DORSEY WILL ASK DEATH SENTENCE FOR FRANK TODAY

Although Supreme Court Mandate Has Not Yet Been Handed Down, He Will Present Habeas Corpus Writ.

NO LEGAL OBSTACLES NOW EXIST, HE SAYS

Defense Is Expected to Contest Plea, Holding That Sentence Cannot Be Passed Until Mandate Arrives.

Although the mandate of the United States supreme court, which recently refused to interfere in the Leo M. Frank case, has not yet reached Atlanta, Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey will appear before Judge Ben Hill this morning and ask that the prisoner be sentenced without further delay.

Judge Hill's decision is expected to establish a precedent, since he will have to pass on the question of the right of the state to sentence a prisoner before legally notified by the highest court in the land.

When it was learned last night that the proposed action would be taken, Dorsey stated that it was solely an effort to prevent delay, and that he intended submitting to Judge Hill the proposition of deciding whether or not it was legally necessary to await the supreme court mandate.

Defense Will Contest. Dorsey's plea will, it is stated, be contested by the defense, who will argue that the habeas corpus writ, which brings Frank before Judge Hill for process of sentence, should not be granted until official notification of the supreme court's decision has been received in the forthcoming mandate which is due May 29.

HAIL OF SHELLS ON MOUNTAIN TOP

But French Hold Crest of Hartmanns-Weiler, Which Dominates Plain of Alsace.
Germans Charged in Vain.

Hartmanns-Weiler, Alsace, Friday,
April 30.—(Via Paris May 2)—Shells, great and small, fell on this spur in the Vosges mountains at the rate of from 60 to 84 a minute for hours last Monday, after French mountaineers had conquered the crest by assault. Twice before had the Alpine troops won the summit, and had been forced from it by obstinate German attacks. This time they clung to the craters made by mines and shells and to the scant shelter of abandoned trenches and dugouts.

When the shell fire suddenly stopped and the Germans swept upward, again
the Alpines, supported and reinforced,
threw back attack after attack.
The Germans persisted with the utmost courage and the fighting after the first rushes was with the bayonet.
Dead and wounded fell so thickly that bodies touched each other. Presently the assaults died down and the Germans sank into their trenches on the slopes. They have remained there since while day and night the French are enlarging and deepening their trenches and digging and roofing in
"shell-proof shelters."

This is the culmination of three months of violent efforts by one side to hold and by the other to take an eminence dominating the plain of Alsace.
It is a harsh scene.
A correspondent of the Associated Press was with the French troops for one hour and a half today on the top of Hartmanns-Weiler, now reoccupied by French soldiers. It is a harsh scene splintered and jagged stems of what were thick woods stand up among the boulders. The forest has been cut down by machine gun and shell fire.
The whole place is scarred by the deadly business of the last three weeks.
Sharpshooters on both sides snipe away at any show of a hostile helmet, peak or cap. Observers watch through crevices between stones or bags of sand concealed by pine branches. A periscope thrust above the trenches is shattered three or four seconds after its appearance.

The foremost points of the French position now are well rooted in with pine logs. Machine guns have been closely placed to sweep the approaches
with cross-fire.
The German trenches, in which no doubt the same deadly alertness prevails, are at one place within 25 or 30 feet and at no place are they farther away than 150 yards.

The colonel in command took the correspondent to one of the forward observatories and in whispers explained the position. The men standing by their pieces were taking morning bread and coffee. The instant readiness suggested a well ordered American fire engine house where the men at the sound of a siren each jumps to his place.

Country of Cherry Water.
Looking far beyond the German trenches to the plain below, sprinkled with villages and farm houses, one can see a cherry orchard now in full bloom.
This is the country where kirchwasser (cherry water) is made. The landscape seems to be whitened by the tens of thousands of cherry trees in bloom.
Murderous mountain knots and the beautiful country spread out in the country below are in poignant contrast.
Through estates one could see women
washing clothes in a creek children playing and farmers working with oxen in the field. All the ordinary business of country life was going on as if this part of the 400-mile battle line was not at their front doors.

The men in the trenches were quiet, weather-seasoned men. They talked simply even with dignity of their work. One of the men cut open a loaf from a batch of German army bread bread left behind and compared it with the white French bread of his ration.

Best preserved and cooked, in gelatin casings, is being served to part of the troops, and they seemingly like it better than the American canned meats.

The forests back of the fighting point
are still with men cutting and sawing trees for roofing trenches. Others are widening the mountain passes into roads along which wind strings of mules loaded with shells, ammunition boxes, bread, casks of water and wine and a thousand articles essential to operations in the forests. They also carry packages from home for the soldiers.

