

SLATON EXPECTED TO INSPECT SCENE OF MURDER TODAY

The Governor, Lawyers for Frank and the Solicitor General Spend Sunday Working Hard on Case.

DORSEY WILL PRESENT NEW AFFIDAVITS TODAY

Hearing Will Be Resumed at 9 O'Clock This Morning—A Mass Meeting of Protest Held Sunday.

Because of the nearness of the date fixed for the execution, June 22, and of the expedition with which a decision must be reached, the fact that it was a day of rest did not deter activities in the Leo Frank case Sunday.

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey spent much time during the day with colleagues preparing the affidavits which he will submit to the governor when the Frank hearing is resumed at the capitol this morning at 9 o'clock.

Governor Slaton devoted most of the day to a review of the evidence in the case and of documentary data submitted to him by both the prosecution and defense. It is probable that he will go today with a delegation from the state to the factory where the pencil factory, where he will familiarize himself with the surroundings in which the Mary Phagan murder was committed.

At 3 o'clock an anti-commutation mass meeting was held on the capitol grounds, where a number of speakers urged that executive clemency on the grounds that it would be an interference with justice.

The first business to be taken up at this morning's hearing will probably be the Solicitor Dorsey's argument in protest of commutation. Although he will give no advance report upon his argument, he has prepared a brief in which, it is said, he will attempt to show that Frank would have been found guilty without the aid of Jim Conroy's testimony.

Will Introduce Affidavits. Many affidavits bearing on the case will be submitted by Dorsey, according to authoritative reports.

Governor Slaton, although he stated Sunday that he did not know exactly when the visit would be made, will, in all likelihood, accompany a delegation to the pencil factory this morning.

He expressed a decision to inspect the factory during the first day's hearing, and the intention before it was over to look over the building.

Perhaps a hundred or more women attended the anti-Frank mass meeting, which was held on the lawn of the capitol building.

Addressed opposing executive action against the trial verdict were delivered by H. D. Spencer, who addressed a meeting Saturday afternoon at the capitol.

The crowd was orderly, although there was loud cheering, which attracted the crowds passing along the streets.

Attorney William Howard, who will present the argument for Frank, will have the concluding speech in the hearing before the governor.

SUPPLEMENTARY BRIEF FOR THE RIGGS NATIONAL

Washington, June 13.—Counsel for the Riggs National bank filed with the District of Columbia supreme court a supplementary brief dealing with legal phases of the pending suit to enjoin treasury officials from interfering with the bank. The brief submits that there is no merit in the government's contention that because the $5,000 interest due the bank and withheld to cover penalties imposed by the comptroller of the currency is in the vaults of the treasury, the court is without power to command its payment. It argues, too, that the comptroller had no authority to require the bank to submit information demanded by him.

GERMAN EDITORS SHARPLY DIVIDE ON AMERICAN NOTE

Some of Them Disposed to Favor Negotiations for Compromise, While Others Insist on Following Present Course.

TORPEDOING TO CONTINUE SOME EDITORS DECLARE

They Insist That Germany Must Use Any Means to Prevent Ammunition Reaching Allies—Germans Don't Understand Why Bryan Resigned.

Berlin, June 13.—(Via London).—The Berlin morning papers generally comment more or less extensively on the American note along the lines followed by the Saturday evening papers.

While there is a general disposition to recognize the friendly tone of the note and the fact that it makes further negotiations possible, the press is divided, roughly, into two parties, one disposed to enter into negotiations looking to a compromise on a new basis, while the other, by implication or expressly, rejects any departure from the course heretofore followed.

Among the representatives of the latter idea is the Tagliche Rundschau, which declares that while the note seeks a way to a compromise, it seeks it along lines "which must result to the disadvantage of Germany."

The Rundschau continues: "The note, therefore, calculated upon no just support, who are members of the German-American relations, and not bring it about. The friendly tone we acknowledge, but the declaration that the sinking of the Lusitania was unparalleled in modern warfare stands opposed to the character of upright friendship."

"Torpedoing Will Go On." The Rundschau defends the sinking of the Lusitania and in conclusion, declares: "And the watchword is: 'The torpedoing will go on.'"

