

English Manufacturers Ready to Buy Cotton, Declares Representative of British Treasury At a Meeting of Federal Board and Bankers

Sir George Paish Declares British Mills Will Purchase Staple Just as Soon as the Price Is Fixed and Danger of Underbuying Has Been Obviated.

NOTE OF OPTIMISM STRUCK AT MEETING HELD BY FINANCIERS

Cotton Exchanges in New York, New Orleans and Liverpool to Open as Soon as Possible—Federal Board to Hasten Action on Cotton Loan.

Washington, October 23.—(By Associated Press.)—Financial forces of the federal government, aided by the friendly counsel of prominent American bankers and representatives of Great Britain, were turned today toward readjustment of the foreign exchange market, disturbed by the European war.

For more than three hours the federal reserve board, Sir George Paish and Basil B. Blackett, representing the English treasury, and some of the best-known bankers in New York discussed the situation in all its aspects.

The New York and London stock exchanges will not be opened soon, possibly not before the beginning of 1915. A joint committee of the two exchanges will consider reopening before hand.

To Hasten Cotton Loan. The federal reserve board is expected to hasten consideration of the proposed cotton loan fund plan, designed in part to give bottom to the cotton market.

The cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans and Liverpool probably will be opened as soon as possible. The New York exchange probably will open through a committee with the Liverpool exchange before such action is taken.

A committee, consisting of Benjamin Strong, Jr., A. H. Wiggin, James Brown, of New York, and Governor Hamlin and Paul M. Warburg, of the reserve board, will hold further conferences with Sir George Paish and Basil B. Blackett about details of the readjustment plan.

According to some of those at the conference, the optimism of all present was surprising. Sir George, it was said, did not indicate that he had come to demand payment of American debts; he had no concrete plan to lay before the Americans, but listened to what they had to say.

The banks will need immense supplies of checks, drafts, stationery, books and other similar supplies for their opening, and the contract will mean about $20,000 to the Atlanta firm. According to the conditions, all the supplies must be furnished by November 20.

Although there was no expression as to how much gold actually must be paid to England, it was the opinion of many of those present that but little more than already has been arranged for will be necessary.

A prominent part in all the calculations agreed, must be played by cotton. It is felt that the desirability of finding a bottom for the market and making arrangements for reopening cotton exchanges were discussed at length.

SEEK TO BREAK WILL OF GEORGIA HUMORIST

Bequest of Lucius Perry Hills for Atlanta Art Museum Attacked in Court.

One of the most unique and interesting legal battles fought over will in the history of Georgia was launched Friday afternoon when papers were filed at the Fulton county courthouse seeking to break the will of the late Lucius Perry Hills, the famous Georgia poet, humorist and lecturer, who left an estate valued at about $15,000 to found an art museum in Atlanta.

Attacking the will on the ground that the art museum bequest is void because it is indefinite and impossible of fulfillment, the present action will finally result, if successful, in relieving the court of the duty of settling the will of Lucius Perry Hills, brother, Edward S. Hills, of Johnson City, Tenn., who was cut out from the estate entirely by the provisions of the will.

Colonel Hamilton Douglas, in presenting the petition to Judge Bell Friday afternoon, asked the court to appoint some well-known Atlanta attorney to take this position as "amicus curiae," (literally, friend of the court) and represent the interests of the proposed art museum in the legal battle.

It has been rumored that the Atlanta Art Association claims to seek an enforcement of the bequest and will appear in the case when it comes to a trial in January. As yet, however, the art association has taken no steps toward insisting upon an enforcement of the will.

JEALOUS WIFE MAY LEARN FATE FROM JURY BY NIGHTFALL

Lawyers for Mrs. Carman, on Trial for Murder, Will Complete Case by Noon Today.

She was told her husband was "devil with girls." Defendant on the Verge of Breakdown When Asked Why She Failed to Write Letter of Condolence.

Minneapolis, N. T., October 23.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, on trial here for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, may know her fate by tomorrow night. Her counsel and District Attorney Lewis J. Smith informed Justice Charles H. Kelly today that they undoubtedly would have completed their case before the noon recess tomorrow.

The entire afternoon thus will be left for the summing up and the delivering of the charge to the jury. The case should be in the hands of the jury before nightfall.

This was the defense's day. Witness after witness gave testimony for Mrs. Carman. The defendant herself submitted to a grilling cross-examination. Explaining her installation of a mechanical "sawdusting" device in the office of her husband, Dr. Edwin Carman, she told how men friends of her husband had asked him in her presence how "his girls" were.

She brought her story down through a long period, during which she kept hearing things about her husband and his "girls." Then she admitted she became suspicious of Dr. Carman and had the "mechanical sawdust" installed in his office. She said that if a woman patient came to her husband's office many times she became suspicious of the woman and also of her husband.

Mrs. Carman frequently was confused, and at times hesitated and fumbled with the prosecutor. When interrogated regarding her failure to write a note of condolence to the family of the woman she killed, she said she had written Elizabeth, wife of the witness, stating that she listened intently while the child testified in her mother's defense.

All members of Mrs. Carman's family testified in her behalf today. Their stories were corroborative, and each witness testified there was the least truth in the story told by the defendant. The defendant who gave testimony on Thursday intended to connect Mrs. Carman with the murder.

Another witness was Ferdinand G. Morton, a negro lawyer, employed to get a statement from Celia Coleman, the district attorney's secretary, after the murder was turned over to the defense. In this statement Celia Coleman testified that she saw Mrs. Carman in the night of the murder, heard a report, which she thought was a firecracker, looked out the yard and saw a man running away.

When Mrs. Carman stepped into the witness stand today she expressed willingness to reply to any question District Attorney Smith might ask her. The courtroom was crowded. District Attorney Smith asserts she took "Mrs. Carman" began the hearing by asking her why she was suspicious of her husband. When did you get suspicious?

"About a year ago." "What caused your suspicion she could not say. Her husband did not cause it. "Just rumors." "No, just some one asking him about his girls," she told me. "She could not recall who told her this."

"Somebody was asking him 'how are all your girls' all the time," she said. "I thought maybe there might be some truth in what they were saying. They would say to me, 'The doctor is some devil.'"

"Did you have an inclination to hear what the doctor had to say to his women patients?" "In a way, yes. Some of his patients."

URGE BOND ISSUE AS THE SOLUTION OF ATLANTA NEEDS

New Schools, Hospital Annex, Better Streets and Sewers Needed, Says Industrial Commission.

WILL GIVE EMPLOYMENT TO HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

$5,000,000 Bonds in 10-Year Series Proposed—Money Market Is Getting Easier, Agree Business Men.

Regarding the present as the best time for making municipal improvements, Atlanta's newly created industrial commission will recommend in its report to the general council a bond issue of $5,000,000 in ten-year serials for new schools, a hospital annex, streets and sewers, not only as a means of furnishing a municipal need, but also to afford work for hundreds of people in the city.

Members of the commission, following a lengthy and thorough discussion of the industrial situation on Friday, were unanimously of the opinion that the city should call a bond election at an early date.

Councilman Claude Mason, chairman of the commission, said that he regards the present the best time for issuing bonds. He explained that an issue of $5,000,000 will mean work for hundreds of men in Atlanta. L. C. Hopkins and T. K. Glenn were also optimistic over the outlook. They both coincided in the opinion that the money market will grow easier from time to time, and that before the end of the year it will be normal.

The commission appointed a subcommittee, composed of Councilman George H. Boynton and L. C. Hopkins, to gather statistics as to the number of men unemployed in the city. The committee was authorized to employ a clerk to investigate such data as is gathered. Next Thursday the commission will meet again to hear the report of the subcommittee.

"In my opinion," said Chairman Mason, now is the time for Atlanta to issue bonds for improvements. If we can get the people to vote for an issue of bonds to the extent of $5,000,000 before the first of January conditions will become improved. The city will have a clerk to investigate such data as is gathered. Next Thursday the commission will meet again to hear the report of the subcommittee.

Another recommendation which the commission will make to council will be for a registration bureau for unemployed, the bureau to serve as a sort of employment agency for the city. The commission was appointed at the last meeting of the Federal Reserve Board a resolution offered jointly by Aldermen Thomson and McDonald. Its purpose is to place the city council in possession of information as to the number of men unemployed in the city, and report to council.

The commission is composed of Councilman Claude Mason, chairman; Councilmen C. D. Knight, George Boynton, Colonel John C. Clark, Ashley and J. M. E. Hoxsey, T. K. Glenn, Isaac Schoen and L. C. Hopkins.

CLUB WOMEN RUN CARS. Three Hundred Ring Up Fares for Sake of Charity.

St. Joseph, Mo., October 23.—Three hundred members of the Federation of Women's Clubs today took the places of conductors on St. Joseph's street car lines. The occasion was "Trolley day," and the company had agreed to give all money collected, in excess of the average week-day receipts, to the federation to be used for charity. Many passengers paid more than the usual nickel.

CONGRESS FORCED TO STICK TO JOB

Dixie Solons Determined to Continue Filibuster Until Legislation to Relieve Cotton Situation Is Passed.

Washington, October 23.—With congress tied up by lack of a quorum in both houses, cotton belt senators and representatives tonight made a vain appeal to President Wilson for aid in securing cotton relief legislation, and clearing the way to final adjournment of the session.

After they had blocked adjournment by obstructive tactics the cotton relief supporters went into conference in the day to appoint a committee to wait upon the president. The president, however, when asked for an interview said he would be busy with an important state department conference until he left Washington at midnight and therefore could not meet the committee.

The departure of the president for Pittsburg, where he will address a Y. M. C. A. celebration tomorrow, set at rest a rumor that the extraordinary conditions, under which congress found itself unable to adjourn, might be met by the president exercising his prerogative power.

