CRACKERS GRAB FINAL

DROP NINTH IN POLICE SCANDAL

Charges Preferred Against Another Patrolman and Suspension Is Near.

Atlanta's police scandal was revived Saturday by the preferring of charges against another member of the police force. His suspension by Chief of Police James L. Beavers is expected to follow within a few hours.

The subject of the accusations is the ninth policeman involved in the scandal. Chief Beavers would not make public the man's name until formal order of suspension was made.

The charges against the majority of the policemen are that they frequented the notorious negro resort in the rear of 127 Auburn Avenue and that certain of the men were in the habit of drinking there. The place has no license and one of the officers, against whom there was no evidence of drinking, was charged simply with permitting the place to run without reporting it.

With the preferring of the ninth set of charges came the information that R. A. Wood, the policeman who tendered his resignation as soon as the story of his alleged visits to the resort was made public, had sold all his household belongings and moved from the city.

Officers who went to serve notice of the trial before the Police Commission next Tuesday night were met with the information that he had moved with his family to Texas.

Griffin Gasps as Folk Get Glimpse Of Slashed Skirt

GRIFFIN, July 5.—Griffin got its first view of the famous slashed skirt here yesterday when Miss Eleanor McHarris, of Macon, appeared at the Spalding County Fair Grounds during the Fourth of July festivities. She came near breaking up the celebration. Everybody left the barbecued meats, interest was lost in the horse races and nobody cared whether a game of ball was played or not. Miss McHarris made a brave effort to overcome the gaze of the crowd, but failed.

The skirt was not of the ultra-fashionable cut, but it was more than Griffin was accustomed to. So Griffin took a good look.

Receiver Reports In Buggy Case

In the suit of the Valentine Company against the Columbus Buggy Company, Daniel McLaren, ancillary receiver for the Columbus Buggy Company, Saturday submitted his report to Judge Newman in the United States District Court.

Judge Newman ordered that F. J. Long, James D. Palmer and Benedict Kobak, who were appointed as appraisers to make inventory and appraisements of the assets of the Columbus Buggy Company, should be paid $25 each for services rendered.

It was ordered that Ancillary Receiver McLaren be discharged and that the sureties on his official bond be released.

CRACKSMAN SHOT IN GUN BATTLE

Kirkwood Residents Capture Postoffice Robber, Who Blows Safe but Gets No Money.

With late developments indicating that Walter Turpin, the yeggman who cracked the safe of the Kirkwood postoffice Friday night, is a "modern Fagin," who takes young boys under his wing and schools them in the ways of crime, the authorities of DeKalb County and Atlanta are scouring the country to capture two boys said to have served as lookouts while Turpin fired the charges of nitroglycerine.

When the posse of citizens and officers, hastily formed after the first explosion in the postoffice, reached the scene, two boys, both wearing knee trousers, leaped from the shadows of the building and ran down the street. The officers yelled at them to halt, but the boys paid no attention and the posse opened fire. Both escaped, apparently without injury.

Turpin, in statements made to the authorities Saturday morning, denied that the boys were with him. He was alone in the attempt to rob the postoffice, he said. Sheriff McCurdy and Chief of Detectives Lanford, however, are of the opinion that Turpin, like the famous Dickens character, conducted a regular school of crime in Atlanta, and that the two boys were children who had come under his influence and whom he was using in his operations.

Turpin Tells Story.

Turpin Saturday morning told the complete story of the attempt to rob the safe and of the events that led up to it.

"I was released from the Federal penitentiary, where I had been sent from Richmond, Va., for counterfeiting, February 22," he said. "I have been working at the Shoe Renury on Auburn Avenue, and before that I worked at several places as a tailor. I planned the robbery of the Kirkwood postoffice about a week ago when I went out and looked over the ground and made my plans.

"Last night I left Atlanta about 11 o'clock and got out to Kirkwood about 11:30. Earlier in the afternoon I got some whisky on Courtland Street near Decatur, and was very drunk when I got to Kirkwood. I entered the building through a window, and in moving around, trying to get my bearings, I fell down the elevator shaft, a distance of about 10 feet. I wrenched my back, and it was five minutes before I could move. Then I managed to get hold of the cables of the elevator and drew it down into the basement, and then rode up to the first floor.

Injury Prevented Escape.

"I found the safe, all right, and prepared to blow it. I had four ounces of nitro-glycerine, which I had made by soaking two sticks of dynamite in water and then squeezing them. I made my soap cup and fired the nitro-glycerine. The first shot raised the handle and combination of the safe. Twenty minutes later I fired the second shot, and it raised—other things. Then people began shooting at me, and I was so busy I hardly know what happened. I had hurt my back so badly in falling down the elevator shaft, however, that I could not have gotten away even had I not been shot."

Turpin says his real name is Walter Turpin, and that he is 36 years old. His home, he says, is in Chester, Pa.

The twisted front door of hte safe and the mass of splinters littering the little grocery store at Kirkwood gives an idea of the dramatic scene.

"I was sleeping on my front porch," said L. J. Cassells, owner of the store and one of the attacking party, "when I was awakened shortly after mid-

Cobb, Out of Game, Fears Injury Will End Baseball Career

CLEVELAND, OHIO, July 5.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the greatest ball player of this or any other age, is a bench warmer for the Detroit Tigers. Injury has laid him low.

