W. H. TAFT IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF LEAGUE

Proposed That Any Country Joining League Should Pledge Its Armed Support Toward Keeping Peace.

Philadelphia, June 17.—Within historic independence hall today—the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill—there was formed an organization whose object will be to promote the creation of a league of nations...

William H. Taft was elected permanent president and a long list of representative American citizens were named as permanent vice presidents.

The conference was not an assembly of what one participant termed "pure peace" men, but a gathering of those who for the most part believe in trying to bring about peace, even though they have to use force.

There was an animated discussion over the adoption of the name. George W. Kirchwey, of Columbia university, suggested that the name be changed to "League to Establish and Maintain Peace."

The proposed elimination of the word "enforce" gained vigorous support, but it was defeated after a vigorous speech by A. Lawrence.

There are here to enforce peace, otherwise we have no business here at all," he exclaimed with spirit. "When you fight a forest fire you fight it with back to back, and that means to discourage war, and that means to the threat to use force."

During the noon recess the resolutions committee formulated and after it was presented to the afternoon session by Chairman Lowell, who men some suggestions offered were rejected because they were regarded as too radical.

Resolutions Adopted. The resolutions, as recommended by the committee and adopted by the meeting read:

"Throughout five thousand years of recorded history peace here and there established has been kept and its area has been widened in one way or another by the superior power of superior numbers acting in unity for the common good."

"We, therefore, believe it to be desirable for the United States to join a league of nations binding the signatories to the following:

"1. All justiciable questions arising between the signatory powers, not settled by negotiation, shall, subject to the limitations of treaties, be submitted to a judicial tribunal for hearing and decision, based upon the facts ascertained upon any issue as to its jurisdiction of the question."

"2. All other questions arising between the signatories and not settled by negotiations shall be submitted to a council of conciliation for hearing, consideration and recommendation."

"3. The signatory powers shall jointly use forthwith both their economic and military resources to assist in their number that goes to war, or commits acts of hostility against another of the signatories before any question arising shall be submitted as provided in the foregoing."

"4. Conferences between the signatory powers shall be held at intervals of time to formulate and codify rules of international law, which, unless some signatory shall propose any amendment, shall remain in force until thereafter revised in the decisions of the judicial tribunal mentioned in article 1."

"5. As Mr. Taft said to leave the city early, he called on the president of the league, W. H. Taft, at the Columbia university, to the chair, and before leaving gave hearty indorsement to the resolutions, and expressed his opinion of doing something as well as thinking something."

Mr. Taft said part of the committee measures the high water mark of its hopes for the future, that I accept it, but I question whether it expresses the opinion of experienced statesmen," said Congressman David J. Lewis, of Maryland, whose presence at the conference was that it did not prescribe a rule of conduct for nations.

U. S. Soldier Sees Pretty Sweetheart Try to Take Life

Mrs. Daisy Ramsey Tells Physician Her Husband Is Seeking Divorce and Custody of Her Children.

When R. E. Lawrence, a United States soldier, would not linger until another car to be with her last night, Mrs. Daisy Ramsey, of 62 Walton street, who is separated from her husband, attempted suicide by swallowing a handful of bichloride of mercury tablets.

She had been to the Owl's dance with R. E. Lawrence, a private in the quartermaster's department at Fort McPherson.

Lawrence witnessed her effort to kill herself and slapped part of the poison tablets from her lips as she was swallowing them. He then called the Grady hospital and Mrs. Ramsey was rushed there in an ambulance.

Lawrence constantly inquired of the Grady internes how she was getting along. He stated that Mrs. Ramsey was suing her husband for a divorce, and that she was engaged to marry him.

At the Grady hospital she denied she was engaged to Lawrence and said she tried to kill herself because her husband is seeking a divorce and the custody of their two children.

Lawrence wanted to go to Fort McPherson on an earlier car than usual, last night, and Mrs. Ramsey objected, lest to be left so early. They had just returned from the dance when the altercation between them took place and Mrs. Ramsey attempted to end her life.

Grady internes state that the young woman's condition is serious, but that she may linger for several days. It is not thought that she will recover.

GREECE TO JOIN ALLIES, THINKS GERMAN PRESS

The Victory of Venizelos Has Proved Unpleasant Surprise to Teutons.

Berlin, June 17.—(Via London).—News of the victory in the Grecian elections of the party of former Premier Venizelos, which favors Greece's participation in the war on the side of the allies, has proved an unpleasant surprise to the newspapers of Germany.

The tone of the press comment, while not pessimistic, is by no means optimistic.

"The next enemy," and says: "With this result the return of M. Venizelos to the government is as good as assured, and with the support of a majority in the chamber (Venizelos has 193 out of a total of 316) he will be able to carry through against all other influences, his policy of joining with the quadruple entente."

Other newspapers predict that events since the withdrawal of Premier Venizelos from the premiership (March 6, 1914), have been of such a nature that he will not be able to disregard them. They refer particularly to the losses of the allies in the Dardanelles, the continuing Russian defeats in the east, and the entrance into the war of Italy, the dangerous rival of Greece.