Continued efforts of democratic leaders to secure an agreement to adjourn failed completely and tonight southern members reiterated their determination to continue obstructive tactics until legislation designed to relieve the cotton situation could be passed. Opinion was general that this would prolong the session indefinitely, certainly until after the elections. The effort of administration leaders for adjournment, however, will be continued tomorrow.

Meantime the general exodus of members of both houses continues. The house today had 147 members present on a roll call, nearly sixty short of a quorum, and the senate showed forty-six, three less than a quorum. Senator Clarke, president pro tempore of the senate, though a champion of cotton legislation, gave up in despair and after characterizing further efforts of his colleagues to obtain relief as "grand old playing" and "vaudeville performance," left the city.

No Compromise for Henry. Representative Henry, of Texas, lending the cotton forces in the house, before congress was adjourned during the day. He frustrated an effort of Majority Leader Underwood to secure agreement to allow passage of the pending cotton bill, insisting on consideration of his plan for a $250,000,000 bond issue. Speaker Clark advanced a proposal to make the pending bill the first business to come before congress when it meets in December, but Representative Henry also rejected this. Another proposal that congress recess and adjourn back after election came to naught.

At the conference of cotton belt members tonight Representative Henry declared he would fight adjournment until he secured a vote on his bonding plan. Senators Smith of Georgia; Smith of South Carolina; Overman, Lea, Sheppard, Gore and White and about a dozen cotton refuse representatives attended the conference. Various other proposals were discussed and rejected before the conference decided to appeal to the president. When the reply came in the form of the telephone statement that Mr. Wilson would be busy all evening, the conferees adjourned with an air of despair and disappointment.

When the senate met at noon, Senator Jones, of Washington, made a point of no quorum. Only forty-two senators were present. On motion of Senator Kern, the sergeant-at-arms was directed to call the roll.

WIFE OF JANITOR SHARES FORTUNE

Despite Fact That Will Was Burned in Atlanta, Jardine Estate Litigation Is Ended by Settlement.

New York, October 23.—(Special.)—There are five children romping with joy around a smiling woman of middle age in a rear apartment at No. 109 University place, and they live here after will be blessed with the good things of life, while only yesterday they were the children of a poor janitor.

No wonder the woman smiles. She is Mrs. Anita Faithful McCarthy, and by a settlement out of court today she and her children are to share in the $200,000 estate left by her father, Dudley Jardine, who, as "William Smith," lived the life of a recluse on the lowly Bowery. He died last January and but for the intervention of one of his Bowery cronies, would have been buried in Potter's field.

The bulk of the settlement could not be obtained from the lawyers today, but on good authority it was learned that nearly half of the fortune has been given to Mrs. McCarthy.

Dudley Jardine, son of a millionaire organ builder, disappeared from society thirty years ago, adopted the name of William Smith and became a dweller in Bowery lodging houses. After the birth of his daughter Anita he lived but little with his family, explaining that he was away most of the time doing private detective work. Final judgment establishing the authenticity of a will made by Jardine in 1899 was signed today by Justice Lehman as a result of the settlement.

When this will was filed Mrs. McCarthy had a contest, contending that her father made a will in 1911 disposing of his fortune to his family. Unfortunately, however, it was learned that this will, which got into the post office in New York, had been burned in Atlanta, Ga. Through depositions taken in that city the existence of the will was proved and the trial of a second contest initiated by Mrs. McCarthy would have begun this term in the supreme court.

The settlement does away with the trial. The Jardine will, which was destroyed, was written by Colonel James Tate, of New York, a former Georgia. It was witnessed by Colonel Tate and by Dr. George Lewis, of New York. When Colonel Tate died, over a year ago, his papers came into the possession of his niece, Mrs. Ephie Williams, 175 Oak street, Atlanta.

For several months she kept the papers, but one day decided that she would burn those of no value. Among the papers was the will of Jardine, but as it was several years old, had not been called for, and the estate judgment from the will was not a very large one, Mrs. Williams decided it was not valuable, and so it was destroyed. Recently word was received that the estate was started, Mrs. Williams was questioned about the will, and told what she knew of its contents.

Contents of Will. "It left several small bequests to various institutions, and half the yearling of the estate to the daughter and the other half to his nieces and nephews," said Mrs. Williams last night. "Lawyers for both sides have interviewed me about the will, and I told them all I knew. I was informed that a commission from a New York court would come here in September to take depositions from me, Tony A. Harlan, a contractor, who helped me burn up the papers, and from several of my relatives. The coming of this commission was postponed and I was told in a letter that I would be notified when it would come to Atlanta. "I am very glad that the daughter and her children will now share in the estate, as it was intended they should do by the father."

Germans Continue Retreat From Warsaw, According to Petrograd Report—More British Cruisers Sent to Hunt Down German Warships Now Destroying Merchantmen.

Washington, October 23.—After days of incessant fighting, dents at last have been made in that part of the battle line which had run virtually straight north and south from Ypres in Belgium to the bend in the elbow in the vicinity of the forest of Aigue in France.

Just a short distance above its center this line now curves like an inverted letter "S," the allies having pushed back the Germans east of Armentieres in an endeavor to press on to Lille, and the Germans having forced the allies to give ground around Labasse, probably hoping to obtain control of Bethune, a railroad center seven miles west of Labasse.

That ground has been won and lost in this district is admitted in the latest French official report. It seems improbable, however, that either engagement was decisive as the report declares actions near Labasse and Armentieres, near Arras, on the same line a short distance south of Labasse, continue with great violence. In fact, the report says that generally speaking the situation on this part of the war front remains the same.

Vessels are endeavoring to aid the allied troops in holding back the German advance, nothing was vouchsafed in the report. Altkirch, in Upper Alsace, near the Swiss frontier, has been taken by the French at the point of the bayonet. Since the outbreak of the war this town has been the scene of much fighting and several times has changed hands. Petrograd claims the Germans continue to retreat and that Emperor Nicholas' forces have crossed the Vistula without resistance. The Austrians are given credit in the Russian report for continuing to fight stubbornly on the

Vistula, on the San and south of Przemysl. No reports were received from Germany or Austria, and Serbia likewise was silent regarding the operations in the south. TO SEARCH SEAS FOR GERMAN CRUISERS. The British admiralty has issued a statement saying that the necessity to use its warships for convoy duty having passed, British cruisers, aided by vessels of the Australian, Japanese, French and Russian navies, will search the seas in an endeavor to run down the eight or nine German cruisers, including the Emden and the Karlsruhe, which have been playing havoc with shipping of the allied countries. Great Britain has prohibited importation of sugar to keep the German and Austrian product from being shipped in from neutral countries. President Wilson has approved demands of the state department on Great Britain for the release of the steamers Platania and Brindilla. The president took the position that every right of American shipping must be protected. The Germans appear to be making a new effort with new organizations between the North sea and the Oise. Paris learns unofficially that fresh troops have given a new impetus to the German attack on the French right wing. The fast German cruiser Karlsruhe has become a rival of the German cruiser Emden as a destroyer of the enemy's merchant vessels. Word comes from the Canary islands that the Karlsruhe has sunk thirteen British merchantmen in the Atlantic. A dispatch from Peking says that a German torpedo boat destroyer, which escaped from Kiao-Chow bay, was captured by warships of the allies. The German press generally charge outrages against the allied troops. The Vorwaerts, the socialist organ of Berlin, is an exception. It states that upon investigation it has found no basis of truth in the allegations of cruelties inflicted upon German soldiers and civilians.

13 British Vessels Sunk By the Cruiser Karlsruhe German Warship's Exploits in the Atlantic as Successful as Those of Emden in Indian Ocean. London, October 23.—(6:40 a. m.)—A dispatch from Tenerife, Canary Islands, to The Daily Mail under date of Thursday, reports that the German cruiser Karlsruhe has sunk thirteen British merchantmen in the Atlantic. The news of the Karlsruhe's exploit, according to The Daily Mail's Tenerife correspondent, was brought to port by the German steamer Crefeld, which arrived there with the crew of the British steamers Strathroy, Maplebranch, Highland Hope, Indrini, Rio Iguaçu, Fern, Nioto, Maria de Lourdes, Cervantes, Cornish City, Frith, Conder and Lynrowan, all of which were sunk by the Karlsruhe. The Crefeld was accompanied into port by the German steamers Patagonia, Rio Negro and Assunção. A later message states that over 400 men of the crew are prisoners and that the merchantmen were mostly engaged in the South American trade and their total tonnage is about 60,000. The cruiser Karlsruhe, a ship of a tonnage less than 5,000 tons, has had in this war a career as eventful in the Atlantic as that of her smaller sister ship the Emden. The ship was apparently in wait for British merchantmen leaving New York. For a few days the British shipping bugged their pursuers and then came news that the Karlsruhe had been driven away by the approach of several British cruisers. On August 9 the Karlsruhe appeared in the harbor of San Juan, Porto Rico, where it was captured by the British. Karlsruhe had been in a sensational running fight at sea with the British cruisers Suffolk and Bristol. It appears that the British cruisers came unexpectedly upon the Karlsruhe while she was making for the German steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm. The cruisers engaged in a running fight while the Kronprinz Wilhelm, through her superior speed, easily escaped. The Karlsruhe also eluded her pursuers and an unconfirmed report has it that she damaged the Bristol in this fight. Since then the Karlsruhe has appeared in several West Indian ports for coal after preying in various southern seas on British commerce. An official statement in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, October 3, said she had sunk seven British steamers in the Atlantic. The Karlsruhe is a comparatively new ship, having gone into commission early in 1912. She is very fast, having a speed of twenty-seven knots, which enables her to run far to successfully elude the persistent British pursuit. Her main armament consists of twelve 4.1-inch guns and she carries a crew of 373 men.

