. The sharp nose of the torpedo boat went through the stern of the steamer, which sank almost immediately. Many American are visiting Venice, but it is not believed any were aboard the steamer. The victims included many women and several children. Fifteen persons on deck at the time were saved by the crew of the torpedo boat. Others were caught in the cabin, and were carried down with the wreck. The Italian sailors dived many times in an effort to rescue those who sank with the steamer, but without avail. Intense excitement prevails here, not only because of the extent of the disaster, but because the names of the victims are not known.

MRS. JOHN S. MOORE DIES

Daughter of Man Who Armored the Merrimac. Oxford, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—The funeral of Mrs. John S. Moore, whose death occurred Tuesday evening, took place today at noon. Her grave is in the Oxford cemetery beside that of her husband, who died about two years ago. The funeral service was conducted by Dr. Charles E. Dowman, assisted by Dr. J. W. Quillian and Rev. O. L. Allen. The service was held in the Allen Memorial church. Numerous college suspended exercises for the hour. Mrs. Moore having been the wife of a United States professor, and the faculty and students attended in a body. By the death of Mrs. Moore a historic character is removed from the south. Mrs. Moore, who was born and reared at Petersburg, Va. was the daughter of John Luke Moore, a noted shipbuilder in his day. HER EXPERIENCE GAINED ON TRIP

Found That Ladies in One Agreed With Her on One Important Question. Mangham, La.—Mrs. Liza Barber, of this town, who has returned from a trip in West and Middle Tennessee, has the following to say: "I have been of a trip in Middle and West Tennessee where I found many ladies using Cardui, the woman's tonic. While traveling I took great pleasure in telling what it had done for me—I not only praised Cardui—but advised poor suffering women to take it. I know that Cardui cured me and I believe it will do the same for other women. Sometime ago, I could hardly stand on my feet, and I had given up ever having good health. After using two bottles of Cardui I could tell it was helping me, and I continued taking it for awhile. I soon felt as well as I ever did, and could do all my work. I shall always praise this great medicine to every suffering woman. I think there is no other half so good." Mrs. Barber would have found weak, ailing women taking Cardui almost anywhere she could have gone, because Cardui is recognized as the standard woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women back to health and strength in the past 50 years. Why shouldn't it help you? N. B.—Write to Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 61-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper on request.

DEPENDABLE SEEDS

All seeds are not good seeds by a long shot. Further, the difference between good seeds and poor seeds can seldom be determined by looks, for all qualities look very much alike. Yet, the success of your garden largely depends on seed quality.

HASTINGS' SEEDS RIGHT

They are dependable. So far as a life time of experience can suggest every precaution is taken in growing, harvesting, handling and selling to insure the best in quality. Back of the Hastings business is a world wide seed growing organization that you can get the benefit of.

GARDENING TIME NOW

While we may have an occasional cold wind and a few disagreeable rainy days to interfere, it's garden time. Nature shows it plainly. The fruit trees are blooming, the leaf buds on the shade trees are swelling. Nature knows, and you are wise to watch Mother Nature and follow her example. You have the ground and we have right quality seeds of right varieties for the Atlanta section. It's time for us to get together.

DOUBLE DELIVERY SERVICE

Twice each day our double daily delivery service reaches all parts of Atlanta. Orders placed before 2 p. m. delivered the same day. This insures quick deliveries of your seed and poultry supply orders. If not convenient to come, phone in your order. Bell Phones Main 2568, Main 3962. Atlanta Phone 2568.

THURMAN SUED TO RECOVER $705

Suit was filed by Attorney William H. Scott on Thursday directed against Arthur Thurman, the well-known Atlanta lawyer who was recently the plaintiff in a lawsuit involving himself and a pretty girl at one of the downtown hotels. Attorney Scott, appearing for J. D. Atkinson, of this city, seeks to recover $705 alleged to be due him, his client through a sale of land in Cook county. The papers accompanying the suit allege that Thurman purchased a fraudulent quit-claim deed to certain land about 200 acres in extent and traded the land off for stock to the amount of slightly over $700. This sum the attorney seeks to recover.

COOKIES CAKE

2 cups flour, 2 even teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon Cottoleone, sweet milk, sift flour, baking powder and salt together into mixing bowl. Rub in Cottoleone with a knife and stir in milk to make dough as soft as can be handled (about 2-3 of a cup.) Tip out on floured board, roll into a strip 3 inches wide and 1-2 inch thick. Cut off strips 3-4 inch wide, roll them out long, twist and fry to a light brown in deep Cottoleone. This makes 18 doughnuts especially good for eating with syrup.