KING IS MUCH IMPROVED; REGENCY IS NOT LIKELY. London, June 18.—(3 28 a m).—"The king's physicians expect their patient to enter upon convalescence in a day or two," says Reuters Athens correspondent. They think his majesty can be transferred to his country castle within a fortnight.

"The king's mind is now entirely clear," he has been informed of the result of the elections and concerning the political situation in view of the king's improved condition the proposals for a regency are not likely to be considered by the government.

Regarding the demands of the Venizelists for the immediate convoking of parliament and the resignation of the Premier, Premier Gouras declares that he will adhere to his former decision to postpone action from the regular convening of parliament June 20.

He explains that there is no necessity for the immediate presentation of these important matters of state business."

"All justiciable questions arising between the signatory powers, not settled by negotiation, shall, subject to the limitations of treaties, be submitted to a judicial tribunal for hearing and decision, based upon the facts ascertained upon any issue as to its jurisdiction of the question."

"2. All other questions arising between the signatories and not settled by negotiations shall be submitted to a council of conciliation for hearing, consideration and recommendation."

3 WARSHIPS SAIL TO STOP UPRISING OF YAQUI INDIANS

U. S. Marines Will Be Landed at Guaymas and, If Necessary, Sent Inland to Protect Americans.

3,000 ARMED RAIDERS ENDANGER AMERICANS

Colony at Esperanza, Which Once Resisted Indians' Attacks, Is Reported Again in Danger.

San Diego, Cal., June 17.—Fertile of American settlers in the Yaqui valley brought orders today for the dispatch of three cruisers for the Mexican west coast and authorization to Admiral Thomas B. Howard to land an expeditionary force if he thinks best.

The flagship Colorado sailed first, carrying three companies of marines. Somewhere off the coast of Lower California the radio began snapping back orders from the admiral, which started the protected cruiser Chattanooga and the Colorado.

The protected cruiser Raleigh, also ordered to sail, began getting up steam and was expected to get away in the night.

All three were destined for Tobari Bay, near Guaymas, railroad terminus and seaport in Sonora. Ninety miles southeast of Guaymas is Esperanza, where an American colony which has successfully resisted attacks of Yaqui Indians, is reported to be again in danger.

The Indians, who have declared their independence, seek to oust settlers from land which is said to have been taken from the Yaquis under the administration of Porfirio Diaz. They were reported today to have withdrawn to the mountains.

The three cruisers have available for landing purposes 1,100 officers and men besides the marines.

Yaquis Raiding Inland. On Board U. S. Colorado, off Ensenada, Lower California, by Radio to San Diego, Cal., June 17.—Reports of Yaqui Indian activities received from Guaymas today stated that 3,000 armed raiders had formed themselves into bands and were carrying their depredations inland from the mountains.

Part of the Yaquis, according to the report, have left the Yaqui valley with their loot. This action was followed by the retirement of the greater part of Governor Maytorena's troops.

In the attack by Yaqui Indians upon a work train of the Southern Pacific railway near Maypall, Sonora, last Saturday night, two men were killed and eleven wounded instead of one killed and three wounded, as reported. Two Americans were among the wounded.

The three hundred marines proceeding to the scene of the Indian disturbances on board the Colorado will be landed at Guaymas, it was decided today, and will be sent by Admiral Howard inland, if necessary, to aid Americans.

ADMIRAL IS ORDERED TO MAKE NO TERRITORY. Washington, June 17.—Admiral Howard commanding the Pacific fleet, was under orders today to proceed immediately to Guaymas, on the west coast of Mexico, with three hundred bluejackets and three hundred marines, and to dispatch this force twenty miles inland, if necessary, to protect Americans menaced by the Yaqui Indians. The Indians had threatened to annihilate all foreigners.

Orders to Admiral Howard to proceed to Guaymas were sent by the navy department following a conference between navy and state department officials.

State department advices said that the Indians had declared war on Germany, Mexico, and the United States.

American colonists in the Yaqui Valley will determine for themselves if they wish to leave the region of Indian depredations. Instructions to Admiral Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, who sailed today from San Diego with a relief expedition of marines and bluejackets, are to give refugees asylum if they ask it, to land forces for rescue if necessary, but not to take any territory.

Governor Maytorena, of the state of Sonora, today advised the United States that it was unnecessary to land any of Admiral Howard's forces to protect American colonists, as he would furnish troops for the purpose. Admiral Howard's orders will remain unchanged, however, and he will be expected to act with wide discretion in any emergency.

Carranza's Move Now. Considerable speculation was being indulged in here today as to whether General Carranza would continue his course an fight on or modify his attitude in view of overture for peace in Mexico by General Villa. Some definite word from the constitutionalist chief as to whether or not he will accept Villa's proposals was awaited here with much interest, as upon his answer probably hinges the next move in the situation.

General Carranza has thus far allowed three proposals for peace parleys by Villa to go unheeded. The latest offer to agree to an armistice pending a discussion of peace terms was made through the mediation of American agents. To this proposal Carranza is said to have stated that there would be no reply.

