

President Wilson's Note Renews Demand That Kaiser Observe Principles of Humanity

DEFINITE ASSURANCES ARE ASKED BUT NO THREATS MADE

Bryan Pleads His Case Before American People And Asks for a Verdict

Attacking Wilson's Note as Exemplification of Bloody System of Force, He Characterizes Himself as Champion of Persuasion.

TO ISSUE APPEAL TODAY TO GERMAN-AMERICANS

Asks No Mercy if Public Opinion Is Against Him for Quitting His Job During Time of International Stress.

Washington, June 10.—William Jennings Bryan in an appeal addressed to the American people tonight, asks them to hear him before they pass sentence on his living down the portfolio of secretary of state in the midst of international stress.

Confident that the public will credit him with honorable intentions, Mr. Bryan frankly says that good intentions are not enough and that if the public verdict is against him he asks no mercy, asserting that men in public life must be "willing to bear any deserved punishment from ostracism to execution."

Interpreting the American note to Germany on submarine warfare, which he refused to sign, as conforming to the "old system" of diplomatic standstill, precedents for which "are written in characters of blood upon almost every page of human history," and characterizing himself as a champion of the new system—persuasion instead of force—and an "humble follower of the Prince of Peace," the former secretary of state pleads for the United States to lead the world "out of the black night of war into the light of that day when swords shall be beaten into plowshares."

Message to German-Americans. Tomorrow Mr. Bryan will issue another statement in an appeal, he says, to German-Americans. The nature of this appeal he would not discuss. But with the issuance of the third statement since his resignation the former secretary says he will be ready to rest his case.

"Of course I shall always be ready to talk when the occasion arises and I think it necessary Mr. Bryan declared. The statement tonight entitled by the former secretary as "the real issue" is as follows:

"To the American People. You now have before you the text of the note to Germany—the note which it would have been my official duty to sign had I remained secretary of state. I ask you to sit in judgment upon my decision to resign rather than to share responsibility for it. I am sure you will credit me with honorable motives, but that is not enough. Good intentions could not atone for a mistake at such a time, on such a subject and under such circumstances. If your verdict is against me, I ask no mercy. I desire none if I acted unwisely. A man in public life must act according to his conscience, but however conscientiously he acts, he must be prepared to accept without complaint any condemnation which his own errors may bring upon him. He must be willing to bear any deserved punishment from ostracism to execution. But hear me before you pass sentence.

Differ as to Means. "The president and I agree in purpose, we desire a peaceful solution of the dispute which has arisen between us."

WOODWARD PLANS TO HELP SCHOOLS

Mayor Proposes Renting Building for Consolidating Commercial Branches of Two Schools.

Mayor James G. Woodward after a careful study of school conditions in Atlanta and in line with his recommendation made some time ago that the high schools be consolidated into one big central academy, Thursday came forward with a plan that he believes will save the city thousands of dollars in equipment and maintenance and will in a measure solve the problem of housing the pupils.

He proposes that the board of education rent a building of sufficient size and in it consolidate the commercial branches now taught in the Boys high school and English Commercial Girls' high school.

"General council has set aside about $16,000 in the June finance sheet for building additions to the Boys' high and English Commercial high schools," said the mayor. "It seems to be unwise to make these temporary additions and be burdened with the expense of additional teachers and equipment, since committees from the board of education and general council are now working on a plan for consolidating all the high schools and conducting them on the co-educational plan."

Would Save Expense. A building could be rented for a few thousand dollars and we could save the expense of the additions for other school improvements or for a fund with which to build and equip later the big central academy. However this plan would not be practical if the renting plan was made permanent and the rental cost to be paid from year to year.

The advantages of this plan the mayor pointed out would be many. There would be fewer teachers required than the same typewriters and other equipment used by the boys could be used by the girls and that they could pursue their commercial courses together.

One of the most attractive features of the plan, the mayor says, is that the English Commercial building could be used for taking care of several grammar grades which would virtually mean the addition of a new grammar school building to the system.

The general council has joined the board of education in opposing any further patchwork on the school buildings and they take the position that high schools and grammar schools should be permanent. Mayor Woodward stated that the Girls high school, Boys' and English-Commercial high schools are already overcrowded with annexes and additions, and that further additions would not make them bring more on the market, but would injure their appearance still more.

Favors Co-Education. Asked if he favored co-education in public schools, the mayor replied. It was all right when I was a boy, in fact I not only see no objections to it, but I think it a good plan. It is all right in the grammar schools and throughout the country has been accepted in the higher institutions of learning.

GERMANS WITHDRAW TROOPS FROM EAST TO ATTACK FRENCH

Many Teuton Troops Arrive in Belgium and Start Battle Near Ypres, Say Dutch Reports.

RUSSIANS ARE AGAIN RETURNING TO ATTACK

Czar's Forces in Baltic Region and Galicia Are Reinforced—Germans on Dubysa Forced to Retreat.