The Kreuz Zeitung emphasizes Germany's right to prevent the shipment of ammunition to an enemy by every means. It also is unable to see what the American note offers in return for abandonment of the submarine campaign, "since the plan, to starve Germany has finally failed."

Count von Reventlow in The Tages Zeitung says: "If President Wilson persists in his refusal to recognize the German declaration of war zone, we are not able to conceive of an agreement, or even a real understanding."

Count von Reventlow adds: "President Wilson brushes aside with a light gesture the chief part of the German note as unimportant. When President Wilson talks of morality and human rights, let him extend these noble motives first to American munitions. Germany cannot abandon the use of her best implement of war merely in order that Americans may sail the waves of the British ships."

The Morgen Post says: "The note is filled with tones of heartiness and friendliness, but it offers in return for abandonment of the submarine campaign, the offer to mediate between Germany and Great Britain will unquestionably be gladly accepted by the German government, and if mediation fails it will be Great Britain's fault."

The Morgen Post praises the uprightness of the United States and hopes that it will be possible to demonstrate that Germany is acting within her rights.

The Tagblatt says: "It cannot be seen why the German government should be able to enter into a discussion with the American government concerning the manner and manner of naval warfare. This possibility is increased by the American offer of mediation with England. The answer will not be ready for several weeks, but it may be said that the German people now, as before, lay great weight on undisturbed relations with the United States, whose wars of liberation they once joyfully greeted and with which they would have good running mate to the late Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist.

Notkins Like Ultimatum. The earnest character of the note may not be overlooked, but it contains nothing even indirectly that can be looked upon as an ultimatum.

Die Post is dissatisfied, saying: "The note sails the old course and demands the cessation of our submarine campaign, and again emphasizes the request for a supplementary brief of American citizens to voyage through a war zone as passengers on ships belonging to belligerent powers."

The newspaper says that negotiations will continue, but that whether a real result can be obtained is questionable, since the demand of the "Anglo-American" that the submarine warfare be stopped "lies outside the scope of practical discussions."

The Kreuz Zeitung finds the arguments contained in the American note "quite convincing."

Germany's well-considered arguments with an appeal to humanitarian duties, whereas the first humanitarian duty is to protect her soldiers from American ammunition shipments."

GERMANS WONDER WHY BRYAN QUIT

Berlin, June 13.—(Via London).—The Sunday morning newspapers of Berlin generally wonder why Bryan resigned the post of secretary of state. The Morgen Post says: "The former secretary seems to have less confidence than we in the honest desire of the American government to arrive at a peaceful compromise with Germany. Bryan and his government will finally appeal to force. We are not now disposed to believe this, but will await events."

The Kreuz Zeitung says: "Bryan's resignation has been regarded in Germany as a declaration that the note would be rather blunt, which, however, in no wise is the case. The note shows, on the contrary, an outspoken tendency to reach an understanding with Germany on the

Ex-Mayor Nathan, of Rome, Sailing With Reservists

When the steamship Duca degli Abruzzi sailed from New York for Naples with a number of Italian reservists aboard, Collector of the Port Malone had one of the chiefs of the neutrality squad at the pier to see that the Abruzzi did not go out armed. It must be clearly known that the treaty between Austria and Italy was solely for defensive purposes. Italy wished to remain neutral, but she also wished to be on the side of progress, liberty and nationality as against absolute reaction on the other side." Signor Nathan took back with him twelve medals won at the exposition, among them a gold prize for fine art. Four other members of the Italian commission to the exposition also sailed. They were Professor Ettore Ferrari, Bruno Ferrari, Giacomo Giobbe and Commander Marcello Piacentini, who was accompanied by his wife.

LITTLE GIRLS DRUGGED BY STRANGE YOUNG MEN

Tell Parents They Were Given Something to Smell at a Drug Store.

Maggie Nix, age 11, and May Blackwell, age 11, of 69-A Wymon street, in the Fulton Bag and Cotton mill district, lie in a stupor at the Grady hospital, where they were carried at night.

That two young white men, dressed in palm beach suits and wearing straw hats, had given them something to smell at a drug store near their homes early Sunday afternoon was the story told by both little girls.