70 CRUISERS HUNT FOR SEA TERRORS British Admiralty Adds to the Warships Searching for Karlsruhe, Emden and Other German Cruisers. London, October 23.—(7 p. m.)—The admiralty tonight issued a statement outlining the search for the German cruisers at large in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. These cruisers include the Emden, which was sunk on the 22nd, and the Karlsruhe, which was captured on the 9th. The statement says: "Searching for these vessels and working in concert under various commanders-in-chief are upward of seventy British, Australian, Japanese, French and Russian cruisers, not including auxiliary cruisers. Among these are a number of the fastest British cruisers. The vast expanses of seas and oceans and thousands of islands offer almost infinite choice of movement to the enemy's ships. Despite every effort to cut off their coal supply, it has been found necessary to increase the difficulty of the discovery and destruction of these cruisers largely is a matter of time, patience and good luck. Most Follow Orders. "Our commanders so far have been successful in a series of operations and convey duty, but this work has lessened and the number of searching cruisers is being augmented. Meanwhile merchant ships must observe the admiralty instructions, which it is obviously impossible to specify, and use all precautions which have been suggested. On routes where these instructions have been followed they have so far proved very effective. On the other hand, where they have not been regarded, captures have been made. The same vigilance of sea which has so far enabled the German army to avoid capture will protect trade. "The only alternative to the methods now being used in the marshaling of merchantmen in regular convoys at stated intervals, so far it has not been found necessary to attempt trade by enforcing such a system. "The percentage of loss is much less than was reckoned on before the war. Out of 600 British ships engaged in the foreign trade, only thirty-nine have been sunk by the enemy, or less than 7 per cent in all. Besides seven vessels are now overdue in Atlantic waters. "The number of German merchant vessels which at the outbreak of war was fixed at 5,000, has been reduced to 2,000. "Between 8,000 and 9,000 foreign voyages have been undertaken to and from the United Kingdom, less than one per cent of which have been interfered with, and of these losses a large number have been caused by merchant vessels being taken over for war purposes and proceeding without precautions, as if there was no war."

FRENCH TAKE ALTKIRCH AT POINT OF BAYONET Germans Disguised as British Officers Shot When They Halt Convoys. Paris, October 23.—(11:46 p. m.)—Violent attacks and counter-attacks continued throughout last night and today along the battle front from the North sea to Switzerland, according to officials arriving here tonight from various sections of the line. No noticeable change in the positions was effected, they said, though the allies were compelled to give way a little at Labasse, 13 miles southwest of Lille. At Armentieres the fighting was very stubborn and the allies gained some more ground. Two officers in British uniform today halted the motors belonging to an ammunition convoy as it was proceeding to the British lines at Armentieres. "Halt, you are running right into the German trenches" was the command given to the convoy. The captain in command noted that the man who issued the order spoke with a slight accent, and drew his revolver and shot both his supposed comrades. At the same moment a squadron of German cavalry appeared a short distance away. The British captain ordered the truck driver to dismount with their rifles and take a position in a ditch beside the road to defend the convoy. The Germans were about to charge when a French battalion appeared. A sharp fight followed and the Germans returned with heavy losses. The allied commanders regarded the results of today's fighting as favorable to their troops, since it has proved their ability to withstand frequent and formidable attacks from the powerfully reinforced German army. In the vicinity of Arras the forcing tactics of the Germans were again in evidence, but they made no progress. The artillery duel was exceedingly heavy. In the eastern district the battle of the Vosges continued vigorously. Further west a French and German infantry came to close quarters at Altkirch, which was captured by the French at the point of the bayonet.

$375,000,000 WAR LOAN PASSED BY PRUSSIA. Berlin, October 23.—(By wireless.)—The governing council of yesterday's meeting of the Prussian Diet given out today in official quarters in Berlin: "A Prussian war loan of $375,000,000 was passed unanimously, even the socialists supporting it. "Money was voted for the relief of the province of East Prussia, which has suffered the most during the war, and for other military purposes. "Other information given out today in Berlin says: "The Danish steamer Rolf, from New York for Christiania, carrying 20,000 tons of corn, has been captured by a British cruiser and taken into Scotland. "A German hospital ship, searching the sea for men from German torpedo-boat destroyers sunk by the British, has been forced to go into an English harbor by a British cruiser. "A German naval officer has discovered in Antwerp a letter addressed to an English surgeon, Richard Road, a volunteer in the Belgian machine gun corps, written by his sister, Janine, and dated Birmingham, September 28, in which are the following words: "I would like to be a nurse. I could kill one or two Germans." "The British are bombarding the open Belgian town of Ostend. "Reliable official reports declare that there is in Belgium today a sufficient supply of cereals to meet all requirements until the next harvest, and that the stock of cattle is sufficient to provide an ample supply of meat. "The general opinion in the German seventh army corps, it was stated officially in Berlin today, has declared that the calling out of the Landwehr is unnecessary, as enormous quantities of the Landwehr were still available. "It was yet necessary to call out Landwehr. "The number of Belgians returning to Antwerp is increasing as a result of the general retreat accorded them by the German authorities in possession of the city. "The English judge, in the course of the trial against the alleged traitors of these anti-German outrages, expressed regret at the doctrine that foreigners in Belgium are outlaws. "The German military authorities when they discovered that certain swarming houses in the neighborhood had been turned down by the French took care of the French civilians to the number of 140, who had been living therein. Among them were many women and children. All were sent to Hastat, near Karlsruhe, where they were given shelter in the area."

GERMANS DISGUISED AS BRITISH OFFICERS SHOT WHEN THEY HALT CONVOYS. Paris, October 23.—(11:46 p. m.)—Violent attacks and counter-attacks continued throughout last night and today along the battle front from the North sea to Switzerland, according to officials arriving here tonight from various sections of the line. No noticeable change in the positions was effected, they said, though the allies were compelled to give way a little at Labasse, 13 miles southwest of Lille. At Armentieres the fighting was very stubborn and the allies gained some more ground. Two officers in British uniform today halted the motors belonging to an ammunition convoy as it was proceeding to the British lines at Armentieres. "Halt, you are running right into the German trenches" was the command given to the convoy. The captain in command noted that the man who issued the order spoke with a slight accent, and drew his revolver and shot both his supposed comrades. At the same moment a squadron of German cavalry appeared a short distance away. The British captain ordered the truck driver to dismount with their rifles and take a position in a ditch beside the road to defend the convoy. The Germans were about to charge when a French battalion appeared. A sharp fight followed and the Germans returned with heavy losses. The allied commanders regarded the results of today's fighting as favorable to their troops, since it has proved their ability to withstand frequent and formidable attacks from the powerfully reinforced German army. In the vicinity of Arras the forcing tactics of the Germans were again in evidence, but they made no progress. The artillery duel was exceedingly heavy. In the eastern district the battle of the Vosges continued vigorously. Further west a French and German infantry came to close quarters at Altkirch, which was captured by the French at the point of the bayonet.

Battle Line Sways Before Fierce Attack of Germans

While the Allies Are Forced Back at Some Points, the Kaiser's Men Lose Ground at Others.

London, October 23.—(9 p. m.)—The Germans have undertaken a general offensive along the line extending from the mouth of the river Yser, on the North sea, to the river Meuse, and while they have forced the allies to give ground in some places, they themselves have lost positions in others. This, briefly, is what is gathered from tonight's official French and German reports.

Today's German attack was particularly severe in the west, where their right wing, strongly reinforced, attempted an advance against the Belgians holding the allies' extreme left. This left rests on the coast and is supported by English and French warships and by Anglo-French troops which form a front extending from a point somewhere in the vicinity of Duxmude southward to LaBasse canal. Both sides claim successes, but the French alone admit that in places they have fallen back.

No Decisive Battle.
Generally, however, there is little change in the situation, the lines being and swaying as they have done for weeks.

Although it is now just two months since the allies concentrated on the Franco-Belgian front to oppose the German advance and the invaders have been almost to Paris and back in the interval, no decisive battle has been fought.

Neither side has destroyed or partially destroyed an army. Even the Belgian army escaped almost intact after that country was overrun by the Germans. The same can be said of operations in the east, except in the case of Lieutenant General Samsonoff, the Russian commander, whose army was partly destroyed by the Germans in the battle of Tannenberg, East Prussia.

In the present battle on the river Vistula, from Warsaw south to the river Pillica, the Russians have scored an important victory and have captured many prisoners, besides guns and ammunition. But the retreating army, when it gets back to its selected position, can entrench and start another siege battle, such as that on the river Aisne in France.

In the case of the Pillica the Germans still hold the river Vistula except in front of the fortress at Ivangorod, where they were driven back by attacks from that stronghold.

Russian Wing Attacked.
The Austrian army so often described as routed and destroyed, has sprung into life again and is attacking the Russian left wing. The Austrians, however, apparently have found an impenetrable barrier at the river San north of Jaroslau.

The German claim of victory over the Russians west of Augustowo, Suwalki, following fighting reported by them yesterday in the direction of Osowoz, south of Augustowo, shows that the Germans are attempting another advance from East Prussia into the government of Grodno, east of Suwalki, doubtless aiming to compel the Russians to reinforce their army in that region.

All these movements, however, have brought the belligerents no nearer their goals, which cannot be attained until an army is destroyed or one of the other becomes too exhausted to fight further.

The British admiralty tonight issued a report saying the German cruiser Karlsruhe had captured thirteen British steamers in the Atlantic.

The only definite fact which served as a basis for the belief that the climax has been reached in the west, was an air battle across the channel is that armies, however numerous, cannot indefinitely face the decimation of their ranks, which has marked this, the latest phase in the great campaign.

For nearly a week this combat has raged with unabated fury without either side being able to register a decisive victory. That the slaughter in these fierce efforts to break through the opposing lines transcends anything heretofore seen in this campaign is admitted on both sides. Nevertheless, neither the terrible effect of the long range British guns over air battle, offering no natural defensive positions, although vouched for both officially and unofficially, nor the onslaughts of the allied forces on land has yet succeeded in striking a "knocking through" tactics of the Germans.