It was said here that Carranza's present intention is to attempt to take possession of Mexico City, now in control of the Villa forces, hoping thereby to obtain recognition by the Washington government. It is unknown here however whether President Wilson will accord recognition to either of the factions now in the field.

DR. DERNBURG EXPECTS TO MEET THE KAISER IN BERLIN JUNE 30

DR. BERNHARD DERNBURG AND MRS. DERNBURG.

Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, personal representative and spokesman for Kaiser Wilhelm in this country, after a stay of nine months in America, is on his way to meet the kaiser. Despite contradictory rumors, it was learned from good authority that Dr. Dernburg would go from Bergen, Norway, directly to Germany, where it is said a high place in his country's public life awaits him.

He is traveling under a special safe conduct issued through the American state department and guaranteed by the British, French and Russian ambassadors in Washington. He expects to be in Berlin on June 30, and will immediately report to the kaiser, whose special confidence and friendship he enjoys. The accompanying photograph of Dr. Dernburg and his wife was taken, on the day before they sailed from New York.

SWEDEN CHARGES MAIL COMPANY MUST PAY ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Swedish Minister Files Formal Protest Against Tampering With U. S. Pouches.

Washington, June 17.—Formal notice that United States mail pouches destined for Sweden had been broken open in England and their contents tampered with, was published today by the state department today by W. A. F. Ekengren, the Swedish minister, with a request for appropriate action.

The minister called at the department and delivered to Secretary Lansing a written statement on instructions from his government, reciting instances of interference with mail for Sweden and pointing out that such acts were in violation of the provisions of the world postal convention and of other treaty stipulations. The letter stated that the seals of mail bags were broken, that letters were opened and censored and that one registered unit was retained.

Two specific cases were mentioned, one involving mail sent on the American steamer New York, when she left New York on May 27, and the other pouches carried by the British steamer Adriatic which sailed May 27. In the former case it was asserted that out of twenty-nine registered letters and packages seven arrived in Sweden opened, while the greater part of the other mail had been censored.

Of the Adriatic's mail which arrived in Gothenburg on June 9, several letters were said to have been opened.

While various reports have been in circulation as to the interference with mail since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe the protest from Sweden is the first official communication on the subject dealt with the problem.

State department officials did not discuss the visit of Mr. Ekengren in which was understood in diplomatic quarters, however, that the subject of representations by the United States to Great Britain asking that the American mail passing through British territory be protected.

Unofficially, it was stated in allied diplomatic circles today that there had been various instances of interference with official mail in this country, and that the Russian embassy had evidence of six cases in which mail had been tampered with on United States railway mail cars.

DIFFER ON "WAR BABIES."

Mrs. Pankhurst and Archbishop Hold Opposite Views.

London, June 17.—No evidence available justifies the belief that the conditions of war have resulted in any exceptional increase in illegitimacy," is the conclusion reached by a committee of which Mrs. Pankhurst is the chairman, which has been investigating the "war babies" question.

The report states that special inquiries in 12 towns and districts brought no confirmation of alarmist rumors concerning illegitimacy, and that therefore it had been considered unnecessary to organize special agencies to deal with the problem.

DRIVE OF TEUTONS FOR BEER SALOONS

Many Fail to Apply to City Council for Privilege of Operating—One Locker Club Delays Application.

That the near beer saloons of Atlanta are now prospering and that fifty or sixty of them will be forced out of business this year were the conclusions drawn Thursday by the police committee of general council which also held a public hearing on applications for renewals of licenses for the ensuing year.

Three applications for saloons at 155 Peters street, 4 North Broad street and 150 Decatur street, all filed by Greenham and Sebastian, were held up and referred to Councilman J. N. Renfro for investigation. It was charged that these saloons were selling beer for 5 cents per bottle and the committee was of the opinion that the one was sufficient for them.

Of the twenty applications for locker club permits only one that of the Greek-American club, was turned down, the other nineteen being reported favorably. The Greeks already have a locker club and the committee was of the opinion that the one was sufficient for them.

T. M. A. Pettiford Delayed. Only one of the locker clubs now in operation failed to file an application for a renewal of its permit, and that was the T. M. A. club. The officers of the club have notified members of the committee that they will file their application shortly and in time for it to be acted on by general council at its meeting in July, which is the deadline for action on these permits.

Chairman Edwin Johnson, of the police committee, said that he believed that some of the clubs were not being operated up to the law but that so long as the police made no charges against them, the committee after investigating them and ascertaining no violations had no right to turn down their applications.

The committee was surprised to receive only 155 applications for renewals of near beer saloon licenses, since there are about 230 in operation. Several saloons failed to file their permits, they were making no money and that many of them were being forced out of business on account of a falling off in receipts that made it impossible to pay operating expenses.

The applications reported on favorably Thursday will be sent to general council Monday for action and it is believed they will all be passed. Whether any other saloons will apply for renewals is not known, but it is said that a few of those remaining will apply for pool room licenses.

The committee also approved of fifty-two applications for pool room licenses. Many of them are operating in connection with near beer saloons and the committee discussed the advisability of having them separated. Chairman Johnson and others reported that Chief Beavers and members of the committee had been informed that there was no trouble experienced in handling them together and that such a practice was not objectionable.