The little girls said they did not remember anything after they had smelled the "white balls" until awakening at a vacant house about 10 o'clock last night, when they saw looking down at them an old woman.

"When we awoke," said Maggie to Police Officers L. Evans and Leonard Millam, "the old woman drove us from the house, using us as a door."

The factory settlement is intensely aroused over the reports of the drugging of the 11-year-old girls. Grady said he was notified this morning that the girls would recover.

TRACTION STRIKE CALLED AT CHICAGO

14,500 Employees of Surface and Elevated Lines Ordered Out—Police Arranging to Keep Order.

Chicago, June 13.—A strike of the 14,500 employees of the surface and elevated traction systems was ordered at midnight.

The men were directed to finish their runs and return their cars to the barns. The strike was called after an all-day conference of transportation officials, labor leaders and Mayor Thompson had shown the two interests at odds on the question of increased wages, which the men insisted must be guaranteed before arbitration could be considered.

The police immediately began arrangements for protective workmen who were ready to take cars out Tuesday morning. All police furloughs were recalled, and all available men held at police stations ready for emergency duty. A detail of 500 policemen was dispatched to guard the car barns. Officials of the steam roads announced they would begin an immediate suburban service. Leonard M. Bueby, president of the Chicago surface lines, announced no attempt would be made to run the cars until Tuesday. Under the 1907 ordinance, the surface lines are not required to operate in a strike. The strike extends to Hammond, East Chicago and Whiting, Ind., South Chicago and Kankakee, Ill., over the Chicago and Interurban Traction company lines. The Aurora, Elgin and Chicago Electric line will not be affected unless it carries passengers within the city. The Evanston and West Town railway lines in Cook county, outside of Chicago, will not be involved. Wage Increase Demanded. The union men announced at the beginning of the negotiations that they would accept no offer that did not provide a substantial wage increase. The traction companies at first were firm in declaring that no wage increase could be granted. They later offered to arbitrate. June 10 the men announced they would strike within 48 hours unless they received what they termed "a fair offer." This action followed an offer of a wage increase which did not satisfy the men. When the strike appeared inevitable, Mayor Thompson persuaded W. D. Mahon, international president of the Pullman company, to mediate. The Pullman company, which the men repudied they would not accept any offer that did not guarantee a wage increase. No Agreement Reached. The company replied with a counter offer, but after an all-day conference could not reach an agreement with the men. Records of the transportation companies show an average of 3,000,000 persons depending on the lines for daily transportation. The surface lines operate 15 cars daily, and the elevated lines, 1,618. There are 1,055 miles of surface track, and 215 miles of elevated.

TEUTONIC ALLIES ARE ASSAULTING RUSSIAN FORCES ON ENTIRE FRONT

Along the Dniester River and in the Baltic Provinces the Fighting Seems to Be Especially Heavy.

ANOTHER DRIVE MADE BY AUSTRO-GERMANS TO CAPTURE LEMBERG

Teutonic Allies Claim to Be Making Gains, But the Russians Report Attacks Repulsed With Heavy Losses—Hard Fighting Continues on West Front With the French Claiming Gains.

London, June 13.—In the Baltic provinces and along the Dniester river heavy fighting continues between the Russians and Austrians and Germans. The movement, forward and backward, of the battle lines in the Baltic provinces is almost continual, and each side has at various times held the advantage.

In Galicia, the scene of the fighting has changed. The Germans, balked in their effort to reach Lemberg from the south, have attacked the Russians on the River San, north of Przemysl, and along the Dniester in southeastern Galicia, and in their report tonight claim successes in both sectors.

The movement in the southeast resembles that which failed further up the Dniester, at Zurawna, but is on a wider scale. Yesterday work of the Austro-German force is only twenty miles from the Rumanian frontier, while its left wing reaches as far as Haller, where many attacks have been directed against a bridge head. The center of the operations in Kolomea, from which point the main attacks, which have carried the Teutonic allies across the Dniester in several places, are being launched.

Simultaneously the Germans are proceeding with their attack on the Russian center on the River Rawa, west of Tarnobrzeg, where they also have succeeded, according to their report, in capturing several villages.