London, June 10.—Russian reinforcements have arrived in the Baltic provinces and in Galicia, and it has become their turn to attack.

According to the German official report received tonight, part of the German force on the Dubysa river in the Baltic provinces, threatened by an encircling movement, were obliged to withdraw, although in the region of Shavil and on the Nieman they claim to be making progress, despite a stubborn Russian resistance.

More important in the belief of military observers here, however, is the apparent change that is taking place in the Gallician battle here again, according to the German account, the Russians are advancing to the south and southeast of Lemberg, and also are attacking General Linningner's force which crossed the Dniester near Zurawna.

In eastern Galicia and Bukowina, however, the Russians are falling back between the Pruth and Dniester rivers with the intention, it is believed here, of making the Dniester their line of defense from the Rumanian frontier to the southeast of Przemyśl.

RUSSIA HAS HOPE OF HOLDING LEMBERG. They have very strong positions along this line, and military experts say that if they can drive back the Germans who crossed the river near Zurawna Lemberg will remain in their hands, and they will be in a position to deliver a vigorous offensive at any rate as soon as the Austrians and Germans begin to withdraw troops for their western and southern campaigns.

It is possible that this withdrawal commenced some days ago, for Dutch correspondents report the arrival of large numbers of troop trains in Belgium, and the commencement of a battle south of Ypres. The official reports, however, mention no such battle.

Heavy fighting continues on the Italian front particularly along the Isonzo river where the Italians claim to have taken Montefalco, an important town near the coast.

German submarines continue their activity. Today they accounted for two British torpedo boats while the loss of ten fishing vessels and one steamer the Erna Boldt, is credited to the under-water boats. Forty-one members of the crews of the torpedo boats were rescued. As these vessels always carry crews of 25 men, it is believed that the loss of life in their sinking will approximate 30.

GERMAN RETREAT ANNOUNCED IN BERLIN. Berlin, June 10. (Via London).—The German official announcement today states the German forces which invaded the Baltic provinces of Russia have retreated. The German wing southeast of Shavil has withdrawn to the south towards the Belagolga-Zoginje line.

The statement follows: "Western theater. "In the region of South and north of Hurlus we took possession of several enemy trenches. "North of Les Mesnil a French position was taken by storm and main movement to the east of the Dubysa, a number of machine guns and four mine throwers fell into our hands. "In the western part of the forest of Le Preire a section of our outer trenches remained in the hands of the enemy. "Eastern theater. "Southeast of Shavil the Russians offered strong resistance yesterday. Our advance minor progress was made. The enemy was taken to the last two days in this district amounts to 2,300 prisoners and two machine guns. "The enemy brought forward reinforcements from a northwesterly direction in opposition to our encircling movement in the east of the Dubysa. On account of this menace our wing was withdrawn towards the line of the Belagolga-Zoginje line. "South of the Nieman we took 3,020 Russian prisoners while in pursuit of the enemy since June 6 we also captured two flags, twelve machine guns and many field kitchens and carts. "The situation east of Przemysl remains unchanged."

Birmingham-Rome Branch Of Dixie Highway Blazed

Map showing two proposed routes for the extension of the Dixie highway from Rome to Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., June 10.—One hundred dust-covered tourists arrived here this afternoon, after spending the day on the proposed Birmingham-Rome branch of the Dixie highway and heading public meetings at every town along the way. The highway boosters found the country at home with enthusiasm, county officials pledging co-operation, road work in progress and the first lateral feeder of the Dixie highway promised to become a reality, almost as soon as the main highway is built.

The tour started at Rome, the Rome party leaving at 7 a. m. headed by T. J. Simpson, Florida representative on the Dixie highway committee. County officials pledge support. Short meetings were held at Cave Springs, Ga., and Cedar Bluff, Ala.

STAHL IS ARRESTED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Government Claims Man Who Says He Saw Guns on Lusitania Did Not Even Visit Vessel.

New York, June 10.—A federal grand jury investigation to determine whether there was a conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with affidavits submitted by the German embassy to the state department to prove that there were guns aboard the steamship Lusitania was begun here today. It is specifically directed against East Koenig, also known as Stenler, who, according to the federal authorities, is head of a secret service department maintained by the Hamburg-American Steamship line.

The first result of the investigation was the arrest today for perjury of Gustave Stahl, a German reservist, who made one of the affidavits submitted to the embassy and who is alleged to be closely associated with Koenig. The warrant on which he was arrested alleges that he committed perjury. He was taken into custody immediately upon the conclusion of his testimony and sent to the Tombs for lack of $10,000 bail.

Stahl, in his affidavit, made before a notary public, swore he visited the Lusitania on April 30, the day before she sailed, and saw four guns on her deck concealed by leather covers. The repetition of this story, when he was called as a witness in the investigation of Koenig's activities, was the basis of the perjury charge.

SEES GRAVE CRISIS AHEAD FOR ALLIES

Sir Wm. Nicoll Says Only Ample Supply of Munitions Will Avert Disaster on Western Front.