RECOVERING FROM INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT, HE HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE

W. M. Camp, superintendent of the Atlanta division of the Pullman company, was rescued from his sick bed when fire broke out in his home, at No. 90 West North avenue, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, being taken across the street from the burning house just as the roof caved in, by students of the Georgia school of Technology. Camp had been brought to his home from a hospital only that morning. The camp residence was practically destroyed by fire, the loss being estimated at $8,000. The home of William W. Moore, next door, at No. 92, was ignited by the flames from Camp's residence, and the roof of this house burned off. The furniture was considerably damaged by water. Camp was recuperating from the effects of an automobile accident. He was rescued from the house by the quarterback of the Tech football team, J. H. Lucas, and J. L. Parker, a student.

FIGHT IS STUBBORN OVER CANAL TOLLS

Washington, March 19.—More stubborn than anything that has arisen to stir the tranquility of the democratic majority since the party came into control of the national government, is the opposition to President Wilson's plea for repeal of the toll exemption provision for American ships in the Panama canal act.

With the time almost at hand when the question is to be decided, the unyielding opposition of the democrats who believe it will be an economic mistake to reverse the policy of the government on the tolls question, has become more active, in senate and house the discussion is certain to be the most vigorous that has been precipitated by any issue the democratic congress has had before it.

While the president and democratic members in both houses who will support his position are confident that the repeal will pass by a comfortable majority, few have any idea that the majority will be large. Debate on the repeal will begin in the house Saturday, when a rule will be offered limiting debate to fifteen hours. In the senate action by the committee on inter-oceanic canals on a repeal bill submitted by Senator Owen may be taken up next Monday.

Skating on Thin Ice. President Wilson today conferred with Senator Jones, of Washington, informing the senator that there was absolutely no basis for conclusions he had referred to in a senate speech Wednesday to the effect that the tolls repeal was the price to be paid as a result of negotiations with Great Britain for non-interference by foreign powers in Mexico and for England's defense of the Monroe doctrine.

Discussing the matter with other callers, the president said his address to congress on repeal of the tolls clause was written before the visit to Washington of the British minister to Mexico, Sir Lionel Carden, to whom Senator Jones had referred in his speech, and that the canal controversy was not mentioned during the minister's conference at the white house.

The president said he could not get a suggestion of the Mexican question out of Sir Lionel "with a corkscrew," and that the conference was purely for information on the general situation in Mexico, nor any suggestions for future policy in the Mexican situation came up in the talk with Sir Lionel.

Senator Jones Explains. Later in the day Senator Jones made a statement to the senate asserting that he had not wished to misrepresent anybody, that he had referred to the conclusions as he had read them in a newspaper, and that it was due to the president that he expressed to the senate his opinion of the matter.

ANSELY PARK BLAZE ATTRACTS A CROWD AT MIDNIGHT HOUR

The evacuated school building at No. 181 Parkdale avenue, in Ansley Park, was destroyed by fire which broke out about midnight.

The building was valued at about $4,000, and was owned by Hartscock & Williams, real estate dealers. The big blaze attracted a large number of citizens from sections on the north side of the city.

LITERACY TEST STAYS IN IMMIGRATION BILL

Senate Committee Decides to Retain Clause Despite Wilson's Veto Threat.

Washington, March 19.—The Burnett immigration bill, with its literacy test which it finally retained, is generally expected to cause President Wilson to veto the measure, was reported favorably today by the senate immigration committee.

The bill contains one provision intended directly to restrict immigration, although said provision also incidentally, is to a certain extent selective in its operation. The literacy test has been adopted as the best device so far suggested for reducing immigration.

Among the amendments proposed by the senate committee is one that would exclude "persons of inferior mental and physical capacity" which the public health service urged as a means of excluding those who are afflicted with those liable to insanity under stress of American life.

Representatives Shelby and Covington, who, with Representatives Adams and Jones, led the administration fight in the house to repeal the Panama tolls exemption, told President Wilson today that the repeal would be taken up probably Monday or Tuesday with a special rule limiting debate. They declared that a large majority would vote for the repeal.

Represents the view that after yesterday's debate all chances of settlement by consent are ended and the home rule bill will be passed in original form.

Both liberal and unionist morning papers take the view that after yesterday's debate all chances of settlement by consent are ended and the home rule bill will be passed in original form.

CITRON SEVERELY BEATEN ON WAY TO HIS HOME

Storekeeper Badly Injured by Supposed Negro Thief Before Aid Arrived.

A negro who had concealed himself behind a large tree in front of 85 East Baker street last night about 11:30 o'clock, attacked E. Citron, who was going home from his store at 255 Piedmont avenue, beating him over the head with a fence rail.

Citron called for help and F. L. Belmont, who lives at the corner of Baker street and Piedmont avenue, was attracted by his cries and rushed to his aid. He and Citron saved losing his money.