Wounded Carried on Mules.
Passing down the other way are mule files with empty bags, casks and boxes and with wounded soldiers awung in a sort of basket chair, one on each side of a led mule. Those more seriously wounded are carried by stretchers. Near here in another part of the Vosges Harvard ambulance men are working.

Paris papers two days old are delivered regularly, and the men and officers of duty in this rugged region read the gossip which circulates on the boulevards and the same pleasantness are repeated.

The Associated Press correspondent
was the first civilian who had visited this part of the battle front in months.
Everyone talked of a long war and even of another winter in the trenches.
"Ah, yes," they said, "these Germans must take a lot of beating."
The only solution of the war, from the soldiers' way of looking at it, is to kill many more hundreds of thousands of their adversaries and to keep on killing and pushing them back.
They feel in the Vosges that they are making positive gains at losses less than the ones they inflict.

LOSSES FOR ITALIANS
IN FIGHT WITH REBELS
Tripoli, May 2.—(Via Paris)—The Italian commander, Colonel Miami, with a mixed column, which included numerous irregulars, attacked a rebel camp south of Syrta on April 29. The irregulars went over to the enemy at the beginning of the engagement, placing the Italian troops in a critical position. By hard fighting, however, they extricated themselves and got back to the fort, but with severe losses.

for 1910 (the latest at hand for the

MRS. LYON'S
ACHES AND PAINS
Have All Gone Since Taking
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and
in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs.
AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for women's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and ferbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind
a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound;
and in some cases that it has saved them
from surgical operations.

Break Even With Pels-Home for 3 Weeks

Hiatt Puzzles Pelicans; Crackers Get Even Break; Pels Make Seven Errors

New Orleans, May 2.—(Special.)—New Orleans batsmen were helpless before the dazzling speed of "Lindy" Hiatt today, and he took the final game of the series by the score of 4 to 1. "Pop" Smith, who hurried for New Orleans, was not an attempt to force through the fact that the Pelican infield went to pieces behind him was solely responsible for his defeat. Hiatt, who generally has been recognized as an accurate first-sacker, had another bad day, making two glaring errors and figuring in one or two miscues, which are not charged against him in the box score. Hiatt, who is also known as the "Pop" because of his speed, was not charged against him in the box score. Hiatt, who is also known as the "Pop" because of his speed, was not charged against him in the box score.

The Pelicans registered only four hits off Hiatt, two of which were made by "Pop" Smith. Another, Kelly's, triple in the first inning, resulted in the Pelicans' lone tally, as Kelly scored a second later on Taylor's infield error. The rest of the game Hiatt, with two hits each, led the Cracker attack. Hiatt was the first to score, Lee, first on a fly, then Thomas dropped his high pop fly. Lee advanced to second when Williams was thrown out. Hiatt's second hit, a single, was scored on by Smith's scorching single over second. The Pelicans came back in their half of the inning and put on the offense, and a home run, after which they finally ate out of Hiatt's hands for the rest of the game. "P. B." Smith batted the visitors one-two-three in the second and third, but before fireworks started again in the fourth.

Moley's Champion Barons Play Crackers Four Games; Lookouts Next in Order

Carleton Moleworth and his Birmingham Barons will be the attraction at Ponce de Leon this afternoon in the first of a four-game series, and the first of twenty consecutive games that the Crackers have scheduled for the home lot.

The Barons will be here through Thursday, then come the Lookouts, the Chicks, the Travelers and the Volunteers in the last four games each before the Crackers leave on a twenty-game road trip, which will include four games in Chattanooga, Nashville, Little Rock, Memphis and New Orleans in that order.

On the home stay it is strictly up to the Crackers to shake the jinx from their individual and collective shoes and go to playing good consistent baseball. It is up to them to grab a majority of the games to stay in the old pennant hunt, and once in a winning mood the Crackers have the ability to keep it up.

The principal trouble with the team to date has been that it has not been able to get together. Some one department is usually out of order. Either the pitching is bad when the hitting is good, or the hitting is good when the pitching is bad, and so on.

Cracker fans will be greeted by some new faces when the Barons make their appearance here today, some faces that

Capt. Benson, New Head of Navy Operations

The office of chief of naval operations to which Captain W. Benson has been appointed was created on March 3, of this year. The appointment provided that Captain Benson, who is of the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia, enter upon his Monday, May 3. The chief of naval operations is one of the grades in the navy, and in the ordinary course of events, would be in the grade of rear admiral in November of this year. Since the appointment, the law carries with it the rank of rear admiral. Captain Benson was promoted to that rank with the beginning of his new career. Benson graduated from the Naval academy in 1877, and during that time of twenty-two years has cruised practically all over the world. He has circumnavigated the entire coast of Africa, a member of the Greeley relief expedition. Captain Benson has a long and varied experience of varied character, and has held many positions of command of the United States fleet, and most modern battleships; the command of a great Atlantic fleet, and finally, the command of one of the great important navy yards at a time when it was rapidly developing to do shipbuilding on a large scale and where he proved himself a member of the highest type.

