WOODWARD-BRYAN IS PLEACH WILSON'S Detectives Working to Discredit Mincey

LATEST NEWS

Police Halt Going of Gouley

Detective Bent on Questioning Negro Is Barred From Cell by Chief Lanford.

With Pinkerton detectives taking the trail in search of W. H. Mincey, who starting accusations against Jim Conley stirred the police department and won the negro another "sentence" from Solicitor Dorsey, the Mincey advocate Friday became the storm center about which the prosecution and defense in the Frank case waged their battle.

Despite the degree of indifference with which the detectives and prosecuting officials affected to look upon the remarkable statements of Mincey, it became known Friday that every effort was being bent toward locating him and turning the light on his past history.

Pinkertons Have Clow.

It is understood that the Pinkertons have obtained information of Mincey's whereabouts, as it has been known since the Georgian published its exclusive story of the affidavit and later Mincey's detailed account of the significant happenings on the day of the murder that he was teaching school in North Georgia.

From the fact that Scott was working in a factory in harmony with the city department up to this time, this incident led to the rumor that Scott had charged his theory of the crime and was inclined to place the responsibility upon Conley.

Defense Ready for Trial.

Scott refused to say to what extent his theories had been altered. If at all. Chief of Detectives Lanford explained that he had had confidence in Scott, but that the Pinkerton was in the position where he had to report all of his findings to the defense and he did not wish Scott to see Conley in these circumstances.