Mayor Woodward requested Chairman Johnson to furnish him with a complete list of the applicants today and he intimated that he would make a personal investigation of some of them before approving them after passage by general council.

Some of the applicants reported that delegations of local people opposed to clubs and near beer saloons would appear before the committee to protest against issuing the licenses, but no one entered a protest and no one stated there was any trouble experienced in handling them together and that such a practice was not objectionable.

Chairman Johnson announced that he would introduce a resolution authorizing the committee to properly prepared prohibiting girls and young women in the locker clubs after their mothers' have made a formal protest against it. He said the committee would notify the club management and that it could be easily handled.

He also said the ordinance drawn up so that the club violating this law will automatically forfeit its license, and that the committee would notify the club management and that it could be easily handled.

With each application for a locker club permit there was filed a voluminous list of questions asked by the committee. The applicant furnished answers with the name of each officer and director of the club, the names of each member and the initiation fee, dues and other information.

These questions were prepared by Chairman Johnson and incorporated in an ordinance passed by general council two months ago. This is the first time the club has been forced to comply with these conditions before obtaining a license or before the initiation fee, dues and other information.

Chairman Johnson stated Thursday that the city now has all information that will be needed at any time in making an investigation of the clubs and in forcing them to comply with the locker club laws.

Some of the questions asked by the police committee have been making personal visits to the near beer saloons and locker clubs. Thursday afternoon the committee was informed that the near beer saloons were being operated in violation of the law.

Lieutenant Warfield was piloting the machine, which had as a passenger Henry Bess, a Canadian aviator, an American who also was killed.

DRIVE OF TEUTONS FORGES RUSSIANS BACK INTO POLAND

FRENCH ARE ATTACKING DESPERATELY IN WEST

London, June 17.—Another 24 hours of fighting in Galicia has developed nothing to stem the Austro-German advance toward Lemberg and tonight Berlin claims the Russians are retreating over their own frontier toward Tarnograd four miles from the Galician border.

This means an invasion of Russian territory at a new point, but, according to military observers here it may spell ultimate advantage for the Russians in that a general Russian retreat northward into Poland would divert General Linington's attempt to crush the Russian frontier near Zuzawa which would sever the communications of the Russian army in South-eastern Galicia and Bukovina. The military writers here say the real danger zone from the Russian standpoint is in the Zuzawa district and along the Dniester.

THREE GREAT ARMIES MOVE ON LEMBERG

According to Berlin, the Austro-German forces have battered through Niemerow, thirty miles northwest of Lemberg, and are advancing toward Jaworow, which is only 25 miles west of the Galician capital. Three great masses of Austro-Germans thus are sweeping from the San toward the capital, and the prediction is made that will take place in the vicinity of Grodek, where military observers believe the Russians should benefit by the lake country.

British newspapers, though not minimizing the importance of the Austro-German advance, are still styling the Grand Duke Nicholas' elusive strategy in shifting his front from north and south to north and south-east. This maneuver it is asserted, has defeated the Austro-German blow to some extent and at the same time denied to them a full test of strength.

Characterized in London as strikingly paralyzing the allies, the battle on the Marne. The struggle along the Dniester and before Lemberg, it is considered here, must determine which side is the more astute in the present maneuvers.

ALLIES ARE FORCING FIGHTING IN WEST

A series of desperate encounters is described by the French war office in that sector along the battle front in France comprising the territory to the north of Arras, Soissons, St. Quentin, Neuville, St. Vaast and other towns, which for weeks past has been the scene of fighting of a most determined character.

Over two days in the French report, the actions have been numerous and desperate. The French have carried several lines of trenches on the road from Arras to Soissons, St. Quentin, Neuville, St. Vaast and other towns, which for weeks past has been the scene of fighting of a most determined character.

This Picture is All Wrong! Yes—but it's a real picture of the every-day stunt in offices where they still cling to the inefficient, wasteful, costly shorthand system.

Every day more men find that it's mighty poor business to WRITE LETTERS TWICE—once in shorthand and once on the typewriter, to say nothing of the expense and wasted time. They dictate to the DICTAPHONE. And it's about time you did.

Big Fish Fry Enjoyed Thursday

By Atlanta Efficiency Experts

If there are any shortcomings of any nature whatever in the city waterworks department, they were overlooked Thursday when a delegation of ladies and men from the efficiency committee of 125 made an inspection of the downtown pumping station and reservoirs and river station. The most striking feature of the investigation was the highly efficient manner in which the big spread was consumed by Mayor Woodward, Judge Spencer Atkinson, Charles F. Haden and others who enjoyed the hospitality of the water department.

A CENTURY AFTER WATERLOO. A century after the battle of Waterloo dawned on a world war staged again on Belgian soil, a war which threatens to be so far reaching in its ruin and undreamed-of developments, in the quick misery it has inflicted on innocent millions, that its sweep—the method in its madness—could not have been outlined in the Napoleonic dream of conquest.