HARD FIGHTING IN WESTERN ZONE. In the western zone, artillery engagements are in progress from the Vosges to the Meuse, even beyond that district, with here and there infantry fighting. The French have attempted to force the Germans at some section the enemy outflanking column positions, and the Germans have been endeavoring to recover lost ground.

The French continue their offensive, particularly in the neighborhood of Arras. They report the capture of several villages, north of the sugar refinery held by the French.

Near Hebuterne a series of German trenches were captured by the French, according to their report, although the German staff merely refers to the fact that infantry engagements are being fought there.

A big German offensive was predicted several days ago, but it has not materialized, although it is still expected.

SUCCESS CLAIMED BY RUSSIANS. Petersburg, June 13.—(Via London).—In a battle on the Dniester river, in the region of Zurawna, Galicia, which lasted from June 6 to June 10, the Russians captured 348 officers, and 15,451 soldiers, with 78 machine guns and 11 cannon, according to a Russian official statement issued under date of June 12. On June 11, the statement adds, the Austro-German forces crossed the Dniester at several points. The communication says: "To the north of Shavil, in the district of Szakimowicz, yesterday attacked and repulsed in a western direction the enemy outflanking column. Near Shavil the enemy continues his fruitless attacks in the sector of the northern battlefield.

"Our offensive on the front of Szakimowicz continued to develop with success. Yesterday we repulsed by storm several villages and a cemetery near Bourgrade-Jouquiny. The day before on this front our Cossacks charged the enemy on horseback and took more than fifty prisoners."

"In the direction of Kovno the enemy is endeavoring to advance on a front of 400 paces from our trenches. Our squadron dropped bombs with success, this contributing materially to repulse the enemy's attacks on this front.

"In Galicia yesterday in the valley of the River Sklo a heavy mortar battery advanced toward our trenches.

THE ITALIANS PUSHING A STRONG OFFENSIVE. They Are Attacking Gorizia, One of Austria's Heavily Fortified Positions. Battle in Progress Along Isonzo River.

London, June 13.—In the three weeks that have elapsed since the declaration of war by Italy on Austria, the Italian forces have been making slow but steady progress. Their efforts now are being directed mainly at Trieste, with the peninsula of Istria in which lies Pola, Austria's chief naval station, as their great objective.

The Italians already have occupied important strategic points along the Isonzo river, which they have crossed, and for several days a big battle has been in progress. From the Italian side it is reported that Pola has been occupied, but this is denied by the Austrians. Pola has been visited by an Italian airplane and, according to unofficial reports, the arsenal has been almost destroyed by bombs.

The Austrians are said to have brought 45,000 troops and sixty-four batteries to aid their defenses guarding Gorizia, Trieste and other important towns. The fortifications defending Gorizia have been bombarded and communications between Gorizia and the rest of the empire have been cut with the exception of a mountain road.

It is expected that the Italian movement will necessitate the bringing of heavy Austrian or German forces from other battle fronts. GORZ INVESTED BY ITALIANS. The sailors of the Crown of India say the submarine fired several shots across the barks' bows and when the vessel slowed down the boat came orders to take to the back. The submarine then shelled and sank the barks. The Norwegian bark Belgilde close by later met a similar fate.

throughout the negotiations, the efforts of the United States to convince Germany of the legality of the American position ultimately would be successful.

The careful phrasing of the last American note is known to have had the purpose of stating the demands of the United States earnestly, but in such fashion as would not make it embarrassing for Germany to meet the American position.

No Comment on Bryan. Former Secretary Bryan had gone today to Old Point Comfort, Va., and little comment was made on his departure. It was noted, however, that although Bryan is expected to be suffering of the note after his resignation, he said he did not consider that the document had been sufficiently changed to cause him to withdraw his resignation.

PEACE POSSIBLE. SAYS THIS EDITOR. (Via London).—The Koelnische Zeitung thinks that Mr. Bryan's withdrawal from the American states department, either to resign or to be appointed to the Koelnische Zeitung's position, concerning the American note, is a comprehensive and a just one, and that these are not disposed to destroy the bridge connecting the two nations. "The peace which Bryan preaches is also possible along the ways followed by President Wilson, the newspaper editor said.

