ATLANTA'S DETECTIVE FORCE.

In a statement given out in New York, supposedly by Mrs. Nina Formby, five Atlanta officers are mentioned, two of whom, Chewning and Norris, are charged with getting the woman drunk and then securing a false affidavit attacking Leo Frank. Four of these officers are here shown. They are: Top row, first man on left, Detective Vickery; middle row, second man from left, Hamby; fourth man, Rosser; sixth, Chewning. Chief of Detectives Lanford, who, on Thursday, denied Mrs. Formby made confession, is shown in the center of the bottom row. Detective Norris is not in the picture. Mrs. Formby said Rosser told her she had been "handed a dirty deal," and Hamby and Vickery said she was "a good scout" and they would help her.