Where thousands were engaged for the overthrow of one man—the trampler of the vineyards of Europe—millions are contending now. Then the fate of nations was decided in what was practically the battle of a day—quick, blood, final in its rebuke to the restless ambition of the First Napoleon. But it has been said that Europe, counting herself liberated, was "still enslaved."

Today marks a hundred years after that world event, which will appeal throughout the ages to the imagination of the world. The monuments of that battleground—the Lion-mound commemorative of "the red rain that made the harvests grow," are not distant from the scenes of War's later ruin, and France, the Republic, is now in a greater life or death struggle than ever was France the Empire.

War was wonderful then, in the light and strength of the genius of one man, it had its recompenses in the spectacular glories of banners, and plumes, and swords that clashed in open warfare, it was "the rapture of the fight," often on equal terms; but time has worked wonders in its changes—of great armies almost always entrenched, one reaches a battle ground and for the time may not realize that war is going on, yet it is everywhere, it has invaded the earth—is earth hidden, battles in the air—undersea and in the waters above; it is war where Science fights for mastery—the culmination of barbarities under the guise and sanction of Christian "civilization."

It rolls around and above the Prisoner of Saint Helena, in that fighting France he loved so well, from whose shores he looked towards England and dreamed of invasion—whence Science is attempting now. He has his imitators in the new day whose battle-thunders shake the world, but none stands out as he stood, in genius supreme—in full relief of glory. Ambition is there, and the will for world-conquest and new achievement in the conduct of war, but the man of many victories—"of thousand thrones," who crowned and uncrowned kings, whose star of destiny died from the night of Waterloo, is solitary still.

His life preached the sermon of Ambition, and the people reckoned with him at last as they will reckon with all the rulers of earth, whose "vaulting ambition overleaps itself"—who lose the common touch.

STRONGER MONROE DOCTRINE. It was Senator Santiago Perez Triana, of the United States of Colombia, who brought to the Pan-American financial conference recently held in Washington, the message of "America for the Americans," both with regard to territorial possession and to commercial and financial relations. In a speech in Boston a day or two ago, upon the occasion of the entertainment there of the Pan-American delegates, he further amplified this doctrine, pointing out that to make it most effective, we must be willing to practice at home what we preach to and demand of foreign powers on other continents. While the Monroe doctrine has effectively closed the doors against territorial aggression on the part of European or other foreign powers, anywhere upon either American continent, Senator Triana pointed out that it will always lack the strength and force it should have until the nations of North and South America enter into agreement for its effective operation at home, and against territorial conquest on the part of any one of them toward any of the others.

The United States are the first to recognize the importance of such a declaration. Naturally it should first come from us, since this is the most powerful of all the American countries and the one best able to conduct a war of conquest, should there arise occasion for it. But the United States have no such purpose. We made that clear enough in the war with Spain. Our treatment of Cuba should be a guarantee to every Latin-American country of our good intentions. We have told Mexico that we want nothing whatever from her; that we have no desire even to interfere in her internal affairs, except in the interest of humanity.

The United States, therefore, can well afford to lead in the declaration of a bigger and broader Monroe doctrine, one that shall preserve present territorial status not only against the possible foreign invader, but against the sudden or unwarlike ambition of a neighbor. Such a declaration, on the part of all the American republics would not only establish among them a very comfortable feeling of security with regard to possible foreign aggression, but would practically remove the possibility of conflict among themselves and send their internal disputes to arbitration.

If we could at the same time devise a plan which would send the determination of every revolution to the ballot box instead of leaving it often to an apparently interminable battlefield, we should have built still further upon Senator Triana's proposal. A union of the American republics for their own protection and defense, whenever it may become necessary, or for the prevention of the too frequently recurrent civil strife, can accomplish anything it wants to. There are tremendous possibilities in it, nor can it be entered into haphazard. But it is a prolific subject for the consideration of the next Pan American conference. Now that these conferences are to be held annually, according to recent announcements from Washington, it will become a comparatively easy matter to arrive at some basis of agreement to insure the permanence of each established American country as at present constituted.

TWO PROSPERITY SIGNS.

Among the signs of returning prosperity The Fort Worth (Texas) Record notes the statement of the savings banks of the country that the small depositor is putting his money in the bank again, and has stopped withdrawals. The Record says: The small investor has commenced to buy good stocks. The man of small means is beginning to make inquiries about the price of a lot in the suburbs. All of which means that confidence has come back to the people, to the salary and wage earners as well as to the men of business who are busy receiving increased and increasing orders for goods. The savings banks are close to the prudent and thrifty people. They know better of financial and industrial conditions than anybody else, and when they say that prosperity is here and has come to stay, the rest of us can put faith in the statement.

Another prosperity sign to be reckoned with is the splendid crop prospect. The Indianapolis News, commenting on the very light vote at the recent judicial election in Illinois, says it was due to the fact that the farmers were too busy to go to the polls: "It is well enough to take chances on a judge, but with such crops as are coming along this year an agriculturist has to be on the job every moment."

The pessimist is with us always. He never has the good fortune to discover a gold mine when he seeks a stormpit to hide from a hurricane, but the business outlook of the country is a rebuke to whatever gloomy forebodings he may entertain. It is a brightening prospect for the workers and builders of the country's prosperity.