I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sensitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

New York, June 13.—Admitting that he had talked with leading government officials of Germany, France and England, but denying that his trip to Europe in any way was connected with a possible mission for President Wilson, Colonel Edward M. House arrived here today from Liverpool, a passenger on the American Line steamship St. Paul.

House said that since leaving New York on January 30, of this year, he had met and talked with leading officials of the European governments, but added that his visit was a personal one, and that he had no official mission. He said that he went to Europe almost every year, and this trip had been no exception as to intent or purpose.

DEATH OF FAITHFUL DOG-GUIDE MOURNED BY BLIND MASTER

Joe Radfield, a pedigreed English setter, holding the record of having led his blind master, G. W. Saville, from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, through 34 states in the union, and parts of Mexico and Canada, died in this city Friday afternoon. Ever constant and with the intelligence of a human being, the beautiful dog had served his master for 10 years, doing in his own small part, more than his master for the loss of his best friend's sight.

Mr. Saville who makes his expenses by traveling and selling pictures of his famous four-footed friend, is left in Atlanta, a stranger to the city, with only the few friends of the best one he ever had. He buried Joe in a vacant lot on South Pryor street Saturday, after having engaged a carpenter to make him a coffin.

Mr. Saville claims Reading, Pa., as his home, and that since he made a dog when he was a pup, a little over ten years ago, and through persistent training, taught his master to lead, he was quick to learn what he was shown, and picked up valuable knowledge of the dog world, both out of his own common sense.

UNGOGLY CITIZENS SCORED IN SERMON AT FIRST BAPTIST

"Atlanta's burning question," said Dr. M. DuBoise, in discussing this topic at the First Methodist church Sunday evening, "is what shall become of the unrighteous among our citizens."

After describing the sudden sinking of the Lusitania off the coast of Ireland, Dr. DuBoise likened the moral condition of many people in every city of the world to that of the victims of this catastrophe.

"What will be done," he said, "with the people who walk the boulevards of the world, who frequent their haunts of vice, now that these cities are verily tormented by sin?"

"Atlanta has various questions that vex her," he continued. There is the question of what shall be done with her institutions of evil. She also has her questions concerning her public school system and the several departments of her city government. But all these do not burn as does that concerning her ungodly citizens. It is the burning question before us all. It is the churchman's question. It challenges us for an answer."

WHEN CLEANING UP IS NEEDED. A few weeks ago Atlanta had a Clean up week. Some good work was done in getting rid of unsightly rubbish.

But real summer is at last here. The hot weather is beginning to get in its activity. The flies which were largely killed out by an extreme cold winter and held in check by a cool spring are beginning to multiply rapidly.

Yards and empty houses and unused buildings are already exhibiting signs of neglect. Trash is accumulating in plain view and the weeds are getting in some quick work.

The time of all the year when real and substantial cleaning up is needed is upon us now. It is the time when we need not only a temporary but a permanent and continued activity in the work.

The most dangerous of these agencies is the household denominated at times the typhoid fly because of his undoubted proclivity in transporting this germ from filth to food.

Spring cleaning is a good thing out early in summer cleaning and persistence in it is still better. The city beautiful is second only to the city healthful.

GERMANY'S SECRET SERVICE. If any appreciable portion of Germany's remarkable secret service system is on the order of that which furnished the information that the Lusitania sailed from New York with concealed mounted guns.

Investigations by the United States authorities indicate that the German information in this particular instance was based upon the affidavits of one Stahl who, there is good reason to believe, did not even go aboard the vessel prior to its sailing from New York.

Whether Stahl is any part of the German secret service or not it appears to have been his information that the German government largely relied upon in making its representations to the United States relative to the alleged guns on the Lusitania.

Overzealous employees at times, get the idea that this is one of the best methods of carrying favor with the higher powers, and will adopt it whenever there is an apparent chance of "getting away with it."

In an extensive organization like the German secret service there will always be found scoundrels of this sort who may even be responsible for the loss of human life through furnishing false information.