English news dispatches make sweeping claims of annihilating successes. German advices assert continued progress, and Russian telegrams report great victories, but well-defined evidence to support these various contentions is lacking, and the real facts appear to be that in neither the eastern nor the western areas of the war has the tide yet turned decisively.

Karlsruhe Gives Shock.
The great haul of merchant ships by the German cruiser Karlsruhe, now fully confirmed from Las Palmas, has been a rude shock to those who have contended that the Atlantic ocean was held safely by the British navy.

Chambers of commerce are agitating for a sweeping operation sufficiently wide to get rid of the German merchant fleet in Indian waters, and the equally successful Karlsruhe.

A dispatch from Paris to Reuters' Telegram company says that, according to trustworthy accounts received at the French capital this morning, fresh troops brought up by the Germans have enabled them to deliver attacks with increased vigor on the French right wing where the battle has been of a ding-dong character with alternate gains and losses.

French Navy Helping.
Vessels from the French navy, having crept around the coast, were today standing by the British monitors which were hurling shells landward between Ostend and Nieuport, on the Belgian coast, in continuation of the fierce battle between Germany and the allies for the possession of the North sea and channel ports.

For the first time since the war began air craft and warships are said to be hurrying to the aid of the land forces. The Germans are hurrying forward fresh troops and heavy guns to the battle to make good the damage done to their line between the sea and La Basse without, however, making noteworthy progress in the fight, so far as Belgium is concerned, has now resolved itself into a terrific artillery duel, in which it is claimed that the allies, by reason of their long range guns, have had the advantage. The steady forces and the network of canals doubtless have hindered the invaders in getting their guns of equal or greater range into position. When they do accomplish this the situation will be even more acute.

It is said that up to the present time the British naval losses have been negligible, although both sides must have suffered heavily on land. The German claim to have put a British torpedo boat out of action.

GERMANS FLEEING, IS RUSSIA'S CLAIM

Only Time Required to Reduce the Kaiser's Army to a Beaten Mob, It Is Reported.

Petrograd, October 23.—The following official communication was issued tonight by the Russian general staff:

"The energetic offensive of our armies, which have crossed the Vistula on the San and particularly to the south of Przemysl, has forced the Germans to retreat.

"In the trenches below Ivangorod we took large quantities of war stores and the enemy abandoned the reserve corps of the Prussian guard in its hasty retreat.

"The Austrian armies continue to fight with stubbornness on the Vistula, on the San and particularly to the south of Przemysl.

"In East Prussia there is no change in the situation."

Army Almost a Mob.
London, October 23.—The Petrograd correspondent of The Post, in telegraphing a review of the situation on the Russian front, says:

"The Germanic forces in their entirety for a fighting army to a beaten mob. The Russian cavalry is pressing hard upon their retreat, which is over abandoned through a bog, fringed by bog land and marshy forest. Prisoners and other trophies of success are being taken all the time, but no attempt has yet been made to estimate their numbers in the field.

"Wounded men, in their accounts of the fighting around the village of Kezlesnica, state that while the artillery was still proceeding to the front, the soldiers, stiff and miserable from their long confinement in the flooded trenches, were only too delighted at the order, and dashed upon the German line with irresistible vigor. The Germans, for the second time during the war on this side, met them with the bayonet and a terrible fight ensued. Neither side could gain the advantage and the slaughter was fearful.

"Finally, a Russian hurrah came down on the wind from the flank, followed by brisk firing. The Germans mistook this for a successful outflanking movement and they broke and fled abandoning everything in their run for safety. The Russians pursued them for twenty miles and the plain was strewn with the German dead."

Food Abandoned in Rout.
In a dispatch from Warsaw the correspondent of Reuters' Telegram company says the German retreat from Warsaw was so precipitate that the soldiers had to leave behind them their supplies. Many of the prisoners taken are exhausted from hunger. One complete unit of 300 men has been captured by the Russians.

A Petrograd dispatch to Reuters' Telegram company states that the comparative ineffectiveness of aerial warfare was proved at Warsaw where bombs thrown by German aviators missed the railway, telegraph and telephone stations and troops on the march. They only struck and destroyed the upper floors of some private homes, while many fell quite harmlessly.

Only one bomb dropping was attended with any success. It fell on some communications and wounded several soldiers and civilians who were standing nearby.

It is popularly reported in Warsaw that Emperor William had said that if the town could not be taken the land it must be taken from the air.

Royal Querry Captured.
Petrograd, October 23.—News received from the Russian front in Poland, says a statement issued by the official news bureau, relates that the Russians have captured the Grand Querry of the King of Saxony. He was riding in the royal automobile when taken in a young general who had only just recovered from grave wounds led the Saxons in an attempt to reach the heights of Radymno on the San river, north of Przemysl, the news bureau stated. The general and his staff fled in disorder and the Russians succeeded in capturing twenty-two officers and wounded men, and 200 wounded on the field.

MORE BRITISH TROOPS ARE SENT TO LEFT WING
London, October 23.—Additional British troops have been sent to the left along the Franco-Belgian border, where the burden had been borne up to about the middle of the line. The detachments, according to the story of an eye-witness made public today by the official London news bureau, were port, dated October 17, says of the general situation:

"In the southern part of the two spheres in which we have been engaged, on the Aisne, our right wing has been doing very well, and is actually moving forward, while in the northern sphere our left wing has advanced in considerable distance in face of some opposition."

The narrative accounts for the lack of more definite developments in the north by the natural obstructions, such as dikes, ravines and wooded sections, which hamper operations. Many stubborn combats have occurred, however, and "many once prosperous homesteads and villages are literally torn to pieces," according to the report.

"Amidst the graves scattered all over the course of the fighting, the eye-witness, "are rifle pits, trenches and gun emplacements which those now resting below are not allowed to defend or to attack. From these the progress of the fighting can be traced, and every inch of ground that has been from carefully constructed and cunningly placed works to the hastily raised lines of a German platoon or roadside ditch with its sines scooped out by the trenching implements of our own infantry."

LIGHTERS BEING BUILT FOR GERMAN INVASION
Copenhagen, October 23.—(Via London).—Two ship yards at Kiel, the Germania and the Howald, are building thirty lighters, capable of carrying 500 men each and traveling at the rate of 8 miles an hour to proceed to the River Scheldt. The events permit the landing of German troops on the coast of England. It is asserted that three of these lighters are completed and already on their way to the Scheldt.

The Germans are building an airship shed in Schleswig for two large Zeppelins.

Two German ship yards at Malmo, Sweden, are building two submarines, but as no money has been appropriated by the Swedish parliament, according to information here, the suggestion is made in Copenhagen that they were ordered by Germany.

Her Vulnerable Point.
(From The Baltimore Sun.)
"If you were an English statesman and were attacked by a mob of savages, with a horse whip what would you do?"
"I would say, 'Woman, your nose is shiny, and while she was applying powder I would make my escape.'"

Ground Lost and Won By Allies, Says Paris

Paris, October 23.—(11:10 p. m.)—The French official communication, issued tonight, says:

"On our left wing the action continues with great violence, notably around Arras, La Basse and Armentieres.

"The allies have lost some ground at some points around La Basse, but have won some at the east of Armentieres.

"Generally speaking, on this part of the front, the situation remains the same.

"To the north of the Aisne our artillery has destroyed three German batteries."

The official announcement given out at the war office this afternoon says: "On our left wing the very considerable German forces, whose presence was reported yesterday, have continued very violent attacks in the entire region between the sea and the canal of La Basse.

"Generally speaking, the situation of the allied forces has been maintained. While the allies have had to yield at certain points, they have advanced in others. The enemy also has evidenced very great activity in the region of Arras and on the river Somme. To the north and to the south of this stream we have progressed, particularly in the region of Rosthern.

"In Santerre, in the region of Verdun, and in the region of Pont-A-Mousson, we have had some partial successes. On the rest of the front there is nothing to report.

"To sum up, the enemy appears to be undertaking, along the major part of the front, and particularly between the North sea and the Oise, a new effort, making use of corps made up of new organizations. These are composed of men recently drilled, some of them very young and others of middle age, and have staffs drawn from various parts of the army."

To the south of the Pillica the Germans still hold the Vistula river, with the exception of the line from Ivangorod and Kozielka. This they have abandoned, pursued by the Russians.

"All the efforts made by the Austrians to cross the river San to the north of Jaroslau have been repulsed, and the Russians are undertaking the offensive in this region."

Many English firms have posted notices that the services of unmarried men of military age will be dispensed with, bringing this pressure to bear toward inducing the men to enlist. They offer, however, a bonus to the men who enlist to make up for the small pay received in the army.

Atlanta Saturday Night Enjoined by Parkhurst From Publishing Story

The Atlanta Saturday Night, the weekly publication, was last night temporarily enjoined from publishing a certain story about William F. Parkhurst, former advertising manager. The hearing was set for November 2. The suit was filed through J. C. Simmons, of Simmons & Simmons, and the order was signed by Judge Bell.

While he had not seen the story, Mr. Parkhurst stated last night that he understood it concerned him, and that for this reason he did not want it to appear. He said that he had received notice from the publishers of the Saturday Night that his services as advertising manager were no longer required.

The Store and Its People

Our salespeople are human. All of them are imperfect. So are you. Our salespeople make mistakes. Everybody does. Many of them have been with us for years. None are "floaters." We trust them—believe in them. They are loyal—interested. Their noblest selves are in the business. Conscience and ethical feeling govern their impulses. They are serene, fraternal, efficient. Each has an ideal of service; each fosters sympathy. Rivalries are worthy and friendly. They take up the burdens of others.

Teachers, preachers, artists, scientists, all of us need stimulation, else we lapse into lukewarmness. Even a church may feel the changing effect of ardor and chill. It is the same with a store. New life must be put into orthodoxy, or it ossifies. A store also needs the infiltration of enthusiasm—inspiration. The infusion must be continuous—or it becomes incrustated with old customs—corrodes.