London, June 10.—Where Germany once had a marked superiority, she now has a superiority in ammunition, an advantage she will press to its fullest. The only way for the allies to avert disaster is to equip themselves, and to do this Great Britain must stand behind the Lloyd-George ministry of munitions and as one man. Moreover, if he is not given a free hand he may resign.

Sir William Robertson Nicoll thus sums up the situation as he sees it, in the current issue of his publication, The British Weekly. Sir William is a close friend of the head of the newly-created ministry of munitions. He writes: "We say with certainty that the next three months of the war will be extremely critical ones for the allies. The superior strength of Germany in munitions of war has given her a second great opportunity, of which she will take full advantage."

Danger Not Comprehended. "Our nation passed through the first crisis of the war without half comprehending the danger. It will not be possible for her to pass through the second crisis without being aware of it. Only in the light of full knowledge will she be able to turn the difficult corner where the path skirts the precipice, in the assurance that all will be for us in the sum of things. "The reverses of the Russians seem likely to set a million of the very best German troops free to act on the offensive in the west. These forces will be turned against the French and against the congested area now occupied by British troops. They will be powerfully supported by munitions of every kind. "No moral barrier will prevent the most cruel and reckless employment of every weapon. It is likely that we shall have to meet almost daily raids in which burning bombs will be freely used. The Germans put much faith in gas, and they will apply it on a great scale. They are almost certain to attempt an invasion. In short, whatever may be imagined about the ferocity of their attack will, in all probability, come true. "All the things will happen, while we are yet lamentably short of munitions. It does not seem conceivable that we can take the offensive upon land. The peril thus involved is manifest. We may be sure that Germany hopes to reach Warsaw, Paris and Calais, and that the most determined effort will be made to attain these ends."

Message in Friendly Terms Insists That American Lives And Ships Be Safeguarded

Denies Lusitania Was Armed, But Declares Such Points Irrelevant to Question of Legality of Methods Used in Sinking Vessel—Offers to Consider, However, Any Convincing Evidence Germany May Offer on This Matter.

Washington, June 10.—The United States in its latest note to Germany, made public tonight, formally asks the imperial government for assurances that measures hereafter will be adopted to safeguard "American lives and American ships" on the high seas. The alternative in case of refusal is not stated.

It was this note to which William Jennings Bryan refused to attach his signature, resigning instead his portfolio of state, thereby precipitating a dramatic cabinet crisis. Robert Lansing, secretary of state ad interim, signed the communication, which went forth with the approval of President Wilson and his entire cabinet.

Friendly terms characterize the document, which renews representations made in the American note of May 15, after the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk. The German government, it is declared, "must have been misinformed" when it assumed that the Lusitania carried guns, as official information is at hand to corroborate the original contention of the Washington government—that the Lusitania was an unarmed passenger ship which, since it did not resist capture, could not be sunk without transferring passengers and crew to a place of safety.

On Principle of Humanity And Law America Stands

The communication informs Germany that it is "on the principle of humanity, as well as upon the law founded upon this principle, that the United States must stand." Opportunity is given to Germany to submit any evidence that American officials did not execute their tasks thoroughly in inspecting the Lusitania before she sailed, but the cardinal fact—that the liner was given no warning and made no resistance and was primarily a passenger ship—the American government declares, throws into the background any "special circumstances of detail," and lifts the case "out of the class of ordinary subjects of diplomatic discussion or of international controversy."

The issuance of another statement by former Secretary Bryan coincident with the publication of the note tonight added to the surprise in official quarters at the character of Mr. Bryan's argument. High officials said the note employed the very process—persuasion—which Mr. Bryan advocated, and did not necessarily lead to war.

TEXT OF WILSON'S NOTE TO GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

"The Secretary of State ad interim to the American Ambassador at Berlin. "Department of State, "Washington, June 8, 1915. "American Ambassador, Berlin: "You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister of foreign affairs: "In compliance with your excellency's request, I did not fail to transmit to my government immediately upon their receipt your note of May 28 in reply to my note of May 15, and your supplementary note of June 1, setting forth the conclusions so far as reached by the imperial German government concerning the attacks on the American steamers Cushing and Gulfight. I am now instructed by my government to communicate the following in reply: "The government of the United States notes with gratification the full recognition by the imperial German government, in discussing the cases of the Cushing and the Gulfight, of the principle of the freedom of all parts of the open sea to neutral ships and the frank willingness of the imperial German government to acknowledge and meet its liability where the fact of attack upon neutral ships which

HAS RIGHT TO SINK CONTRABAND SHIPS

Such Is Claim Made by Germany in Answer to America's Protest Over Frye Case.

Washington, June 10.—Germany, in a note on the case of the William F. Frye, an American ship sunk by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, has informed the United States that it interprets the Prussian-American treaty of 1815 to mean that American vessels carrying contraband can be destroyed.

Payment is promised for the destruction, but the right to destroy is asserted as a logical inference from the language of the treaty.