No government of course, wants servants of this sort. It is not to be credited that Germany would knowingly tolerate them. We shall continue to believe that Germany wants the truth. As to the alleged arma-

THE WARRIORS SING.

Sermons to soldiers ready to embark for the war front, inspiring song services in churches, are held by all the nations at war. The men go forth to battle with the blessing of bishops as true Christian soldiers, to fight for king and country.

Such services have been held in Westminster Abbey, notably, with impressive solemnity. The time, the occasion, the setting of the sermons to the clank of swords in that historic temple of the centuries, swords soon to see service in the world's greatest war, the singing of patriotic hymns to great organ accompaniment have made the scene one of solemn grandeur.

One of the best descriptions of these war services written by a London correspondent, appeared in The Newark News. The sermon was on "Our Christian Duty as a Nation the vast congregation joining in the singing of the hymn, 'Onward, Christian Soldiers' till 'the deep vaulted roof echoed and echoed again with the shout of the final chorus'."

A pause followed then the drums sounded the band and the organ joined in and the most historic shrine in England rang with the tremendous anthem, 'God Save the King.' One verse then the organ softened down to humbler strains the music died away and the congregation kneeling re-echoed the words, 'The peace of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ be with you now and forever more. Peace'—and just a few minutes later from the abbey, in a window Cockspur Street is displayed as a curiosity a pup enameled in the colors of four nations and across the face of the pup a crucifix, with the words, 'God may punish England—Gott Strafe England!' It is beyond me. There can't be two Gods.

But similar scenes are staged every where in the war ruled countries—as they have been since civilized warfare came into the world so that now it amounts to a battle of prayers as well as a battle of guns. While England's Christian soldiers are urged onward to the mowing down of their Christian brethren the enemy likewise instant in prayer and adoration, is counseling men to the same duty.

The thing naturally is universal. The Turk himself is not one breath behind his Christian enlightened God fearing enemies in chanting his prayers for their destruction.

Time and custom have approved such praying but how the prayers must clash—if they rise above the battle clouds! Christian prays against Christian while the Turk, proficent in the new art of war under Christian instruction, prays either to annihilate or be delivered from them all!

It has the elements of a Comedy of Errors in a world war tragedy that puts the faith of Humanity to the supreme test. The cry is 'Onward, Christian Soldiers!' With variations to harmonize with differing beliefs they sing it for the marching of the men.

'Onward! Every cause is "right," every war is "justified." 'Onward! Arm yourselves with prayer and 'keep your powder dry' 'They go to battle with that benediction—'The Peace of God be with you,' but the only peace until the world shall be weary of its wars is the peace upon the faces of the slain under the battle-clouded skies of the violated lands.

THE GLEANERS

The German system of efficiency in war and peace is as nearly perfect as it can be made. Nothing in the least degree contributing to it is overlooked. Everything counts. The battlefields are gleaned as carefully as the harvest fields. Of the "repair centers" for the battle lines The New York Evening World says:

'Resides keeping the fighters supplied with ammunition and food these centers are constantly combing the battle fields for broken guns and bayonets, cartridge shells, the clothes and knapsacks of the dead and wounded. The medical German sort these things and take them back to the workshops at the center. There shattered rifles are made as good as new, broken wheels restored, uniforms and outfit cleaned and repaired. Even worn-out automobile tires are collected and put through a process that renders the rubber of use in making new tubes. And all this is done in shops not in Germany, but in a few towns on the battle front in northern France.

And care is taken that war cripples do not become burdens on communities. Trade schools under government supervision have been opened to them whereby they are given an opportunity to become self supporting. In fact they are required to apply themselves to some useful occupation, according to their abilities and along this line their pride of independence is a potent factor for the betterment of their conditions.

It is time for this far-reaching national economy which is characteristic of the people. The harvests now are largely of battlefields, and in this connection the cost of keeping the great guns in action—the price of a few shots from their death dealing engines, would keep starving hundreds in food.

BUILT HIS OWN TOWN

An enterprising Kansas farmer who had made a fine crop of wheat figured that his profits would dwindle with a long haul. He needed a near town to market that crop and he set his wits to work, with this result, as given in a Kansas dispatch to The New York World:

Ben Foster a large land owner built a town of his own. He erected an elevator, lumber yard, coal yard and store also real-estate office.