Our people—our clerks—don't quietly slip into their places and take up old tasks. They freshen, and brighten and invigorate the growth of the business by putting creative energy into their work.

They have a trade code and philosophy as real and true as the beauty and motif that spring from the hearts of poets and prophets.

There is an inner influence that shapes their words and actions. They know the store is but for one purpose—to serve the public. It is a high conception of business—claimed by all—realized by few.

Our clerks are in union with our customers—fundamentally and instinctively in harmony with them. That's the only way they can realize their complete selves.

The store—this store—is something more than a center of trade. To many it is the unit of social organization. The bond is personal and strong. It is based on kinship—not of blood—but of active friendship, courtesy, the spirit of helpfulness.

Courtesy to one another and to patrons is the prop and stay of our reputation.

We ask you to judge the store, not alone by its merchandise and prices, but by its men and women

They assume a sense of responsibility and obligation—and live up to it.

No store in the world has fewer rules than ours—no store needs fewer. Nearly all stores distribute booklets among their employees telling them how to be well-bred—emphasizing social forms and demanding that they discard chewing gum and slang. We have never felt the necessity of doing this.

Our customers and our salespeople make the aura of the store. It is not pale, cold and abstract—nor is it loud, coarse and cheap. The aura of the store—its "atmosphere"—is vibrant. We can't describe it. You feel it. Such things are absolute. They can't be feigned. It is created by the conviction that there is a bond of ideal relationship between you and us.

All this implies a far-ranging vision, largeness of moral caliber, soaring constructive imagination.

The clerks know the value of courtesy and veracity and are true to the standards that make for these practices. They square with their instincts of sympathy and fair play.

The owners are unflinching in their efforts to uphold the traditions of the store—traditions that plumb with their ideals of service and integrity.

C.-J.-DuB. Co.'s SOROSIS SHOES

As far as our knowledge extends, the makers of SOROSIS are the only shoe manufacturers who operate their own last factory. This important fact is significant. Lasts stand in the same relation to shoes that moulds do to bricks. Lasts give shape to shoes.

All shoe manufacturers, except the makers of SOROSIS, get their styles from the men who produce lasts. This explains the sameness that marks shoes. Shoemakers depend upon last makers for designs—for creative ideas. Every SOROSIS model is the original work of a SOROSIS artist and remains exclusive—until it has been copied by others.

The manufacturers of SOROSIS begin at the beginning. Huge blocks of hardwood from Wisconsin forests are "turned" into lasts. Every line expresses an artistic dogma, every curve is an aesthetic creed. That's why SOROSIS SHOES are so distinctive. They bear the charm of individuality—are inextricably associated with the grace of personality. Every detail is impressed with differentiation.

When American retailing attains its ideal stage of development SOROSIS SHOES will be displayed and sold in studios or salons. Women will then examine them with the critical aesthetic spirit with which they examine paintings.

The progress of SOROSIS SHOES has been triumphal. Their pre-eminent qualities have won the preference of women in nearly every large city of the civilized world.

The manufacturers' power to create style, technical mastery, and nice decorative sense are responsible for the universal SOROSIS vogue.

The store's circle of obligations is as wide as its circle of relations. This ideal of service need not be bawled with bold type and scare headlines. Our people deal kindly and honestly with all who come beneath the roof. They feel bound to do right by everyone. In this way, fresh social and business tissue, in the form of friends and patrons, is constantly being built up.

MONEY IN MEAT.

The world is threatened with a meat shortage, the packers tell us. It is not merely a prospect, but almost a condition. The European war is proving a big factor, but the cutting up of the big American ranches has long been contributing to the decrease in supply.
 The world demands meat; it is going to have meat even if it has to wear old clothes. A pound of meat is worth a good deal more than a pound of cotton, and the demand for it comes first. In the right shape it is just as much the equivalent of cash; there is just as quick a market for it. But stock-raising and cotton growing do not conflict.
 Brooks county farmers have found this out. They are making the most of the discovery. Brooks county hams have a reputation far beyond Georgia's borders; Brooks county meats are sold over the country. Brooks county farmers have cash in bank and ride in automobiles. There's a volume in a paragraph; it would scarcely be possible to stress the lesson more forcibly in an entire book.
 Some few other counties have recently undertaken to emulate the example of Brooks, but they are far between. What is the matter with Georgia farmers that they are sleeping upon an opportunity like this? There are cattle ranges in Georgia that would supply the world. And yet there is a meat shortage! The world wants meat when we offer them cotton; it must appease hunger before it goes after clothes, and it is willing to pay the price.
 Sheep, goats, steers turned on the ranges in the north Georgia mountains take care of themselves for practically the whole year; in middle and south Georgia they find their own food the year round. Think of an investment of two or three dollars in a calf—no food to buy and practically no other expense—bringing a return of $25 to $30 in a couple of years' time. Figure out the percentage of profit!
 The west, with its broad and almost unending ranges, used to have it on us in the matter of competition. But with the rapid division of that country into small farms, it is no longer. There are thousands of tons of Georgia grass, growing wild, now going to waste, which might be transformed into meat at almost no expense at all. And waste is one of the problems we've got to solve before we ever become a really great and prosperous country. European nations have solved it; they make several blades of grass grow where we get one, and they never waste a blade.
 There's the money in meat, big money, for the Georgia farmer. The price of an ordinary acre of ground will almost buy a dozen calves. In two years they may be converted into some $200 with practically no outlay. It will buy many more pigs or young sheep. Turn them into the grass and the woods, and they grow into money quickly.
 Make and give the world what it wants: that's where the money is. Get busy with pigs; put cattle and sheep on the ranges from Lookout mountain to the St. Mary's river, and in a few years we will be as independent of the price of cotton with all its market perils as the Esquimaux is of the price of ice.

"TO THE DAY!"
 It is the belief of many thoughtful people—from statesmen and diplomat to the laymen that shape the thought of communities, that the world is now witnessing the tragedy of its last great war. The awful lesson of it, written in letters of fire on the walls of the world, in the lurid pages of history: its frightful ruin and desolation, will also burn its way into the great heart of Humanity and soon will come out of its mighty evil.
 Foreshadowing the wished-for era of world-peace, representative newspapers are reprinting and commenting on Victor Hugo's great vision of "The Glorious Day That Is Coming"—the day of the real uplift of Humanity to higher, nobler things.
 It was the prophetic vision of no idle dreamer, but of one who heard the world's heart beat and saw the future:
 "A day will come when the only battlefield will be the market open to commerce and the mind opening to new ideas. A day will come when bullets and bombshells will be replaced by votes, by the universal suffrage of nations, by the venerable arbitration of a great sovereign senate, which will be the Europe that the Parliament sends to England, what the diet is to Germany, what the legislative assembly is to France. A day will come when a carmen will be exhibited in public museums, just as an instrument of torture is now, and people will be astonished how such a thing could have been. A day will come when these two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe, shall be standing in presence of each other, extending the hand of fellowship across the ocean."
 That is "The Day" to be pledged of the nations; when the arts of peace—the life-sustaining industries of the world, will flourish, no more to be laid waste by war; fields untrampled by the armies of hate and destruction; homes where Love will smile in the security of Peace—the brotherhood of man.
 That is "The Day!" It is the surely-coming event whose shadow is cast before, and it will not fail the people. Palaces of Peace are voiceless now, but the Thought of Peace is with the world, uplifting, ennobling; rising through the shadows of war to the light of the answering skies.
 "To this Day!" then—"To the Day!"

WHEN HARD TIMES HIDE.
 Hard Times have a wonderful way of hiding out on great occasions; they seem to know when to be in evidence and when to observe Br'er Rabbit's caution and "lie low." On this line The Washington Post says:
 "The immense crowds that witnessed the world's championship series of baseball prove that times are not as hard in this country as has been imagined. The people have money, and they spend it where they want. Among their necessities of life, apparently, is amusement. The theaters are well patronized, grand opera is to be conducted as usual, the football armies are mobilizing, and throughout the whole country another summer holiday is to be conducted. Pleasure are enjoying the glorious autumn weather."
 Here, in Atlanta, the receipts for the three Worldfield performances totalled something like $7,500—said to be a record-breaker, while at the Ringling circus money was refused because there was not even standing room. And just let any good cause make a popular appeal and the dollars come out of hiding in a jiffy.
 Our Washington contemporary says that the outlay for sports alone in the United States is constantly increasing, and that the total runs up into the tens of millions. The people are eager for and need amusement, and before the demand "Hard Times" weakens and hide out.

Since the czar's edict as to vodka, German opinion is that Russia is now dry enough to burn.
 Since the title of "Generalissimo of the Air Fleet" depends upon Count Zeppelin's conquest of England, it is still pretty much in the air.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

Wind of Wintry Weather.
 Wind of wintry weather,
 Where and where away,
 Have you dreams of summer—
 Memories of May?
 Know you of the palace
 Where the high snow-
 angels stay?
 II.
 Wind of wintry weather,
 Where and where away,
 Singing of your sorrow
 To a sky of gray?
 Know you of the gardens
 Where Love makes holiday?
 III.
 Wind of wintry weather,
 Leave the world at rest;
 The bird's song is silent,
 The snow is round his nest,
 And Love will seek the lies
 To hide his wounded breast.
 A Log-Cabin Philosopher,
 God made the country and man put a wire fence around it to keep his brother off.
 Some folks would have you think that they are on familiar terms with the angels, but the angels never come near enough to give 'em a chance to levy on their wings.
 There are men that rise so high in the world they can't see the place where they were raised and born at, and they go through life thinking that they'll yet have to stoop to get under a rainbow.
 Trouble isn't always on the rampage; he, too, has to rest up sometimes in order to get a fresh start, and it isn't often that he troubles people who don't begin with him

CORN WAREHOUSES.