In reiterating that she is ready to pay damages for losses to American citizens occasioned by the sinking of the Frye, Germany insists that a prize court first must pass on the case.

The argument advanced by the United States that a prize court is unnecessary since compensation is provided whenever there is a treaty violation is rejected.

The liability for the sinking of the Frye is still admitted, but Germany contends the case was not "a violation" of the treaty.

It is considered certain the American government will not acquiesce in the new interpretation given the treaty by Germany.

Under the general principles of international law the right to destroy is granted only in extreme military necessity when the cargo is certain of condemnation and officials here contend that the German commander who examined the papers of the Frye did not have indubitable evidence concerning the character of the cargo.

The text of the German note, which was received today by cable from Ambassador Gerard, follows.

Text of Note. "Foreign Office, Berlin, June 7, 1915. 'The following reply to the note of his excellency, Mr. James W. Ford, ambassador of the United States, dated April 30, 1915, is forwarded to you for the information of the United States government. The Prussian-American treaty of 1815, which is the basis of the relations between the German empire and the United States, does not contain any provision which would deprive one of the contracting parties of the right to stop the supply of contraband to its enemy when it recognizes the existence of a state of war. On the contrary, Article 13 of the Prussian-American treaty of July 11, 1815, expressly reserves to the party at war the right to stop the carrying of contraband and to detain the vessels carrying it. It cannot be accomplished in any other way, the stopping of the supply in the extreme case being effected by the destruction of the contraband and of the ship carrying it. As a matter of course, the party at war is obliged to pay compensation to the parties interested in the neutral property which is destroyed, whatever the manner of stopping the supply.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR CITY SURVEY

Work Is Mapped Out at First Meeting of Committee of 125 Appointed by Chamber President.

The 125 citizens appointed by President Wilkinson, of the chamber of commerce, for the purpose of conducting a survey of Atlanta, held their first meeting yesterday afternoon.

It was made clear that the committee would look for results and would labor for a month or for more than a year if necessary.

Chairman Faxon pointed out that the idea of the survey committee arose from the investigation of the school situation by committees and by groups of persons interested in the welfare of the city.

BRYAN PLEADS HIS CASE BEFORE THE PEOPLE

The United States and Germany. We not only desire it, but with equal fervor we pray for it, but we differ irreconcilably as to the means of securing it.

Among the influences which governments employ in dealing with each other there are two which are particularly antagonistic—force and persuasion.

Force speaks with firmness and acts through the ultimatum; persuasion employs argument, courts investigation and depends upon negotiation.

Force represents the old system, the system that must pass away; persuasion represents the new system—the system that has been growing, all too slowly, it is true, but growing for 1,900 years.

WOMEN ON CIVIC BOARDS. The appointment by President McR. Wilkinson of twenty-five women in addition to the one hundred men, who are to make a survey of Atlanta's various civic institutions with a view to arousing a general interest in their welfare, is a just and progressive incident in his able administration.

With no purpose except to arrive at the truth, and then build up the institution of the schools, the organization of women interested went themselves in committees and made their own survey. They acquired information and statistics which proved most valuable to council and board committees who worked for and finally acquired the necessary appropriation for bettering the physical conditions of the schools.

The same organizations which contributed earnest women to this work can furnish as many more for every department of the city system. There are organizations of women working for parks and playgrounds for the "city beautiful," for better public health facilities, better housing conditions and better hospital facilities.

There is no department in the city's structure that has not a corresponding relation to the home. The average good housekeeper realizes this relation and is ready to contribute her knowledge and interest in every department of the city as generously as she has for the schools.

This appointment of women on the chamber of commerce committee to look into civic progress bears out the principle which The Constitution has frequently urged, that women should have representation on certain, if not all, municipal boards. There can be no logical argument against it. The city charter will have to be revised to make them eligible under a law made many years ago. The women have asked, through their organizations for this representation, and it is the obligation of the men in power to see that their request is granted.

THE AMERICAN DOLLAR. One of the interesting, yet very natural, results of the European war has been to give the American dollar a position of greater dignity and prominence in world finance. Until the war began the standard basis of South American commercial exchange was the English pound sterling—the libra esterlina—in which every Spanish-American merchant made his foreign payments. War interfered with this system of finance and the necessity for a substitute was one of the chief subjects of discussion at the recent Pan-American conference in Washington, with the result that the delegates were generally agreed to recommend to their governments the acceptance of dollar drafts on New York in payment of official duties. Such action on the part of Latin-American governments would at once make the New York dollar draft pass current in any ordinary commercial transaction.

But the dollar is winning its way abroad in advance of such official recognition. Even now American financial institutions are issuing dollar-letters of credit on South American countries, where they are being readily accepted, and the indications are their availability will extend to the other important nations of the world as soon as peace is declared.

There will be no war debt, no danger of repudiation, to weaken the standing and strength of the dollar; rather will it take on new life through the strengthening of our gold reserves built up by an ever-increasing trade balance.