"BACK TO THE FARM."

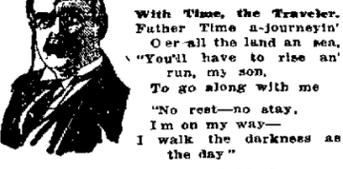

The Boston Globe notes the wonderful growth of the "Back to the Farm" movement, which is leading "to an extensive revival of the pursuit of agriculture." It says that the mortgage indebtedness on farms throughout the United States has always been difficult to estimate accurately, but gives these encouraging figures: The federal census bureau has been successful in gathering much important data recently bearing on this subject. It is interesting to note that the figures for over a million farms indicate that the mortgage indebtedness is only slightly over a quarter of the value of the lands and buildings. This is a satisfactory showing, for it proves that when the average value is about $6,000 the mortgage is $1,700, leaving the owner a substantial equity in the property.

Another hopeful sign of agricultural prosperity is found in the fact that country boys are not migrating to the cities as fast as formerly. Of this tendency to remain on the farm The Madison (Ind.) Herald says: It is beginning to dawn on the country boy that when he drops the raising of food products he is selling out his interest in a commodity that is rapidly rising in price. Nobody ever advanced in life on that principle. And since the boys stay on in the country, the girls will stay on, too. The farmers are going to own many more automobiles in the year 1923 than the store clerk.

The farmers are making everything count now—in every department of farm work—the raising of better breeds of stock, the conservation of all sources of farm supply. They are getting the life out of the land and yet renewing that life for greater productivity. Take, for instance, these items in one branch of farm prosperity, as given by The Arkansas Gazette: Washington county shipped 150 car-loads of strawberries this season. They sold for $123,000. From the Judsonia region, although the season was short, there were shipped 100 cars of berries, which sold for $120,000. And just to think that the people who raised $213,000 worth of strawberries in Washington county and $120,000 worth of strawberries around Judsonia might have their time spent in idling on the top rail of a fence discussing the war in Europe!

State by state, it is one voice of progress on the farms, going on to still greater achievement in the higher development of the world-sustaining soil.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

With Time, the Traveler, Further Time a-journeynin' O'er all the land an' sea, 'You'll have to rise an' run, my son, To go along with me 'No rest—no stay, I'm on my way—I walk the darkness as the day' Before the Sun had flashed his lamp In far creations dawn, His task he took by rule an' book To keep a-movin' on. Away he goes O'er thorn an' rose, A traveler till the Life-gates close An' you must journey on with him— 'That's just the word he tells, There'll come a time you'll hear the chime Of Heaven's own resting-bells But till that day It's haste away, To meet a far-off Morning's ray

ANOTHER DISREGARD FOR NEUTRALITY

THE BLISSIN' SKIES. Asked a word o' the blazin' sky An' it only made me this reply 'There's a hotter season by an', by

"So, do your work, and cease to sigh 'Til climaticize you from on high To the hotter season," said the sky.

Hard on the Candidate. Candid opinion of rural correspondent of The Rogers (Ark.) Democrat: "A country correspondent has to say more in a three or four-line write-up than a perspiring candidate can utter in a two hours' speech, and he usually does it."

His Word on the Way. When tribulation worries me I holler out a word or two. If Joy will play the fiddle free I'll dance till Judgment day!

A Thought for Today from the 'All Over Arkansas' Man of The Arkansas Gazette. If you care to be reminded that time files just see' how far into the business and professional life the boys named for, Grover Cleveland have got, and notice how many of the Deweys are being graduated from high schools and colleges. The Woodrow Wilsons are coming rapidly.

The Invitation. Here is the joyous summer invitation of The Renttown Bard, in The Baltimore Sun: "A rose in a word to you A song in a little breeze— Come to the banquet of the dew Under the bending trees Out of your hush and care For just one touch of life— O, prisoners, come to the pulsing air, Forgetting your cross of strife."

Raising Different Crops. The paragrapher of The Macon News takes this view of it: "We read where a 16-year-old Georgia boy is raising 116 bushels of corn to the acre, and when a drink of those other 16-year-old Georgia boys who are trying to raise skimpy mustaches on one inch of lip we feel like going out and tearing down a house or something else very fierce."

Another Hopeful Sign. More hope for all the country— Lots more than once we knowed; The farmer in his autocar With millionaires both near and far Disputes the country road.

Phoenix Philosophy. These 'Side-Talks' by Michael Monahan, in his Phoenix magazine for June: "It is sad to have to come to fifty year, and about the only consolation is that one can no longer be so many kinds of a dumphool. 'Most of us are in fear of the judgment, and yet we spend a great part of life judging ourselves. The impulse to forgive is the one sure mark of the Divinity within us'."