The new agricultural regime in the south is going to demand provision for warehousing corn. We are going to have a new regime now which will mean the planting of more corn, more grain of all kinds, more foodstuffs.
 Cotton has commanded ready money because of the system carefully built up for taking care of and marketing it. Corn, too, would bring equally ready cash, if there were a similar system of handling it. Corn is our second product in importance; from a standpoint of production, it will be more important than ever in 1915. Getting away from all cotton through force of necessity, it would not be surprising if Georgia's corn crop more than doubled next year. The price is high and the profit is good. One of the Georgia corn club boys has already announced a net profit of $95 on a single acre this year.
 All this, and particularly the stimulated demand for food products as a result of the European war, which is also responsible for the decreased demand for cotton, makes it more important than ever that some better system than we have heretofore had be devised for handling what is going to be Georgia's and the south's biggest corn crop.
 Dr. George W. King, of Thomaston, suggests in a communication published today that the building of corn warehouses is essential and would be comparatively an easy matter. They might, in many instances, be constructed in direct connection with cotton warehouses. Any unoccupied buildings might be used until permanent provision could be made.
 The important thing is to get the system started in the agricultural communities of the south, and the demonstrated value of it, along with increasing necessity, will insure its growth. Corn is as staple a product as cotton; warehoused, insured and protected, its receipts will be just as valuable, just as quickly available for loans. Or, with this system in operation, the farmer would find as ready a market for an outright sale as he has always had for cotton.
 The same plan would be easily applicable to any staple product grown in large quantity, but after cotton our next important need is to provide for corn, to make it promptly acceptable for land rents, to make it the equivalent of ready cash.
 The solution of the problem is corn warehouses. They will not only take care of the situation, but they will encourage the growing of more corn. It can be made at less expense and with less trouble than cotton, and at present prices there is considerably more money in it.

Clear Away Panama Jungle.

Army engineers have found that the greatest difficulty in the way of planning the fortifications in the canal zone to resist attack from landing parties is the almost impenetrable tropical jungle. This will afford cover for an enemy attacking the forts and trenches and prevent having a clear field of fire. So they are about to expend about $50,000 in the attempt to clear away this jungle at necessary points, probably burning the tracts over and over again, and placing cattle there, as was done in the Philippines.

Two Dollars a Pound.
 At the time Mr. Farquhar took up the construction of this railroad, the rubber from the plantations in its vicinity was sold at a price of two dollars a pound in a single year of five hundred tons, every pound of which was marketed at about these figures.
 The interest of English capital was stimulated by the reports of the great profits which the general public were making brought to investors. A craze which resembled in some of its features the traditional tulip craze, or the excitement occasioned by the discovery of precious metals in South America, dominated many persons in Great Britain. Speculation in rubber shares was violent. The excitement led to experiments, with a view to determining whether or not it would be possible to utilize the soil in the vicinity of the Malay straits, which had been tested and found by the experts especially adapted to the cultivation of rubber. Immediately investment in large amounts in rubber plantations in the vicinity of the Malay straits began to pour in. Within a year or two the proof was good that these plantations would flourish rapidly and could be cultivated at small cost, while transportation charges would also be so much less than in the case of rubber from the South American plantations to the market as to furnish a handsome margin of profit in comparison with the market price of South American rubber.
 All that was expected of the Malay straits plantation was made that instead of there being hereafter a small supply of rubber each year in proportion to the world's demand for it, the supply would be ample and could be increased at any time, so as to meet the world's demands, however great they might be.
 About the time the Madeira railroad was completed, the Malay straits plantations were producing rubber at great amounts and with the additional advantage of speedy transportation from the plantation to the markets.
 The market price of rubber fell. The speculative excitement in Great Britain was over. A few persons made a great deal of money. Many persons made little or none. Some met with losses. The market price was rapidly reduced until shortly before the outbreak of the continental war in Europe it was at a low rate of one pound. Moreover, the manufacturers of equipments for motor cars and the telephone companies, which are large users of rubber, were gratified when they learned that the supply of cultivated rubber was fully equal to the demand, thereby making certain a reasonable cost for crude rubber.
The South American Plantations.
 This competition created by the development of rubber plantations adjoining the Malay straits has in the United States courts sitting in this city. The courts are considering various plans for the relief of creditors.
 The Madeira railroad, instead of transporting a large quantity of rubber from the plantations of South America to steamships upon the Amazon river or its tributaries, has in the first year of its existence transported very little. The earnings of the road have been used to meet its financial obligations. Default on some of its obligations has taken place. This incident is also to be discovered the possibility of great impairment of the rubber industry in South America.
 Mr. Farquhar had not been hard hit by the European war, it is presumed that he would have found a means of relieving the Madeira railroad of its embarrassments, but the protection of the courts would not be necessary. He is a man of many resources. Some of his purposes have been regarded as visionary, particularly one which had relation to the financing of one of the railway systems in the United States, South America, and especially Bolivia, and to some extent the Argentine Republic, have had confidence in Mr. Farquhar, for he has accomplished many things for these republics. It may be that the development of Bolivia has been accordingly planned, and especially when transportation has been provided, which will make it possible to work the vast alluvial gold fields of upper Bolivia—for almost all the streams of upper Bolivia carry gold washed down from the mountains.
 The incident in Bolivia has been a tragedy, will at last gain a prosperity which will justify the attempts, some of them heroic, which at one time or another in the past thirty years have been made to build the line. The same relation to the rapidity of the Marañon river which the railroads which have been constructed around Niagara Falls and its rapids bear to that interruption in navigation between the sea and the Great Lakes.

The Holland Letter

Although the European disturbances, and particularly the Balkan war, caused embarrassment and possibly temporary disaster to the purposes of Percival Farquhar, with respect to the South American developments, nevertheless it was commercial and not military warfare, which has so seriously affected one of his undertakings in South America that proceedings before the United States courts sitting in this city for the protection of creditors have begun.
 The story behind the embarrassments of the little railroad, which was only completed a year ago in the heart of tropical South America, is rather a queer one. It is a disaster and distress which are associated with the building of this line. Thirty years ago American engineers undertook to construct this little railroad around the rapids of the Madeira river, expecting that in that way important commercial advantages both to Bolivia and to Brazil would be secured. The tropical climate had not then been mastered by science, so that the work was abandoned chiefly because it was impracticable to get white men to live in that climate.
 After medical science had taught, on the isthmus of Panama and in Cuba, how tropical diseases can be mastered, new capital was raised, under the leadership of Percival Farquhar, whose romantic undertakings in South America commanded wide attention a few years ago, this railroad was completed. The construction of it was not more than a small incident in the general plans of Mr. Farquhar, especially those that contemplated railway development, and after that the development of natural resources in Bolivia. The little railroad, however—only about 120 miles in length—was intended to be the basis of a heavy revenue and would prove a profitable investment, if the expectations of Mr. Farquhar and his associates were realized. It made possible convenient transportation to the tributaries of the Amazon, and the rubber plantations which stretched southerly from its line.
 Mr. Farquhar took up the construction of this railroad, the rubber from the plantations in its vicinity was sold at a price of two dollars a pound in a single year of five hundred tons, every pound of which was marketed at about these figures.
 The interest of English capital was stimulated by the reports of the great profits which the general public were making brought to investors. ## Deleuan's Comet Visible.

Editor The Constitution: Far down in the northern sky between the outermost stars of the Giant Dipper, is Deleuan's comet. It is visible in the early morning, if the sky be clear. It is moving northwest toward the star Vega at the rate of about 400 miles more than fifteen hundred times faster than an express railway train and flaunting its magnificent banner across the morning sky. In size the comet is more than 400 times that of our earth.
 This magnificent comet was first seen last December by Prof. Deleuan, of the National Observatory of the Argentine Republic, in South America. It was then in the eastern sky. The comet is named after him, and has made him known the world over.
 It is a familiar knowledge that comets move in eccentric orbits, and that they are gaseous in composition. They are influenced in their movements by the attraction of more substantial bodies, and sometimes are doubtless absorbed by suns or systems of suns.
 A suggestion that the teachers of the city schools may profitably call the attention of their pupils to the presence of this celestial visitor and meet them at some place away from the smoke of the city and explain the matter to them. It would awaken in their young minds thoughts that would inspire the imagination of the workers of the world for an age of superstition, but not for an age when astronomy is taught. We now know that the appearance of this comet is as natural as the rising and setting of the sun or the phases of the moon.

Cotton Certificates.

Editor Constitution It seems to the writer that certificates issued on cotton receipts as security could circulate as money in the present cotton crisis. Cotton is not a perishable product, but is a commodity. Cotton is in every way as good as gold as security. Why should we let business stand still, as at present, for the want of a circulating medium of exchange?
 By this means we could hold our cotton and sell it above 10 cents a pound, and we surely know can be done by holding it. There is no valid reason why cotton should fall 100 per cent in value within a few months any more than gold should. The only reason why it does it is because it is "distress" cotton, whose owners are in debt and are obliged to raise money at once. It seems that our bankers and financiers should be resourceful enough to devise a temporary medium of exchange with cotton as security and not sacrifice our cotton crop and bankrupt many of our people.

I am thankful that it seems unnecessary to attempt further explanation, but so many people have questioned the advisability of the requested raise in salary at this time of financial trouble that I feel that I must go into the situation in detail, and try to make quite clear the position of the library board is not now asking for an additional penny from the city, and not even for a transfer of funds from one appropriation to another, but simply for permission to use my resignation. ### GOOD ROADS DELEGATES COMING BY THOUSANDS #### Meeting Here Will Be Largest Held Since the Shriners', Says Ivan Allen.

That the number of delegates to attend the good roads congress, which meets in Atlanta in November, will reach 5,000, was the declaration of Ivan E. Allen Friday afternoon at an enthusiastic meeting of the entertainment committee of the congress.