One of the direct benefits from the popularizing of the American dollar will be the strengthening of our trade relations, not only in South America, but on other continents. It will bring us into an intimate business touch we have not known before, because we have not had the opportunity.

It was developed at the Pan-American conference that there are many things to be done before we can hope fully to establish with the Latin-American countries such complete trade relations as we desire. But that will not be left to chance. It has been proposed to make this conference an annual affair, but in the meantime committees will be provided to take care of such matters as demand aid interim attention.

Banking facilities are far from perfect, and improved ocean transportation is essential. These will come as the result of well-directed effort. In the meantime, the American dollar has started upon its mission, and with proper assistance given it we may anticipate the achievement of substantial and far-reaching commercial results.

ATLANTA'S JEWISH CHARITIES. Indicated by the annual report just issued, the Federation of Jewish Charities of Atlanta is doing a wonderfully effective work for the needy and unfortunate. The federation includes various allied organizations, among them the Jewish Educational alliance, the Montefiore Relief association, the Morris Hirsch Free clinic, and what is known as the Free Loan branch, and its relief activities take every needed form.

As in all modern and effective charity work, the plan of restoration to the point or condition of self-help stands uppermost. Through its varied activities the federation makes provision for the material relief of the needy during the period of their rehabilitation; lends money without interest charges or commission to needy, deserving and self-respecting persons; provides free medical and surgical service to remove physical disabilities that interfere with self-help and, through the alliance, cares for, maintains and educates dependent and delinquent children.

The general work of the federation is briefly set forth in the report in a manner that must not only appeal to its members, but prove of interest to all charity workers and persons who give attention to relief work of whatever kind. Tersely told, these are the federation's aims:

Adequate relief to those who need it. Elimination of the professional scoundrel, the deadbeat and the worthless.

Application of the money, which they do not get, to those who are entitled to receive it.

Prevention of the community against promiscuous and generally insufficient and pauperizing giving.

Conservation instead of reclamation. Forming of character instead of reformation.

Independence instead of dependence. Social responsibility and obligation instead of shirking responsibility and a dolie to relieve of conscience.

Justification of the causes that produce poverty and a sane effort to remove the cause rather than a sentimental giving which makes donor and recipient the poorer.

The federation collected and expended for these purposes last year approximately $15,000. During the year, in addition to the work done by the alliance for Jewish children, which included recreational affairs, entertainments, kindergarten and school maintenance, purchase of books and other assistance, the federation handled 955 applications for relief affecting 2,119 persons, provided medical or surgical service in 592 new cases, made 75 free loans and carried on relief work in other directions, wherever occasion called for it.

The federation's 525 subscribers will be proud of the excellent showing it has made. It is a work that is worthy both of study and emulation, because it accomplishes unquestioned and far-reaching results through application of the most practical and, in the long run, the most efficient methods.

"RICHEST, SAFEST COUNTRY." Bismarck, the statesman, in a vision of world-war, taking a map of the world and laying his hand on America, is quoted as having said: "In that day, this (America) will be the one safe country."

To that declaration has been added: "Richest, as well as safest."

The Philadelphia Ledger, quoting eminent English economists, says America's wealth grows five billion dollars a year, and presents the following figures:

Since the official estimate of our national wealth three years ago exceeds $187,000,000,000 the total today must now have passed beyond the two hundred billion point. These figures are colossal beyond compare. They mean $2,000 of wealth for every inhabitant. They represent more than double the wealth of the United Kingdom, our closest competitor, and they very nearly match the combined wealth of England, France and Germany.

JUST FROM GEORGIA By Frank L. Stanton On the Fishing Line. I. Not all the Ananias folk are where the war-guns shine; The tellers of the mighty tales are on the Fishin' Line.

The war claim agents—they are good an' will be the readin' fine; But they'll never match the stories of the steady Fishin' Line.

Oh, they'll never beat 'em yonder, with the million-killin' guns— Not alligators chased up trees by catfish, weighin' tons.

Not snaker that walk on tin-tall where fishin' fellers roam, An' take the reelin' fisherman an' see him safely home!

They're in a class—their fellers—no Ananias chaps Can beat with leapfrog-lightnin', world-shakin' thunder-claps!

An' every day the "moonshine" way you'll see 'em rise an' shine— There's 'woid-imagination on the Georgy Fishin' Line.

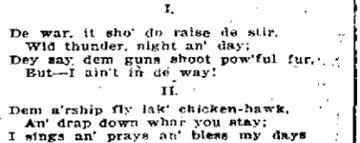

Sermon of the Road. I dunno how long de road is. All I knows is—I've got ter travel it.

I don't study 'bout de lion in de way. Ten ter one, dey'll have him in de circus 'fo' I gits dar.

I know I ain't gwine ter raise all de dust on de road, an' I don't want ter raise so much dat it 'll blind me.