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE GIRL GRADUATE. In school, academy and college stands forth the modern cultured girl, her lovely head so stuffed with knowledge it fairly makes her tresses curl! We all lean back in admiration when she stands up to make her speech, the finest product of the nation, the one serene unblemished peach. Behold her in her snowy garments, the pride, the honor of her class! A misdeed on the Yarmints who say her learning cuts no grass! "She hasn't learned to fry the mutton, she's not equipped to be a wife, she couldn't fasten on a button, to save her sweet angelic life! With all her mighty fund of learning, she's ignorant of useful chores, she cannot keep an oil stove burning so it won't smoke us out of doors. The man she wed will know disaster, his dreams of home and love will spatter, she cannot make a mustard plaster, or put a poultice on a boil." Aunty, ye croakers, skip and caper, or we'll upset your apple-carts! The damsel rises with her paper on "Old Greek Gods and Modern Arts." So please her a grapejuice flagon! Who cares if she can sew or bake? She's pretty as a new red wagon, and sweeter than an old plum cake.

ARCHITECT OUTLINES EMORY UNIVERSITY PLANS FOR CAMPUS

Plans for the campus of Emory university, to be situated near Druid Hills, were outlined yesterday afternoon by Dr. Henry Hornbostel, the widely known architect selected recently by a special committee following a banquet by the Emory University Founders club in the assembly hall of the Chamber of Commerce building. Dr. Hornbostel said that Emory university would have for its location one of the most ideal spots in Dixie. In the landscape scheme everything will be done by Dr. Hornbostel to take advantage of the three hills on the tract of land for an effective placement of the buildings. While beauty of design and arrangement are not material necessities to the establishment of an educational institution, Dr. Hornbostel pointed out that they would be lasting factors which could not be overlooked even in the case of institutions with a limited purse. The type of architecture of the buildings which would be built there in the future, he said, would depend upon the ideas of future generations, but the basis for their growth could be established in those which were to be erected in the next several years. For these reasons the architect believed that the scheme and plan of the plant should have sufficient elasticity to admit of development. However, instead of buildings of the characteristics typical of exposition architecture or of a rambling arrangement, no matter how picturesque, Dr. Hornbostel advised the monumental effects sought in the building of Virginia university, California university and others of recent growth and development.

In drawing the tentative plans Dr. Hornbostel took advantage of the central plateau which is flanked by parallel streams for the larger and chief structures. The monumental effect of these would be seen, he said, from the main entrance leading off from the Druid Hills drive and also felt at every turn of the driveway flanking the two streams. Dr. Hornbostel was particularly pleased with the woodlands which made up a large part of the proposed campus and stated that they should only be trimmed or cut for the purpose of driveways and the vista.

The buildings to occupy the central plateau, as at present arranged, are to be occupied by the library, the school of divinity, the law school, the school of arts, the school of design and the school of natural science. In the quadrangular placement the commanding library building shall occupy the central position on the front of the plateau, flanked in the foreground by the schools of design and theology.

The medical college is to be placed in the background and on the higher part of the central plateau. In the rear of the main structure of this department will be situated the buildings for the nurses and for the clinics and laboratories. On the left of the plateau are to be situated the athletic grounds, the power plant and many other buildings, whose arrangement would be subject to the development of the university plant.

The Emory Founders club was organized President Preston Arkwright said in introducing Dr. Hornbostel, "for the purpose of assembling men who should be active in raising the $500,000 pledged by Atlanta for the erection of the university buildings. The chamber of commerce has undertaken to see that the money is collected and we do not intend to relieve it of this work, but we as citizens of Atlanta desire the privilege of participating in it."

"Atlanta will do the large thing," said Bishop Warren Candier when speaking in this connection, "when it realizes the immense advantage of the institution to its growth and development. We have a present part of an endowment and the cost of erection of the necessary structures which have to be obtained, for the president will be unable to open them like an umbrella. The money so spent will immediately go back into local circulation. When the citizens of Atlanta realize the great sum which will be annually left in local circulation by the students to attend the several courses of Emory, they will feel the obligation to assist us with liberality. As an instance of this, the ministerial students attending the theological college during the past year spent $40,000, and they usually have less money than any other students."

In emphasizing the argument that the Emory plans allow of elastic growth of the plant, Dr. Hornbostel pointed out that the universities of this country would soon be crowded beyond their capacity at the Atlanta schools are today. He declared that America would be the educational center of the world after the great war abroad. The universities of this country would, therefore, he said, not only be compelled to accommodate the tide of foreign scholars, but in addition the increased number of native students.

Dr. Hornbostel is not only dean of the school of design at the Carnegie School of Technology, but he makes a specialty of the architecture of university buildings and university plants. He has devised the entire scheme and plans for the Carnegie School of Technology, California university, Northwestern university, the New York State library, the soldiers memorial at Pittsburgh, various city halls of eastern cities and three of the new bridges over the Hudson river at New York. All of these he had designed after competition with other noted architects.

The chairman of the several committees which will superintend the several divisions of work in connection with the erection of Emory university were announced by Mr. Arkwright as follows: W. L. Peel, finance committee, St. Elmo Massengale, publicity committee, Rev. A. M. Hughlett, committee on literature, and E. V. Carter, committee on membership.

Plague-Infected Bats.