It is the any of the dissatisfied. The people are tired of them. It is the easiest thing in the world to do fault. No church, congregation is without a disturbing influence.

GROWTH OF THE NAVY.

Splendid showing as to the growth of the American navy and its general efficiency and preparedness is made in a letter addressed by Secretary Josephus Daniels to President Harry A. Garfield, of Williams college.

Secretary Daniels explained his detailed statement upon the ground that within the last two years there has been more "wise and progressive naval legislation and more practical achievement" than in any previous like period.

There are now in active service, fully commissioned, 225 vessels of all characters, which is 36 more than were fully commissioned when became secretary.

Regarding the present personnel of the navy, which has been materially increased the last year, and is now recruited to maximum strength, Secretary Daniels says:

The personnel of the navy is at present composed of 4,355 line, staff and warrant officers, and 53,171 enlisted men.

The bureau of ordnance, says the secretary, has perfected a 14-inch gun that will shoot farther and straighter and hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by any foreign country.

During the last two years of the Taft administration, congress authorized the construction of two dreadnaughts to cost about $13,000,000 each.

By the way they are announcing that they will not be candidates for president one would think some little work is attached to the office.

Under a policy which gives them every latitude in the expression of opinion, it is stated there is not an officer in the navy who commands a ship today but will say his vessel is as good or better than two years ago, and that his men are just as efficient, loyal and sober.

Increased enlistments have enabled the navy department to commission fully twenty submarines, four battleships, four destroyers, six gunboats, six cruisers and three monitors.

Increased enlistments are attributed to a more liberal policy within the department, especially with regard to promotion, under which it has been demonstrated that it is far easier for capable men to get forward to higher positions than it has been under any preceding administration.

All this unprecedented increase in the navy has been secured, too, without large increase in appropriations.

Secretary Daniels' letter makes complete and effective answer to his critics. It not only indicates that American naval needs are well supplied, but that this branch of the service has kept well up with modern progress.

On "the nick o' time" comes Mary Antin, lecturing here the evening of May 6, on "The Public School the Test of American Faith."

She is the woman who is said to more clearly express real patriotism in what she says and writes than has any writer of the time.

Upon the sound democracy of our institutions she teaches our progress is based, and through the public school system she believes rests the destiny of the nation.

Mary Antin comes here from a survey of the public institutions of the northwest and those of the Pacific coast.

By the way they are announcing that they will not be candidates for president one would think some little work is attached to the office.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

Hor's no "wilderness of woe"; Wild and sweet the roses grow. An' the sunbeam on the dew Brings a message bright to you.

Everywhere, in bloom an' light, There's a paradise in sight; Smiles and songs an' streams, Peaceful valleys dreamin' dreams; No more joy to angels given; Heaven is where you think it's heaven!

The Blackhead's Man. "After one application of a new hair dye," says a correspondent of the Adams Enterprise, "our red hair turned blue, and three days afterwards, when we had signed a contract with a side show to go on the road with us as 'the Only Blue-headed Man in Existence,' the blamed thing turned green on us and, at this writing, our hair is changing to a bright pink."

In May's Glad Land. Let us have a holiday In the red, rich deeps of May— Let her kiss our care away!

Blossom-bordered flags unfurled O'er the vales with joy impured, May has made a lover-world!

Some New and Fitting Odes. Here are some new ones as gathered by "The Old Town Correspondent":

"Grassland & Oats have a hay and grain store. "John Gettium is a lawyer here, "Seth Clinkscopel is our cotton weigher, and somewhere in the interior of our county there is a dispenser of 'moonshine hicker' whose name is boozier."

UNCLE JULES the man who SAYS:

I see the fellows in the fields toiling for the daily bread we all pray for, and I think it would be a good idea for some folks to rise from their knees and help the toilers by hitting a few hard licks for that same daily bread!

Mister Laxy Man. De Man, he takin' of his ease In shady time an' sunny, He rob de poor, hard-workin' bees An' brag 'bout de honey.

De good Lawd sen de rain an' shine Ter keep de crop a-growin', He up an' say: "De credit's mine!" An' heat de big storm blowin'!

An' did you ever see de like? De lightnin' whar ter strike, An' den outgrowl de thunder!

Chance to Exercise Faith. Editorial want of The Commerce News: "Wanted in Commerce—A good hand to pray for rain."

An' Halley See It. From George Bailey's wasteful sermons: "Speaking as regarding of cussing we think the cussing situation demands an observance of the rule that while it is ethically correct for one not to give a damn, it is deceler for one not to say it."