He named the town Breton and now it is getting away from his first idea. Other people are moving there and Foster is in a good way to become the proprietor of a thriving country town.

That's the American spirit. This man made his own wheat market, and he is making money. There are many theories about 'building up the country.' He put his to practical test and won out. It is a clear case of the mountain coming to the man.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

A Little World of Friends. No wish in worldly strife to roam, By these our steps are led. She lights the undimmed lamps of Home. And Toil still brings the bread.

We toil in peace and peace descends Upon our little world of friends. Stars in our sky and though the storm They shed unceasing light. Loves fires can keep the whole world warm.

Briefs From Hillside. White peacefully sailing the placid pond the other day, an envious alligator submerged our vessel and we were not within a league of the bullfrog war zone.

We are not naturally agin the government, but so many raids have been made on our modest, retiring moonshine still that we have had to fortify it with cast-iron barrels.

Another Disregard for Neutrality. (Blowing out to the neighbors.)

The Friendly Gentleman. I met a mighty gentleman a strain on de way. He stopped de song a minute fer ter tell me time of day.

We traveled on together till he said de place wuz nigh. De lightning come a flash an a runnin' round de sky.

There was a girl in our town and she was awful slack. She never washed her shoes. That buttoned in the back.

And Judd Lewis gives the song this practical twist in The Houston Post. 'She never spent four hours a day. Before the glass to perk. Or on the piano would play. While mother did the work.'

Revised. This is the way Phil H. Armstrong, of The Florida Times Union, has revised it. Under the spreading chestnut tree. The village smithy stands. The smith a foxy man is he. And he owns fine farming lands.

A Philosopher's View. The world doesn't stop for you to saddle your troubles on it. It's flying so fast that it leaves the slow old growers all in the air on the ragged edge of Nothing.

The New-Time Way. He aint a sighlin in distress. Bout bein in the wilderness. It's there he keeps the axes ringin. An sets a hundred saws a singin.

The Wasteful Dreamer. Stay too long in the land of dreams. Says a Georgia oracle and when you wake up you'll realize that the world is at a stary station a million miles ahead of you.

Too Much Prosperity. Editor Jeger of The Thomsville Times-Enterprise, complains that his fellow gave him ten dollars too much the other day.

First of the War. (From The New York World.) Italy's proclamation of a blockade of the coast of Austria has the appearance of a true and lawful blockade. If so, it will be the first of the war.

OLD-TIME GEORGIA MINERS

It wasn't more than a half decade ago that the blue clad hills of northeast Georgia were populated with big brawny men in boots wide brimmed hats and corduroys who—most of them—wore gold pouches in their belts.

They were robust men of Bona Tankers—a stamp who used to come down to Nucklesville, which was a flourishing mining camp and play tank and keno and drink and watch Bona Tank—after whom the town was named—whip with hair fists the first man who started a tussion with knife or pistol.

They lived upon the product of the im-provised placer, the shaft sunk into a vein of metal ore that they dipped into the stream. They all had a happy unconcern for tomorrow.

But those days and those men are done. The few old timers who limp around Dahlonega and Nucklesville have preserved the history of the old days and a few women have preserved the mounds that mark the spot where they lie.

Science Does Wonders. Science has done wonders for the north Georgia section. He told the reporter it defied the old miner's rule that the older the timer of the minus and has made it possible not only to acquire the surface gold of the streams but to probe beneath the soil surface and find the hidden pockets that defied the old miner's rule.

He told the reporter it defied the old miner's rule that the older the timer of the minus and has made it possible not only to acquire the surface gold of the streams but to probe beneath the soil surface and find the hidden pockets that defied the old miner's rule.

There are a number of big mining plants now in full blast. Plans are being devised for others and soon Dahlonega—which is the base of all gold field activities in that zone—will present the most thriving industrial aspect of any small community in the south.