Mr. Allen said the convention had been well advertised, and that it would be the largest held in Atlanta since the Shrine, having among its delegates six or seven governors and a number of United States senators and members of the cabinet. Many visitors, he said, would come on account of the road machinery exposition, which will be the largest of its kind ever held.

OCCASIONAL SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR TODAY

The weather forecast for Atlanta Saturday follows: "Owing to the rapid formation of a disturbance over Texas, which in conjunction with an area of high atmospheric pressure in the New England region, will be accompanied by gusty easterly winds, the outlook for the next two or three days is cloudy, with occasional showers over most of Saturday and Sunday. Temperatures will not change materially in the early morning, remaining about 53 degrees, but will be lower in the afternoon, not exceeding 63 degrees. The temperature was below freezing Friday morning at only one point in the United States, Havre, Mont., and therefore there are no indications of frost in this vicinity over Sunday."

MRS. ATKINSON DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Mrs. Teresa Wade Atkinson, wife of Charles D. Atkinson, business manager of The Atlanta Journal, died at her home, 705 Ponce de Leon avenue, Friday morning, following an illness of several days.

T. C. SHAW APPOINTED SECRETARY FOR FIFTH

From among fifty applicants, T. C. Shaw, of Atlanta, was appointed secretary for the fifth (Atlanta) civil service district show-up successful, despite the candidacy of Frank A. Doughman, who has served seven years in the navy as ensign and who, it is said, had strong political backing.

CARNIVAL ENTICED PRETTY GIRLS AWAY FOR BEAUTY CHORUS

Rome, Ga., October 23.—(Special.)—The women of the First Methodist church will petition Rome city council to legislate against street carnival companies that may desire to show here in the future. Hated resolutions of censure were passed by the ladies' society of the church, condemning the carnival which recently showed here, because it is alleged that two young Chittanoga girls were enticed from their homes and employed as chorus girls in the beauty show. The ladies will go before the city council and ask that they do not permit any entertainments of this character to be given here.

Crew Remembered By Host of Friends On 70th Birthday

B. E. Crew, president of the Phillips & Crew company, reached his seventieth birthday Friday, and in honor of it his friends literally filled his offices with flowers. He received congratulations from every side.

Mr. Crew enjoys the distinction of being probably the oldest business man in Atlanta to remain at the head of the same firm. At the close of the year in 1856 in which he served, Mr. Crew came to Atlanta, possessing only a ten-dollar bill. He soon after established the Phillips & Crew company and has been president of it ever since.

Grice to Help Dorsey Fight the Frank Case Before Supreme Court

CARNEGIE LIBRARIAN CONFERS WITH MAYOR

Several Applications for Miss Wooten's Place Considered by Committee.

Declaring that she had made repeated attempts to get her salary increased and had met with repeated refusals on the part of the finance committee, Miss Katharine H. Wooten, librarian at Carnegie library, stated Friday that she could see no other course than to present her resignation. Miss Wooten's resignation is to take effect on November 14. It is understood that the subcommittee of the library board, of which Willis M. Everett is chairman, has already discussed one or two prospective appointees. President Everett would not tell Friday who the prospects are.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 77, Natick, Mass., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled.

WILSON EXPRESSES HIS INTEREST IN BERRY SCHOOLS

Rome, Ga., October 23.—(Special.)—Miss Martha Berry, founder and director of the Berry schools, has received a letter from Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, expressing interest in the school and quoting from a letter from his father-in-law, President Woodrow Wilson.

FIGHT OVER ELECTION. Archie Lee and S. A. Davidson Pass Blows.

After bombarding each other with choice epithets, Archie Lee, formerly secretary of the Citizens' league, and S. A. Davidson, who was opposed by the league in the recent primary for alderman in the Ninth ward, engaged in a fast encounter on Peachtree near one block south of Whitehall, Sunday at 11 a. m., on "How to Make a Great Church Without Money, or Even if its Members Have Plenty of Money." At 3 p. m. he will address the young people on "The Power of a Genuine Smile."

Negro Fatally Wounded.

Eugene Hays, a colored boy living at 13 Berkley street, was shot four times in the abdomen by another negro, supposed to be Son Stucky. He was carried to the Grady hospital, where physicians believe he will die. A misunderstanding had arisen between the boys over a sum of money. When May Lee Dolan, also of 13 Berkley street, reached the scene, jealousy turned their quarrel into a shooting affray. Before 8 p. m. the wounded boy was removed to the corner of Smith and Berkley, Son had made good his escape.

STATE SANITARIUM WILL HOLD COTTON

Trustees Decide to Wait for 10 Cents Per Pound and Plant No Cotton.

Milledgeville, Ga., October 23.—(Special.)—The Georgia state sanitarium has joined the cotton-holding movement, the board of trustees of the institution having decided to hold the sixty bales of cotton raised on the farm this year until the price reaches 10 cents a pound. That is not all the trustees have decided to do, however, for in addition they have agreed not to plant any cotton at all next year. The sanitarium consumes about sixty bales of cotton a year in making mattresses, etc., but the trustees have decided that they would rather buy the cotton in the open market than to raise it at present prices. It costs 5 cents a pound to raise cotton on the sanitarium farm, where all the work is done by the negro inmates of the sanitarium. This includes the picking, which does not cost the institution a penny.

GEORGIA POSTMASTERS CONFIRMED BY SENATE

Washington, October 23.—(Special.)—The following Georgia postmasters have been confirmed by the senate: Dolie Allan, Ellaville; Benjamin R. Leggett, Boston; James C. Newsum, Washington; John Quinn West, Thomson. Representative Adameson has selected R. M. McCheser as the postmaster at Dalton. The position pays $1,500.

ROME COTTON MILLS RUNNING FULL BLAST

Increase to Full Running Time Justified by Orders for the Products, Say Mill Men.

Rome, Ga., October 23.—(Special.)—The Anchor Duck mills, one of the biggest cotton manufacturing concerns in Rome, which for the past few months has been running on reduced time, is operating the full sixty hours in the week allowed by law, and has about 90 per cent of its machines running. The management states that the increase to full running time is justified by recent orders for its products. The Floyd Cotton mills, another local concern, is also on full time. The Massachusetts mills in Georgia, the largest of its kind in this section, located at Lindale, has this week increased its operating time from forty to fifty hours.

VIRGINIA IS NOT OVERCONFIDENT

With Players in None Too Good Condition, Georgia Is Considered Formidable Foe.

Charlotteville Va. October 23—(Special)—On the eve of the battle with Georgia Virginia and her supporters are none too confident of the outcome.

Virginia rules as the favorite and the students are enthusiastic over the prospects of an easy victory but the coaches are not sharing the undergraduate optimistic spirits.

This is due to their uncertainty as to who will be able to play in the game, and the condition of those that really will play.

Word of the team's best ground gainer will not be able to play at all while Evans at center and White at end, will only be able to play a portion of the game if at all Coleman at guard will play though badly bruised. He may have to retire at any stage of the contest.

Georgia Arrives

Coach Cunningham and the Georgia team unloaded here today and this afternoon were on Lambert held where the game will be played lumbering up from their long journey.

Georgia (top apparently) has her list of crickers even among those she brought along to join the Georgia coach's principal ex seems to be inexperienced.

The Georgians appear to have weight and speed and those who saw them run signify today can only account for their poor showing against North Carolina to lack of experience.

Captain Paddock drove out in a merry clip all afternoon and seemed contented with their work at the conclusion of practice.

Big Crowd Certain

The game has been well advertised. Lively letters that his left the local postoffice has had the game advertised stamp on it.

Football fans have been muled to all parts of Virginia and as the Georgia game has been so well advertised it is expected that a big crowd will be coming to the game.

Sports fans will be run from nearby towns and the four students from Randolph Macon and Sweet Briar are coming to the game in a body.

The officials will be Barry of Georgetown referee Brooks of George Washington umpire and Fetzer of Duke.

The probable line up of the two teams to start the game will be:

Georgia	Virginia
Ward	Ward
Ward	Ward
Ward	Ward
Ward	Ward
Ward	Ward

Several Important Football Games Today

Four Virginia Military Institute Stars

Yellow Jackets Face V. M. I. On Grant Field at 3 O'Clock

Arrangements have been perfect with the Tech football management whereby all Virginians who purpose attending the game today between Virginia Military Institute and Tech will find a section reserved for them in the grand stand.

The Virginia Military Institute Alumni association of Atlanta has issued a call to all alumni to be present at the game the call reading in part that they lay aside all business and care and attend the game and cheer for the boys from the Old Dominion.

Coach Heisman's Tech Yellow Jacket team will play at 3 o'clock on Grant Field with the Virginia Military Institute football eleven in the first meeting between these two teams in any branch of sports.

It is the first appearance locally of the Virginia Military Institute eleven and the game will be of considerable interest from this angle alone. Not counting the comparison that will be furnished in the strength of eleven from the two schools which will be the result of the game.

So little dope is available on the game that the end of the matter until the result is out of the question. Brooks who refereed the Georgia vs. North Carolina game is authority on the Georgia Virginia game is authority for the statement that the V. M. I. team is a hard one to beat.

V. M. I. Hard Fighters

I've played against their teams in the past, said Mr. Brooks the other day. They may not have as good a team in this game as they did in the one I may be better I don't know. One thing I do know and that is that they will keep fighting and by the spirit of their fighting pound their way to a victory when their cause seemed apparently hopeless.

I have not seen them in action this year but Tech can figure on a hard team and Atlanta football fans can look to a contest that appears in advance to be a close one.

Gilmore Heads Feds For Five More Years; No Chance of Peace

New York, October 23—James A. Gilmore was elected president of the Federal League for a term of five years at a meeting held here today. He was elected by a vote of 1,000,000 to 500,000 over John A. George as treasurer for a like period. R. E. Ward was elected vice president and L. D. Barker secretary, each for a term of one year.