Manacopolis, Minn., March 19.—The only aid needed to interpret the Sherman anti-trust law and supreme court decisions on it, is a man's own common sense, says a former president of the law school of the University of Minnesota today.

No man who has read these decisions and who is making a business arrangement, whether he is a lawyer or a layman, should not be ignorant of what the effect of his act will be. It is a question of proof to others, but to him it is a question of intention and duty.

During his long incumbency in this office he has performed many deeds of marriage, but this is the first time he ever wedded an eloping pair in a public place.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 19.—Both branches of city council today adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Blackwelder to offer a reward for the recovery of the 7-year-old Warren McKarrick and the arrest and conviction of his abductor.

EXPERTS FAVORED ATLANTA FOR BANK

Out of 213 Giving Verbal Testimony Before Committee, 187 Said Atlanta Should Have Bank.

Of the 213 experts giving verbal testimony before the regional bank organization committee, 187 said that a regional bank should be established in Atlanta, this city getting more endorsements than Boston, New Orleans, Denver or Philadelphia.

Only four cities led Atlanta, these being Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and New York.

These figures were compiled by E. N. Berrien, Jr., the well-known credit man and correspondent of The Wall Street Journal.

The organization committee evidently desires to first establish the boundary lines of the reserve districts, says Mr. Berrien, "and decide on the location of all of the regional reserve banks before giving any information on the subject to the public."

Atlanta's position is strengthening every day. With the busy fall and crop-moving season a thing of the past, the heavy clearings and practically unbroken deposit line of the Atlanta bank has led to a little inquiry.

New $1.50 Blouses 98c

Don't miss this bargain. These blouses were bought to sell at $1.50; and that's what they must bring after this sale. All fresh and new; charming styles that embody every new fashion feature. There are raglan and gusset shoulders, Medici and frill collars, long and three-quarter sleeves. Nine styles in all, variously in white crepes, Marquisettes, allover embroidered voile, and lingerie. Sizes and styles for all. Not a waist worth under $1.50. Choice 98c.

Ladies' $4 Rain Coats $1.98

These coats are real RUBBER lined, hence not to be confused with "rubberized" coats. Seams are stitched and cemented—each coat bears a rainproof label. Smartly tailored in regular mannish style with notched collar, slashed side pockets, strapped sleeves. Finished with belt in back. Light and dark tan. All sizes.

$1 & $1.50 Corsets 49c

EARLY in February we transferred all 1913 corsets from the upstairs corset department to the basement. Most of these 81 models are new, in quite good styles; medium and low bust and long hips. The $1.50 models for the most part are discontinued styles. All sizes—25 to 29—splendid opportunities to secure corsets for house and morning as well as street wear. Choice 49c.

$3 to $5 Corsets $1.29

The $3 corsets are in good styles; the higher priced corsets in discontinued models. Sizes and styles for every figure. High, medium and low busts with long hips. Included are silk brocades and imported materials.

Bedding in the Sale

- 79c for $1 Crochet Spreads—1 full case of hemmed crochet spreads, in attractive patterns.

WILSON IS INTERESTED IN RAILWAY SITUATION

President Willing to Help in Every Legislative Way to Bring Relief.

Washington, March 19.—President Wilson today manifested his deep interest in the financial condition of the railroads of the country, expressing a desire to help in every legitimate way to bring them relief. The president had been asked by callers to see if he had any personal complaints from the railroads about their financial condition and remarked that he had heard what everybody was discussing—the uncertainty of their position. He let it be known that the government was considering general facts of the continued increase in operating expenses.

The president revealed, too, that while he had not been consulted by the interstate commerce commission as a whole, he had talked with individuals on the subject. Mr. Wilson considers an important factor in the railway situation the question of whether or not the railroads would get the proposed increases in freight rates now being argued before the interstate commerce commission. He made it clear that this was "the big thing" in the situation, but did not express an opinion on the merits of the increase. No legislative action to afford relief to railroads had been suggested to the president, according to his talks with callers.

During the course of his talks with railroads, Mr. Wilson pointed out that the New Haven situation was proceeding satisfactorily, and that he had not heard of the New Haven case influencing the financial condition of other railroads, as had been reported.

New Haven Order Condemned.

Waterbury, Conn., March 19.—Federal proceedings against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in their present aspect were denounced today as drastic by Governor Baldwin in an address before the Waterbury Chamber of Commerce. He said that the proposed board for interstate trade regulation looked to him as a serious menace to the prosperity of Connecticut manufacturing interests.

"The federal authorities seem to me to be acting in the interest of the railroad," Mr. Baldwin said. "If it is deemed necessary to require the sale of any of the property of the railroads, it would be unwise to give time enough to dispose of it, if not to the best advantage, at least at a fair price."