I wants ter be ez humble ez I orter be, but I ain't gwine ter let de same wagon run over me twice 'thout axin' de driver how come an' why.

UNCLE JULES SAYS — WHEN JOY COMES TO SEE YOU HIDE HIS HAT, AND MAKE HIM SO MUCH AT HOME HE'LL NEVER WANT TO LEAVE.

Junetime's Sweetest Dream. Over the roses singin'— All the world is singin' To sweethearts in the moon. But one is here beside me, Sweetest dream of June.

Every moment bringin' Light of cloudless beam; Let himself be singin'— Red the roses gleam. For June has claimed his sweetheart, Junetime's sweetest dream!

A Difference of Opinion. Quoting from an exchange that "one way to end the war is to lock Emperor William, King George, Emperor Francis, President Polk, Czar Nicholas and King Emmanuel in a room together," The Macon News says: "Yes, and we bet you that when the maid came around to clean up the next morning she would hear one of the sextet protesting at the idea of quitting, and somebody with a German accent saying, 'Deal!'"

Out of the Way. De war, it sho' do raise de stir. Wild thunder, night an' day; Dey say dem guns shoot pow'ful fur. But—I ain't in de way!

Dem 'drab dip fly lak' chicken-hawk, An' 'drap down when you stay; I sings an' prays an' bless my days Kaze I ain't in de way!

The Office Boy's Heaven. Here is The Houston Post's office boy's idea of heaven as communicated to George Bailey: "Our office boy's idea of heaven is an eternal hall park fenced with cedar of Lebanon, two knotholes to every board, and thrown in for good measure a new grand-mother in articulo mortis every day."

So It Goes. When Mornin' comes an' takes yer hand To lead you to the promised land You're sighin' for the rest of night; There's too much in de way!

The Holland Letter

Gradually the interoceanic canal system which was with enthusiasm and great detail advocated by John C. Calhoun when he was secretary of war, in the cabinet of President Monroe, is approaching completion, although it is nearly one hundred years since Calhoun favored the plan. He demonstrated both by argument and by figures that it was practicable both from the point of view of science and commerce to construct a far-reaching interoceanic canal or canalized system by means of which trading vessels could without exposure to the dangers of the sea or of an enemy sail or navigate from Massachusetts bay to the Gulf of Mexico. A few days ago the Cape Cod canal, completed a short time ago, showed itself adequate for the navigation of shalld vessels. This canal was completed years before the first of American canals was constructed. That first one was built in 1804, and canalized the Concord river in Massachusetts, and by a true canal around the rapids of the Merrimack river made communication to the interior of New Hampshire possible. It was the beginning of the work which led De Witt C. Clinton to advocate the construction of a canal which would connect Lake Erie with tidewater on the Hudson and this little Massachusetts and New Hampshire canal, supplemented by Clinton's proposition, first attracted the attention of Calhoun, the feasibility of an interoceanic canal system. His demonstration was that a canal across Cape Cod, then by the waters of Long Island sound, then by a canal across New Jersey to the Delaware river, and by the Delaware river across Chesapeake bay, after that by a canal through the Dismal swamp of Virginia to the North Carolina sounds, then by a canal across Florida to the Gulf of Mexico, would furnish a perfect interoceanic route, as cheap as though inconceivable great importance in developing the prosperity of the United States. About ten years after Calhoun first advocated in an official paper this canal system, approving of it as a great public work, Peter Cooper was building the first American locomotive; and a little later the commercial practicability of the steam engine for hauling upon rails, passenger and freight carriages so called, put an end for many years to the agitation started by Calhoun for an interoceanic canal system along our entire Atlantic front.

Links Completed. Certain links in this contemplated system were from time to time completed. Commercially, the most successful of them was the Raritan canal, by means of which boats of considerable draft navigated from the Raritan river to eastern New Jersey and to the Delaware river.

Before the civil war, tentative plans for the construction of a canal which would bisect the Dismal swamp in eastern Virginia were made, but necessarily these were postponed and were not taken up until some years after the close of the civil war. In 1884, when Colonel Henry Watterson was visiting Norfolk, Va., he was invited by the mayor and other authorities of the city to make a trip through the new Dismal Swamp canal. Colonel Watterson was compelled to decline the invitation, but he had some years after the close of the civil war. In 1884, when Colonel Henry Watterson was visiting Norfolk, Va., he was invited by the mayor and other authorities of the city to make a trip through the new Dismal Swamp canal. Colonel Watterson was compelled to decline the invitation, but he had some years after the close of the civil war.

Within a few days, announcement has come of the completion of an interoceanic canal which will provide an adequate waterway from Corpus Christi to New Orleans. Ultimately Galveston will be reached by the canal, the construction of which was begun by Sabine river and Galveston. This new canal in Louisiana is really to be a part of the great system of interoceanic canal construction which when completed will provide inland navigation from Massachusetts bay to Galveston. Into these artificial waterways will empty streams which can be made navigable, and the modern construction of boats especially adapted for artificial waterway navigation will make practicable commercial utilization of these canals. The motor boat and the barge operated by electric energy are to be chiefly employed in commerce through these artificial waterways. It is the motor boat upon which those who are developing the canal systems of southern Florida will chiefly depend for the transportation of commodities.