(From The New York Times.) In view of the admitted importance of the rat in the transmission of plague, the study of this disease among rodents has become quite necessary from the point of view of preventive hygiene as the management of the human cases when they arise. A decade or two ago the investigation of disease among such lowly animals would have seemed a gratuitous inquest and a waste of a purely scientific aspect, but without any direct application to the problems of public health Modern knowledge has, however, taught the unsuspected significance of work along these lines.

In a recently published report to the local government board of England on the rat plague in East Anglia during the period from July to October, 1911, the magnitude of a single campaign is shown. During four months, 15,822 rats were examined for plague infection—a task itself of no mean proportions. Thirty-five of the rats were found to be plague-infected. Thirty-seven premises were found to harbor plague-infected rats. The places were all within an area previously pronounced to be infected. "An economic as well as hygienic advantage in the anti-rat crusade is shown by this English investigation," says the Journal of the American Medical Association. "The rat and the infection which has been maintained by local enterprise for somewhat more than a year, had, in many localities, appreciably diminished the rat population."

IS ENGLISH NAVY GREATER MENACE THAN GERMAN ARMY?

General Friedrich von Bernhardt, the famous German author and soldier, says so, and, by special permission of Kaiser Wilhelm, has written an article setting forth this view. This intensely interesting and timely contribution to the literature of the war will be first published Sunday, and will appear in full in The Sunday Constitution.

General Bernhardt, author of "Germany and the Next War," considered the official spokesman for German military affairs, is now in command of a division of cavalry battling with the Russians.

In his latest article, to be published Sunday, General Bernhardt recites the inception and gives the history of German militarism, urges its necessity, and sets forth reasons why the German nation has prospered under that system. He contends that the German army has developed the minds as well as the bodies of the Kaiser's people.

After explaining and defending the German military system, he takes up the English navy, and contends that British navalism is the real foe of all the nations of the world, and the great menace with which all nations must, sooner or later, contend.

Bernhardt's remarkable article will be published in no other Atlanta newspaper. Written by the Kaiser's special permission, and by a general now at the front, it may rightfully be considered Germany's official answer to the many attacks on her militarism.

THE magazine section of The Sunday Constitution will contain other features that will prove of especial interest to those who desire to keep informed as to the progress of the world's greatest war in all its angles.

A page is devoted to Claude Graham-White, the well-known aviator, who four years ago warned his country of the danger of an aerial invasion of London, and whose prophecy has come true in every essential detail.

Accompanying the story of Graham-White's remarkably accurate forecast, is a vivid drawing of the aviator's conception of an aerial raid on London as pictured to the war office four years ago, and as carried out in actuality a few weeks ago.

Still another war feature of more than passing interest is a full page on Victor Emmanuel, the last of the great rulers in the war's caldron, a home-loving monarch, who would rather play with his children than lead an army any day, and who nevertheless is recognized as one of the ablest strategists in Europe. There are some striking pictures of Italy's ruler, the queen and all the children.

Another installment of "Our Country by Our President," a history of the American people, by Woodrow Wilson, will be published Sunday—a page and a half setting forth in the president's clear style some of the most interesting chapters in the history of the American colonies.

The Greatest Comics

DID you meet Charley Chaplin last Sunday? You know how funny he is on the screen. He is just as funny in the comics. "Charley Chaplin's Comic Capers," a full page in four colors every Sunday, is going to be the most popular comic hit a newspaper ever had—and you are depriving the children of a lot of innocent amusement if you do not see it if they are given a chance to see what the comical fellow does in The Constitution every Sunday.

The addition of Chaplin makes The Constitution comic section unquestionably the best published by any newspaper. "Home Wanted by a Baby," a quaint series of exploits for which Clare Dwiggin is paid the highest price ever received by a comic artist, and "Hank the Hermit and His Animal Friends," the remarkable creation of Walt McDougall, are other great features of The Constitution's "funnies."

Other Features of Note

FOX TROTTING TO AID HORSE TROTTING is the title of the beautiful four-color page which leads off the Sunday magazine section. IS THERE NEED FOR A PUBLIC DEFENDER? is the title of a full page discussion by Campbell Macculloch, accompanied by photos of those now acting as public defenders, and setting forth what they have done.

THE Sunday Constitution always has the best society section, the best sporting section, the best market page, and carries the full report of The Associated Press, the world's greatest news service, augmented by special correspondence from every corner of the globe.

"The love of money is the root of all evils; which some reaching after have been led astray from the faith, and have pierced themselves through with many sorrows." —I. Tim. 6:10

LORD MILNER, when prohibition of the selling of drinks to the blacks of the Transvaal was under discussion, said:

"There is no doubt that the new administration has before it a severe struggle with one of the most powerful, as it is one of the most degraded, agencies FOR MAKING money by the CORRUPTION of one's fellow-creatures."

Philip Snowden says: "The whole weight of the influence of the alcoholic interests is on the side of reaction. It is organized into a political might with the representatives in parliament."

Gordon, commenting, says: "In the United States one must be BEETLE-BLIND not to see the same thing is true."

"In the cities the drink interests constitute the breaths of life to Tammany Hall and similar anti-social organizations."

If Englishmen and Americans so speak of the traffic in beer and liquor— And Georgia has forbidden the sale— Should our mayor and council license it?