Down to the depths went Elbert Hubbard, with smiling eyes that knew no fear and all the lovely mermaids rubbered and Nep-tune shouted. See who's here! Well, it might there be a great commotion throughout the west coast to wit for sailing in tones and father Ocean clasped hands with such a splendid guest. The inkstand waits upon his table his pen is rusting in the sun there is no living hand that is able to do the work he left undone.

Why Alexander Wept. (From an Exchange.) The teacher was telling his class about the conquest of Alexander the Great. He made the tale a stirring one and at last reached the story of the death of Alexander. Impressed the children he said: 'When Alexander had conquered India what do you think he did? Do you think he gave a great feast to celebrate his triumph? No, he sat down and wept!'

Fatigue Relieved by Candy. (From The Westminster Gazette.) The value of the candy is recognized by military authorities. The British soldiers in France are reported as consuming 'prodigious quantities of sweets. A captain at the front writes the British army reports that the candy has five times the demand for sweets that was expected and one fifth the demand for beer. The Australians encamped in Egypt have eaten all the chocolate to be had in Cairo.

By Wire and Letter, Citizens Praise Editorial on Bryan

From all parts of the country by wire and by letter, The Constitution has received praise for the editorial Saturday on Private Citizen Bryan in which it was announced that as a matter of public welfare, no more of his statements would be published during the present crisis with Germany.

Following are a few of the communications received. Richard H. Edmonds editor of The Manufacturer Record sent the following telegram: Baltimore, Md. June 12. Editor Constitution: Congratulations on your stand as to public nuisance Bryan. RICHARD H. EDMONDS.

The following telegram comes from Chicago (Chicago) June 12. Editor Constitution: The summary of that you have published on Bryan is accurate and (with a few exceptions) true. It is a real service to the public. I am glad to see that you have taken the right course. LYNDEN EVANS.

The following is from J. R. Smith of Smith & Swink, the well known real estate firm: Editor Constitution: Your timely editorial on Private Citizen Bryan commends itself so highly that I want to thank you personally for it. Mr. Bryan's recent action has further convinced me that he is a public nuisance to America. He is a man who has been a power near the home of the nation to America and American institutions. In the present instance it is apparent that he has decided to make his personal affairs a diplomatic situation with which to play the nation and counting upon the public to follow him. Herebefore there has been such proportionate and serious national issues has sought to hold the national dignity. It is a source of great satisfaction to the American people to see that you have taken the right course in the even tenor of his law while Mr. Bryan is sweating drops of blood in the effort to keep his pockets full of the national gold. While your position is extreme and in ordinary times could be regarded as a source of great satisfaction to the American people to see that you have taken the right course in the even tenor of his law while Mr. Bryan is sweating drops of blood in the effort to keep his pockets full of the national gold. But all this is beside the story told by Francis Leslie Hoff, a mining man of the new era who sat in the lobby of the Hotel Ansel Friday morning. He represents a large financial concern in New York and is himself a mining man. Representing the Colonial Bond and Trust Company of New York city he has organized the Lingley Mining and Power company capitalized at a quarter of a million of which Dr. H. Hoff is one of the stockholders. The new concern has been put into operation at Dahlonega and is already turning out raw gold.

Dr. G. W. Fichelberger superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia has furnished The Constitution with the following statement in answer to a question from Rev. G. M. Eakes published in The Constitution on Sunday morning. Editor Constitution: A communication printed in your Sunday morning edition, signed by Rev. G. M. Eakes, in which Athens demands a review at the hands of the Anti-Saloon League in view of the importance of the matter involved, which occurred in the city of Athens, Georgia, has been received. The league has at once taken steps to involve Mr. Eakes in the controversy concerning Mr. Burwell's candidacy for speaker. The league has been careful to avoid the use of force in the handling of this delicate and for the further very good reason that Mr. Eakes' connection with the matter is not material to our specific charge. Mr. Burwell has not kept faith with the prohibition majority of Georgia in that he promised to appoint in the last house a real temperance committee giving it a majority of prohibitionists and that this he failed to do.

There are several points of inaccuracy in the article dated from Athens. The names of the committee were not used in the propaganda of the Anti-Saloon League and the names of the members of the entire committee are printed and the way in which each one present voted.
