2,000 in Panic on Burning Liner

... FIRE SWEEPERS OPERATOR DOCKS ... One Dead, Many Injured in Flames on World's Greatest Liner at Hoboken.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Hamburg-American liner Imperator, the biggest passenger-carrying ship afloat, which arrived in port last night with 3,100 passengers on board, was swept by fire to ashes at her pier in Hoboken, N. J.

Solicitor General Herbert C. Brown, who was in charge of the fire, said that the fire broke out on the fifth deck and continued to burn for some time before it was extinguished. Many of the crew were injured fighting the flames and battling with the 2,000 or more passengers who were panic-stricken as the fire raged.

The damage to the ship is estimated at $100,000.

First Cabin Deck Saved.

By the terrific work, the flames were kept from spreading to the cabin and the superstructure, and within four hours the flames were under control. They had licked their way into the coal bunkers, however, and the flames settled themselves down to carry on a patient but dangerous, however, to the balance of the ship was entirely over.

Flames Spread Quickly.

The fire was discovered in the provision room on the ship about 5 o'clock. Fed by the oil and fat of the foodstuffs, it spread rapidly. The crew was assisted by the trained fire fighters from Hoboken, Jersey City and New York.

The provision room is in the after part of the vessel. It was the flames at that way that it had been communicated to the second cabin before the alarm became general. Steerage passengers hearing the racking of the walls had stayed, but a cry of fright which echoed over the entire ship.

Smoke rolled upward from the liner, giving the impression as though that the Hamburg-American pier was a volcano. Police reserves were rushed to the scene.

Chief of the fire department, who was in charge of the fire, said that the flames were extinguished in about 15 minutes. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the provision room. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the provision room.

LATEST NEWS

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Walter Johnson's game-winning streak of 15 straight victories was broken in a sensational manner by the Red Sox this afternoon by a 5 to 1 score in eleven innings. Except for Yerkes' single the second inning not a Boston player saw first base until the eighth. The Sox with one out, Yerkes singled and Wagner reached second. The ball got down him. Yerkes was run down on the base. The Sox with two strikes on Carrigan, he drove in the winning run. The Sox scored the only run of the game. Yerkes' Collins pitched a good game.

REPLICATED TO FRANK'S ATTACK

Solicitor General's Statement on Stand, "Now is the Time, This is the Place."

Solicitor Dorsey was as thunderously engaged on the Frank case as usually as he was any day before Leo Frank was convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan. If the factory superintendent finally succeeds in avoiding the penalty fixed it will not be because the Solicitor has not fought to the utmost of his strength to put the rope around Frank's neck.