The Louisiana Canal. The canal which has within a few days—according to information which has just reached this city—been completed in Louisiana will, it is believed, greatly facilitate the growth of New Orleans.

With that city near the mouth of the Mississippi and with the great metropolitan district of which Minneapolis is the center at the headwaters of the Mississippi widely affected by improvement of the navigation of the Mississippi, there should be, in view of the completion of the Panama canal, a very great development of interoceanic commerce transported by water.

In many instances in this city frequent reference is made to the energy and enthusiasm which characterize Louisiana and New Orleans, and especially the ability with which the state and the city are in great measure financing without outside help the really marvelous improvements that have been in progress for some years. A few days ago New Orleans sold bonds to the aggregate value of $1,250,000 to secure funds with which to pay for the building of one of the largest of grain elevators now standing anywhere in the United States. C. P. Huntington, in the last years of his life, used to tell his friends in this city that New Orleans was destined to become second among American cities as a port engaged in foreign commerce. And when it is known that the port commissioners of New Orleans now control a little over fifty miles of fifty miles of wharves and other facilities of trade, then some idea can be obtained of the rapidity with which New Orleans is forging ahead. The inland waterway connecting New Orleans with Corpus Christi whose substantial completion was reported in New York a day or two ago will stimulate further the growth of this city.

Another feature of the development of artificial waterway improvements is the work the United States is now doing in canalizing the upper reaches of the Cape Fear river in North Carolina. That is a very rich country and even in the days when flat-bottom stern-wheelers transported the various products of the pine forests from Fayetteville and various landings on the Cape Fear river to Wilmington and the sea, a heavy trade was furnished by these resources and the flat-bottom transportation of them. With the canalizing of the Cape Fear river above Fayetteville, a large and very rich region of North Carolina will be furnished convenient waterway transportation facilities.

RIPLING RHYMES By WALT MASON. THE HESSIAN FLY. Long years ago—'twas when our sires struck for their altars and their fires, and Washington, that genius rare, had double-crossed the Delaware, King George was short of fighting men, so he went hiring Hessians then. His orders when they went to set, to reach this country of the free, took straw aboard, and spread it deep, and on that straw they used to sleep. And in the straw the Hessians hid their eggs, dad bust their eyes. And thus into the fertile west was brought the worst and fiercest pest that ever came to look at you, No matter how you're fixed.

Fleeing the Poet. Judd Lewis is long on gems of song, but short on cast ovals. He writes: "If the person who found or swiped our opal wink pin will return it to this office, they'll be rewarded. If they do not return it we shall have to buy another, and this will hurt our creditors worse than it will us. Be a sport and bring it in; we've waited three weeks now."

CHARLEY CHAPLIN COMES TO TOWN

THE INIMITABLE, the ever-funny Chaplin has been cavorting on the screens for several years, during which it is claimed that he has produced more laughter than any other person in the history of the world. But the moving picture screen wasn't enough to portray all the funny capers of the greatest of comedians.

And so, Charley Chaplin has been drafted by the newspaper game. His great comedy stunts will appear in The Constitution Sunday, and the full-page in four colors, devoted to "Charley Chaplin's Comic Capers," will be a regular feature of The Constitution's funny section.

Chaplin will continue to appear in the movies. He has simply enlarged his field. The thousands of people who laugh at the comedian on the screen will find an added enjoyment in following his stunts in the Sunday colored comics; for his capers in the paper will be entirely different from his stunts in the movies.

Watch for "Charley Chaplin's Comic Capers" in The Constitution Sunday, and be sure to tell the children that the greatest comic in the history of newspaper comics is on its way.

Another Important Announcement

HUNDREDS of requests for copies of last Sunday's Constitution have come to the circulation department from those who, for one reason or another, failed to read the first installment of the remarkable HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE BY PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON. The edition was exhausted, but in order that none may be disappointed, The Constitution has decided to run both the FIRST AND SECOND INSTALLMENTS this coming Sunday.

Two full pages of "Our Country by Our President" will appear in The Constitution's magazine section. It affords you another chance to start at the beginning of the history and read it through. It is highly important that you read the first, chapters. President Wilson's American history is complete, accurate, interesting, and is written in his best style, forceful, yet clear and simple enough for the school children to understand and appreciate.

After next Sunday, when two pages will appear, the installments will consist of a full page, never less, sometimes more. It is a history worth reading, and more—it is a history which you should read to keep well informed, and that you will enjoy, as well as profit from.

Watch for the double PAGE on "Our Country by Our President" Sunday.

Many Other Features

The Constitution Sunday will be packed with features of interest. The cover will be a beautiful four-color page, entitled "The Futurist Lunch," handsomely illustrated and interesting from beginning to end.