President Gilmore denied that negotiations were being conducted by the Chicago Cubs by Charles Weegman or of the New York Yankees by the Ward brothers. It was also stated that no proposition for a peace agreement had been advanced by organized baseball.

MISSISSIPPI A. & M. FACES AUBURN TODAY

Birmingham, Ala. October 23—(Special)—Mike Donahue's Auburn football champions will have their first real fight of the season on their hands here Saturday.

Chadwick's Mississippi A. & M. eleven have been pointing to this game as one of their real big games of the season while it is only incidental in Auburn's schedule.

But Auburn will enter this game better prepared than in any game they have played. All of the crimples have rounded off.

The game will test the mettle of Donahue's men and on the score they make football fans will judge their strength. Auburn rules as the favorite.

Congratulations.

Emmett Key Perryman the Cracker, big right hander, drafted by the St. Louis Browns is 26 years old today. Perryman is known to his teammates was born at Marshallville, Ga. October 24, 1888.

NEW WAR PLANNED ON VICE CONDITIONS

Policemen From Outlying Districts May Be Put in Plain Clothes to Spy on Suspected Hotels.

An organized system conducted from police headquarters will probably succeed the present vice squad as a result of the investigation of vice conditions in Atlanta by the grand jury.

All indications point to a new war on vice which will be conducted by plain clothes men at any time the grand jury district was abolished by Chief Beavers.

Policemen from the suburban districts who are little seen in the downtown districts will be brought back to headquarters and garbed in civilian clothes will be scattered throughout the uptown section to spy on vice. The plan is to get the vice squad into a position to locate a thin radius of blocks in five points.

The method will probably be recommended as a result of the conference between the grand jury and a group of police officers which included Captain Maxey Terry, Poole and Sergeant George L. Billard, the latter of whom is in charge of the vice squad.

Don't Favor Stool Pigeons

Members of the grand jury have suggested as a method of coping with the situation the use of an army of stool pigeons in the character of hotel boarding houses and other similar places. This plan however was opposed by Mayor Woodward who declared that it was difficult to get a jury to believe the testimony of a stool pigeon.

Captain Poole Sergeant Bulla and a patrolman suggested in lieu of the stool pigeon plan the plan of increased patrolmen from the outlying beats for the plain clothes squad and putting them to the work now done by the stool pigeons. This was apparently accepted with favor by the grand jury and it is expected that the presentments will contain this suggestion.

Captain Poole and Captain Maxey Terry and Sergeant Bullard told the grand jury that they favored continuation of the war on recognized vice. They were also a unit in declaring that vice crime had decreased since the grand jury had been wiped out. Each denied that there was graft or corruption in the department.

Jett Praises Department

Chief Beavers' Jett assistant to Chief Beavers of the police department at night stated that he believed Atlanta's department to be one of the most modern in the country.

The jury adjourned Friday afternoon and will not resume the vice matter until Monday morning at 10 o'clock. No witnesses it was stated by Foreman White and the grand jury will be taken up by a discussion of the situation between members of the jury.

One of Friday's witnesses who appeared in court was Captain Maxey Terry of Chief Beavers was a R. King a member of the board of police commissioners.

There was things are going on, stated Chief Beavers does not need the cooperation of the board of police commissioners. He runs things as he sees fit. The board is practically a figure head. The board has never had the support of the board but has never to my knowledge asked it.

May Ask Explanation

It is expected that as a result of recent statements made by Chief Beavers he would be better able to explain the situation to the board upon an explanation at the next board meeting.

The jury will endeavor to get more money for the police department as expenses in investigating vice and other matters have increased. The police committee of council of the power to grant a license house licenses and to the master in control of the board of police commissioners.

Another hope of the jury is to get about any between officials of the hall and the police department. White told newspaper men that all officers who had appeared at the grand jury bore promise of cooperation.

George E. Johnson recorder elected a police commissioner, told the jury that he would not only need greater expense appropriation but that at least 100 additional men were needed to successfully carry out the fight against the social evil. He also recommended a separation of the police into detective and patrolmen making them distinct organizations and ending the chief of police with an authority to the chief of police.

Chief Lanford Testifies

Among those who testified Friday was Dr. A. E. Baskin. George Hinton and R. C. Colcord of the police commissioner Jesse Lee of the police committee of council and Chief Lanford of the headquarters of the department.

The grand jury's presentments which will be contained in a report to the board of police commissioners, will be a result of the investigation and also a result of the grand jury's work.

The grand jury returned until the close of the week—the last of the month.

Negro Girl Shot.

Rutledge, Ga. October 23—(Special)—Hattie Mae Walker a negro girl was accidentally shot with a shotgun by Egan Gibson, who had just returned from hunting this afternoon. Her left arm and side were badly injured and the extent of the injuries has not yet been determined.

ELIMINATION GAME AT KNOXVILLE TODAY

Loser of Alabama-Tennessee Game Out of Championship Honors.

At the eleventh hour Tennessee has protested Quarterback Joplin's eligibility for football professional baseball playing during the past season in the Georgia Alabama league under an assumed name.

The Alabama coach and supporters are very much interested and believe that until the latest moment to file its protest. If Joplin is unable to play Alabama will be sorely crippled as Coach Graves has no suitable quarterback to take his place.

Knoxville Tenn. October 23—(Special)—By the setting of Saturday's sun another contender for football glory in the Southeast will be eliminated after the game here.

The Universities of Alabama and Tennessee are the contestants in this all important battle with the latter being a slight favorite among the sporting element of the city.

Tennessee is a big favorite until Alabama's victory over Georgia last Saturday when the odds on the Thin Red Line took a big jump and the betting odds switched from 2 to 1 to 5 to 1.

Raines Out of Game

Tennessee enters the game without the services of Rainey but it is a coincidence that he was injured last year at the same stage of the season just before the Alabama game.

This too had considerable to do with the shortening of the odds though the 1912 star who taken his place is a most capable sub Cameron's educated toe is expected to make amends for his inferior football ability in other departments as compared to Rainey.

Tennessee has an old grievance to wipe out as last year Alabama was returned a 6-to-1 victor.

Some Last Year's Scores.

Some of the scores made last year by the teams that are contesting on the gridiron today are reproduced herewith as interesting facts of the game of today.

Alabama 34 Mississippi A. & M. 0
Virginia 14 Georgia 0
Washington 20 Wake Forest 0
Maryland 23 Johns Hopkins 0
Culloden 40 Rock Hill 7
Tennessee 20 North Carolina 0

NEW FRENCH RECRUITS READY TO JOIN ARMY

London, October 23—(4.3 a. m.)—New recruits are ready to join General Joffre's army in the Balkans. The British public is interested in the news that the French army is recruiting new recruits.

This year's recruits after two months training are now fit to bear arms. They are excellent material, young and enthusiastic and will be joined at the front by a section of the reserves not yet called to the colors representing probably nearly half a million entirely fresh troops.

2 Killed, 494 Lost on Hauke.

London, October 24—(4.05 a. m.)—Two men were killed and 494 are missing as a result of the loss of the German submarine Hauke. The submarine was captured by a British submarine. These figures are contained in a list issued today by the British Admiralty. The missing men must be regarded as lost.

unit of his big cotton warehouse, so many were the applications received for loans on cotton as security during the day. This second unit of the warehouse will be erected immediately, the first unit to be completed this week, and to house 5,000 bales of cotton.

The Central Bank and Trust corporation Friday received a letter from a prominent man, whose name and location were not disclosed, stating that he was shipping 1,000 bales of cotton to Atlanta, and that within a short time he would ship 5,000 bales more.

Other banks of the city have started a move very similar to the Candler movement to relieve the cotton situation. Robert F. Maddox, vice president of the American National bank announced that his bank Thursday loaned $12,000 cash to one of the banks customers in a town near Atlanta, accepting cotton warehouse receipts as collateral.

Mr. Maddox stated that he was practicing a method of lending cash in Atlanta was following precisely the same method as his bank. The Atlanta National bank announced that they had been following this method for some time and were lending money to farmers throughout the state through their country banks.

The New York offices of the Merchenthaler Linotype company Friday instructed one of its southern agents to accept cotton in any amount at 10 cents a pound in payment of linotype machines and linotype supplies.

Dictograph cases postponed for term. The cases of original libel against Chief Newport Leffler, the detective department, and Colonel T. B. Felder, the well known attorney, were postponed in the city criminal court Thursday to the November term of court.

SOCIAL SERVICE FOR STATE SANITARIUM

Directors Plan to Find Homes for Recovered Patients Capable of Applying Themselves.

Dilledgeville, Ga., October 23.—(Special)—The board of trustees of the Georgia State sanitarium has decided to organize a system of social service work by which many of the patients now in the sanitarium may secure homes and become useful members of society, and to this end the counties of Bibb, Wilkes, Richmond and Chatham have been selected for the experiment.

COUNTRIES HOLDING COTTON MEETS TODAY

Ordinaries Have Called Meetings in Accordance With Governor's Recent Suggestion.

Waycross, Ga., October 23.—(Special)—Acting upon the suggestion of Governor John M. Slaton, citizens of Waycross and Ware will hold a mass meeting at the courthouse tomorrow to plan for the crops of 1915. It is believed the meeting will be well attended and will result in the organization of a committee to increase production of crops that can be disposed of easily in home markets.

Congress forced to stick to job. It was apparent that no quorum of the senate was in Washington. Senator Kern then moved that the senate adjourn until tomorrow, whereupon Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, the president pro-tempore yielded the gavel to Senator Williams of Mississippi.

Henry blocks adjournment. While Senator Clarke was speaking in the senate, the effort to adjourn was blocked by the presence of Henry.

Miss Quaries who is a telephone operator and Bickers had an appointment to meet last night at the home of Peachtree and Auburn avenue and Mrs. Quaries sent the officers to this point.