"How Terrible." A Georgia poet who means well but was doubtful in a hurry to finish up, writes: "How terrible the tale war tells 'Way yonder, in the Dardanelles! I think the smoke of war is hell's."

The Editor's Day Off. The editor took just one day off, and somebody gave him away: "Editorial Ode, of The Atlanta Springs Register, drunk red lemonade and ate circus peanuts last Friday right close to the arena on the side where the pretty cowgirls performed."

What Adam Escaped. The Thomassin Times-Enterprise tells of one trouble Adam escaped: "Whatever troubles Adam had 'O them we had no doubt, He did not get in a barrel round; While they pressed his trousers out."

Word From Br'er Williams. Is you stayin' de river-side waitin' fer Time and Tide? Ef you is, rise up dar ah' hit de grit ter whar you gwine! De worl' ain't so crowded but that it wants mo' company on de road, an' mebbe you kin tell it something dat'll help it to hop higher. Git up dar, an' go long."

"Good old world and a good old light, And you've got to buck with all your might, Or you'll be swallowed out of sight— Good Old World."

Woe'll Give Him Away. Says The Dalton Citizen: "A correspondent writes to know where knockers go when they die? For fear that Satan might find out if we were to tell, and bar-lock his doors, we are going to keep the secret forever."

With the Exchanges

OSTRICH TICKS TO DEATH. (Pittsburg Dispatch to The New York Herald.) "Pete," the ostrich which at the Annex hotel, has eaten the enemy and he is dead.

Mr. Fred Klooz, manager of the hotel, had a friend, he thought, in Austria, until eight months ago when "Pete" was shipped to him.

Friday Mr. Klooz was at work on an automobile in the rear of the hotel and he was bending over, constantly, he carefully removed his timepiece, chain and charm, all of heavy gold and sufficient to sink any ostrich that ever wiggled a plume.

He had hid his mouth under a pile of carpets and was holding one leg skyward as a sort of an Australian S. O. S. The jewelry was gone.

All hands were piped to the backyard and stood by as "Pete" came to his untimely end. The watch, still going, was salvaged.

WAR SHATTERS GRAMMAR. (From The London Globe.) "Language, like almost everything else, is unable to escape from being conditioned and modified by war.

Modern artillery has forced us to make a verb out of a noun and to permit our gunners to "shell" a place in defiance of all conceivable rules of grammar.

Perhaps the most curious thing in this connection is the way in which we have been using the old verb "flee."

Before the era of the Zeppelin and the aeroplane we should certainly have said "the German fleet 'flies' before the British;" now we say it "flies," because "flying" seems to connote motion above the clouds.

SPRING FEELING. This year the roses seem to grow More like they used to long ago, And this year the warm April breeze Seems to have passed old apple trees.

All white and pink with April blooms, And the air seems to hold perfumes. Such as the breezes blew about In the old days when school let out; And Helen Nine sent to me Last night a clover chain which she Had woven for me. A carem And all the glad songs of the wilderness, And all the songs birds ever sung Seemed in it, and to make me young.

Not that I ever shall be old; Not while the world is bright and gold, And fields are green and clouds are white, And children run to me at night To clamber up onto my knee. With all that children know of glee, To hear old fairy tales retold, And reach their little arms to fold Me in their latest embraces, And sit there with me face to face, My soul is as forever young.

As the last song the mocker sung; And it seems like this time in spring, I'm thinking God for everything. —Judd Mortimer Lewis, in The Houston Post.

THE ZEPPELIN GOAL OF CONQUEST. (From The Wall Street Journal.) London, the goal of conquest of which the captain of every Zeppelin, every U boat and every other Teuton, has set his heart and eyes, is truly the hub of an empire.

With all that children know of glee, To hear old fairy tales retold, And reach their little arms to fold Me in their latest embraces, And sit there with me face to face, My soul is as forever young.

As the last song the mocker sung; And it seems like this time in spring, I'm thinking God for everything. —Judd Mortimer Lewis, in The Houston Post.

MAMMOTH EAGLE KILLED. (From The Dublin Progress.) One Willie White, of this city, exhibited to The Progress Wednesday a mammoth Mexican eagle which he had shot that morning at the Wanson ranch, 15 miles south of town.

WASH DAY

Wash day is another of the grand old American institutions which is being badly denuded by the relentless hoof of progress.

Those were grand old times, but they are rapidly passing away. Wash day is now no more serious than an ordinary attack of measles in the family.

Niagara Falls now washes most of the clothes in Buffalo, N. Y., and if it ever has a backache it doesn't mention the fact.

The modern hired girl does not ask how many in the family, please, she pulls a dinner table from his pocket and asks a young lady to trudge with him through life.

One reason why woman is demanding the vote with more and more fury is because she isn't so extinct on Tuesdays as she used to be when wash day was a gymnasium with turkish bath attachments.