In addition to Charley Caplin's Comic Capers, the funny section will contain the latest exploits in "Home Wanted by a Baby," by Clare Dwiggins, and the amusing antics of "Hank the Hermit and His Animal Friends," drawn by Walt McDougall.

The thirteenth installment of "The Black Box," the sensational novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim, will be published. Following "The Black Box," The Constitution will present a new novel by Emerson Hough, "The Broken Coin," which is said to be even more thrilling than his famous "Mississippi Bubble" and "54-40 or Fight."

In addition to the regular magazine features, including a page for housekeepers, a page on science and near-science, two pages of moving picture news and gossip and a page of club news, there will be a number of full-page stories timely in character, interesting, well illustrated.

Among them will be a page on "THE MAN WHO REALLY SENT ITALY TO WAR," a page of some of the unique exploits of the European armies, including even the REPLIC OF THE TROJAN HORSE, and a page on the three things most important to TEACH A BABY.

The Constitution is the paper for you!

Crackers Move On to New Orleans Today

Lord Protests Locals' Win; Williams Crossed Memphis; Thompson Hurls Splendidly

Memphis, Tenn., June 10.—(Special.) One week little push of the bat by Otto Williams brought about all sorts of emotion and set the scenery for a 5 to 1 victory for Atlanta over Memphis this afternoon in the eleventh inning.

When the weak little push thought out by Otto and beautifully executed by him, was not the kind of a push looked for by Press Cruthers, the Chick second baseman, and that's where all the commotion started.

When the game had quieted down the Chicks and Crackers resumed play, but finished the game under a protest caused by Manager Lord of Memphis.

Crackers Move On to Pelicanville TO PELICANVILLE

Last Stand on Road Trip. Boys Are Home Again on Tuesday for Nine-Game Stay.

Detail of Today's Game. The opening game of the series between the Crackers and the Pelicans this afternoon will be detailed by Dick Jemison at baseball parlors on the viaduct. The game starts at 3:45 o'clock.

Sadly battered, but still in the ring, the Crackers move to New Orleans today to lock horns with the league-leading Pelicans in the first of four games by innings.

Unless there is a general uplift in the main play of the locals starting today, there is little hope that the Crackers will do better than this. It will come as a pleasant surprise, however, if we expect no serious hope that we will.

Failure to sting the old apple when there were men on the pathways has been the cause and the chief cause of the losses on the present trip. True the pitchers have been nicked in spots.

Chattanooga, June 10.—Chattanooga won an exciting pitchers' battle between the Cracker and Pelican in the sensational play at the plate in the fourth inning. Caveny led the final inning.

The inspection and reports are by Edward W. Clark, secretary of the Brooks County Industrial club and Joseph G. Gardner, secretary of the Thomasville Commercial association. The whole trip was a magnificent one for the Dixie highway, though it points out some places where it is stated attention to the highway is needed at once.

BODY OF CAMPBELL MANGLED IN FALL

The body of J. E. Campbell, 22 years old, was found mangled by a fall of several hundred feet from the side of Stone Mountain by a band of searchers Thursday morning. It is not known whether Campbell jumped from the cliff or fell off while on the top of the mountain. The body of Campbell was called to hold an inquest. Campbell who had been ill from typhoid fever for several weeks, left the business section of the town about 21 o'clock Wednesday morning and was later seen walking at the foot of Stone Mountain. When he did not return that evening friends searched through most of the night. The body was found within a few feet of the residence of A. O. Venable where it had rolled after a clear fall of 300 feet. He was the son of W. P. Campbell, a market man at Stone Mountain.

A new osteopathic procedure for that disease will be discussed. Dr. Harris lecture is expected to be full of new osteopathic ideas as he has recently completed a graduate course at the A. T. Two Florida Counties Offer Dixie Highway Limerock Concrete Road

Quitman, Ga., June 10—(Special)—A meeting on the Dixie highway was held yesterday at Lloyd, Fla., on the line of the suggested western Dixie highway route being attended by two hundred or more people from Jefferson and Leon counties in Florida. At the meeting was also held a joint session of the county commissioners of these two counties and definite steps were taken to build a concrete road from Tallahassee to Monticello following the line of the Seaboard Air Line railway. In connection with owners of limerock quarries in that section the county commissioners agreed to build the highway and keep the road in each county a permanent road gang for ten years whose sole duty would be to keep up the section of the highway. The county commissioners of Madison county have already agreed to the same thing so that a concrete road is assured from Madison to Tallahassee. The road gang to be kept on the road will go over the entire road every third day. The limerock is to be furnished by the quarry people free and to be crushed by a concrete plant of expense to the county. The above is a striking example of the wisdom of the Dixie highway commissioners in the selection of the western route as the part of the route above mentioned was regarded as one of the worst stretches of the western route of the Dixie highway. The action taken was not influenced by any work from the Dixie highway commissioners but was voluntary on the part of the people of Leon and Jefferson counties.