Just how long Ty will be out of the game neither he nor anyone else knows. The Georgia peach is wearing a careworn expression for he fears his injury may be permanent.

Ty's hurt is a bad spike wound on the right knee. His knee is swollen to twice its normal size and he can hardly walk. In the Detroit-Chicago series recently Ty was spiked by Weaver. He stuck in the line-up day after day until the Fourth, simply on his nerve alone.

Cobb went home to Detroit last night when the team left for St. Louis. He will have an X-ray picture taken to find out if the top of the kneecap is cracked.

Breezes Unable to Overcome Mounting Mercury; 90 Again

Despite heavy clouds that obscured the sun and westerly winds that tempered the heat, Saturday afternoon was warm and sultry. The thermometer climbed above 90 and for some time evinced no disposition to descend.

The morning and even the early afternoon gave promise of a whole day with a maximum temperature below 85, which would have been about the coolest Saturday of the summer in Atlanta. The mercury mark was only 82 at noon and just 84 at 1 o'clock. But in less than half an hour a heat wave struck the city, shoving the mercury up to 87. It continued to rise and by 2 o'clock had reached 91, having made a gain of 7 degrees in an hour.

At 5 and 6 o'clock Saturday morning the temperature was 71. It was 72 at 7 o'clock, 74 at 8 o'clock and 76 at 9 and 10 o'clock, when the 2-degree an hour gain started again. It was 78 at 11 o'clock, 82 at noon, 84 at 1 o'clock and 91 at 2 o'clock.

"Fair Saturday night and Sunday" is the official forecast.

Charley Gates, With $40,000,000 Wad, Will Burn Up Broadway

NEW YORK, July 5.—"Say, kid, take it from me, there is nothing in that story about my father-in-law having beaten me up for buying wine in Minneapolis," said Charley G. Gates, son of the late John W. Gates, when he arrived in town on a special train from the West.

"Can that chatter about my black eye, too, I'm over 21 and if you know of any one who can whip me, trot him out."

According to reports which had preceded Mr. Gates, he is not on good terms with members of his wife's family and has come to town with a roll of about $40,000,000 to burn up Broadway.

Gates said he gave away $1,000,000 in tips last year, and is out to set a new high record in 1913.

MRS. BALLUE SOBS FORTH ACCIDENT STORY

Severe Questioning Draws Out Explanation Which Lanford Believes—Couple Out on Bond.

Chief of Detectives Lanford said last Sturday that Harry Latham, court deputy, and L. C. Raoul, secretary of the Owls Club, would be summoned in court at the trial of Mrs. Lucy Ballue and Captain A. C. Thompson next Tuesday afternoon to tell of the apparent endeavor to spirit the Ballue woman away from the club and suppress the facts of the case after the mysterious shooting in the club on Friday night.

Chief Lanford said that he was convinced that an effort had been made to prevent the officers from getting a knowledge of the circumstances of the shooting and that he intended to probe the matter to the bottom.

Row Is Reported.

That the mysterious shooting of Captain A. C. Thompson, County Warden, by Mrs. Lucy Ballue, his companion in the Owls' Club Friday night, was not accidental, but followed a quarrel between the two is the sensational testimony which it is understood will be given by one or more witnesses who have been supenaed to appear at the trial of Captain Thompson and Mrs. Ballue on the charge of disorderly conduct.

This is in direct contradiction of Mrs. Ballue's story which she sobbingly related to Chief of Detectives Lanford Saturday, and in which she repeatedly declared that the shooting was accidental. She asserted that she and Captain Thompson were drinking together in the reception room of the Owls' Club Friday night and that Captain Thompson's revolver was discharged while she was examining it.

Two Said To Have Quarreled.

One witness, however, is said to have overheard the conversation between Captain Thompson and Mrs. Ballue which preceded the shooting. He will testify, it is understood, that the two were quarreling over some matter and that the woman snatched the weapon from its holster in Captain Thompson's hip pocket and that the shot followed.

Mrs. Ballue's confession came after an examination that lasted virtually all morning. When she was first taken into the detectives' office and questioned, she stuck to her original story that she knew nothing of the shooting.

She was taken back to her cell, and half an hour later returned to Chief Lanford's office. After an hour's questioning she admitted her part in the affair.

Tells How It Happened.

"Captain Thompson called me up by telephone yerterday," she said, "and made an appointment for 4 o'clock. I met him at Whitehall and Hunter streets, and after we had stood on the corner and talked for a few moments we went up to the Owls Club. We had two or three drinks there, and then went out for a stroll, and came back after an hour or so.

"When we came into the club again we went into the reception room and had another drink. I drank a glass of wine. After we drank, I was playing the piano and we were talking, when Captain Thompson remarked that it was hot, and took off his coat. He came over and laid the coat and his belt containing his pistol on top of the piano. I was still thumping the piano and he went and sat down on my left. I kept on playing and suddenly I glanced up and saw the revolver.

"I don't know what made me do it, but I was seized with a desire to look at the weapon. So I drew it out of the holster, and began turning it over and over in my hand.

"Suddenly, I don't know how, the revolver exploded with a loud report, and I heard Captain Thompson cry that he was shot. I was fright-