Of the trade regulation bill the governor said that, judging from newspaper reports, it would be unfavorable to the commercial dealings of Connecticut with sister states. It has been stated that it is to apply to interstate trade corporations with a capital of $5,000,000 and such other corporations as the board may think proper to include. That strikes me as too great a power to leave with any board.

AT THE THEATERS.

Neil O'Brien Minstrels. (At the Atlanta.) Including a marine troupe, the Minstrels will offer the Neil O'Brien Minstrels. This show is in its second year, but it is new in its content and from the first drop shown to the last, new songs, new jokes, new minstrel faces and new dances are the promise. With all the new and the old, the Minstrels are a snappy combination which has been pleasing to the eyes of the Atlanta audience. Seats are now on sale for the engagement.

Ziegfeld Follies. (At the Atlanta.) On Wednesday and Thursday the Atlanta will offer the Ziegfeld Follies. In their return date, this noted show made such a tremendous hit here last week, that the management of the Atlanta returned theatrical tradition and by such an unusual success, made it a precedent for a return engagement of three performances, the nation's biggest theatrical Atlanta, but no more could be obtained. Seats for the Saturday matinee at 8 o'clock for the return and a line which will break all records is expected to reach the theatre. Indications point to larger houses than last week, when more than 5000 were turned away by second night. Hundreds who saw the show will want to see it again, this time with the new hard hat and the new Ziegfeld Follies. Collins, Elizabeth Price, Lynn Errol, Nat White, Eddie Kolley and others will lead all the stars. They will give nothing of that wonderful chorus, will be here for the return.

Keith Vaudeville. (At the Forsyth.) There will be just the best performing troupe of this theatre, the Forsyth group of star vaudevillians. Brady demonstrates that he is one of the most gifted of the up-to-date comedians and his comedy sketches are everywhere a wonderful sketch in his "Beauty Only Skin Deep," somewhat of a satire on the present day beauty parlor. From the master accompanist, John Coxwell, the best of the "Theater" is offered; the Armstrong and Clark in up-to-the-minute songs, and other features, are the real stars of the Keith Vaudeville. Little child and Mary Marble will headline the bill.

CHAS. E. BARKSDALE ANSWERS LAST CALL

Charles E. Barksdale, aged 58 years, died last night at 11 o'clock at his residence, 22 North Avenue. He was for twenty-four years affiliated with the Middle Georgia Banking company, was a member of the national bank, working the cotton end for the firm. He was a member of the Episcopal church and belonged to the National Union. Mr. Barksdale occupied a large and comfortable home in the city and was a well-to-do citizen. He is survived by a wife, two daughters, Mrs. James N. Brawner and Mrs. C. E. McCollough; three sons, E. Morris, Richard and John E. Barksdale; and a sister, Mrs. Joseph King. Mrs. John Harris and Mrs. John Riddle, and his mother, are also survivors.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John Harris, 22 North Avenue. The interment will be in West View cemetery.

Hughes After "Movies."

Washington, March 19.—(Special.)—Representative Hughes today introduced a bill similar to the one introduced by Senator Hoke Smith yesterday, calling for government censorship of moving pictures.

"The man sitting down to our villa was assured of what the eye and color had done for the halter of purple band now criticising the last of every saddle, or snapping of ark of leader. He went from his private car, at PRODUCT. The word was sent and contribute to horse, saddled and HILSON was waiting." —JAN COLLARS.

Elyea SHIRTS

The man sitting down to our villa was assured of what the eye and color had done for the halter of purple band now criticising the last of every saddle, or snapping of ark of leader. He went from his private car, at PRODUCT. The word was sent and contribute to horse, saddled and HILSON was waiting." —JAN COLLARS.

Why DECATUR Keeps On GROWING

DECATUR's business concerns, Decatur's banks. DECATUR's schools, Decatur's population. DECATUR's taxable values, Decatur's churches. DECATUR's real estate values—all continue to grow—even during 1913 as never before.

Why? On account of many things, such as its splendid waterworks and sewerage system, its educational facilities, its system of modern streets and sidewalks, and the general air of up-to-dateness which has fairly carried for the town the reputation of being the very best residence town in Georgia.

This has been brought about by the spirit of progress and of civic betterment which permeates the entire body of citizens of the town and has attracted to us always the same type of citizens from other sections of the country.

Do you want to live in a live town? Then, come to Decatur. Are you looking for a town of schools and churches and homes? Then, be sure to come to Decatur.

Do you want a good location for business? By all means, you should come to Decatur. Come to see us and let us show you our town, or write to us, or phone us. We'll be so glad to see you or hear from you. That is, if you are a live one. In the meanwhile, Watch Decatur Grow.

If you haven't time to write, or phone, or come, just watch this space from today, because Decatur's business men want you to know WHY Decatur is the very best residence town in Georgia.
